LUSAKA (AUG 28) - Some 15 people died and 18 others were seriously injured when a truck laden with maize bags overturned in Petauke, over 400 kilometres east of Lusaka, the official Daily Mail reported Tuesday.

The victims were perched on maize bags after being given a lift on Monday by the truck driver who escaped unhurt and was being held to help with investigations.

This brought to 59 the number of people who have perished this year in a series of accidents in the same area.

Tokyo (AUG. 28) - Saudi Arabian Ambassador to Japan Fawzi Bin Abdul Majeed Shobokshi said Tuesday the oil-rich gulf nation was ready to boost crude oil supplies to Japan.

The Saudi envoy was quoted as saying in a meeting with House of Councillors (upper house) President Yoshihiko Tsuchiya that his country could make up for around 50 percent of Japan's crude supply shortage of 4 to 4.2 million barrels a day after the embargo on oil imports from Iraq and Kuwait.

Saudi Arabia intended to persuade other oil-producing nations to put up the remainder, according to the envoy.

The Saudi ambassador, along with Kuwaiti Envoy here Abdul-Aziz Abdullatif al-Sharekh and the Omani and Qatari ambassadors, requested the Japanese parliament to adopt a resolution condemning Iraq for its invasion of Kuwait.

Meanwhile, government sources said that Minister of International Trade and Industry Kabun Muto will visit the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (Oecd) to discuss the impact of rising oil prices on the global economy during his upcoming tour of Europe.

JAKARTA (AUG. 28) - Indonesia expects its first nuclear power plant to be operational by the year 2003, the official Antara news agency reported Tuesday.

It quoted Djali Ahimsa, the director general of Batan, the national atomic agency, as telling a seminar on nuclear power Monday in Canberra that the plant to be built in central Java would have a 600-megawatt capacity.

Mr. Ahimsa said Java's power needs in the year 2000 would be around 10,700 megawatts and go up to 26,000 megawatts in 2015, when conventional energy sources would only be able to produce around 20,000 megawatts.

The island needs power plants more efficient than those fueled by conventional fossil fuels, he said.

Nuclear power plants are safer than those that run on fossil fuels, as the latter need fuel processors to make them pollution free, he said.

Officials said feasibility and impact studies on the nuclear plant to be built on the northern coast of central Java would be completed by 1991.

Indonesia, a major southeast Asian oil producer, churns out some 1.4 million barrels of crude a day.

But Indonesian officials and Western analysts have both warned that the country could turn into a net oil importer by the end of the century unless resources are managed well and alternative energy sources are developed.

CANBERRA (AUG. 28) - Australia's unadjusted current account deficit for July rose to 1.73 billion Australian dollars (1.4 billion U.S.), a 33 percent rise on the previous month, the Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday.

The unadjusted merchandise trade balance recorded a deficit of 300 million dollars (247 million U.S.) compared to a surplus of 299 million dollars (246 million U.S.) in June.

Imports rose 25 percent in July to 4.42 billion dollars (3.6 billion U.S.) while exports only rose seven percent to 4.12 billion dollars (3.4 billion U.S.).

The figure was higher than the 1.3 billion dollar (1.1 billion U.S.) deficit recorded in June but below the 1.94 billion dollar deficit (1.6 billion U.S.) notched in July 1989.

The bureau also said that Australia's net foreign debt fell to 124.53 billion dollars (102.5 billion U.S.) in the June quarter from 124.95 billion dollars (102.9 billion U.S.) in the March quarter.

Net foreign debt, which was 109.9 billion dollars (90.5 billion U.S.) a year ago, fell because the Australian dollar had surged in value against the U.S. dollar during the period.

The unadjusted current account deficit for July was within the 1.6 billion to 1.9 billion dollars forecast by analysts.

The Australian dollar surged from 83.10 U.S. cents to a high of 83.55 U.S. cents after the deficit was released, more than half a cent above Monday's close of 82.90 U.S. cents.

Treasurer Paul Keating last week said that Australia would post a current account deficit of 18 billion dollars (14.8 billion U.S.) in the year to June 30, 1991 compared to a 20.7 billion (17 billion U.S.) shortfall in the previous 12 months.

The seasonally adjusted current account deficit was 1.23 billion dollars (1.01 billion U.S.), about 21 percent lower than the 1.56 billion dollar (1.28 billion U.S.) deficit recorded in June.

The bureau said the unadjusted merchandise trade balance for July showed a surplus of 163 million dollars (134 million U.S.) after a deficit of 11 million (9.1 million U.S.) in June.

The current account measures the difference in value between ingoing and outgoing transactions in goods, services, incomes and transfers.

TOKYO (AUG. 28) - Japan's economy is continuing to expand, helped by strong domestic demand despite the recent surge in oil prices, the government's Economic Planning Agency (EPA) said Tuesday.

In a monthly economic report, the agency said domestic demand has been buoyed by brisk corporate capital spending and strong personal consumption.

The latest economic assessment pushed Japan's current streak of economic expansion into its 45th month in August. The economy surpassed the previous post-war second-longest growth record of 42 months in May.

The report said: "The (Japanese) economy is still on an expansionary track with domestic demand maintaining its strength, corporate sales and earnings increasing, and the number of employees steadily on the rise."

An agency official said at a briefing that the effects of the Middle East crisis have not been felt yet on economic activity, except financial markets.

The official shrugged off the possibility that the current volatility in financial markets will threaten economic growth, since a major downturn in the market early this year had little discernible negative impact on the overall economy.

But he cautioned that there might be repercussions from soaring oil prices in the months to come as high-priced crude oil will start arriving in September.

SEOUL (AUG. 28) - South Korea is putting its money and gifted engineers in the field where analysts say lies the country's economic future: the semi-conductor industry.

For this South Korea is relying on what it knows best -- mixing large conglomerates which can summon up huge resources with some government planning and a lot of backing, a formula that has brought it success.

"This is a high-risk industry where an unimaginable amount of potential profits is involved, and losses as well," said Ju Dae-Young, an analyst with the Korea Institute for Economy and Technology (KIET).

"You can say the country's economic future depends on whether we can catch up with advanced countries in this field," Ju said.

Semi-conductors, the basic component of modern electronics, are needed for almost all industries, ranging from toys, home appliances to planes, cars and plant automation.

An official of the Trade and Industry Ministry said international competition was so fierce that the government and local firms did not want publicity about their efforts in the billion dollar industry.

He said however that the government and local firms had set aside at least 265 million dollars to develop the 64-mega Dynamic Random Access Memory (D-RAM) and further improve the recently developed 16-mega D-RAM until 1993.

The government will also offer tax holidays and other favors to back up the semi-conductor industry, said the official.

Government statistics show that semi-conductors take up a large share of the South Korea's electronic products and its exports.

The 1989 export volume amounted to four billion dollars, or more than five per cent of its overall exports. This year, volume is projected to be around 4.3 billion dollars, some 14.6 per cent of the world market.

The lion's share of the exports was contributed by Samsung Electronics Co., one of the country's most promising companies and a subsidiary of the giant Samsung Group, which has 26 other subsidiaries.

Samsung Electronics triumphantly announced earlier this month that it had developed its own 16-mega D-RAM, bringing the country on par with the United States and Japan in memory chip technology.

The 13th largest electronics company in terms of semi-conductor production, Samsung Electronics plans to invest one billion dollars within two years for the mass-production of the memory chips.

Beside Samsung, at least two other South Korean business groups are also involved in the semi-conductor industry.

Lucky-GoldStar Co., which produced the first locally made radios in 1959, plans to invest more than two billion dollars by 1996 in the semi-conductor field.

Hyundai Electronics, a subsidiary of Hyundai Business Group, is concentrating on developing semi-conductors using new materials.

CANBERRA (AUG. 28) - Australian Treasurer Paul Keating ruled out further interest rates cuts Tuesday following the release of July balance of payments figures, as Australia's biggest bank, Westpac Banking Corp., cut its prime interest rate.

Mr. Keating told reporters that the 33 percent rise in the July current account deficit to 1.73 billion Australian dollars (1.4 billion U.S.) on the previous month did not justify a further easing in monetary policy.

But Westpac said it would reduce its prime rate by 0.25 percentage points to 17.5 percent on September 7.

Stuart Fowler, Westpac's managing director, said the move was in response to lower interest rates following the easing of monetary policy in early August.

Canberra has relaxed its tight monetary policy this year following evidence that the economy has slowed.

Mr. Keating said the July figures showed exports had risen seven per cent during the month and that the current account deficit was narrowing on a seasonally adjusted basis.

Asked if there would be a further easing of monetary policy in the months ahead, Mr. Keating said: "I don't think those figures argue for that."

Mr. Keating said the July seasonally adjusted current account figure of 1.23 billion dollars (1.01 billion U.S.) was the second lowest since September 1988 and 11.2 percent lower than the average of the previous three months.

Canberra boosted interest rates last year as its answer to Australia's perpetual current account deficit, foreign debt and inflation.

The Bureau of Statistics said Tuesday that net foreign debt fell to 124.53 billion dollars (102.5 billion U.S.) in the June quarter from 124.95 billion dollars (102.9 billion U.S.) in the March quarter.

ISLAMABAD (AUG. 28) - Pakistan will begin to airlift an infantry brigade of 5,000 men to Saudi Arabia in the coming days as its contribution to the multinational force in the Gulf, military sources here said Tuesday.

The airlift will take several days due to "logistic reasons," they said.

The Pakistani troops will be under Saudi command and will join military contingents from other Moslem countries, including Syria and Egypt, the sources said.

The brigade, including artillery, ordnance, logistics and communications experts, will take along a certain amount of unspecified materiel, but most heavy equipment will be provided by the Saudis, they said.

Pakistan, an ally of both Washington and Riyadh, announced on August 13 that it would join "other Islamic (military) contingents for the defense of Saudi Arabaia."

The decision, taken one week after the dismissal of Premier Benazir Bhutto, has come under criticism, although an opinion poll published Monday by The Nation newspaper showed it was backed by a majority of the population.

The poll also said 62 percent of those surveyed were opposed to the U.S. military presence in Saudi Arabia following Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait.

ADDIS ABABA (AUG. 28) - Ethiopian President Mengistu Haile Mariam has called for more stringent international sanctions against Iraq to force it out of Kuwait, the Ethiopian News Agency (ENA) reported.

Lieutenant Colonel Mengistu told Abdul Mohsen al-Jeea'an, an envoy of the exiled Kuwaiti emir, that Ethiopia would support "any international measures against (Iraqi President) Saddam Hussein until he leaves Kuwait," ENA said.

Lt. Col. Mengistu described the August 2 invasion of Kuwait as "a flagrant violation of the United Nations charter" and pledged Ethiopian support for U.N. Security Council resolutions condemning Iraq, ENA reported Monday.

Delivering a message from the Kuwaiti emir, Sheikh Jaber al-Ahmad al-Sabah, the Kuwaiti envoy thanked Ethiopia for its strong opposition to the invasion and said the country had shown it was "a friend indeed," ENA said.

Lt. Col. Mengistu accused Iraq on Sunday of supporting the 30-year-old secessionist war in Ethiopia's northern province of Eritrea.

Singapore (AUG. 28) - The Kuwait-based Gulf Bank may set up its operational headquarters in Singapore if the Iraqi occupation continues, a director of the Gulf Bank, Najib H.M. al-Saleh said Tuesday.

He told reporters Singapore was an ideal location because it ''is a major banking and financial centre in Southeast Asia.

''With all our 30 branches in Kuwait shut down following the Iraqi invasion of our country on August 2, we think Singapore is a natural place in which to get started up immediately because our bank's sole overseas branch is in Singapore,'' al-Saleh said.

The bank's only other office outside Kuwait is its European representative office in London.

''We intend to continue our operations because we enjoy the financial support of the Kuwaiti Ministry of Finance and the Central Bank of Kuwait '' Al-Saleh said.

Al-Saleh, who arrived here Sunday together with Stuart Webster, the special adviser and Acting Chief General Manager of Gulf Bank, held talks Monday with officials of the Monetary Authority of Singapore (Mas) and other bankers.

Webster said Mas officials were extremely supportive and understanding about the bank's position.

Webster said the Kuwaiti government holds a 10 per cent equity stake in the Gulf Bank. The shareholders are mainly private Kuwaiti individuals and institutions, and only one of the bank directors is a representative of the Kuwaiti government, he said.

The Singapore branch of the Gulf Bank, set up in 1983, manages approximately 15 per cent of the bank's total assets world-wide.

As of last December 31, Gulf Bank had total assets of 1.95 billion Kuwaiti dinars, equivalent to about 7 billion U.S. dollars.

KATHMANDU (AUG. 28) - At least 25 people were feared killed or swept away in landslides and floods brought on by torrential rains in low-lying tropical regions south of Kathmandu, but only 19 were confirmed dead on Tuesday.

Heavy loss of life, property and standing paddy crops hit the districts of Rupandehi, Rautahat, Chitwan, Nawalparasi and Makwanpur to the southeast and southwest of Kathmandu, according to unofficial sources.

A home ministry spokesman said at least nine people were swept away by torrential floods in Butwal in Rupandehi district, 260 kilometres (160 miles) southwest of Kathmandu. Two were injured, and an elderly woman died in the incident, while the other six were listed as missing.

Floods have disrupted traffic along various national highways. Parts of the Prithivi highway to Pokhara were damaged. At least 261 houses were swept away by the torrential Rapti and Lothar rivers.

The spokesman added that army personnel evacuated 381 people from Jitpur-Pipale near Mugling, 90 km (56 miles) west of Kathmandu.

A bus, a truck and a motorcycle were engulfed by a landslide on the Chure hill, 80 km (50 miles) south of Kathmandu, on Sunday night. More than 140 passengers including 30 foreign tourists were rescued in the incident, the spokesman said.

He would not reveal the identity of the foreigners, who were riding in the bus, but he said they were rescued by army personnel.

KUALA LUMPUR (AUG. 28) - Malaysian share prices extended their gains from last week's sharp losses spurred by strong buying interest in line with sharp gains in overseas bourses, brokers said Tuesday.

"There was bullish buying in the morning. After that there was some profit taking," one broker said, adding that the volatility of the market in the past few days had created big opportunities for speculators.

Brokers said investors were overreacting to the technical recovery here and elsewhere just as they had overreacted to bearish sentiments last week.

The Kuala Lumpur Stock Exchange Composite Index gained 13.16 points or two percent to close at 534.62 points after peaking at 539.89 points in the early afternoon before investors took profit.

Gainers outnumbered losers 151 to 36 while 33 counters were unchanged.

Hong Kong (AUG. 28) - The Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corp., the colony's biggest bank, said Tuesday its earnings for the first half of 1990 fell to 1.53 billion Hongkong dollars (196 million U.S. dollars), down 20.7 per cent from the same period last year.

The bank described the outlook for the rest of the year as ''not encouraging'' and commented that current events in the Middle East are likely to damage prospects of economic growth.

The results were announced following the close of the market. Most analysts believe that the bank's shares will take a hammering when the market opens on Wednesday.

The poor results ran exactly opposite of predictions by most analysts who had foreseen a profits rise of at least 10 percent.

Higher provisions against loan portfolios primarily in the developed countries was one factor in the results. The bank was also hard hit by the performance of its Marine Midland Bank subsidiary in the U.S. which lost 19.8 million dollars in the first half of 1990.

KUALA LUMPUR (AUG. 28) - Malaysia's national oil company Petronas has agreed to sell an additional 10,000 barrels of oil a day to India to help ease a supply shortfall created by the Gulf crisis, a company official said Tuesday.

Officials of the Indian Oil Corp. (IOC) were here last week to negotiate terms for the supply of the additional oil for one year in return for which Malaysia is asking for naptha, the official said.

The agreement is to be signed between IOC and PETCO, Petronas' marketing arm, and the first cargo will be shipped in October, the official said.

India, which is heavily dependent on oil from Iraq and Kuwait, currently buys 10,000 barrels of oil a day under term arrangement with PETCO.

Malaysia has also committed itself to supplying 5,000 barrels of oil a day to the Philippines, which is similarly hit by the United Nations oil embargo imposed on Iraq following its invasion of Kuwait on August 2.

Petronas officials said the national oil company would meet its commitments to India and the Philippines from oil normally sold on the spot market and from increased production.

Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamad said Monday that Malaysia was prepared to boost its oil production to the maximum of 650,000 barrels per day from the current 605,000 barrels if there were urgent requests from other countries.

Malaysia raised its production by 10,000 barrels in mid-August to help meet the requirments of countries hit by the U.N. embargo.

TOKYO (AUG. 28) - The plunge in Japanese stock and bond prices accompanied by the yen's decline earlier this year has had little impact on the outlook for capital investment, a leading Japanese bank said Tuesday.

"There is continuing enthusiasm for such investment," Long-Term Bank of Japan Ltd. said in its annual survey of corporate investment plans. "The feared impact (from the so-called 'triple declines') has not been felt."

The bank said that, based on responses to the survey, total investment in plant and equipment was forecast to grow 14.3 percent this year, up from 14.1 percent last year and marking the third double-digit increase in a row.

Capital investment in Japan's manufacturing sector is forecast to jump 20.1 percent while investment in other industries is expected to grow at a slower rate of 11.5 percent, the bank said.

The plunge in stock and bond prices and the yen's decline have not influenced investment plans partly because "companies continued to feel they did not have sufficient equipment," it said.

Other factors include a high level of corporate profits, ample liquidity and a high ratio of investment in new businesses.

The bank noted, however, that unfavourable factors were increasing and could affect the growth in capital investment by small and medium-sized firms.

These factors include increases in fund-raising costs arising from higher interest rates, higher crude oil prices and a slowdown in corporate profitability reflecting rising wage costs in Japan.

The survey of 1,492 companies was carried out after the 25 percent slump in share prices earlier this year but does not take into account the market's latest plunge since Iraq invaded Kuwait.

KATHMANDU (AUG. 28) - Police and army units have been placed on alert in Nepal to guard against violence after the submission of a draft constitution to King Birendra, expected Sunday, informed sources said Tuesday.

Prime Minister Krishna Prasad Bhattarai, a member of the Nepali Congress Party, has urged party workers to ''make door-to-door visits and alert the people to refrain from anything that may cause untoward incidents.''

Political parties have demanded that their views be incorporated into the document, threatening to take to the streets ''if the constitution is not democratic enough.''

Among the issues being raised is the role of the Nepalese monarch, who in the past enjoyed absolute power, and whether Hinduism would be retained as the country's official religion.

The drive for a new multi-party constitution was launched on February 18, culminating in the lifting of the ban on political parties and the formation of an interim coalition government.

The coalition, comprising the Nepali Congress Party and a seven-party Communist grouping known as the United Left Front, was given the task of drafting the new constitution.

BEIJING (AUG. 28) - A cadre convicted of taking nearly 50,000 dollars in bribes and three peasants who stole electrical transformers have been sentenced to death in China's four-month-old anti-crime campaign, newspapers reported Tuesday.

Zhang Guorong, director of the Hanyang District Office of Overseas Chinese Affairs, was executed Saturday in Wuhan, in the central province of Hubei, after being found guilty of taking a bribe of 228,000 yuan (48,407 dollars), the China Daily reported.

The official English-language daily said the Wuhan intermediary court also sentenced 10 others -- "shop managers, factory directors and bank clerks" -- to prison terms for having taken bribes or misappropriating funds totalling more than one million yuan (212,314 dollars).

The Peasants' Daily reported that three farmers it identified as Ren Yinli, Yang Jingxun et Zai Bingwu, from northeastern Hebei province, were sentenced to death at a public trial for having stolen 23 transformers.

It did not say when the trial took place, nor whether they were executed immediately after sentencing, which is the general practice in China.

Another newspaper, the Liaoning Legal Daily, reported Monday that courts in the northern city of Shenyang had sentenced 35 people to death in mass public trials on August 16 alone.

It said one Shenyang court had sentenced 25 people to die in a public trial on July 5, but later suspended the sentences of four of them.

Official newspapers also reported that 41 people -- murderers, robbers, thieves, gunrunners, a rapist and a pimp -- were executed in the southern city of Guangzhou on June 27, immediately after sentencing.

China's current law-and-order campaign began in May in a bid to curb crime, officials said, in the run-up to the Asian Games to be held here between September 22 and October 7.

TUNIS (AUG. 28) - Jordan has proposed a simultaneous withdrawal of Iraqi forces from Kuwait and foreign troops from the Gulf as a first step toward a negotiated settlement in the standoff between Iraq and the West, Tunis Radio reported here Tuesday.

The radio said the plan, currently being promoted by King Hussein of Jordan, calls for the replacement of Iraqi troops in Kuwait by Arab units and negotiations between Iraqi and Kuwaiti authorities to settle their differences within a year.

The proposal is similar to that of Palestine Liberation Organization Chairman Yasser Arafat, who since Saturday has visited Jordan, Iraq and Yemen.

King Hussein meanwhile held a second round of talks here Tuesday with President Zine al-Abdine bin Ali, official sources said.

The Jordanian leader also had a second meeting here with Mahmoud Abbas, a key member of the PLO's executive committee.

Both Jordan and the PLO, which have shown support for Iraq in the current crisis, maintain that a solution must be found "in an Arab framework, far removed from any foreign - notably American - intervention," said the Palestinian news agency WAFA.

An estimated 45,000 U.S. air and ground troops have been deployed in Saudi Arabia and other Western nations have dramatically boosted their naval presence in the Gulf since Iraq's August 2 seizure of Kuwait.

King Hussein, clearly alarmed at the prospect of a military showdown, has embarked on a 10-nation tour of North Africa and Western Europe to seek "an Arab and international" solution.

He was to leave here later Tuesday for Algeria and would also visit Mauritania and Morocco.

He begins a tour of Spain, Britain, West Germany, France and Italy on Thursday.

VIENNA (AUG. 28) - OPEC ministers have postponed until Wednesday a meeting set to finalize a decision on raising crude oil production to offset a cutback in supply because of a U.N. embargo on Iraq and occupied Kuwait.

Iran earlier blocked what some of its partners hoped would be an eleven-nation consensus, rejecting a deal allowing member countries with spare production capacity to boost their output immediately to steady market conditions until they return to normal.

Dr. Subroto, secretary general of the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) announced early Tuesday afternoon that the meeting had been postponed until Wednesday.

He said the ministers had to await responses from Iraq and Libya to an invitation extended to both countries to attend a formal meeting of OPEC's ministerial monitoring committee, empowered to adjust the organization's production levels.

Although invited, Iraq and Libya have stayed away from "informal consultations" held here since Sunday by their 11 OPEC partners.

The talks followed insistent demands by Saudi Arabia and Venezuela, backed by Arab producers in the Gulf, for official OPEC endorsement of plans to pump an extra three million barrels a day of oil to lessen the cutbacks in world supply caused by the U.N. embargo.

As ministers of the 10 other OPEC members represented here met together in a Vienna hotel, for what was initially billed as their final session, Iranian oil minister Gholamreza Aghazadeh told reporters an OPEC decision to boost output now would be "a big mistake."

He said Iran could not accept the deal, and went for a walk in a Vienna park instead of attending the midday plenary meeting.

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AUG. 28) - The radio crackles as a voice booms across the desert, seeking to demoralise U.S. soldiers deployed across miles of Saudi desert facing unseen Iraqi troops.

"You, American soldier in the Saudi desert," says the anonymous male voice in imperfect English.

"Your family are suffering ... Your children are waiting for you, your wife is waiting for you. You might have a lover. She is always waiting for you " the voice says.

Melancholy music accompanies such messages, which are broadcast by official

Baghdad Radio on short wave and beamed to U.S. soldiers sweltering in the pitiless desert heat.

The radio also attempts to intimidate GIs by reminding them of the awesome power of Iraq's one-million man army.

"You, American soldier in the Saudi desert, you are facing the (strongest) army in the region, the most integrated army in the world ... it has sophisticated weapons. It has men that don't fear death."

"Is your interest to fight against it?" the voice asks, after recalling that the Iraqi army gained valuable experience in a brutal eight-year conflict with Iran.

The broadcast indulges in a degree of fantasy as well in its campaign to unnerve the estimated 45,000 U.S. ground and air forces that have been deployed in Saudi Arabia following Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait.

"Didn't you hear that sand heaps (dunes) in the Arabian desert are moving and that they swallowed many people and they will swallow you?" the voice asks.

"There are 200 churches in Iraq. How do you want to kill the Christians and to be killed by them?"

According to various estimates between 550,000 and 1.5 million Christians live in Iraq, where the total population stands at 17 million people.

COPENHAGEN (AUG. 28) - Scandinavian airline and hotel group SAS said Tuesday its pre-tax profit fell almost 40 percent in the first half of this year to 369 million kroner (61.5 million dollars).

The group had a pre-tax profit of 593 million kroner (98.9 million dollars) in the same period last year.

Group president Jean Carlzon said the first half results were unsatisfactory and "a development which we cannot accept."

SAS would take "a series of measures to improve the economic situation of the group," he added.

The group's central activity, its airline operation, saw its profit fall from 416 to 128 million kroner (69.3 to 21.3 million dollars) during the first six months of this year, largely due to the fall of the dollar and the yen.

Turnover in the airline sector was however up to 10.40 billion kroner (1.73 billion dollarsa) from 9.5 billion (1.58 billion dollars), while total group turnover rose to 15.2 billion kroner (2.5 billion dollars) from 13.74 billion (2.3 billion dollars).

SAS is planning to shed parts of the group it does not consider indispensable to its activities, such as selling 50 percent of its stake in Swedish domestic airline Linjeflyg or the merger of its loss-making Scanair charter subsidiary with another northern European airline.

FRANKFURT (AUG. 28) - Citing rising costs and expenditures for its fleet expansion, the West German airline Lufthansa said Tuesday it lost three million Deutschmarks (1.93 million dollars) in the first half of 1990.

By comparison, the company posted a surplus of 87 million marks in the same period a year ago.

Lufthansa said that it flew nearly 10.5 million passengers in the first half of 1990, up 10.5 percent on the same period a year ago, with overall turnover rising seven percent to 5.7 billion marks.

Among other factors, Lufthansa said, the losses stemmed from the fact that the money spent on new airplanes had not yet been recovered by operations. Rising personnel and fuel costs, higher fees, a decline in freight turnover and flight delays were also factors.

TOKYO (AUG. 28) - The United Arab Emirates' state-owned oil firm Abu Dhabi National Oil Co. has withdrawn its earlier decision to cut its crude oil supply to Japan, officials said here Tuesday.

The company said in early August that it would cut crude oil exports to Japan by 10 per cent beginning with the September load.

It told Japan's governmental Natural Resources and Energy Agency recently that it would continue exporting 200,000 barrels a day to Japan and was ready to increase the volume if Japan wished, the officials said.

MANILA (AUG. 28) - The Asian Development Bank (ADB) has approved a 600,000 dollar grant to the Dhaka-based International Jute Organization (IJO) and a 489,000 dollar grant to a study of the external debt of the ADB's South Pacific Developing Member Countries, bank statements said.

The grant to the IJO will go to establishing a coordinated regional breeding program to produce high-yielding and widely adaptable varieties of jute, kenaf and mesta, the Manila-based ADB said.

This will include a research network of participating countries including Bangladesh, India, Nepal, China, Thailand and Indonesia, the ADB said.

The second grant will go to assisting the finance ministries and central banks of the Cook Islands, Fiji, Papua New Guinea, Tonga and Western Samoa to improve their capacity to monitor, analyze, evaluate and advise on matters relating to their external debt, the ADB said.

A Debt Recording and Management System will be established in each country, the ADB added.

TOKYO (AUG. 28) - Japan's Matsushita Electric Industrial Co. Ltd. said Tuesday its net consolidated profit grew 11 percent from a year earlier to 58.3 billion yen (381 million dollars) in the three months to June.

The company -- the world's biggest consumer electronics concern and the manufacturer of National, Panasonic and Technics equipment -- said sales rose 13 percent to 1,576 billion yen (10.3 billion dollars) in the same period.

Domestic sales grew seven percent to 845 billion yen (5.5 billion dollars) but were outpaced by a 20 percent jump in overseas sales, which reached 731 billion yen (4.8 billion dollars), a statement said.

The overall increase in sales was led by communication and industrial products including personal computers, printers and telephone equipment which rose 22 percent to 376 billion yen (2.5 billion dollars), a statement said.

But the biggest component remained video equipment, whose sales rose seven percent to 394 billion yen (2.6 billion dollars) with flat demand for video recorders offset by higher sales of televisions, particularly advanced models.

Sales of audio equipment advanced 17 percent to 138 billion yen (903 million dollars), led by headphone cassette players and compact-disc units with radio and cassette functions.

Home appliance sales climbed eight percent to 234 billion yen (1.5 billion dollars), led by washing machines, while sales of electronic parts rose at the same rate to reach 205 billion yen (1.4 billion dollars). Sales of battery and kitchen products jumped 16 percent to 78 billion yen (508 million dollars).

BRUSSELS (AUG. 28) - Acec-Union Miniere (AUM) SA of Belgium, the world's biggest zinc miner, on Tuesday announced it had taken a large minority stake in a Mexican mine that is a leading copper producer.

The stake has been acquired through a 21-per-cent holding in Mexicana de Cananea SA de CV, a company formed with Mexicana de Cobre, a mining firm affiliated to Grupo Mexico, AUM said.

Mexicana de Cananea has a capital in Mexican pesos equivalent to 390 million dollars, of which 305 million has been paid by Mexicana de Cobre, it said.

AUM said the new owners of the Cananea mine would seek to make a big expansion in ouput, which has a capacity of 150,000 tonnes of copper per year, sustainable for half a century, it said.

AUM added that it had reached an agreement with Mexicana de Cobre to step up guaranteed delivery of raw copper.

Under a contract signed in September, AUM was to receive a guaranteed 48,000 tonnes per year; this will now be hiked to 90,000 tonnes thanks to production from Cananea, the statement said.

TURIN, ITALY (AUG. 28) - Italian auto maker Fiat said Tuesday it was laying off 35,000 workers for three weeks because of falling car sales.

The lay-offs will affect 12 of Fiat's 21 plants in Italy and will be carried out between September and December.

The move was the result of concern over the automobile market and was not sparked by the Gulf crisis or its effect on petrol prices, Fiat said.

The auto market saw a marked slowdown in June after several years of expansion, and while auto makers have not yet released sales figures for July and August, the signs are not good for the domestic Italian market, which represents more than 50 percent of Fiat sales.

Fiat is holding up well on foreign markets, however, with initial figures from West Germany showing a 5.5 percent market share in July, up from 4.4 percent in the same month last year, while the French market share is up from 7.4 percent to 7.7.

Fiat employs a total of 117,000 people.

BERLIN (AUG. 28) - The West German monopolies office said Tuesday it would investigate five petrol retailers for alleged price fixing.

The price of petrol has risen five-fold in West Germany since Iraq invaded Kuwait on August 2, but price rises by various companies have been so similar, both in amount and timing, that the monopolies office believes the rules of free competition are being infringed.

The companies under investigation are Aral, BP, Esso, DEA and Shell, the monopolies office said in a statement.

It stressed that its investigation concerned only the Hamburg region.

COPENHAGEN (AUG. 28) - Denmark's draft budget for 1991 calls for a deficit of 16.1 billion kroner (2.7 billion dollars), two percent of gross national product, an improvement of around five billion kroner on the 1990 deficit.

But in presenting his draft budget on Tuesday, Finance Minister Henning Dyremose said the deficit was "unsatisfactory". He noted it had been "calculated before the Gulf crisis and the surge in oil prices" and that it depended on savings of 7.7 billion kroner in government spending.

The latter cuts involve less aid to the unemployed and a reduction in public sector employees.

The budget forecasts that the balance of payments, in deficit for more than a quarter-century now, will show a deficit of eight billion kroner (1.3 billion dollars) next year, against 11 billion (1.8 billion dollars) anticipated for this year.

The opposition Social Democrats have denounced cuts in assistance for the poorest classes, and have urged the government to find savings in other sectors. Bank experts say the 1991 deficit could actually exceed 20 billion kroner, since the government's forecast is based on oil at 19 dollars a barrel. One of them cited "the government economists' outlandish optimism in having forecast a slight budget surplus for 1990, whereas there will actually be a deficit of about 22 billion kroner".

Government spending for 1991 is estimated in the draft budget at 307.5 billion kroner, the same as this year, while receipts are estimated at 291.4 billion kroner.

The biggest spending item is 60 billion kroner for interest on the national debt of 500 billion kroner. Pensions amount to 58.3 billion, subsidies to communes to 30.8 billion, and unemployment compensation to 23.1 billion.

COLOGNE, WEST GERMANY (AUG. 28) - West German airline Lufthansa said Tuesday it carried 10.5 million passengers in the first half of the year, a 10 percent increase on the same period in 1989.

Turnover in the first half was up seven percent over the first half of last year, at 5.7 billion Deutsche marks (3.5 billion dollars).

The increase had been hit by the fact that the dollar and yen were particularly weak against the Deutsche mark during the period, Lufthansa said.

The airline invested 1.1 billion Deutsche marks (687 million dollars) in renewing its 161-strong fleet of aircraft during the period, when it ordered three Boeing 737's, four 747's and 13 planes from the European consortium Airbus Industrie.

PARIS (AUG. 28) - The optimism about the Gulf crisis that had been visible Monday on the Paris Bourse evaporated on Tuesday, leading to a 1.13 percent drop in the CAC 40 stock price index in what operators called very volatile and nervous trading.

The index had jumped by 5.09 percent on Monday and opened on Tuesday with a 0.32 percent gain, but it then moved into the loss column. Analysts said Iraq's decision announced Tuesday to annex Kuwait struck the market as a "provocation", destroying hopes for a diplomatic solution of the Gulf crisis.

They added that the Monday jump had taken place "in a vacuum", in that the British, the biggest foreign investors on the Paris market, were absent because of a British holiday.

There was some profit-taking on Tuesday in quiet trading. Analysts added that the market had risen too fast on Friday and Monday (more than nine percent for the two days together) to be sustained, and a correction was called for.

LONDON (AUG. 28) - Former Guinness chairman Ernest Saunders, once one of Britain's most respected captains of industry, was sentenced to five years in prison here Tuesday for illegal manipulation of Guinness shares during a heated takeover battle for Scottish whisky maker Distillers.

In a charged courtroom finale to Britain's most far-reaching share scandal ever, Justice Denis Henry told Mr. Saunders he had been guilty of "dishonesty on a massive scale" and had "encouraged" illegal stock activities in his effort to win control of Distillers in the 1986 takeover battle.

Mr. Saunders, 54, was then sentenced to five years' imprisonment on two charges of conspiracy and two of theft and was given an additional sentence of three-and-a-half years on eight charges of false accounting, with the sentences to be served concurrently.

Two other defendants in the Guinness trial, Heron International chairman Gerald Ronson, aged 50, and former stockbroker Anthony Parnes, aged 45, were given shorter prison terms but also ordered to pay massive fines.

Mr. Ronson's fine of five million pounds (9.5 million dollars) was nearly 10 times higher than any fine previously imposed in a British court.

In addition to the fine, Mr. Ronson was ordered to pay 440,000 (836,000 dollars) in court costs and sentenced to a year in jail.

In a dramatic interruption during the sentencing, Mr. Parnes collapsed as Justice Henry was addressing Mr. Saunders. He slumped over a desk and his wife Denise shouted "Oh my God" and rushed to his side.

Mr. Parnes was sentenced to two-and-a-half years in jail and also ordered to pay 440,000 pounds in court costs.

A fourth defendant in the trial, 74-year-old millionaire financier Sir Jack Lyons, was also convicted on charges of conspiracy, fraud and theft but had his sentencing postponed until September 25 for medical reasons.

Jail sentences had been expected as a conclusion to what the influential daily Financial Times described as "the City trial of the century" but the length of the terms clearly caught City insiders by surprise.

"Everybody thought he would go down, but most thought he would get two or three years at most," said one merchant banker, referring to Mr. Saunders.

"Considering everything he has gone through in the last four years, the sentence seems pretty harsh."

Another stockbroker said the sentences had "obviously been pitched to deter others from similar activities."

The Guinness scandal broke shortly after the conviction and jailing of Wall Street mogul Ivan Boesky and information uncovered during that trial was used to bring Mr. Saunders and the other defendants to court.

As a result, the Guinness proceedings took on a larger-than-life aspect and were cast in the British media as both a trial of four leading business figures and a public reckoning with the ethic of greed in the workings of the City.

In his final remarks to the defendants, Justice Henry said the case had been about the "corruption of commercial life" in Britain and noted that "metaphors of war were invariably used to describe" City takeover battles.

"In such takeovers the stakes were high and the pressures intense and the rewards of success potentially corrupting," Justice Henry said.

Charges were brought against Mr. Saunders and the other defendants when it became clear that Guinness had made illegal multi-million pound payments to entice key investors into purchasing Guinness shares.

This resulted in artificially inflated Guinness share prices, the appearance that Guinness's 2.7 billion-pound (five billion-dollar) bid for Distillers was more attractive than it really was and Guinness's victory over food group Argyll for control of the whisky manufacturer.

Mr. Saunders' son James described the sentence against his father as "appalling" and said appeal proceedings would begin immediately.

Opposition politicians meanwhile greeted the sentences with satisfaction.

Doug Hoyle, chairman of the Labour Party's trade and industry committee, said: "At long last justice has been done in relation to a City swindle."

DUBLIN (AUG. 28) - The Irish government proposed Tuesday to change the law to give a respite to firms in difficulty due to the Gulf crisis, particularly the empire of "meat king" Larry Goodman, whose meat exports to Iraq have been interrupted.

Trade and Industry Minister Desmond O'Malley told Parliament that Mr. Goodman's companies hold unpaid claims of 310 million dollars on Iraq, making it difficult for Goodman International to make payments on its own debts of 795 million dollars.

If the government amendment is voted, Irish companies will be entitled to request legal protection against their creditors for four months at the most. This is similar to the U.S. "Chapter 11" provision for protecting companies against creditors and would make it possible to avoid court-ordered re-organization or liquidation, at least for a time.

Mr. Goodman, the biggest beef exporter in the European Economic Community (EEC), controls more than half of the Irish meat market, which accounts for about five percent of gross domestic product.

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AUG. 28) EFE - Brazilian police have arrested Italian organized crime boss Umberto Amaturo, who has been convicted in Italy on drug-trafficking and kidnapping charges, officials said.

Amaturo, who is suspected of heading one of the Naples-based Camorra gangs was arrested Thursday when he tried to obtain a Brazilian passport, police in Sao Paulo said Monday.

Amaturo is believed to have escaped Italian authorities when he changed his appearance with plastic surgery.

Brazilian police discovered Amaturo's identity when they compared his fingerprints to their files.

In the early 1980s, Amaturo broke off from the "New Camorra" gang and formed his own organization, the "New Family".

Amaturo, who had been living in the rural town of Juquitiba outside Sao Paulo, is to remain in custody while the courts debate his extradition to Italy.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain (AUG. 28) EFE - The armed Basque separatist group ETA Tuesday claimed responsibilty for bombing two bars in northern Spain for alleged drug trafficking, authorities reported.

Police said the two bombs had been planted in the doorways of two bars in the Basque city of San Sebastian, 320 km northwest of Madrid, early Tuesday.

They said the explosions caused considerable damage but no injuries.

Shortly before the bombs went off police received telephone calls, saying ETA had planted the devices and alleging the two bars were connected with drug trafficking.

ETA has killed some 600 people, mostly Spanish security force members, in its 22-year-old campaign for the right to independence of northern Spain's Basque region.

The organization has also frequently targeted alleged drug traffickers in its campaign.

BOGOTA (AUG. 28) EFE - Colombian security forces have arrested the father of three alleged leading members of the notorious Medellin cocaine trafficking cartel, police said Tuesday.

Horsebreeder Fabio Ochoa Restrepo, 67, was detained late Monday in a sweep on his farm outside the northwestern city of Medellin, from which Colombia's largest and most powerful cocaine cartel takes its name.

A police spokesman said 50 of the rancher's employees were also arrested during the raid.

He added that Ochoa had been detained for 'preventive' reasons, but refused to give further details.

The horsebreeder's fugitive sons, Jorge Luis, Juan David and Fabio, are wanted in the United States on drug trafficking and money laundering charges.

Ochoa has been arrested twice before but released due to a lack of evidence against him.

BOGOTA (AUG. 28) EFE - Colombian police Tuesday arrested eight alleged drug traffickers and seized one tonne cocaine in related drug busts which uncovered a major coca leaf processing laboratory, officials said.

The raids took place in the eastern rural region of Guaviare, where 620 kg of cocaine were found, and near the city of Santa Rosa, some 400 km east of Bogota, where the eight men and another 400 kg of cocaine were seized.

The eight men arrested were being held pending a judge's order, the officials said.

In the second bust, police stumbled across a coca leaf processing laboratory, three clandestine runways, an airplane, and thousands of gallons of chemicals used to refine coca leaf.

Coca leaf grown in Peru and Bolivia is smuggled to Colombia for processing into pure cocaine before being sent on to the lucrative U.S. and European markets.

DAR ES SALAAM (AUG. 28) XINHUA - THE TANZANIAN GOVERNMENT HAS PREPARED A COMPREHENSIVE PLAN TO REVAMP THE COUNTRY'S TOURIST INDUSTRY, THE TANZANIA NEWS AGENCY REPORTED TODAY.

THE PLAN SETS A 500 MILLION U.S. DOLLARS TARGET FOR THE COUNTRY'S ANNUAL TOURIST INCOME IN STEAD OF THE CURRENT 40 MIL- LION U.S. DOLLARS.

THE PLAN WILL GIVE TOURIST INSTITUTIONS FIVE YEARS FOR STRU- CTURAL AND MANAGEMENT ADJUSTMENT AND THEN REQUEST THE TOURIST SECTOR TO BECOME THE SECOND BIGGEST FOREIGN EXCHANGE EARNER AFTER AGRICULTURE IN 1995.

THE PLAN STIPULATES THAT STATE FINANCIAL BODIES SHOULD PROVIDE LARGE INVESTMENTS TO THE TOURIST SECTOR AND ADOPT MORE EFFECTIVE MEASURES TO ATTRACT FOREIGN INVESTMENTS.

TANZANIA'S TOURISM HAS SHARPLY DECLINED SINCE EARLY 1980'S, DESPITE THE FACT THAT THE COUNTRY HAS RICH NATURAL RESOURCES FOR DEVELOPING TOURISM.

HONG KONG (AUG. 28) XINHUA - INDONESIAN TIMBER INDUSTRIES HAVE BEEN DEVELOPING RAPIDLY SINCE THE ISSUANCE OF THE GOVERNMENT'S BAN ON LOG EXPORTS, ACCORDING TO THE INDONESIA TIMES TODAY.

THE PAPER QUOTED FIGURES GIVEN BY AN OFFICIAL AT THE FORESTRY MINISTRY STAND AT THE ON-GOING "RESOURCE INDONESIA '90" IN JAKARTA MONDAY: UP TO 1989, 296 SAWN TIMBER FACTORIES HAD BEEN SET UP IN INDONESIA WITH AN ANNUAL PRODUCTION CAPACITY OF 8,803,000 CUBIC METERS.

AT THE SAME TIME, THE NUMBER OF PLYWOOD FACTORIES HAD REACHED 108 WITH A COMBINED PRODUCTION CAPACITY OF 7,425,000 CUBIC METERS ANNUALLY.

TIMBER INDUSTRIES HAVE CONTRIBUTED A LARGE AMOUNT TO FOREIGN EXCHANGE EARNINGS TO INDONESIA. AT THE BEGINNING OF THE FIFTH FIVE-YEAR DEVELOPMENT PLAN (1989-1994) STARTING APRIL 1989, THE VALUE OF THE COUNTRY'S PROCESSED TIMBER EXPORTS WAS 3,686 MILLION U.S. DOLLARS.

INDONESIA'S EXPORTS OF NON-TIMBER PRODUCTS IN THE SAME PERIOD STOOD AT 237 MILLION U.S. DOLLARS.

THE OFFICIAL SAID THAT THREE PULP INDUSTRIES HAVE BEEN SET UP IN INDONESIA WITH A YEARLY PRODUCTION CAPACITY OF 630,000 TONS.

LAND REHABILITATION DIRECTOR GENERAL ARMANA DARSIDI HAS SAID THAT INDONESIA'S PULP PRODUCTION TODAY ACCOUNTS FOR FIVE PERCENT OF THE WORLD'S. BUT HE IS CONVINCED THAT IT WILL CONTINUE TO DEVELOP AND THE COUNTRY WILL BECOME ONE OF THE BIGGEST PULP PRODUCER COUNTRIES IN THE FUTURE.

NEW DELHI (AUG. 28) XINHUA - INDIA'S MISSILE PROGRAM IS "RUSHING AHEAD" TO TACKLE ANY PROBLEM OF OBSOLESCENCE AND THE ENTIRE SPECTRUM OF INDIGENOUS MISSILES WILL BE READY FOR USE BY 1992-93, INDIAN MINISTER OF STATE FOR DEFENSE RAJAA RAMANNA TOLD PARLIAMENT TODAY.

THE REVISED COST OF THE MISSILE PROGRAM, HE SAID, WILL BE ABOUT 7,840 MILLION RUPEES (461 MILLION U.S. DOLLARS) NOW AGAINST THE ESTIMATE OF 3,838 MILLION RUPEES MADE IN 1983.

EFFORTS ARE NOW BEING MADE TO ENSURE THAT THE MISSILES -- TRISHUL, PRITHVI

AND NAG -- WILL BE MANUFACTURED AND DELIVERIES MADE TO USERS IN A SHORT TIME, HE SAID.

THERE ARE FOUR GUIDED MISSILE SYSTEMS BEING DEVELOPED IN INDIA AT PRESENT, NAMELY TRISHUL, PRITHVI, NAG AND AKASH.

THE MINISTER GAVE SOME DETAILS ABOUT THE PROFILES OF THE MISSILES AS FOLLOWS:

TRISHUL, A SURFACE-TO-AIR MISSILE (SAM) WITH A RANGE OF NINE KILOMETERS;

PRITHVI, A LONG-RANGE SURFACE-TO-SURFACE MISSILE WITH A RANGE OF 150 KILOMETERS AND CAPABLE OF CARRYING A ONE-TON WARHEAD, WITH A LESSER WARHEAD IT COULD BE FIRED TO A LONGER RANGE THAN 150 KM;

NAG, AN ANTI-TANK MISSILE WITH A RANGE OF FOUR KILOMETERS. IN A WRITTEN REPLY EARLIER, RAMANNA SAID THE BALLISTIC FLIGHT OF AKASH MISSILE WAS SUCCESSFULLY CARRIED OUT ON AUGUST 14 FROM THE INTERIM TEST RANGE BALASORE IN ORISSA STATE. ALL THE OBJECTIVES WERE FULLY ACHIEVED, HE SAID.

HE TOLD THE HOUSE THAT AKASH IS A MEDIUM-RANGE SURFACE-TO-AIR MISSILE SYSTEM WITH THE CAPABILITY TO TAKE ON MULTIPLE AIR BORNE TARGETS, TRYING TO ATTACK A DEFENDED AREA. THE MISSILE HAS A DUAL MODE GUIDANCE AND USES THE MODERN PHASED ARRAY RADAR.

"THE AKASH MISSILE SYSTEM IS BEING ADOPTED IN DIFFERENT VERSIONS FOR US BY OUR SERVICES," HE ADDED.

MANAGUA (AUG. 28) XINHUA - NICARAGUA HAS TAKEN A MEASURE TO SLASH TAXES ON HUNDREDS OF IMPORTED GOODS GOES INTO EFFECT THIS WEEK IN AN EFFORT TO STIMULATE DOMESTIC PRODUCTION AND LOWER PRICES, FINANCE MINISTER EMILIO PEREIRA ANNOUNCED HERE MONDAY.

AT A PRESS CONFERENCE, PEREIRA ALSO TOLD REPORTERS THAT FROM NOW ON A NICARAGUAN ENTREPRENEUR WHO WANTS TO START A BUSINESS "DOES NOT HAVE TO PAY TAXES EITHER ON MACHINERY OR ON RAW MATERIALS," SINCE THE GOVERNMENT IS ELIMINATING ALL IMPORT TARIFFS ON CAPITAL GOODS AND RAW MATERIALS.

THE GOVERNMENT, PEREIRA SAID, "CLEARLY INVITES THE PRODUCTIVE SECTOR AND THE COMMERCIAL SECTOR TO PARTICIPATE IN PRODUCTION AND THE REACTIVATION OF THE ECONOMY."

IMPORT TARIFFS ON CONSUMABLE GOODS, HE SAID, HAVE BEEN REDUCED TO THE LOWEST IN ALL OF LATIN AMERICA.

ACCORDING TO THE FINANCE MINISTRY'S NEW TARIFF POLICY, COMMODITIES THAT WERE SUBJECT TO IMPORT TAXES OF BETWEEN FIVE AND 40 PERCENT, NOW ONLY PAY FIVE PERCENT, WHILE THOSE SUBJECT TO 41 TO 60 PERCENT TAX RATES, NOW ONLY PAY 10 PERCENT, AND THOSE GOODS SUBJECT TO TARIFFS BETWEEN 61 AND 150 PERCENT, NOW ONLY PAY THE MAXIMUM RATE OF 20 PERCENT.

THE MINISTRY IS EXPECTED TO RELEASE A LIST OF THE GOODS AFFECTED BY THE TAX CUTS THIS WEEK.

NAIROBI (AUG. 28) XINHUA - DIRECTOR OF MEDICAL SERVICES IN KENYA'S MINISTRY OF HEALTH PROF. JOSEPH OLIECH SAID TODAY THAT AIDS CASES IN KENYA HAVE INCREASED TO OVER 9,000.

OPENING A WORKSHOP HERE ON THE MANAGEMENT OF HUMAN IMMUNO- DEFICIENCY VIRUS INFECTION AND AIDS, PROF. OLIECH NOTED THAT THE POSITIVITY RATES AMONG BLOOD DONORS IN THE EAST AFRICAN COUNTRY RANGE FROM 0.78 PERCENT IN LOW PREVALENCE AREAS TO 4 PERCENT IN HIGH PREVALENCE AREAS.

DESPITE THE INCREASED AWARENSESS OF AIDS IN THE COUNTRY, HE OBSERVED, CORRESPONDING BEHAVIORAL CHANGE HAS NOT BEEN OBSERVED BECAUSE PEOPLE RESIST CHANGE.

THE DIRECTOR CAUTIONED THAT AIDS DRUGS SUCH AS LOCALLY- DEVELOPED "KEMRON" ARE WELCOME INNOVATIONS BUT THE PREVENTION OF THE SPREAD OF THE DREAD DISEASE IS MORE IMPORTANT THAN THE DRUGS THEMSELVES.

HE CHALLENGED HIS FELLOW COUNTRYMEN TO KNOW ABOUT THE SPREAD OF AIDS BY BARBERS, TRADITIONAL CIRCUMCISERS, MINOR SURGERY LIKE PIERCING EARS AND BLOOD TRANSFUSION.

EARLIER REPORTS SAID THAT ABOUT 200,000 OUT OF 23 MILLION KENYANS HAVE BEEN IDENTIFIED AS AIDS CARRIERS AND AN ESTIMATED 800 CHILDREN BELOW THE AGE OF THREE HAVE BEEN INFECTED WITH THE DISEASE.

TOKYO (AUG. 28) KYODO - SALES BY JAPAN'S LARGE RETAILERS GREW 9 PERCENT IN JULY FROM A YEAR EARLIER TO 2,056.9 BILLION YEN, MAINLY BECAUSE OF STRONG SALES OF SUMMER CLOTHING, THE GOVERNMENT REPORTED TUESDAY.

THERE WAS HIGH GROWTH IN CLOTHING SALES AND OTHER SUMMER GOODS AS A SPELL OF HOT AND DRY WEATHER GRIPPED THE NATION DURING THE MONTH, THE MINISTRY OF INTERNATIONAL TRADE AND INDUSTRY SAID IN A PRELIMINARY REPORT.

SALES AT DEPARTMENT STORES CLIMBED 10.6 PERCENT TO 1,198.3 BILLION YEN, AND SUPERMARKETS' SALES JUMPED 6.7 PERCENT TO 858.6 BILLION YEN, ACCORDING TO THE REPORT.

MINISTRY OFFICIALS SAID OTHER FACTORS WERE STRONG SALES OF SUMMER GIFTS SUCH AS BEER, SOFT DRINKS AND FOODSTUFFS.

AIR CONDITIONERS AND ELECTRIC FANS ALSO SHOWED STRONG SALES, THEY SAID.

UJUNG PANDANG SULAWESI (AUG. 28) KYODO - THE INDONESIAN MINISTER-COORDINATOR FOR POLITICAL AFFAIRS AND SECURITY SUDOMO SAID TUESDAY THE GOVERNMENT HAS TOLD CHINA TO REOPEN ITS EMBASSY IN A NEW LOCATION.

EARLIER THIS MONTH, INDONESIA RESUMED DIPLOMATIC TIES WITH CHINA AFTER IT FROZE BILATERAL RELATIONS IN 1967, ACCUSING BEIJING OF AIDING A COMMUNIST COUP ATTEMPT.

SUDOMO SAID THAT CHINA'S FORMER EMBASSY WAS IN JAKARTA'S CHINA TOWN. 'WE WOULD NOT LIKE TO SEE THEM EXPLOIT THEIR CULTURAL LINK'' WITH INDONESIAN CHINESE ETHNICS IN THAT AREA, SUDOMO SAID. HE SAID THIS COULD POSE A THREAT TO NATIONAL SECURITY.

IN A MEETING WITH DELEGATES OF THE CATHOLIC UNION OF UNIVERSITY STUDENTS OF INDONESIA (PMKRI) ON MONDAY IN UJUNG PANDANG, SULAWASI, SUDOMO SAID INDONESIA WAS CAREFUL AND ALERT ABOUT THE PROCESS OF NORMALIZING RELATIONS WITH CHINA, AND SAID CHINESE LEADERS SHOULD NOT REPEAT PAST MISTAKES.

IF CHINESE LEADERS REALLY WANT DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS NORMALIZED, SUDOMO SAID, THEY HAVE TO PROMISE NOT TO SUPPORT THE BANNED COMMUNIST PARTY (PKI) AND NOT TO INTERVENE IN INDONESIA'S INTERNAL POLITICAL AFFAIRS.

MEANWHILE, FOREIGN MINISTER ALI ALATAS SAID THAT INDONESIA AND CHINA WILL JOINTLY ANNOUNCE THE NAMES OF AMBASSADORS TO JAKARTA AND BEIJING.

TOKYO (AUG. 28) KYODO - TOYOTA MOTOR CORP. SAID TUESDAY IT WILL CHANGE ITS ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION TO STRENGTHEN ITS FINANCE BUSINESS AND TO EXPAND ITS BUSINESS INTO MARINE AND AIRCRAFT-RELATED FIELDS.

THE COMPANY AIMS TO TRIPLE NONAUTO BUSINESS TO 6 PERCENT OF TOTAL ANNUAL SALES BY 1994 FROM THE CURRENT 2 PERCENT, TOYOTA OFFICIALS SAID.

THE DECISION WILL BE AUTHORIZED IN A BOARD OF DIRECTORS' MEETING SCHEDULED WEDNESDAY.

TOYOTA'S FINANCE SUBSIDIARY HAS MAINLY SERVED CAR DEALERS. THE COMPANY HOPES TO EXPAND IT INTO A FULL-FLEDGED FINANCE COMPANY SERVING CONSUMERS TO MAKE BETTER USE OF TOKYO'S MORE THAN 2 TRILLION YEN IN CAPITAL FUNDS, THE OFFICIALS ADDED.

AS FOR AIRCRAFT-RELATED BUSINESS, THE OFFICIALS SAID A SUBSIDIARY WILL PROVIDE SALES AND MAINTENANCE KNOW-HOW FOR LIGHTWEIGHT AIRPLANES. TOYOTA WILL SEEK FURTHER BUSINESS POSSIBILITIES IN THE FIELD BUT IT IS NOT CONSIDERING PRODUCTION OF AIRCRAFT ENGINES AT THIS POINT, THEY SAID.

TOKYO (AUG. 28) KYODO - CHIEF CABINET SECRETARY MISOJI SAKAMOTO SAID TUESDAY THE GULF CRISIS WILL NOT AFFECT JAPAN'S DEFENSE BUDGET FOR 1991.

SAKAMOTO TOLD REPORTERS THAT IRAQ'S INVASION OF KUWAIT DID NOT COME UP DURING A SECURITY COUNCIL MEETING TO DISCUSS A NEW MULTIYEAR DEFENSE PLAN TO BE LAUNCHED NEXT YEAR.

THE 1991 DEFENSE BUDGET, SET TO COME INTO EFFECT NEXT APRIL, WAS THE MAIN ITEM DISCUSSED BY THE NATION'S TOP DEFENSE POLICY-MAKING BOARD. THE COUNCIL IS LED BY PRIME MINISTER TOSHIKI KAIFU.

''THERE IS NO DIRECT RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN WHAT IS HAPPENING IN THE MIDDLE EAST AND NEXT YEAR'S DEFENSE BUDGET,'' SAKAMOTO TOLD A REGULARLY SCHEDULED NEWS CONFERENCE.

THE NEW DEFENSE PLAN WILL REPLACE THE CURRENT 18.4 TRILLION YEN, FIVE-YEAR PROGRAM THAT ENDS IN MARCH.

THE DEFENSE AGENCY HAS PROPOSED A 4.42 TRILLION YEN BUDGET FOR THE FIRST YEAR OF THE NEW PLAN, A 5.8 PERCENT HIKE FROM OUTLAYS THIS YEAR.

THE MEETING WAS THE THIRD IN A SERIES OF 10 TO BRIEF KAIFU AND HIS SEVEN CABINET MINISTERS WHO FORM THE COUNCIL.

THE MINISTERS ARE FOREIGN MINISTER TARO NAKAYAMA, SAKAMOTO, FINANCE MINISTER RYUTARO HASHIMOTO, MINISTER OF INTERNATIONAL TRADE AND INDUSTRY KABUN MUTO, ECONOMIC PLANNING AGENCY CHIEF HIDEYUKI AIZAWA, SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY AGENCY CHIEF TOMOJI OSHIMA, AND KEIWA OKUDA, CHAIRMAN OF THE NATIONAL PUBLIC SAFETY COMMISSION.

TOKYO (AUG. 28) KYODO - TOYOTA MOTOR CORP. WAS JAPAN'S TOP CORPORATE INCOME EARNER IN FISCAL 1989 FOR THE SECOND YEAR IN A ROW, THE NATIONAL TAX ADMINISTRATION AGENCY SAID TUESDAY.

THE GOVERNMENT TAX WATCHDOG SAID ITS SURVEY OF 3,494 CORPORATIONS CAPITALIZED AT 1 BILLION YEN OR MORE FOUND THAT TOYOTA HELD ON TO THE NO. 1 POSITION BY DECLARING 573,261 MILLION YEN IN TAXABLE INCOME FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDED ON MARCH 31. THE NUMBER OF POLLEES WAS UP BY 264 FROM THE PREVIOUS YEAR.

THE COMPANIES POLLED DECLARED INCOME TOTALING A RECORD 24,291.4 BILLION YEN, EXCEEDING THE AMOUNT DECLARED THE PREVIOUS YEAR BY 1,528.7 BILLION YEN, THE SURVEY SHOWED.

AS A RESULT, THEY PAID A TOTAL OF 8,266.0 BILLION YEN IN TAXES, ALSO A RECORD, IT SAID.

BUT THE AVERAGE DECLARED INCOME EDGED DOWN 1.3 PERCENT TO 6,952 MILLION YEN PER COMPANY, SUGGESTING THAT HIGH INTEREST RATES AND THE YEN'S WEAKNESS HAVE SQUEEZED CORPORATE EARNINGS.

REFLECTING THEIR STRONG MONEY-MAKING POWER, FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS SUCH AS BANKS AND BROKERAGE HOUSES CAPTURED 25 SLOTS ON THE LIST OF TOP 50 INCOME EARNERS, THE SURVEY SHOWED.

NOMURA SECURITIES CO. AND THREE OTHER BIG BROKERAGE HOUSES MADE STRONG SHOWINGS WITH THE HELP OF ROBUST COMMISSION EARNINGS ON BOND OFFERINGS, WITH NOMURA PUSHING ITS RANK UP TO SECOND FROM SIXTH THE PREVIOUS YEAR.

WITH HIGHER INTEREST RATES INFLATING THEIR FUND-RAISING COSTS, MAJOR BANKS FELL IN THE RANKINGS, WITH THE SINGLE EXCEPTION OF SANWA BANK, ACCORDING TO THE AGENCY.

SANWA BANK CAME FIFTH ON THE LIST, UP FROM EIGHTH SLOT THE PREVIOUS YEAR, APPARENTLY HELPED BY THE JAPANESE CURRENCY'S WEAKNESS THAT RAISED THE YEN VALUE OF ITS RELATIVELY LARGE HOLDINGS OF DOLLAR-DENOMINATED ASSETS.

THE NATION'S BIG STEELMAKERS DID NOT APPEAR ON THE LIST AS THEIR SALES WERE ERODED BY THE INCREASED COST OF IMPORTING RAW MATERIALS AS A RESULT OF THE YEN'S DECLINE.

AMONG NEWCOMERS ON THE LIST WERE EAST JAPAN RAILWAY CO., JAPAN TOBACCO INC. AND SONY CORP.

FOLLOWING ARE THE TOP 10 CORPORATE INCOME EARNERS, WITH THEIR DECLARED INCOME IN MILLIONS OF YEN FOLLOWED BY YEAR-TO-YEAR PERCENTAGE CHANGES (THE PREVIOUS YEAR'S RANKS IN PARENTHESES):

TOKYO (AUG. 28) KYODO - CAPITAL INVESTMENT BY JAPAN'S LEADING FIRMS WILL SCORE DOUBLE-DIGIT GROWTH FOR THE THIRD YEAR IN A ROW IN FISCAL 1990, ACCORDING TO A SURVEY RELEASED TUESDAY BY THE LONG-TERM CREDIT BANK OF JAPAN.

BOOSTED BY MEASURES TO RAISE PRODUCTIVITY AND DEAL WITH THE NATION'S TIGHT LABOR MARKET, 1,492 FIRMS SURVEYED BY THE BANK PLAN TO SPEND 14.3 PERCENT MORE ON NEW PLANT AND EQUIPMENT IN THE YEAR ENDING NEXT MARCH THAN THE PREVIOUS YEAR, THE SURVEY SHOWED.

CAPITAL INVESTMENT ALREADY PLANNED FOR FISCAL 1991 SHOWS AN INCREASE OF ONLY 2.4 PERCENT, BUT THE RATE IS LIKELY TO BE REVISED UPWARD IN THE MONTHS AHEAD BECAUSE MANY FIRMS HAVE NOT YET MAPPED OUT CONCRETE SPENDING STRATEGIES THAT FAR AHEAD, THE BANK SAID.

THE SURVEY WAS TAKEN BEFORE THE IRAQI INVASION OF KUWAIT, SO IT DOES NOT REFLECT THE IMPACT OF HIGHER OIL PRICES ON THE FIRMS' SPENDING PLANS, BANK ECONOMISTS SAID.

OIL PRICES HOVERING IN THE PRICE RANGE OF 25-30 DOLLARS PER BARREL WILL NOT ALTER THE FUNDAMENTAL TRENDS, HOWEVER, SINCE INDIVIDUAL FIRMS' SPENDING PLANS ARE BASED ON LONG-TERM PROJECTIONS, THEY SAID.

THE MANUFACTURING SECTOR PLANS TO INCREASE INVESTMENT IN PLANT AND EQUIPMENT BY 20.1 PERCENT, A JUMP OF OVER 20 PERCENT FOR THE THIRD STRAIGHT FISCAL YEAR.

THE ECONOMISTS SAID THE HEFTY INCREASE WAS LED BY STRONG GROWTH IN THE AUTOMOTIVE INDUSTRY.

THE NONMANUFACTURING SECTOR PLANS TO BOOST INVESTMENT BY 11.5 PERCENT. DESPITE DECLINES IN THE YEN AND THE STOCK AND BOND MARKETS, THE OVERALL FIGURE FOR FISCAL 1990 WAS REVISED UPWARD 3.1 PERCENT OVER A PRELIMINARY SURVEY TAKEN EARLIER THIS YEAR, THE BANK SAID.

THIS WAS DUE CHIEFLY TO HIGH CORPORATE EARNINGS AND A FEELING THAT MANY FIRMS ARE SHORT OF SUPPLY CAPACITY AMID THE SECOND-LONGEST ECONOMIC EXPANSION SINCE WORLD WAR II, THE ECONOMISTS SAID.

FUND-RAISING PLANS BY FIRMS SHOWED THAT 44.8 PERCENT WERE PLANNING TO TURN TO THEIR OWN FUNDS, COMPARED TO 37.9 PERCENT THE PREVIOUS FISCAL YEAR.

TOKYO (AUG. 28) KYODO - THE GULF CRISIS COULD BE A HARBINGER OF THINGS TO COME IN ASIA, ACCORDING TO A LEADING JAPANESE EXPERT ON NATIONAL SECURITY AND CRISIS MANAGEMENT.

"WHEN IRAQ CONQUERED KUWAIT, I THOUGHT MY WORST ANXIETY HAD COME TRUE ABOUT THE SPREAD OF LOCAL MILITARY CONTINGENTS TO SMALL AND MIDDLE-SIZED POWERS," SAID ATSUYUKI SASSA, FORMER DIRECTOR GENERAL OF THE CABINET SECURITY AFFAIRS OFFICE, THE GOVERNMENT'S NERVE CENTER FOR CRISIS MANAGEMENT.

"IT COULD HAPPEN IN NORTH KOREA, VIETNAM, AND MAYBE INDIA," THE FORMER OFFICER OF COUNTERESPIONAGE AND DEFENSE COUNCILLOR TO THE DEFENSE AGENCY CHIEF SAID IN A RECENT INTERVIEW.

SASSA CITED A SOVIET "BARGAIN SALE" OF CONVENTIONAL WEAPONS, AND THE TRANSFORMATION FROM A BIPOLAR TO A MULTIPOLAR WORLD AS MAJOR REASONS FOR THE INCREASED LIKLIHOOD OF REGIONAL CONFLICTS.

"THE U.S.-SOVIET CONFRONTATION WAS IN THE NATIONAL INTEREST OF OTHER COUNTRIES BECAUSE IT WAS A VERY SIMPLE CONFRONTATION," SAID SASSA.

"IN JAPAN, WE ONLY HAD TO COORDINATE AND NEGOTIATE WITH THE UNITED STATES, SO THE STRUCTURE WAS VERY SIMPLE." SAID THE HEAD OF THE OFFICE FROM ITS FOUNDING IN 1986 TO LAST SUMMER.

SASSA SAID FEW COUNTRIES HAVE BEEN ABLE TO KEEP PACE WITH THE CHANGING SECURITY STRUCTURE FOLLOWING THE SUPERPOWERS' TURNING THE CONRNER ON THE COLD WAR AT LAST YEAR'S SUMMIT IN MALTA.

THE CHANGE HAS RESULTED IN DECREASED DETERRENCE OF LOCAL CONFLICTS, PARTICULARLY AMONG SMALL AND MEDIUM POWERS LIKE LIBYA, IRAN, NORTH KOREA, AND SOME SOUTH AMERICAN COUNTRIES WHICH HAVE INCREASING ACCESS TO INEXPENSIVE WEAPONS, HE SAID.

"THE U.S. AND SOVIET UNION ARE NEGOTIATING TO SELL WEAPONS, THAT'S WHAT WE ARE AFRAID OF," HE SAID.

SASSA ADVOCATED A STEPPED-UP DIPLOMATIC ROLE FOR JAPAN IN THE GULF CRISIS

TO AVOID BEING BRANDED AN "ECONOMIC MONSTER" AND COMMON ENEMY OF THE WEST FOLLOWING IMPROVED RELATIONS WITH THE SOVIET UNION.

THE CABINET SECURITY AFFAIRS OFFICE WAS LAUNCHED TO HELP COORDINATE RESPONSES AMONG THE VARIOUS GOVERNMENT AGENCIES, PARTICULARLY DURING HIJACKINGS, HOSTAGE CRISES, AND OTHER EMERGENCIES.

CHIEF CABINET SECRETARY MISOJI SAKAMOTO SAID MONDAY THE OFFICE HAS NOT BEEN ACTIVATED TO STREAMLINE JAPAN'S RESPONSE TO THE GULF CRISIS BECAUSE IT EXISTS "FOR THE DEFENSE AND SECURITY OF JAPAN," AND THAT THE GULF CRISIS INVOLVES A MORE GLOBAL APPROACH.

TOKYO (AUG. 28) KYODO - THE FOREIGN MINISTRY ON TUESDAY ANNOUNCED A 580 BILLION YEN BUDGET PROPOSAL FOR FISCAL 1991 THAT INCLUDES A REQUEST FOR SOME 150 MILLION YEN TO SUPPORT PERESTROIKA IN THE SOVIET UNION AND PROMOTE YOUTH EXCHANGES WITH THAT COUNTRY.

THIS IS THE FIRST TIME THAT THE FOREIGN MINISTRY HAS INCLUDED IN ITS ANNUAL BUDGET PROPOSAL A REQUEST FOR MONEY AIMED AT THE SOVIET UNION. POSTWAR TIES BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES HAVE SUFFERED FROM EAST-WEST ANTAGONISM AND A TERRITORIAL DISPUTE.

OFFICIALS SAID THE MONEY WOULD GO TOWARD A PLAN FOR SENDING JAPANESE EXPERTS TO THE SOVIET UNION TO PROVIDE ''INTELLECTUAL ASSISTANCE'' AND TO INVITE SOVIET YOUTHS TO VISIT JAPAN.

THE REQUEST WAS INCLUDED IN THE MINISTRY'S PROPOSAL FOR SOME 2 BILLION YEN TO ALLOW JAPAN TO RESPOND TO THE CHANGES THAT HAVE SWEPT THE SOVIET UNION AND EASTERN EUROPE, THE OFFICIALS SAID.

THE MINISTRY'S BUDGET REQUEST OF 580.2 BILLION YEN FOR THE COMING FISCAL YEAR IS AN 8.7 INCREASE OVER THE CURRENT 533.9 BILLION YEN BUDGET. JAPAN'S FISCAL YEAR BEGINS IN APRIL.

SOME 455.3 BILLION YEN WAS REQUESTED FOR OFFICIAL DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE (ODA), A 9.7 PERCENT RISE OVER THE 415.1 BILLION YEN FOR THE CURRENT FISCAL YEAR. GRANT AID IS TO BE INCREASED FROM THE CURRENT 201.1 BILLION YEN TO 214.8 BILLION YEN.

THE FOREIGN MINISTRY'S ODA BUDGET IN THE CURRENT FISCAL YEAR ACCOUNTED FOR ROUGHLY HALF OF JAPAN'S TOTAL ODA BUDGET OF 817.5 BILLION YEN.

SO THAT JAPAN CAN BETTER DEAL WITH PROBLEMS THAT CONFRONT HUMANITY AS A WHOLE, SUCH AS ENVIRONMENTAL DEPREDATION AND DRUG ABUSE, THE MINISTRY REQUESTED AN INCREASE FOR THAT CATEGORY FROM THE CURRENT 2.1 BILLION YEN

TO 4.6 BILLION YEN.

ONE OFFICIAL SAID THE FOREIGN MINISTRY PLANS TO OPEN TALKS WITH MOSCOW IN THE NEAR FUTURE ON THE PROSPECT OF INVITING SOVIET YOUTHS TO JAPAN AS PART OF A PROJECT AIMED AT ENHANCING MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES.

HE NOTED THAT SHINTARO ABE, A KEY POLITICAL FIGURE IN THE RULING LIBERAL DEMOCRATIC PARTY (LDP), PROPOSED IN A MEETING WITH SOVIET PRESIDENT MIKHAIL GORBACHEV LAST JANUARY THAT JAPAN WELCOME 1,000 SOVIETS YOUTHS OVER A PERIOD OF THREE YEARS.

AN LDP SPOKESMAN SAID LAST WEDNESDAY THAT 200 YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN WOULD BE INVITED TO JAPAN FROM SEPTEMBER 10-21, ANOTHER 500 IN 1991, AND 300 IN 1992.

TOKYO (AUG. 28) KYODO - TRANSPORT MINISTER AKIRA ONO ON TUESDAY CALLED ON THREE JAPANESE AIRLINES AND A SHIPOWNER ORGANIZATION TO PROVIDE AIRCRAFT AND SHIPS AS PART OF JAPAN'S CONTRIBUTION TO INTERNATIONAL EFFORTS TO RESOLVE THE GULF CRISIS, MINISTRY OFFICIALS SAID.

ONO CALLED MATSUO TOSHIMITSU, PRESIDENT OF JAPAN AIRLINES CO., AKIO KONDO, PRESIDENT OF ALL NIPPON AIRWAYS CO, TAKEO HORI, PRESIDENT OF NIPPON CARGO AIRLINES CO., AND HIROSHIGE MATSUNARI, CHAIRMAN OF THE JAPANESE SHIPOWNERS' ASSOCIATION, TO HIS OFFICE AND MADE THE REQUEST.

ONO WAS QUOTED AS TELLING THE FOUR EXECUTIVES THAT AIRCRAFT AND SHIPS WILL BE USED TO TRANSPORT NONMILITARY ITEMS SUCH AS WATER, FOOD, AND MEDICAL SUPPLIES TO THE MULTINATIONAL FORCE IN THE PERSIAN GULF REGION.

THE TRANSPORT MINISTER ADDED THAT AIRCRAFT PROVIDED BY THE AIRLINE COMPANIES WILL ONLY SHUTTLE BETWEEN JAPAN AND THE MIDDLE EAST COUNTRIES.

THE FOUR EXECUTIVES PROMISED ONO THAT THEY WILL RESPOND TO THE GOVERNMENT REQUEST ON WEDNESDAY MORNING.

WASHINGTON HAS REPORTEDLY ASKED JAPAN TO PROVIDE CIVILIAN AIRCRAFT AND SHIPS TO HELP SEND U.S. TROOPS AND PERSONNEL TO THE GULF.

JAPAN'S CONSTITUTION BANS SENDING SELF-DEFENSE FORCES PERSONNEL ABROAD, BUT A GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL SAID MONDAY THAT THERE IS NO LEGAL PROBLEM IN PROVIDING JAPANESE CIVIL AIRCRAFT AND SHIPS TO TRANSPORT MILITARY PERSONNEL AND MATERIAL TO THE GULF.

JAPAN HAS BEEN STUDYING A PACKAGE OF MIDDLE EAST POLICIES WITH A VIEW TO

MAKING A CONCRETE CONTRIBUTION TO THE MULTINATIONAL EFFORTS TO EASE MOUNTING TENSIONS IN THE GULF AREA,

THE PACKAGE IS LIKELY TO INCLUDE SENDING JAPANESE MEDICAL TEAMS AND OTHER RELIEF MEASURES FOR KUWAITI REFUGEES IN SAUDI ARABIA AS WELL AS ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE FOR MIDDLE EAST COUNTRIES, WHICH ARE SUFFERING ECONOMICALLY DUE TO INTERNATIONAL SANCTIONS IMPOSED AGAINST IRAQ FOR ITS AUGUST 2 INVASION OF KUWAIT.

THE PACKAGE IS EXPECTED TO BE ANNOUNCED ON WEDNESDAY.

TOKYO (AUG. 28) KYODO - NICHIMEN CORP. ANNOUNCED TUESDAY IT WILL ESTABLISH AN AIRCRAFT LEASING COMPANY BY THE END OF SEPTEMBER IN A JOINT PROJECT WITH TWO MAJOR JAPANESE BANKS AND THREE EUROPEAN AND U.S. FIRMS.

THE JOINT VENTURE, GATX CL AIR, WILL LEASE ITS OWN PLANES TO AIRLINES, A PRACTICE KNOWN AS AN OPERATING LEASE.

NICHIMEN, A MAJOR JAPANESE GENERAL TRADING COMPANY, SAID OPERATING LEASES ARE MORE PROFITABLE THAN OTHER LEASING ARRANGEMENTS DESIGNED PRIMARILY TO FINANCE AIRCRAFT PURCHASES BY AIRLINES.

ACCORDING TO INDUSTRY SOURCES, ABOUT 17 PERCENT OF SOME 8,300 PASSENGER PLANES NOW IN SERVICE WORLDWIDE ARE HELD UNDER OPERATING LEASES.

THE JOINT VENTURE PLANS TO HOLD A TOTAL 26 AIRCRAFT, INCLUDING 20 AIRBUS A320S, AND WILL BASE ITS SALES ACTIVITY IN PARIS TO MAKE INROADS INTO THE AMERICAN AND EUROPEAN MARKETS.

NICHIMEN, SANWA BANK AND MITSUBISHI BANK WILL EACH OWN 10 PERCENT OF THE NEW COMPANY, WHICH WILL BE CAPITALIZED AT 200 MILLION DOLLARS.

GATX CAPITAL OF THE U.S. AND CREDIT LYONNAIS OF FRANCE WILL EACH HOLD A 30 PERCENT STAKE, WITH THE REMAINING 10 PERCENT TO BE OWNED BY U.S. FINANCIAL AND INSURANCE FIRMS, NICHIMEN OFFICIALS SAID.

THE COMPANY'S HEADQUARTERS WILL BE LOCATED IN THE DUTCH ANTILLES, THEY SAID.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Nycal Corporation (NASDAQ-NMS: NYCL) today announced the signing of a definitive agreement with Claremont Petroleum (USA) Pty. Ltd. ("Claremont") and Moage, Inc. ("Moage"), which implemented a previously announced letter of intent dated Aug. 10, 1990, to acquire stock, producing oil and gas properties and certain other assets from Claremont and Moage.

Upon signing the agreement Nycal placed $400,000 in escrow pending closing of the acquisition, which, combined with a $100,000 deposit paid upon signing the letter of intent, will be applied against the purchase price of the assets at closing. Closing of the acquisition is scheduled for Oct. 1, 1990.

The agreement provides for Nycal to acquire a total of approximately 9.4 million shares (approximately 76 percent) of the common stock of Woodbine Petroleum, Inc. (NASDAQ: WDBN), an independent oil and gas exploration company located in Dallas, and a convertible note in the principal amount of $630,000 issued by Woodbine. In addition, Nycal will acquire producing and non-producing oil and gas properties from Claremont and Moage. The total purchase price for the acquisition is $5 million, consisting of $3.5 million in cash at closing and assumption of existing bank debt of $1.5 million.

PORTLAND, OR (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - WTD Industries, Inc. (NASDAQ: WTDI), reported a net loss of $7.3 million or $1.17 per share for the quarter ended July 31, 1990, compared with net income of $6.4 million or $.95 per fully diluted share for the same period in 1989. First quarter sales were $97.8 million, down 19 percent from the comparable period last year. The decrease in sales was primarily attributable to lower lumber and chip prices, which were approximately 17 percent below last year's level. "As expected, the poor lumber market and depressed industry-wide conditions which existed in the fourth quarter of fiscal 1990 have extended into our new fiscal year. The continued imbalance between raw material and finished goods prices in our primary operating area, the Pacific Northwest did not allow profitable operations," said WTD's president, Bruce L. Engel.

"Despite the quarterly loss, net cash flow used for operations was only $1.5 million during the quarter, mostly because of cash generated from reductions in inventories and accounts receivables. Borrowing on our operating line of credit remains essentially unchanged from April 30, 1990. Moreover, we currently have on hand over $5 million in cash and short-term investments. At the end of the first quarter, our working capital was approximately $32.9 million. We are confident that cash on-hand, cash available under our operating line, and proceeds from tax refunds and other sources will be adequate to carry us through these adverse times," he stated.

"We believe that the cyclical supply and demand problem facing lumber producers will correct itself, as it has historically. Profitability within the industry should be restored by the combination of lower log costs, less production, and higher product prices," Engel continued.

"As we look ahead, we see several encouraging signs. First, lumber production in the western United States has begun to fall as a result of production curtailments. According to the Western Wood Products Association, western lumber production in July 1990 fell 11 percent from the volume produced in July 1989. Second, log prices at the majority of our mills have fallen this month compared to prices paid in July, an indication that log prices have peaked. Third, chip prices appear to have bottomed and are expected to increase modestly in our second quarter. We remain confident in our strategy of being a low cost producer of lumber manufactured out of smaller, second-growth logs," Engel concluded.

RICHMOND, VA (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Ice cream novelty. The name has suggested something new, unusual and good tasting for seven decades.

That meaning persists today with the introduction of Fat Freedom(TM) Eskimo Pie(R) Sandwich. Eskimo Pie Corporation, the company that invented the ice cream novelty business, is the first to use Simplesse(R) all natural fat substitute in a frozen novelty. Fat Freedom Eskimo Pie Sandwich creates the rich, creamy taste of a regular ice cream sandwich by using Simplesse and a specially, formulated fat free wafer.

"The combination of an established brand like Eskimo Pie with Simplesse," remarks Dave Clark, president and COO of Eskimo Pie Corporation, "gives consumers a product that they can trust with the appealing feature of reduced fat."

According to Clark, Eskimo Pie has been developing a fat free product for some time, but Simplesse provided the taste breakthrough the company was looking for.

"Consumers are demanding reduced fat foods," Clark continues, "but they are unwilling to sacrifice taste. Fat Freedom Eskimo Pie gives them the taste they expect from a frozen dessert yet none of the fat."

Simplesse, which was introduced earlier this year, is an all natural ingredient that replaces butter fat, a high saturated fat, high-cholesterol ingredient commonly used in traditional ice creams. Simplesse all natural fat substitute is made from egg white and milk protein that is cooked and blended to make a creamy, rich ingredient with the texture of fat.

Fat Freedom Eskimo Pie Sandwich is the second product to use Simplesse. The first is Simple Pleasures(R) frozen dairy dessert, which was introduced earlier this year by The Simplesse Company. Fat Freedom will initially be distributed in a six-state midwestern region, plus Richmond, Virginia, Eskimo Pie's home. National distribution is expected in 1991.

Eskimo Pie Corporation invented the first chocolate covered ice cream bar in 1921. The Company markets a number of frozen snacks throughout the United States and Canada, including Traditional and Sugar Free Eskimo Pie frozen dairy novelties.

The Simplesse Company is a division of The NutraSweet Company, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Monsanto Company (NYSE: MTC). Simplesse all natural fat substitute and Simple Pleasures frozen dairy dessert are products of The Simplesse Company.

SHERMAN OAKS, CA (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Continuing the strong operating trend of the first quarter, House of Fabrics Inc. (NYSE: HF) achieved substantially higher earnings on increased sales in the second quarter and first six months of fiscal 1991.

For the three months ended July 31, 1990, the seasonally slowest quarter of the year, net income advanced to $703,000, equal to 11 cents per share, from a loss of $119,000, or 2 cents per share, in the corresponding period last year. Average shares outstanding were 6,126,620 this year, compared to 6,843,906 a year ago, reflecting the company's repurchase of its shares.

Sales for the second quarter increased 7.4 percent to $87,358,000 from $81,331,000 in the corresponding quarter a year ago.

For the first half, net income rose to $2,857,000, or 45 cents per share, from $1,220,000, or 18 cents per share, in the like period last year. Sales for the six months increased 8 percent to $173,777,000 from $160,799,000 in the same period last year.

Gary L. Larkins, president and chief executive officer, said: "As in the first quarter, the key to House of Fabrics' significant gains is our prime emphasis on super store development and operations. We have been making the transition gradually from the smaller, mall-located units to much larger super stores, averaging 12,000 square feet of space. This process has been under way for several years and now with about 70 percent of the transition completed, the benefits of the conversion process are gaining momentum.

"The simplest demonstration of those benefits is shown in the sales results for the quarter. At the end of the most recent quarter we had 610 stores in operation, compared to 646 at the same time a year ago. In spite of that decrease, we still achieve increased revenues. Like store sales rose 10 percent in the second quarter.

"Is is also important to note that we have seen our super stores gain additional strength as they mature. We anticipate a double benefit in the coming years as we complete the conversions and the newer super stores further develop."

House of Fabrics Inc. is the nation's largest chain of company owned and operated retail fabric stores with 613 currently in operation.

EL MONTE, CA (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - The Birtcher Corp. (NASDAQ: BIRT) posted sharply increased sales and earnings in its fourth quarter, William E. Maya, president and chief executive officer, announced today.

Primarily because of certain non-recurring expenses associated with the consolidation of a major strategic acquisition and reserves established for the cost of discontinuing certain products, the company reported lower net income for the year, on significantly higher sales.

For the three months ended June 30, 1990, sales climbed to $6,752,000 from $2,104,000 in the like period a year ago. Net income rose to $411,000, equal to eight cents per share, from $202,000, or four cents per share, in the prior year's final period.

For the year, sales increased to $18,275,000 from $6,915,000 in fiscal 1989. Net income of $31,000 was achieved and after payment of preferred dividends a net loss per share of common stock of 11 cents was recorded, compared to net income of $946,000, or 20 cents per share, in the prior fiscal year.

The decline in earnings for fiscal 1990 reflects non-recurring expenses and costs for discontinuing certain products of approximately $1 million which were recorded in the second quarter.

Maya commented: "We are convinced that Birtcher's fourth quarter results are a clear indication of the company's growth prospects in the coming year. Our acquisition of Bard Electromedical Systems Inc., was a strategic one as it brought Birtcher a revolutionary new technology in electrosurgery, the Argon Beam Coagulator (ABC). The ABC offers substantial clinical and technological advantages over conventional electrosurgery. In an effort to broaden the ABC market, we are developing additional products to increase the number of potential surgical applications.

"The improved sales and earnings in the fourth quarter are a reflection of our initial success in capitalizing on the ABC's existing clinical advantages in a number of procedures. We see excellent opportunities for growth both by increasing the present ABC's market penetration domestically and internationally, and by developing new products and creating new markets for the ABC."

The Birtcher Corp. designs, manufactures, distributes and sells a variety of electronic medical instruments and their related disposable supplies for all segments of the health care industry worldwide.

CHICAGO (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Santa Fe Pacific Corporation (NYSE: SFX) (SFP) announced that it was modifying and extending its offer to exchange shares of common stock and cash for up to $200 million principal amount of its outstanding 16 percent senior subordinated debentures due 2003. As originally announced, the exchange offer was to have expired at midnight, August 27.

The original exchange offer was subject to a minimum exchange value of $18 per share, based upon the average of the closing prices of SFP stock for ten trading days ending on Aug. 27. Although the company's stock was trading above $19 when the exchange offer was announced on July 31, as a result of the recent broad downturn in the market average for the period in question was below the minimum.

Robert O. Krebs, chairman, president and chief executive officer of SFP, said that more tan $145 million principal amount of debentures had been tendered before the original expiration date. "Rather than proceed with the exchange of those debentures, however, we felt that in fairness to our investors we should modify the offer. We have therefore reduced the minimum exchange value to $15 per share, and extended the offer to September 11," he announced. The actual exchange value will be based upon the average of the closing prices per share of Santa Fe common stock as reported on the New York Stock Exchange composite tape for the ten trading days ending on Sept. 11.

Those who have already tendered their debentures will receive the benefit of the revised terms, Krebs said.

#90240p9225 08/28/1990 ~PR Newswire

SHELTON, CT (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Raytech Corp. (NYSE: RAY) today announced that net income for the second quarter ended July 1, 1990, was $2.5 million compared to $1.8 million in the second quarter of last year.

Earnings per share equated to $.48 compared to $.28 per share a year earlier.

Raytech's net sales for the second quarter were $36.8 million, an increase of $7 million, or 24 percent over the same period last year. This increase is attributable primarily to sales at the newly established Allomatic Products Co., which equalled $5.7 million. Without Allomatic's sales contribution, sales increased $1.3 million, or 4 percent compared to 1989's results. This primarily is a result of increased demand within the heavy duty product market segment.

Net sales of $71.7 million during the first six months of 1990 increased $11.4 million, or 19 percent compared with the first six months of 1989. Excluding sales of $10.9 million for Allomatic Products Co. for 1990, sales increased $549,000 or 1 percent compared with 1989.

Net income for the first six months of 1990 was $6.4 million, or $1.22 per share compared to $2.9 million, or $.47 per share in 1989. Excluding an extraordinary gain of $2.6 million resulting from early extinguishment of debt, the company's net income for the first six months was $3.8 million for an improvement of 31 percent vs. 1989.

The major factors contributing to the increase in earnings per share relate to the following programs:

1. Control of the dilution of Raytech stock. The company purchased 2.2 million shares, or about 40 percent of the potential outstanding common stock in 1989.

2. Reduction of the corporate long-term debt. As a result of the early extinguishment of debt and subsequent elimination of five years of future interest payments, Raytech was able to effectively reduce outstanding principle and interest obligations by $13 million.

3. The Raybestos Products Co. paper making manufacturing process now is fully operational and performing as planned. The company realized significant improvements in Raybestos Products Co.'s performance in the first quarter of 1990, and this trend in expected to continue.

Raytech Corp. is headquartered in Shelton, with operations serving world markets for energy absorption and power transmission products, as well as fasteners and custom-engineered components.

JACKSON, MI (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Consumers Power Company set an all-time record electric peak demand Monday as humid Michigan weather drove the utility's electric system to an unofficial sendout of 5,881 megawatts for the hour ending at 5 p.m.

The new all-time hourly peak surpasses the previous hourly peak record of 5,869 megawatts set Aug. 17, 1988.

Purchases of electric power from the Midland Cogeneration Venture, which began operating earlier this year, helped the utility serve customers' record power demand.

Consumers Power Company, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy Corporation (NYSE: CMS), is Michigan's largest utility serving almost 6 million of the state's 9 million residents in 67 of the 68 Lower Peninsula counties.

PITTSBURGH (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Mellon Bank Corp. (NYSE: MEL) announced today that it is considering the sale of the corporate account segment of its Corporate Trust Group, part of the Corporation's Trust and Investment Department.

In the Corporate Trust Group, Mellon serves as trustee for both corporate and municipal debt issues.

In making the announcement, Mellon said it has obtained expressions of interest from a number of prospective buyers, and that it expects to complete a bidding process and reach an agreement of sale in the fourth quarter of 1990. The corporation indicated it intends to remain active in the municipal account segment of the business.

The corporate account segment includes nearly 1,500 issues for which Mellon currently serves as trustee and has annual revenue of approximately $5 million.

Where transfer to another trustee is restricted for a particular type of corporate account, Mellon may choose to retain the account. Mellon's Trust and Investment Department is one of the largest trust operations in the United States, offering a comprehensive range of investment and other services to corporate pension funds, foundations and endowments, financial institutions and private clients.

With assets of $31.7 billion at June 30, 1990, Mellon Bank Corp. is one of the nation's largest bank holding companies. Through its subsidiaries, it provides wholesale, middle market and retail banking, as well as numerous service products including trust and investment, cash management and financial data processing.

PHILADELPHIA (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Mellon Bank (NYSE: MEL) has committed $250,000 to the University of Pennsylvania to be used as fellowships for minority Ph.D. candidates in the School of Arts and Sciences.

The gift supports two scholarships each year for 10 years. "Mellon's generous gift permits us to address the severe shortage of minority graduate students in higher education," said Frederick C. Nahm, vice president of development and university relations for the University of Pennsylvania.

"Penn is strongly committed to attracting the best minority Ph.D. applicants to its programs. This fellowship begins to do that."

Nahm noted that a large number of Penn's minority Ph.D. graduates, though recruited nationwide, take up residence in the Delaware Valley after earning their degrees and become influential citizens.

"Investing in education is a very positive way for Mellon to demonstrate its commitment to the community where we do business," said Tom Donovan, chairman of Mellon Bank in Philadelphia. "The University of Pennsylvania has an outstanding reputation for educational excellence and we are confident that our contribution will make a difference."

Mellon Fellows will be chosen through a review committee set up by the university. Selection will be based on academic credentials. There will be a public service component, committing fellowship recipients to spend a certain amount of time helping the Philadelphia community.

Mellon Bank also supports a Minority Scholarship Program that provides up to 10 scholarships annually to gifted minority students enrolled in undergraduate programs at selected Pennsylvania schools. These scholarships include paid internships at Mellon locations in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

At June 30, 1990, Mellon Bank in Philadelphia (Mellon Bank and PSFS) had assets of $9.2 billion, deposits of $8 billion and 120 branch offices. On May 18, Mellon completed its purchase of 54 PSFS branches. With assets of $31.7 billion at June 30, 1990, Mellon Bank Corp. is one of the nation's largest bank holding companies. Through its subsidiaries, it provides wholesale, middle market and retail banking, as well as numerous banking service products including trust and investment, data processing and cash management.

ST. PAUL, MN (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Merrill Corporation (NASDAQ: MRLL) today announced record operating results for the six-month period ended July 31, 1990.

Revenue for the six months was $47,768,000, an increase of 56 percent from $30,669,000 for the same period a year ago. Net income for the six months was $2,282,000, or 62 cents per share, compared to a net loss of $(844,000), or (23) cents per share, last year.

Revenue for the second fiscal quarter, also a Company record, was $24,480,000, an increase of 72 percent from $14,212,000 in the second quarter a year ago. Net income for the quarter was $922,000, or 25 cents per share, compared to a net loss of $(1,702,000), or (45) cents per share last year.

Results for both prior-year periods included a non-operating charge of approximately $1.8 million, or 48 cents per share, from the write-off of the Company's investment in Sorg, Inc.

Merrill President and CEO, John Castro, said, "Our first-half results reflect continued revenue growth in all sectors, especially our commercial business where revenue was nearly triple last year's level. The strong improvement in volume somewhat mitigated continued competitive margin pressures, particularly in the financial and corporate sectors."

Merrill Corporation is a leading provider of on-demand 24-hour-a-day typesetting, printing, document reproduction and distribution services to financial, legal and corporate markets nationwide.

MIAMI (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Cordis Corporation (NASDAQ-NMS: CORD) today reported sharply higher sales and earnings for its fourth quarter and fiscal 1990 ended June 30.

Revenues for the three months were $46.1 million, 22 percent ahead of the corresponding prior-year period. Angiography revenues were up 26 percent while neuroscience sales were essentially flat.

Fiscal 1990 sales increased 16 percent to $163.7 million. Angiography sales, which represented 90 percent of total revenues, advanced 18 percent; neuroscience sales were basically unchanged. The net sales figure represented a 53 percent gain since fiscal 1987, the year Cordis restructured itself to focus exclusively on angiography and neuroscience.

Earnings were much improved for the quarter and the year. For the quarter, Cordis had income from continuing operations of $4.0 million, or 29 cents a share, a 97 percent gain over the prior-year period.

The disposal of two subsidiaries at the end of June - Norland Corporation and Theratek International, Inc. - resulted in a significant inflow of cash for the company, but had a minimal impact upon fourth quarter results.

The gain on the sale of Norland offset requirements in the discontinued operations reserve; the loss associated with the disposal of Theratek's assets, coupled with its loss from operations, was offset by a gain on the sale of certain company assets related to the subsidiary. In previous quarters, Theratek had been reflected on the income statement as a joint venture.

For the year, income from continuing operations was up 55 percent to $10.2 million, or 75 cents a share. Net income also finished the year at $10.2 million, compared to 1989s loss of $5.1 million, or 38 cents a share, which was due to charges to discontinued operations. The fiscal 1990 results represented Cordis' strongest earnings performance since 1984.

Miami-based Cordis Corporation manufactures and markets a variety of medical devices and systems for the angiographic and neurosurgical markets. Shares of the company's stock are traded on the NASDAQ National Market under the symbol CORD.

BOHEMIA, N.Y. (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Symbol Technologies Inc. (NYSE: SBL), the world leader in barcode-based data capture systems, today introduced the PDT 3300, the fourth member of Symbol's line of lightweight 16-bit, DOS-based portable data collectors that combine the flexibility of hand-held units with the functionality of laptop computers.

The PDT 3300 dramatically increases the capabilities of portable data computers for implementing applications in the retail, industrial, commercial and field information systems markets. Applications such as direct store delivery, shelf price auditing, inventory management, field service reporting and sales order entry can now be more easily implemented.

Through innovative packaging, the versatile PDT 3300 is designed to withstand harsh industrial environments -- including wind-blown rain and a 4-foot drop to concrete -- without loss of valuable programs or data.

"The PDT 3300 extends Symbol Technologies' product offering in the 16-bit arena," said Lester "Buck" Hill, president of Symbol Technologies Portable Systems Division located in Costa Mesa, Calif. "This is a rugged product with substantial memory capacity and a variety of options and peripherals for virtually any kind of data collection application."

Featuring DOS compatibility, the PDT 3300 allows customers to use industry standard, PC-based software tools and programs to develop application software.

In addition, application programs can be stored in non-volatile memory for lower power consumption and more efficient use of the terminal's random access memory (RAM). This innovation also allows programs to be changed without removing electronic chips or program storage cartridges from the units.

The PDT 3300, weighing only one pound and measuring 8-inches by 3.5-inches by 1.75-inches, features a real-time clock for precise time/date stamping; a moisture resistant keyboard; and an 8-line by 20-character supertwist backlit pixel-addressable display that is easy to read from almost any angle and in any lighting condition.

The Symbol Technologies PDT 3300 operates up to 40 hours on a rechargeable Nicad battery and up to 60 hours on two 9-volt alkaline batteries. The portable data computer also contains backup lithium cells to protect stored data while the main batteries are being replaced.

The PDT 3300 combines an internal modem; direct connect RS-232 full serial data communications port, which operates at speeds of up to 115.2 K baud; and external two-way acoustic communications capability to provide the user with the flexibility to communicate with the host computer at any time.

The PDT 3300 is priced beginning at $1,695 and began shipping in August 1990.

IRVINE, CA (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Gateway Communications (NASDAQ/NMS: GWAY) today announced that it has added both data compression and high speed file transfer software modules to its popular G/Remote Bridge family of IPX routers, at no additional cost.

With these new features, G/Remote Bridge provides local area network users with substantially increased throughput performance when accessing remote network information.

The new Data Compression Module (DCM) improves user response time in real-time interactive application-dependent operations by condensing the volume of information in data packets before transmission, and decompressing the data after the data packets are received.

The new File Transfer Module (FTM) streamlines batch file transfer for users requiring local processing of files stored on a remote LAN. FTM provides high speed LAN-to-LAN file movement, enabling users to process file-intensive tasks locally with better responsiveness. Once the file has been transferred, the user attends to this tasks locally.

Ed Fudurich, vice president of Research & Development explained, "Both DCM and FTM overcome performance problems caused by NetWare communications protocol and IPX transmission bottlenecks between remote LANs. As a result the speed of movement of data from LAN to LAN across communications lines public or private, is maximized."

Both data compressions and file transfer modules are built-in to the standard G/Remote Bridge family of products and are now shipping. Upgrades for existing G/Remote Bridge users are available for $300.

G/Remote Bridge functions as an IPX router to provide connections between remote NetWare LANs, regardless of LAN topology or vendor. LAN-to-LAN connections are supported via dial, leased, or fractional T1 lines, or through public or private data networks at speeds up to 56/64 kbps.

Each bridge server contains modular software providing X.25 protocol routing, DCM and FTM software modules, and is supported by a WNIM communications co-processor. Users can connect to a communications network through an RS-232-C or V.35 interface. The capacity for 128 virtual circuits per bridge provides extended traffic-carrying capabilities.

The G/Remote Bridge family consists of G/Remote Bridge, priced at $1,595, and G/X25 Gateway & Bridge, priced at $2,495, both of which operate at speeds up to 19.2 kbps. For performance at 56/64 kbps, the family includes G/Remote Bridge 64, priced at $2,495, and G/X25 Gateway & Bridge 64, priced at $3,445.

Gateway Communications Inc., designs, manufactures and markets a full range of networking and communications products for IBM and compatible personal computers. Gateway products are sold in more than 70 countries worldwide. TALLAHASSEE, FL (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - CMS/DATA Corporation (NASDAQ: LAWR), today reported revenues and earnings for the fourth quarter of 1990 and for the year ended June 30, 1990.

Fourth quarter revenues were $2,899,400, compared to $3,627,500 for the same period of the prior year. Net income for the quarter ended June 30, 1990 was $325,600, compared to $11,900 for the same quarter of the prior year.

Earnings per share for the quarter were 13 cents on 2,601,200 weighted average shares outstanding, compared to one cent on 1,800,000 weighted average shares outstanding for the same period of the prior year.

For the year ended June 30, 1990, revenues climbed to $12,506,300 from $7,409,800 for the prior fiscal year, an increase of 68.8 percent. Net income for the year ended June 30, 1990 was $1,433,700, compared to a loss of $392,700 for the prior fiscal year.

Earnings per share for the fiscal year June 30, 1990 were 71 cents on 2,005,800 weighted average shares outstanding, compared to a loss per share of 18 cents on 2,218,100 shares in the prior fiscal year.

The company attributes the increases in revenues and net income for fiscal year 1990 to the positive acceptance of its CLO 2(R) systems in the legal profession. Increases in software sales and decreases in hardware sales resulted in higher net income and lower total revenue for the fourth quarter.

The company is extremely pleased with the response it has received from its new network-based document management product PC DOCS(R). The company intends to continue its investment in research and development, sales and marketing, as well as to explore possible joint ventures or acquisitions of companies engaged in the development of software products and other computer-related businesses.

CMS/DATA Corporation designs, markets, installs, supports and integrates systems for the legal profession. In addition, the company has developed and its actively marketing PC DOCS (R) for WordPerfect(TM) and Novell(R) Users, PC DOCS(R) is distributed through computer software resellers across the United States and Canada and is targeted at businesses, government and education as well as the legal market.

ATLANTA (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - BEI Holdings Ltd. (NASDAQ: BEIH) today reported the results for the third quarter and nine months of fiscal 1990, ended July 31.

Net income for the quarter was $442,354, or $.05 per share, on combined consulting and management services and real estate development operations revenues of $9.1 million. This compares to a net loss in the third quarter of 1989 of $3,387,230, or $.35 per share, on revenues of $6.3 million. The third quarter of 1989 included $2,105,000 in non-recurring charges related to reserves for receivables and unbilled revenues, as well as certain severance costs.

For the nine months of fiscal 1990, net income was $4,201,273, or $.44 per share, on combined consulting and management services and real estate revenues of $28.1 million. This compares to a net loss of $4,776,258, or $.52 per share, inclusive of the non-recurring charges recognized in the third quarter, on revenues of $16.2 million in 1989.

Net income for the nine months of 1990 includes $3,015,000 (after provision for income taxes net of the utilization of an operating loss carryforward) from the sale of its subsidiary, ARTRAC Corp. The remaining $1,186,000 of net income is from recurring operations. Cash proceeds from the ARTRAC sale and repayments of mortgages receivable have been used to significantly reduce the debt outstanding at the beginning of fiscal 1990.

BEI is a diversified consulting firm offering specialized services to banks, thrifts, credit unions and regulatory agencies. Specific areas of expertise include earnings improvement, strategic planning, mergers and acquisitions, regulatory advice, real estate services and human resource consulting. JENKINTOWN, PA (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Flagship Financial Corp. (NASDAQ-NMS: FLGF) today announced that its board of directors has authorized the repurchase of up to 345,000 shares, or approximately ten percent, of the company's outstanding common stock.

The repurchases are authorized to be made from time to time in open market transactions during the next 12 months as, in the opinion of management, market conditions may warrant. Purchases are expected to begin in the near future and the repurchased shares will be held as treasury stock, available for general corporate purposes.

Commenting on this decision, Frank P. Felton 3rd, chairman and chief executive officer, said, "The board believes that, given our recent announcement to get significant restructuring decisions behind us, this is an opportune time for the company to purchase Flagship stock.

"In our judgment, the current price of the company's common stock, which represents a 67 percent discount from Flagship's tangible book value at June 30, 1990, does not adequately reflect the company's long-term business prospects and therefore represents an excellent investment opportunity."

According to John M. Mason, president and chief operating officer, "From a purely financial aspect, the repurchase of common stock has several benefits including an improvement in earnings per share and return on equity. Importantly, the repurchase program can be fully implemented without impairing Flagship's financial condition and each thrift subsidiary will continue to exceed the fully phased-in capital requirements."

Flagship Financial, which ranks among the ten largest publicly traded thrifts in Pennsylvania, conducts business through its wholly owned subsidiaries First American Savings and Brandywine Savings Bank.

First American currently operates 12 full-service and six "convenience" branches in Pennsylvania and New Jersey; its five New Jersey facilities are expected to be closed by year end. Brandywine Savings Bank operates nine full-service branches in Chester County, Pa. The common stock of Flagship Financial is traded on the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol FLGF.

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Samuel A. Schulhof, a former associate administrator with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, has been appointed director of the newly created Environmental Research Center at the GE Research and Development Center in Schenectady, N.Y. The announcement was made today by Dr. Walter L. Robb, GE senior vice president for corporate research and development.

Schulhof comes to GE from the University of Pittsburgh, where he served as associate vice president for research and executive vice president and chief operating officer for the University of Pittsburgh Trust.

Schulhof will be responsible for managing the Environmental Research Center, which will focus GE's efforts in environmental research and development on practical applications and marketplace opportunities for newly developed technologies. He will assume his new role on Sept. 1.

The Environmental Research Center will serve as a resource for GE's 13 key businesses and will work closely with the R&D Center's four other major technical components: the chemical research center, the electronic systems research center, the engineering physics research center, and the materials research center. Additionally, the new center will host educational forums and programs, and will seek to raise environmental consciousness throughout the company.

Prior to joining the University of Pittsburgh in 1985, Schulhof held several senior-level federal government appointments, including four years at EPA, where he served first as the deputy assistant administrator for management and then as the associate administrator for regional operations. In addition, he served as the assistant director of ACTION/Peace Corps in the Reagan administration, deputy special assistant to former Presidents Nixon and Ford, and assistant to former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot Richardson.

While at the University of Pittsburgh, Schulhof created the center for hazardous materials research, the National Environmental Technology Applications Corporation, and the National Defense Environmental Corporation. He served as chairman of the board of directors for all three organizations, which provide a wide range of technical assistance, training, applied research and commercialization services to industry and state and federal governments.

Schulhof's other activities include serving as founder and a member of the board of directors of The Institute for Cooperative Environmental Management in Philadelphia, a member of the board of directors of the Ben Franklin Center of western Pennsylvania and the Governor's Environmental Technology Fund Board, and co-chairperson of the international committee of the Environmental Protection Agency's National Advisory Council for Environmental Policy and Technology.

Schulhof was graduated from C.W. Post College of Long Island University in 1964 with a B.S. degree in business administration.

NEW YORK (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Aileen, Inc. (NYSE: AEE), a manufacturer and retailer of women's apparel, today announced the financial results of thirteen and thirty-nine week periods ended July 28, 1990.

AILEEN, INC.
Statement of Income (Unaudited)

13 weeks ended	7/28/90	7/29/89
Net sales	$17,560,000	$16,726,000
Net earnings (loss)	2,145,000	(1,319,000)
Earnings (loss) per share	.42	(.26)
39 weeks ended	7/28/90	7/29/89
Net sales	$43,560,000	$45,128,000
Net earnings (loss)	1,577,000	(3,049,000)
Earnings (loss) per share	.31	(.59)

The improved results, in the face of reduced wholesale activities, reflect an increase of 17 percent in retail store sales for the quarter over the prior year. These increased sales were generated with 23 fewer stores than were open in last year's third quarter.

Abe Oberlin, chairman of the board and president, attributed the dramatic turnaround to the success of the previously announced restructuring program, which has simplified and reduced the cost of manufacturing operations, lowered inventories and enabled the company to dispose of excess plant, machinery and equipment. The improved results also reflect the introduction of a "soft career dressing" line, which complements the traditional activewear and playwear lines. "The broader selection available to customers has received a remarkable response and enhanced profits by substantially reducing retail markdowns", according to Oberlin.

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Manville Forest Products Corp. (MFP) announced today that Manville International, B.V. has acquired the assets of Visypack Pty. Ltd., a leading producer of lithographic folding cartons in Australia, from the Pratt Group of Melbourne. Terms of the agreement were not disclosed.

"Visypack's impressive market position offers us a tremendous opportunity in our continuing effort to expand internationally, particularly in Australia and the Pacific Rim," said Thomas H. Johnson, president, Manville Forest Products.

"This acquisition complements recent acquisitions in Europe and further positions MFP as a worldwide paperboard and packaging producer." The company announced in April that it had acquired DRG Cartons Limited in Bristol, England and in June that it had acquired Fiskeby Board AB of Norrkoping, Sweden.

Johnson also said that Darcy Good, national general manager of Visypack, has been appointed Asian Pacific regional director and chief executive of the Australian Visypack operation. The present management and workforce of Visypack will be retained and the company will continue to trade under the Visypack name.

MFP will provide resources and expertise in the areas of paper, specialized packaging machinery for the beverage industry and general packaging. Good will report to Octavio Orta, MFP vice president, international.

Visypack is a leader in folding cartons and packaging for the beverage industry in Australia and has operations in South Australia, Victoria, New South Wales and Queensland. It was acquired by the Pratt Group in 1981 and has progressively expanded its market share and operations since that time. In 1989, Visypack posted gross sales of approximately US$140 million.

The Visypack acquisition satisfies Manville's obligation under its debt covenants to reinvest proceeds from the European sale of the company's refractory fiber business in foreign operations.

MFP is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Manville Corp. and is headquartered in West Monroe, La. The company is a diversified manufacturing company with major business segments in paperboard, packaging and wood products.

MFP operates a paper mill in West Monroe; nine domestic converting plants throughout the United States; one carton plant in the U.K.; a mill and converting plant in Sweden; two paper mills and three container plants in Brazil. Operating earnings in 1989 of $180 million represented approximately 49 percent of Manville Corp.'s consolidated operating earnings.

LANDOVER, MD (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Hechinger Company (NASDAQ-NMS: HECHA HECHB) which operates a chain of specialty retail do-it-yourself home centers, today announced sales and earnings for its second quarter, which ended Aug. 4, 1990.

Sales for the quarter were up 16 percent to $389.7 million from $336.9 million last year. Earnings increased ten percent to $10.8 million ($.30 per share) from $9.8 million ($.27 per share) last year. Comparable store sales were flat during the quarter.

Sales for the first half were up 20 percent to $734.3 million from $611.7 million last year. Earnings, before the nonrecurring cumulative effect of adoption of SFAS, Accounting for Income Taxes, were $19.2 million ($.53 per share) up 12 percent from $17.1 million ($.48 per share) last year. Comparable store sales were up 4 percent for the first half of the current year.

During the second quarter, two Home Quarters Warehouse stores were opened. In May, HQ opened a third store in the Charlotte market, Gastonia, N.C., and in June opened a second HQ unit in the Birmingham market, Fairfield, Ala. Expansion plans call for a third Birmingham store and a fourth Alabama store is currently under construction in Montgomery, Ala.

On Aug. 19, HQ opened its first two stores in the Boston market. The stores are located in Danvers, Mass. to the north, and in Norwood, Mass. in the southern portion of the market.

Customer reaction to the grand opening was overwhelmingly positive. The company is excited about the opportunity to service the needs of this major market with additional stores.

These units are the first of 12 to 15 planned for the greater Boston region. Three additional stores are under construction: Brockton, Mass. is scheduled to open later this year; Portland, Maine., and Shrewsbury, Mass. are scheduled for spring 1991.

The company also announced a store in Manchester, N.H., the first store in New Hampshire, as well as its first Rhode Island store in Attleboro, a suburb of Providence. Both stores are expected to open in late 1991.

In addition, in August a unit was opened in Denbigh, Va. bringing the HQ presence in the Tidewater area to five stores. The three stores opened in August are the most in any month in the company's history and are part of a plan to grow HQ to a 50-store chain with sales in excess of one billion dollars over the next three years.

The company also announced Gary Mercer will join the company on Sept. 4, 1990 as senior vice president, Store Operations, replacing Richard L. Ponton who retired.

Mr. Mercer has an extensive background in executive positions in large retail chain operations. Most recently he served as executive vice president, Store Operations, for a national chain of retail stores. In addition, the company announced that Mark R. Adams, assistant treasurer, was elected corporate secretary in addition to his current responsibilities.

Hechinger Company operates 87 Hechinger stores, 20 Home Quarters Warehouse stores and 6 Triangle Building Centers stores in 14 states and the District of Columbia.

CHICAGO (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - GATX Corp. (NYSE: GMT) announced today that GATX/CL Air, the joint venture between GATX Air and Paris-based Credit Lyonnais, has been expanded to include three Japanese investors and one United States investor.

The new participants include The Mitsubishi Bank, Limited (NYSE: MBK); Nichimen Corp.; The Sanwa Bank, Limited; and Household Commercial Financial Services, Inc. Each will take a ten percent interest.

GATX/CL Air, which specializes in aircraft operating leasing, is established in the Netherlands Antilles and operates outside of the United States. The venture will continue to be managed by GATX Air and co-managed by Credit Lyonnais.

"Building on the combination of the marketing, equipment expertise, and financial resources of Credit Lyonnais and GATX, we anticipate the addition of the new partners to help develop expanded aircraft operating leasing capabilities," stated Frederick L. Hatton, president, GATX Air. "The entry of both American and Japanese partners into this joint venture will enable us to explore further opportunities."

The initial $1 billion commitment between GATX and Credit Lyonnais was dedicated to the purchase of five Boeing 737-300s on lease to Varig, the major airline of Brazil and South America's largest airline; one Boeing 767-200ER for LAN-Chile, scheduled for delivery in January 1991; and 20 Airbus A320-200s being delivered between 1990 and 1994, including four for LACSA of Costa Rica and two for Air Inter of France. Further additions of aircraft to the portfolio are expected.

"With the introduction of the four new participants to the GATX/CL Air venture, the shares of GATX and Credit Lyonnais will be reduced to 30 percent each, and further reduced with additional participants in the future," added James M. Robertson, executive vice president, GATX Air.

GATX Air, a division of GATX Capital, San Francisco, currently owns, leases, and provides financing and remarketing services for a fleet of more than 90 commercial jet aircraft including Boeing, McDonnell Douglas and Airbus equipment. Since its inception in 1968, GATX Capital Corp. has arranged financing for equipment, for its own account and for the account of others with an original cost in excess of $10 billion.

GATX Capital is a subsidiary of GATX Corp., Chicago, a $3 billion asset-based services company which provides financial, maintenance, and management services related to rail, aircraft, bulk liquid storage terminals, warehousing, and shipping.

NASHVILLE, TENN. (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Edwin W. Moats, Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of Metropolitan Federal Savings and Loan Association (NASDAQ-NMS: MFTN) today issued the following statement:

The Association has entered into negotiations with the Cincinnati District Office of the Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) with regard to the Association's possible voluntary consent to the entry of an administrative order that would impose certain lending limitations on Metropolitan Federal, primarily designed to limit potential exposure to certain types of credit risks. This action follows the completion in February of regulatory examinations of the Association conducted by the OTS and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC).

Like other financial institutions in our area, Metropolitan Federal has been hurt by conditions in the local real estate market. As previously announced, the Association has established additional loan loss reserves consistent with the findings in the OTS and FDIC examinations. The Association's management team has been working to address these problems, and we intend to work with the regulators as well.

We do not dispute the appropriateness of limiting our activities in some ways until our risk assets can be reduced. Many such restrictions have already been initiated by management in recent months. We are in the process of negotiating an agreement to incorporate the views of both the management of Metropolitan Federal and the OTS.

Metropolitan Federal remains in full compliance with all current minimum capital requirements imposed by statute or regulation.

Metropolitan Federal, Tennessee's largest publicly-traded savings and loan with 19 offices, operates throughout the state. Metropolitan Federal's common stock is traded on the over-the-counter market in the National Market System under the NASDAQ symbol MFTN.

WINDSOR LOCKS, CONN. (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - The Dexter Corporation (NYSE: DEX), has entered into a letter of intent to purchase the assets of Moore Plastics of Cleveland, Ohio, a recognized industrywide technical innovator of preformed sealants for acoustical damping sold primarily to the North American automotive industry.

Consummation of the proposed purchase is subject to a number of conditions including the execution of a mutually satisfactory purchase and sale agreement.

Commenting on the transaction, K. Graham Walker, president and CEO, The Dexter Corporation said: "The proposed acquisition of Moore Plastics preformed sealants business, which is expected to close in the fourth quarter of 1990, is an extension of Dexter's line of high- performance materials in the form of engineered adhesives, coating and sealants now serving focused markets, one of which is the automotive industry. The Moore Plastics business will also complement the recently announced intent to acquire the CIBA-GEIGY preformed sealants business of Kansas City, Mo., further demonstrating Dexter's commitment to this focused market."

Moore Plastics will be operated as part off the Dexter Adhesives & Structural Materials Division, a supplier of engineering adhesives, mold releases and precoated headliner fabric to the automotive market. The division has manufacturing plants in California, Ohio, and New Hampshire.

The Dexter Corporation is a Fortune 500 company providing specialty materials and supporting services to customers in six major markets: aerospace, automotive, electronics, food packaging, industrial assembly and finishing, and medical. Founded in 1767, Dexter is the oldest company listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Consolidated net sales and earnings for 1989 were $849 million and $43 million respectively.

LOWELL, MASS. (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Wang Laboratories Inc. (AMEX: WAN) today announced Wang VS Ada, an Ada language compiler designed for use with Wang VS computer systems. Wang VS Ada fully conforms to the American National Standards Institute (ANSI) standard and has been validated by the Ada Joint Program Office of the U.S. Government Department of Defense (DoD).

Wang VS Ada is based on technology from Alsys, the leader in Ada language systems. "We are very excited about Wang's Ada offering," said Dr. Jean Ichbiah, president of Alsys. "With Wang's strength in the MIS community, the availability of Alsys Ada on the popular VS gives developers a unique opportunity to provide highly reliable, well engineered business solutions for government and industry."

Wang VS Ada provides users with access to Wang Integrated Image Systems and VS operating system services. The product is fully integrated with the VS operating system environment and supports subroutine calls to other programming languages supported on the VS.

"The introduction of Ada on the VS is representative of our continuing commitment to enhance the VS product line," said Ken Nappa, Wang's program manager for Languages and Tools. "Wang now offers customers a uniform line of Ada language products across all standard platforms. Our customers can combine the strengths of Ada with the power of Wang's imaging solutions to reduce their development costs and make them more productive."

One of Wang's early users, Genesis Software Inc., used Wang VS Ada to develop Prompt PayMaster, a comprehensive financial application designed for the federal government. Prompt PayMaster incorporates not only Ada and software engineering technology, but also advanced office automation technologies, such as imaging. "Using Wang VS Ada allowed us to significantly reduce our time-to-market," said Russ McDonough, chief development officer for Genesis Software. "I was very impressed by Wang's willingness to work with us."

Wang VS Ada is available immediately and is priced from $5,000 for low-end VSs to $60,000 for high-end systems.

ST. LOUIS (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Danish-brewed Carlsberg lager - the fastest growing European-brewed import in America - experienced 11.3 percent growth in U.S. sales year-to-date (through July 1990) versus the same period a year ago, it was announced by Anheuser-Busch, Inc. (NYSE: BUD), which distributes the products in the United States.

The strong growth of Carlsberg continues to overshadow the declining sales trend of the overall imported lager beer category. Carlsberg lager finished 1989 with a 22.1 percent sales increase over 1988 and the Carlsberg family (Carlsberg, Carlsberg Light and Elephant Malt Liquor) experienced an 11 percent increase in 1989. Additionally, Carlsberg draught recorded a 31 percent increase in sales-to-date (through July).

"We are extremely pleased with Carlsberg's performance," said Brian Porter, senior brand manager. "Despite the continuing softness of the import category as a whole through the first half of 1990, Carlsberg has maintained its momentum." According to Porter, wholesaler commitment and a busy promotional calendar in key markets are the main reasons for the success of Carlsberg.

Anheuser-Busch, the world's largest brewer, began importing and distributing Carlsberg and Elephant Malt Liquor in 1985; Carlsberg Light in 1986.

SAN FRANCISCO (AUG. 27) PR NEWSWIRE - Chevron Corp. today announced a new policy for employees who serve in the Military Reserve and National Guard and are called-up for active duty.

Under the policy, Chevron will make up the difference, if any, between an employee's benefits-bearing pay with Chevron at the time the leave begins and their military pay and allowances while on active-duty status.

"We have changed our policy to help Chevron employees who have been called up to support U.S. military operations in the Middle East under the president's order," said Ken Derr, chairman and chief executive officer.

"We will grant the leave for a six-month period to be consistent with the order, which authorizes an initial 90-day call-up and a possible 90-day extension. We will consider extending leaves as circumstances may dictate," he said.

Employees and their dependents may continue participating in most benefits plans in which they are enrolled at the time leave is granted, and company contributions will be continued.

Federal regulations do not require employers to continue either benefits or pay while an employee is on military leave. Although the company has done so for up to 17 days each for employees who are on "Training Duty Reservist" status, no such provisions have existed for employees who go on active duty with the military.

Preliminary estimates indicate that approximately 200 employees are members of Reserve/Guard units. Nearly half of these have been alerted for possible call-up or have been called up.

The provisions of the temporary emergency leave policy apply only to regular, full-time employees in the Military Reserve or National Guard who have been called up under the president's order. The provisions are not applicable to employees represented by unions until discussed with their bargaining agents.

LOS ANGELES (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Century Park Pictures Corporation (NASDAQ: CPPC) a developer, producer and marketer of motion picture, television and pay cable entertainment properties and family entertainment shows, said today earnings rose to $240,739, or $.09 per share, for the fiscal third period ended June 30, 1990. This compares to a loss of $127,719, or $.06 per share, for the comparable period a year ago. Revenues for the third quarter rose 97 percent to $1,126,242, compared to revenues of $571,292 a year ago.

For the nine months ended June 30, 1990, the company lost $113,363, or $.04 per share, compared to a loss of $297,991, or $.13 per share, for the comparable nine months a year ago.

Phil Rogers, president of century park pictures, said he was pleased with the company's excellent third quarter results. He attributed the sales and earnings growth to increased revenues generated from the rights acquired by Century Park's 50.1 percent owned subsidiary, Bietak Production, to create live costumed characters of Fox broadcasting's hit prime time animated cartoon show, "The Simpsons".

Bietak markets and produces six full-time units of the Simpsons characters in special appearances at theaters, theme parks, shopping centers and fairs nationwide.

"The demand for the Simpsons characters continues to be phenomenal," said Rogers, "resulting in substantial revenues and profits for Century Park Pictures as well as Bietak." He said Century Park revenues and earnings continued to grow strongly in the first month of the fourth quarter. For the month ended July 31, 1990, Century Park earned $82,506, or $.03 per share, on revenues of $474,870.

"The Simpsons" were first seen during vignette appearances on Fox Broadcasting's "Tracy Ullman Show" last year. In mid-January, 1990, "The Simpsons" were launched on a separate half hour prime time series -- the first such animated prime time program in nearly two decades.

Since that time, the show has emerged as a breakaway ratings success, catapulting into the Nielson Ratings Top 15 -- generally considered by industry experts to be an exceptional performance considering the fact that the Fox network reaches only four-fifths of the homes in the country.

Bietak, which has produced a wide array of television and theatrical productions, formerly created live shows based on animated characters of The California Raisins and Nintendo's Mario Brothers.

Century Park Pictures is a developer, producer and marketer of entertainment properties for the motion picture, television and pay cable industries. The company is a 65.2 percent owned subsidiary of Minneapolis-based International Broadcasting Corporation, owner of the Harlem Globetrotters, the Ice Capades, three regional amusement parks, the Ice Capades Chalets skating centers and Chanhassen Dinner Theatres.

NORFOLK, VA. (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - The Federal government has formally charged Farm Fresh with interfering with its employees' rights to engage in union activities.

In a complaint signed by the director of National Labor Relations Board Region 5, the company has been summoned to a hearing to answer to the charge of "interfering with, restraining and coercing employees in the exercise of ... rights" that are guaranteed under the National Labor Relations Act.

The charges stem from a series of incidents in which company officials demanded the arrest of union organizers who were participating in lawful activities in or near Farm Fresh or Food Carnival stores.

Tom McNutt, president of United Food and Commercial Workers Local 400, which has been conducting a major organizing drive at Farm Fresh, praised the government's action and said it "sends a clear signal to the company: you're not above the law. You're not running a plantation."

"Farm Fresh has been doing everything in its power to prevent its employees from hearing our message, that working people can get fair pay and decent treatment on the job through unionization," McNutt said. "Working people still have some basic rights in this country," he said,

"and no employer has the authority to deny those rights."

Farm Fresh's continuing, heavy-handed reaction to the presence of union organizers in the Tidewater area, and the warm reception they're receiving from the supermarket chain's workforce, "is panicking the company," McNutt said. "They're looking to the police to help them stay non-union. The way to stay non-union is to treat your people fairly, and Farm Fresh has proven itself incapable of that," he said.

COLUMBUS, OHIO (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - The Ford Motor Company Fund has awarded $1.25 million to The Ohio State University to establish the Ford Motor Company Chair in Electromechanical Systems in the College of Engineering.

The holder of the Ford Chair will provide leadership in the emerging field of electromechanics, a blend of the traditional disciplines of electrical and mechanical engineering. Electromechanical systems are used in the automotive industry to control engine performance, ride and handling characteristics, diagnostics, environmental monitoring devices, and maintenance warning systems.

"Ohio State's College of Engineering is experienced in forging interdisciplinary teams in emerging technological fields," said Donald D. Glower, acting vice president for communications and development and dean of the College of Engineering. "The research and leadership generated by a chair in electromechanical systems will contribute greatly to the continued success of the American automotive industry."

The College of Engineering's strengths in its electrical and mechanical engineering departments include nationally known faculty, and more than $14 million in endowed funds for transportation research, the largest university endowment devoted to this type of research in the country, Glower added.

"The Ford Motor Company Chair at The Ohio State University will serve as a marvelous model of how major corporations and universities can forge partnerships that are mutually beneficial," said university President Edward H. Jennings.

"We are honored that a major corporation such as the Ford Motor Company recognizes Ohio State's unique resources and is willing to invest in building academic excellence both in teaching and research," Jennings said. "Corporate support of this magnitude is critical to universities charged with developing the human and intellectual resources required of the automotive industry and all of our society during the coming decades."

Currently, Ford Motor Company employs approximately 400 Ohio State University graduates in all divisions of its national and international operations.

"Ford Motor Company is delighted to be associated with The Ohio State University in this important endeavor," said Robert L. Rewey, vice president-Ford North American Sales Operations. "The University is widely known for its expertise in electromechanical systems engineering and it is the site of significant research in the field," he said.

Ford's gift is a major addition to the five-year Ohio State University Campaign, which concluded June 30, and raised more than $450 million in private funds for University projects and programs.

CHICAGO (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Recognizing that business travelers overseas often have access only to day-old news and information from home, Air Canada is now distributing a four-page summary of same-day news from a leading North American publication to passengers returning on selected weekday flights from Europe and Asia.

The news summary is being distributed to the airline's Executive and First Class passengers through a special arrangement between Air Canada and the Toronto-based Globe and Mail, a national newspaper. A four-page summary of the next day's newspaper is prepared in the evening, faxed to Air Canada foreign stations, then photocopied and distributed to passengers bound for Canada and the United States.

"Air Canada is the first major airline to offer this service to its international passengers," said James R. Gould, the airline's general manager, western U.S. "If customer reaction is positive, this feature, now on a trial basis, will become a regular part of our service on all flights inbound from Europe and Asia."

This new feature does not replace newspapers distributed on board aircraft but provides a precis of the very latest news. "The news summary is part of Air Canada's effort to enhance its customer service and offer more value to passengers," Gould concluded.

HOUSTON (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Continental Airlines today announced it has selected Houston for the home of its new aircraft maintenance center, creating up to 4,000 more jobs, a $150 million annual payroll for the local economy and a total positive annual economic impact in excess of $600 million.

The facility will be the nation's first totally new main base maintenance facility built by a major airline "from the ground up" in nearly 40 years.

"Our commitment to this project will help strengthen the economic foundation of Houston and the state of Texas, while continuing Continental's program of growth for the decades to come," said Continental Chairman Frank Lorenzo.

"Houston went the extra step and offered us a unique package that will allow us to consolidate our Houston offices and establish a world headquarters at the airport," said Lorenzo. "The scope of Houston's proposal was a key factor in what was a very competitive selection process. And, of course, we are familiar with the quality of life in our own hometown.

"This was an exhaustive process that involved many cities around the country. Our thanks go to those cities for their superb proposals and presentations that made this a tough decision. Each city can be proud of the efforts they put forth.

"While the decision has been made on the maintenance center," Lorenzo said "the competition for the engine overhaul facility continues."

The new facility will be built on an expedited basis because of Continental's upcoming major new equipment acquisitions, plus the fact that existing maintenance facilities in Denver will close in conjunction with the opening of the new airport there.

"We have every confidence that under the leadership of Mayor Whitmire and Director of Aviation Paul Gaines that this construction time schedule will be met," Lorenzo said.

Joining Lorenzo for the announcement were Houston Mayor Kathy Whitmire, U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, U.S. Rep. Jack Fields, Harris County Judge Jon Lindsay, Houston Director of Aviation Paul Gaines and the Greater Houston Partnership's Jim Kollaer and John Brock.

In addition to Lorenzo, Continental's new incoming Chief Executive Officer Hollis Harris and Continental President Mickey Foret joined to make the announcement.

WORLD HEADQUARTERS

In addition Continental and the Houston business community under the auspices of the Greater Houston Partnership have agreed to an arrangement whereby they would provide a public/private venture to finance an office structure.

The facility would consolidate numerous Continental offices around the city. The headquarters, set in a campus environment, will house over 4,000 employees. The exact site has yet to be determined.

BALTIMORE (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - A combination of hot weather and plant outages could lead to energy restrictions today and tomorrow, according to Baltimore Gas & Electric (NYSE: BGE) officials.

If current forecasts prove accurate, BG&E customers could expect implementation of demand-side management programs such as Energy Manager, and possibly a 5 percent voltage reduction.

The voltage reduction will serve to reduce electric usage with virtually no effect on the average residential customer. A black border around a television screen, representing a slight shrinking of the size of the picture, frequently is the only noticeable result.

In light of this forecast, BG&E is advising industrial and commercial customers to take appropriate action. This may include "backing-up" computer programs and data, testing generators and alternate energy sources to make sure they are in working order and consideration for rescheduling any on-line processes that may be impacted by an outage.

Included in the demand-side management programs are industrial and commercial customers who have agreed to curtail a portion of their energy use.

Throughout this current hot spell, BG&E has been asking all customers to conserve as much electricity as possible. Some steps residential customers can take include:

-- curtail air conditioning usage by setting thermostats as high as personal comfort permits. As a guideline, BG&E suggests setting central air-conditioning and heat pump thermostats no lower than 80 degrees. Window units should be set somewhat higher than the normal setting. These steps will not only lower demand, but will lower customers' bills.

-- If you are going to be out of the house for more than four hours, turn your air conditioner off.

-- Postpone some household chores such as washing and drying clothes or running dishwashers until after 8 p.m. when electric demand subsides.

BG&E will continue to monitor the situation and asked residents to stay tuned to their radio or television for more information. The company thanked all its customers for their patience and cooperation.

CHERRY HILL, NJ (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - SAI Group Inc. (OTC) has released earnings for the second quarter of 1990.

The company previously announced that its board of directors had accepted an offer from Proteq Verzekeringen Beheer N.V., a Dutch insurance company, to acquire all of the outstanding shares of the company for $.0625 (6-1/4 cents) per share.

SAI GROUP INC.

Periods ended	Three months		Six months
June 30	1990	1989	1990	1989
Revenue	$990,000	$1,140,000	$2,161,000	$2,220,000
Net loss	(230,000)	(722,000)	(715,000)	(1,347,000)
Shares outstanding	15,485,465	15,272,190	15,485,465	15,272,190
Net loss per share	$(.02)	$(.05)	$(.05)	$(.09)

Three Months Ended June 30, 1990 vs. June 30, 1989 Revenues Revenues in the current quarter were $150,000 (13.2 percent) lower than the comparable period of 1989. The decline in revenues resulted from lapsation of previously written business and a reduction in the size and number of marketing campaigns.

Net loss A net loss of $230,000 ($.02 per share) in the current period compares to a loss of $722,000 ($.05 per share) in the similar period last year. The loss in both periods resulted from the cost of operating the "50-Forward Club," a venture initiated by the company in early 1989.

Six Months Ended June 30, 1990 vs. June 30, 1989 Revenues Total revenues of $2,161,000 during the first half of 1990 were $59,000 lower than last year. Commissions from direct marketing activities declined by $198,000. This decrease was partially offset by growth in insurance premiums, 50-Forward Club revenues and investment income.

While revenues from the 50-Forward Club have increased over last year, they have not grown to the level which would fund the club's operating cost.

A loss of $715,000 ($.05 per share) was incurred during the first half of 1990 as compared to a loss of $1,347,000 ($.09 per share) in the first half of 1989. The dominant factor contributing to the loss in both operating periods was the cost of operating the 50-Forward Club.

MOUNT KISCO, NY (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - TWA Getaway Vacations has just announced an unbeatable Hawaii sale. For the low price of just $639 per person, double occupancy, vacationers will receive roundtrip air from St. Louis or 34 other Midwest cities, plus seven nights in a Waikiki hotel, roundtrip airport transfers, a fresh flower lei greeting and more. The price from New York and most East Coast gateway cities is just $659 per person.

As an added bonus, Getaway also includes a free Fun-in-the Sun morning cruise along the Waikiki coastline for travelers to Oahu booked from now through Nov. 20. The cruise departs Diamond Head and sails along Waikiki Beach, with continental breakfast and champagne served on board. Passengers have a choice of an 8 or 9 a.m. sailing and are free to select the day of the cruise.

Betty Amato, director of Getaway Pacific, said, "The advantage of taking a Getaway package is that you get a vacation that includes hotel, roundtrip air and great Getaway bonus features for a price lower than the cost of roundtrip airfare alone." She added that the lead price of $639 per person is "a terrific value for travel this time of year."

This special rate is good for roundtrip midweek departures from Sept. 30 through Oct. 24. Hotel taxes, service charges and $12 U.S. departure tax is also included in the rate. All passengers traveling on a Getaway Hawaii package also receive 5,000 bonus miles for TWA's Frequent Flight Bonus Program and a Getaway Vacations flight bag.

ATLANTA (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Robert V. Royall Jr., a vice chairman of The Citizens and Southern Corp. (NYSE: CTZ) and head of the three-state C&S Community and Corporate Banking Group, today announced his retirement, effective Dec. 31.

Royall, 55, a former president and chief executive officer of C&S South Carolina Corp., has also served as chairman of The C&S National Bank of South Carolina since 1987.

Royall joined C&S in 1960 as a management trainee in Charleston. He quickly rose through the ranks of the organization to become one of its most important executives in South Carolina during the past two decades. By 1970, he was promoted to executive vice president and moved to Columbia assuming responsibility for retail banking and marketing activities and the entire line operation in the state.

In 1974, Royall was promoted to president of The C&S National Bank of South Carolina. In 1984, he became president of The Citizens and Southern Corp., then a holding company for the C&S Banks in South Carolina. In 1986, he became chief executive officer of The C&S National Bank of South Carolina and C&S South Carolina Corp. and was named chairman of the board of The C&S National Bank of South Carolina in 1987.

Royall's leadership in the banking industry was recognized when he was named chairman of the Governor's Task Force on Interstate Banking during the mid-1980s. The task force recommended legislation that helped South Carolina accommodate interstate banking beginning in 1986.

Royall, a native of Mount Pleasant, S.C., holds a bachelor's degree from the University of South Carolina and is a graduate of the Stonier Graduate School of Banking and the Advanced Management Program at Harvard University's Graduate School of Business Administration. He served in the U.S. Marine Corps from 1956-1959.

Royall said he plans to remain active in civic and business affairs in South Carolina. He and his wife, Greg, have three daughters and three grandsons and plan to continue to reside in Columbia where he will remain active in civic and public affairs.

PHILADELPHIA (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Consolidated Rail Corp. (NYSE: CRR) is investing $8.9 million to upgrade sections of five lines in eastern and central Pennsylvania.

The work, which began in June and is scheduled to be completed this fall, includes the installation of 61,000 crossties and the surfacing (raising and smoothing) of more than 200 miles of supporting railbed.

The project, part of Conrail's capital program for 1990, is being conducted along sections of the following lines:

-- The Reading Line, between Allentown and Reading.
-- The Harrisburg Line, between Harrisburg and Philadelphia.
-- The Lurgan Branch, between Harrisburg and Lurgan.
-- The Enola Branch, between Enola and Columbia.
-- The Royalton Branch, which links Harrisburg with the Enola Branch.

In addition to being used by Conrail's high-priority, high-speed intermodal trains, which carry a wide variety of consumer goods, these lines are used by general merchandise freight trains carrying such commodities as automobiles and auto parts, coal, grain, iron ore, steel, and other miscellaneous freight.

"Conrail's capital program enables us to provide safe, reliable and customer-responsive service," said James A. Hagen, Conrail's chairman, president and chief executive officer. "Projects such as this will provide a sound track structure essential to Conrail's ability to compete in the transportation marketplace."

MINNEAPOLIS (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Fingerhut Companies, Inc. (NYSE: FHT) announced that it is expanding its operations and will build an automated distribution center near Bristol, Tenn. The one million- square-foot facility, which will serve the eastern region of the United States, is scheduled to open in fall 1991.

"Our goal is to reduce operational costs while improving delivery times for the customer and enhancing profitability for the company," said Ted Deikel, Fingerhut chairman and CEO.

The facility will be fully automated with state-of-the-art picking, packing, sorting and scanning capabilities. Designed to handle 45 percent of the company's shipping and all of Fingerhut's growing apparel business, the facility is expandable to 1.5 million square feet. It will initially employ approximately 400 people with additional seasonal employment of 80-100 employees.

The distribution center will be located in Sullivan County in eastern Tennessee in the Tri-County Industrial Park. Construction is expected to begin in September, subject to financing.

"We could not have reached agreement so quickly without the leadership and involvement of Sen. Jim Sasser and Gov. Ned McWherter," said Deikel. "The local Economic Development Committee and the Sullivan County Industrial Commission have been extremely cooperative in working with us to complete the negotiations so that we could proceed quickly with our plans. They have a great pro-business attitude and they worked very hard to get us to locate there."

"I'm extremely pleased that Fingerhut has chosen to locate in Tennessee. This is welcome news for the Northeast region," said Sen. Sasser.

Fingerhut has retained The Keewaydin Group to provide facilities planning and construction management for the project.

In 1989 Fingerhut build a new 608,000-square-foot fully automated distribution center which, added to existing facilities, brings the total in St. Cloud, Minn. to 1.2MM square feet. With the new eastern facility, the company's warehouse and shipping facilities will total more than 2.2 million square feet.

Fingerhut is the fourth largest direct mail marketer of consumer products in the United States. The company markets general merchandise and specialty food gifts through catalogs and direct mail to its list of approximately nine million active customers. The company employs approximately 6,000 people in seven locations in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

DENVER (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Apache Corp. (NYSE: APA) and CNG Producing Co., a unit of Consolidated Natural Gas Co. (NYSE: CNG), today announced that Apache has agreed to purchase, for $23.5 million in cash, CNG Producing's oil properties in Nevada, Wyoming, North Dakota, and Montana.

The purchase includes 41 wells in seven fields, from which Consolidated produces an average 1,500 barrels of oil a day. Gross production from the properties for all partners averages 7,500 barrels a day. The purchase also includes some 100,000 net undeveloped acres in the Powder River Basin of Wyoming and in Railroad Valley, Nev. The transaction will be effective as of July 1, 1990.

Raymond Plank, chairman and chief executive officer of Apache, said, "This acquisition increases Apache's interests in Grant Canyon and Trap Springs, Nevada, where the company's most prolific wells have made us the largest producer in the state. It increases our exposure to the oil market, complements our active drilling program and adds to our confidence about growing our reserves again in 1990."

David P. Hunt, president of CNG Producing, said, "This sale is in line with CNG Producing's plans to focus exploration activities in the Gulf of Mexico, the Gulf Coast and the MidContinent area, where the bulk of our properties and drilling prospects are concentrated. In the same vein, we are seeking to sell our 21 percent interest in Amoco Corporation's heavy oil properties in Alberta, Canada."

Apache is an independent energy company engaged in exploration, development and production of natural gas and crude oil. The company's securities are traded on the New York and Midwest Stock Exchanges (symbol APA).

Pittsburgh-based Consolidated is one of the nation's largest producers, transporters and distributors of natural gas. The company explores for and produces gas and oil in the United States and Canada. Its primary marketing areas for natural gas are in Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, New York, and other states in the Northeast.

NEW YORK (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - The Gitano Group Inc. (NYSE: GIT), manufacturer of jeanswear, sportswear, intimate apparel and accessories for the entire family, is proud to announce the grand opening of its Manhattan flagship store, "Gitano & Co.," Tuesday, Aug. 28.

"Gitano & Co.," located in approximately 9,000 square feet of retail selling space, will feature an assortment of diversified product lines featuring sportswear and accessories for the entire family with average price points of $20 for tops and $25 for bottoms.

Located at 34th Street and Broadway, "Gitano & Co.'s" second floor location is quite unique. The space is sophisticated in design, with impressive visual accents such as a lit marble entrance, video monitors and upscale point-of-purchase displays. The store windows overlooking Herald Center are 14-1/2 feet tall and 7-1/2 feet wide, while the center "colonnade" stretches 90 feet long.

"We've tried to create a feeling of a small store within a large store," notes Bob Negron, president of Gitano Retail. "The location allows us to service the current 34th Street shoppers, while drawing other loyal Gitano customers to this, our first Manhattan store location. One of the reasons this store was developed was to use it as a testing ground to listen to our consumers' needs and rapidly respond to those needs."

Negron continued, "The customer's initial impression is the most important when making a purchase decision. 'Gitano & Co.' features selections from each Gitano division's collections with coordinating accessories completing the look. In this way, we've made the customer's decision-making easier by offering coordinated outfits and accessories that also encourage multiple purchase shopping."

Gitano's concept of head-to-toe dressing for the entire family prevails at "Gitano & Co." with women's apparel occupying 50 percent of the store, men's 25 percent, children's 15 percent and accessories completing the fashion statement at ten percent. Each department is separately merchandised though they all complement each other through color and theme.

During the initial weeks of the opening, "Gitano & Co." will be offering a special promotion to the customer who purchases $35 or more of Gitano merchandise to receive a "Gitano & Co." backpack, valued at $28.

Gitano operates 78 company-owned retail locations selling Gitano products exclusively. The attached release offers detail regarding the opening of the new flagship store of this national chain, in Manhattan.

LOS ANGELES (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Arco Products Company today unveiled SmogPros Express Test & Repair Centers, a program designed to help the driving public control air pollution and comply with California's Bureau of Automotive Repair (BAR) by checking, adjusting and repairing their automobile's emissions.

Arco's 112 MP&G Tune-up Centers throughout California will be converted to SmogPros by the end of this month. Arco's SmogPros will continue to feature a "Pass or Don't Pay" smog certification policy under which drivers whose vehicles do not pass the emission standards test are not charged for the first routine inspection.

SmogPros is part of Arco's ongoing commitment to environmental protection and is intended to complement other Arco environmental initiatives, such as EC-1, the nation's first low emission reformulated gasoline. SmogPros will also continue to offer diagnostic tune-ups, oil changes, brake and air conditioning service.

Approximately 3.9 million smog inspections were conducted in the first year (July 1984 to July 1985) of the California smog-check program. New regulations requiring smog tests for heavy duty trucks and recreational vehicles will dramatically increase the number of inspections required for 1990 to approximately 8.5 million, according to B.A.R. California drivers in non-attainment areas are all required to have their cars smog checked biannually.

"Among the changes drivers will see at SmogPros is state of the art automotive diagnostic equipment, and an entirely new name and signage within the Arco family of colors of blue and yellow," said Scott Stanworth Arco Products Company vice president for Retail Marketing. Arco's introduction of SmogPros will be supported by a $4 million advertising program developed by Kresser-Craig Advertising Company, Stanworth added.

Under the new State of California guidelines, called BAR 90, automotive technicians are required to pass a rigorous examination before being licensed to conduct smog checks.

Arco Products Company conducts a BAR 90 training course for technicians and franchisees at the Arco Training Center in El Monte, Calif. Currently, all of the SmogPros Express Test and Repair Centers have qualified technicians under the new BAR 90 guidelines.

DANBURY, CT (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Union Carbide Chemicals and Plastics Company Inc. (UCC&P) (NYSE: UK) has purchased the Polyphobe(R) line of acrylic-based associative thickeners from DeSoto, Inc. of Des Plaines, Ill. The purchase price was not disclosed.

Polyphobe products are acrylic emulsion polymers that simultaneously thicken and modify the flow characteristics of aqueous systems. They became commercially available in 1989 and have since found application in paints, adhesives and paper coatings. The line includes products that comply with FDA regulations as components of paper coatings in contact with food and for indirect food contact in adhesives.

In paper coating applications, Polyphobe thickeners have been shown to substantially increase line speeds in commercial operations. Other promising applications are seen in textiles, printing inks, personal care products, pharmaceuticals, oil field drilling muds and mining additives.

According to Fred Costello, president of UCC&P's Solvents and Coatings Materials Division, "the Polyphobe line is a natural complement to UCC&P's latex, Cellosize(R) hydroxyethyl cellulose thickener and UCAR SCT rheology modifier businesses. The addition of these products will make ours the most complete line of proprietary synthetic organic and cellulosic thickeners and rheology modifiers in the world."

Key DeSoto marketing and technical employees associated with the Polyphobe business will be integrated into the Solvents and Coatings Materials Division's UCAR Emulsion Systems (UES) group in Cary, N.C. Manufacturing will take place at existing UES facilities.

HARTSVILLE, SC (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - "We are restructuring several operations to improve Sonoco's cost and competitive positions and taking other actions that will allow us to better utilize our resources for future growth in the packaging industry," said R.C. King, Jr., president and chief operating officer of Sonoco Products Company (NASDAQ-NMS: SONO), in announcing several actions by the Hartsville-based international manufacturer of consumer and industrial packaging products.

The company will be restructuring several operations, which are expected to result in a one-time charge to third quarter earnings in the range of $50 to $55 million, or $1.14 to $1.25 per share after-tax.

When fully implemented the expected ongoing annual savings from the restructuring will amount to approximately $20 million pre-tax, or about $.28 per share after-tax. The cash impact of these actions is expected to be neutral due to the tax benefit of large non-cash write-offs. On-going cash flow generated by the moves will amount to about $10 million annually after-tax.

Sonoco has also reached agreement to sell its 40 percent interest in Sonoco Graham Company to the other partners in the venture for $60 million contingent on the purchaser obtaining satisfactory financing and approval of the Graham board. An after-tax gain of $22 million to $25 million, or $.50 to $.57 per share, will result from the sale and should be recorded in the fourth quarter of 1990. After-tax cash flow generated from the sale will amount to over $40 million.

The cash generated from these moves will be used to repay some debt and to purchase up to 1,500,000 shares, or 3.5 percent, of the company's common stock.

The largest restructuring change is taking place in the company's high density film products division. The division is announcing the closing of its Onset, Mass., grocery sack manufacturing plant due to over capacity in the industry and the high cost of operations at that location.

The Los Angeles plant, which was part of the company's Hilex acquisition will be offered for sale. This plant produces a wide variety of speciality retail sacks. "We have refocused our plastic sack strategy to concentrate on the grocery and high-volume retail markets, resulting in our decision to exit this segment of the business," said King. Approximately $25 million in goodwill associated with the Hilex acquisition is also being written-off. No tax benefit from the goodwill write-off will be recognized at this time, pending clarification of recently issued tax regulations.

Other manufacturing restructurings and staffing reductions will take place in the company's fibre drum operations and several international operations.

In the research and development area, Sonoco is continuing to structure the organization to enhance support for existing businesses and to concentrate resources on development projects for future growth.

Sonoco employs 15,000 people in more than 200 operations around the globe.

WINSTON-SALEM, NC (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Lowe's Food Stores, Inc. unveiled an improved version of its "Apples for the Students" program today to put more computers at the fingertips of North Carolina and Virginia school children without cost to the schools or taxpayers.

Improvements to the program allow students to collect receipts for a longer period of time (28 weeks) and earn the newest versions of Apple equipment and software. Participating schools can redeem gold receipts dated August 29, 1990 to March 9, 1991 for computer terminals, printers, disk drives, and software.

"Last year students earned nearly half a million dollars worth of equipment, double the amount we had projected," said Lowe's Foods President Dennis Hatchell. During last year's 20 week program, schools earned over 1000 software packages, nearly 200 computers, 200 printers, and 100 disk drives.

All North Carolina and Virginia full-time K-12 public, private, parochial, and special education schools in the Lowe's Foods marketing area are invited to participate.

"This program to help our schools purchase Apple computers provides a valuable resource to the children of our community," said Winston-Salem Mayor Martha Wood in a letter. "(Lowes Foods) participation provides an excellent example of a successful partnership between business and education. I hope that other businesses will follow (their) lead by offering important opportunities for significant partnerships."

Lowe's Food Stores, Inc. is owned by Merchant's Distributors Inc. in Hickory and operates 53 Lowe's Foods and 26 Run In convenience stores in North Carolina and Virginia. North Carolina stores are located in Alexander, Alleghany, Ashe, Avery, Burke, Caldwell, Catawba, Chatham, Davidson, Davie, Forsyth, Guilford, Iredell, McDowell, Montgomery, Moore, Orange, Randolph, Richmond, Stokes, Surry, Watauga, Wilkes, and Yadkin counties.

The school superintendents, principals, and PTA officials in the Lowe's Foods marketing area have been contacted with details. The company has dedicated the toll-free number 1-800-338-0038 to answer questions about the program.

Funding for the computers will be taken out of Lowe's Foods 1991 advertising budget and will not affect prices at the stores, according to Hatchell. "We believe the 'Apples for the Students' program is a sound business investment," Hatchell said. "While we hope our sales will increase, our real goal is to provide learning tools for children in the communtiies we serve. It's a win-win situation for Lowe's Foods and our customers."

WHITE PLAINS, NY (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - IBM has announced an enhanced software product that gives users concurrent access to applications residing on large computers and personal computers running in a graphical operating system.

IBM Windows Connection Version 2.0 seamlessly integrates host sessions and workstations applications running in the Microsoft Corp.'s Windows(A) 3 environment, giving users a consistent, easy-to-use graphical interface at the workstation.

New features in Windows Connection include support for the popular IBM Application System/400(A) (AS/400)(A) midrange computer as a host platform. In addition, several functional enhancements increase user productivity by making it easier to transfer information between host and workstation applications.

"IBM Windows Connection enables computer users to become more proficient in the use of their software applications, giving them quick and easy access to the information needed to make their business decisions," said Catherine Lewis, IBM director of Publishing Solutions.

Lewis said Windows Connection also provides users with a migration path from mainframe interactive terminals to workstations running Operating System/2(A) (OS/2)(A) Extended Edition with the presentation manager graphical interface.

Windows Connection enables users to view simultaneously workstation applications in the Window 3 environment and host sessions running on the Virtual Machine (VM), Multiple Virtual Storage (MVS) or Operating System/400(A) (OS/400)(A) platforms.

New features include the ability to transfer multiple files simultaneously; a host session "copy and paste" feature for transferring information in one application into a document being created in another; and full Dynamic Data Exchange (DDE) support, enabling users to exchange data directly between host applications and Windows-based workstation applications.

Windows Connection Version 2 requires an IBM Personal Computer or Personal System/2(A) (PS/2)(A) with at least one megabyte of memory; Microsoft Windows 3; and IBM PC 3270 Emulation Program Entry Level, IBM Personal Communications/3270, or Application System/400 PC Support.

Windows Connection Version 2.0 is available Sept. 28 from IBM and authorized dealers at a suggested single unit price of $214. Additional licenses are available at a suggested price of $165. Upgrades from version 1.0 are available at a suggested price of $85.

VINELAND, N.J. (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - IGI Inc. (AMEX: IG) said it has continued to make progress in development of personal care and consumer products and has received yet another new important U.S. patent.

New patents: In the past six weeks IGI's majority-owned subsidiary Micro Vesicular Systems Inc. (MVS) has had these more U.S. patents issued, bringing to eight the total in the past 13 months.

The U.S. Patent Office today issued Patent No. 4,952,550 covering "Particulate Absorbent Material." This important patent covers critical parts of MVS' Ultrasponge(TM) technology with applications not only as biodegradable superabsorbers for diapers, but as pharmaceutical carriers and delivery vehicles as well.

On July 31, 1990, Patent No. 4,944,734 was issued covering "Biodegradable Incontinence Device With Embedded Granules" -- ie. a biodegradable disposable diaper containing its own degradation enhancer. The above two patents are the first issued using MVS' proprietary Ultrasponge(TM) technology.

On July 17, 1990, Patent No. 4,942,038 was issued covering the Novasome(TM) "Encapsulated Humectants" (moisturizers) in certain shampoos.

Consumer products:
Edward B. Hager M.D., chairman, said, "We are pleased by this continuing recognition of our technologies by the U.S. Patent Office, and see signs that the marketplace is beginning to share the same confidence."

"...recent independent studies of various MVS-developed consumer and personal care products have demonstrated superiority over current market leading products. Products tested include MVS' MICRO GLIDE Novasome(TM) Shaving Cream, NOVA Novasome(TM) After Shave Balm, MOISTURE PEARLS Novasome(TM) Skin Moisturizers, BABY TENDER Novasome(TM) Diaper Rash Cream NOVA HEAT Novasome(TM) Analgesic Cream, INVISIBLE GLOVE Novasome(TM) Skin Protectant Cream and others. The company is actively pursuing marketing arrangements for these products."

IGI recently reported record sales for the second quarter and for the first six months of the year.

Hager said, "The results demonstrate the strength of IGI's expanding core businesses of poultry biologics and companion pet care products. Our core business operation will continue to keep IGI profitable while we fund development of the Novasome(TM) and Ultrasponge(TM) technologies at MVS."

IGI Inc. is a diversified profitable biotechnology company. Its majority-owned subsidiary Micro Vesicular Systems Inc. (MVS) has created microencapsulation (often called "liposomes") and biodegradable superabsorbents -- Ultrasponge(TM). These are being developed for a wide variety of commercial applications.

ST. PAUL, MN (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Three major organizational changes at St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Company were announced today by St. Paul Chairman Douglas W. Leatherdale.

The changes are: the formation of a Field Operations Division, combining the company's former Regional Operations Division (ROD) and some functions from its former Marketing Division; the formation of a new service center in St. Paul, Minn.; and the merger of the current General Commercial Underwriting (GCU) and Business Owners Services (BOSS) departments into one commercial insurance operation.

Leatherdale said management of the company's distribution system the agents and insurance brokers who sell its products and services will be handled by the new Agency/Broker Services department in Field Operations. Product marketing is being moved to the individual underwriting operations. Regional Operations becomes Service Center Operations.

"Marketing and Regional Operations were both focal points for planning, daily operations and communications between corporate headquarters and the field," Leatherdale said. "ROD was the corporate headquarters liaison with the service centers, and Marketing served the same purpose for our distribution force.

"Our move to more niche marketing has meant that our marketing staff needs to become more and more specialized. Merging product marketing into underwriting will allow us to increase our expertise as well as enhance our sales capabilities as the marketers and underwriters work more closely together," Leatherdale said.

R. Laury Willox, senior vice president-regional operations, has been named president of the new division, Leatherdale said. Reporting to Willox are James A. Schulte, who has been named senior vice president-service center operations, and A. Lawrence Miller, who has been named senior vice president-agency/broker services. Schulte was vice president-regional operations; Miller was vice president-general manager of the company's New York Service Center.

Charles W. Seabright, vice president-general manager of The St. Paul's New Jersey Service Center, has been named to replace Miller in New York. No replacement has been named for Seabright.

Reporting to Schulte are Duke Truby and David W. Birkenhauer, currently regional operations officers, and Terry Cooper, currently manager of the Dakota-Montana Branch of the company's Upper Midwest Service Center.

LAKE HAMILTON, FLA. (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Orange-co, Inc. (NYSE: OJ) announced today that it has completed the previously announced contracts to sell two citrus groves encompassing 2,200 acres in St. Lucie County, Fla. Proceeds from the two transactions total $27.6 million and will generate a significant profit which will be fully sheltered by the company's tax loss carryforward position that approximates $60 million. As a result, the company expects to be profitable in its fourth quarter.

These sales are a significant part of the restructuring plan announced in April by Ron Divin, Orange-co's chief executive officer. Even though these groves represent only about 12 percent of the company's book value, the proceeds amount to almost 50 percent of the company's present market capitalization. The plan is to sell approximately 22 percent of the company's Florida real estate and other assets in order to improve its profitability, cash flow, balance sheet, and return on assets. Additionally, the restructuring plan, once complete, will allow the company to improve the productivity of its remaining groves, more effectively pursue its institutional beverage company business plan and ultimately pursue diversification within the agribusiness/food complex.

ANNAPOLIS, MD. (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - UNC Incorporated (NYSE: UNC) announced today that the Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit has remanded to the U.S. Claims Court for a determination of damages a case in which an UNC subsidiary has asserted damages for the taking of uranium mining leases by the secretary of the Interior in 1978.

The Federal Circuit held that the United States had taken the mining leases, and that the UNC subsidiary is entitled to just compensation.

An UNC spokesman said that the government may seek a writ of certiorari from the U.S. Supreme Court, delaying further Claims Court proceedings. The spokesman disclosed, however, that the government's own expert testified that damages in the case, with interest, could range in the area of $10 million to $20 million, and that expert testimony on behalf of the UNC subsidiary formed a basis for a substantially higher level of damages.

UNC Incorporated, listed on the New York Stock Exchange, is engaged in overhauling aircraft engines and aircraft components, manufacturing and repairing jet engine parts, and providing other services to the nation's aviation industry.

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, NJ (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - PharmaControl Corp. (NASDAQ: PHAR) announced today the formation of a new subsidiary, Elite Laboratories, Inc. ("Elite") under the direction of Dr. Atul Mehta as president.

Formerly vice president of Nortec and a nationally renowned scientist in controlled-release technology, Mehta will head a division which will develop controlled-release versions of major prescription pharmaceuticals. These products will be developed for sale by PharmaControl's PFI subsidiary.

The company, which has entered into a long-term employment agreement with Mehta, will own 80 percent of Elite. Mehta will retain 20 percent ownership and, along with one of the company's officers, was granted warrants to purchase 500,000 shares of the company's common stock at a price of $.20 per share for a period of six years from the date of grant.

The entire funding for the Elite division and for certain associated projects at PFI will be provided by Polystar Corporation and its affiliates ("Polystar"). Polystar has loaned $300,000 to the company which loan is convertible into shares of the company's common stock at a conversion rate of $.20 per share.

The Polystar convertible note bears interest at the rate of one percent over the prime interest rate charged by a leading New York commercial bank and is due two years from the date of the loan. Simultaneously with the making of the loan, an affiliate of Polystar purchased one million shares of the company's common stock for $200,000.

Polystar has further agreed to loan an additional $500,000 to the company prior to Sept. 30, 1990 on the same terms and conditions as the initial loan. The company has also issued warrants to Polystar and its affiliate to purchase a total of ten million shares, exercisable at a price of $.20 per share for a period of two years from the date of grant.

Certain registration and antidilution rights have been granted by the company to Polystar and its affiliate with respect to the shares issuable upon conversion of the Polystar loan and upon exercise of the warrants as well as the shares issued to Polystar's affiliate.

In connection with the financing by Polystar, the company's board of directors elected Dr. P.S. Prasad president and chief operating officer of the company. The company's directors also intend to nominate five additional members to the board.

Dr. Max A. Tesler, chief executive officer, said that the Polystar transaction and the employment of Mehta are favorable developments for the company. Tesler noted that the infusion of new capital to fund the company's operations and the products under development by Mehta will create a positive environment for future growth of the company.

DETROIT (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Customers of Detroit Edison (NYSE: DTE), Michigan's largest electric utility, have demanded and received the highest amount of electricity since 1988.

In the hour ending at 3 p.m. today, Detroit Edison delivered 8,975,000 kilowatts (kW) of electricity, surpassing the July 10, 1989, peak demand of 8,704,000 kW and rivaling the company's all-time record demand of 9,133,000 kW set Aug. 8, 1988. Company officials said there is a good chance the 1988 record demand could be broken today. If the heat and humidity wave continues into Wednesday, customer demand for electricity could go higher still.

The demand is being caused by increased air-conditioner use. Detroit Edison officials said the company is not having any problems meeting customer demand and anticipates none in meeting a possible higher demand.

Monday's peak demand was 8,695,000 kW reached in the hour ending at 3 p.m.

BIRMINGHAM, AL (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Big B Inc. (NASDAQ: BIGB) announced today that it had achieved record sales for both its fiscal first half and second quarter.

Sales for the 26 weeks ended Aug. 4 rose 14.8 percent to $224,139,000 from $195,174,000 in the prior year while sales for the 12-week second quarter rose 13.1 percent to $101,241,000 from $89,544,000.

The company reported a net loss of $3,340,000 for the 12-week second quarter and a resulting loss of $2,943,000 for the 26 weeks. The loss was primarily a result of lower gross margins and higher than normal advertising expenses incurred in part due to increased competition. The company stated that adjustments have been made and anticipates much improved operating results during the second half.

In a continuing expression of confidence in the future of Big B the board of directors again declared a quarterly dividend of $.04 per share payable Sept. 21 to shareholders of record Sept. 11.

During the quarter four new stores were opened and eight stores were acquired from Revco D.S. bringing the company's store count to 307. The 12 stores are located in Arab, Atmore, Bay Minette, Huntsville (2), Phenix City, Selma and Tuskegee, Ala.; Atlanta and Columbus, Ga.; and Jackson and Starkville, Miss.

Six additional stores are planned for the remainder of the fiscal year. The expansion of the distribution center continues to progress and should be completed during fall 1990.

Big B Inc. operates stores in Alabama (149), Georgia (111), Florida (20), Mississippi (9), and Tennessee (18).

RICHMOND, VA (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - United Dominion Realty Trust, Inc. (NYSE: UDR), a Richmond, Virginia, based real estate investment trust, announced today that its Board of Directors authorized the purchase of up to five percent (581,000 shares) of the outstanding common stock.

These shares may be purchased from time to time on the New York Stock Exchange or in privately negotiated transactions. This stock repurchase program will be in effect for the remainder of 1990.

According to John P. McCann, President and Chief Executive Officer, the Board believes that the Trust's shares of common stock are an excellent investment for the Trust to make at current market prices. He indicated that repurchased shares would be used in the Trust's dividend reinvestment plan, stock option plan or for the conversion of the Trust's nine percent convertible subordinated debentures.

United Dominion Realty Trust is a self-administered equity real estate investment trust that owns and operates primarily apartments but also shopping centers from Virginia to Georgia. The Trust specializes in purchasing properties that can be upgraded by capital improvements and new management. United Dominion's common stock is traded on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol "UDR."

WASHINGTON (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Giant Food Inc. (AMEX: GFS.A), a Washington based food-drug chain of 150 units, today announced unaudited sales and earnings for the 12-week and 24-week periods ended Aug. 11, 1990 compared with the same periods ended Aug. 12, 1989.

For the 12 weeks ended Aug. 11, 1990:

- Sales were $763,999,000, compared with $732,826,000, an increase of 4.3 percent.
- Pre-tax income was $41,948,000, 5.49 percent of sales, compared with pre-tax income of $36,078,000, 4.92 percent of sales.
- Net income was $25,798,000, 3.38 percent of sales, compared with a net income of $22,187,000, 3.03 percent of sales.
- Earnings per share were 43 cents, compared with earnings per share of 37 cents.

For the 24 weeks ended Aug. 11, 1990:

- Sales were $1,533,263,000, compared with $1,457,305,000, an increase of 5.2 percent.
- Pre-tax income was $88,236,000, 5.75 percent of sales, compared with pre-tax income of $79,207,000, 5.44 percent of sales.
- Net income was $54,265,000, 3.54 percent of sales, compared with a net income of $48,712,000, 3.34 percent of sales.
- Earnings per share were 91 cents, compared with earnings per share of 81 cents.

While earnings for the 12 weeks increased 16.3 percent over the prior year and 11.4 percent for the 24 weeks, sales increased at a slower pace than in recent reporting periods, showing increases of 4.3 percent and 5.2 percent for the 12 and 24 weeks respectively. For stores in operation both years, sales increased 1.2 percent for the 12 weeks and 2.1 percent for the 24 weeks.

Giant management stated it believed that several factors contributed to the slower pace of sales growth during the most recent 12 weeks. The company believes it, along with other businesses, is witnessing an overall slowing of the regional economy. The company is confident, however, that with its stores, its people and its merchandising programs it remains excellently positioned to hold its current customers and continue to attract new ones.

During the comparable period last year, Giant offered its salad bar, regularly priced at $1.99 a pound, at half price. This promotion did increase traffic and sales volume last summer. Because of the uncertainty of the cost of product to Giant this year, along with other factors, the company decided not to have this half-price feature this year, choosing to maintain the $1.99 regular price even though competitors had increased their everyday price to $2.39 a pound.

BOSTON (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Healthco International, Inc.'s (NASDAQ: HLCO) chairman and chief executive officer, Marvin M. Cyker, in noting Gemini Partners' announcement that it had retained Christian W. Jansson as its consultant, stated:

"At long last Gemini Partners has acknowledged what we have said all along - that Gemini has virtually no experience in managing a company such as Healthco. However, in our view, Mr. Jansson's retention does not solve Gemini's problem.

"Healthco is a full-service dental distribution company, which relies on personal relationships with more than 130,000 dentists built over the years by our 700-person sales force. Our sales team is one of our greatest assets and must be managed accordingly.

"These salespeople are well-recognized in the industry for their knowledge and experience. Many of them have worked at Healthco for 15 or 20 years and more. As a full-service firm, we have also developed very experienced management, customer service and technical support teams."

"On the other hand," continued Cyker, "Bonnier Dental Group - Jansson's former employer - is a discount mail order supply company. Their U.S. operations are small compared with Healthco's. To my knowledge Mr. Jansson has neither built nor managed a full-service operations such as Healthco, with its large sales and marketing organization and customer service and technical support groups - all of which are critical to Healthco's success.

"Further, from 1987 to 1989, Bonnier - with Mr. Jansson as chief executive officer - saw its net profits decline by nearly 75 percent from 15 million to 4 million Swedish Kroners (approximately $2,625,000 to $700,000 based on current exchange rates of 5.716 SEK to US$1). This is hardly the type of record to inspire confidence."

OAK BROOK, ILL. (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Amoco Oil Company today issued the following statement in response to Gov. James J. Blanchard's call for divorcement/open supply:

Divorcement and open supply legislation are anti-consumer. We believe a call for such legislation is ill-advised. In the governor's news release he calls for such legislation because in Maryland, divorcement has led to lower prices for consumers.

The study the governor quoted is commonly referred to as the Putnam Study. It has since been discredited by the Department of Fiscal Services for the Maryland General Assembly. In a report prepared for the Maryland Senate and House of Delegates in November 1988, this agency said that the Putnam Study -- which claimed Maryland residents had saved $117 million from 1979 to 1986 -- only focused on a limited amount of information.

The report concluded, "... The department does not believe that the conclusion that divorcement saved the motorist money is valid ... The department believes that divorcement led to higher gasoline prices and shorter hours of operation in the period following divorcement."

JACKSON, MICH. (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - "Without power provided by the Midland Cogeneration Venture (MCV), and the consistently high performance of Consumers Power Company's baseload electric generating plants, Michigan would be suffering brownouts today," said the utility's chairman, William T. McCormick Jr.

Consumers Power, Michigan's largest utility, reached its highest- ever electric power sendout today when it reached an unofficial hourly peak of 5,909 megawatts for the hour ending at 4 p.m. The new all-time record eclipses an hourly peak record of 5,881 megawatts reached at 5 p.m. Monday.

"Michigan would be sweating it out today were it not for the fact that the MCV is operating and serving Consumers Power customers," said McCormick. The utility is purchasing approximately 850 megawatts of capacity from new plants such as the MCV, the Filer City Station cogeneration project, and the Kent County waste-to-energy incinerator, to meet the record customer demand. Power purchases from these facilities are enough to serve more than 600,000 people.

"Not only is the MCV protecting Michigan, it is also helping to keep things comfortable in Ontario, by selling needed capacity to Ontario Hydro " McCormick said.

Today's record dropped Consumers Power's reserve margin to 21 percent -- below the 23 percent reserve margin recommended by the Michigan Public Service Commission. A reserve margin is the portion of electric capacity owned by a utility in excess of its maximum hourly sendout.

"All of Consumers Power's major electric generating units are operating to respond to the unprecedented power requirements by the millions of Michigan residents we serve," noted McCormick.

In addition to the MCV, other Consumers Power electric units providing capacity include: Big Rock Point, near Charlevoix; Palisades, near South Haven; James H. Campbell Units 1, 2 and 3, near Grand Haven; B.C. Cobb Unit 5, at Muskegon; Dan E. Karn Units 1, 2, 3 and 4, and John C. Weadock Units 7 and 8, Essexville; Justin R. Whiting Units 1, 2 and 3, near Monroe; and three units at the Ludington Pumped Storage Plant, Ludington.

The utility is also purchasing approximately 30 megawatts of electric capacity from Northern Indiana Public Service Company.

"1990 will be the seventh consecutive year of record electric sales for Consumers Power," McCormick said. "The events of this week again emphasize the need to purchase even more electricity from the MCV and others to power Michigan's continuing progress," he noted.

Consumers Power Company, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy Corporation (NYSE: CMS), is Michigan's largest utility serving almost 6 million of the state's 9 million residents in 67 of the 68 Lower Peninsula counties.

BOSTON (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Winthrop Insured Mortgage Investors II, (AMEX: WMI) A Limited Partnership (the "Fund"), announced today that, as anticipated in their Aug. 10 press release, one federally insured mortgage was sold on Aug. 27, 1990.

The mortgage was sold at a profit to the Fund. The special distribution resulting from this sale is $1.58 per unit including $1.22 per unit of return of capital and 36 cents per unit of profit. This special distribution will be made on Sept. 14, 1990 to unitholders of record as of Aug. 31, 1990. The distribution from this mortgage sale, together with previous quarterly distributions attributable to this mortgage, result in a total average annual return of approximately 11.4 percent to original unitholders.

This mortgage represents approximately 5.9 percent of the Fund's initial offering proceeds invested in mortgages, bringing total assets divested to date to 46.7 percent. The regular quarterly distribution from the six federally insured mortgages remaining in the Fund's portfolio is expected to be approximately 30 cents per unit per quarter. This represents a current return of approximately 9 percent to investors who have held units since the original offering.

The Fund was formed in July of 1983 and completed its initial offering of 3,867,659 units in December 1983. Units of the Fund are currently traded on the American Stock Exchange under the ticker symbol "WMI". The General Partners of the Fund are affiliates of Winthrop Financial Associates, A Limited Partnership ("Winthrop"), a Boston-based real estate investment and management company.

Winthrop controls a national portfolio of real estate valued in excess of $6 billion made up of approximately 30 million square feet of commercial space, 50,000 apartments and several hotels. The company has properties in 41 states and Canada.

SALT LAKE CITY (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - American Stores Company (NYSE: ASC) announced today that any of its employees who are called to active duty to serve in support of U.S. forces in the Mideast crisis, Operation Desert Shield, in Saudi Arabia or the Persian Gulf will remain on active status with the company or its subsidiaries for up to six months to protect the employees wages and benefits not covered by their military service.

American Stores Company said it will make up the difference in wages and benefits for all of those employees called to active duty during the present crisis and encouraged all others in the business community to join with American Stores Company in assuring employees who are called to serve that we, their employers, are supporting them during this difficult period.

American Stores Company said we do not believe that any of our employees who are called to active duty or their families should suffer an economic or monetary hardship while serving their nation.

In the event that the present crisis should extend beyond six months and the President's authority to keep forces in the Mideast is renewed by Congress, we are prepared to revisit the problem at that time.

There is an immediate need to provide our employees and their loved ones with assurances that they and their families will have our support now and be protected into the future. American Stores Company will pay the difference between their military pay and benefits based upon their wage experience for the prior six months of service with the company.

DETROIT (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Customers of Detroit Edison, Michigan's largest electric utility, demanded so much electricity today that the company's demand record was nearly broken.

In the hour ending at 5 p.m. today, Detroit Edison delivered 9,030,000 kilowatts (kW) of electricity, rivaling the company's all-time record demand of 9,133,000 kW set Aug. 8, 1988, and surpassing the 1989 high of 8,704,000 set on July 10.

If the heat and humidity wave continues Wednesday, demand could go even higher than today.

The demand is being caused largely by increased air-conditioner use associated with the heat and humidity.

Detroit Edison officials said the company is not having any problems meeting customer demand and anticipates none in meeting a possible higher demand.

Monday's peak demand was 8,695,000 kW set in the hour ending at 3 p.m.

NILES, OHIO (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - RMI Titanium Co. (NYSE: RTI) president and chief executive officer, L. Frederick Gieg Jr., announced today that RMI's board of directors has authorized a common stock repurchase program.

Gieg pointed out that at today's price, RMI common stock is one of the best investments RMI could make. "This program offers us a chance not only to repurchase some of our stock at extremely attractive prices, but it also enables us to enhance shareholder value," he said.

The timing of the program and the amount of stock repurchased will be dictated by overall financial and market conditions. Gieg further explained, "The board has not set a target number of shares. Instead, the board has authorized us to spend up to $10 million on the initial program and has instructed us to be opportunistic in our purchases. The board intends to review the program regularly."

Gieg noted that orders have turned down recently, "but this would not appear to justify our stock price decline. Our order rate has slackened in response to what we believe to be a temporary commercial aerospace inventory correction -- not the much-talked-about and projected military program cutback. People are always surprised to learn that less than a third of our shipments are military related. Our major customers have a tremendous backlog of commercial aerospace business, and we feel RMI's titanium mill product shipments in 1991 will approach the levels of 1990.

"This action by the board reflects their confidence, along with that of management, in the future of titanium and the future of RMI," Gieg added.

RMI Titanium Co., headquartered in Niles, Ohio, is a leading manufacturer of titanium sponge, mill products and powder. The company's products are used principally in military and commercial aircraft and engines, chemical processing equipment, mesh for bridge and deck repair, pulp and paper production facilities, and medical implants.

NEW YORK (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - The Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation Limited today issued the following 1990 interim report:

The directors announced that the unaudited profit for the six months ended June 30, 1990, attributable to the shareholders of the bank was HKDI, 530 million (1989: HKDI, 930 million), a decrease of 20.7 percent. The profit was arrived at after providing for taxation and after making transfers to inner reserves.

The directors have declared an interim dividend of 13 cents per share (1989: 12.73 cents adjusted), an increase in distribution per share of 2.1 percent. The dividend will be payable on Oct. 1, 1990, to shareholders whose names are on the Register of Shareholders on Sept. 21, 1990. It will be payable in cash, with a scrip alternative, in accordance with arrangements previously announced.

The view expressed in last year's annual report that 1990 might prove to be a difficult year turned out to be correct. The slower pace of world economic growth, already evident in 1989, continued; and interest rates, reflecting attempts by the industrialized countries to dampen inflationary pressures, remained high.

Against this background, the international banking industry is facing a severe downturn, and although the strong performance of its traditional businesses has cushioned the group against the full effect of this downturn, we have been unable to avoid the general trend. At the operating level profits continued to grow, but the need to make significantly higher provisions out of current profits against the loan portfolios, particularly in the development countries, acted as a major drag upon profit growth.

IRVINE, CA (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - FundAmerica Inc. today announced that it has filed papers with the Florida State Circuit and Appellate Courts challenging the administrative actions by the Attorney General and Comptroller of Florida and asking that these matters be heard in the appropriate courts of law.

In a motion filed Friday, August 24, 1990, in Tallahassee, the company appealed directly to the State Appellate Court the entry of a default and an $8.2 million fine levied by the Florida State Comptroller's office for alleged securities violations.

In a separate action filed Monday, August 27, 1990, in Miami, FundAmerica challenged in the Florida State Circuit Court the actions of the State Attorney General seeking to prevent FundAmerica from doing business in the State.

The company said it had initiated the actions so it could defend itself before an impartial forum and prove that the charges were false.

In a separate step to clarify legal and regulatory questions, the company announced yesterday it had revised its marketing plan and initiated discussions concerning the revised plan with regulators in two of the eight states in which it has conducted business. The company said it plans to present the modified plan, which it believes will satisfy the concerns of regulators and ultimately allow it to resume operations under the supervision and authority of the U.S. Bankruptcy Court, to other state regulators, as well.

On August 17, 1990, FundAmerica voluntarily filed for protection under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code in response to a civil lawsuit filed July 24 in the United States District Court for Northern District of California and the subsequent preliminary injunction that froze the company's assets and called for it to cease operations.

PALO ALTO, CALIF (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Lincoln N.C. Realty Fund Incorporated ("LNCRF") (AMEX: LRF) announced today that it had entered into a Letter of Intent with Silverstone Partners, a California corporation ("Silverstone"), relating to the sale by LNCRF of its Lincoln Rancho Bernardo investment.

The Letter of Intent provides that LNCRF will sell the Lincoln Rancho Bernardo property in San Diego, to Silverstone and Silverstone's sole shareholder, David A. Gaon, a Los Angeles businessman, for a stated purchase price of $17,000,000, consisting of $15,350,000 in cash and 191,531 shares of LNCRF's common stock. Based upon this stated purchase price, each share being delivered by Silverstone and Gaon would have a value of approximately $8.61. The closing sale price of LNCRF's common stock on the American Stock Exchange on Aug. 23, 1990, was $6.75. The 191,531 shares owned by Silverstone and Gaon constitute approximately 9.6 percent of LNCRF's outstanding common stock. If the proposed transaction is closed, such shares will be canceled and LNCRF's outstanding shares of common stock will be reduced from 1,998,493 shares to 1,806,962 shares.

The consummation of the proposed sale to Silverstone and Gaon is subject to the satisfaction of certain conditions, including the execution of a mutually acceptable Purchase and Sale Agreement, satisfaction by Silverstone and Gaon of their due diligence investigation, the receipt by LNCRF of a deed in lieu of foreclosure for the Lincoln Rancho Bernardo property, satisfaction of certain standard closing conditions in real estate transactions, the receipt of necessary approvals with regard to the Multifamily Housing Revenue Bonds issued in connection with the financing of the property, approval by LNCRF's shareholders, LNCRF's receipt of a fairness opinion, and confirmation of financing by Silverstone and Gaon. LNCRF hopes to consummate the sale by Dec. 31, 1990.

In July 1990, LNCRF announced that it had recommenced negotiations with Silverstone relating to a possible tender offer by Silverstone to purchase up to all of the outstanding stock and warrants of LNCRF. The transactions contemplated by the Letter of Intent were the end result of such negotiations.

LNCRF's board of directors intends to discuss the future alternatives for LNCRF at its next meeting.

LNCRF is a real estate investment trust. LNCRF's securities are listed on the American and Pacific stock exchanges.

LAGUNA NIGUEL, CA (AUG. 28) PR NEWSWIRE - Furon Company (NASDAQ: FCBN) announced today that second quarter net income increased 30 percent and sales (after adjusting for divestitures) were up 7 percent over the same period last year.

For the three months ended Aug. 4, 1990, net income rose to $2,273,000, equal to $.28 per share fully diluted, from $1,743,000, equal to $.24 per share fully diluted, in the prior year period.

For the six-month period, net income advanced to 28 percent to $5,508,000, equal to $.69 per share fully diluted, from $4,300,000 or $.57 per share fully diluted, for the same period a year ago. Sales for the year-to-date period increased 2 percent to $172,411,000 from $169,859,000. Sales were up 6 percent for the six-month period after adjusting for divestitures.

The company also announced that it was notified Aug. 27 that it had lost its arbitration claim against the previous owners of a business it acquired 2 years ago. The financial impact of the arbitrators' award was $.05 per share fully diluted. Chairman Peter Churm said, "Although we are surprised and disappointed by the outcome, and while we are putting the financial impact of the matter behind us, we are considering whether or not to appeal the arbitrators' ruling."

Omitting the ruling and related arbitration expenses, net income was up more than 79 percent over the second quarter a year ago. Chairman Churm attributed the positive second quarter performance from operations to continued good business conditions throughout most of the period and reduced interest costs because of a reduction of approximately $70,000,000 in long-term debt from a year ago.

He went on to say, "We are pleased with the strength of our balance sheet after the conversion of the $25,000,000 convertible subordinated debentures during the quarter. As we move into the second half of the fiscal year, the Mid-East crisis and general economy are posing uncertainties with respect to the manufacturing sector. Since the majority of Furon's raw materials are not petroleum-based, escalating oil prices should not have a material effect on our operations. While our new order rate has slowed somewhat, we are still optimistic about a favorable second half."

Furon (formerly The Fluorocarbon Company) is a producer of quality polymer products for the industrial market. The company services a wide range of industries including petrochemical, aerospace, medical, transportation, pollution control and fluid power.

KOKOLI, Gambia (AUG. 28) UPI - New talks to negotiate a cease-fire to the eight-month Liberian civil war began without the participation of former rebel leader Prince Johnson, diplomats said.

The conference, called by Gambian President Dawda Jawara under the auspices of the Economic Community of West African States, began late Monday at a beachfront hotel 13 miles from the capital with Jawara calling on delegates to ''end the nightmare'' in Liberia.

''History will not look kindly on your failure,'' he said.

Parties to the talks had waited six hours for Johnson and finally went ahead without him. Johnson apparently missed a plane in neighboring Sierra Leone and was expected at the talks Tuesday.

Following several public speeches, delegates met in private at the Kairaba Beach Hotel in Kokoli 13 miles from the Gambian capital of Banjul.

Jawara called the conference several weeks ago in an effort to bring an end to the war between rebels and troops loyal to Liberian President Samuel Doe.

The war has been at a stalemate for about two months, with rebel leader Charles Taylor's troops in control of most of the countryside and parts of the Liberian capital of Monrovia but unable to dislodge Doe from his heavily protected seaside palace.

A second rebel faction led by Johnson decided to join Doe's forces this month in an attempt to keep Taylor from taking power.

Johnson was expected in the talks to try to exert influence over the formation of an interim government, sources close to the negotiations said.

The expected arrival in Kotu of Johnson, an ally of Taylor's before breaking away to form his own rebel faction, probably means Taylor will not appear for the talks, the sources added.

A delegation representing Taylor has been in Gambia for several days, but it was not clear Monday whether it will take part in the formal talks. Other participants include the Liberian Action Party and the Group of Concerned Liberians in the United States, two factions not involved in the hostilities.

Royal Wharton, who was on his way to serve as a political officer at the U.S. Embassy in Monrovia, will attend the talks as an unofficial U.S. observer, sources close to the negotiations said.

Jawara's goal is to establish an interim government in Liberia once a peace-keeping force formed by five African states - Nigeria, Sierra Leone, Guinea, Gambia and Ghana - is able to establish a cease-fire in the country.

Some troops from the peace-keeping force have been in place since late last week. A Nigerian frigate is expected to leave Sierra Leone for Liberia Wednesday with more troops.

Not all West African countries support placement of the peace-keeping troops, and there were reports from Lagos that Nigeria was expected to begin a diplomatic effort to heal rifts between governments created by formation of the international force.

Burkina Faso President Capt. Blaise Campaore has denounced the decision to create the peace-keeping force and stated that intervention will only lead to an extension of the conflict. Togo rescinded a decision to join the force just hours before it moved into Monrovia.

Reports of fighting over the weekend between Taylor's National Patriotic Front of Liberia guerrillas and the peace-keeping force, however, have made the establishment of a cease-fire and an interim government more difficult, sources close to the talks said.

The talks have also been stalled by Taylor's unclear attitude toward them. Last week, Taylor failed to appear, dooming three days of scheduled talks between the National Patriotic Front and the other groups present in Gambia. The guerrilla representatives have already met four times with Jawara and Nigerian President Ibrahim Babangida, but the talks have produced no results.

A proposal by Patriotic Front delegate Tom Woewiyu, who would become defense minister if Taylor reaches power, to arrange a 10-day cease-fire and send a group of civilians to assess the situation in Liberia was rejected because it required Doe to leave the country for the period.

Woewiyu also called for elections to be held six months after the formation of an interim government while the Economic Community of West African States has called for elections one year after the interim government takes power.

Doe, who took power 10 years ago in a bloody coup, had earlier called new elections for next year and pledged not to run again, but the rebels rejected the move as too little, too late and have demanded his immediate ouster.

Gambia's Jawara, who supervised last week's mediation efforts, said in a statement Sunday that negotiators attempted to persuade the front to agree to a cease-fire but ''it became apparent that the (front) would only be satisfied if peace were to be achieved on its own terms and to the exclusion of all other interested parties.''

Nearly 500,000 Liberian refugees have fled to three countries next to the strife-torn nation, a fact-finding group from the Organization of African Unity reported during the weekend.

More members of the Gio and Mano tribes that supported Taylor have been fleeing Liberia because Doe's troops have targeted them for reprisal massacres, officials said.

Tens of thousands of Liberians have died, most victims of massacres.

AMMAN, Jordan (AUG. 28) UPI - Hundreds of foreigners displaced by the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait poured into Amman in trucks and buses, cars and vans, most forced to reside in makeshift camps for lack of money and assistance from their governments.

''We feel ignored,'' said Mana Singhe, 31, from Colombo, Sri Lanka, formerly an air conditioning technician at a Kuwaiti military base. ''Every day we are asking our consulate and they advise us that there is no message from our government.''

Singhe and more than 1,000 other Sri Lankans are among some 17,000 cash-strapped refugees at the Amman International Fairground, the largest accommodation site in the city. Others are staying in another fairground, in buildings or mosques.

There were believed to be more than 30,000 refugees in the city, most former day laborers in Kuwait who fled fearing the outbreak of war.

Some 500 people were flooding into the Amman International Fair ground almost every hour Monday, but only about 250 were expected to leave during the day, most of them to India, which has been providing its nationals with air tickets.

But the governments of the other refugees, including Filipinos, Somalians, Pakistanis and Nepalese, have yet to gear up repatriation programs because of the costs, officials said.

Outside the grounds' huge exhibition hall, newcomers waited in long lines to sign in, many sitting on battered suitcases, disoriented or fatigued from the long drive from Kuwait, which some said took five days.

The exhibition hall was filled with about 5,000 people sprawled side-to-side, head-to-toe on foam-rubber mattresses, sleeping or chatting.

The rest have been forced to use tents pitched on a sun-baked rocky field outside, or like Singhe, have erected lean-to shelters of blankets, sheets and towels tied by strings to the walls that surround the site.

''We left everything in Kuwait. I only took my clothes with me,'' Singhe said. ''In the daytime it is uncomfortable because of the heat and in the nighttime it is very cold.''

In a nearby cement drainage ditch, men in sarongs bathed in water scooped from plastic buckets. Some of the few women in the camp erected cloth screens to wash behind.

And as the refugees arrived, so too did Jordanians in cars carrying donations of flat bread and other food, providing vital help to a government that is already under severe financial strain from observing U.N. sanctions against Iraq.

''Frankly speaking, we depend on this action by local people,'' said Hishani al-Ish, a Jordanian Islamic Bank executive who volunteered to help administer the camp, aided by platoons of other professionals, Boy Scouts and housewives.

With the donations and assistance from foreign governments and aid organizations, Jordan has overcome for now the initial problems posed by the influx that forced a temporary border closure last week. Officials are providing water, three modest meals daily and medical care for the refugees.

But aside from Indians, the only refugees able to return home in large numbers are Egyptians, who are diverted from the border crossing at Rweished directly to the Red Sea port of Aqaba, from where they are ferried home by plane and boat, al-Ish said.

Unless the pace of repatriating other foreign nationals increases, he said the effort may hit new problems.

''There is no balance between what is coming in and what is going out,'' he said.

Al-Ish said tension has been growing among the refugees.

''There are some personal problems, quarrels among themselves. We have a lot of police scattered to prevent this. It can't be helped. It reflects what is in their hearts,'' al-Ish said.

Many refugees are also suffering from depression because they abandoned jobs that kept remittances flowing home to their families and now must return home with little prospect of finding work, he said.

Al-Ish said the government is now in a race against the onset at the beginning of next month of the Middle Eastern winter, when it will have to find blankets and stoves to keep refugees warm.

(AUG. 28) UPI - Washington Monday took action against Iraq... but Baghdad ordered its tankers to avoid confrontations with U-S warships in the Persian Gulf. The U-S State Department announced it was giving 36 of Iraq's 55 diplomats in Washington 72 hours to leave the country. Shipping sources in the gulf region says Iraq's request Monday indicates that it is shying away from a military battle with U-S forces.

Blues guitarist Stevie Ray Vaughan was killed early Monday morning in a helicopter crash shortly after a show at Wisconsin's Alpine Valley Music Theater. Four others aboard the chopper also died in the crash. Vaughan had just completed a show with fellow guitar legends Eric Clapton and Buddy Guy when he boarded the helicopter headed for Chicago. Guy says Vaughan was flying to the airport because he was in a hurry to return to his girlfriend in New York.

The Owen J-Roberts School District in Chester County, Pennsylvania, has decided to ban school prayer. The district's school board voted unanimously Monday night in favor of the policy forbidding prayer at all school activities. The action follows a court injunction resulting from a lawsuit against benediction during commencement ceremonies.

Police in Gainesville, Florida, say it's too early to know if three women whose bodies were found in the southwest part of the city were killed by the same person. The third victim was found Monday about two miles from a building where a pair of University of Florida coeds were slain. A police officer who was asked if the victims had been dismembered or mutilated said that was NOT ''way off the mark.''

(AUG. 28) UPI - Aerial spraying Monday to kill encephalitis-carrying mosquitoes in Massachusetts came too late for an UNidentified seven-year-old boy. Officials in Boston confirm that the boy has contracted the rare, and sometimes fatal disease Eastern encephalitis. He is the first person in the state to test positive for the disease in six years. The boy is listed in stable condition at an UNdisclosed hospital.

Players were swinging at more than baseballs Monday night in Toronto in the baseball game between the Blue Jays and the Milwaukee Brewers. The game was delayed about a half hour because swarms of gnats invaded the Toronto Skydome. Players used nets and bug spray to keep the pesky critters away before the roof of the stadium was finally closed and the Brewers won 4-2.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 28) UPI - An American who was detained in Kuwait following Iraq's invasion of the tiny Persian Gulf nation died of natural causes in southern Iraq, apparently of a heart attack, the State Department said Tuesday.

The State Department said U.S. officials in Baghdad were informed by the Iraqi Foreign Ministry that the American, believed to be in his mid-50s, died in the southern Iraqi city of Basra.

Baghdad has detained scores of Americans and other foreigners in Iraq and Kuwait to be used as human shields to deter an attack on key Iraqi military and industrial sites. The United States deployed a massive military force in the region following Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait and its troop buildup on the Saudi border.

The American's death is the first reported fatality among the captives, and likely will raise questions about his access to medical attention under the tense circumstances.

The man's identity was being withheld pending positive identification and notification of relatives, said the department, which added the man was a private citizen and not associated with Washington's diplomatic mission in Kuwait.

U.S. officials in Baghdad were informed of the death Monday, and told the American died of natural causes, most likely a heart attack, the State Department said. It was not immediately known when the death occurred, the department said.

The Iraqi Foreign Ministry told U.S. officials in Baghdad they would be allowed to have a representative at the autopsy and the body would be turned over the embassy.

EAST TROY, Wis. (AUG. 28) UPI - Blues guitarist Stevie Ray Vaughan had beaten drugs and alcohol and, according to his friends, was playing the best music of his life when he died in a helicopter crash.

Terry Lickona, who produced a show featuring Vaughan for Public Television's ''Austin City Limits,'' said the guitarist was ''at the peak of his career.''

''He was still young enough and had the energy and vitality. He probably would never be better and it showed in his music.

''He had completely cleaned up. The only drug he did while he was here was an allergy pill. He was off everything. He had such a positive outlook on life and his music. He had no ego. He was just very down to Earth.''

Vaughan, who was his second Grammy this year and recently finished recording an album with his brother, was open about his fight against drugs and said his own playing improved during his recovery.

The guitarist and four others were killed Monday just after Vaughan performed with his brother, Jimmie, rock legend Eric Clapton, Robert Cray and Buddy Guy.

George Wein, producer of jazz and blues festivals, called Vaughan ''the most important young white blues artist in the world.''

''It's especially sad this happened because Stevie Ray had straightened his life out. He was in beautiful shape - musically, mentally, physically.

''He was really starting to enjoy his life and communicate with people. To have this happen now is a real tragedy.''

Mac Rebennack, the New Orleans-inspired pianist popularly known as Dr. John, said in New York that Vaughan's commitment to the blues, as well as his honesty about his battle with the bottle, served as a positive example.

''He was really an inspiration to a lot of musicians,'' Rebennack said. ''He was responsible for a lot of people going into rehab and giving them a chance to regroup their lives.''

Vaughan, 35, had just finished a performance at the nearby Alpine Valley Music Theater, topping off the show with a rousing jam on the blues classic ''Sweet Home Chicago.'' Before the song began, Clapton referred to Vaughan and the others as ''the greatest guitar players in the world.''

A National Transportation Safety Board investigator said the five-seat Bell 206 Jet Ranger helicopter flew into the side of a 1,000-foot ski hill. There was no evidence the helicopter hit anything else first.

''We've got evidence of a high-energy impact at a relatively low altitude and we have wreckage up the hill,'' NTSB investigator William Bruce said. ''It was being driven rather than falling free.''

Besides Vaughan, those killed in the crash were Bobby Brooks, Clapton's booking agent; Nigel Browne, Clapton's bodyguard; Colin Smythe, one of Clapton's tour managers, and the pilot, Jeff Brown, said Walworth County Coroner John T. Griebel. Their bodies were taken to the county morgue in Elkhorn for autopsies, the coroner said.

''Bobby Brooks, Nigel Browne, Colin Smythe and Stevie Ray Vaughan were my companions, my associates and my friends,'' Clapton said through his press agent. ''This is a tragic loss of some very special people. I will miss all of them very much.''

Guy, in a telephone interview from his home in Country Club Hills, Ill., called Sunday's performance ''the most incredible set I've ever heard (Vaughan) play.''

''He was one of the guys who gave so much to the blues. I can't even explain it,'' said Guy, a Chicago blues legend in his own right. ''He was one of the greatest people you'd ever want to meet.''

Vaughan won a ''best traditional blues recording'' Grammy in 1984 for ''Couldn't Stand the Weather,'' a cut off his platinum album ''Double Trouble.'' He won this year in the ''contemporary blues'' category for his record ''In Step.''

The Vaughan brothers' long-awaited collaboration album ''Family Style'' is due out Sept. 25 and Stevie Ray Vaughan was to start a European tour next week.

The Vaughans developed a love of the blues by listening to their parents' records while growing up in Dallas.

Stevie Ray moved to Austin, Texas, in the mid-1970s, playing in Storm and the Cobras before putting together his own trio, Double Trouble.

The band played tiny nightclubs in the early 1980s, but a few years later Vaughan, with his trademark bolero hat and battered Stratocaster, and Double Trouble were a headline act in arena shows.

Fort Worth, Texas, saxophonist Johnny Reno, who played with Vaughan in the first incarnation of the band Double Trouble, said the guitarist never believed he would grow old.

Vaughan always had a real weird premonition about dying young,'' Reno said. ''He had a spiritual link with Jimi Hendrix who died at age 27, he really believed that.''

Funeral arrangements had not been announced by late Monday. Relatives said Jimmie Vaughan was expected to return with the body to Laurel Land Memorial Park, where burial would take place.

A candlelight vigil was held Monday night at Zilker Park in Austin, where Vaughan lived since the early 1970s.

(AUG. 28) UPI - Even Mother Nature has turned against the Blue Jays.

Fresh off three straight shutouts at the hands of the Boston Red Sox, Toronto dropped even further back in the AL East Monday with a 4-2 loss to the Milwaukee Brewers in a game that was delayed by a swarm of gnats.

''It was unplayable,'' Brewers Manager Tom Trebelhorn said. ''Pop flies, ground balls, trying to pitch they flew in your eyes, trying to hit they flew in your eyes.''

B.J. Surhoff was a bit more graphic.

The Milwaukee catcher compared the scene to ''flies on horse manure.''

Swarms of bugs clouded the field for five innings before head umpire Don Denkinger ordered the roof of the Skydome closed.

The Jays were leading 2-1 before the 35-minute delay, but Toronto Manager Cito Gaston insisted that the stoppage in play didn't hurt his team's concentration.

''If anything, I thought it would be better for us, because (Milwaukee starter Ted) Higuera has a bad back,'' said Gaston, who watched his club fall five games out of first. ''Thirty-five minutes is a long time to sit out.''

Instead, Higuera, 8-6, came back with four strikeouts after the delay and gave up only one hit in the last four innings.

''He had one of those games that he gets sometimes,'' Trebelhorn said. ''He'll be throwing harder in the seventh, eighth and ninth than in the first, second and third.''

Boston's Mike Boddicker did a pretty fair job himself in the Red Sox's 12-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians, despite allowing a seventh-inning home run to Chris James that snapped a string of 33 consecutive scoreless innings by Boston's pitching staff.

''I knew about it, but it was going to end sooner or later,'' Boddicker said. ''I think one reason it ended is that we had such a big lead it gave me the opportunity to make a mistake. In the other three games (2-0, 1-0, and 1-0 victories over Toronto over the weekend), they were all close ballgames where one mistake could lead to a loss.

''I wanted to make sure we got the win. That's what's important.''

Boddicker, 13-8, got help from centerfielder Ellis Burks, who slugged two home runs in an eight-run Boston fourth.

''That's beautiful to see,'' Boddicker said.

Burks is the 23rd player to hit two homers in one inning. The last player to accomplish the feat was Dale Murphy, on July 27 last year. The only other Boston player to hit two homers in one inning was Bill Regan in 1928.

''It was a good thing to come in and not let down after a big series in Toronto,'' Boddicker said.

Elsewhere in the American League: New York blanked Baltimore 4-0, Minnesota slammed Chicago 7-0 and California slugged Texas 7-3.

In the National League, it was: San Diego 4, Montreal 1.

-- AROUND THE AL --

Yankees 4, Orioles 0

At Baltimore, Andy Hawkins allowed four hits over 8 2-3 innings and Jesse Barfield, Matt Nokes and Roberto Kelly provided solo home runs to send the Orioles to their ninth loss in their last 12 games. Hawkins, 5-10, won for the fourth time in his last six starts. Ben McDonald, 5-3, lost his third straight start.

Twins 7, White Sox 0

At Minneapolis, Allan Anderson tossed a four-hitter for his first shutout of the season and Gene Larkin homered, tripled and matched a career-high with four RBI. Anderson, 6-16, registered his third straight complete game and his third career shutout. The White Sox dropped 5 1-2 games behind the Oakland Athletics in the AL West.

Angels 7, Rangers 3

At Anaheim, Calif., Dick Schofield's two-out single broke a 3-3 tie and Devon White followed with a three-run home run to cap an eighth-inning rally. John Barfield fell to 3-1. Reliever Willie Fraser, 5-3, earned the win. Texas starter Charlie Hough walked 10 batters - a career high and a team record.

(AUG. 28) UPI - Iraq was ''very wise'' to order its tankers to avoid conflicts with U.S.-led warships in the Middle East because the vessels ''would be blown out of the water'' if they challenged enforcement of U.N.-mandated sanctions against Baghdad, a Persian Gulf shipping source said.

The order to Iraqi tankers appeared to indicate Iraqi President Saddam Hussein was seeking to avoid a confrontation with Western forces that poured into the Middle East after Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait and also in response to Baghdad's troop buildup on the Saudi border.

Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz was quoted on Baghdad Radio as saying Monday his country would not be the one to ''strike first,'' and Saudi Arabia has said Iraqi troops had pulled back from the Saudi border.

A shipping source in Bahrain who monitors gulf ship movements and radio communications said: ''We understand the Iraqis have ordered their people to keep low and not break the blockade for now.''

''I think the Iraqis are very wise under the circumstances to avoid giving the Americans any chance to retaliate,'' the shipping source said. ''Quite clearly, they would be blown out of the water within seconds.''

National security adviser Brent Scowcroft told ABC News the United States will offer asylum to any Iraqi sailors who ''respond peacefully'' to efforts in the gulf to prevent supplies from moving to and from Iraq.

At the United Nations, Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar said he will seek the withdrawal of Iraqi troops from Kuwait and the release of detained foreigners when he meets for ''extensive and comprehensive'' discussions with Aziz Thursday in Amman, Jordan. Kuwait's exiled government welcomed the move, but warned against any negotiations until Iraqi troops withdrew.

The United States swiftly responded to the forced detention in Baghdad of U.S. Embassy personnel from Kuwait. Iraq has said it will keep almost 50 male embassy employees in Iraq until the United States capitulates and closes its embassy in Kuwait - an order Washington has refused because it does not recognize Iraq's annexation of the emirate.

Iraqi Ambassador Mohamed al-Mashat was called to the State Department Monday to meet with acting Secretary Lawrence Eagleburger to discuss ''restrictions to be placed on the Iraqi Embassy in the United States,'' a source said.

Afterward, State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said the number of authorized people at the Iraqi Embassy in Washington was being cut to 19 from 55. She said the 36 required to leave would include seven accredited diplomats.

The gulf crisis continued to cause upheaval in the financial world. Oil prices plunged at record rates Monday, with gasoline falling nearly 15 cents a gallon as prospects for war in the Middle East appeared to recede. World stock markets have surged this week. Tokyo's key Nikkei indicator staged a sharp rally Tuesday, as traders believed the possibility of a military conflict in the region was decreasing.

In Vienna, members of OPEC failed to agree on a Saudi proposal that would allow the cartel countries to pump more oil than their quotas in order to make up for the 5 million barrels a day shortfall caused by the boycott of Iraqi and Kuwaiti crude.

(AUG. 28) UPI - Tokyo's key stock market indicator rose sharply Tuesday, following a day of steep gains on other World exchanges fueled by sentiment that tension was easing in the Middle East.

Tokyo's key Nikkei average of 225 selected stocks rose 569.00 yen to close Tuesday at 25,710.76. The Nikkei gained 976 yen Monday. News that oil prices fell more than $4 a barrel overnight and that Wall Street had rallied invigorated the market, brokers said.

Share prices began to flag in midafternoon on rumors that Iraq had killed some of its foreign hostages, but then reversed upward when a rumor that Iraq was pulling back from the Saudi border swept the trading floor, said analyst Masashi Kubota of Kokusai Securities Co.

Despite the bull run, Kubota said, ''This is only a temporary rise.''

In New York Monday, share prices on the Stock Exchange staged a powerful rally fueled by an easing of fears about a possible war in the Middle East and continued their climb throughout the session for the Dow Jones' biggest one-day gain in 10 months.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which jumped 49.50 Friday, gained 78.96 to close at 2,611.88. The gain was the biggest of the year and the best since a surge of 88.12 Oct. 16, when the market bounced back from a 190-point ''mini-crash'' the previous Friday.

''The tension is decreasing and it will remain this way until the meeting Thursday in Amman, Jordan, between U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar and Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz,'' said David Mizrahi, editor of the authoritative MidEast report.

''The decreased tension had a favorable impact on world markets and this will last for a few more days at least.''

Perez de Cuellar and Aziz are expected to attempt to solve the conflict in the Persian Gulf through a diplomatic settlement.

As share prices soared on world markets, oil prices dived on indications the informal meeting in Vienna of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries was about to allow higher individual country production to make up for the loss of Iraqi and Kuwaiti output. Late afternoon on the New York Mercantile Exchange, oil prices were down $4.51 a barrel.

Investors from Tokyo to New York steadily pushed stock prices up and most world markets scored gains amounting to several percentage points of their respective indexes.

The prospects of higher interest rates in Japan and the continued strength of the yen also helped attract investors to the Tokyo market.

Mizrahi said markets worldwide were reacting to the perception that a full-scale war was not about to break out in the gulf.

''Iraqi President Saddam Hussein has let time elapse, allowing the build-up of U.S. troops in Saudi Arabia,'' Mizrahi said. ''If Hussein had wanted to attack Saudi Arabia, he would have moved against Saudi Arabia right after invading Kuwait, and investors are aware of this.''

The upward trend spilled over from Asia to Europe and stock prices surged 6.1 percent on the Frankfurt Stock Exchange Monday on reports of decreased tension in the Middle East. The Frankfurt market also attracted British investors since the London International stock exchange was closed for a bank holiday.

The closely watched German Stock Index gained 95.76 points to close at 1,654.80 points, closing at the day's high.

At the Paris Bourse, the Agefi General Index gained 4.3 percent, an advance based on increased confidence about the Middle East situation as well as on the return to the market place of many investors after the traditional month-long summer vacation in France.

In Zurich, dealers said the Credit Suisse Stock Index made some advance in sympathy with the main world markets, up 18.7 points to 561.3. In Milan, the Stock Index gained 5 percent of its value on the same technical rebound that dominated other markets.

Iraq's President Saddam Hussein appears to be backing off from confrontation with Western forces in the Persian Gulf. Iraq has ordered its tankers to avoid conflicts with U-S-led warships in the Gulf. Baghdad Radio quotes the Iraqi foreign minister as saying his country will NOT be the one to ''strike first.''

President Bush says he does NOT believe steps taken by the State Department against Iraq will escalate tensions in the Persian Gulf. 36 Iraqi diplomats were ordered to leave the United States by Thursday, in retaliation for Baghdad's actions against Americans in Kuwait and Iraq.

The State Department says an American who was detained in Kuwait following the Iraqi invasion has died of natural causes in southern Iraq, apparently of a heart attack. The death is the first reported fatality among scores of Americans and foreigners detained by Iraq.

Gambia's president is calling on delegates to Liberian peace talks to ''end the nightmare'' in the West African nation. The talks aimed at negotiating a cease-fire in the Liberian civil war began yesterday at a beachfront hotel 13 miles from Gambia's capital. Liberian rebels are trying to topple President Saumel Doe.

The offices of Bulgaria's Socialist Party were heavily damaged in an attack by anti-communist protesters Sunday night, and the country's major political parties are NOT happy about it. Both the Socialists and the democratic opposition condemn the attack, with one Socialist leader calling it a ''barbaric act.''

WASHINGTON (AUG. 28) UPI - Israeli intelligence reports indicate Jordan is continuing to cooperate militarily with Iraq and Yemen has been sending in food and other supplies to Baghdad in violation of the U.N.-sanctioned trade embargo against Iraq, The Washington Post reported Tuesday.

The Post, citing sources in its report from Jerusalem, said the latest Israeli intelligence assessments conclude there has been no weakening in Iraq's military position or supplies since the trade embargo began.

The Israeli intelligence reports indicate Jordanian technicians have been instructing the Iraqis on how to operate U.S.-made Hawk anti-aircraft missiles that Iraq captured from Kuwait, the Post reported.

This assistance, Israeli intelligence suggests, may allow Iraq to turn the missiles against U.S. aircraft in the event of a military conflict between Iraqi forces and the U.S.-led multinational force deployed in the region, the newspaper said.

The Israeli sources also said the Jordanian air force has been making daily reconnaissance flights along Jordan's borders with Saudi Arabia and Israel, then forwarding the information to Baghdad, the Post said.

Also, the sources said Yemen is sending into Iraq badly needed supplies by air, including food, the newspaper said.

Yemen and Jordan have expressed support for the U.N. sanctions against Baghdad, although both have not been as harsh as other Arab nations in their condemnation of Iraq's invasion of Kuwait Aug. 2 and its massing of troops on the Saudi border.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AUG. 28) UPI - The crisis in the Middle East and the resulting surge in oil prices threatens to cut Thailand's double-digit economic growth in half, economists said Tuesday.

''The crisis certainly has affected the Thai economy. High oil prices will seriously damage every economic sector,'' said Krirkkiat Phipatseritham, rector of Thammasat University.

Krirkkiat said Thailand may face a sharp drop in growth next year if tensions in the Middle East continue.

''Our growth rate could be reduced by half to about 5 percent if the oil price reaches $30 per barrel,'' he said.

Narongchai Akrasanee, vice president of Thailand Development Research Institute, made a similar prediction.

''The Gulf crisis and the new high oil prices will adversely affect the prospects of the Thai economy,'' he said.

Narongchai said the Thai growth rate will drop to about 6.5 percent if the average oil price is $23-$25 per barrel.

The growth rate will drop to 5.3 percent if the annual average cost of oil is more than $25 per barrel, Narongchai added.

The Thai stock market has lost nearly 30 percent of its value since Iraq invaded Kuwait Aug. 2.

Over the past three years, Thailand has enjoyed one of the highest economic growth rates in the world, growing 13.4 percent in 1988 and 12.2 percent in 1989, with a minimum of 10 percent forecast by observers for 1990.

''A lot of industrial production has been set up in our country,'' said Krirkiat. ''If something (bad) occurs, it will be even worse than we faced in the recession six years ago.''

Although Thailand produces some coal, oil and natural gas, it must import oil for nearly 70 percent of its energy needs. Most of that oil comes from the Middle East.

Thai officials have said world price hikes have not yet affected local petroleum product prices because most purchases of imported oil were on long-term contracts. The effects would start to be felt in September, they said.

Currently, a government subsidy fund keeps domestic fuel prices down once crude oil prices rise above $18 per barrel.

The Thai government, however, has indicated a new system will soon be initiated that allows domestic prices to fluctuate with world prices.

Krirkkiat said Thailand uses more than 50 percent of its petroleum in transportation systems. Since transportation affects all types of businesses, the prices of goods will have to rise, he indicated.

''I think now the confidence of business is getting worse,'' he said.

Narongchai, however, said the country's financial strength and tough oil conservation measures would still help Thailand maintain a better growth rate than most countries.

The Thai government has urged the public to minimize oil consumption. For example, the government committee of petroleum policy will ask cement plants able to burn coal to reduce their use of oil.

The government also is considering a one-hour cutback in broadcast hours for television and radio stations.

Street lights may also be darkened in order to reduce the consumption of oil for electricity generation.

But the economists said no amount of conservation would protect the Thai economy from the loss of foreign markets if high oil prices triggered a world-wide recession.

The Thai economy has become increasingly dependent on exports, last year exporting $24 billion worth of goods.

Exports have been growing at more than 30 percent, with most of it going to the economies of the United States, Japan and the European Community - all heavily dependent on imported oil.

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AUG. 28) UPI - Army prosecutors have suggested that lawyers for a senior non-commisisoned officer accused of killing an unidentified Panamanian during last year's invasion of Panama may argue that the victim was dead or near death when he was shot.

Capt. Charles Luckey raised that possibility Monday when he questioned jurors at the start of the court martial of 1st Sgt. Roberto Enrique Bryan a Panamanian native charged with unpremeditated murder.

Opening statements were to be made Tuesday morning.

Mark Waple, a Fayetteville attorney defending Bryan, said he has not decided whether he will call the sergeant to testify.

Col. Raymond McRorie, presiding over the trial at Fort Bragg, dismissed four members of a 12-member jury panel who had indicated knowledge of the case through news coverage. The remaining eight enlisted men and officers will hear the testimony.

Luckey successfully challenged one of the jurors, a combat veteran who said the government would ''have to present some pretty strong stuff'' to prove that a soldier in combat could be guilty of unpremediated murder.

Luckey asked one juror if it would make any difference in his decision whether the victim was dead or close to it when Bryan shot him.

Bryan, 43, a member of the 82nd Airborne Division, was charged with shooting the Panamanian during an airborne assault on the Central American country.

Bryan said he shot the man after he threw a hand grenade that wounded 10 U.S. soldiers and was about to hurl a second one.

But Lt. Brandon Thomas, a witness, said the shooting took place as Bryan dragged the Panamanian away from the area.

If convicted, Bryan could get life imprisonment and a dishonorable discharge. The Panama native is the first soldier since the Vietnam War to be charged with murder in combat.

Bryan's court martial has sparked mounting questions about the Army's motive in charging the sergeant.

Lt. Gen. Gary Luck, commander at Fort Bragg, ordered prosecution for unpremeditated murder, overriding recommendations by investigators that Bryan be charged only with involuntary manslaughter and by Bryan's commanding officer, Col. Jack Nix, that all charges be dismissed.

The trial may shed light on the question of when deadly force by U.S. troops is warranted. A witness is expected to describe a fuller picture of what U.S. soldiers encountered during the first days of the invasion that ousted strongman Manuel Noriega.

One of the major problems is that the Army identifies the victim only as ''an unidentified Panamanian.''

''The Army knows that everybody is watching,'' said Emile Milne, an aide to Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., who has questioned the Army's motivation for prosecutin Bryan. ''This one is not behind closed doors.''

The Army imposed a gag order on lawyers, witnesses, jurors and the defendant and the news media is prohibited from interviewing spectators or witnesses in the courtroom or in the court building.

(AUG. 28) UPI - Stock prices on the Tokyo Stock Exchange rose Tuesday for the third consecutive session in a rally fueled by a fall in oil prices and bond yields.

The key Nikkei average of 225 selected stocks, which gained 976 points Monday, rose another 569.00 points to close at 25,710.76.

The broader Tokyo Stock Price Index jumped 42.92 points to 1,947,51. TOPIX which measures all shares traded on the exchange's first section, had risen 58.87 points Monday.

Volume was much higher. An estimated 480 million shares changed hands, compared with 351.69 million Monday.

News that oil prices fell more than $4 overnight and that Wall Street had rallied gave strength to the market, brokers said.

The yen's strong performance against the dollar also boosted investor confidence.

Bargain hunting sustained the Nikkei's rebound for a third straight session. The index had lost more than one-fifth of its value since Iraq's invasion of Kuwait Aug. 2.

Elsewhere in Asia, share prices soared on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange, taking their cue from solid gains in New York and Tokyo and reacting to dimming prospects of war in the Gulf.

The Hang Seng Index jumped 160.93, 5.52 percent, to close at 3,078.94. The rise followed a gain of 46.60 points Friday. The market was closed Monday for a national holiday.

Volume was a strong 1.50 billion units, up from Friday's turnover of 1.2 billion units.

Share prices ended higher in active trading on the Singapore Stock Exchange with bargain hunters pushing prices mostly higher.

The Straits Times Industrial Index gained 19.18 to 1217.41.

The exchange recorded a turnover of 141.99 million units.

ANKARA, TURKEY (AUG. 28) UPI - A group of 52 American women and children permitted to leave Iraq departed for the United States Tuesday in a special plane that took off from a NATO air base in southern Turkey, a U.S. Embassy official said.

The women and children, mainly dependents of U.S. Embassy personnel in Kuwait, took off from the Incirlik air base early Tuesday, heading for the United States with a brief refueling stop in Paris, the official said.

An earlier report Monday said the group would be flown to Frankfurt, West Germany, but a U.S. Embassy source said that information was incorrect.

An original group of 55 left Baghdad at 5 a.m. Sunday and arrived at the Turkish side of the border gate about 2:30 a.m. Monday. Three men in the group were held at the border by the Iraqi authorities and taken back to Baghdad.

The 52 women and children were among more than 100 American dependents and non-essential embassy personnel who left Kuwait for Iraq last week after assurances they would be allowed to leave.

A U.S. Embassy official in Ankara said 54 male embassy personnel were, however, forbidden to leave Baghdad Sunday and only the dependents were allowed to go. ''We are working very hard to secure their release as well '' an embassy spokeswoman said.

In retaliation, the U.S. administration expelled a group of Iraqi diplomats from the United States.

BEIJING (AUG. 28) UPI - Premier Li Peng bridled at closer Soviet-U.S. ties Tuesday, saying improved relations between the superpowers are fostering global ''imbalance'' and exacerbating the Mideast crisis.

''The gulf crisis has shown that the global pattern of relations between the states has become imbalanced following the relaxation of relations between the United States and the Soviet Union,'' the official Xinhua news agency quoted Li as saying.

Li was addressing the current session of the standing committee of the National People's Congress, China's rubber-stamp parliament.

The hard-line premier said the world has become ''a more turbulent place'' since the easing of Cold War tensions and cited as an example the deployment of U.S. troops in the Middle East.

''The situation has become very serious in the gulf region since the deployment of military forces by the United States and some Western European countries to confront the Iraqi army,'' Li said.

Li repeated China's oft-stated opposition to ''big power'' military intervention.

China voted in favor of a U.S.-sponsored resolution authorizing military enforcement of the U.N. embargo against Iraq, but later qualified its position by saying it does not recognize that the resolution actually allows for the use of armed force.

The quibble over semantics - the term ''minimum use of force'' was changed in the resolution to ''appropriate measures'' - presumably would allow China to protest any actual use of force even while pursuing its course of cautious alignment with the West.

Diplomats in Beijing say they were gratified by China's initial response to the crisis. China denounced Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait and promised to stop selling arms to Baghdad.

Last week China implied it would join Western nations in defying an Iraqi order to close all diplomatic missions in Kuwait. But Iraqi and Chinese sources say Beijing has since evacuated its embassy, apparently capitulating to Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein's demands.

China's stance toward the gulf conflict increasingly resembles that of the Soviet Union, which also pulled out the last of its diplomatic personnel from Kuwait. Moscow has pledged to abide by the embargo but has announced it will not send troops to the region.

In Moscow Tuesday, Deputy Foreign Minister Alexander Belenogov met Chinese envoy Zhang Zhen to discuss the gulf crisis, and Zhang delivered an oral message from his government for Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze, Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov said.

''The sides noted a proximity of views between the two countries as far as the situation in the Persian Gulf,'' Gerasimov said.

China and the Soviet Union will have the opportunity to compare views on the Mideast crisis on Sept. 1 as well, when Shevardnadze will travel to northeast China for a day of talks with his Chinese counterpart, Qian Qichen.

The talks are expected to focus on a ''regular exchange of views'' and were arranged during Premier Li's trip to Moscow in April, according to an Eastern European diplomat in Beijing.

Li's remarks Tuesday were one of the clearest indications to date of the depth of uncertainty among Beijing's hard-line communist leaders as China searches for an appropriate role in a rapidly changing world.

China still seems unsure how to respond to the collapse of hard-line socialist regimes in Eastern Europe as well as improved Soviet-U.S. ties.

''The U.S.S.R. was China's last strategic enemy,'' a Western diplomat said. ''China doesn't like uncertainty and it's wondering how it will fit in.''

The diplomat said China's aging leaders are disturbed by Beijing's loss of leverage as a buffer between two hostile superpowers.

Li's comments also echoed those made Monday to former Tanzanian President Julius K. Nyerere, who is currently visiting Beijing.

Li told Nyerere that ''a new form of hegemonism is on the rise'' despite a relaxing of East-West tension, pointing instead to what the premier called a growing economic disparity between ''South and North.''

He did not elaborate.

BEAVERTON, Ore. (AUG. 28) UPI - The civil rights group Operation PUSH said it plans to distribute flyers in at least 12 cities beginning Tuesday, urging consumers to boycott products made by the athletic shoe manufacturer Nike.

Victoria Holland, a spokeswoman for PUSH, said Monday supporters planned to distribute the flyers this week as part of a boycott of the Oregon company in protest at its minority hiring practices.

PUSH has called on Nike to hire more blacks and do more business with black-owned companies. Nike officials have defended their record of minority hiring, and pointed out the PUSH campaign began shortly after the group's magazine ran an advertisement for a competing shoe company, Reebok.

Flyer distribution was originally planned for stores in Portland; Seattle; Louisville, Ky.; Dallas; Houston; Cleveland; Memphis, Tenn.; Atlanta; Miami; and Columbus, Ohio, Holland said.

She said New York and Detroit had since been added to the list, and she thought more cities were also targeted.

Holland said the flyers urge people to boycott Nike products, but not to deter stores selling the products.

''We want it to be very clear that the object is Nike,'' she said.

Nike spokeswoman Liz Dolan said Monday that none of the company's retailers in the original list of cities had reported pickets outside their stores.

Dolan questioned whether PUSH has enough support in Oregon, even among the black community, to stage an effective protest on Nike's home turf. Last Monday, PUSH officials showed up unannounced to demonstrate in front of Nike's Beaverton headquarters.

PUSH officials, led by the group's executive director, the Rev. Tyrone Crider, had hoped to meet with Nike executives that day. But the demonstrators were greeted only by a security guard.

The two sides met Friday in Washington D.C., at the suggestion of Georgetown University basketball coach John Thompson but nothing was resolved.

Dolan said the boycott has had little or no effect on Nike's sales. She said sales have been particularly good in Chicago.

''They've (PUSH officials) said they're going to do a lot of things, but we've yet to see them do any of them,'' Dolan said.

Nonetheless, Nike's stock has fallen recently. After hitting an all-time high of more than $80 a share earlier this year, the stock closed at $61.50 Friday on the New York Stock Exchange. During one two-day stretch last week, the price dropped more than $10.

Dolan attributed the slump to profit-taking and a general downturn in the market.

''We have a shareholders meeting coming up Sept. 17, where orders for the next six months will be announced,'' Dolan said. ''We'll know then if the boycott has had any effect.''

Workers at PUSH's Chicago headquarters now answer the telephone, ''Operation PUSH, say no to Nike.''

(AUG. 28) UPI - Syrian President Hafez Assad arrived in Egypt Tuesday for talks with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak in the latest round of high-level Arab efforts to negotiate an end to the Persian Gulf crisis.

''I know the meaning of war so I am keen to reach a peaceful solution to avoid the ruin caused by war,'' Mubarak told reporters in Alexandria shortly before Assad's arrival, affirming Egypt's desire to spare no effort to establish peace and stability in the Middle East.

U.S. officials reported what appeared to be the first known death of an American detained by Iraq after Baghdad's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait. The State Department said it was told the man apparently died of natural causes, possibly a heart attack. It was not clear when the man, a private citizen believed in his mid-50s, died in Basra where he had been taken from Kuwait. The body of the man was to be turned over to the U.S. Consulate in Baghdad.

Iraq, for its part, reiterated an earlier peace initiative but also tightened its grip on Kuwait, declaring the tiny oil-rich state the 19th administrative province of Iraq. The Iraqi News Agency reported the decree by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, who has consistently said Iraq had historical rights to Kuwait and that British colonialism divided Iraq from Kuwait.

In other developments:

-The U.S. fleet sailing in the Red Sea to enforce a U.N.-mandated economic embargo against Iraq was reported to have intercepted at least three foreign ships since Sunday heading toward Jordan. Iraq has ordered its tankers not to run the U.S.-led blockade.

-In Vienna, the Iranian oil minister walked out of OPEC talks as delegations from 10 other countries put the final touches on an agreement to reportedly allow a temporary rise in oil output. Belief that some OPEC countries would raise output contributed to a $4 drop in crude oil prices Monday on the New York Merchantile Exchange.

-U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar told the British Broadcasting Corp. he would remind Iraq Thursday that U.N. resolutions contain ''very clear concepts'' about opposition to the invasion and annexation of Kuwait. The U.N. chief plans to meet with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tareq Aziz in Amman, Jordan, to seek a withdrawal from Kuwait and the release of detained foreigners.

White House Press Secretary Marlin Fitzwater said Monday 63 Americans were believed among the Western and Japanese hostages held by Saddam at strategic sites as shields against attack by a U.S.-led multinational force deployed in Saudi Arabia and the Persian Gulf.

An Iraqi government-run newspaper Monday described foreign nationals detained in Iraq and occupied Kuwait as a weapon ''in the battle of history,'' while Iraqi television debuted an edited new program called ''Guests' News'' that featured scenes of detained foreigners who said they were well treated.

The United States Monday ordered the expulsion within 72 hours of 36 Iraqis, including seven accredited diplomats, linking the measures to an Iraqi siege around the U.S. Embassy in Kuwait and the detention of Americans by Iraq.

The Iraqi news agency meanwhile republished Saddam's Aug. 12 initiative to resolve the crisis ''for the sake of exposing the aggressive intentions and goals of those fishing in troubled waters by concealing the reality of Iraq's peaceful desire and keenness on peace and stability in the region.''

The initiative calls for the withdrawal of Israel from the occupied territories and Syria from Lebanon, resolution of Iraqi and Iranian territorial disputes and ''arrangements for the case of Kuwait.'' U.S. and other foreign troops also would withdraw from the region and the economic sanctions would end under Saddam's plan.

The United States has rejected the plan.

Syria's Assad traveled to Egypt accompanied by Foreign Minister Farouk Sharaa, Vice President Abdel Halim Khaddam and Minister of Presidential Affairs Wahib Fadel.

The Syrian delegation was meeting with Mubarak, who also met with several U.S. senators Tuesday to discuss the crisis, including Senate Minority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., and Georgia Democrat Sam Nunn, chairman of the Senate Armed Forces Committee.

Mubarak has been deeply involved in diplomatic efforts to avert war in the Middle East. He told reporters he sent Foreign Minister Esmat Abdel Meguid to Moscow, State Minister for Foreign Affairs Boutros Ghali to Paris and messages to leaders of the non-alignment movement and African nations.

(AUG. 28) UPI - The State Department says a man detained by Iraqi authorities has died of natural causes, possibly a heart attack. It is NOT clear when the man, who was in his mid-50's, died. The Iraqi Foreign Ministry told U-S officials in Baghdad they would be allowed to have a representative at the autopsy and the body would be turned over to the embassy. This is the first reported death among the American captives.

Shipping agents report the U-S fleet in the Red Sea is stepping up its interception of vessels headed for Jordan to ensure they are NOT transporting goods for Iraq. This follows today's newspaper report that says Israeli intelligence has found Jordan continuing its military relationship with Iraq... and Yemen delivering food and other supplies into Baghdad.

Philippine officials say 12 high school students are dead following a landslide that swept through a dormitory. Yesterday's landslide buried a school in the town of Santa Fe, about 110 miles north of Manila. Officials say the students were buried and only two bodies have been recovered. Santa Fe was among those towns ravaged by a strong earthquake last July.

Peace talks aimed at ending Liberia's civil war are under way in the small West African nation of Gambia. The negotiations began last night without former Liberian rebel leader Prince Johnson. He apparently missed his

(AUG. 28) UPI - A band of thunderstorms stretched across the northern Midwest and into the Northeast, bringing heavy rain, lightning and hail to the region Tuesday while hot weather baked the South and Southeast.

Thunderstorm watches were posted in 13 counties in New York, five in Pennsylvania, nine in Ohio and in parts of Michigan as winds knocked down trees and hail was reported in several counties.

Severe thunderstorms knocked down trees and power lines in northeast Ohio, cutting service to several thousand people in Ashtabula and Geauga counties along Lake Erie. More storms were expected late Tuesday in the same area and spreading throughout the state.

Trees were reported blown down at Sabinsville in western Pennsylvania as fast-moving storms dumped heavy rain on the region.

Intense storms hit Detroit's northern suburbs, producing heavy rain, small hail, gusty winds and lightning. The strong storms extended from Pontiac, Mich., east to Mount Clemens.

The storms were part of a larger system that covered parts of the Great Lakes and Canada.

In western New York, a line of heavy thunderstorms ran from near Buffalo south to Jamestown and trees and power lines were knocked down in South Dayton, about 20 miles north of Jamestown.

The South continued to bake Tuesday under a late summer heat wave.

An excessive heat advisory was in effect through Wednesday for part of north Texas, including the cities of Paris, Waco and the Dallas-Forth Worth area.

High temperatures near 100 degrees were expected Tuesday in the midlands of South Carolina.

The heat was caused by a ridge of high pressure extending eastward from the Mississippi Valley to the Middle Atlantic states that was moving south pushing hot weather into the region for several days.

Temperatures above 100 degrees were reported Monday in Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi.

Clouds covered northwest California and the northern mountains while the rest of the state basked in sunshine.

High temperatures ranged from the 80s in San Francisco to 92 in Bakersfield in the Central Valley to a 108 at Death Valley in Southern California.

In Las Vegas, Nev., the mercury was expected to climb to 105 degrees Tuesday under cloudless skies and higher temperatures were expected for the Labor Day weekend. It comes after a spate of unseasonably cool temperatures - below 100 degrees.

In the Northwest, most of Washington was clear with temperatures warming into the 70 and 80s. A weather disturbance off the Oregon coast weakened but still sent thin clouds and isolated showers into the state.

TOKYO (AUG. 28) UPI - Japan's long-awaited announcement of measures to help the forces confronting Iraq will come Wednesday, Foreign Ministry officials said Tuesday.

Japan is expected to send medical specialists to Saudi Arabia to join the U.S.-led multinational forces confronting Iraq.

It is also likely to offer civilian aircraft to transport non-military supplies and personnel in the Persian Gulf region, as well as financial aid to neighboring countries such as Egypt that are opposing Iraq's invasion of Kuwait.

The government set a deadline of Wednesday for deciding on its response to requests for contributions to the multilateral force, a Foreign Ministry official said on the condition of anonymity.

But Japan said it needed more time to considerington in retaliation for Iraq's order to the U.S. and other embassies in Kuwait to shut down.

Meanwhile, there were indications Tuesday that the two remaining diplomats staffing Japan's Kuwait Embassy may leave because of deteriorating living conditions. Despite having provisions for six months, the lack of electricity, fresh water and telephone lines are creating severe hardships for the two, the official said. Much of the food was frozen, and has begun to rot, he said.

The embassy will remain open ''in principle,'' but the decision about whether to staff it or not will be left up to the two men on the spot, Charge d'Affaires Akira Shirota and Second Secretary Koji Naito, the official said.

Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu has been promising that Japanese help to the multinational forces would involve sweat rather than money alone. Proposals have included sending a mine sweeper and technicians, but the prospects have apparently narrowed. Kaifu has been hemmed in by legal constraints and opposition within the bureaucracy and his party, analysts said.

Japan's Constitution forbids the use of force in international disputes, and its laws make no provision for hands-on help overseas, except in natural disasters.

Disputes have centered on what can be done without amending the laws, a process that could take months, analysts said.

Japanese public attention has focused on the fate of fellow citizens trapped in Iraq.

News that Iraq freed 19 Japanese businessmen Monday was tempered by reports that 20 others had been taken to Iraqi military facilities as part of that nation's ''human shield'' against attack.

The Iraqi Embassy in Tokyo has been the target of numerous threats from rightist groups since Japanese were taken hostage by Iraq, police said. The embassy is now under police protection.

Hostages aside, the crisis has few implications for ordinary Japanese so far, because gas prices have not changed and the economy remains strong.

The government has ordered oil companies to freeze retail gas prices for the time being, dampening public interest in the problem.

On several occasions since the crisis broke Aug. 2, Japanese newspapers and television news programs have led with domestic stories, relegating the Middle East to secondary status.

COLOMBO, SRI LANKA (AUG. 28) UPI - Security forces battled militant Tamils in the northern port town of Jaffna Tuesday, capturing several rebel positions and advancing on a military camp that has been under seige for more than two months, a military official said.

The development in the week-old major offensive against the Liberation

Tigers of Tamil Eelam came after soldiers captured two nearby islands used as staging areas for the final assault on the town of Jaffna, just a few miles to the north.

Tiger rebels planted 500-pound explosives on a causeway linking the islands to the peninsula so security forces had to fight their way toward Jaffna in boats, military officials said.

''The troops have crossed the causeway and have captured several positions close to the fort camp,'' the military official said. ''Troops are also fighting Tiger rebels who have taken positions in the court house complex and a rest house which is the front of the Jaffna fort.''

The Sri Lankan military launched ''Operation Fort'' last Wednesday in an attempt to gain control of the area surrounding a 300-year-old former Dutch fort in Jaffna where some 200 soldiers and policemen have been trapped for more than two months.

Some 3,600 troops backed by helicopter gunships and heavy artillery are involved in the offensive.

Tiger rebels have used automatic weapons and mortars in sporadic attacks on the fort, preventing government helicopters from landing inside to deliver food and other supplies. The fighting also has prevented troops from evacuating wounded soldiers.

Previous attempts by security forces to clear the area of rebels have failed. Further details of Tuesday's action were not immediately available.

Tamil militants are fighting for an independent homeland in Sri Lanka's northern and eastern provinces.

They believe a separate state for the nation's mostly-Hindu Tamil minority is necessary because of years of discrimination by the majority Sinhalese, who are predominantly Buddhist and who control the Colombo government.

WINSTON-SALEM, NC (AUG. 28) UPI - A U.S. District Court judge has rejected a $148.8 million jury award for Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. from the Durham, N.C, cigarette maker's antitrust suit against Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp.

Judge Frank Bullock Jr. issued an order Monday overturning the jury verdict in the suit brought by Liggett & Myers against the Kentucky firm in a dispute over generic cigarettes.

The verdict, handed down March 2, found that Brown & Williamson engaged in unfair pricing on its generic brand and awarded Liggett & Myers $49.6 million in damages. That award was tripled to $148.8 million under antitrust statutes.

Liggett & Myers' lawsuit claimed Brown & Williamson designed its generic cigarettes to copy their generics and confuse consumers. Liggett & Myers also claimed Brown & Williamson participated in "predatory pricing" in which they undersold their generics to drive Liggett & Myers out of the market. The case, at seven months, set a record for the longest in North Carolina's U.S. District Court and gave an unprecedented award in the state's courts.

Bullock, in dismissing the verdict, said the antitrust law on which the suit was based - the Robinson-Patman Act - should be viewed as a law to protect smaller, local businesses from being undercut by larger, national companies that can afford temporary low prices.

"The antitrust laws' goal is to protect the consumer welfare, not to discourage aggressive price competition," Bullock wrote in his 50-page order. "Liggett has failed to introduce substantial evidence of predatory pricing to meet the antitrust injury requirement."

Liggett & Myers officials said they were "obviously disappointed with the court's decision." "We believe ... that Brown & Williamson's behavior and actions were anti-competitive and should be punished," a company statement said. "We believe there are grounds for appeal."

VIENNA (AUG. 28) UPI - A majority of OPEC ministers have agreed in principle to allow a temporary rise in oil production during the Persian Gulf crisis, but an expected meeting Tuesday to formalize the accord was postponed for 24 hours, officials said.

The surprise delay appeared to be aimed at giving Iran, Libya and Iraq more time to study the proposal, which has the backing of the 10 other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Iran walked out of a three-day OPEC meeting in Vienna Tuesday to protest the accord, and Libya and Iraq have refused to send a delegation to the talks.

''There is practically nothing left to negotiate,'' OPEC President Subroto said of talks Tuesday to work out details of the plan, which reportedly allows OPEC countries to boost output in response to the crisis in the Persian Gulf.

The representative of the Kuwaiti government-in-exile, Finance Minister Ali Khalifa Al-Sabah, said the timing of the accord ''is immaterial. There is an agreement.''

Explaining the delay, OPEC spokesman James Audu said cartel members decided to convene a extraordinary session of the Market Monitoring Committee on Wednesday morning - a meeting he described as a ''continuation of the talks'' on OPEC's response to the gulf crisis.

Under bylaws adopted in July, OPEC must give at least 24 hours notice of such a meeting. Audu said he hoped all 13 countries would be represented.

The reported accord would be a triumph for Saudi Arabia and Venezuela, which have sought OPEC's blessing to increase their output to make up for a global shortfall of 4 million barrels a day resulting from the U.N. embargo of Iraq and Kuwait. The sanctions were imposed following the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

Such an accord likely would result in a further decline in oil prices, which had jumped by more than one-third since the Gulf crisis began. Belief that some OPEC countries would raise output contributed to a $4 drop in crude oil prices Monday on the New York Merchantile Exchange.

Iran walked out of the OPEC meeting after other members rejected its demand that production increases be linked to a decrease of government and private oil stocks in industrialized countries.

''It is a big mistake for OPEC,'' Iranian Minister of Petroleum Gholamreza Aghazadeh said of the draft agreement.

''I cannot accept this agreement, even if Iran remains alone,'' Aghazadeh said. ''But I know up until this time three countries do not accept, because two countries are not here.''

The talks in the Austrian capital are considered one of the critical moments in the 30-year history of the cartel because of the split over raising output.

OPEC, which pumps about 40 percent of the crude oil traded on world markets, tries to control prices by regulating the production of its members.

The reported agreement on increasing output was expected to take the form of an informal declaration endorsed by a majority of cartel members. OPEC officials have abandoned efforts to convene a formal policy-setting conference.

During informal talks Monday, OPEC ministers reported ''considerable'' progress toward an agreement that would allow a rise in the cartel's output.

''We're trying to get the maximum possible agreement,'' said Jean Ping, Gabon's oil minister. ''Things are moving fast. If things go as they are, the meeting should not go past tomorrow,'' Ping said.

''We have made a considerable advance,'' agreed Jibril Aminu, the Nigerian minister of petroleum resources.

While refusing to disclose details, Aminu said: ''The agreement will preserve the unity and consensus of OPEC and respond appropriately to the situation. The important thing is that it should give guidance to members on how to respond to the situation.''

MANILA, PHILIPPINES (AUG. 28) UPI - President Corazon Aquino rejected as an ''insult'' Tuesday demands by rebel soldiers for her resignation.

Aquino's statement came hours after suspected military dissidents exploded a bomb at a car sales office once owned by the president's late brother-in-law, Ricardo Lopa.

The predawn blast at Mantrade in the capital's financial district of Makati shattered glass windows and damaged two cars but caused no injuries.

Two people were injured in previous similar incidents this month which officials said could be a prelude to a coup attempt.

The right-wing Revolutionary Alliance for the Masses-Soldiers of the Filipino People in a statement Tuesday called on Aquino to step aside and begin a ''democratic dialogue'' on the future of the nation.

The statement was issued on the third anniversary of the Aug. 28, 1987, coup attempt. The same group led the Dec. 1-9 uprising in which 119 people were killed and more than 500 wounded.

''These threats and demands of rebels and traitors are an insult to our people and democratic institutions and deserve only the condemnation of our freedom-loving citizens,'' said Aquino, who has crushed six coup attempts.

Cardinal Jaime Sin, the influential archbishop of Manila who played a key role in Aquino's rise to power, appealed to those responsible for the bombings ''to return to their senses.''

''Violence and terrorism are the approaches of the savages. Such should have no place in a society like ours,'' Sin said in a statement.

Congress and the Senate resumed their session Tuesday after a hastily called six-day emergency recess prompted by fears of an impending rebellion which they said they would counter by drumming up support in their constituencies for Aquino.

Speaker Ramon Mitra of the House of Representatives told eporters Tuesday he did not think there was a need to declare martial law to counter the bombings.

''There is no justification for that,'' he said. ''There have been greater far worse, far destructive bombings going on in the United Kingdom. There is no talk of any declaration of martial law at all and you have a hawk in

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.''

Mitra said the military should first show they are capable of handling the situation before their budget for this year is approved.

Mitra also said he was concerned about news reports that rebel soldiers and communist guerrillas have denied involvement in the string of bombings.

''We ought to be informed of who have been doing these bombings ... this is significant,'' he said.

JERUSALEM (AUG. 28) UPI - Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir has received a message from President Bush, expressing appreciation for Israel's low profile during the Persian Gulf crisis, senior officials said Tuesday.

The officials said the message, described as ''warm'' in tone, also said the United States looked forward to a continued dialogue with Israel.

Appearing before the Parliament's Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee, Shamir confirmed that he had received the message, Israel Radio reported. Earlier, the prime minister's office said it had no information on Bush's message.

Since the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait Aug. 2, Israel has attempted to distance itself from the gulf crisis. Although regular contacts between the United States and Israel, such as the sharing of information, have continued, Bush has not asked for any special assistance from Israel, officials said.

''It is common knowledge that Israel's position has been one of a low profile,'' one official said. ''We have all along tried not to play into the hands of (Iraqi President) Saddam Hussein.''

Israeli officials have said Saddam has tried unsuccessfully to recast the gulf crisis as part of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Despite Israel's low-key approach, Shamir and other senior Cabinet members have repeatedly warned that Israel will respond forcefully to any attack.

BEIRUT, LEBANON (AUG. 28) UPI - Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite will be the next hostage to be freed, a radio station reported Tuesday, but said that U.S. intervention in the Persian Gulf has delayed the release of six American captives.

The communist-run Voice of the People quoted well-informed sources as saying Waite, 51, an aide to the archbishop of Canterbury, will be the freed soon. Waite was kidnapped Jan. 20, 1987, in Moslem west Beirut while negotiating the release of other Western hostages.

Last week, the London-based Lebanese newspaper Al Hayat quoted diplomatic sources as also saying that Waite will be released soon.

The latest indication of an imminent hostage release comes after Brian Keenan, who holds dual Irish and British citizenship, was freed last Friday in west Beirut after spending nearly 53 months in captivity. He was an English teacher at the American University of Beirut when abducted April 11, 1986.

According to the radio, the sources said, ''The release of all European hostages will take place very soon in the light of positive indications from France and Britain that preceded and followed Keenan's release.'' It gave no details.

The radio, however, quoted Seyyed Hussein Musawi, leader of the Iranian-backed Islamic Amal movement, as saying the release of the six American hostages will be delayed because of Washington's intervention in the Gulf region.

''I think the issue of non-American hostages will be solved soon, but that of the Americans will be delayed becasue of the American invasion of the region,'' Musawi told the Voice of the People.

Thirteen Westerners, six of them U.S. citizens, are still held by various extremists groups in Lebanon.

Syrian officials said Keenan said he had seen U.S. hostages Terry Anderson Thomas Sutherland, and Englishman John McCarthy during his captivity and that the three appeared to be in good health.

Demands by the kidnappers have included freedom for more than 350 Palestinians detained by Israel and the release of more than a dozen Arabs convicted in Kuwait of bombing various Western targets. The convicts' status is not clear since Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

The sources quoted by the radio report said Washington ''failed to fulfull its promises'' despite the release of in April of U.S. citizens Robert Polhill and Frank Reed. They also blamed Israeli raids on southern Lebanon for slowing the hostage release process.

In addition, the radio quoted a source close to the Iranian Embassy in Beirut as saying once the issue of the frozen Iranian assets in the United States was settled, the file of U.S. hostages will be directly closed.

#90240u0926 08/28/1990 ~United Press International

WASHINGTON (AUG. 28) UPI - The Commerce Department Tuesday said lower imported oil prices and record exports narrowed the U.S. merchandise trade deficit 14.1 percent to $22.6 billion during the 1990 second quarter, its lowest level since $21.3 billion in the fourth quarter of 1983. The trade deficit showed an improvement from a $26.3 billion deficit in the first quarter, the department said.

The second-quarter narrowing of the deficit was mainly due to a $3.2 billion - or three percent - reduction in imports to $119.3 billion from $122.5 billion in the first quarter, the department's Bureau of Economic Analysis said.

The merchandise trade deficit has been dropping since its $41 billion peak in the third quarter of 1987. On an annual basis, it reached its record that year at $159.5 billion and fell to $127 billion in 1988, BEA economist Howard Murad said.

The second-quarter deficit reduction resulted from lower oil prices and the weakness of the American economy vs. the economies of Europe, Japan and the Pacific Basin, said David Rolley, and economist with DRI/McGraw Hill in Lexington, Mass. The more vigorous foreign economies absorbed higher levels of U.S. exports while the slowing American economy demanded fewer imports, he noted.

Higher oil prices in the wake of Iraq's invasion of Kuwait could erase the second-quarter gain as each dollar rise in per barrel oil prices will cause a $3 billion annual increase in U.S. imports. "A $7 per barrel hike in the price of oil would increase the U.S. trade deficit by $20 billion over a year," Rolley warned.

To make matters worse, if the Middle East crisis triggered an economic slowdown abroad many countries would reduce their purchases of U.S. capital goods, further increasing the American trade deficit, he said.

The BEA numbers are seasonally adjusted and are on a balance-of-payments basis, which excludes military trade of U.S. defense agencies and reflects various adjustments to the trade data reported by the Census Bureau. The annual rate for the merchandise trade deficit in the first six months was $97.7 billion, down from a total deficit of $114.9 billion for 1989.

The BEA noted that oil imports, after rising sharply in the first quarter, declined $3.5 billion in the second, primarily reflecting a plunge in prices. The fall in oil imports more than offset a $300 million increase in non-oil imports.

A $500 million increase in exports also contributed to the decrease in the merchandise trade deficit as a $1.1 billion advance in non-agricultural exports lifted total exports to a record $96.7 billion in the second quarter, the BEA said. First-quarter merchandise exports were at $96.2 billion.

The largest reduction in the second-quarter U.S. merchandise trade deficit was with the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. That figure narrowed $2.2 billion to $4.4 billion in the second quarter.

Also contributing to the shrinking second-quarter deficit were a $1.1 billion increase in the trade surplus with Western Europe to $1.5 billion, and a $900 million decrease in the deficit with Mexico to $300 million, the bureau said.

ATHENS, GREECE (AUG. 28) UPI - A group of Filipinos stranded in Kuwait

by the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion arrived at a checkpoint on the Iran-Iraq border Tuesday, the official Islamic Republic News Agency said.

The Filipinos arrived two days after Philippines Foreign Minister Raul Manglapus asked Iranian President Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani to allow his countrymen through. Iran said it would open its doors to all foreigners who wished to leave Kuwait.

An IRNA dispatch monitored in Athens said simply a group of Filipinos stranded in Kuwait since the invasion arrived at Shalamcheh on the Iran-Iraq border. The news agency did not say how many Filipinos crossed.

Over the past few days some 60,000 Iranians crossed the Iran-Iraq border. Monday 100 South Asians also crossed at Shalamcheh and 230 Pakistanis who fled Kuwait through Iraq and Turkey, arrived at a checkpoint on the Iran-Turkey border and were allowed through.

No Western nationals have so far crossed into Iran.

An Iran-Iraq detente began Aug. 17 when Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, fearing war with U.S. forces in Saudi Arabia, began meeting all Iranian demands for peace, apparently to release his troops from positions on the Iran-Iraq border.

He accepted the 1975 Algiers accord dividing the Shatt al Arab waterway between the two countries, and offered an exchange of prisoners of war and a pullback of Iraqi troops from Iranian territory taken in the last few days of the 1980-88 Iran-Iraq war.

Iraq has since pulled back from about 1,040 square miles of Iranian territory, and the two sides have exchanged some 32,000 POWs, of an estimated 100,000 held by both.

Iraq said Monday it ran out of Iranian POWs registered with the International Committee of the Red Cross, but pledged to begin registering another 1,000 a day and send them home.

CHICAGO (AUG. 28) UPI - Widespread selling and favorable weather pressured the grain market early today.

Midmorning prices were mostly lower on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Corn and soybean prices were mixed but mostly lower as nearly ideal weather conditions prevailed across the Grain Belt. More of the same is predicted through the end of the week.

The lack of export business also pressured corn and soybeans, although losses were limited by continued light country movement.

The weekly state-by-state crop reports indicated the condition of the corn and soybeans had improved, but there was some deterioration in soybeans in the Delta.

Trading in wheat was lackluster. Taiwan reportedly bought a small quantity overnight, while Egypt and Japan were bidding for wheat.

Country movement was very light.

The midmorning prices:

Corn Sep 2.52 unch; Dec 2.42 3/4 off 1 1/2; Mar 2.51 off 1 1/4.

Soybeans Sep 6.17 off 2; Nov 6.31 1/2 off 2; Jan 6.45 off 2 1/2; Mar 6.59 off 2.

Wheat Sep 2.79 1/2 off 2; Dec 2.94 1/2 off 2; Mar 3.05 off 1 1/2.

Oats Sep 1.10 1/2 off 3; Dec 1.23 off 3 1/4; Mar 1.34 1/2 off 2 3/4.

MANILA, Philippines (AUG. 28) UPI - Mexico and Brunei have turned down a Philippine request for oil to make up for a loss of imports following Iraq's invasion of Kuwait, officials said Tuesday.

A Department of Foreign Affairs official said Mexico and Brunei have informed the Philippine government that their oil production this year has been committed to other countries and they do not plan to increase production.

But Foreign Affairs Secretary Raul Manglapus said Malaysia and Indonesia had promised to help the Philippines. Earlier, Manglapus got a confirmation from Iran and Saudi Arabia that they will increase their oil supply to the Philippines.

Iran has agreed to raise its oil exports to the Philippines to 40,000 barrels a day from less than 8,000 barrels a day before the gulf crisis.

Manglapus has also asked the oil-producing members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations such as Brunei, Indonesia and Malaysia to give the Philippines additional oil imports to offset the losses brought by the global trade embargo against Iraq after it invaded Kuwait Aug. 2.

Under the ''Petroleum Security Agreement'' of ASEAN, its oil-exporting members are committed to helping a member in distress.

The agreement, however, states that ''member countries in distress shall exert all efforts to cope with the adverse situation through domestic and normal acceptable commercial means before invoking assistance under this scheme.''

ASEAN is made up of the Philippines, Brunei, Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore and Indonesia.

(AUG. 28) UPI - The State Department today announced the death of an American detained in Iraq. The department says the American apparently died of a heart attack in the southern Iraqi port city of Basra after he was moved from Kuwait following the invasion. His identity is being withheld pending positive identification and notification of relatives. It's NOT clear when the man... a private citizen believed in his mid-50's... died. Baghdad has detained scores of Americans and other foreigners in Iraq and Kuwait to be used as human shields to deter an attack on key Iraqi military and industrial sites.

The announcement came as shipping agents report that the U-S fleet in the Red Sea intensified its interception of ships heading toward Jordan to make sure they are NOT transporting goods for Iraq. Lloyds of London shipping agents say Americans boarded and inspected St. Vincent and Grenadines-flagged and Indian-flagged vessels yesterday before allowing them to proceed. One shipping source says the U-S Navy apparently is clamping down after cargo slipped through last week.

Opening arguments begin this morning in the court martial of an Army first sergeant charged with unpremediatated murder in the death of an unidentified Panamanian during the U-S invasion last year. Roberto Bryan is a member of the 82nd Airborne Division and is being tried at Fort Bragg North Carolina. Eight enlisted men and officers are on the jury in the case.

A medical survey shows that more than half the women who have Caesarean sections to deliver their babies can successfully avoid the operation for their next pregnancy. The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists survey also found that younger doctors were more likely to encourage pregnant women to try natural, vaginal deliveries after previously having a surgical delivery. The Caesarian procedure involves surgically removing the baby from the womb.

(AUG. 28) UPI - The Coast Guard says two fisherman were pulled to safety this morning when a Greek cargo ship collided with a small fishing boat off Nantucket Island, Massachusetts. The Coast Guard says the 600-foot vessel was en route from Boston to Norfolk, Virginia, when it collided with the fishing boat in heavy fog. A small boat from the freighter rescued two people who were tossed into the water from the fishing vessel.

Officials say animal cruelty charges were filed against a Pontiac, Michigan, man who allegedly buried alive a litter of six puppies in his backyard. A Michigan Humane Society worker saved five puppies when he raced to the home of Richard Greene when a neighbor reported the burial to authorities. The puppies and their mother were taken to a shelter where a spokesman says the four-day-old mixed breed puppies are in good condition and will be placed in a new home.

AKRON, Ohio (AUG. 28) UPI - The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. has stopped running four television commericails boasting its tires performance on wet raods to review the wording in the advertisements following a complaint from Michelin.

The current issue of Tire Business, published Monday, reported the French tire maker provided the Better Business Bureau's National Advertising Division with independent studies showing Goodyear tires were not the best in wet-traction tests.

Goodyear, however, provided conflicting performance evaluations from consumer and specialist magazines.

Michelin and the Better Business Bureau said the wording in the television commercials implied Goodyear tires were the best in wet conditions, and the Better Business Bureau asked for objective product performance testing to back up that claim.

The commericials show drivers narrowly avoiding accidents on wet roads.

''One day it could all come down to a few inches,'' the commericials said. ''For those few inches, it's good to know you have Goodyear. That's why we say, 'They best tires in the world have Goodyear written all over them.'''

Goodyear said it disagreed with the concerns shown by the Better Business Bureau, but promised to evaluate the ads before airing them again.

''In a spirit of cooperation with the purposes of the (Better Business Bureau) advertising self-regulation procedures, Goodyear is reviewing the commercials,'' the company said. ''Before they run again, the commercials in question will be examined in light of the NAD (National Advertising Division) comments.''

Goodyear said the commercials likely will return soon.

''Wet traction is an outstanding feature of Goodyear tires and we intend for our customers to know about it,'' said Gene Culler, executive vice president of North American tire operations. ''It seems to have touched a raw nerve with the competition, and wet traction will continue to be emphasized in our advertising.''

MIAMI (AUG. 28) UPI - Hurricane Gustav marched northward Tuesday up the open Atlantic with its 105-mph winds posing only a slight threat to the islands of the northeastern Caribbean.

Tropical Storm Hortense trailed about 1,100 miles to the northeast behind Gustav in the Atlantic.

All hurricane and tropical storm warnings for the Caribbean islands were dropped Monday when Gustav halted its westward course and turned to the north. But forecasters said the islands would still feel Gustav's passing.

''Some rough seas and swells are expected to affect portions of the extreme northeast Caribbean Sea today,'' said Miles Lawrence, a forecaster at the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

At noon EDT, Gustav was centered near latitude 20.8 north, longitude 58.0 west, or about 390 miles northeast of the British Caribbean island of Antigua. The hurricane was moving north at near 15 mph, and was expected to continue that motion through Wednesday.

Its maximum sustained winds were unchanged at 105 mph and little change in strength was expected. Hurricane-force winds extended up to 35 miles from the center and tropical storm-force winds extended up to 175 miles.

Hortense trailed Gustav across the Atlantic, mimicking its northward curve. Hortense strengthed slightly Tuesday, from 55 mph to 65 mph.

At noon EDT, Hortense was centered near latitude 22.6 north, longitude 44.1 west, or about 1,310 miles west northwest of the Cape Verde Islands.

Hortense was moving north-northwest near 10 mph and was expected to turn gradually toward the northwest during the next 24 hours, then slow down.

Tropical storm-force winds extended up to 115 miles from the center.

Forecasters said Gustav and Hortense were too far apart to affect each other.

Gustav is the seventh named storm of the Atlantic-Caribbean hurricane season and the third to reach hurricane strength. Hortense is the eighth named storm.

The season runs from June 1 to Nov. 30, peaking in September.

(AUG. 28) UPI - U-S officials report what appears to be the first known death of an American detained by Iraq since the invasion of Kuwait. The State Department says the body of the man will be turned over to the U-S consulate in Baghdad. Details are sketchy, but the State Department says the man... believed to be in his mid-50's... apparently died of natural causes, possibly a heart attack. It's NOT clear when the man died in Basra after being taken from Kuwait.

A snag at OPEC talks in Austria. Today's OPEC meeting at Vienna was postponed for 24 hours, apparently to give Iran, Libya, and Iraq more time to study a plan to temporarily raise oil output in the Persian Gulf crisis. Iran walked out of the OPEC meeting to protest the accord. But a majority of cartel ministers agreed in principle to allow a temporary increase in oil production.

The U-S Embassy in Turkey says 52 American women and children permitted to leave Iraq are headed for the United States on a special plane that took off from a NATO base in southern Turkey. Most of the women and children are dependents of U-S Embassy workers in Kuwait.

Authorities in Gainesville, Florida, have found two more bodies near the University of Florida campus. Authorities say the latest victims were discovered this morning in an apartment close to where the mutilated bodies of three young college women have been found in the past three days. Investigators say they can't confirm yet whether the murders are linked.

FORT WORTH, Texas (AUG. 28) UPI - A federal judge, ruling on an American Airlines complaint, ordered United Airlines to change its flight schedules at Chicago's O'Hare Airport by the end of Tuesday.

After issuing the temporary restraining order, U.S. District Judge John McBride set a Sept. 4 hearing to decide wheter to issue a preliminary injunction against United.

In the suit filed Monday, American, United's main rival, contended that United's schedules were misleading and that United cannot legally depart or arrive at the times listed in the published schedules which are set to go into effect on Oct. 1.

Late Monday, United said it will comply with the court's order but also said it expected the Federal Aviation Administration to formally approve the scheules on Friday. It said the schedules had been carefully desgined to reduce the congestion and delay at O'Hare, the world's busiest airport.

American's lawsuit said United, along with other carriers at O'hare, is subject to what are called high density slot rules. The rules relate to restrictions on the number of flights from such busy airports as O'Hare.

Under the rules, airlines are assigned certain times of the day when each would take off or land which are called slots, American said.

Its suit said United had sought FAA concurrence to deviate from these constraints.

''United's schedule is misleading to the traveling public,'' said Anne McNamara, American's general counsel. ''Passengers will show up a the airport expecting to depart at the time listed in the timetable, only to find that the flight won't depart on schedule because United doesn't have a slot at the time.''

She said United is causing American ''irreparable harm by putting us at a competitive disadvantage.''

United currently has 733 slots at O'Hare and American 552 slots.

CAPE CANAVERAL, FL (AUG. 28) UPI - Rocket engineers Tuesday readied the repaired shuttle Columbia for the overnight start of its countdown to blastoff Saturday, setting the stage for NASA's first shuttle flight in four months.

The countdown was scheduled to begin at 1 a.m. EDT Wednesday for a predawn liftoff Saturday at 1:17 a.m. Columbia's seven-man crew is scheduled to fly to Florida from Houston Wednesday night for final preparations.

But space agency managers may elect to delay the launch a day or so to allow time to first move the shuttle Discovery to nearby launch pad 39B.

Discovery is scheduled for a high-priority Oct. 5 launch to carry the European-built Ulysses solar probe into space. NASA managers want to get the ship on its launch pad as soon as possible to avoid losing time in the event Columbia runs into problems getting off pad 39A.

But work inside the Vehicle Assembly Building to bolt Discovery to a pair of boosters and an external tank was running behind schedule Tuesday and if additional time is lost, Columbia's seven-man crew likely would be cleared for an on-time blastoff Saturday.

''It could go either way,'' said NASA spokeswoman Lisa Malone.

Columbia originally was scheduled for launch May 30, but the flight was delayed because of a hydrogen fuel leak in the ship's 17-inch-wide ''disconnect'' fitting, which allows the external tank to be jettisoned in space.

Another fuel leak grounded the shuttle Atlantis in July, prompting NASA managers to haul Columbia, equipped with a new disconnect fitting, back out to the launch pad for another try this week.

Engineers initially believed Atlantis and Columbia were victims of separate problems, and that may still be the case.

But engineers said Monday the hydrogen leak that grounded Atlantis apparently involved trouble with the ship's disconnect fitting, not a fuel line flange as originally believed.

Whether the fitting was damaged by tiny glass beads like those blamed for marring seals in Columbia's disconnect remains to be seen and additional tests are scheduled at the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., to resolve the matter once and for all.

In the meantime, engineers in Florida are pressing on toward Columbia's launch.

Carrying a $150 million battery of telescopes in its payload bay, Columbia's mission is devoted to the study of ultraviolet light from deep space, light from stars and galaxies that is blocked by Earth's atmosphere.

Data collected with the ''Astro-1'' spabe,observatory will enable astronomers back on Earth to later gain insights into the nature of quasars, as-yet-unseen black holes, supernovae, interstellar gas and dust, stellar evolution and other critical questions in modern astronomy, extending humanity's sight beyond the blue end of the visible-light spectrum.

To collect as much data as possible, Columbia's crew will work in two 12-hour shifts throughout the flight with mission commander Vance Brand, 59, co-pilot Guy Gardner, 42, and John ''Mike'' Lounge, 43, responsible for keeping the shuttle shipshape and pointed in the right direction.

The shuttle observatory will be operated by astronauts Robert Parker, 53, and Jeffrey Hoffman, 45, along with civilian astronomers Ronald Parise, 39 and Samuel Durrance, 46. All four hold doctorates in astronomy.

Unlike the Hubble Space Telescope, which was launched from Discovery April 25, the four telescopes aboard Columbia will remain in the spaceplane's cargo bay throughout the flight, operated by the ship's crew much like a ground-based observatory.

And while the four instruments aboard Columbia are far more modest than the giant $1.5 billion Hubble, they nonetheless promise revolutionary results, giving astronomers their first detailed glimpse of what the universe looks like in the high-energy ultraviolet and X-ray regions of the spectrum.

#90240u1153 08/28/1990 ~United Press International
(AUG. 28) UPI - After a slow start, oil prices rebounded in early trading Tuesday as the market reassessed the prior day's plunge as an overaction to reports that Iraq had ordered its ship captains not to challenge the U.S. blockade, analysts said.

''Peace is not at hand,'' said Michael McDermott of Paine Webber Inc. in New York.

The benchmark West Texas Intermediate crude for October delivery had risen 80 cents by midday from Monday's close to $27.70 a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

The price was $6.16 a barrel above the level prior to Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait, which threw markets into turmoil.

Unleaded gasoline for September delivery was up 1.70 cents to 89.25 cents a gallon, while September home heating oil had gained 1.90 cents by midday to 80 cents a gallon.

McDermott said that the $4-a-barrel plunge in the price for WTI crude Monday took the market back to where it was about a week ago and that he expected WTI prices to return soon to a range of $30 a barrel to $31 a barrel.

The Merc started off slowly with traders waiting for sellers to follow through on Monday's price collapse, McDermott said.

''Once it saw the sellers were satisfied, the market started to buy,'' he said.

Randall Rothenberg of New York's Dean Witter Reynolds International Energy Futures Group said the buying surge was triggered by a story around 11:00 a.m. EDT that Iraq now considers Kuwait one of its provinces.

That drove WTI up over $27.40 a barrel, setting off buy orders at that resistance level, Rothenberg said. Buying then picked up steam, he said.

On the U.S. Gulf Coast spot market, where WTI barrels are bought and sold to the highest bidder, WTI was up 65 cents at midday to $27.55 a barrel.

On the European spot market, where crude is bought and sold to the highest bidder, the United Arab Emirates' Dubai light - the key OPEC crude from the Middle East shipped mainly to the Far East - had only edged up 1 cent to $25.27 a barrel.

Britain's widely traded North Sea Brent crude had risen 50 cents to $27.55 a barrel.

The market apparently had discounted and was unaffected by a majority of OPEC's oil ministers agreeing in Vienna to a temporary rise in output to offset production lost as a result of the Aug. 6 U.N. embargo of Iraqi and Kuwaiti exports.

A meeting Tuesday of members of the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to formalize the accord was postponed to Wednesday, apparently to give the opposition of Iraq, Iran and Libya more time to study the proposal.

Iran, however, walked out of the cartel's meeting in protest, while Iraq and Libya had refused to send a delegation to the talks.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 28) UPI - With the nation's mail system undergoing major technological changes that labor leaders fear will mean fewer employees, the U.S. Postal Service and leaders of its two largest unions opened contract talks Tuesday.

Both sides at the largely ceremonial opening session spoke softly, expressing hope that contract negotiations could be completed before the Nov. 20 expiration of the current pact.

Unions involved in the negotiations include the National Association of Letter Carriers, headed by Vincent Sombrotto, and the American Postal Workers Union, led by Moe Biller. Together, the unions represent some 600,000 workers.

''We expect a fair shake and we want an agreement bargained collectively '' Sombrotto and Biller said in a joint statement. ''We are willing to meet as often and as long as necessary to achieve that end.''

Postmaster General Anthony Frank was equally hopeful, saying he wanted the negotiations to end in a contract that ''will not go to arbitration,'' in which a contract would be imposed on both sides.

The heart of the negotiations is likely to be over the question of automation.

Traditionally, the mail service has been a labor-intensive industry, but increasingly, in an effort to cut costs and increase efficiency, the postal service has begun to be automated. Frank made it clear postal service management would seek a contract enabling it to continue that process.

''Neither the nation's clerks and carriers nor the American people will be served by an agreement that limits the postal service's ability to respond quickly and effectively to changes in its business environment,'' Frank said.

The postal service has spent $5.3 billion on new technologies in the last 10 years and plans to spend another $13 billion in the coming five years.

At the same time, Frank said he would prefer the system achieve its higher efficiency without layoffs.

But postal service officials noted that 83 percent of its budget is taken up by labor costs and that efforts to reduce its deficit - projected at a little less than $1 billion this year - could hinge on workforce reductions.

Biller and Sombrotto said they would present ''a full range of contract proposals that cover all terms and conditions of employment, including a wage increase and continuation of cost-of-living adjustments.''

But neither side made public any of their specific contract proposals.

Currently, the average annual salary for a letter carrier or postal clerk is $28,984.

Earlier this year, the service applied for a rate increase that will increase the cost of a mailing first-class letter from 25 cents to 30 cents.

In fiscal 1989, the most recent year for which complete figures are available, the postal service handled 161.6 billion pieces of mail.

GENEVA (AUG. 28) UPI - The United States called Tuesday for free trade in production of movies and audio-visual productions, arguing that such works are multi-national and cannot be controlled through ongoing world trade talks.

But India and Egypt, which have two of the world's largest indigenous movie industries, rejected the call at a subcommittee of the ongoing ''Uruguay round'' of trade talks.

They said that classifying movies, audio visual and radio productions by nation was essential if their ''national content'' was to be protected.

The subcommittee was debating whether movies and audio visual productions should be included in the ongoing debate on services in the Uruguay round.

The United States' position, supported by Japan, was that since many movies are made in one country, financed by another, distributed by a third and acted by actors from half a dozen others, ''cultural exemptions'' to the rule of free trade could not apply.

Debate on the matter was scheduled to resume in September.

DHAHRAN, SAUDI ARABIA (AUG. 28) UPI - U.S. tanks and other heavy armor rolled off ships and deployed in Saudi Arabia Tuesday, introducing a force that would be key to a ground war with Iraqi troops occupying neighboring Kuwait.

M-1 Abrams tanks, Bradley armored personnel carriers, 155mm self-propelled guns and a variety of tracked and wheeled support vehicles drove off two naval Fast Sealift ships which made the two-week voyage from Savannah, Ga.

U.S. officials would not disclose how many main battle tanks would be unloaded at the port, which also could not be named for security reasons.

But sources in Washington have said the initial deployments would number about 300 M-1s, and there are indications the figure could double in subsequent shipments.

Six other vessels were to disgorge other war materiel during the next 10 days, but Col. John Le Moyne said the first two vessels had delivered the bulk of the vehicles required for his 24th Infantry (Mechanized) Division, whose troops have been arriving by air.

''It gives the theater commander significant combat power,'' Le Moyne said when asked how the heavy armor may affect possible battle plans against Iraq. ''It allows him great flexibility to respond to whatever may come up.''

Most experts believe the introduction of the M-1, rated as the world's most powerful tank, would help give Washington the necessary ground forces to attack and hold ground if a decision were made to move against the estimated 170,000 Iraqi troops occupying Kuwait.

Although the American, Saudi and pan-Arab forces are outnumbered by Iraq's overall million-strong military, analysts think the Iraqis would retreat if dealt assaults by U.S. naval and air power on both Iraq and Kuwait, with ground attacks concentrating only on retaking Kuwait.

Le Moyne predicted any combat would be ''classic desert warfare,'' involving great mobility, and last seen in the great World War II battles between the allies and the axis forces under German Field Marshall Rommel.

''We have been told that it is a peacekeeping mission, but that is how governments always start,'' said 2nd Lt. Christman Hampton, 23, an M-1 platoon leader from Birmingham, Ala. ''I think Bush wants a base here. He would be crazy to send us back.''

The armor rumbled off the ships and drove to a nearby yard, where the M-1s were loaded aboard trucks for transport closer to the Kuwaiti frontier because the 60-ton tanks would tear up Saudi Arabia's freeways.

Saddam has about 5,500 pieces of armor, much of it vintage Soviet equipment, but soldiers interviewed at random were confident of their chances against his top-range T-72s.

''This is the boss,'' said Sgt. Ronald Ruff, of Hinesville, Ga., patting his tan M-1. ''This is the cadillac model. The others are all Volkswagens.''

He said his laser-guided 105mm gun had about 90 percent hit accuracy against moving test targets.

The tank is low-slung and has reactive armor, meaning that charges set into outer plates explode if hit by a shell, deflecting the round from piercing and killing the four-man crew.

''Bring 'em on,'' Ruff said. ''We'll take 'em. We have better fire control and they can't touch us at nighttime. We can see them twice as far.''

Apart from the latest computer-aided weaponry, the M-1's turbine engine can propel it at speeds of 55 mph along a highway, and 25 mph on rough terrain, giving it great ''shock-mobility'' power.

Its greatest foes in Saudi Arabia may be heat and dust.

Saudi temperatures hit 120 F, but can be 150 F inside the turret.

Desert grit and grime could damage the engine and sensitive electronics, but Ruff said his tanks had been tested at a training school in the Mojave desert, and that filters could be cleaned in about three hours.

Army stevedores unloaded goods from the sauna-like interior of the USS

Capella, one of the converted container ships designed to ply the world's oceans to bring heavy equipment to crisis zones.

Captain David Teo said unloading each vessel would take about 24 hours, and that afterward he would return to the United States for another load.

Troops strapped a belt around the rotor base of one Apache helicopter gunship, which was then hoisted out of the hold onto the dock.

''That's called the Jesus lock,'' one officer said of the lifting device. ''When it breaks, you say 'Oh Jesus.'''

LONDON (AUG. 28) UPI - Share prices rose on the London International stock exchange Tuesday with the market reflecting strong performances by Wall Street and Tokyo.

The blue-chip Financial Times Stock Exchange 100-share index gained 39.7 points to 2,126.1, after retreating late in the session from a high for the day of 2,133.6.

The narrower Financial Times 30 index ended at 1,657.4, up 40.5 points.

Volume was a moderate 281.6 million shares, down from 347.7 million Monday.

Stocks prices shot up in London following rallies in overseas stock markets Monday, when the London market was closed for a holiday.

''It's a general euphoria markup'' in London, one dealer said.

The sharp price rise was not the result of buying pressure but a general markup of stocks, dealers said.

Institutional investors kept to the sidelines, however, because of the continued uncertainty over the Middle East situation and were likely to move back into the market only after the crisis is over, traders said.

Oil issues fell with the drop in crude prices, but fared better than expected, market analysts said. British Airways gained slightly with lower crude prices lowering costs, with shares rising 19 cents to $3.26, while British Petroleum shares dipped 12 cents to $6.79.

Speyhawk shares plunged $1.74 to $3.39 as speculators expressed their frustration over a yet-to-materialize expected bid from Sweden.

Gilt-edged securities were around five-eighths of a point firmer toward the close.

Argyll Group shares gained 18 cents to $4.58 on talk of possible litigation against Guinness Plc after its former chairman and three others were convicted of fraud and related charges in connection with a share support scheme that helped Guinness beat out Argyll to take over the Scotch whiskey group Distillers.

Elsewhere in Europe, share prices on the Frankfurt stock exchange closed sharply lower on strong profit taking following Monday's 6.1 percent gain.

The key weighted German stock index, or Dax, lost 36.91 points to 1,617.89 - a 2.2 percent loss.

Dealers said the slide was in reaction to Monday's strong advance, when the Dax closed at 1,654.49. They also cited investors' nervousness in view of the Oct. 3 reunification of the two Germanies, which many observers feel could result in economic problems.

NEW YORK (AUG. 28) UPI - New York City's Department of Consumer Affairs charged 11 car rental agencies including Hertz and Avis with unlawful discrimination against young drivers and non-credit card holders, the department's head said Tuesday.

Mark Green, the city's consumer affairs commissoner, said of the 51 outlets of the agencies investigated, all were charged with one violation or more. In addition to Hertz and Avis, the agencies charged with violations were Budget, A & L, Dollar, National, Agency, Not Nu, Payless, Snappy and Thrifty.

''This undercover sweep documents that consumer abuse at car rentals is not exceptional but customary, Green said. ''One hundred percent of the places investigated tried to take customers for a ride.

''When you enter a car rental agency and are told you must own a credit card and be 21 years of age or older, you've been lied to twice,'' he said. ''New York State General Business Law says that a licensed driver 18 years of age or older is entitled to rent a car, and that a credit card is not required as long as a driver is credit-worthy.''

Green said three of the agencies required not only one credit card but two.

The agencies may be fined up to $500 per violation, including failure to adequately display legally required signs informing consumers of their rights. Some of the outlets may be charged with as many as 10 or more violations, Green said.

The worst offenders, according to Green, were Dollar and A&L, with violations at nine outlets each, and Budget and Hertz, with violations at six outlets. Five of Avis' outlets were named.

NEW YORK (AUG. 28) UPI - NBC took eight of the top 10 spots in the ratings last week, with two of them going to previews of new shows for the fall season, it was reported Tuesday.

Top of the list, however, went to CBS's ''60 Minutes,'' which was primarily devoted to Iraq-related segments.

It also was the first week of Fox's bold ploy of pitting ''The Simpsons'' opposited ''The Cosby Show'' on NBC, although both shows are still in reruns and original ''Simpsons'' are not expected until October.

The ''Cosby'' rerun tied for third; the ''Simpsons'' rerun was in 54th place.

The ''Cosby'' coattails pulled the preview of ''Ferris Bueller'' into sixth place, the highest-ranked of the new NBC shows being presented in what the network calls its ''double pump'' strategy.

Right behind ''Ferris'' was ''Parenthood'' in seventh place, which did much better than its leadin, the preview of ''Hull High,'' which tied for 29th.

''Parenthood'' was followed on the air by ''Lifestories,'' which finished in 31st. The preview of ''Working It Out'' was unable to hold onto the leadin audience provided by ''Unsolved Mysteries.'' ''Mysteries'' tied with ''Cosby'' for third, while ''Working It Out'' was in 32nd.

The NBC numbers crunchers found the network experienced a 12 percent increase in ratings for the week, compared to summer viewing from July 2 to Aug. 19.

''60 Minutes,'' in first place for the second week in a row, and No. 2 for the two weeks before that, drew its audience by using two new pieces related to the Persian Gulf story - a report from Steve Kroft on chemical warfare and another from Morley Safer on the Soviets and the crisis. The show also aired a portion of Dan Rather's interview with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak.

There also was a repeat of Mike Wallace's report on women in military combat.

The news magazine has suffered no summer doldrums - since Memorial Day ''60 Minutes'' has been out of the top 10 only twice.

In the Sunday movie battle, CBS was the winner with a repeat of the TV movie ''Fatal Judgment,'' which tied for 21st place. ABC's theatrical film ''From Russia With Love,'' tied for 43rd, while NBC's repeat of ''I Know My First Name Is Steven,'' part 1, tied for 51st.

Even with the top rated show of the week and the top Sunday movie, CBS could not beat ABC, whose only entry in the top 10 was ''Roseanne'' in 10th place.

In ratings for the week end Aug. 26, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co., NBC remained in the lead with a 10.5 rating and a 20 share. ABC was second with a 9.4 rating and an 18 share and CBS was last with a 9.1 rating and a 17 share.

NBC was the winner on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday nights. CBS won Sunday and ABC held Friday.

In the 49-week season-to-date competition, NBC has a 13.0 rating and a 23 share, followed by ABC with an 11.7 rating and a 20 share, and CBS with an 11.1 rating and a 19 share.

ABC's ''World News Tonight'' with Peter Jennings was in the No. 1 spot for the 33rd consecutive week with a 10.4 rating and a 22 share. ''CBS Evening News'' with Dan Rather was a close second with a 10.2 rating and a 21 share, while ''NBC Nightly News'' with Tom Brokaw was third with an 8.9 rating and a 19 share.

Each ratings point represents about 921,000 households. A share is the percentage of TV sets in use that are tuned to a particular show or network.

The top 10 programs for the week ending Sunday, Aug. 26, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co., were:

1. 60 Minutes (CBS)
2. Cheers (NBC)
3. (tie) The Cosby Show (NBC)
4. Unsolved Mysteries (NBC)
5. Empty Nest (NBC)
6. Ferris Bueller (NBC)
7. Parenthood (NBC)
8. Golden Girls (NBC)
9. Matlock (NBC)

10. Roseanne (ABC)

(AUG. 28) UPI - Florida police found the bodies of a young man and woman today in an apartment near the University of Florida campus- the same area where three female college students were found slain. AUSTIN, TX (AUG. 28) UPI - Texas Railroad Commission member John Sharp urged a consortium of energy companies Tuesday to build an offshore oil terminal, saying it would lessen the chances of damaging coastal oil spills.

''If you don't have a dog that's housebroken, don't let him in the house '' he said. ''What we're trying to do is solve the problem of the dog getting in the house.''

But a spokesman for Oklahoma-based Phillips Pipeline Co. said the consortium was considering the offshore terminal primarily because of Texas port congestion - not for environmental reasons.

''Our position is the main thrust of the project is to reduce vessel traffic congestion in ports,'' said George Minter, a Phillips spokesman in Bartlesville, Okla.

Phillips is the lead company in a 16-member consortium that is considering building the offshore facility. The companies were scheduled to meet Sept. 5 in Houston to weigh their options.

''We haven't committed to it,'' Minter said. ''There are a lot of unknowns out there. We're trying to determine how much it will cost, when it can be built and how much volume (of oil) can come in.''

Minter said the consortium, which included some foreign businesses, hoped to make a final decision by early 1991. He declined to identify others involved in the project, but said they included major oil companies.

One of the options being considered was a terminal 27 miles off the coast of Freeport. Crude oil would be brought to shore through a pipeline that would be linked to refineries in Texas and Oklahoma.

The facility would cost between $600 million and $1.2 billion and have the capacity to collect up to 2 million barrels of oil daily - about the amount currently passing through Texas ports.

Sharp said the offshore port would dramatically decrease the chances of harbor accidents and coastal oil spills.

''In the past year, Texans have had to watch almost helplessly as more than 5 million gallons of crude oil or petroleum products have been spilled along the Texas Gulf coast,'' he said. ''The pictures of tar balls on the beach and dying birds and fish coated with oil have been common on our television sets throughout this summer.''

A June 8 fire and explosion aboard the tanker Mega Borg spilled nearly 4 million gallons of oil in the Gulf of Mexico off the Texas coast. And about 700,000 gallons of oil were dumped into Galveston Bay in the July 28 collision of a tanker and a string of barges.

Sharp said there have been some innovative and effective spill response plans discussed, but he added, ''It is time we address not only the symptoms, but also go after a cure.''

Since Texas does not have an offshore or deepwater port to accomodate supertankers, oil is transferred from tankers to smaller vessels some 20 to 60 miles offshore in a process called lightering.

The state began considering as early as 1973 the construction of a superport that would have been about 30 miles from Freeport.

Gov. Bill Clements determined in 1980 that such a superport would benefit Texas refineries by reducing crude oil transportation costs, but he said it was not economically feasible for the state.

The 1980 plan called for the state to construct an offshore port through revenue bonds, but Sharp said there was ''no talk'' of state involvement in the Phillips-led project.

Sharp said such a facility was now feasible for energy companies because oil prices have risen, domestic production has declined and refinery facilities were more concentrated.

''The voice of public officials ... ought to be that this is not something simply that we are urging you (oil companies) to construct, it is something that we are almost insisting that you construct,'' Sharp said.

Several Gulf states considered building superports during the 1970s energy shortages, but the only one constructed was the Louisiana Offshore Oil Port - some 20 miles south of the barrier island of Grand Isle.

Sharp said the Louisiana superport has not had a major oil spill in its nine years of operation.

The three-member Texas Railroad Commission regulates the state's petroleum and transportation industries.

DETROIT (AUG. 28) UPI - General Motors Corp., chosen by the United Auto Workers Tuesday as the target company in this year's contract talks, said it welcomed the opportunity to shape an agreement suitable to all parties with a stake in the giant automaker's success.

UAW President Owen Bieber, at a Detroit news briefing, declined to discuss why the union chose GM over Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp., but stressed that the decision by the union's board was unanimous.

''We weighed everything and came to the conclusion that we should go to General Motors,'' Bieber said after informing the union's Ford and Chrysler councils at the Westin Hotel.

The UAW, which had been bargaining with all three carmakers since last month before getting the first company proposals last week, will now concentrate its efforts at industry leader GM with about three weeks left in the three-year contracts expiring at all three top carmakers on Sept. 14.

Those contracts cover over 500,000 U.S. auto workers.

The union traditionally chooses a target company where it concentrates bargaining during the final phase of negotiations, while talks at the other two automaker shift into low gear.

Once an agreement is ratified, that contact is used as a ''pattern'' which the union presses the other two automakers to sign.

Being the target also allows a carmaker to shape an agreement that undermines the competitiveness of the other two. But it is also the company the UAW is most likely to strike, should there be no agreement in sight.

GM had been viewed as the likely target because the union's membership and future have been most severely challenged by relentless plant closings at the No. 1 automaker.

Experts also believe that newly elected GM Chairman Robert Stempel will seek to avoid a strike at almost any cost, as the automaker introduces a wide variety of new models geared to raise its share of the U.S. vehicle market profitably.

When asked if the union thought it could get more meaningful job security language written into the new contract, Bieber said job security ''is not the only piece in the agreement.

''I would underscore again that we are seeking a pattern agreement,'' he said. ''When we weighed all of that... our decision was to go to General Motors.''

Bieber said he expected to join the talks at GM by Friday. But the spotlight will be on UAW Vice President Stephen P. Yokich, the union's most experienced bargainer and head of the union's GM Dept.

Yokich, 54, is one of the union's most outspoken top officials and i known for his often fierce temperment and wry humor. Considered Bieber's hUir-apparent, he headed the union's Ford Department during the last round of national bargaining in 1987, where Ford was the target.

Leading GM's bargaining efforts is Alfred S. Warren, Jr., vice president of Industrial Relations. Warren, 64, headed his first national contract talks in 1982, when the union declined to choose a target. This is his fourth and final round before he retires in April.

Some industry experts say the UAW will be unable to negotiate an agreement with meaningful job security provisions, and that pattern bargaining is all but dead except for wage parity and benefits.

''It's going to be a paper pattern at best, vixh the union cutting the best cut deal it can,'' Sean McAlindin, a research manager and automotive economist at University of Michigan's Transportation Research Institute.

''We expect one fuzzy agreement that allows GM to reduce its workforce further by another 50,000 workers. That will be hacked out by early October, with the possibility of selective strikes.''

McAlindin said GM managed to cut 45,000 jobs during the last three years under the current agreement by calling four assembly plants ''indefinitely idled'' instead of closed.

Unlike other industries, automakers have appeared eager for the chance to be named the target. All three have attempted to lure the union into choosing them because it allows them to bargain a labor contract that fits their unique needs.

Industry analyst Jay Leopold, of Legg Mason Wood Walker Inc. in Baltimore, said he believes there has been some momentum built up by GM and the union settling a parts plant strike in Flint this month that largely concerned the future loss of jobs.

But most analysts say GM must still close more car assembly plants to match production to demand.

''They must find a way in the wording so that they can,'' Leopold said. ''Maybe it will be so workers are guaranteed a job in another plant, or so that they can be used to replace workers retiring at other plants.''

WASHINGTON (AUG. 28) UPI - The International Monetary Fund Tuesday announced its first loan to El Salvador in eight years, a $50 million, 12-months financial operation to support the government's economic program.

The fund had not given a loan to the war-torn Central American nation since 1982.

An IMF loan helps a nation's finances and serves as a good-housekeeping seal on its economic programs, opening the doors to other multilateral and private lending.

The 1990-91 economic program of Salvadoran President Alfredo Cristiani, which the IMF $50 million loan will support, aims at lowering inflation and strengthening the balance of payments, creating the conditions for a restoration of growth of production and employment, the IMF said.

The key to the government's program is a narrowing of the overall deficit of the public sector in line with availability of external financing, while allowing a reduction in public sector net domestic bank debt and the repayment of internal and external arrears.

The fund noted that the Salvadoran government implemented structural measures aimed at raising the efficiency of the economy, including the adoption of a more liberal exchange system; reforms in the trade, fiscal and financial sectors; elimination of price controls and a reduction of government involvement in productive activities.

Economic performance in El Salvador over the period 1985-89 has been affected by armed conflict, adverse external developments, and natural catastrophes

Shortcomings in the implementation of economic policies, reflected in falling public sector revenue, insufficiently restrained credit policy, exchange and trade restrictions, and an increasingly overvalued exchange rate also contributed to the sluggish performance during that period, the IMF said.

Domestic savings remained low, inflationary pressures were strong, and the external position deteriorated, resulting in an accumulation of external payments arrears, the fund said.

KOLOLI, GAMBIA (AUG. 28) UPI - Negotiations to establish an interim government in Liberia resumed Tuesday without representatives of the country's three warring factions, raising doubts that a peaceful settlement to the civil war can be negotiated, diplomatic sources said.

The delegates to the talks, which are being held under the auspices of the Economic Community of West African States, discussed the changes that must be made to the Liberian Constitution in order to legally establish an interim presidency, according to conference participants.

A draft agenda prepared by a technical committee of the Economic Community of West African States concluded recently that an interim government can be formed with ''minimum disruption'' of the current Liberian Constitution which was enacted by President Samuel Doe.

Among the changes proposed are the elimination of articles requiring that candidates for the presidency must own at least $25,000 in property, sources close to the talks said.

Under the plan being debated, military power would remain in the hands of the Economic Community of West African States, which last week sent a 3,000-man peacekeeping force to try and impose a cease-fire in the 8-month-old Liberian civil war.

The force is composed of soldiers from Nigeria, Sierra Leone, Guinea, Gambia, and Ghana.

But diplomatic sources said reports of heavy fighting last weekend between the peacekeeping contingent and soldiers loyal to the National Patriotic Front guerrillas led by Charles Taylor would make implementation of any eventual peace plan more difficult.

Perhaps afraid the talks may fail, Economic Community of West African States Secretary-General Abass Bundu appeared to distance his group from the negotiations Tuesday.

''This is an all-Liberian affair. I do not even want to go into that room

'' he told reporters gathered in a courtyard as he pointed to the hall where the delegates were meeting.

''We do not want to form a government. We are here to facilitate their talks and let them form their own government,'' he added.

Diplomatic observers said the fact that the warring factions have thus far refused to participate in the talks could mean that any agreement on a cease-fire or the establishment of an interim government until elections can be held could very well be ignored by either Taylor or Doe, or both.

Prince Johnson, who led a second rebel faction until he joined forces with Doe last week, had been expected to attend the meetings at the Kairaba Beach Hotel in Kololi, 13 miles west of the Gambian capital of Banjul, but he has thus far failed to show up.

Taylor himself has shown little interest in the negotiations, although a delegation representing his movement has met several times with Gambian President Dawda Jawara.

Jawara, who has been working hard to find an end to the killing in Liberia urged delegates to the opening session of the talks Monday to ''end the nightmare.''

''History will not look kindly on your failure,'' he said.

The participants in the Kololi talks include the Liberian Action Party, which contends it won the 1985 presidential election it says was stolen by Doe. Also present are the Group of Concerned Liberians in the United States, mainly composed of former diplomats who served in several Liberian administrations.

Royal Wharton, a U.S. diplomat on his way to serve as a political officer at the American Embassy in Monrovia, is also attending the talks as an unofficial observer, according to sources close to the negotiations.

The war in Liberia, which began last December when Taylor's forces crossed the border from the neighboring Ivory Coast, has been at a stalemate for about two months although the guerrillas control most of the countryside and parts of the capital of Monrovia.

Doe, who took power 10 years ago in a bloody coup, has consistently refused U.S. offers to help him leave the West African country and has remained in his seaside palace in Monrovia, protected by several hundred loyal troops.

Several months ago Doe called new elections for next year and pledged not to run again, but the rebels rejected the move as too little, too late and have demanded his immediate ouster.

Nearly 500,000 Liberian refugees have fled to three countries next to the strife-torn nation, a fact-finding group from the Organization of African Unity reported during the weekend.

More members of the Gio and Mano tribes that supported Taylor have been fleeing Liberia because Doe's troops have targeted them for reprisal massacres, officials said. Tens of thousands of Liberians have died, most victims of massacres.

COLUMBUS, Ind. (AUG. 28) UPI - The Iraqi invasion of Kuwait is affecting more than prices at the gas pumps in Indiana.

Cummins Engine Co. officers said Tuesday that a reduction in demand for North American heavy-duty truck engines, discussed in the company's second-quarter earnings report, has gotten worse because of economic uncertainty and recent developments in the Middle East.

In response to the substantial change in order rates, Cummins said it will reduce engine assembly to one shift at its headquarters facility in Columbus beginning Sept. 10.

Ann Smith, director of public relations for Cummins, said the engine assembly division currently was operating on the first and third shifts. After Sept. 10, the 145 workers assigned to the third shift will be reassigned to other manufacturing operations in Columbus and Seymour.

Company officers said they were not announcing a layoff.

The company recently took other measures to reduce costs, including voluntary layoffs at the Columbus plant and shutdowns on July 20 and Aug. 10. A shutdown day also is scheduled for Aug. 31, Smith said.

She said the contract Cummins signed with the diesel workers' union in June allows employees to take a week off work unpaid.

''The purpose of the voluntary time off is to avoid layoffs,'' Smith said, adding that many workers had signed up for the program. She said she did not have exact figures on the number of workers who had participated in the option.

Cummins officers said the company would continue to adjust to changing market conditions. Smith would not say whether that meant more job shifts or layoffs.

Cummins is a major producer of diesel engines, components and power systems for trucks and industrial equipment.

(AUG. 28) UPI - Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, surrounding himself with foreigners in another televised appearance with Westerners under his control, Tuesday proposed a TV debate with President Bush and British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

''For my part, being responsible here in Iraq, I'm prepared now for direct talks with President Bush and Mrs. Thatcher immediately,'' Saddam said. ''And if they wish ... Let's have a debate on television for the whole world to see.''

Shortly after Saddam spoke, the State Department reported his government has rounded up nine more Americans during the past 24 hours, bringing to 70 the confirmed number of Americans in the custody of the Iraqi authorities.

As Bush interrupted his Maine vacation to meet with congressional leaders in Washington, the State Department blamed Iraq for the death of an unidentified American hostage who suffered a heart attack in the Iraqi port city of Basra.

''Clearly, being used as a human shield and being deprived of one's liberty is a source of severe stress,'' said State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler.

The State Department said the Iraqi government had promised to turn the man's body over to the American consulate in Baghdad. It was not clear when the man, a private citizen believed in to be in his mid-50s, died.

Iraq continued to put out mixed signals Tuesday. While Saddam released a British family, his government announced it was designating occupied Kuwait as another Iraqi province.

In what the Iraqi News Agency described a ''the most beautiful gift,'' Saddam gave permission for the unidentified British family to return home after he apparently met with them. The report said the family would be allowed to leave ''on the occasion of the family celebrating the birthday of its child Rachel.''

The British Foreign Office said it was investigating the report and could not indepently confirm it. And Saudi Foreign Minister Saud al Faisal said the move was the latest measure designed to abort hope for peace.

Shortly after the announcement, Iraqi television broadcast a meeting between Saddam and a group of unidentified Westerners under Iraqi control.

In his second such appearance in a week, Saddam mixed threats against the United States and its allies with appeals for a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

''If war were to come about ... Iraq would lose sons, women and children, and the aggressive countries would also lose their own men, women and children,'' Saddam said.

''So if the United States were to attack our installations in which we have women, children and civilians accomodated, these people would be killed,'' Saddam said, leaving it unclear if he was referring to Iraqis or foreigners believed held at strategic installations as a human shield against attack.

A government-run Iraqi newspaper has described foreign nationals detained in Iraq and Kuwait against their will as a weapon ''in the battle of history.''

Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, leading Arab efforts to secure Iraq's withdrawal from Kuwait, begged Hussein for ''just one word (that) would save us from catastrophes for years to come.''

Syrian President Hafez Assad and Mubarak met in the latest round of diplomatic efforts to prevent a Middle East war. Jordan's King Hussein completed talks in Tunisia and traveled to Algeria as part of his personal efforts to find an ''Arab solution'' to end the crisis.

Several U.S. legislators also held talks on the Gulf crisis with Mubarak Tuesday, including Republican Senate leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., and Georgia Democrat Sam Nunn, chairman of the Senate Armed Forces Committee.

The diplomatic efforts came as the U.S. fleet in the Red Sea intensified the interception of ships heading toward Jordan to make sure the U.N.-mandated economic embargo against Iraq was not violated.

Iraq has reportedly ordered its tankers not to run the U.S.-led blockade in a move Western diplomats said indicated Saddam's attempt to avoid a military confrontation.

Shipping sources in the Jordanian port of Aqaba said U.S. warships Tuesday prevented a Chinese cargo vessel from entering the Gulf of Aqaba. The sources said the ship was to unload ''general cargo'' bound for Jordan and Iraq. No details were available and the report could not be independently confirmed.

''Last week cargo was slipping through,'' one shipping source said. ''Now they (U.S. naval vessels) seem to be tightening up quite a bit.''

Assad and Mubarak met for five hours Tuesday in the Mediterranean city of Alexandria and discussed ways to reach a ''suitable Arab solution to the Iraqi-Kuwaiti crisis with the aim of preventing a terrible catastrophe from happening,'' Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported.

Mubarak said he hoped Iraq would not ''commit provocative actions'' that would compel a strike by foreign countries whose citizens Iraq holds. In answering one question, Mubarak reiterated an earlier proposal and said no countries could oppose the reciprocal withdrawal of Iraqi and foreign forces, with their replacement by an all-Arab force.

''I would be the first to stand against the foreign presence in the area if Iraq withdrew from Kuwait,'' Mubarak said. ''All Arabs will have one stand against the foreign presence when Saddam gets his troops out of Kuwait.''

The Baghdad government announced the oil-rich occupied state had become the 19th administrative province of Iraq. Iraq insists its has historical rights to Kuwait and British colonialism was to blame for the division.

The Iraqi News Agency Tuesday again published Saddam's Aug. 12 initiative.

In his proposal, Saddam called for the withdrawal of Israel from the occupied Arab territories and Syria from Lebanon, resolution to Iraqi and Iranian territorial disputes and subsequent ''arrangements for the case of Kuwait.'' American and other foreign troops also would withdraw from the region and the economic sanctions would end under Saddam's plan.

Calls for the Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait and release of foreigners held by Saddam are the two primary points U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar plans to concentrate on during his talks Thursday in Amman with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz.
In other developments:

-The Iraqi government told the U.S. envoy in Baghdad Tuesday that it will retaliate for the State Department's expelling 36 Iraqi diplomats from the United States. The State Department said its representative, Joseph Wilson was told by Iraqi Foreign Ministry officials that Iraq's action was directly related to the State Department expulsion order.

-In Vienna, the Iranian oil minister walked out of OPEC talks as delegations from 10 other countries put the final touches on an agreement to allow a temporary rise in oil output. Belief that some OPEC countries would raise output contributed to a $4 drop in crude oil prices Monday on the New York Merchantile Exchange.

-The Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman said the Soviet Union does not plan to follow the U.S. example and expel any Iraqi diplomats even though the Soviets were forced to evacuate their embassy in Kuwait. The United States has ordered the expulsion of 36 Iraqis, including seven accredited diplomats.

-Lloyds of London said Gulf of Aden and Red Sea ports had applied, effective Tuesday, a ''extra risk surcharge'' of $700 for 20-foot containers, $1,400 for 40-foot containers and $35 per metric ton on part container loads and breakbulk cargoes. Breakbulk is any cargo not shipped in bulk or generally shipments besides grain or oil.

Two ships on Monday were inspected by U.S. vessels, Lloyds Casualty Reporting Service said. But Lloyds retracted part of an earlier dispatch on activities by the U.S. naval forces and said it had incorrectly reported that a U.S. vessel prevented the French container ship CGM Paris from entering the Gulf of Aqaba on Sunday.

Scandutch Operations, the vessel's operator, told Lloyds Tuesday ''at no time was the vessel approached or contacted by the U.S. Navy, let alone denied entry to the Gulf of Aqaba.'' A scheduled Aqaba call was cancelled by the operator, Scandutch reported.

(AUG. 28) UPI - The Commerce Department is reporting a lower U-S merchandise trade deficit for the second quarter of this year. The department says the U-S red ink slipped 14-point-one percent, to 22-point-six-BILLION dollars. The report attributes the decline to lower imported oil prices and record exports. The second-quarter deficit figure is the lowest level since the fourth quarter of 1983, when it was 21-point-three-BILLION dollars.

The State Department says the body of an American detainee in Iraq is to be turned over to U-S officials in Baghdad. Officials say the man is believed to be a U-S private citizen in his mid-50's who died in the Iraqi city of Basra after being taken from Kuwait after Iraq's August 2nd invasion. The State Department says it was told that the man died of natural causes, possibly a heart attack.

Syrian leader Assad is in Egypt for talks with President Mubarak in the latest round of top-level Arab diplomatic efforts to end the Persian Gulf crisis. The Syrian-Egyptian meeting follows an earlier meeting between Mubarak and some U-S senators, including Georgia Democrat Sam Nunn and Republican minority leader Robert Dole of Kansas. Mubarak is heavily involved in diplomatic moves to avert war in the region.

The University of Florida beefed up security and warned students NOT to walk alone on campus after police found the bodies of a young woman and her boyfriend in a Gainesville apartment. So far this week a total of five people have been found killed in apartments near the campus. Three young women found on Sunday and Monday had been mutilated and killed. Officials have NOT linked the deaths of couple today with the other victims.

(AUG. 28) UPI - At least 30 people died in floods and landslides resulting from heavy monsoon rains that isolated Nepal's capital at Katmandu from the rest of the Himalayan kingdom. All roads to the capital were blocked by huge landslides yesterday. 17 Westerners were among those rescued by helicopter from a town where they had been marooned by rising flood waters described as the worst in nearly 10 years.

A quake-ravaged northern Philippine town was struck by yet another blow when a landslide hit a dormitory, killing 12 high school students. Officials say the landslide buried the Kalahan Academy at Santa Fe, 110 miles north of Manila. The Red Cross says four other people were injured when the dormitory was swept away and buried in the landslide. Santa Fe was hit hard by a July 16th earthquake that killed about 16-hundred people in the northern and central Phillipines.

The Washington Post says the five permanent members of the U-N Security Council plan to announce that they have agreed on a peace plan to end Cambodia's 11-year civil war. The report quotes congressional and administration sources as saying the plan would give the U-N a large role in administering Cambodia until elections are held. But any agreement would have to be accepted by the four warring factions in Cambodia... and so far there's NO indication any of them would embrace the accord.

Security forces in Sri Lanka today fought militant Tamil rebels in the northern port town of Jaffna in a week-old major offensive. A military official says government troops captured several rebel positions and are advancing on a military camp that has been under seige for more than two months. The development came after soldiers captured two islands used as staging areas for the final assault on the town of Jaffna.

SAN ANTONIO (AUG. 28) UPI - Military reservists returning home from voluntary duty in Saudi Arabia said they were stunned by the searing heat and desolation faced by active-duty U.S. troops assigned to Operation Desert Shield.

''The glare off the sand, flying over, is almost blinding. You almost get the impression you're flying over another planet,'' Air Force reserve Staff Sgt. William Salter, of Houston, said Tuesday.

''It wasn't very picturesque there,'' agreed reserve Tech Sgt. T.W. Robinson of San Antonio, a computer technician in civilian life. ''No trees, no scrub like the desert of West Texas - just sand.'' Reserve Col. Dennis Means, of San Antonio, remembers the active duty troops being ferried across the ocean to Saudi Arabia aboard the giant C-5A Galaxy cargo plane he piloted.

''Most of them were young, not knowing what to expect,'' he said.

And the reservists have as few clues as their active duty peers about how long it will last, or what will be the outcome.

''We have not heard anything at all, remarkably,'' reserve Col. Mahlon Stief, of San Antonio, said a time frame for Desert Shield.

''Everyone is waiting for something to happen, whether a war is initiated or (Saddam) Hussein backs down,'' Stief said.

More than 200 reservists assigned to the 433rd Military Airlift Wing, rather than wait for the call-up from the Pentagon, have been transporting troops and cargo from around the United States to the Middle East since Aug. 8.

''In fact, we've had more volunteers than we can use right now,'' said Col. Michael Quarnaccio, a wing commander.

Ground crews assigned to the wing based at Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio have been working 24-hour shifts since Aug. 5, repairing and maintaining incoming planes for quick departures.

''It's a pride kind of thing to see how fast we can get the airplane ready so that it can be launched again,'' Stief said.

''I came out of the 1960s, when people said (Vietnam) is wrong. 'I'm not going to do this.' No one has said that now,'' Stief said. This time, he said, everyone he encounters is supportive.

For the first time Tuesday, the 433rd reservists were allowed to disclose a few dates and numbers about their role in the massing of U.S. troops in the Middle East in response to Iraq's invasion of Kuwait Aug. 2.

''There is a fear factor when you do go in to a situation that could become combat. But there was no panic, nothing worrisome,'' Means, who flew the C-5As three times to Saudi Arabia in an eight-day period this month, said.

The 27-hour trips to Saudi Arabia, with stops in Europe for crew changes and rest periods, were exhausting, he said.

''The cities were nice, modern-looking cities from the air. But out in the countryside, it's just desert - I was suprised at how desolate,'' he said.

''I didn't want to volunteer but we'd been trained to do this. It was a responsibility,'' said Means, who is to return to work Wednesday at his civlian job as a Southwest Airlines pilot.

''I wouldn't feel right not doing the job.''

His more lucrative salary was cut off for the lesser sum he earned for his temporary military chores and the father of two was unable to contact his family while abroad. ''It was hard on them,'' he said.

The aging 15-plane C-5A fleet assigned to the 433rd has caused little mechanical trouble. ''It's a large operation and things have gone very well,'' Stief said about the largest military aircraft outside the Soviet Union, which is capable of carrying 85 tons of cargo.

Despite the lack of a formal call-up, the voluntary mission of the 433rd still is under way.

''I suppose some guys are apprehensive something might flare up,'' said Salter, a flight school ground instructor in civilian life. ''But most of us are confident the situation can be defused diplomatically.''

EAST TROY, Wis. (AUG. 28) UPI - Blues guitarist Stevie Ray Vaughan died of massive internal and head injuries suffered when a helicopter he was riding in slammed into a ski hill, a coroner said Tuesday.

The two-time Grammy-award winning guitarist and four others died in Monday morning's crash just after Vaughan performed at nearby Alpine Valley Music Theater with his brother, Jimmie, Eric Clapton, Robert Cray and Buddy Guy.

The others killed in the crash were the pilot and three member's of Clapton's entourage. There were no survivors.

''They died of massive internal and skull injuries sustained in the crash '' Walworth County Coroner John T. Griebel said.

Griebel said results of toxicology tests done on all the victims would be available in several days. Vaughan's body was transported Monday night from Elkhorn, Wis., to Milwaukee, and flown to his hometown of Austin, Texas. Funeral arrangements were not disclosed.

Investigators said fog and hazy conditions were a factor in the crash.

''Weather is a factor,'' said William Bruce, air safety investigator with the National Transportation Safety Board. ''To what degree it plays in this, we don't know yet.''

Milwaukee television station WTMJ reported the pilot, Jeff Brown, had been involved in two other accidents in Chicago. The television station said Brown was involved in an accident in 1977 while taking people on a sight-seeing trip, and was involved in another accident last year.

A spokeswoman for Clapton said Clapton's tour would continue Tuesday night with a show in Bonner Springs, Kan.

''The guys in the band sat down and talked,'' said Clapton's press agent, Ronnie Lippin, in Los Angeles. ''They just wanted to go on, somehow.''

Bruce said the five-seat Bell 206 Jet Ranger helicopter flew into the side of a 388-foot ski hill. There was no evidence the helicopter hit anything else first.

Besides Vaughan and Brown, those killed in the crash were Bobby Brooks, Clapton's booking agent; Nigel Browne, Clapton's bodyguard; and Colin Smythe, one of Clapton's tour managers.

Vaughan, 35, won a ''best traditional blues recording'' Grammy in 1984 for ''Couldn't Stand the Weather,'' a cut off his platinum album ''Double Trouble.'' He won this year in the ''contemporary blues'' category for his record ''In Step.''

The Vaughan brothers' long-awaited collaboration album ''Family Style'' is due out Sept. 25 and Stevie Ray Vaughan was to start a European tour next week.

(AUG. 28) UPI - World stock markets turned mixed Tuesday as Asian exchanges built up on their momentum to score new gains while Frankfurt and New York retreated on continued nervousness about the Middle East conflict.

The London International stock exchange, which was closed Monday for a holiday, recorded strong advances to make up for the lost trading session.

Stocks in Tokyo ended higher for the third consecutive session with investors' confidence boosted by a firm bond market, lower oil prices and hopes that war was not about to break out in the Persian Gulf.

The key Nikkei index of 225 selected issues gained 569.00 points to 25,710.76 - a 2.3 percent jump which added to a surge of 976.00 points, or 4 percent, Monday. Despite its gain of 1,545 points in two days, the Nikkei still has a long way to go before erasing the 25 percent loss it suffered since the Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait by Iraq.

On the New York Stock Exchange, the Dow Jones industrial average, which soared 78.71 Monday, was drifting lower in afternoon trading. The Dow was down 6.93 to 2604.70 in thin trading at 3 p.m. EDT.

Traders said they took profits on the market's rallies Friday and Monday, during which the blue-chip average surged more than 128 points.

Crude oil prices, which plunged $4 a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange Monday and contributed to the stock market rally, were holding up in $26.75-a-barrel range and had little impact on stock trading Tuesday, traders said. But an impending agreement by ten members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to raise some individual crude oil production quotas was expected to give stock markets a new lift fueled by lower oil prices.

Analysts said many investors were now awaiting new developments in the Middle East before deciding to enter the market in force again.

Several mediation efforts are underway to solve the crisis. Syrian President Hafez Assad arrived in Egypt for talks with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak to negotiate an end to the Gulf crisis. U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar is to meet Thursday with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tareq Aziz in Amman, Jordan, to seek a withdrawal from Kuwait and the release of detained foreigners.

In London, share prices ended the day higher, although some of the earlier gains were erased by profit taking. The Financial Times Stock Exchange 100-share index gained 39.7 points to close at 1,126.1, but volume was a thin 281.6 million shares, reflecting continuing caution.

Nervousness dominated trading on the Frankfurt stock exchange, where strong gains of 6.1 percent Monday, were quickly erased by profit taking. The weighted German stock idex or Dax lost 36.91 points, or 2.2 percent, of its value to close at 1,617.89.

An added factor to the Dax's slide was worries about the direction the German economy would take following its planned reunification Oct. 3.

Stock prices in Paris and Zurich also were on a moderate slide, in sympathy with Frankfurt. While Milan scored some modest gains, traders said the gains were vulnerable and prices were not expected to hold up.

Earlier in the day, Tokyo lifted other Asian markets in line with the Nikkei's upward push.

The Hong Kong Stock Exchange, which was closed Monday for a national holiday, surged ahead with the Hang Seng index gaining 5.5 percent of its value in moderate trading to end the day at 3,078.94, a surge of 160.93 points.

Share prices also rose in Singapore, although late selling eroded early gains. The Straits Times Industrial index ended at 1,217.14 points, up from 1,198.23 Monday and traders said the market might not be able to sustain more than a three-day rally, mainly if Tokyo retreats Wednesday.

In Sydney, share prices gained nearly 1 percent on sentiment of lesser tensions in the Middle East, although oil issues retreated on falling crude oil prices. The All Ordinaries index moved up to 1,491.7 points, up from 1,477.1.

BUCHAREST, ROMANIA (AUG. 28) UPI - Anti-government protesters gathered in Bucharest's main square for the sixth straight day Tuesday in defiance of a 30-day ban on new demonstrations in the capital.

The ban was imposed by the City Council late Monday following a series of violent clashes between riot police and protesters armed with Molotov cocktails and rocks.

The measures, the most restrictive since the overthrow of communist dictator Nicolae Ceausescu last December, prohibits demonstrations for the next month and limits future protests to sports stadiums and four city parks.

Six other public squares were declared off-limits to protesters, including Victory Square near the government headquarters, and the central University Square, which was occupied by anti-government demonstrators for seven weeks in May and June.

Despite the ban, dozens of people gathered in University Square Tuesday afternoon around a nucleus of about six protesters who chanted anti-government slogans. Police made no attempt to intervene.

In each of the previous five nights, the protests followed a similar pattern.

First, a disorganized group of a few dozen people set up barricades to seal off University Square, with police making no effort to stop them.

After nightfall, up to 1,000 riot police armed with batons and shields would then chase them out of the square, dodging rocks and Molotov cocktails.

Romania's established opposition groups have not sanctioned the protests, and some activists have even accused the ruling National Salvation Front of orchestrating the unrest to justify a crackdown on legitimate anti-government groups.

''It's obvious only the government's interests are served by this,'' said Dan Oprescu of the Group for Social Dialogue.

A police crackdown June 14 on the 7-week-long University Square demonstration triggered anti-government rioting that left six people dead and hundreds wounded. The rioting was halted when about 10,000 coal miners answering a government appeal, traveled to Bucharest and attacked protesters and opposition leaders with clubs and whips.

In another development, President Ion Iliescu Tuesday rejected as ''irresponsible'' claims by two former aides that the December uprising against Ceausescu was essentially a military coup.

Former National Salvation Front spokesman Silviu Brucan and former Defense Minister Gen. Nicolae Militaru told a Bucharest newspaper last week that top generals had begun planning the revolt as early as 1983 and had picked Iliescu as Ceausescu's successor.

The Front contends the revolution was a spontaneous popular uprising.

''The events in December had the character of a veritable revolt of the masses as a result of a long accumulation of powerful discontent,'' Iliescu wrote in a front-page commentary in the pro-government newspaper Truth.

''If we're talking about a conspiracy, the correct term might be a multitude of conspiracies,'' he said. ''In a way the whole populace, profoundly dissatisfied, participated in a great conspiracy against Ceausescu.''

Monday, the state prosecutor's office summoned Brucan to give sworn testimony to back up the newspaper account.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 28) UPI - Secretary of Labor Elizabeth Dole said Tuesday her agency will begin a ''special emphasis inspection program'' of the nation's largest petrochemical firms to ensure the companies have taken proper precautions against major catastrophes.

The inspections, which will be conducted by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, are to begin later this week and will target petrochemical firms with more than 2,500 employees.

The new inspections are an outgrowth an explosion Oct. 24, 1989, at the Phillips Petroleum company's complex in Pasadena, Texas, which killed 22 people and injured more than 120 others.

''When we investigated the Phillips explosion last fall, we realized the need to revise OSHA inspection priorities to include the risk of catastrophic events in the petrochemical industry,'' Dole said.

''Through this 'special emphasis program,' we are making system safety in petrochemicals top priority among our programmed inspections,'' she said.

OSHA officials said the first inspections will be focused in areas where there are high concentrations of petrochemical plants, including Delaware, Illinois, Louisiana, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Texas and West Virginia.

''Specially trained compliance officers, experienced in conducting chemical industry inspections, will be in charge of these inspections,'' said Assistant Secretary of Labor Gerard Scannell, head of the safety agency.

''Although system saftey inspections involved a considerable commitment of OSHA resources, we are convinced that this an important priotiry for us to undertake in the light of the dangers inherent in these facilities,'' he said.

''We will be paying particular attention to repair and maintenance activities; turn-arounds, start-ups and shutdowns and to outside contractors,'' he said.

Agency officials said OSHA has found that significant factors in fires, explosions and chemical releases include lack of proper maintenance, failure of the company to enforce permit systems, failure to insist that outside contractors follow company procedures and an inadequate safety and health management role in the entire production process.

The inspections will include companies involved in petroleum refining, manufacturing of plastic materials and synthetic resins, synthetic rubber, cellulosic and other man-made fibers and the manufacture of a long list of industrial organic chemicals.

''I share in the grief of the families who have lost loved ones in petrochemical accidents,'' Dole said. ''Through updating our safety procedures and focusing attention on accident prevention we can help to avoid the tragic situations we have recently witnessed in the petrochemical industry.''

(AUG. 28) UPI - President Bush is trying to quell complaints that he's NOT consulting with Congress enough on the Persian Gulf crisis. Bush is back at the White House this afternoon... meeting with congressional leaders and later with about 150 members of the armed services, foreign affairs and intelligence committees.

Senior Israeli officials say Prime Minister Shamir has received a note of appreciation from President Bush. The officials say Bush expressed gratitude to Israel for keeping a low profile as tensions in the region grew hotter following the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

The official Islamic Republic News Agency says a group of Filipinos stranded in Kuwait arrived at a checkpoint on the Iran-Iraq border today. Iran has said it would open its doors to all foreigners trapped in Kuwait by the Iraqi invasion of the tiny oil emirate earlier this month.

A Lebanese radio station says U-S intervention in the Persian Gulf is the latest issue delaying the release of six American hostages. The communist-run Voice of the People quotes well-informed sources as saying Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite will be the next hostage freed in Lebanon.

Both sides expressed hope for a settlement as contract talks opened in Washington, D-C, today between the U-S Postal Service and union leaders. The heart of the talks is expected to be over the question of automation. The current contract covering about 600-thousand postal workers expires on November 20th.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 28) UPI - Farmers would lose $2.8 billion in crop loans and payments and many Agriculture Department county offices would be open only three days a week if automatic spending cuts take effect, officials estimated Tuesday.

In addition, the department's 100,000 employees would be forced to take unpaid furloughs. One analyst said workers might be off work for one to three days out of every two-week period - effectively turning them into part-time workers with less money to make ends meet.

The department used a seven-page summary to describe the enormous impact of a year-long budget ''sequester'' under the Gramm-Rudman balanced-budget law. The cuts would take effect Oct. 1 unless Congress and the White House agree on a budget package. Employees are being given letters this week advising them they may be furloughed.

However, the impact could be larger still.

The descriptions were based on an across the board spending cut of 32 percent. That figure does not count the effect of a reauthorization of the food stamp program. With reauthorization, the sequester would be about 40 percent.

Food stamps and the Women, Infants and Children supplemental food program are exempt from the Gramm-Rudman cuts, which means the rest of the department would have to take additional cuts.

Meat industry officials already have warned there would be massive dislocations if federal meat inspectors are not available. By law, slaughterhouses cannot operate unless federal inspectors are on hand to examine each carcass. Meat processing plants must be inspected daily.

''Shutting down the meat industry for just one day, which is the assured result of inspector furloughs, would idle some 365,000 employees, stop all livestock and poultry purchases from producers and cost the economy nearly $1 billion in lost sales,'' three industry groups said in a letter.

Agriculture Department employees have begun to take precautions such as lining up second jobs. One said he would work as a driver for a flower shop to help make his house payments.

The possibility of furloughs prompted one employee, Denver Browning, to criticize President Bush's frequent - and costly - air travel and to complain about how jobs were being created for Bush's political appointees.

''Relieve us of this overkill of political appointees or at least take them to the White House, where they belong,'' he said in a letter published in The Washington Post.

In its summary of likely effects of a long-term 32 percent cut in spending the department said crop subsidy payments would be trimmed by $900 million, loan rates reduced to save $1.8 billion and dairy farmers assessed enough money on sale of their milk to raise $130 million.

County offices for the Farmers Home Administration and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service would be closed on two business days each week. Shipments of food under the Food for Peace program would be reduced.

''A 31.9 percent sequester would result in the absence of (meat and poultry) inspection services during a furlough of about 137 days and would cause the meat and poultry slaughter and processing industry to cease production during that period of time,'' the summary said.

In addition, many soil and water conservation programs would be curtailed and the Forest Service would implement shorter seasons at National Forest campgrounds and scale back programs such as forest fire prevention.

States also would see a drop of about $130 million in their share of money from timber and mineral sales and grazing fees, the summary said..

The department's statistical reports and analyses of commodity output and consumption also would face a ''major reduction,'' the summary said. The reports are an impartial and accurate source of information about farm output and influence the commodity markets.

OTTAWA (AUG. 28) UPI - Indian warriors, bracing for a planned army assault on barricades they erected at two Mohawk reserves, surrounded themselves with women and children who stood nose to nose with soldiers awaiting orders.

Prime Minister Brian Mulroney was to meet with his Cabinet later Tuesday and officials were preparing to evacuate Quebec residents living in the nearby towns of Oka and Chateauguay.

Several hundred traditional Mohawks, most with no links to the militant Mohawk Warrior Society, have already fled the Kanesatake and Kahnawake reserves south of Montreal.

The dispute involving Mohawks in the two communities began several months ago over a proposed expansion of the Oka golf course on land Mohawks claim is an ancient burial ground. The dispute turned violent July 11 when police stormed the barricades erected by the Mohawks and one officer was killed.

Days later, sympathetic Indians at the Kahnawake Reserve near Chateauguay blocked a highway and a key bridge linking that town to Montreal.

Indian leaders warned Tuesday of nationwide retaliation and bloodshed if Canadian armed forces assault the two Mohawk reserves. Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa asked the troops to remove the barricades after negotiations collapsed Monday.

Members of the small but powerful faction of the Mohawk Nation that took control of the negotiations from traditional natives at the two reserves were almost invisible at the barricades. Instead, they used women and children as a first line of defense. The women and children stood nose to nose with 1,400 soldiers awaiting orders to tear down the barricades.

The barricades are fortified with barbed wire, land mines and probably more weapons than the Canadian army knows about, the chief of the Canadian armed forces said. A number of Warriors who crossed the border from the United States have military service in the U.S. forces.

Bill Wilson, vice-chief of the Assembly of First Nations, warned there would be nationwide revenge by natives if the army removed the barricades.

''I know that land is worth dying for,'' Wilson said. ''But I feel terrible our brothers and sisters in the Canadian army and behind (Mohawk) barricades are going to spill blood.''

Elijah Harper, an Indian politician in Manitoba, said the assault would result in a ''bloodbath.''

''It is inexcusable the prime minister would allow this to happen,'' he said.

Canada's federal government has described the Warriors as criminals who derive most of their income from illegal cigarette and weapons sales and casino gambling, activities not supported by traditional Mohawks.

On Monday, Gen. John de Chastelain, chief of Canada's armed forces, told reporters that soldiers would shoot to defend themselves against the Warriors' heavy arsenal of weapons, which includes Russian, Chinese and Uzi rifles and hand grenades.

De Chastelain said he was aware of reports that Mohawk women and children would be a first line defense of the barricades.

He said the army's planned assault was a ''last resort'' to maintain law and order on the reserves and surrounding towns after the job became too difficult for Quebec police.

Nearly 150,000 non-native Quebecans in Oka and Chateauguay faced enormous hardship after the Mohawk Warriors closed roads and the Mercier Bridge linking Chateauguay to Montreal. Some residents lost their jobs because they could not get to work in Montreal.

SAN FRANCISCO (AUG. 28) UPI - Apple Computer Inc. has responded to criticism that its Macintosh computers are too expensive by planning to introduce three models in October including a version expected to sell for less than $1,000.

The new computers will be the first to come out of the Cupertino, Calif., computer maker since Sculley, chairman and chief executive officer, took personal charge of new product development during a management shakeup in February.

Apple has not disclosed prices or details about the new machines, but analysts expect the least expensive version, the Macintosh Classic, to be priced between $1,300 and $1,400, which would translate to a ''street'' price of less than $1,000 after dealer discounts.

The Macintosh Classic, based on Motorola Inc.'s 68000 microprocessor is expected to gradually replace the Macintosh Plus, the least expensive and oldest machine in the Macintosh family.

Equally important is a new Macintosh with a detachable color monitor that is expected to sell for about $2,500, compared with the more than $4,000 for Apple's current color models. The third model would be a high-end Macintosh intended to compete with powerful low-end computer workstations from such companies as Sun Microsystems Inc. of Mountain View, Calif.

The new color Macintosh is critical for Apple to regain its momentum in the education market, where IBM Corp. and Tandy Corp. have eaten into Apple's dominant market share, analysts said.

The color machine, dubbed the Macintosh LC, is expected to have room for a chip board that would allow it to run software written for the Apple II, which has been Apple's big seller in the classroom. Market researchers Dataquest Inc. estimate 65 percent to 70 percent of all personal computers installed in classrooms for kindergarten to 12th grade are Apple II machines.

As interesting as the new hardware will be, Shaffer said he was at least as curious to see how Apple would price and sell the new Macintosh models. The company came under fire earlier this year for lacking a focused marketing and advertising campaign for the Macintosh family.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AUG. 28) UPI - Security police Tuesday arrested the general secretary of South Africa's largest trade federation and two other union members, charging them with kidnapping and assault after they detained a suspected spy on duty outside the union offices.

Congress of South African Trade Unions General Secretary Jay Naidoo, Assistant General Secretary Sydney Mufamadi and a third union official were detained late Tuesday afternoon after holding the alleged spy for several hours at the COSATU offices downtown.

The three were later released on bail of approximately $600 after an emergency night hearing in Magistrate's Court.

''Having absolutely no confidence in the police, we took it upon ourselves to apprehend this person,'' Naidoo told reporters as he and South African Communist Party member Geraldine Joselyn sat on either side of their trembling and occassionally weeping suspect.

Naidoo lashed out at police for failing to investigate union complaints of its members or members of the African National Congress being harassed or subject to attack, yet having the time to put police on surveillance duty.

''It's a sinister plot to destabilize progressive movements,'' Naidoo said. ''I'm aware the building has been under surveillance for the past couple days.''

Security police later surrounded the downtown office building and arrested Naidoo, Mufamadi and Baba Schalk, a member of the union's media section, and took them to police headquarters where they could be detained for up to 48 hours before appearing in court, a union spokesman said.

The black constable, identified as Joseph Maleka, told reporters he had been recruited by the police to monitor the movements of Joselyn, who works in the SACP offices in the same building that houses COSATU National Union of Mineworkers.

He carried a two-way radio and a photograph of Joselyn when he was nabbed at a garage near the the office building, Naidoo said.

Police confirmed he was a constable.

''This is not an operation related to an unrest situation but criminal charges that we are investigating,'' Police spokesman Col. Frans Malherbe said after leading the raid on the COSATU offices.

''One of our police constables was allegedly removed at about 11:30 a.m. from Rissik Street by union members, taken to their headquarters and allegedly assaulted,'' he said.

Saying he feared publication of his photograph in local newspapers would prompt township activists to burn his house down or kill his mother, a visibly frightened Maleka shielded his face with a sweater during the earlier press conference.

Witnesses said burly men in the room with Naidoo forced the suspect's arms away from his face, grabbed his hair to pull his head up to face photographers - action evidently giving rise to the assault charges.

JERUSALEM (AUG. 28) UPI - Defense Minister Moshe Arens said Tuesday Israel's air force was ready to defend the nation, but added that the gulf crisis had made it clear the country needed more weapons from the United States.

During a visit to an air force base, Arens said he hoped the United States had become more aware of Israel's needs since Iraq invaded Kuwait and would provide the weapons he has requested.

''A little over a month ago when I was in Washington, I presented a list of things that are important to us, that are urgent for us,'' he said. ''I think today this urgency is clearer in Washington that it was over a month ago.''

Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, meanwhile, has received a message from President Bush expressing appreciation for Israel's low profile during the Persian Gulf crisis, senior officials said Tuesday.

The officials said the message, described as ''warm'' in tone, also said the United States looked forward to a continued dialogue with Israel.

Ze'ev Schiff, respected military analyst for the Hebrew newspaper Ha'aretz wrote Monday that Israel was likely to ask Washington for weapons systems to compensate for the advanced weapons being provided to Arab states during the gulf crisis.

''The more the United States provides Arab countries with the most advanced weapons systems, the harder it will be for Israel to maintain its qualitative superiority, which Washington has pledged to maintain,'' he wrote.

In order to bolster Saudi Arabia's defenses in the wake of Iraq's Aug. 2 conquest of Kuwait, Washington has agreed to sell the desert kingdom F-15E advanced fighter planes, a model which Israel does not possess.

Schiff said Israel would likely ask for F-15Es as well as attack helicopters and anti-missile systems. In addition, Israel could request advanced U.S. defense technology that would allow Israel to develop its own weapons systems.

As a matter of policy, Israel opposes the sale of sophisticated weapons to Arab nations not at peace with the Jewish state.

Shamir said in an interview Sunday that the gulf crisis had added support to Israel's position.

''Kuwait purchased from the United States considerable amounts of weaponry and the best weapons available,'' he said. ''Where are these weapons today? We now know - the Iraqis have them.''

During his visit to the air force base, Arens attempted to reassure the public about the country's capacity to defend itself. Since the invasion, Israelis have become worried that Iraqi President Saddam Hussein might attack their country with conventional or chemical weapons.

''I am sorry all the citizens of Israel could not join me and see the powerful force that exits and stands up for the defense of the state if necessary,'' the defense minister said.

After appearing Tuesday before the Parliament's Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee, Shamir again denied media reports that Israel was urging the United States to take military action against Iraq.

''It is a despicable lie. Israel is not pushing the United States into anything,'' he told Army Radio. ''Who are we that we should push the only existing superpower in the world.''

The head of Israel's ambulance service said his organization was prepared to handle a chemical weapons attack.

''There was a period in which we were not so prepared to provide an answer to chemical warfare,'' Arieh Har'el said. ''I am happy to announce that now we have succeeded in closing the gap.''

Since the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, Israel has attempted to distance itself from the gulf crisis. Although regular contacts between the United States and Israel, such as the sharing of information, have continued, Bush has not asked for any special assistance from Israel, officials said.

''It is common knowledge that Israel's position has been one of a low profile,'' one official said. ''We have all along tried not to play into the hands of (Iraqi President) Saddam Hussein.''

Israeli officials have said Saddam has tried unsuccessfully to recast the gulf crisis as part of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Despite Israel's low-key approach, Shamir and other senior Cabinet members have repeatedly warned that Israel will respond forcefully to any attack.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 28) UPI - Joyce Jones, a Department of Health and Human Services teletypist who supports her four children and a grandson, says the impending government furlough will mean the rent will get paid - but not much else.

Mary Pitts, who works for the agency's Departmental Appeals Board, says snacks will have to go by the boards and maybe fulfilling her daughter's hopes of living in off-campus housing at college. And making the tuition payment, it ''is going to be tight,'' Pitts said, ''But Jesus is my supplier.''

Jones, Pitts and about 3.1 million federal government employees nationwide received notices this week of a possible furlough that could start as early as Oct. 1 if White House and congressional budget negotiators fail to reach an agreement on cutting the deficit by about $50 billion for the 1991 fiscal year. Discussions are scheduled to resume Sept. 7.

Under the law, all employees would be affected by a furlough except military personnel, presidential appointees, Indian Health Service clinical staff and a few other categories.

All agencies were ordered earlier this month to draw up a plan to reduce their budgets by 32 percent. This can come from money appropriated for programs, projects and activities - with some exceptions, such as Social Security payments - as well as salaries.

While they would like to make the cuts through program reductions to spare employees, agency personnel officers generally say there are not enough discretionary funds to come up with a 32 percent cut, so furloughs will be necessary.

''They way it looks now, everyone will have to take some time off if there is no budget agreement,'' said Thomas McFee, assistant secretary for personnel for Health and Human Services. ''We're trying to handle this as equitably as possible ... and we would furlough everyone for an hour or a day or whatever it takes.''

Hal Paris, a Department of Transportation spokesman, said his agency is planning cutbacks on travel and other program expenses. ''But there will have to be furloughs. All employees at the Department of Transportation will be affected,'' he said.

The Office of Personnel Management encouraged agencies to take whatever action possible to reduce the need for and the extent of furloughs. These include hiring freezes, which many agencies have implemented, limiting or freezing promotions, reducing overtime pay and delaying employee training.

As of now, employees could be furloughed for up to 22 days. Agencies could decide, as well, to furlough workers on a staggered basis, so agencies could remain open. However, there is talk in at least one agency - Housing and Urban Development - of simply shutting down the agency for a day or so. So far, HUD has made no final decision.

''If I were negotiating this, I would negotiate that the number of furlough days be inversely proportionate to a person's salary so that a higher-paid employee would have to take off more time,'' said John Sturdivant, president of the American Federation of Government Employees union.

''I think it's unfair that federal employees are even being subjected to this kind of treatment,'' he said. ''It's not fair that our pay at the present time is some 20 percent behind the private sector. This furlough represents a pay cut, and no worker would think pay cuts were fair.''

Evelyn Miles, a 30-year government employee, said a furlough, no matter how short, would hurt financially, but she is a bit more sanguine than more fearful colleagues.

''I'd probably have to make adjustments, but I'm not going to worry. The good Lord will find a way for me to survive,'' she said.

GDANSK, Poland (AUG. 28) UPI - Solidarity leader and former Nobel laureate Lech Walesa Tuesday said Poland knows the consequences of not standing up to aggression, and appealed to world leaders to ''show solidarity'' in seeking the release of hostages in Iraq.

''I call on authorities of international public opinion to take actions aimed at freeing the hostages and helping their families,'' Walesa said in a statement released in his hometown of Gdansk.

''The hostages have become for the Iraqi government a human shield to protect them against the consequences of (their) irresponsible politics,'' said the 1983 Nobel peace prize winner.

Walesa appeared to support the United States and other nations in actions aimed at forcing Iraqi President Saddam Hussein to withdraw from Kuwait.

''Our country, which has bled in many wars, knows well (the) price but we also know consequences of tolerating mad plans of politicians, of tolerating arguments of force in international politics,'' Walesa said.

His statememnt appeared to be a reference to the appeasement of Nazi Germany by Western nations prior to World War II and the 1938 Munich accords accepting Adolf Hitler's annexation of Czechoslovakia.

It was also believed to be a reference to the 1945 Yalta agreements where the victorious and war-weary West allowed the Soviet Union hegemony in Eastern Europe.

''The fate of those people, among whom there are women and children, concerns us all, evokes compassion and protest,'' Walesa said of the plight of the hostages.

''We should show solidarity,'' he said.

NEW YORK (AUG. 28) UPI - It may look like an Operation Desert Shield recruiting commercial, but Reebok International Ltd. said Tuesday a new TV spot for its Pump cross-training sneaker was not intended that way.

While the "Basic Training" commercial featuring a group of new recruits - bedecked in fatigues and $110 Pump sneakers instead of boots - strikes right at the heart of the nation's current preoccupation with war, it's merely a coincidence, said Bernadette Mansur, a spokeswoman for Stoughton, Mass.-based Reebok.

"The ad was conceived back in May and was filmed in mid-June" - well before the Iraqi invastion of Kuwait earlier this month that has resulted in a U.S. military buildup in the Middle East. We made the media buy late last year for back-to-school advertising," Mansur added.

The tone of the 30-second commercial, which first aired three weeks ago and was the brainchild of Boston ad agency Hill Holliday Connors Cosmopulos Inc., is mock-serious.

While recruits are shown being put through the paces, a voice-over says: "With all due respect for the proud and successful tradition of initiation in the armed forces - and with complete appreciation for all those men and women who have endured the ultimate physical test - in the spirit of improved performance, we at Reebok would like to suggest one small change in the regulation uniform: the Pump, now in cross-training. "And, oh yeah, we'll have to stop calling it 'Boot Camp."'

For the record, the Army buys thousands of the pricy Pump cross trainers. "The military is one of the largest consumers of the Pump," said Mansur. "The ad was conceived as saluting the young men and women who support our country and what they go through in boot camp."

Unrelated to the ad, Reebok said Tuesday it hired David G. Ropes, a former PepsiCo Inc. executive, to oversee advertising and marketing functions. The sports footwear maker, whose recent ad campaigns have been criticized as both ineffective and tasteless, has slipped to the No. 2 position in sales behind Nike Inc. of Beaverton, Ore.

Mansur said Reebok - although it considered not airing the commercial given the current Middle East crisis - has not received one complaint about the ad. "We believe the commerical is very complimentary to the military and that we would let our consumers be the audience," she said.

Meanwhile, military spokesmen say no branch of the armed forces has stepped up or altered recruiting advertising in the wake of Operation Desert Shield.

"You may be seeing more recruiting ads, but its because we are gearing up for our heaviest advertising time that runs from September through March," said Petty Officer David Melancon, a Navy spokesman. The Navy spends $27 million a year on recruiting advertising geared to 18-to-25 year olds.

The Army, which has a $74 million advertising budget, said it's business as usual for its recruiting program. "There is no policy set up anywhere to capitalize on the situation in the Middle East because we are meeting our goals through normal recruiting programs," said Lt. Col. Jospeh Allred.

The Marines and Air Force have no recruiting advertising budgets and spokesmen for both branches said there were no plans at this time to alter exisiting public service campaigns.

Despite the Reebok ad, a Madison Avenue watcher said advertisers would be wise to stay away from military themes given the military buildup in the Persian Gulf area.

"There is a danger of being pegged as unpatriotic or trying to take advantage of a bad situation," said John Wolfe, New York bureau chief of the trade weekly Advertising Age.

MCCAYSVILLE, GA (AUG. 28) UPI - Federal officials said Tuesday they would investigate to determine whether a sulphur dioxide release from the Tennessee Chemical Co. imposed any health risks on the population of McCaysville.

The city is located just across the Georgia-Tennessee border from the chemical plant.

The Environmental Protection Agency evaluation follows a probe conducted by the Georgia Environmental Protection Division into the scorching of vegetation after the Aug. 16 chemical release from the Coppherhill, Tenn., company.

In addition to assessing possible public health problems resulting from the release, the EPA plans to determine whether any environmental laws were broken.

James George, the company's environmental manager, said the emissions occurred when the acid plant was restarted after being shut down for maintenance. Environmental standards allow the plant to emit greater than normal amounts of sulfur dioxide when it is being fired up.

The releases of sulphur dioxide were once common from the copper smelters and adjacent sulphuric acid plants in Copperhill. Most of the trees for severeal miles around the plants were killed by the early 1900s, giving the area its barren hills.

The August incident, which caused many of the stately white pines of McCaysville to turn orange, was the first gas release to burn vegetation since the early 1970s.

Damage to the vegetation did not become apparent until several days after the release of sulpur dioxide.

Tennessee Chemical Co. is currently being operated by Boliden Intertrade A.G., a Swedish company, under an agreement signed in March 1990.

The terms of the agreement allow Boliden to operate the facility for a period of up to six months. While Boliden is not liable during this period for contamination resulting from past operating practices of previous operators, Boliden is liable for any environmental damage that may result during its operation of the facility.

Boliden has asked that the interim operating agreement be converted to a permanent agreement. This request is currently being evaluated by various federal agencies and the state of Tennessee.

Despite the damages, it does not appear that Tennessee Chemical violated any state or federal environmental laws, said Jeryl Stewart of the Tennessee Division of Air Pollution Control.

But he said his agency is investigating to prevent it from happening again.

NEW YORK (AUG. 28) UPI - Liberty Island was closed to the public Tuesday afternoon when scores of demonstrators, led by the Rev. Al Sharpton, began setting up tents under the gaze of the Statue of Liberty.

The national park was closed shortly after 1:30 p.m. when between 40-80 protesters began putting up tents in defiance of both a permit issued to the New Alliance Party and the instructions of park service personnel, Parks Service spokesman Manny Strumpf said.

Sharpton, Lenora Fulani, the party's gubernatorial candidate, and others were granted a permit allowing them to demonstrate near the park's flagpole, but instead began setting up tents on the park's grounds.

Federal law enforcement officials were at the scene considering whether to arrest the demonstrators, Strumpf said.

''Obviously, we want to prevent violence. We want to solve this amicably '' he said.

In a release, demonstrators said they were protesting homelessness and the current state of race relations in the city on the 27th anniversary of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s historic ''I Have a Dream'' speech in Washington, D.C.

The group also was to begin a petition drive to change the name of New York to ''New King'' in honor of the slain civil rights leader, the release said.

No violence was reported during the incident.

The island has been the scene of several protests in the 1980s.

In January 1986, police in Maine and Arizona received warnings that the Palestine Liberation Organization had planted a bomb on the Statue of Liberty, but a search of the 100-year-old landmark turned up no explosives.

Six years ago, four protesters climbed the scaffolding surrounding the statue, put in place during extensive renovation, and unfurled a banner urging and end to nuclear weapons testing.

Twice in 1982, Iranian students protesting the Khomeini regime staged demonstrations at the statue.

And in 1980, demonstrators demanding the release of a black activist in California scaled the face of the statue and displayed banners advocating their cause.

UNITED NATIONS (AUG. 28) UPI - The five permanent members of the U.N. Security Council agreed Tuesday on a proposal they hope will insure a ''just and lasting solution'' to the 11-year-old conflict in Cambodia.

Representatives of the United States, the Soviet Union, China, France and Britain urged the warring Cambodian factions to accept the proposed framework, worked out after eight months of negotiations in Paris and New York.

The permanent council members also asked the Cambodian factions to form a Supreme National Council, which would represent the country in the coming General Assembly session set to convene Sept. 18.

The five nations, who each have veto power over decisions of the 15-nation Security Council, said in a statement after a two-day meeting at U.N. headquarters that they have reached ''final agreement on a framework for a settlement.''

The framework is composed of five ''indispensable requirements'':

- Transitional arrangements regarding the administration of Cambodia during the pre-election period;

- Military arrangements during the transitional period;

- U.N.-organized elections;

- Human rights protection, and

- International guarantees.

''These documents outline a settlement process based on national reconciliation and involving an enhanced United Nations role which would ensure a just and lasting political solution to the conflict,'' the statement said.

The documents will be presented to all parties involved in the conflict in the coming days and a U.S. official will meet Friday with the Vietnamese ambassador to the United Nations to discuss the agreement.

A successful implementation of the plan hinges on the acceptance by the Hanoi-backed government of Prime Minister Hun Sen in Pnom Penh and the three-party coalition government headed by Prince Norodom Sihanouk, which includes the Khmer Rouge and supporters of Son Sann, the statement said.

The Khmer Rouge was held responsible for the deaths of more than 1 million Cambodians during its three-year reign of terror beginning in 1975. The faction was ousted from power in December, 1978, when Vietnamese troops occupied Cambodia.

The Bush administration, bucking under widespread attacks that it was helping the Khmer Rouge faction, withdrew recognition in July of the Sihanouk's U.N.-recognized seat.

The five powers support an upcoming meeting in Jakarta of the four Cambodian factions to discuss formation of the Supreme National Council. But a senior U.S. official attending the talks said the major obstacle to the council remains ''the deep distrust and hostility among the factionsh.''

The U.S. delegation to the talks was headed by Assistant Secretary of State Richard Solomon; the four others by their U.N. ambassadors.

The statement said once the Supreme National Council is formed, the Paris conference should be reconvened to adopt ''elements of the comprehensive political settlement and draw up a detailed plan of implementation in accord with this framework.''

It called on the various Cambodian factions to exercise ''maximum restraint'' in the battlefields so the political settlement could be carried out.

Diplomats said the council will be composed of 12 Cambodians chosen for their political stature and representing all sides in the conflict, apparently six from the Hun Sen government and the rest from Sihanouk's factions or exiled Cambodians.

The United Nations will assume a major role during the transition and will head the ministries of foreign affairs, defense, interior, information and transportation, the diplomats said.

Formation of the Supreme National Council is the most difficult part, they said. It was not immediately determined how much power the council would have on domestic and foreign affairs and how its working relationship with the United Nations will be.

The United Nations is expected to set up probably its largest peacekeeping force ever to oversee implementation of the comprehensive settlement. The senior U.S. official said 20,000 military and civilian personnel may be involved, costing between $2 billion and $3 billion.

NEW YORK (AUG. 28) UPI - Stocks closed slightly higher Tuesday in very light trading as the Dow gained in the last few minutes of action on official statements concerning the crisis in the Persian Gulf.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which soared 78.71 Monday, its biggest gain of the year, rose 3.22 to close at 2614.85.

Among broad market gauges, the New York Stock Exchange composite index added 0.08 to 176.26. The price of an average share edged up 1 cent. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 0.10 to 321.34.

Advances led declines 812-662 among the 1,973 NYSE issues traded. Volume amounted to 127,650,000 shares, compared with the 160,150,000 traded Monday.

Stocks opened lower, with the Dow industrials down as much as 13 points, as traders took profits on the rallies of Friday and Monday, which took the blue-chip average up more than 128 points.

But the market rebounded as crude oil prices extended their plunge in early trading. October futures, which sank $4 a barrel Monday, were down 11 cents to $26.75 a barrel in the early going.

But by afternoon, oil prices turned higher. This pushed the blue chips back into the minus column and cut the lead of gaining issues over losers. Oil was up 74 cents a barrel in late trading.

Just before the close, however, the blue chips rallied to erase their losses on news that Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein, according to the Iraqi news agency, said all foreign women and children in Iraq were free to leave as of Wednesday, said Edward Nicoski, chief technical analyst at Piper, Jaffray and Hopwood in Minneapolis.

In Washington, a spokesman for the State Department task force on the Persian Gulf crisis said, ''We have heard such rumors, but only rumors.''

Even though the market rallied on that news, ''Without (gains in) the bonds the market couldn't go too far north,'' said Nicoski. Bond futures were down 19/32 in late trading.

''In a lot of stocks, though, it was just a technical reflex continuing from the past few days,'' he said. ''And volume was very light, it looked like everybody went home. Partly it's because they're waiting for more news from the Mideast but regardless, no one wants to take a major stand before a three-day weekend.'' The market will be closed Monday for the Labor Day holiday.

On the trading floor, Philip Morris was the most active issue, up 1/4 to 45.

First Fidelity Bancorp followed, down 3/8 to 14 1/2. Boeing was third, down 1/2 to 47 7/8.

Among other blue chips, AT&T fell 1 to 32 1/8, IBM lost 1/2 to 103 3/4, General Electric fell 5/8 to 62 7/8 and American Express lost 3/4 to 23 5/8. But General Motors jumped 1 1/8 to 40 1/8 after being chosen by the United Auto Workers as the target company for 1990 contract talks in the industry.

Blue-chip oil issues rose in tandem with oil prices. Exxon rose 1/2 to 50 1/8, Chevron added 1 1/8 to 75 5/8 and Texaco jumped 1 3/4 to 62 3/4.

Volume of NYSE-listed issues, including trades in stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 157,698,910 shares, vs. 197,941,480 shares traded in the previous session.

Prices closed higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

The Amex Market Value index rose 1.05 to 321.78. Advances led declines 312-238 among the 794 issues traded. The price of an average share rose 4 cents. Composite volume totaled 12,331,100 shares vs. 20,164,000 traded Monday.

PaineWebber's call warrants on the Tokyo market's Nikkei index led the Amex issues, up 1 to 7 1/4.

The National Association of Securities Dealers composite index rose 1.59 to 382.86.

NANTUCKET, MA (AUG. 28) UPI - A fishing boat collided with a Greek freighter and sank Tuesday morning in fog off Nantucket Island and three of the five crewmen on the fishing boat were missing, the Coast Guard said.

The Coast Guard said the 80-foot New England, out of New Bedford, ''sank immediately'' following the 7:35 a.m. collision with the 600-foot Euro Joy.

A small boat lowered from the Euro Joy rescued the captain and a crew member from the New England. They were treated and released at Cape Cod Hospital, the Coast Guard said.

The captain of the New England told the Coast Guard three other crewmen were still missing.

''We were able to talk to the master of the fishing vessel. He gave us a description of what happened,'' said Coast Guard Chief Petty Officer Gregory Creedon. ''The ship hit them right on the deckhouse where the men were sleeping. It turned turtle and sank like a rock.''

The missing fishermen were identified as Antonio Fernandez, Ederitu Ribav, and Carlos DiCosta, all of New Bedford.

Three Coast Guard cutters, a helicopter, and a jet were dispatched to the scene to search for the missing men. Two other fishing ships in the area also assisted in the search.

The Greek vessel was en route to Norfolk, Va., from Boston, where it had unloaded a cargo of salt.

''They apparently suffered no damage,'' Creedon said. The Coast Guard allowed the Euro Joy to continue to Norfolk, where the crew would be questioned further by Coast Guard investigators, Creedon said.

Visibility at the time of the collision was about a half-mile in foggy conditions, the Coast Guard said.

(AUG. 28) UPI - After a slow start, oil prices rebounded Tuesday as the market reassessed the prior day's plunge as an overreaction to reports that Iraq had ordered its ship captains not to challenge the U.S. blockade.

''Peace is not at hand,'' said Michael McDermott of Paine Webber Inc. in New York.

''It was more of a bounce-back after Monday's sharp sell-off,'' said Tom Bentz, director of trading at New York's United Energy Inc.

McDermott said that Monday's $4-a-barrel plunge in the price for West Texas Intermediate crude took the market back to where it was about a week ago and that he expected WTI prices to return soon to last week's range of $30 a barrel to $31 a barrel.

The benchmark West Texas Intermediate crude for October delivery ended the day 97 cents above Monday's close at $27.88 a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange, after trading as low as $26.70 a barrel earlier.

The price was $6.34 a barrel above the level prior to Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait, which threw markets into turmoil.

Unleaded gasoline for September delivery was up 0.97 cent to 88.53 cents a gallon, after trading as high as 90 cents and as low as 85.75 cents a gallon.

Even with Monday's 17-cent decline, unleaded gasoline is still trading 24.26 cents higher than it had been before Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion sent oil markets in retreat to higher ground.

September home heating oil shot up 1.42 cents to 79.52 cents a gallon, 18.33 cents higher than its level prior to the invasion.

Sun Co., Radnor, Pa.; Marathon Oil Co., the Findlay, Ohio, unit of USX Corp. and Houston's Conoco subsidiary of Du Pont raised the posted price they will pay for crude at the wellhead by $1 a barrel to $26.50 a barrel for WTI. They had lowered the price $4 Monday.

The Merc started off slowly with traders waiting for sellers to follow through on Monday's price collapse, McDermott said.

''Once it saw the sellers were satisfied, the market started to buy,'' he said.

''Crude got stronger as the day wore on,'' Bentz said.

Randall Rothenberg of New York's Dean Witter Reynolds International Energy Futures Group said the buying surge was triggered by a story around 11:00 a.m. EDT that Iraq now considers Kuwait one of its provinces.

That drove WTI up over $27.40 a barrel, setting off buy orders at that resistance level, Rothenberg said. Buying then picked up steam, he said.

On the U.S. Gulf Coast spot market, where WTI barrels are bought and sold to the highest bidder, WTI rose $1 to $27.90 a barrel.

On the European spot market, where crude is bought and sold to the highest bidder, the United Arab Emirates' Dubai light - the key OPEC crude from the Middle East shipped mainly to the Far East - edged up 4 cents to $25.30 a barrel.

Britain's widely traded North Sea Brent crude gained 80 cents to $28.20 a barrel.

The market apparently had discounted and was unaffected by a majority of OPEC's oil ministers agreeing in Vienna to a temporary rise in output to offset production lost as a result of the Aug. 6 U.N. embargo of Iraqi and Kuwaiti exports.

A meeting Tuesday of members of the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to formalize the accord was postponed to Wednesday, apparently to give the opposition of Iraq, Iran and Libya more time to study the proposal.

Iran, however, walked out of the cartel's meeting in protest, while Iraq and Libya had refused to send a delegation to the talks.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - In every extended crisis the passage of time becomes an element in the contest, and some experts said Tuesday they believe that Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein may be the chief beneficiary from a long crisis.

The key, according to analysts in and out of government, is patience and resilience. Democracies, they point out, especially working in combination with other governments and torn by internal politics, are notorious for their lack of long-term cohesion.

That appeared to be the underlying fear in the mind of Australian Foreign Minister Gareth Evans as he told a news conference Tuesday, ''It is absolutely crucial that we all stay the course ... be prepared to sit this out as long as it takes.''

U.S. officials said that the underlying strategy from the beginning has been to rely on the worldwide economic embargo to isolate Iraq economically and politically, while the military force in the Middle East would be available to protect against an irrational Iraqi attack.

In time, the strategy said, the embargo would begin to be felt and would translate into dissatisfaction against Saddam's military adventures.

As one official said, ''We believe that Iraq's move into Kuwait was done quickly, without any long buildup of food or preparation of ammunition reserves. Its foreign currency reserves were practically zero, and since Iraq hasn't sold any oil, it is going broke.

''This is not Germany, which stood up to an embargo for eight years during World War II. This is a dirt-poor nation, exhausted by a long war with Iran, and close to the subsistence point at the beginning.''

But, reports from Iraq received by the State Department this week said that with the exception of bread, food supplies in Baghdad appear to be relatively normal and nobody appears to be starving, or close to it.

William Quandt, a former National Security official now with the Brookings Institution, said, ''For the moment, time is our ally. Economic pressures will be considerable.''

But he said that could change after several weeks when the whole operation reaches a plateau.''Then,'' he said, ''The question becomes: how long can we sustain it and keep our allies eager to sustain it?''

Robert Hunter, a military analyst with the Center for Strategic and International Studies, a Washington think tank, said, ''The longer the crisis goes, the more time becomes an ally of Saddam Hussein.''

Hunter said that the costs will begin to mount in the military operation. The Pentagon estimated Tuesday that the transportation of forces to the gulf area will cost $2.5 billion, double the estimate of $1.2 billion which was made at the beginning of Operation Desert Shield.

As time goes on, Hunter said, the costs will mount further and the original enthusiasm for the multinational operation will begin to evaporate, particularly if the western economies begin to suffer from the costs.

At some point, Hunter said, the pressure will begin to squeeze President Bush with advisers and critics saying, ''If you don't act, the cohesion of the Allied powers will collapse.''

In the meantime, Saddam Hussein, with his control over his country's media will continue to push the line that he is the successor to Gamal Abdel Nasser, the Egyptian leader who became a pan-Arab hero by defying Israel and the western powers.

Hunter pointed out that Nasser was able to survive and prosper politically even though he lost two disastrous wars in 1956 and 1967 because of his defiant image as the defender of Arab honor.

One U.S. official, who served through the 444 days of the Iranian hostage crisis, said that it is inherent that pressure - built by media attention and the national sympathy for the hostages and their families - tends to work against the country whose nationals are being kept hostage.

The official said that Saddam is apparently playing that angle for what it is worth, doing nightly television appearances with groups of the hostages and permitting some of them to send taped messages home.

The official said the emotions of the Iranian hostage crisis would be dwarfed by the feedback created by thousands of hostages translated, he said, into pressure on Bush to make concessions and back down on his absolute insistence that Saddam withdraw from Kuwait.

Quandt, who was in the Carter administration during the Iranian hostage crisis, said, ''So far, the hostage issue has worked against Saddam. It has shown the world just what kind of man he is.''

NEW YORK (AUG. 28) UPI - U.S. gasoline stocks fell 3 million barrels last week as imports declined, but widely used unleaded stayed above last year's levels, the American Petroleum Institute reported Tuesday.

For the week ended Aug. 24, the oil industry's weekly survey showed gasoline supplies dropped to 210.9 million barrels from 214.0 million barrels in the prior week and stayed well below year-ago levels of 223.5 million barrels.

Stocks of unleaded gasoline, which accounts for 90 percent of the domestic market, also fell to 162.5 million barrels from 165.3 million barrels a week earlier but remained higher than year-ago levels of 159.9 million barrels.

Gasoline imports declined substantially to 287,000 barrels daily from 545,000 barrels daily in the previous week and were well below year-ago imports of 515,000 barrels daily.

Gasoline production held steady at 7.2 million barrels daily, the same level as in the previous week, but higher than year-ago output of 6.9 million barrels daily.

U.S. refineries operated at 92.4 percent of capacity last week, compared with 92.3 percent a week earlier and 91.2 percent a year ago.

Crude oil inventories, however, rose to 376.6 million barrels from 375.7 million barrels in the prior week and remained well above year-ago levels of 337.3 million barrels.

Crude oil imports edged up to 6.6 million barrels a day from 6.5 million barrels a day in the previous week and were higher than year-ago imports of 6.5 million barrels a day.

Imports of all refined products fell to 2.2 million barrels daily from 3.2 million barrels daily in the preceding week but equaled year-ago imports of 2.2 million barrels daily.

Inventories of distillate - used for home-heating oil and diesel fuel - rose to 124.0 million barrels from 121.6 million barrels a week earlier and were above year-ago levels of 116.3 million barrels.

Distillate remained steady at 3.1 million barrels, the same level as the preceding week but higher than year-ago output of 3.0 million barrels daily.

Distillate imports fell to 360,000 barrels a day from 452,000 barrels a day in the previous week but were higher than year-ago imports of 220,000 barrels a day.

NEW YORK (AUG. 28) UPI - International investors shifted out of the German mark and the Swiss franc into the Japanese yen Tuesday on the perception of a lessened chance of Mideast war, boosting the dollar in the process.

Currency dealers and analysts said the Swiss franc, which soared last week on an influx of funds seeking a hiding place from Mideast turbulence, particularly lost its appeal against the yen.

The dollar also gained as investors bought the U.S. unit on their way into the Japanese currency. The dollar and the yen alike have suffered in the Iraq crisis from fears soaring oil prices would batter their economies.

''The yen and the dollar, which were the two victims last week, benefited from the softness in oil prices this week,'' said currency analyst Lisa Finstrom of Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc.

Late in the New York foreign exchange session, the dollar was quoted at 1.5540 German marks, up from 1.5515 Monday, and at 1.2860 Swiss francs, up from 1.2740 the day before.

But the dollar lost ground against the Japanese currency, changing hands at 143.70 yen compared with Monday's 144.20.

Barry O'Sullivan, Union Bank of Switzerland's chief trader,said the movement towards diplomatic channels in the U.S.-Iraqi faceoff over the invasion of Kuwait and Iraq's holding of foreign hostages set the tone in a quiet market.

But Michael McGuinness, a currency vice president with Chicago's Harris Trust and Savings Bank, said trading still turns on Persian Gulf events.

''With Americans being held hostage in Iraq, you've got the dollar being held hostage in this situation,'' he said.

Other New York dollar rates: 5.2160 French francs, up from 5.2075; and 1,149 Italian lire, down from 1,149.50 lire.

The British pound slipped to $1.9425 from $1.9445.

In Europe, the dollar recovered against the main currencies in quiet trading, but sentiment on the U.S. unit remained bearish.

Players in several European markets began to buy dollars again after shunning the U.S. unit in recent sessions. Trading was choppy.

''The dollar is doing better, but the market sees it as likely to get weaker because of (anticipated) lower U.S. interest rates ... and a possible recession in the U.S.,'' said Midland Bank treasury economist Tim Fox.

The dollar rose in Frankfurt, to 1.5515 German marks from 1.5490 Monday, andin Zurich, to 1.2815 Swiss francs from 1.2725.

In London, the pound gained further on the dollar to end at $1.9480 compared with $1.9440 Friday. British markets were closed Monday.

In Paris and Brussels, the dollar rose, to 5.1895 French francs vs. 5.1710 and to 31.81 Belgian francs vs. 31.75. But it fell against the Italian lire, supported by high home interest rates, to end at 1,144.95 lire against 1,145.65 in Milan trading.

In Tokyo, the dollar hit an eight-month low against the yen as money players focused on the poor U.S. economic outlook and, consequently, the likelihood of lower U.S. short-term interest rates.

The dollar closed at 143.20 yen, down from 144.80 Monday, as players actively traded dollars for yen, said Katsunobu Motohashi, a foreign exchange manager at Yasuda Trust and Banking Co.

Gold prices plunged as investors acted on lessened Gulf tensions, closing in Zurich at $387 an ounce from $401.50 and in London at $382.37 an ounce vs. $411.

Republic National Bank in New York closed cash gold at $384.75 an ounce, off again from $389 Monday. The New York Commodity Exchange settled contract gold at $385 an ounce, down from $388.30.

Silver eased in Zurich and London, to $4.85 an ounce from $5.05 and to $4.82 an ounce from $5.14, respectively.

Republic closed cash silver at $4.865 an ounce, down from $4.87. Comex silver finished at $4.84 an ounce, off from $4.848.

GAINESVILLE, FL (AUG. 28) UPI - A young man and woman were found slain in an apartment near the terror-stricken University of Florida campus Tuesday and police said they appeared to be victims of the same killer who mutiliated the bodies of three female students earlier this week.

Police Chief Wayland Clifton Jr. said no suspects had been identified and refused to say how the latest victims died or whether their bodies had been mutilated.

Managers at the complex where the two most recent killings occurred circulated a flier warning, "We have been told that the person is gaining entrance by posing as a maintenance worker." Clifton said police had no information confirming that.

"It's clear this part of the country has some maniac on the loose," University of Florida President John Lombardi said. "We can't emphasize too much that students and other members of the community have to be keenly and intensely aware of security issues."

All five bodies were found in private apartments in southwest Gainesville, within two miles of the University of Florida campus, and Clifton said, "We have every reason to believe that all the bodies found are all connected to one or two suspects." The bodies found Tuesday at the Gatorwood apartment complex were apparently those of a young woman and her boyfriend, authorities said.

A neighbor, Dave Dunham of Sarasota, a student at the school, said both victims also attended the university and were from Miami, but police would not confirm that. He said the young man was a junior who had just transferred to the university after two years at Santa Fe Junior College in Gainesville. "He was a big guy, he worked out, he was on the crewing team. He's the last one you would think couldn't take care of himself," Dunham said.

Investigators acknowledged that the first three victims had been mutilated but refused to elaborate. The Gainesville Sun, quoting unidentified sources, said at least one of the young women was decapitated and one or more of the victims' nipples had been cut off.

On Monday police and sheriff's departments set up a 60-member task force to investigate the slayings. Forty-six more officers from the Florida Department of Law Enforcement and the Florida Highway Patrol arrived in Gainesville Tuesday, along with two FBI teams specializing in serial murders.

The FDLE also sent the crime lab experts who helped catch serial killer Ted Bundy, who was executed last year for the 1978 bludgeoning murders of two sorority sisters at Florida State University in Tallahassee.

"We're doing everything possible to follow up on every lead, every shred of evidence," Clifton said. "In the next few days, after 8 p.m., you'll see more patrol officers than in any city in the country."

The killings terrified the college community. Several students left the Gatorwood complex Tuesday clutching pillows and packed suitcases. "I'm not staying here tonight, that's for sure," said Tina Randle, a Lakewood junior. "I'm scared."

Another student, Mark Andreozzi, said he and a roommate greeted a carpet cleaner with an ax and a baseball bat when the cleaner knocked on their door unexpectedly. "We're going to get a gun after this," he said.

Frightened and angry students shouted at Clifton during an afternoon news conference. When the police chief refused to say whether the victims' homes had been entered forcibly, they yelled, "How are we supposed to know? ... Can we feel safe? ... Should we go home?"

A univeristy escort service increased patrols to walk students home from night classes, and the Guardian angels sent patrols from Tampa, West Palm Beach and New York.

An alumni group and a Gainsesville radio station set up emergency telephone banks so students, many still without phones, could call home and reassure worried parents. Many students said they would feel safer in univerity housing, but the school can accommodate only 9,200 of its 34,000 students.

Lombardi said any women who did not feel safe off campus would be assigned living space in university buildings. Churches also offered to house women at night, and students were urged to hold slumber parties.

Lombardi said school administrators "thought long and hard about suspending classes or closing the university," but decided against it because none of the murders had occurred on campus.

The two University of Florida freshman found dead Sunday afternoon were identified as Christina P. Powell, 17, of Jacksonville, who was found in the living room of her apartment, and Sonya Larson, 18, of Deerfield Beach who was found in a bedroom.

The third victim, found Monday morning, was identified as Christa Hoyt, 18 a student at Santa Fe Community College. She was found lying on the floor of her apartment after she failed to report to work for a midnight shift as a clerk at the Alachua County Sheriff's Department, Mann said. Clifton said the killings appeared to have occurred in the same order that their bodies were found.

(AUG. 28) UPI - Iraqi President Saddam Hussein Tuesday offered to release all foreign women and children currently being held in the country, the official Iraqi News Agency said.

''President Saddam Hussein ordered that all foreign children and women in Iraq would be free to stay or leave Iraq whenever they feel, including the families hosted by Iraq, as from tomorrow Wednesday, August 29th,'' INA said in a one-paragraph dispatch from Baghdad.

In Washington, a spokesman for the State Department task force on the Persian Gulf crisis said: ''We have heard such rumors. But only rumors.''

The announcement came only hours after Saddam appeared in a televised meeting with foreign hostages and proposed a TV debate with President Bush and British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

''For my part, being responsible here in Iraq, I'm prepared now for direct talks with President Bush and Mrs. Thatcher immediately,'' Saddam said. ''And if they wish ... Let's have a debate on television for the whole world to see.''

Shortly after Saddam spoke, the State Department reported his government has rounded up nine more Americans during the past 24 hours, bringing to 70 the confirmed number of Americans in the custody of Iraqi authorities.

As Bush interrupted his Maine vacation to meet with congressional leaders in Washington, the State Department blamed Iraq for the death of an unidentified American hostage who suffered a heart attack in Basra, Iraq.

''Clearly, being used as a human shield and being deprived of one's liberty is a source of severe stress,'' said State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler.

The State Department said the Iraqi government had promised to turn the man's body over to the American consulate in Baghdad. It was not clear when the man, a private citizen believed in to be in his mid-50s, died.

Iraq continued to put out mixed signals Tuesday. While Saddam released a British family, his government announced it was designating occupied Kuwait an Iraqi province.

In what the Iraqi News Agency described a ''the most beautiful gift,''

Saddam gave permission for the unidentified British family to return home after he apparently met with them. The British Foreign Office said it was investigating the report but could not independently confirm it, and Saudi Foreign Minister Saud al Faisal said the move was the latest measure designed to abort hope for peace.

Shortly after the announcement, Iraqi television broadcast a meeting between Saddam and a group of unidentified Westerners under Iraqi control.

In his second such appearance in a week, Saddam mixed threats against the United States and its allies with appeals for a peaceful resolution to the conflict.

''If war were to come about ... Iraq would lose sons, women and children, and the aggressive countries would also lose their own men, women and children,'' Saddam said.

''So if the United States were to attack our installations in which we have women, children and civilians accomodated, these people would be killed,'' Saddam said, leaving it unclear if he was referring to Iraqis or foreigners believed held at strategic installations.

A government-run Iraqi newspaper has described foreign nationals detained in Iraq and Kuwait against their will as a weapon ''in the battle of history.''

Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, leading Arab efforts to secure Iraq's withdrawal from Kuwait, begged Hussein for ''just one word that would save us from catastrophes for years to come.''

Syrian President Hafez Assad and Mubarak met in the latest round of diplomatic efforts to prevent a Middle East war. Jordan's King Hussein completed talks in Tunisia and traveled to Algeria as part of his personal efforts to find an ''Arab solution'' to end the crisis.

Several U.S. legislators also held talks on the Gulf crisis with Mubarak Tuesday, including Senate minority leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., and Georgia Democrat Sam Nunn, chairman of the Senate Armed Forces Committee.

The diplomatic efforts came as the U.S. fleet in the Red Sea intensified the interception of ships heading toward Jordan to make sure the U.N.-mandated economic embargo against Iraq was not violated.

Iraq has reportedly ordered its tankers not to run the U.S.-led blockade in a move Western diplomats said indicated Saddam's attempt to avoid a military confrontation.

Shipping sources in the Jordanian port of Aqaba said U.S. warships Tuesday prevented a Chinese cargo vessel from entering the Gulf of Aqaba. The sources said the ship was to unload ''general cargo'' bound for Jordan and Iraq. No details were available, and the report could not be independently confirmed.

''Last week, cargo was slipping through,'' one shipping source said. ''Now they (U.S. naval vessels) seem to be tightening up quite a bit.''

Assad and Mubarak met for five hours Tuesday in the Mediterranean city of Alexandria and discussed ways to reach a ''suitable Arab solution to the Iraqi-Kuwaiti crisis with the aim of preventing a terrible catastrophe from happening,'' Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported.

Mubarak said he hoped Iraq would not ''commit provocative actions'' that would compel a strike by foreign countries whose citizens Iraq holds. In answering one question, Mubarak reiterated an earlier proposal and said no countries could oppose a reciprocal withdrawal of Iraqi and foreign forces with their replacement by an all-Arab force.

''I would be the first to stand against the foreign presence in the area if Iraq withdrew from Kuwait,'' Mubarak said. ''All Arabs will have one stand against the foreign presence when Saddam gets his troops out of Kuwait.''

The Baghdad government announced the oil-rich occupied state had become the 19th administrative province of Iraq. Iraq insists its has historical rights to Kuwait and British colonialism was to blame for the division.

The Iraqi News Agency Tuesday again published Saddam's Aug. 12 initiative.

In his proposal, Saddam called for the withdrawal of Israel from the occupied Arab territories and Syria from Lebanon, resolution to Iraqi and Iranian territorial disputes and subsequent ''arrangements for the case of Kuwait.'' American and other foreign troops also would withdraw from the region and the economic sanctions would end under Saddam's plan.

Calls for the Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait and release of foreigners held by Saddam are the two primary points U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar plans to concentrate on during his talks Thursday in Amman with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 28) UPI - Citing hazards to wildlife posed by the rapid expansion of ''dolphin feeding'' cruises, the government Tuesday moved to outlaw all public feeding of wild dolphins, seals and other marine mammals.

In proposed regulations published in the Federal Register, the National Marine Fisheries Service would ban commercial tour operators and indivduals from feeding any marine mammal in U.S. coastal waters. The public has 45 days to comment on the rule, which probably will take effect at the first of the year, officials said.

William Fox Jr., assistant administrator for the fisheries service, said: ''We are very worried that feeding marine mammals in the wild will disrupt their natural eating habits and would have negative effects on marine mammal populations.''

The Department of the Interior already forbids the feeding of wild animals in national parks and other federal property.

Roddy Moscoso, a spokesman for the fisheries service, said the agency decided to ban feeding marine mammals in response to the recent emergence of day cruises that allowed tourists to feed wild dolphins in the South Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico.

Among the resort areas where dolphin feeding trips have become a major attraction are Hilton Head, S.C., Jekyll Island, Ga., Panama City, Fla., Clearwater, Fla. and Galveston and Port Aransas, Texas, Moscoso said.

''It really expanded rapidly over the past couple years. They feed them everything from dead fish from fishermen to frozen fish products,'' he said.

Fisheries service staff found that in areas where the dolphins had been fed heavily, they tended to congregate around any boat - increasing the risk they would be injured by propellers or caught by fisherman, Moscono said.

Another threat posed by feeding is the possibility that the easy food source could interfere with the normal timing of dolphin migrations by making them reluctant to leave the feeding region, he said.

Although the proposed ban stems from the mushrooming of the dolphin feeding industry, Moscoso said it would also bring a halt to the smaller problem of the feeding sea lions in California's Monterey Bay and other West Coast locations.

The proposed rule, which would be enforced by the Coast Guard, does not specify any penalties for people who break the law, Moscoso said.

Mark Maurer, a captain for Adventure Cruises in Hilton Head, S.C., said dolphin feeding cruises have been his company's most popular tour this summer.

During a typical trip on the 150-seat ''The Holiday,'' about 5 pounds of frozen cigar minnows and Spanish sardines would be thrown out to attract three or four bottle-neck dolphins for tourists to watch or photograph. The cost of a trip was $11 for adults and $5.50 for children.

Despite the popularity, Maurer said the new ban is ''fine with me,'' saying his company only started added feeding to its previous ''dolphin watch'' tours after a competitor started the practice. ''I'd just as soon not mess with it, it's an extra expense,'' he said.

However, the boat captain noted the dolphins never seemed to station themselves in the same spot at the same place every day like many other animals dependent on human hand-outs.

The new proposed restrictions come four months after the Marine Fisheries Service drew fire from some conservation groups for renewing permits to three marine parks in Florida and a hotel in Hawaii to use captive dolphins to swim with paying customers.

The agency also stirred controversy a year ago for allowing a Las Vegas casino owner to put live bottle-nose dolphins on display at his new hotel and gambling resort.

Critics argue that commercial dolphin attractions and swim-along programs amount to exploitation of a sensitive, intelligent species and could ultimately lead to more of the marine mammals being taken from the wild.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 28) UPI - When Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., met with Vietnamese officials this month, he came in for a surpise when the talk turned to books.

The communists in Hanoi, like millions of U.S. college students before them, apparently are turning to Nobel Prize-winner Paul Samuelson's classic textbook for lessons on how a market economy works.

Lugar said Tuesday that Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach told him that 40,000 copies of Samuelson's ''Economics'' had been copied - without the author's permission - for distribution in his country.

However, the Vietnamese were a little behind, since Lugar said they copied the 11th edition of the text. A spokesman for Samuelson, a professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Techonology, said the book is now available in a 13th edition in the United States.

Lugar, who visited Hanoi Aug. 18-20 during a seven-nation Asian diplomatic mission requested by the Bush administration, said the interest in Samuelson, as well as such conservative American economists as Milton Freidman, reflects a current move toward market economic reforms in Vietnam.

Lugar, a former chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said officials told him the price of rice in Vietnam is now based on supply and demand, subsidies have been eliminated for farmers, ownership of homes and cars is permitted and farmers can get leases for their land.

Although Lugar said the government of Vietnam remains authoritarian, he expressed hope that the move toward economic reform and signs of cooperation with the United States could lead to a resumption of some commercial trade. A U.S. economic embargo against Vietnam has been in place since 1975.

Lugar said the Vietnamese ''were prepared'' to support free elections in Cambodia, where the Vietnamese-installed government is fighting a civil war against a rebel coalition that includes the Khmer Rouge, whose reign of terror in the late 1970s killed at least 1 million Cambodians.

Lugar said the Vietnamese also assured him they had withdrawn their troops from Cambodia, a requirement for better relations with the United States, and had offered to help Americans search for the remains of missing servicemen.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 28) UPI - President Bush won bipartisan support Tuesday from congressional leaders for his Persian Gulf policy, and warned that Iraq will pay a ''stiff price'' if it does not withdraw from Kuwait.

Bush interrupted his Maine vacation to brief the Republican and Democratic leaders and 150 other members of key military and foreign affairs committees on developments in the aftermath of Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

''Let no one at home doubt my commitment to work with the Congress and let no one abroad doubt our national unity or our staying power,'' Bush told the lawmakers.

''Meeting the crisis in the Persian Gulf is not something that I or this administration can do by ourselves,'' Bush declared. ''We can only succeed if all of us - executive and legislative, Republican and Democrat - work together.''

Judging from the reaction to the hourlong meeting, Bush succeeded in winning strong backing from the Republican and Democratic leaders.

''I think what was evident today,'' said House Speaker Tom Foley, D-Wash., ''is there is very strong support for the president's actions, actions of the administration in meeting this crisis in the gulf.''

''The president was personally commended by Democrats and Republicans, senators and House members across the board, for his own particular efforts in bringing together an international effort to isolate Saddam Hussein,'' Foley told reporters.

Added Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell, D-Maine: ''Insofar as Saddam Hussein and the government of Iraq are concerned, they should be aware that the American Congress stands squarely behind President Bush in the policy which calls upon Iraq to unconditionally and immediately withdraw from Kuwait.''

Vice President Dan Quayle and Secretary of State James Baker, as well as an array of other of top ranking officials, broke off their vacations to be on hand for the Middle East policy review.

It was prompted by congressional complaints that there had not been enough communication with the White House during the Middle East crisis.

''The basic elements of our strategy are now in place,'' Bush told the lawmakers, stressing that ''our intention and indeed the intention of almost every country in the world is to persuade Iraq to withdraw'' from Kuwait.

The president also said Iraq must be convinced that ''it cannot benefit from this illegal occupation, that it will pay a stiff price for trying to hold on and even a stiffer price for widening the conflict.''

''We seek,'' Bush added, ''to achieve these goals without further violence.''

The only stated concerns during the congressional briefing related to the cost of the massive mobilization for ''Operation Desert Shield'' and the need to continue to ensure that the public is aware of the goals and burden, the lawmakers said.

''The president, I think, needs to outline what the bottom line is for us '' Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told a news conference shortly before the meeting.

And when Foley and Mitchell emerged from the briefing, they both said Bush did not have a ''blank check'' for spending on the Middle East crisis.

''The answer is, of course, 'no,''' Mitchell said. ''Approval of past action is not approval of all future action without knowing what that action will be.''

Rep. William Gray, D-Pa., predicted Bush would have continued popular backing ''provided we do not get into a protracted struggle where the goals are not clear and where there is a loss of life and there does not seem to be an opportunity for victory.''

Bush told the gathering that U.N.-ordered economic sanctions, placing a virtual embargo on trade with Iraq, were ''in effect and have been working remarkably well'' and that cargo that had been moving through the Jordanian port of Aqaba ''has come virtually to a halt.''

Following his meeting with lawmakers, the president met in the Oval Office with Omani Foreign Minister Yusuf bin Alawi. The foreign minister of the Iraqi neighbor said he hoped Saddam will realize his claims to Kuwait are not accepted by the internaitonal community.

''I hope, as we did in the past, to see him be courageous enough to take a decision to comply with international desires,'' the minister added.

Bush planned to remain in the nation's capital until Thursday afternoon, when he will fly back to his Kennebunkport summer estate to finish his vacation. He is scheduled to return to Washington on Labor Day.

(AUG. 28) UPI - Iraq today announced that, starting tomorrow, all foreign women and children, including those ''hosted by Iraq,'' are free to leave. In Washington, the State Department reacted by saying- quote- ''we have heard such rumors, but only rumors.''

The Pentagon says shipping to and from Iraq has virtually stopped. But the U-S presence in the region is proving costly. The Pentagon is doubling its estimated cost of Operation Desert Shield in Saudia Arabia to two-and-a-half-BILLION dollars through September 30th.

President Bush is getting words of support from unlikely quarters. Former vice-presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro says she backs Bush's actions in the Persian Gulf. The Democrat added- quote- ''would you believe I just complimented George Bush?''

About three-point-one-Million federal government employees nation-wide received notices this week of a possible government furlough that could start as early as October 1st, depending on the outcome of budget cutting.

The Labor Department later this week begins inspections of petro-chemical firms employing more than 25-hundred people. The inspections follow a blast last year that killed 22 people at a Phillips Petroleum plant in Texas.

It could be described as a presidential catch. President Bush's spokesman says his boss was fishing with his son when Jeb Bush cast out a fishing line and the hook landed in Bush's right ear lobe. Bush was described as fine.

Negotiations to end Liberia's civil war began today, but NO representatives of the country's three warring factions showed up. The talks are being held in Gambia under the sponsorship of the Economic Community of West African States.

Anti-government protesters in Romania ignored a government ban on demonstrations by gathering in Bucharest's main square for a sixth day today. Dozens of people chanted anti-government slogans. Police did NOT intervene.

A Wisconsin coroner ruled that blues guitarist Stevie Ray Vaughan died of massive internal and head injuries suffered in a helicopter crash early yesterday. The Grammy award-winning guitarist and four other people died when the chopper hit a ski hill near East Troy.

FAIRBANKS, AK (AUG. 28) UPI - America's need for energy - and a national energy policy - sent Washington bureaucrats north Tuesday to see the giant Prudhoe Bay oil field and consider whether to let oil companies look for more crude beneath the tundra of a nearby wildlife refuge.

Government and industry leaders urged Deputy Energy Secretary W. Henson Moore to make oil development of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge a key part of the 40-year national energy strategy he plans to deliver to President Bush in December.

Moore arranged a helicopter trip to the coastal plain of the refuge so he could walk along the protected tundra identified by oil companies as the best prospect for a major new petroleum discovery.

Moore came to Alaska with others from the Departments of Energy and Interior to hold the 18th in a series of national energy strategy hearings around the country. But the visit took on added sense of urgency because this was the first hearing since Iraq's invasion of Kuwait triggered a drop in world oil supplies, and Moore found himself looking for short-term energy fixes as well as long-term solutions.

''In fact, one of the department's first actions following the shutdown of oil exports from Kuwait and Iraq was to ask North Slope operators to increase production,'' Moore said.

Overall oil production in Alaska - the country's biggest producing state and source of one-fourth of domestic oil - had begun to decline, but now various actions by industry are expected to increase production by 175,000 barrels daily.

Moore also revealed that he has been called upon to act as mediator Thursday in private meetings in Anchorage in a dispute between British Petroleum and the Army Corps of Engineers and Environmental Protection Agency.

The agencies say BP plans to build a causeway to its Niakuk field may cause environmental harm, so BP shelved the project last month rather than use more expensive alternatives to the causeway.

''Presently the development of two near-shore oil fields, Point McIntyre and Niakuk, with combined recoverable reserves on the order of 350 million barrels of oil, is in question due to unresolved issues directly related to the causeway controversy,'' Gov. Steve Cowper told Moore in seeking federal intervention to get the two fields belonging to BP and Arco developed.

''Before the Aug. 2 invasion, we could afford another year to discuss the causeway controversy,'' Moore said. ''It's a little different situation than it was before Aug. 2.''

''I'm going to act as a mediator to pull the parties together,'' he said, but he declined to say whether that meant getting other federal agencies to relax their environmental permit conditions so the projects could be developed.

Moore said federal officials also were seeking to get Chevron's Point Arguello oil field into production near Santa Barbara, Calif., and also were looking at ways to increase production from fields in Texas.

''We are scouring the country to find what we can do to increase production,'' he said.

In Alaska, most fingers were pointing to the arctic refuge for future oil production, but Moore cautioned that Congress must vote to open the refuge. If it is opened for drilling - and if oil is discovered there - it will require 10 years to develop the field for production, and Moore cautioned against viewing it a quick solution to an oil crisis.

Alaska's Democratic governor, the state's Republican congressional delegation and a series of oil industry advocates urged Moore during testimony Monday to make development of the wildlife refuge a cornerstone of the federal energy policy due on the president's desk in December.

Environmentalists and Alaska Indians urged that the refuge be left alone to protect the pristine wilderness and the wildlife that lives there, especially the caribou upon the Gwich'in Indians depend for survival.

But Moore made it clear that the refuge would figure in national energy policy in some way.

(AUG. 28) UPI - Here is a roundup of top events Tuesday in the Persian Gulf crisis stemming from the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion of the oil-rich emirate of Kuwait.

BAGHDAD - Iraqi President Saddam Hussein offered to release all foreign women and children held in Iraq beginning Wednesday, the official Iraqi News Agency said. In Washington, a spokesman for the State Department task force on the Persian Gulf crisis said, ''We have heard such rumors, but only rumors.'' The announcement came only hours after Saddam appeared in a televised meeting with foreign hostages and proposed a television debate with President Bush and British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

WASHINGTON - Bush warned Iraq that it will pay a ''stiff price'' if it does not withdraw from Kuwait. Bush, who interrupted his Maine vacation for two days of meetings in Washington, also declared, ''Let no one at home doubt my commitment to work with the Congress and let no one abroad doubt our national unity or our staying power.'' Bush made the brief remarks before a meeting with 150 members of Congress.

WASHINGTON - An American who was detained in Kuwait after the Iraqi invasion died in southern Iraq, apparently of a heart attack, the State Department said Tuesday. The State Department said U.S. officials in Baghdad were informed by the Iraqi Foreign Ministry that the American, believed to be in his mid-50s, died in the southern city of Basra.

CAIRO, Egypt - Syrian President Hafez Assad arrived in Egypt for talks with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak in the latest high-level Arab efforts to negotiate an end to the Persian Gulf crisis. ''I know the meaning of war so I am keen to reach a peaceful solution to avoid the ruin caused by war,'' Mubarak told reporters, affirming Egypt's desire to spare no effort to establish peace and stability in the Middle East.

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia - U.S. tanks and other armor rolled off ships and deployed in Saudi Arabia, introducing a force that would be key to a ground war with Iraq. M-1 Abrams tanks, Bradley armored personnel carriers 155mm self-propelled guns and a variety of tracked and wheeled support vehicles drove off two naval Fast Sealift ships after a two-week voyage from Savannah, Ga. The Pentagon revised its Operation Desert Shield cost estimate through September to $2.5 billion.

WASHINGTON - The Pentagon said Iraqi shipping in the Persian Gulf had ''come to a halt'' because of intercept operations and ''extremely successful'' U.N. sanctions. ''There is very little shipping activiting originating from Iraq - just about none,'' Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams said. Since Sunday, the U.S. fleet in the Red Sea was reported to have intercepted at least three foreign ships heading toward Jordan. Iraq has ordered its tankers not to run the blockade.

JERUSALEM - Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir received a message from President Bush, expressing appreciation for Israel's low profile during the Persian Gulf crisis, senior officials said. The officials said the message was ''warm'' in tone and that the United States looked forward to a continued dialogue with Israel.

VIENNA - A majority of OPEC ministers agreed in principle on a temporary production increase during the crisis but postponed until Wednesday a meeting to formalize the accord. The delay appeared intended to five Iran, Libya and Iraq more time to study the proposal backed by the 10 other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

World stock markets ended mixed as Asian exchanges built on momentum to score new gains, while Frankfurt retreated on continued nervousness about the Middle East conflict and New York ended the day up slightly.

MOSCOW - Soviet women evacuated from Iraq said they were worried their husbands may not be allowed to leave, and a Foreign Ministry spokesman acknowledged military advisers and other workers were in a ''delicate situation.'' The first group of 240 wives and children of Soviets working in Iraq flew from Baghdad to Moscow and a second group of 220 was to leave later in the day, but Soviet men working in Iraq are staying to fulfill their contracts.

MIDWAY, UT (AUG. 28) UPI - Human negligence sparked a ferocious wind-whipped wildfire in Wasatch County that has killed two firefighters, gutted 18 homes and blackened 3,000 acres, investigators said Tuesday.

''The cause of the fire is determined to be an abandoned camp fire,'' fire spokeswoman Loyal Clark said. ''The investigative team is looking into the person or persons who are responsible. The team figures that some time during the smoldering of this abandoned camp fire that an ember or spark went across the road, which started the fire.''

No suspects had been identified, but authorities said the person or persons responsible could be forced to pay the entire cost of suppressing the blaze.

Meantime, fire bosses were optimistic they would contain the fire by 6 p.m. Tuesday and control it by 11 p.m. Wednesday.

Although 300 homes in the area remained evacuated, Clark said, roads to homeowners in the area would be opened at 8 a.m. Wednesday, allowing residents to return.

Slightly cooler temperatures Tuesday, with highs from 80 to 85 degrees, and reduced winds from 10-15 mph helped firefighters gain the upper hand.

The bodies of Wasatch County Sheriff's Deputy Blake Wright, 39, and Public Works employee Ralph Broadhead, 64, both of Heber, were found about 1 a.m. Monday in Sids Canyon.

The two were operating a bulldozer, creating fire lines in the southern end of the blaze, when they apparently became trapped and were overcome by smoke and flames, officials said.

One year-round home and 17 summer cabins were destroyed. The least expensive destroyed home was valued at $250,000, Clark said.

The structures were on state and private land in the Devil's Hole area between Midway and Wasatch Mountain State Park, about 30 miles southeast of Salt Lake City. There were 675 firefighters battling the blaze Tuesday.

The fire was initially spotted at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in thick oak brush and exploded rapidly, fanned by winds estimated at up to 50 mph.

(AUG. 28) UPI - Saddam Hussein defended his decision to use Western hostages as a shield against possible attack. Saddam held a meeting with about 20 captives today... and one woman with a British accent asked the Iraqi leader how he could use children in ''something they don't understand.'' Saddam replied that if Iraqi cities are attacked, Iraqi children also would die. Hours later, the official Iraqi News Agency announced that Saddam had ordered that all foreign women and children in Iraq be allowed to leave as of tomorrow.

Soviet women evacuated from Iraq say they are worried that their husbands may NOT be allowed to leave. 240 wives and children of Soviets working in Iraq flew from Baghdad to Moscow today... with a second group of 220 scheduled to depart later. However, Soviet men working in Iraq are staying to fulfill their contracts... and it is NOT clear if they will be allowed to leave. The Foreign Ministry in Moscow calls it a ''delicate situation.''

About three-point-one-Million federal workers nation-wide may be taking some unplanned time off. The government says it sent out notices this week warning of a possible government furlough that could start as early as the beginning of next month. The furlough would take effect if White House and congressional negotiators fail to reach agreement on a deficit-reduction plan.

A stand-off may be nearing a showdown in Ottawa. Indian warriors surrounded themselves with women and children today in bracing for an army assault on barricades they erected at two Mohawk reserves. Canadian officials prepared to evacuate Quebec residents living near the land considered by the Indians to be an ancient burial ground. Local officials want to use the land for a golf course.

Forecasters today dropped all hurricane and tropical storm warnings for the Caribbean islands. But they added that the islands will still feel Hurricane Gustav's effects. The hurricane and its 105-mile-an-hour winds headed into the open Atlantic, with Tropical Storm Hortense trailing about 11-hundred miles behind. Forecasters said Gustav and Hortense are too far apart to affect each other.

NEW DELHI, INDIA (AUG. 28) UPI - Afghan President Najibullah arrived in the Indian capital Tuesday for an official visit during which he was expected to increase trade ties and discuss issues of international concern.

The Afghan leader and his entourage, who arrived a day earlier than scheduled for a three-day visit, were received by Foreign Minister Inder Kumar Gujral and Commerce Minister Arun Nehru upon arrival at a military annex of New Delhi's Indira Gandhi International Airport.

Officials gave no reason for the change of schedule.

The Afghan leader during his stay will discuss with Indian leaders bilateral and international issues, the Press Trust of India news agency reported.

It said the two nations also will discuss the Gulf crisis and its implications for both countries.

New Delhi maintains close relations with Kabul, and is one of the few non-communist nations that provides economic and technical assistance to Kabul.

The Afghan leader has defied predictions by Western analysts that his government would be quickly overtaken by Moslem rebels after Soviet troops ended their occupation and pulled out last year.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AUG. 29) UPI - A bankruptcy court formally entered an order Tuesday approving a plan of reorganization allowing Resorts International Inc. to emerge from bankruptcy court protection, the company said.

Under terms of the plan, Resorts owner Merv Griffin will give about 78 percent of the equity in the company to bondholders.

The plan also calls for Griffin to invest $15 million in cash in the company at the time of recapitalization, invest another $11 million one year later and make up to $2.5 million available in cash to Resorts International Financing Inc. bondholders.

Griffin bought Resorts in 1988 after a takeover battle with developer Donald Trump. Included in the plan is a $5 million litigation trust fund to pursue possible lawsuits against Trump stemming from the sale.

Resorts also announced it has hired a former Trump executive to serve as executive vice president and chief operating officer of Resorts' Atlantic City property. The executive, Jack O'Donnell, most recently was president and chief operating officer of Trump Plaza Hotel and Casino.

Less than a year after its purchase by Griffin, Resorts failed to make interest payments on some $925 million in junk bond debt and sought bankruptcy court protection from its creditors.

Bondholders approved the plan, put together by Salomon Brothers Inc., in July. The U.S. Bankruptcy Court and the New Jersey Casino Control Commission approved it earlier this month.

As part of the reorganization plan, the company intends to sell its Paradise Island property in the Bahamas.

NEW YORK (AUG. 29) UPI - Salary increases are projected to average 5.4 percent next year, but the raises may not keep pace with inflation due to higher fuel costs, according to a survey released Tuesday.

The projected average pay hike is almost identical to the 5.5. percent salary increase that survey respondents reported for 1990, according to the study of more than 3,000 employers conducted by William M. Mercer Inc. a subsidiary of Marsh & McLennan Cos.

Executives should expect raises averaging 5.7 percent, while salaried employees should expect salary increases of 5.4 percent, the study showed.

Increases for hourly workers are projected to average 5.2 percent, the study showed.

The salary increases may not meet a projected rise in the Consumer Price Index, however, the study said.

''With economists revising their inflationary predictions upwards in response to rising oil prices, next year's salary increases, for the first time since 1980, may not keep pace with inflation,'' said Kate Beatty, a compensation consultant with Mercer's National Survey Group.

Mercer researched salary increases at organizations employing more than 8.7 million non-union workers in the United States.

JOLIET, IL (AUG. 28) UPI - At least one tornado plowed through several communities in and around Joliet Tuesday afternoon, killing an undetermined number of people and injuring scores more, officials said. Dozens of homes were wrecked, cars and trucks were overturned and the roof was torn from a high school.

Plainfield Fire Department Ambulance Chief John Watson told Chicago radio station WBBM five people were killed, but a spokeswoman for the Will County coroner's officer who requested anonymity said that ''we have no idea how many people died yet.''

A spokeswoman for St. Joseph's Hospital in Joliet reported one victim dead on arrival and 44 others treated for injuries ranging from lacerations to bruises from flying debris. Silver Cross Hospital reported five injuries.

One or more tornadoes touched down about 3:15 p.m. and ripped through residential areas in Joliet, Plainfield, Wheatland Township and Lockport Township in northeastern Illinois, a spokesman at the Will County Emergency Services and Disaster Agency office said.

Utility lines were knocked down and telephone service was cut off to the area about 35 miles southwest of Chicago.

Prince Mayne, a reporter at WCCQ radio in Joliet, said a three-story housing complex across from his studio was ripped to the height of about one story. He said he heard victims screaming.

''Across the street, four out of eight town homes are totally destroyed,'' Mayne said. ''People are wandering around with their belongings, wondering what to do.''

Steve Schammerhor, an administrator at nearby Plainfield High School, said the roof of the main school building had been ripped off by the swirling winds. He said he had heard unconfirmed reports that one member of the school administation was killed, but he emphasized that all students were safe and accounted for.

''There is no school left,'' Schammerhor said. ''... All the houses in front of the school are pretty much gone. Twenty or 30 houses are gone.''

The 1990-91 academic year was to have begun Wednesday, and only staff and a few student athletes were in the school.

A multiple-vehicle accident on Interstate 55 near Joliet was blamed on the twisters, with vehicles thrown around and at least one 18-wheeler lifted and dumped into the median. Several other vehicles were reported crushed in the accident.

The Aurora Municipal Airport reported a dozen planes torn apart or seriously damaged and a few hangars leveled.

The tornado was triggered by a line of strong thuderstorms that moved through the area with hail and high winds.

Earlier in the day, a tornado touched down in Pecatonica, near the Wisconsin border in Winnebago County, but authorities reported no injuries. The twister touched down across from State Police headquarters and twisted road signs out of the concrete along U.S. 20, said Sgt. Glenn Koski.

The tornado tossed farm equipment at a farm implement store, overturned tombstones at a nearby cemetery and damaged buildings at the Winnebago County Fairgrounds, Koski said.

(AUG. 29) UPI - Industry analysts Tuesday saw little chance of a record drop in wholesale gasoline prices finding its way to the gas station because the rise in pump prices since Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait was still less than that of wholesale prices.

As a result of a perceived easing of tensions, unleaded gasoline dropped a record 17 cents on the New York Mercantile Exchange Monday to 87.56 cents a gallon, which despite the drop was still 23.29 cents higher than its Aug. 1 price.

The Merc price rose 0.97 cent Tuesday to 88.53 cents a gallon.

But according to the authoritative Lundberg Letter, pump prices have risen 15.45 cents a gallon to an average $1.33 a gallon for all grades at the nation's gas stations.

Although there was a public outcry over oil companies raising pump prices almost within hours of Iraqi troops crossing the Kuwaiti border, the figures suggest gas station prices will rise still more unless Iraqi President Saddam Hussein has a change of heart and gives Kuwait back to its rulers.

''There's at least 5 cents a gallon of cost that hasn't been passed along yet at the pump,'' said John Sauer, general manager of planning and analysis for Conoco Inc. in Houston.

''I'm not sure we've seen the full brunt of the wholesale price increase passed along yet at the pump unless wholesale prices continue back down (following Monday's decline),'' said Phillip Chisholm, executive vice president of the Petroleum Marketers Association in Washington.

The rise from wholesale to retail pump prices is normally accounted for by 25-30 cents in federal and state taxes added to a 10-12 cent-a-gallon margin for station owners and a 4-6 cent-a-gallon wholesale distributor margin, Chisholm said.

The association represents wholesale distributors, who Chisholm said have been squeezed between the price refiners make them pay and the price they charge station owners.

''The refiners have practiced restraint at the retail level, but not at the wholesale level, or at least not to the same extent,'' Chisholm said in a telephone interview.

But Trilby Lundberg, head of the Los Angeles-based newsletter that conducts biweekly nationwide surveys of pump prices, said stations owners are also being squeezed.

Two weeks ago the retail margin was 12 cents a gallon. It is now 8 cents a gallon, she said.

As Monday's trading indicated, there can be wide fluctuations from day to day in the price of gasoline traded on the Merc exchange.

These are translated most immediately into so-called ''rack'' prices the refiners charge wholesalers.

Conoco, for example, in response partly to the Merc decline Monday dropped its rack prices from 2 to 10.65 cents a gallon depending on whether the gasoline was sold to brand name stations or independents.

Chisholm said Conoco had to drop its rack price to bring it to a level ''more in line with the competition.''

Phillips Petroleum Co., Bartlesville, Okla., also announced Tuesday that it was dropping its average rack price by more than 5 cents to 93.9 cents a gallon, still 23.9 cents higher than when Iraqi troops moved on Kuwait.

Lundberg said the average rack price for unleaded regular gasoline of the ''unbranded'' variety dropped 3.85 cents a gallon since Friday to the current 95.33 cents a gallon.

This is the variety sold to private brand chains and large independent stations and is the one most sensitive to Merc price flucuations, she said.

The rack price of ''branded'' regular unleaded gasoline used in major brand stations such as Mobil and Exxon slipped 0.97 cent since Friday to 88.33 cents a gallon, Lundberg said.

''Normally, the branded is higher than the unbranded,'' she said.

The Society of Independent Gasoline Marketers of America, which represents 300 wholesalers that do not own refineries, has strongly objected to the turnabout.

''Integrated oil companies are heeding the President's call for price restraint primarily at their own direct-operated outlets,'' said Tally Roberts, president of the society in a SIGMA statement last week.

If the price discrimination is allowed to continue, ''independent marketers will be forced out of business,'' he said.

PORTLAND, OR (AUG. 28) UPI - Ken Griffey Sr. and may soon be joining his son as a member of the Seattle Mariners.

Provided he clears waivers Wednesday, Mariners owner Jeff Smulyan said his team will begin talking to Griffey about a contract as soon as possible.

''We'll know a lot more tomorrow when he clears waivers,'' Smulyan said Tuesday after speaking before the Portland Rotary Club. ''It's something we would like to do, but it just depends on the waiver situation.''

If Griffey signs with the Mariners, it will mark the first time in Major League history that a father and son have played on the same team together.

His son, Ken Griffey Jr., is one of the best players in baseball. As of Friday, he was hitting .308 with 17 homers.

Ken Griffey Sr. played in the majors for 17 years before being placed on waivers Saturday by the Cincinnati Reds. He also played for the Atlanta Braves and the New York Yankees.

''Our baseball people feel (Griffey Sr.) will give us some veteran leadership in our clubhouse,'' Smulyan said. ''That's something we need. We think he might give us some help in the last month of the season.''

(AUG. 28) UPI - The United States and Great Britain have flatly rejected Saddam Hussein's invitation for direct discussions on the situation in the Persian Gulf- including a televised debate with President Bush and British Prime Minister Thatcher. U-S officials call the offer ''sick,'' and British officials say Iraq ''has to get out of Kuwait before there can be any kind of discussions.''

President Bush was back in the nation's capital today, where he briefed congressional leaders on the Persian Gulf crisis. Bush won bipartisan support from the lawmakers, with Democrats particularly commending his attempts to build a worldwide consensus against the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait. Bush said his goal remains an Iraqi withdrawal- in his words- ''without further violence.''

A tornado hit a residential area southwest of Chicago this afternoon, demolishing dozens of homes and a high school in Plainfield and killing an undetermined number of people. One report quotes an ambulence official as saying five people were killed in the twister that scattered cars across highways. Utility lines were knocked down and telephone service was cut to the area about 35 miles southwest of Chicago.

Police in Gainesville, Florida, are dealing with community panic as they search for suspects in the killings of four women and one man near the University of Florida campus. Investigators acknowledge the first three victims had been mutilated, but they refuse to elaborate. However, the Gainesville Sun quotes unidentified sources as saying at least one victim had been decapitated and one or more had their nipples cut off.

Politicians in New Jersey have gone beyond wrapping themselves in the flag and are now rushing to the national anthem as an issue. NEW YORK (AUG. 28) UPI - Two weeks after he was crowned the world's best player, Stefan Edberg bombed out in the first round of the U.S. Open Tuesday, losing in straight sets to Alexander Volkov of the Soviet Union.

Volkov, who already had plans to leave New York Wednesday to compete in a club tournament in Berlin, required merely an hour and 55 minutes to register the biggest victory of his career, 6-3, 7-6 (7-3), 6-2.

Edberg, winner of 21 consecutive matches coming into Flushing Meadows, is the first top-seeded man to be eliminated in the first round of the Open since 1971, when John Newcombe lost to Jan Kodes.

''Looking back at it, obviously I didn't play a very good match,'' said Edberg, as always adopting a stoic manner. ''I didn't feel good, I wasn't comfortable, and I was struggling to find my game, to find the way I usually play.

''On the other hand, Volkov played a very good game. He returned well and served well. He was very relaxed out there and had nothing to lose.''

This has been a bizarre year for the 24-year-old Swede in Grand Slam competition. He was forced to retire from the championship match of the Australian Open against Ivan Lendl because of a pulled stomach muscle and lost in the first round of the French Open to Sergi Bruguera before winning Wimbledon.

Edberg, who ended Lendl's 80-week run at the top of the men's list, will retain the No. 1 position on the next ATP Tour rankings when they are released Sept. 10.

Volkov, ranked 52nd in the world, said he thought he had a chance against Edberg because ''tennis is tennis.''

''He was much tireder than I,'' added the 23-year-old left-hander, playing on the Stadium Court for the first time. ''He was a little bit slow, I saw it.

''I saw him so many time on TV and in practice. I knew I had to play inside the court, otherwise I had no chance.''

Volkov said he never assumed he would win, explaining, ''He's No. 1, he's played so many tough matches, he was so many times down and then he won. You have to keep playing if you want to beat him.''

Edberg, winner of his previous four tournaments, broke service only once, in the second set when he also had a set point. He committed 23 unforced errors to 12 for Volkov.

''I've been playing well all summer and I felt good coming into the Open, and then I had a day where not much worked for me,'' said Edberg, who has yet to make it past the semifinals of this championship. ''I tried to do a few things, but they didn't work.

''I can't tell you many reasons why it happened, because I don't know myself. I have to think it over and hope it never happens again. I really wanted to win the U.S. Open, but it's too late now.''

The loss by Edberg opened a big door in the top half of the draw for Lendl an Open finalist the last eight years and three times the champion.

Lendl, who has dropped to No. 3 in the rankings, was seeded to meet Edberg in the semifinals. He overcame a 4-1 first set deficit in his opening match Tuesday to beat Canadian Martin Laurendeau, 7-5, 6-2, 6-2.

''It's an upset, but when you think about it deeply you can see it happening,'' Lendl said of Volkov's victory. ''When you analyze their strengths and weaknesses, it's Volkov's strengths playing into Stefan's weaknesses and Stefan's strengths into Volkov's strengths.''

John McEnroe, in the same quarter as Edberg, also could have benefited although he is unseeded for the first time in 13 years. McEnroe, a three-time Open champion but unable to survive the second round the previous two years, defeated Javier Sanchez, 7-6 (10-8), 7-6 (7-3), 6-4.

Asked if he was generally happy with how he played, McEnroe responded, ''I'm generally happy to still be in the tournament.''

Fourth seed Andre Agassi, the losing French Open finalist, also advanced to the second round with an easy 6-4, 6-2, 6-2 victory over Canadian Grant Connell, while No. 9 Aaron Krickstein struggled to a five-set victory over another Canadian, Andrew Sznajder.

Jennifer Capriati, the 14-year-old No. 13 seed, making her professional debut in the U.S. Open, broke service in the 12th game of each set to defeat 15-year-old West German Anke Huber, 7-5, 7-5.

Martina Navratilova, a four-time Open champion and the second seed this year, crushed Federica Haumuller of Argentina, 6-4, 6-0, in 50 minutes, and No. 4 Zina Garrison defeated Austrian Beate Reinstadler, 6-1, 6-3.

Navratilova said she has gained more confidence since winning Wimbledon in July.

''I'm confident I can do it and I feel healthy,'' she said. ''There's no desperation for me anymore. I've done what I wanted to do.''

Seventh seed Emilio Sanchez topped Brian Garrow, 7-6 (7-5), 6-4, 6-4, No. 10 Andrei Chesnokov beat Olivier Delaitre, 6-4, 7-5, 6-3, No. 11 Michael Chang crushed Mikael Pernfors, 6-0, 6-2, 6-3, and No. 13 Jay Berger defeated Ronald Agenor, 6-4, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4.

Other winners among the women, all in straight sets, included No. 5 Gabriela Sabatini, No. 6 Arantxa Sanchez Vicario, No. 9 Manuela Maleeva-Fragniere, No. 12 Jana Novotna, No. 14 Natalia Zvereva and No. 15 Judith Wiesner.

(AUG. 28) UPI - The death toll continues to climb from this afternoon's tornadoes that ripped through Joliet, Illinois, and surrounding communities southwest of Chicago. PORTLAND, ORE. (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Computerized Thermal Imaging Inc. (CTI, OTC, Bulletin Board: 3COII), a state-of-the-art leader in medical diagnostic computerized thermal imaging technology, Wednesday released an agreement with Asian American Capital, a diversified merchant banking firm headquartered in Tampa, Fla., to finance $40 million in CTI hospital-placed systems.

Asian American's equipment financing commitment calls for 100 percent of the financing to be paid in cash to CTI upon presentation of a medical facility use agreement and financial approval of the institution by Asian American Capital. CTI management is confident that such involvement by Asian American Capital will implement rapid CTI systems placement in hospitals nationwide and insure the planned financial development of the company.

Asian American's principal operating divisions include financial services (leasing, financial advisory, invesments); healthcare products; and the strategic acquisition of healthcare facilities. Asian American also has a marketing joint venture with Primary Care Services Inc., a Florida corporation whose principal business is to identify medical labs, diagnostic clinics and similar businesses suitable for acquisition.

Computerized thermal imaging is a non-invasive, harmless technique using the body's own infrared energy like a road map to detect abnormalities in human physiology.

CTI's technological innovations, achieved exclusively through agreements with other industry leaders and the State University of New York, Buffalo, include: 1. computer routines in controlled environmental conditions; 2. a mass storage system that will make creation of a central data base possible, connecting hospitals and doctors across the coutry to an information storehouse; and 3. reliable transmission of computerized thermal images by telephone.

By 1992 CTI believes that substantially all hospitals and clinics, as well as 2 percent of all hospital-related physicians, will be users of CTI units.

CTI is headquartered in the Portland, Ore., area.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - US Sprint Wednesday announced it had signed agreements for videoconferencing services and equipment designed to encourage and make it easier for government agencies to use the advanced telecommunications service.

As a result of cooperative marketing agreements signed with Compression Labs, Inc. (CLI), San Jose, Calif., and Videoconferencing Systems, Inc.,

(VSI), Norcross, Ga., US Sprint will provide complete videoconferencing services, including installation, training and maintenance for U.S. government agencies. This one-stop service is available to any federal government organization wanting to use videoconferencing.

US Sprint is in the final stages of negotiating similar cooperative marketing agreements with Midwest Communications Corporation of Edgewood, Ky., a provider of video and broadcast industry systems, and Systems Integration Group (SIG), a Hyattsville, Md., minority-owned business providing full service telecommunication services to government, military and commercial organizations.

The marketing agreements cover compressed video equipment and services. CLI markets codecs (the device which converts video images into data for transmission), peripherals for graphics presentations and transportable videoconferencing room equipment while VSI also offers a complete line of transportable room equipment as well as codecs and furniture.

As part of its evolving video marketing program, US Sprint also will cooperate with GTE Spacenet Corp. of McLean, Va., in a wideband video demonstration for the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). US Sprint will make available up to 36 hours of transmission time during the 60-day trial, and GTE Spacenet will provide one mobile uplink antenna and 18 temporary downlink receivers for the IRS nationwide test.

The IRS wideband video test, scheduled to begin Sept. 18, is intended to demonstrate internally that wideband video is a viable and cost-effective alternative to conventional face-to-face training. In three different wideband training applications studied, training costs dropped 62 to 71 percent.

US Sprint is also offering up to 11 hours of available air time to other government agencies who want to try wideband service.

MONROVIA, CA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Barry's Jewelers Inc. (NASDAQ:BARY) Wednesday announced sales and operating results for the fiscal year and quarter ended May 31, 1990.

Barry's reported a loss of $15,542,000, or $3.10 per share, for the year ended May 31, 1990, as compared with net income of $6,028,000, or $1.21 per share, in the prior fiscal year. Sales increased to $165,736,000 in the current year from $157,020,000 for 1989.

For the three months ended May 31, 1990, Barry's reported a loss of $12,123,000, or $2.42 per share, as compared with a loss of $754,000, or 15 cents per share, in the corresponding prior year quarter. Sales for the current quarter were $31,599,000 as compared with $31,867,000 last year.

The losses in the current periods are primarily due to substantially increased provisions for bad debts both during the first and last six months of this fiscal year. These increased provisions are a result of increasingly adverse bad debt experience (primarily in the Southwest and in Colorado), continuing deterioration in the general retail environment and the requirement for financing purposes of adjusting the valuation of the customer accounts receivable.

HAYWARD, CA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Cholestech Corp., a privately-held pharmaceutical company focusing on high blood cholesterol and other lipid disorders, has completed its third round of venture capital financing, raising $11.58 million for the development of lipid drugs and lipid monitoring systems.

Together with earlier funding, this brings the total amount raised to $24 million. Primary investors include Hillman Ventures, New Enterprise Associates, Sierra Ventures, Vencap Equities Alberta, Ltd., Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., Hughes Aircraft Co., Newtek Ventures, Hancock Venture Partners, and Brinson Partners Inc.

According to Judy M. O'Shea, chief executive officer: ''This new funding is being used to bring the Cholestech L-D-X lipid monitoring system to market and to advance human clinical studies of our first therapeutic -- a compound which appears to control imbalances in blood lipids.

Cholestech was founded in late 1987 and, although only two-and-a-half years old, already has a critical mass of products in development. Among the company's priorities are monitoring systems for use in the physician's office and drugs to treat lipid disorders.

Potential therapeutics are focused on preventing or counteracting the accumulation of ''bad'' lipids and lipoproteins (LDL cholesterol and triglycerides) and increasing ''good'' lipids and lipoproteins (HDL cholesterol) in the blood. (Lipids are fats and fatlike substances).

The company's first product -- the Cholestech L-D-X -- is a lipid monitoring system for use in the physician's office. It is expected to provide quick, accurate information which will enable physicians to make immediate treatment decisions while the patient is in the examination room.

This compact, easy-to-use instrument will analyze a finger-stick drop of blood in three minutes, providing measurements of total, HDL and LDL cholesterol and triglycerides. Subsequent additions to the system's menu will allow the measurement of liver enzymes and other blood chemistries important to the treatment of lipid disorders and coronary heart disease.

Cholestech Corp. is headquartered in the San Francisco Bay Area. The company recently expanded into new laboratory, manufacturing and administrative facilities in a modern industrial park in Hayward, Calif.

GLENDALE, CA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Glendale Federal Bank announced Wednesday that it will defer payments on all loans held by military reservists called to active duty by President Bush.

The deferral will be in force for the duration of a reservist's period of active duty.

The bank's action was prompted by the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Act of 1940, which limits the annual loan interest rate to 6 percent for active military personnel. The Act was enacted to protect those in the military whose ability to meet financial obligations is adversely impacted by their call to active duty.

Only those loans incurred prior to active military service are convered by the Act. These include all types of real estate and consumer loans, such as home mortgages, auto loans and credit cards.

''Rather than just limit the interest rate, Glendale Federal Bank wants to show its support for our reserve military personnel during this time of tension in the Persian Gulf,'' said Keith P. Russell Jr., president and chief operating officer.

''We don't want the reservists to worry about financial obligations they established prior to their call to active duty, while they are serving their country.''

Glendale Federal Bank requests that military personnel seeking the loan payment deferral submit proof of active military status. They should contact their bank office manager.

CHICAGO (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Bally Manufacturing Corp. (BLY:NYSE) announced Wednesday that the Iowa Lottery has awarded the contract for its on-line lottery system to the company's Scientific Games Inc. Atlanta, subsidiary.

This five-year, $15 million contract is subject to security clearance and is expected to become effective on July 1, 1991, when the existing on-line lottery agreement between Scientific Games and the Iowa Lottery expires.

Under the terms of this new contract, Scientific Games will supply up to 1,400 retailer terminals, of which up to 150 will be the popular player activated terminals. The terminals will be manufactured by Bally Gaming Inc. at its new 150,000-square-foot manufacturing facility in Las Vegas, Nev. Bally Gaming is also a subsidiary of Bally Manufacturing Corp.

Roger N. Keesee, president and chief operating officer of Bally Manufacturing Corp., in commenting on the contract, said, ''We are pleased to continue this relationship that began in 1985 when we assisted the Iowa Lottery in its start-up. Our experience in the lottery industry is well represented with the award of this most important on-line lottery contract.''

Bally Manufacturing Corp. is a world leader in the gaming and fitness industries with four casino hotels, a nationwide network of fitness centers and a complete line of gaming equipment and systems, fitness products and lottery products and services.

SAN FRANCISCO (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Sole proprietors of small businesses who are reservists called to active military service won't have to make their business loan payments to Wells Fargo Bank until they return to civilian life.

Under the special plan announced Wednesday, Wells Fargo Bank will defer principal and interest payments on all business loans for customers while they are on active military duty. Business loans include business credit cards, lines of credit and long-term loans with the bank.

During the deferred period, the interest on the loans will be lowered to 0 percent. If sole proprietors keep making payments while on active duty, any payment they make will be applied directly to the principal of the loan.

''Our customers called to active duty could face financial strain if they had to keep up with their business loan payments while on active duty,'' said Doug Freeman, vice president of Wells Fargo's Business Banking Group. ''We hope this program will ease some of those financial worries,'' said Freeman.

To apply for the program, sole proprietors who are reservists that hold business loans with Wells Fargo should call 1/800-642-BANK.

Earlier in the week, Wells Fargo announced a similar program for customers who can defer their consumer loans while serving as a reservist in the Persian Gulf.

SALT LAKE CITY (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Electro Brain International Corp. Wednesday announced the results of operations for its second quarter ended June 30, 1990.

For the three months ended June 30, 1990, the company reported net income in the amount of $232,007. The company reported no activity for the three months ended June 30, 1989. For the six month period ended June 30 1990, the company reported net income of $119,800, in contrast to the net loss of $2,129 reported for the period from inception on Jan. 13, 1989 through June 30, 1989. The company reported aggregate net income from inception on Jan. 13, 1989 through June 30, 1990 of $14,014.

For the six and three month periods ended June 30, 1990, the company reported $1,859,486 and $1,845,031, respectively, in total revenues, comprised primarily of revenue from its principal operations, i.e., the marketing of computer video games for use with the Nintendo Entertainment System and Nintendo's Game Boy product in the United States and Canada. The company's first sales of video game products for use with the NES and Nintendo's Game Boy product occurred during the quarter which ended June 30, 1990, through the company's wholly owned subsidiary, Electro Brain Corp.

The company anticipates reporting total revenues in the range of approximately $750,000 to $900,000 in the third quarter period.

The company attributes its estimated decline in third quarter revenues primarily to the following factors: (1) artwork necessary for the company's Dead Heat Scramble video game was not completed and approved in time to permit ordering the game for third quarter delivery due to completing negotiations with Nissan Motor Corp. U.S.A. for a Nissan's Dead heat Scramble sweepstakes in which a Nissan automobile will be given away; (2) the company's Super Cars video game had not received final approval; (3) the company ordered fewer Fists of the North Star video game cartridges for third quarter delivery than it did for the second quarter; and (4) sales of the Puss 'N Boots - Pero's Great Adventure video game for the third quarter are expected to be lower than second quarter sales of the game.

SANTA CLARA, CA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Applied Materials Inc. (NASDAQ/NMS:AMAT) has signed a purchase agreement for approximately 150 acres of land in the Harris Branch area of Austin, Texas.

Company plans call for the construction of a second major U.S. facility on the site, with groundbreaking in early 1991 and occupancy in early 1992. The property will be purchased for approximately $6 million.

At the same time, Applied Materials announced it has negotiated a 15-year lease of the new Central Park business center, located at the intersection of Central Expressway and Scott Boulevard in Santa Clara. By mid-1991, the 18-acre site, situated near Applied Materials' existing Santa Clara operations, will house manufacturing, administrative activities and new advanced applications labs.

Approximately 200,000 square feet of space in four one-story buildings will be utilized. Meanwhile, some consolidation of existing Santa Clara facilities is anticipated. Overall, a net increase of about 100,000 square feet of space in Santa Clara will occur.

This announcement comes as other expansions are under way. Already, Applied Materials is adding to existing manufacturing and technology facilities on its Bower Avenue campus in Santa Clara and its Technology Center in Narita, Japan.

In the first phase of development, a 150,000 to 250,000-square-foot facility, staffed by approximately 300 Applied Materials employees, will be built on Bluebonnet Parkway in northeast Austin. The new personnel will join 90 Applied Materials employees now working in a training and sales and service center in Austin's southeast section.

The company also announced it has selected Graeber-Simmons & Cowan AIA Architects of Austin to do the initial architectural and engineering work to support this basic plan.

Long-term company plans are to utilize the new Austin site to support Applied Material's future growth. The 150 acres can accommodate more than one million square feet of building space, which should help satisfy the company's needs over the next decade.

Applied Materials Inc. is a global growth company based in Santa Clara, and is the leading independent supplier of wafer fabrication systems to the worldwide semiconductor industry. It is a market leader in chemical vapor deposition (CVD), dry plasma etching and silicon deposition.

LOS ANGELES (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - To aid its policyholders affected by Tuesday's tornadoes, the Farmers Insurance Group of Companies is rushing assistance to the storm's victims.

Farmers estimated that approximately 500 homes and 700 autos insured by the company were damaged. The extent of the damage is not yet known. Extra claims adjusters are being rushed to the area to assess the level of damage and to provide victims with emergency assistance.

The company is establishing an emergency claims center, which will serve as headquarters for emergency personnel who are organized to process claims as quickly as possible. In the meantime, Farmers policyholders are advised to contact their agents for emergency assistance.

''Policyholders who have been affected by the tornadoes should contact their individual Farmers agent or any Farmers agent if they don't have their own agent's name, so that we can immediately begin processing their claims, and get help to them,'' said Leonard Wray, regional manager.

''Farmers policyholders have available a broad range of assistance designed to help meet the emergency needs caused by a catastrophe such as yesterday's storms,'' Wray said.

Farmers also is advising its policyholders to make any necessary immediate repairs to their property and to begin an inventory of damage as soon as possible.

Farmers is the nation's third largest home and auto insurer.

SAN RAFAEL, CA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Children's Discovery Centers of America Inc. (NASDAQ:CDCRA) Wednesday announced that its revenues for the second quarter ending June 30, increased to $4,970,000 from $3,740,000 in 1989.

However, the company reported a net loss for the quarter of $1,913,000 or 36 cents per share compared to a profit of $48,000 or 1 cent per share in the like quarter in 1989.

The company recorded a one-time charge to income of $1,850,000, resulting from its previously announced decision to sell its Arizona Mary Moppets Day Care Schools Inc. subsidiary.

Revenues for the company's Arizona operations continued to experience declines on a year-to-year basis due to several factors, including an unusually severe competitive climate, and regulatory changes mandated by the state legislature which have increased costs.

Richard A. Niglio, chairman and chief executive officer of Children's Discovery Centers, said, ''The sale of Mary Moppets in Arizona allows us to concentrate our efforts in those markets where we are performing strongly, such as California and New England.''

Niglio added that the company planned to continue to concentrate its acquisition efforts in these areas and expected to register continued rapid growth.

The reported increase in revenue is attributable to the growth in the number of new centers operated by the company, and to an increase in sales volume of centers in those areas where the company is concentrating its growth.

IRVINE, CA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - ReadiCare Inc. (NASDAQ: REDI)

Wednesday announced that it has completed the previously announced acquisition of Occupational Medical Centers (OMC), a privately owned workers'-compensation medical center located in South San Francisco. The assets acquired include OMC's rehabilitation and reconditioning center, an operation similar in scope to ReadiCare's WorkFit Center.

OMC, founded in 1983, is recognized as one of the leading providers of occupational and industrial medical services servicing South San Francisco and San Francisco Airport area businesses. Included among OMC's client list of over 400 corporations are such employers as United Airlines, Hyatt Regency, UPS, See's Candies, the City of San Bruno and the Price Club. OMC's net patient revenues for the most-recent 12 months were over $1.7 million.

Commenting on the acquisition, Dennis G. Danko, president and chief executive officer, said, "OMC complements our already strong market presence in the Northern California Bay Area and will enable us to offer additional cost-effective workers'-compensation services to area employers." He added, "We expect the acquisition of OMC to favorably impact ReadiCare's earnings prospects for the balance of this fiscal year and beyond."

ReadiCare is the West Coast's largest operator of workers'-compensation medical centers and programs serving over 20,000 client companies. The company also provides a wide range of on-site workers'-compensation-related programs and management services to business, industry and other health-care organizations.

ReadiCare programs have a proven track record in reducing workers'-compensation costs and in improving employee productivity, health and safety.

SAN FRANCISCO (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Bay 511, a San Francisco-based corporation, has acquired Tassajara Crossing, a new neighborhood shopping center located in Danville, Calif., for $26 million, according to Jack S. Cooper, managing director of Bank of America's Investment Real Estate Group.

IRE serves as investment advisor and trustee to Bay 511 Corporation, a U.S. real estate investment company. Tassajara Crossing is located at the intersection of Crow Canyon Road and Camino Tassajara in Danville, an affluent and growing community in Contra Costa County, in the eastern section of the San Francisco Bay Area. The shopping center features major tenants such as Safeway, Longs Drugs, and Ace Hardware.

''Tassajara Crossing is at the center of a burgeoning residential area where growth, in part, is being spurred by the continuing development of Bishop Ranch and Hacienda Business Park, two prominent, master-planned commerce centers,'' Cooper said. Major corporations located at Bishop Ranch include Chevron, Pacific Bell, IBM, and Toyota, while AT&T employs over 4,000 people at Hacienda Business Park. ''Employers at these business centers have attracted a well-educated, professional labor force not only to work in Contra Costa County, but to live in the area as well,'' Cooper explained. ''As a result the county has experienced substantial residential building in recent years and the area continues to expand -- adding new businesses, services, and residences. We expect Tassajara Crossing to perform very well for our investor as the full-employment potential of Bishop Ranch and Hacienda is achieved over the long term.''

Tassajara Crossing contains over 140,000 net leasable square feet. The contemporary design of the shopping center includes masonry and wood-frame construction.

This neighborhood shopping center was completed in June 1990, by Whitney Development Company. The property is being sold by Tassajara Shopping Center Associates, a partnership affiliated with Drever Partners, Inc., a San Francisco-based firm which syndicates and manages real estate investments.

Richard T. Crane, vice president and director of acquisitions for IRE, and Vice President Ronald J. Kilby, an IRE acquisitions officer, advised the client in this transaction.

SEYMOUR, IND. (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Home Federal Savings Bank (NASDAQ:HOMF) announced today that its board of directors approved the formation of a holding company to be named Home Federal Bancorp.

The proposed formation of the holding company will be presented to a vote of the shareholders of Home Federal Savings Bank at the annual meeting to be held on Oct. 30, 1990, in Seymour.

Shareholders of record at the close of business as of Sept. 5, 1990, are entitled to vote at the annual meeting. If the holding company formation is approved, each shareholder of Home Federal Savings Bank will receive one share of Home Federal Bancorp common stock for each share of Home Federal Savings Bank stock owned by such shareholder. If the shareholders approve the holding company, it is anticipated that the holding company formation will be completed by the end of November 1990.

John K. Keach Sr., chairman of the board and CEO of Home Federal, in announcing the formation of the holding company, stated, ''The formation of a holding company will give Home Federal greater operating flexibility as well as increased ability to take advantage of possible future acquisition opportunities. The holding company structure will also allow Home Federal to benefit from Indiana's porgressive corporate statute which does not currently apply to Home Federal Savings Bank.''

The board of directors also announced a first quarter dividend of 7.5 cents per share. The dividend is payable on Oct. 2, 1990, to shareholders of record on Sept. 20, 1990.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CALIF. (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Adobe Systems Inc. (NASDAQ:ADBE) has announced the signing of a contract with Kinko's Service Corp.

Under the agreement, Adobe will provide Kinko's with a special combination of font software from the Adobe Type Library that will enable their Desktop Publishing Centers to provide high-quality Type 1 fonts to customers. Financial terms of the agreement were not disclosed.

''This agreement allows us to provide our customers with the industry font standard at an affordable price,'' stated Joel Rayden, Product Development director, Kinko's Service Corp.

''One of the key advantages the Adobe Type Library offers is a variety of high-quality typefaces from multiple type vendors. The Adobe Type Library allows us to meet our customers' increasing needs for Type 1 fonts and help our business grow.''

The contract states that Kinko's, one of the largest copy center chains in the United States, will receive a selection of seven different typefaces from the Adobe Type Library at a special price.

The selection includes ITC Garamond, Linoscript, Linotext, Park Avenue, Bodoni, Peignot and ITC Eras. These typefaces will be distributed to Kinko's Desktop Publishing Centers throughout the United States.

The Desktop Publishing Centers will then be able to create and reproduce customers' documents using these frequently requested typefaces. Kinko's will not resell the typeface packages to their customers.

Adobe Systems began shipping downloadable typefaces in April 1986. Since that time, the Adobe Type Library of font software has grown from 12 families to 164 packages and over 700 typefaces. These packages include both traditional designs, including typefaces cross-licensed from a variety of type manufacturers, and original typeface designs developed by Adobe specifically for electronic publishing.

Adobe Systems Inc., founded in 1982 by Dr. John Warnock and Dr. Charles Geschke, has headquarters in Mountain View. Adobe is the developer of PostScript, the industry standard page-description language for the electonic printing and publishing fields, and Display PostScript, a device-independent graphics imaging model that drives screen displays.

LOS ANGELES (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Telecredit Inc. (NASDAQ:TCRD) announced Wednesday that net earnings for the first quarter of fiscal 1991 rose 10 percent to a record $7,299,000, or 65 cents per share, on revenues of $42,766,000, compared with net earnings of $6,627,000, or 60 cents per share, on revenues of $40,987,000 for the first quarter of fiscal 1990.

''These record results were achieved despite an unfavorable year-to-year comparison for Telecredit's credit card processing operations due to the departure of a number of Payment Systems for Credit Unions (PSCU) accounts in October 1989,'' noted Chairman Lee A. Ault III. ''We expect our card processing operations to begin reporting favorable quarterly comparisons in the second half of fiscal 1991,'' he added.

Pre-tax earnings from check services increased 10 percent in the first quarter as compared to the same period last year as operating revenues rose 13 percent to $25,287,000 and the value of checks authorized in connection with Telecredit's check purchase service rose 26 percent to a first-quarter record of nearly $2.2 billion.

Pre-tax earnings from card processing services declined 11 percent on an 8 percent decrease in operating revenues due to the loss of the PSCU accounts. However, the pre-tax earnings were ahead of internal plan according to Ault. He said that Telecredit was providing card processing services to 1,813 banks, credit unions and savings institutions representing approximately 2,275,000 individual VISA and MasterCard accounts at July 31, 1990, compared to 1,735 institutions representing approximately 2,187,000 individual accounts at April 30, 1990.

Ault also reported continued strong performance by Telecredit's enhancement services program, with earnings ahead of internal expectations and revenues of $625,000, a 370 percent gain over the comparable period in the prior year. Enrollment in the enhancement services program grew to 1,059 institutions at July 31, 1990, from 440 institutions at July 31, 1989.

At July 31, 1990, Telecredit reported cash and short-term marketable securities of $99,349,000, a 3.54-to-one current ratio and no funded debt.

AMERICAN FORK, UTAH (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - TEL Electronics Inc. (NASDAQ:TELS) announced call accounting systems that can now withstand up to 20,000 volts of static discharge, twice as much as before, and still continue to operate without any loss of data.

Normally, 20,000 volts is enough to render a unit inoperative, but with several new features and superior engineering, TEL's new systems have become virtually static proof.

For businesses in the midwest and central areas of the United States, and in Canada where static is the most common cause of system breakdowns, TEL's new units are a breakthrough.

''As we have traveled around the country visiting dealers, one of the most frequently requested features has been a call accounting system with greater immunity to static,'' said John Gunter, president and chief executive officer of TEL electronics inc. ''TEL is proud to be able to offer dealers and call accounting users an answer to one of the most troublesome dilemmas in business environments, the problem of static,''

In order for TEL's new call accounting units to withstand 20,000 volts of electricity, several features were added such as a custom powercord. In the past, the call accounting unit had to ground itself with the aid of a printer. With the new improvements, the call accounting unit grounds itself through its powercord. A newly designed keypad with a higher resistance to electrical fluctuations also aided in protecting against static.

This innovative approach to installation also applies to the remote port which allows a hookup to a modem or property management system. A switch is activated and when the LED in the back of the system comes on, the system is transmitting and receiving correctly. This new enhancement replaces the conventional method of testing the port with a break-out box or other test gear. It also eliminates the need for soldering if transmit and receive were not correct.

TEL electronics inc. designs, produces and markets proprietary microprocessor-based telephone call accounting, telephone management, line scanners and other telecommunications systems. TEL also markets voice mail/processing systems, automated telephone attendants and property management systems for use by the lodging industry, professional firms, government agencies and general business organizations.

OAKLAND, CALIF. (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Equitec Financial Group Inc., a financial services company, announced Wednesday that it and certain of its subsidiaries had filed in Oakland for relief under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code.

Chapter 11 provides for a stay of creditor action while permitting the debtor to formulate a plan of reorganization.

Concurrently with its Chapter 11 filing, Equitec said that shortly it expects to file motions with the Bankruptcy Court for the expedited approval of the Hallwood transaction and an offer to sell the contracts related to the investment management and distribution related operations of the Equitec-Siebel group of funds to Wells Fargo Bank N.A. and Stephens Inc.

In addition, Wells Fargo has expressed possible interest in acquiring the other business of the investment advisor, Siebel Capital Management Inc.

Equitec's Chief Executive Officer and Chairman Richard L. Saalfeld attributed the necessity for Chapter 11 relief to ''difficult times in the real estate industry and to management's commitment to safeguard assets for the benefit of the company's stakeholders.''

Saalfeld said, ''Ideally we would have liked to be able to retain and manage our excellent financial advisory and asset management businesses. However, we recognize that the nature of those businesses and the need to maximize the return to our creditors and shareholders make their prompt disposition necessary.

''We know Wells Fargo and Stephens will each be able to provide continuity and strong financial support to our customers.''

Saalfeld indicated that expeditious approval of the Hallwood transaction would be in the best interests of creditors and shareholders of Equitec and of the limited partners in the affected partnerships. After the consummation of the transactions for which approval is sought, Equitec will continue to complete the restructuring of its financial services businesses.

Equitec's largest shareholder is Inner PacifiCorp Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of PacifiCorp, which holds 49.5 percent of Equitec's common stock and also asserts a claim as a creditor.

DENVER (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Roger L. Werner Jr., has resigned as president and chief executive officer of ESPN to become president and chief executive officer of Prime Ventures Inc., a new company being formed by Bill Daniels to oversee his sports interests.

Werner, who assumed the ESPN helm in August 1988, has earned a reputation as one of cable's most innovative negotiators and brightest visionaries.

Among other things, Werner is credited for skillfully handling ESPN's telecast rights deal with Major League Baseball last year.

Werner told employees in the network's Bristol, Conn., headquarters and New York office Wednesday afternoon that he was leaving ESPN to assist Daniels in further development of his multi-faceted sports business.

Daniels, regarded as ''the father of cable television'' and one of the industry's most respected entrepreneurs, owns or has interests in a number of rapidly growing sports ventures throughout the world.

During the past three years, Daniels has built the world's largest independent cable sports programming group which observers say is revolutionizing the television industry and setting new trends in domestic and international programming production.

That group includes six networks that are owned and operated by Daniels and TeleCommunications Inc., five affiliated networks and four regionals which have programming exchange agreements with the Daniels/TCI group. Together, those networks provide sports programming to more than 22 million cable subscribers in 37 states.

In addition, Daniels launched late last year a national sports programming service known as Prime Network to serve the Daniels/TCI regionals, satellite dish owners and cable operators in markets without regional networks.

Specifically, Daniels holdings include majority ownership of Prime Ticket Network, the nation's largest regional cable sports programming network; First Auto Sports Television, a promotions and television production company; and the Denver Grand Prix Auto Race Inc.

ESPN is America's largest basic cable network with more than 56 million subscribers nationwide.

COLUMBUS, OH (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Anheuser-Busch Inc. is shipping more than 4,000 cases of canned water from its Columbus brewery to the Jefferson County area of Newtown.

Extensive flooding of several small towns in Ohio resulted in contaminated water wells. According to Health Department officials, approximately 80 water wells in Jefferson County have not yet been deemed drinkable.

The drinking water, packaged in cases of 12-ounce plain white cans, will be delivered this afternoon to Choice Brands Distributing, the local Anheuser-Busch wholesaler. Choice Brands will handle delivery/distribution of the water to residents in Newtown.

Anheuser-Busch has donated more than 180,000 cases of canned water to crisis areas since 1983, including its most recent donation of 2,200 cases to distressed areas in the Southeast to aid flood victims.

FRESNO, CA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - WestAir Holding Inc. (AMEX:WAH) Wednesday announced senior management changes related to the merger of its two regional airline units into a single company with two operating divisions.

WestAir announced earlier this week that NPA Inc., which operates in the Pacific Northwest as United Express, will be merged with WestAir Airlines, which operates as United Express in four Western and six Eastern states.

WestAir Holding Chairman Timothy P. Flynn and President Maurice J. Gallagher said that the merger of the two airline subsidiaries is resulting in the consolidation of the administrative, financial and marketing functions in an effort to create a more efficient organization, cut costs and reduce overhead.

As part of the reorganization, Craig Belmondo, 31, has been named senior vice president of Operations for WestAir Airlines effective immediately. Belmondo served most recently as president of WestAir Holding's NPA Inc.

In addition to overseeing the merger and the resulting consolidation of several operations and administrative functions, Belmondo will be responsible for all maintenance, flight operations and airport operations activities for WestAir.

Jim Prouty, 45, will continue as senior vice president and chief financial officer of WestAir Holding and WestAir Airlines.

Kerry Skeen, 37, continues as president of WestAir's Atlantic Coast Division, and the company's Washington-Dulles hub activities.

David Brown, 40, will continue as senior vice president of marketing and sales for WestAir's West Coast Division, adding the Pacific Northwest region to his responsibilities.

Paul Rasmussen, 48, has been appointed vice president of Flight Operations for WestAir Airlines.

Flynn and Gallagher said that other adjustments in its management structure will ensue as the consolidation progresses during the next several weeks.

WestAir is one of the largest regional airlines in the United States with service to 63 cities in 13 states and the District of Columbia. The company operates over 850 daily flights with a fleet of 100 jet and turbo-prop aircraft. Headquartered in Fresno, Calif., WestAir employs 2,800 people.

COLORADO SPRINGS, CO (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - A Corporate Public Involvement grant of $100,000 to the United States Olympic Hall of Fame was announced today at the grand opening of new offices for The Lincoln National Life Insurance Co. in Colorado Springs.

''Two great events are happening here today,'' said Stephen K. Goldstone, senior vice president, The Lincoln National Life Insurance Co. and general manager of Market Group I. ''They are the grand opening of our newly constructed group operations center at our headquarters and the announcement of Lincoln National's grant to support the construction of the United States Olympic Hall of Fame.''

In July 1989, Lincoln National Life announced its plans for growth in the Colorado Springs area and began construction of a new office facility in October.

''Today, we are affirming our presence in the community and lending our financial support to the Olympic Hall of Fame,'' Goldstone said. ''When I toured the USOC Training Facilities and felt the vision of the committee, I became convinced this was a project for Lincoln National. It is a significant statement of our commitment to the residents of Colorado Springs and future American athletes who train here.''

''The grant we received from Lincoln National today helps us realize what sometimes has appeared to be an elusive Olympic dream -- a place where the U.S. will preserve its history, celebrate its spirit, commemorate its heroes and inspire the public toward support of the Olympic experience,'' said Dr. Harvey Schiller, executive director of the United States Olympic Committee. ''We have long needed a place to enshrine our Olympic heroes as well as a place where the general public will have access to the Olympic experience in a meaningful way, even beyond the Games.''

The United States Olympic Hall of Fame will establish a symbolic focal point for the Olympic movement in the United States. It will contain high tech, interactive, hands-on displays and exhibits, changing periodically. These exhibits will tour the nation, enhancing the benefit of the Hall of Fame to the general public.

One hour south of Denver, The Hall of Fame will be located on Interstate 25 in Colorado Springs, directly across from the Air Force Academy. Its projected opening date is April 1994.

Lincoln National Life is an affiliate of Lincoln National Corp. (NYSE:LNC) the nation's seventh largest multiline insurance holding company. With headquarters in Fort Wayne, Ind., Lincoln National provides property-casualty insurance, employee life-health benefits, individual life, reinsurance and investment products through its companies. Its assets total $26 billion with revenues exceeding $8 billion.

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Sutton Resources Ltd. Wednesday said that further to the company's news release of April 16 1990, Kabanga Nickel Co. Ltd. (''Kabanga Nickel''), a wholly owned subsidiary of Romanex International Ltd. has now received government approval for a prospecting licence covering the Kabanga nickel deposit in western Tanzania, Africa.

A formal signing ceremony has been scheduled for next week.

Under terms of an agreement with Romanex, Sutton has the right to earn 55 percent of Romanex's interest in Kabanga Nickel through funding $1,250,000

(U.S.) in exploration costs and issuing 280,000 shares to Romanex. Thereafter a 55/45 joint venture will fund further project costs of Kabanga Nickel, pro rata. In order to vest its interests, Kabanga Nickel must spend $3,500,000 over a three year period and submit a mine evaluation report thereafter.

The Tanzanian government is entitled to receive a minimum 7.5 percent equity interest in Kabanga Nickel at a production decision, and under certain after-tax real rate of return interests, they may elect to receive additional equity interests or increase the mine tax rates.

If the government elects to receive additional equity interests, it can acquire up to a maximum 32.5 percent, after which it may purchase at fair market value an additional 18.5 percent interest in Kabanga Nickel. If the government elects to receive additional mine tax revenues, it may not increase its equity interests.

Taxation rates in Tanzania are 50 percent, except that the first four years of taxable income is taxed at 22.5 percent. The government may retain a 3 percent net smelter royalty. There are no restrictions on export of mine product or repatriation of profit.

The Kabanga nickel deposit is a nickel sulphide magmatic segregation deposit which was discovered and explored in the mid to late 1970's by the United Nations Development Program (UNDP) which spent approximately $7,000,000. No other company or organization has ever secured the rights to the property.

The UNDP identified significant geochemical and geophysical targets and conducted several programs of diamond drilling totalling 65,000 feet in 60 holes which outlined two zones of significant nickel, cobalt, copper and gold/platinum mineralization.

The best intercepts are in block 2 and indicate an underground geologic reserve as calculated by the UNDP of 36,751,350 tons (40,500,000 tons) grading 1.05 percent nickel, 0.11 percent cobalt, 0.21 percent copper and 0.01 oz/ton combined gold/platinum. Included in this calculation are 10,704,000 tons of 1.89 percent nickel, 0.14 percent cobalt, 0.29 percent copper which includes a high grade core of 5,909,750 tons of 2.51 percent nickel, 0.11 percent cobalt and 0.31 percent copper. The UNDP also determined that the sulphur/nickel ratio is comparable to those of currently producing nickel sulphide deposits.

Additional to this reserve is a little-explored lower grade zone in block 1 that the UNDP estimated to contain 37,800,000 tons at 0.415 percent nickel, 0.037 percent cobalt and 0.06 percent copper. The combined geologic reserve for both blocks would total 74,551,350 tons (82,150,000 tons) with a weighted average grade of 0.73 percent nickel, 0.07 percent cobalt and 0.13 percent copper, with a gross contained metal value of about $7.5 billion U.S. at current metal prices.

All mineralization is open to extension and a number of other excellent targets have been drilled. A planned first phase of exploration will include additional diamond drilling to determine the ultimate size of this world class deposit.

FOUNTAIN VALLEY, CA (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - National Lumber & Supply Inc. (OTC:NTLQE) Wednesday reported that the company's board of directors has approved the conversion of its Chapter 11 proceedings under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code to a Chapter 7 liquidation of assets.

The home center retailer noted that the reasons for the Chapter 7 filing were the continued deterioration of the company's cash position and the failure of its principal secured lender to continue funding operations.

On Aug. 10, 1990, the company started to conduct ''clearance'' and ''going out of business'' sales at seven of its 12 remaining stores. On Aug. 17, 1990, National Lumber began liquidating the inventories of three additional stores, leaving two remaining stores, located in Cathedral City and Encinitas, Calif.

Mel Jaffee, president of National Lumber, has been negotiating with the company's creditors' committee to purchase the remaining stores. Other bidders are also making proposals regarding the company's stores. An agreement on the disposition of the company's stores would be subject to approvals by the bankruptcy court and the trustee in the Chapter 7 liquidation.

TOKYO (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Sun Microsystems Wednesday introduced a version of its OpenWindows application development environment adapted for the Japanese language, giving software developers an easy-to-use, open solution for porting applications to Japanese.

The new Japanese OpenWindows includes the OPEN LOOK graphical user interface, the X11/NeWS window system, DeskSet productivity tools and the XView toolkit.

Sun also unveiled a Japanese version of its OpenWindows Developer's Guide, a tool that automatically generates OPEN LOOK code, thereby saving days of development time.

Japanese OpenWindows already has considerable momentum, having been endorsed by 58 software vendors and other firms that serve that market, such as Toshiba, Fujitsu and Fuji Xerox. Many of these companies plan to develop products with Japanese OpenWindows.

Japanese OpenWindows is based on the just-introduced OpenWindows Version 2 which features OPEN LOOK in 3-D. Japanese OpenWindows is the only product that allows users to switch back and forth between English and Japanese within an application by simply pointing the cursor and clicking a button on a mouse.

Japanese XView, which developers use to create OPEN LOOK applications, is the first toolkit to conform to the X Input Method (XIM) specification from the X Consortium. XIM is the proposed vehicle for internationalizing the X Window System. By conforming with XIM, Japanese XView will preserve a developer's investment, since the toolkit will be based on an industry standard.

XView is a very portable toolkit, thus the new Japanese version enables developers to create applications in Japanese for any high-performance computer system that uses the X Window System. For example, XView toolkits in English will be available for UNIX systems made by IBM, Hewlett-Packard, DEC and Apple, while a VMS version will also be introduced this year.

HAUPPAUGE, NY (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - North Atlantic Industries Inc. (NASDAQ: NATL), Wednesday annnounced that it has executed a letter of intent with Mesa Technology Corp. to acquire the operating assets and business of the Mesa Systems Division, a division of Mesa Technology Corp.

The Mesa Systems Division reported sales in excess of $12.5 million in its latest fiscal year ended 3/31/90. It is estimated that the purchase price will be $6.5 million subject to adjustment and that the funds will be financed through one or more of the company's existing lenders. The proposed transaction is subject to the execution of satisfactory definitive agreements, regulatory approvals and consents and completion of corporate review.

The Mesa Systems Divison focuses on the integration and sale of computer systems based on Intel 386 and 486 platforms which are customized to meet ''rugged'' and TEMPEST requirements for Department of Defense applications. This focus will complement North Atlantic's ''rugged'' and TEMPEST peripheral products based business. This acquisition will also allow North Atlantic to continue to pursue its objective of providing more systems products similar to the Data Analysis System (DAS) program it recently won.

Mesa's customer base is principally intelligence agencies whereas North Atlantic's traditional customer base has been the armed services of DOD. The combined customer communities service by North Atlantic and Mesa will broaden the opportunities for the product lines of both companies.

North Atlantic Industries designs, manufactures and markets computer, computer peripheral, communications and instrumentation products to government and aerospace industry customers.

The company is a leading supplier of TEMPEST printers, MIL-SPEC teleprinter and tape storage systems, as well as phase sensitive instruments.

ISSAQUAH, WASH. (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Personal computer software reseller Egghead Discount Software (NASDAQ: EGGS), Wednesday reported first quarter fiscal 1991 earnings of $2.1 million, or $.13 per share, the company's third consecutive quarterly profit and an increase of $7.3 million over its first quarter fiscal 1990 loss of $5.2 million, or $.32 per share.

During the sixteen week quarter ended July 21, 1990, sales increased 18 percent to $144.7 million over sales of $122.3 million in the like period a year ago.

Egghead's first quarter results included a $1 million addition to the legal reserve for actual and anticipated legal expenses, and a gain of $569,000 on the sale of its personal computer software training and installation subsidiary, Egghead University.

''Thanks to the hard work of hundreds of Egghead employees, we saw marked improvement in the first quarter in two key areas,'' said Stuart M. Sloan, Egghead chairman and chief executive officer. ''Comparable store sales flourished, while selling, general and administrative (SG&A) expenses as a percentage of sales fell substantially.

''Store closings had an insignificant effect on comparable store sales,'' Sloan said. Comparable retail store sales increased 21.1 percent in stores not affected by closures. Overall, total comparable retail store sales (defined as percentage sales change in stores open more than one year) increased 21.4 percent. ''The comp store increase can be attributed to more strategically focused and enhanced marketing programs compared to first quarter 1990, to our improved in-stock position, to the introduction of significant new products during the quarter, and to strong performances on the part of store personnel,'' Sloan concluded.

Retail store sales, which accounted for 42 percent of Egghead's first quarter 1991 revenues, were up 22 percent from the first quarter a year ago.

Egghead opened one retail store, closed nine stores, and operated 192 stores at the end of the first quarter. The company had reserves for the closure or relocation of 14 retail stores at the end of the quarter, compared to reserves for the closure or relocation of 23 stores at the end of fiscal year 1990. The total number of stores expected to be closed or relocated did not change.

Egghead Discount Software sells personal computer software, peripherals, and accessories to individuals, businesses and government accounts through its company-operated retail stores and through its direct sales force in the U.S. and Canada. Egghead currently operates 189 retail stores and employs a direct sales force of approximately 317.

CARLSBAD, CA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - International Totalizator Systems Inc. (NASDAQ:ITSI) reported that 99.6 percent ($5.18 million) of the original $5.2 million issue of its 10 percent convertible subordinated debentures due 2003 has been converted.

ITS called the remaining debentures for redemption on Aug. 1, 1990, at which time less than $2.3 million remained outstanding. ITS will pay only $20,000 at redemption on Sept. 4, 1990. After conversion, ITS has 9.6 million common shares outstanding, approximately 8.5 million of which are in the public float.

The benefits to the company and its shareholders are the elimination of substantially all long-term debt on the balance sheet, a much improved long-term debt to capitalization ratio from over 55 percent at Dec. 31, 1988, to less than 1 percent after conversion, and elimination of related interest expenditures.

Importantly, the company's balance sheet strength provides considerable flexibility for financing current and future growth. To all of the debenture holders who elected conversion, ITS expresses its appreciation for the confidence in its continued development and success.

ITS, with headquarters in Carlsbad, was founded in 1978 and went public in 1981. ITS has a global presence in the design, manufacture and marketing of customized ticketing systems for computerized wagering, lotteries and automated travel industry products.

McKinnie & Associates, a wholly owned subsidiary, has developed and markets a proprietary and specialized management information system for parimutuel wagering, sporting and entertainment facilities.

LAWRENCEVILLE, NJ (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Megamation Inc. (NASDAQ Symbols: MEGI, MEGIW) Wednesday announced that it has received a purchase order through a Systems Integrator to provide Northern Telecom Inc. (NYSE Symbol: NORTEL; 1989 Revenues: $6.1 billion) with five Mega 1 automated multiple-head robotic assembly systems. The purchase order is valued in excess of $800,000.

Northern Telecom Inc. will use the Mega 1's at its Research Triangle Park North Carolina plant to improve efficiency in its line card manufacturing process. ''With the Mega 1's, we will maintain our output with fewer assembly lines,'' said Doug Trimble, General Manager of Operations, Integrated Network Systems, Northern Telecom. ''And that frees up valuable manufacturing space and resources needed in our expanding business world.''

Megamation, Inc. noted that it has already shipped one of the NTI units and expects to ship the remaining four units in September.

Jacobs continued, ''Northern Telecom will use the Mega 1's for high volume production at its Integrated Network System Group's (INS) headquarters in Research Triangle Park, North Carolina. We are hopeful that as the Mega 1's are successfully integrated into Northern Telecom's manufacturing systems in Research Triangle Park, additional purchase orders may be forthcoming from other Northern Telecom facilities around the United States and Canada.''

Northern Telecom is the leading global supplier of fully digital telecommunications switching systems, providing products and services to telephone operating companies, corporations, governments, universities and other institutions worldwide. Northern Telecom, with 1989 revenues of $6.1 billion, employs more than 49,000 people around the world.

Megamation Inc. manufactures, markets and sells automated multiple-head robotic assembly systems known as MEGA 1. The Company designed and developed the MEGA 1 System primarily for small parts assembly and handling applications in the electronics, light manufacturing, automobile and other industries.

NEW YORK (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - The Horn & Hardart Company (AMEX: HOR) Wednesday announced that it has entered into an agreement to sell its Bojangles' Chicken 'N Biscuits restaurant chain in exchange for $20 million principal amount of Horn & Hardart's 14 percent Senior Subordinated Debentures.

The purchaser is a company organized by Sienna Holdings, a private, Los Angeles-based investment firm. Horn & Hardart anticipates that the transaction will close promptly.

The Bojangles' restaurant system is comprised of 23 company-owned units and approximately 150 franchised restaurants in seven Southeastern states. The assets being sold do not include any owned real estate.

Under Horn & Hardart's previously announced restructure plan, it was the Company's intention to sell its East Coast restaurant operations, which include the Bojangles' Chicken 'N Biscuits chain, Burger King, Arby's and Tony Roma's restaurants, as well as its New York City real estate interests and the Company's interest in The Paddlewheel Hotel in Las Vegas Nevada.

To date, the Company has sold its Burger King franchise and certain restaurants to Burger King Corporation; sold its Arby's restaurants located in South Florida to Arby's Inc.; sold or leased 21 closed restaurant locations to third parties; has contracted for the sale of a 2.5 acre vacant lot in Las Vegas; and has now entered into the agreement to sell Bojangles'.

The foregoing transactions account for over $50 million under the Company's restructure plan. The gain on the sale of Bojangles' will be deferred in accordance with the Company's accounting policy. Discussions continue with respect to the sale of the Company's Tony Roma's restaurants Paddlewheel Hotel and New York City real estate interests.

Mr. Schupak said, ''The Company's restructure activities will be able to focus on the disposition of its New York City real estate now that the difficult task of simultaneous managing and divesting troubled operating assets has been substantially completed.'' Horn & Hardart continues to own and operate International King's Table, the largest buffet-restaurant chain in its market. EVANSTON, IL (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - An American Rotarian has given the largest gift ever received from an individual donor to The Rotary Foundation of Rotary International.

James A. Buchanan IV, of Potomac, Md., has transferred more than $3 million through a charitable remainder unitrust benefiting The Rotary Foundation's Endowment Fund for World Understanding. On Friday, Aug. 31, Buchanan will be honored at Rotary International's Evanston headquarters.

In announcing the gift, Buchanan said he is impressed by the foundation's record of efficiently managing its resources. In a 1989 report on the top 100 U.S.-based charitable organizations, the NonProfit Times ranked The Rotary Foundation the second fastest growing and third lowest in administrative costs.

The Rotary Foundation provides humanitarian grants which fund health and development projects throughout the world. It also creates international ambassadors of goodwill through awards to university students and teachers and through the international exchange of business and professional people.

The $3 million-plus unitrust will provide income to Buchanan and his wife, Fay, as long as either lives. At the death of the last beneficiary, proceeds from the trust will be placed in endowment where annual earnings will provide unrestricted support for Rotary Foundation programs. Unlike Rotary International, which operates on annual per capita membership dues, the foundation operates on voluntary contributions.

Both Rotary International's world president, Paulo Costa of Brazil, and the chairman of the foundation trustees, Carlos Canseco of Mexico, will participate in the Aug. 31 ceremonies in Evanston. Buchanan will receive one of the new Tiffany crystal spheres designed to recognize major foundation donors and his portrait will be placed in the headquarters' new Hall of Honor.

A Rotarian for 38 years and past district governor, Buchanan was a building contractor before his retirement. He is a member of the advisory board of the American Automobile Association and is former chairman of the board of the Military Pilots Association. In addition, he served as president of the West Montgomery County Civic Association.

Rotary, the world's first service club association, was founded in Chicago in 1905. There are 1.1 million members of more than 25,000 Rotary clubs in 172 countries and geographical regions.

SPOKANE, WA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Gold Reserve Corp. has received a favorable ruling in a dissenter's rights lawsuit.

As a result of the April 10, 1986, exchange agreement with Pegasus, whereby Gold Reserve exchanged its mining interests for shares in Pegasus, eight shareholders of the company exercised their right to dissent to the transaction and obtain fair value payment for their shares.

The company purchased 172,453 shares from the dissenting shareholders by paying them market value. Six shareholders then submitted further claims to the company demanding up to $1,100,000 as additional payment for their shares.

The Montana District Court agreed with Gold Reserve that the market value paid by Gold Reserve represented fair value. As a result of this favorable ruling and a recent decision from the Court of Appeals for the state of Washington in a related lawsuit, the potential liability of $1,100,000 has been eliminated.

In addition, as a result of the Court of Appeal's favorable decision on the related lawsuit, the company will receive back 201,548 of its shares, or 3.6 percent of the company.

Rockne J. Timm, president of the company, stated, ''I am pleased that this time-consuming and costly litigation is behind us, the $1,100,000 potential liability has been eliminated, and the company will receive back 3.6 percent of its shares.''

MENLO PARK, CALIF. (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Liposome Technology Inc. (LTI) (NASDAQ:LTIZ), a California-based pharmaceutical company, Wednesday announced the receipt of a U.S patent (No. 4,952,405) related to injectable liposomal gentamicin.

The new patent claims the use of liposomal gentamicin, an aminoglycoside antibiotic, to treat patients with infectious levels of Mycobacterium avium present in both the bloodstream and the reticuloendothelial system (RES).

M. avium, a common systemic bacterial infection in patients with AIDS, is typically treated with a combination of three or four orally administered drugs and, to a lesser extent, by intravenous infusion of amikacin, also an aminoglycoside antibiotic. However, no drug has yet been specifically approved by the FDA for treating M. avium.

A major difficulty in treating the disease, and one reason why a combination of drugs is used, is that current therapies are effective against infection residing in the bloodstream but are comparatively ineffective against M. avium residing in macrophages of the liver, spleen and other RES tissue, where bacteria are protected from the drug.

The independent claim in LTI's new patent covers a method of treating M. avium by IV administration of a suspension of liposomes containing entrapped gentamicin, and repeating the drug administration until the desired therapeutic outcome is achieved.

Other dependent claims cover the drug dosage and selected liposomal gentamicin formulations with the pharmaceutically appropriate stability characteristics and lipid-to-drug ratio. The patent itself describes preferred methods for preparing the formulations and sizing the liposomes, which are the subjects of other issued LTI patents.

Located in Menlo Park, LTI currently is developing injectable liposomal doxorubicin and epirubicin for anticancer therapy, injectable amphotericin B colloidal dispersion for antifungal treatment, and inhaled liposomal albuterol to treat asthma and bronchitis.

The company's second-generation product focus in on utilizing LTI's proprietary Stealth liposomes to target IV oncologicals to tumors and to deliver therapeutic proteins and peptides.

BURLINGTON, VT (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Banknorth Group Inc. announced Wednesday the signing of a long-term facilities management agreement for its data processing needs with Systematics Inc. of Little Rock, Ark.

The agreement, which will take effect Sept. 1, 1990, calls for Systematics to install common systems in each of the five Banknorth Group banks in Vermont and to operate the company's facilities in Williston and Rutland, according to Thomas J. Pruitt, executive vice president and chief financial officer.

''Banknorth will realize substantial reductions in data processing expense over the next several years after the initial expense of conversion,'' said Pruitt. ''The new common systems, which will be implemented in 1991, will enable the banks to offer enhanced customer services as well as affording us the opportunity to look for additional savings by streamlining our backroom operations. The data processing employees presently on staff will be employed by Systematics, making this an opportunity for everyone concerned. Of the more than 30 alternatives that were studied, the Systematics proposal offered the most benefits to the company, its employees and the banking customers we serve,'' he said.

Banknorth Group Inc., the largest commercial banking company in Vermont, was formed on Dec. 1, 1989 with merger of Banknorth Group Inc. and Howard Bancorp and is comprised of First Vermont Bank and Trust Co., Franklin Lamoille Bank, Granite Savings Bank and Trust Co., The Howard Bank N.A. and Woodstock National Bank.

Banknorth Group Inc. common stock is traded on the NASDAQ National Market system under the symbol BKNG. Information published prior to Dec. 1, 1989 does not relate to the new BKNG stock.

ALAMEDA, CA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Aquanautics Corp. (NASDAQ:AQNT) and ZapatA Industries Inc. Wednesday announced the completion of a full-scale manufacturing system for the commercial production of SmartCap oxygen barrier bottle closures.

SmartCap closures, which impede oxygen from spoiling the flavor of beer and other bottled beverages, will be available to brewers and beverage closure manufacturers before the end of the year.

''SmartCap crowns will preserve the crisp, fresh flavor of beer and other beverages and extend product shelf life longer than ordinary bottle closures,'' said N. Ross Buckenham, president and chief executive officer of Aquanautics Corp.

SmartCap crowns will initially be manufactured and assembled by ZapatA Industries Inc., (Muskogee, Okla.), a major supplier of bottle closures to leading U.S. and international brewers.

SmartCap crowns contain proprietary oxygen control compounds developed by Aquanautics Corp. Future SmartCap closures will absorb existing oxygen from the beverage itself in addition to actively blocking oxygen infiltration from outside the bottle.

Aquanautics Corp. is a specialty chemical company producing new oxygen control technologies. Aquanautics' proprietary synthetic oxygen-binding molecules can be structured into a variety of systems for extracting concentrating and/or eliminating oxygen.

The company is currently developing products and applications for food, medical, industrial and defense markets.

SmartCap Corp. is being formed as an Aquanautics and ZapatA owned joint venture company specializing in oxygen control closures and will market all products to beer and beverage processors and closure manufacturers worldwide.

NEW YORK (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - American International Group, Inc. (AIG) and International Lease Finance Corporation (ILFC) stated today that if all of the conditions to the merger between ILFC and a wholly-owned subsidiary of AIG are satisfied or waived on Friday August 31, 1990, including receipt by each party of a satisfactory tax opinion (a condition which will not be waived), the parties may decide to consummate the merger even if the Closing Price (as defined in the Merger Agreement) of AIG stock is below $66.45. Final determination with respect to the receipt of satisfactory tax opinions and the possible waiver of the parties' termination rights if the Closing Price of AIG stock is below $66.45 is expected to be made after the close of the market on Thursday August 30, 1990.

AIG is a leading international insurance organization and the largest underwriter of commercial and industrial insurance in the United States. Its member companies write insurance in more than 130 countries and jurisdictions, and are increasingly engaged in a range of other financial services. American International Group, Inc.'s common stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange, as well as the stock exchanges in London, Paris, and Tokyo.

As the world's premier independent owner and lessor of commercial jet transport, ILFC has built a portfolio of 98 advanced-technology jet aircraft averaging three years in age with an asset value exceeding $3 billion.

SALT LAKE CITY (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - The first half of 1990 was one of unpredictable turns of events for most of the mining industry, and Salt Lake City-based Alta Gold Co. (NASDAQ:ALTA) finished the six-month period of slumping gold prices and rising base metal prices with mixed results.

Dan S. Bushnell, chairman and chief executive officer, reported the company produced 47,261 ounces of gold through June 30, an increase of 15,770 ounces over the comparable period a year ago.

He also said the first production of base metal concentrates began in the second quarter from the Ward underground mine and the Taylor Mill, south of Ely, Nev. From April through June, the company produced 3 million pounds of payable zinc, 539,910 pounds of lead and 14,338 ounces of silver in zinc and lead concentrate form. The operation will begin shipping copper concentrate in the third quarter of 1990.

Revenues from the sales of gold, base metals and management fees earned from managing joint venture operations during the first half of the year were $21,163,000 compared to $17,775,000 in the first six months of 1989. The company had a six-month net loss of $2,431,000, or 9 cents per share compared to net income for the same period in 1989 of $215,000.

Bushnell reported that the company's cash production costs for gold decreased from an average of $379 per ounce of gold in the first quarter to approximately $287 per ounce in the second quarter, thus most of the net loss for the first six months occurred during difficult start-up conditions in the first quarter. The improvement in the second quarter's operations was partially offset by a severe drop in gold prices.

The company implemented major cost-cutting measures late in the second quarter, such as reducing the work force by 230 people and curtailing mining operations at some of the company's low-grade ore deposits.

Even though the direct expenses relating to the cost reduction program occurred in the second quarter of 1990, the benefits will be recognized during subsequent quarters. For instance, in July, the cash production cost at the Robinson operation decreased to $248 per ounce compared with a first quarter average cost of more than $400 per ounce.

Also, during the second quarter, Bushnell said the company took advantage of depressed gold prices and income from forward gold sales to reduce bank indebtedness by 33 percent, from $31,250,000 to $21 million. Working capital increased by $4,260,727 during the first six months of 1990, however the increase was absorbed in inventories. Current liabilities increased $1.7 million during the same period creating pressure on the company's short-term cash flow.

WESTFORD, MA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Concurrent Computer Corporation and Mercury Computer Systems, Inc. jointly announced the availability of Mercury's vector processor module, the VA2, as an option for Concurrent's 6000 and 8000 real-time UNIX systems. The VA2 will be distributed by Concurrent.

The VA2 is a high-performance, single-slot attached processor, based on Intel's 40 MHz i860 microprocessor. The VA2 performs 32- and 64-bit floating-point, vector/scalar computations at up to 40 MIPS/80 MFLOPS, bringing enormous power to compute-intensive applications. Software features include multiprocessing, multitasking, custom libraries, and a complete software development environment. Hardware features include up to 16 Mbytes of memory and an open architecture bus with direct access to the i860 microprocessor for high speed I/O.

''Mercury was selected for the VA2 project not only on the basis of technical superiority, but also for its long track record of achievements. Since 1983, Mercury has been a dominant player in the board level application accelerator market; at $25 million in sales, Mercury is the market leader in attached vector processing subsystems,'' said Stephen A. Schuster, Concurrent's product marketing manager for real-time systems.

Jay Bertelli, president of Mercury Computer Systems, Inc. added, ''Mercury is pleased to be working with Concurrent on this project; we share a common interest in terms of the markets we serve and the applications we understand and support. We believe our efforts will complement those of Concurrent and allow Concurrent's users to attain new levels of speed and performance.''

''The combination of a high-performance vector engine and Concurrent's real-time UNIX platforms is an ideal solution to many of the complex problems we encounter in data acquisition, image processing and simulation applications. We can achieve extremely high throughput with these systems, while operating in a highly predictable, standards-based environment,'' said Henk Schalke, vice president and general manager of Concurrent's Small Systems Division.

Concurrent expects the VA2 to be available in September 1990; prices start at $19,100.

Mercury Computer Systems, Inc., based in Lowell, Massachusetts, develops and produces high-performance embedded and attached computer systems for compute and I/O intensive applications. Mercury's systems dramatically enhance floating-point performance in signal processing and analysis, simulation/training, medical imaging, and seismic analysis applications. Named No. 16 on the 1989 INC. 500 list of America's fastest growing private companies, Mercury is supported by an active and growing customer base, with more than 6,500 systems installed worldwide.

Concurrent Computer Corp., headquartered in Tinton Falls, New Jersey, is the leading supplier of high-performance, real-time computer systems worldwide. The company's products, marketing through the Commercial Markets, Simulation/Training and Real-Time Technical Systems Groups, provide real-time solutions to the financial, communications, public sector, technical, aerospace and simulation markets. Its common stock (CCUR) is traded on the NASDAQ National Market Systems.

ROCKVILLE, MD (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - The GEnie service, one of the leading online information services, has announced the introduction, effective Oct. 1, 1990, of a flat subscription rate of just $4.95 (U.S.) per month including unlimited, non-prime time access to more than 100 products and services.

This new monthly rate will make it possible for GEnie service subscribers -- and members of their families -- to access a wide variety of popular products and services on the GEnie service without the concern of running up costly fees each month as a result of hourly access rates.

In making the announcement, Bill Louden, general manager of the GEnie service, said, ''Our market research told us that the number one thing our subscribers wanted in an online information service was a flat monthly rate for accessing a wide variety of products and services.

''As a result, we will be launching, effective Oct. 1, 1990, our GEnie Star-Services with a subscription rate of only $4.95 per month,'' said Louden. ''Our new pricing structure on GEnie is similar to the concept of Cable TV where viewers pay a monthly rate for unlimited access to basic services, and an additional cost for value added services,'' he explained.

''With this new flat monthly rate for non-prime time access to over 100 of the GEnie service features, the online costs of many GEnie service subscribers could be reduced,'' added Louden.

The rate for U.S. access to those GEnie service products/services not covered under the flat monthly rate has been set at just $6 per hour during non-prime time for all three access speeds (300, 1200 and 2400 baud). This is a $4 per hour reduction in the current 2400 baud non-prime time rate. The prime time rate remains at $18 per hour for all three access speeds.

Since more than 60 percent of the 209,000 subscribers on the GEnie service have 2400 baud modems, this lower non-prime time rate of only $6/hour for 2400 baud access also will result in faster, more cost-effective software downloads on the GEnie service, which has more than 85,000 files available for downloading.

To access the GEnie Star-Services in Canada, the monthly subscription rate is $5.95 (Canadian), with a non-prime time rate of $8 (Canadian) per hour for all three access speeds. Prime time rate is $25.00 (Canadian) per hour for all three access speeds.

The $29.95 sign-up fee for the GEnie service also has been eliminated for all new subscribers effective immediately. As a result, there is no real cost to subscribe to the GEnie service, except for the first month subscription rate of $4.95.

After trying the GEnie Star-Services for the first month, if a subscriber does not like it, he/she can cancel his/her membership and the GEnie service will refund the $4.95 subscription fee to them. (This offer applies only to first time new subscribers to the GEnie service, once per household.)

''We feel this new monthly rate for non-prime access to GEnie will be eagerly accepted by many of our subscribers as they will no longer have to watch the clock when they are using the GEnie Star-Services,'' said Louden.

''The GEnie service will now provide its U.S. and Canadian subscribers with the most extensive and cost-effective package of online services available today for a flat monthly rate,'' remarked Louden. ''GEnie's original motto of 'Stay Online Longer for Less' is even more appropriate now with the introduction of this flat monthly rate,'' he remarked.

First operational in 1985, the GEnie service is one of the fastest growing online information services with more than 209,000 individual subscribers. Available throughout the U.S. and Canada, the GEnie service also can be accessed in Japan, West Germany, Austria and Switzerland.

NEW YORK (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Information Management Technologies Corp. (''IMTECH'') (NASDAQ:IMTKA (common), IMTKU (units), IMTKW (warrants)) Wednesday announced that its wholly-owned subsidiary, IMTECH Optical Systems and TurningPoint Systems Inc. have signed a joint distribution agreement.

TurningPoint Systems Inc., a national IBM business partner, provides quality software and services to wholesalers/distributors in a wide range of industries that require specialized distribution techniques, management and control.

Under the terms of the agreements, TurningPoint will offer IMTECH Optical Systems' PC-based optical data storage product ''COINS'' (Computer Output INformation System) in their product line. COINS allows computer output to be stored, retrieved, and viewed or printed, eliminating the need for paper copies, computer output microfilm or expensive magnetic storage. IMTECH expects this agreement to begin to generate revenues during the second quarter which ends September 30, 1990.

Pierce Lowrey, chief executive officer of IMTECH commented, ''Our agreement with TurningPoint will enable COINS to further penetrate the wholesale/distribution market which is a key element in our aggressive COINS marketing program. COINS is currently installed in the government, distribution, banking, finance, hospitality, health care, transportation and manufacturing industries.''

Paul Cissel, chief operating officer of TurningPoint commented, ''We believe that business relationships, such as our agreement with IMTECH, will benefit our customers by extending the scope of our product offerings which enables us to develop targeted solutions to their distribution systems needs.''

IMTECH provides on-site and off-site ''outsourcing''of a wide range of back office services to firms in the services sector. These services include an optical data storage system -- Computer Output INformation System (COINS), electronic publishing, fulfillment, printing, reproduction and general mail room operations.

IMTECH's information facilities management (''IFM'') capabilities provide companies with the ability to contract out ancillary services to reduce operating costs and improve productivity, thereby allowing management to focus on its primary corporate objectives.

CINCINNATI (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - The United States Shoe Corp. today reported results of operations for the fiscal second quarter ended Aug. 4, 1990.

Consolidated net sales totaled $671,442,000 compared to $583,247,000 in the second quarter of 1989, an increase of 15 percent. Net earnings were $1,855,000, a decrease of 29 percent from $2,613,000 in the same period a year ago. Earnings per share were 4 cents compared to 6 cents in the second quarter of 1989.

For the six months ended Aug. 4, U.S. Shoe had consolidated net sales of $1,338,177,000, up 16 percent from $1,152,190,000 in the first half of 1989. The company reported net earnings of $19,285,000, an increase of 149 percent from $7,754,000 in the same period last year. Earnings per share amounted to 43 cents compared to 17 cents in the first half of 1989.

Improved second quarter earnings in the Women's Apparel Retailing Group and Footwear Group were more than offset by lower earnings at the LensCrafters Optical Retailing Group. The strong improvement in earnings for the first half reflects the company's record first quarter earnings, where improvements were registered in each of the company's three major business groups, and good second quarter performances by the Women's Apparel Retailing and Footwear Groups.

Second quarter sales in the Women's Apparel Retailing Group increased 17 percent compared to the same period in 1989. Comparable store sales were up 17 percent over last year. Operating earnings of $531,000 reflect the typical seasonality of women's apparel retailing, but represent improvement over a loss of $174,000 in the second quarter last year.

In general, the women's apparel retailing divisions enjoyed strong comparable store sales increases in the quarter, with Casual Corner continuing its consistent earnings improvement trend and Peitie Sophisticate maintaining a strong performance. Casual Corner and Petite Sophisticate together account for about 70 percent of the group's sales. Casual Corner has now registered operating earnings improvements for seven consecutive quarters. Ups 'N Downs recorded losses in the quarter that exceeded its second quarter losses a year ago.

In the LensCrafters Optical Retailing Group, second quarter sales increased 13 percent, although comparable store sales were about even vs. a year ago. Operating earnings for the quarter declined 55 percent compared to the second quarter of 1989. LensCrafters operated 388 optical superstores in the United States and Canada at the end of the second quarter, compared to 305 at the same time last year.

UPPER SADDLE RIVER, NJ (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Western Union Corp. Wednesday introduced LANAccess, a software package that provides LAN E-Mail applications and productivity applications with a gateway to the rich capabilities of Western Union's EasyLink messaging services.

Steven Graham, vice president - Marketing for Western Union's Business Services unit, said, ''Now local area network users will have easy access to wide area communications with business partners. The integration of a local LAN Mail product with LANAccess's off-net E-Mail capabilities presents businesses with an unparalleled breadth of communications reach.''

The introduction of LANAccess supports the trend toward linking local area networks to wide area networks. Western Union's LAN gateway opens the entire business world to LAN users. With LANAccess, workstation users may send E-Mail, EDI documents, word-processing files and binary files such as spreadsheet files, and receive notification of delivery.

Users also may access EasyLink's FYI News (SM) and InfoMaster (R) services to retrieve information on a broad array of topics, including current events, business news, stock quotes and travel.

For the LAN administrator, LANAccess provides numerous time and cost savings via the following features: automated inbound message routing; database directory of communication partners; ability to schedule transmissions at selected time intervals, and chronological log of communications for easy tracking.

LANAccess maximizes the capabilities of Message Handling Service (MHS), the standard adopted by leading LAN E-Mail vendors, and works with popular MHS-supported products such as WordPerfect Office, DaVinci E-Mail, cc:Mail and Higgins Mail. The LANAccess interface is completely transparent to the LAN E-Mail user and allows a Western Union message recipient to be selected in the same manner as a local recipient is selected from the LAN Mail address list.

LANAccess also enables users to communicate from their LAN PC stations to business partners who do not have electronic technology in place. This is accomplished through the ability to send messages for paper-based delivery via fax, cablegram and Western Union's Mailgram (R) and Priority Letter (SM) services.

In addition to the MHS gateway component of LANAccess, interactive communications is available for real-time utilization of Western Union's online services such as interactive telex, FYI News and InfoMaster database services.

LANAccess provides many economies to LAN users. Through PC technology, an industry-first multichanneling feature is provided, which permits up to four simultaneous communications sessions per one modem, maximizing modem capabilities. LANAccess is expected to sell for about $1,000.

The product will be available through Western Union's national sales force or through the Company's telemarketing center. For more information, contact Western Union OfficeAccess Marketing at 1-800-988-5000.

Western Union Corp. provides a broad range of messaging, financial and other services, both domestically and internationally, to meet specific needs of business customers and individual consumers. The company is the leading provider of public electronic mail services, which enable its business customers to reach more than seven million electronic mail, fax and telex users worldwide.

CARLSTADT, NJ (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Trilling Medical Technologies Wednesday announced that it has filed a patent application on the Water-Jel Fire Robe, a product that significantly increases the ease with which rescuers can maneuver in multiple-rescue fire emergencies.

Designed with a protective hood and glove-like handgrips, the Fire Robe is saturated with the same fire resistant gel used in other Trilling products. The result is a product specially designed to protect both rescuer and victim from intense heat, smoke and flames. Commenting on the patent pending status of the Fire Robe application Trilling President Peter Cohen stated, ''We believe the Fire Robe's singular capabilities make it a perfect candidate for patent protection.''

''The Fire Robe also represents the thrid Water-Jel product Trilling has introduced, and we expect it will broaden our marketplace considerably,'' continued Cohen. ''Its unique construction complements our existing line of Sterile Burn Dressings and Fire Blankets.''

Cohen announced that Trilling has begun manufacturing and marketing the Fire Robe both domestically and abroad. The international market for this product is particularly large since fire departments overseas are often not equipped with the same quality protective gear found in the United States. The product has already been introduced to the Israeli market, where it has been mandated for use throughout the public transit and school systems.

Additional orders have also been placed by companies in France, Norway and Egypt. The target market for the Water-Jel Fire Robe includes disaster relief centers and fire departments.

Water-Jel gel is made from natural plant oils and powders that are very effective for burn first aid. When applied to a victim, Water-Jel extinguishes fire, cools the wound and eases pain. Water-Jel Sterile Burn Dressings and Fire Blankets, which come in various sizes, are currently sold to industrial and manufacturing companies, the military, fire and police departments and rescue squads. The Burn Dressings will be available to consumers through a licensing agreement with Pfizer Inc.

New products currently in development include a Water-Jel Sterile Face Mask for facial burn first aid and a sunburn cream.

Trilling's common shares are traded with the symbol BURN; the Class A Warrants are BURNZ and Class B warrants are BURNW.

WAYLAND, MASS. (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Candela Laseer Corp. (CLZR) Wednesday announced a ''hat trick''...three grants in three months.

It has received a grant from the National Institutes of Health, under the Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) program. The grant, valued at $50,000, brings the total SBIR grants to Candela to more than $3 million.

Candela will develop and evaluate, with the National Institute of Dental Research, a pulsed laser system for endodontic therapy base on a specific laser/tissue interaction. The system will remove diseased pulp and dentin, prepare a root canal and create a hermetic laser-fused apical seal within a tooth.

This new system will allow endodontists to complete a rapid, definitive, minimally invasive root canal procedure. The work will be conducted in collaboration with Drs. Israel Bender, Louis Rossman, and Scott Bram at the Albert Einstein Medical Center in Philadelphia, Penn.

The procedure has the potential to enhance patient comfort and reduce ''chair time.'' More than 25 million root canal procedures are performed each year in the U.S.A.

The total cost of this project is estimated at $50,000, of which the Federal program is contributing 100 percent.

Commenting on the SBIR grant, Dr. Michael Lesiecki of Candela said, ''The SBIR program has made a significant contribution to Candela's success. It has fostered new and unique concepts, as well as specific applications and products that are in the forefront of medical technology. For example, the Candela LaserTripter, cleared for biliary as well as urinary stone treatment, has been used in more than 15,000 procedures. Candela's dermatology systems have proven themselves with more than 50,000 patients procedures.''

NORTHRIDGE, CA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Jerry Fraschilla, president of Pacific Southwest Corp. (NASDAQ:PSWC), a financial services and real estate concern, said Wednesday that he expects the company to report earnings in the range of $.25 to $.30 per share on record revenue of approximately $5.5 million for the fiscal year ended July 31, 1990.

Fraschilla attributed these anticipated results primarily to the strong performance of the company's marketable securities portfolio and the receipt of payment on certain notes receivable in the fourth quarter. He said that audited fiscal 1990 results will be available in about 60 days.

''Based on the steadily improving performance of the company's mortgage banking operations, and encouraging developments in Pacific Southwest's other businesses, we currently expect net earnings to at least double on substantially higher revenue in fiscal 1991,''Fraschilla added.

For fiscal 1989 ended July 31, 1989, Pacific Southwest reported a net loss of $71,000, or $.04 per share, on revenue of $2,824,000. For the first nine months of fiscal 1990 ended April 30, 1990, the net loss was $111,000 or $.04 per share, on revenue of $3,178,000.

Fraschilla also announced that Pacific Southwest's common stock has been listed for trading on the National Association of Securities Dealers Automated Quotation (NASDAQ) system under the symbol PSWC effective today. ''In addition to improving liquidity and stimulating trading volume in our stock, the NASDAQ listing will enhance the company's visibility within the financial community as we embark on a significant expansion program,''

he said.

Fraschilla noted that on Aug. 10, the board of directors declared a 10 percent stock dividend payable on Oct. 31, 1990 to shareholders of record on Sept. 30, 1990. He said, ''This 10 percent stock dividend, like the 25 percent stock dividend paid to our shareholders on February 28, 1990, is a tangible expression of the board's confidence in the company's future as we pursue the strategy of complementing internal growth with strategic asset acquisitions.'' The stock dividend will raise the number of common shares outstanding to approximately 3,550,000.

A financial services and real estate company founded in 1980, Pacific Southwest Corp. is dedicated to achieving growth of shareholders' equity through the identification and accumulation of real estate and other assets on favorable terms.

HAARLEM, THE NETHERLANDS (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - VNU, a leading international publishing group based in The Netherlands, Wednesday reported that net earnings for the first half of 1990 amounted to Dfl 78 million ($42 million(a)), approximately the same level as reported for the first half of last year.

Operating income plus VNU's share of income from non-consolidated subsidiaries decreased by 3.5 percent to Dfl 112 million ($60 million). Revenues rose by 5.5 percent, to Dfl 1,250 million ($665 million).

In the field of consumer information, operating income of the Magazine Group in The Netherlands increased significantly, due largely to the success of the reorganization of these activities over the past several years.

Circulation developed favorably. In spite of the expansion of television advertising, the decline in print advertising revenues was limited.

In Belgium, however, operating income remained under significant pressure due to a further decline in advertising revenue. Though the introduction of commercial television in 1989 has had a pronounced negative effect on print advertising, there are signs that the worst is now over.

The decline in operating income has been partially offset by the contribution of VTM (Vlaamse Televisie Maatschappij), Belgium's commercial television station, in which VNU holds an interest. Measures will soon be taken to structurally improve the market position of VNU's Belgian consumer magazines.

As a result of the growth in circulation, operating income of the Sales Group was higher.

VNU (United Dutch Publishers), is Holland's largest publisher of consumer magazines, newspapers and trade magazines, with fully integrated publishing, printing and distribution arms. VNU is also active in a broad range of international business information services and has interests in educational publishing.

VNU's shares trade on the Amsterdam Stock Exchange and in ADR form in the United States. Prices may be accessed on the Reuters Equities 2000 service under the symbol VNUS.AS and on Quotron under the symbol VNUN.EU.

CINCINNATI (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - The United States Shoe Corp. today announced that in the fiscal fourth quarter LensCrafters will open several optical superstores in the United Kingdom.

The expansion reflects the company's confidence in the long-term potential for LensCrafters, despite the recent optical market softness in the United States. The United Kingdom store openings are included in the company's 1990 capital plan, which was finalized earlier this year.

The $720 million optical market in the United Kingdom represents a significant opportunity for LensCrafters because the country has relatively few optical superstores, and it is a logical entry point to the larger Western European optical market, estimated at approximately $6 billion, where trade barriers will be lifted in 1992. LensCrafters estimates that it could open as many as 100 stores in the United Kingdom within the next five to seven years.

LensCrafters' entry into the United Kindgom follows its successful market penetration in Canada, where it is now the country's largest optical superstore chain. LensCrafters entered the market in 1988, and is now operating 23 superstores in Canada, including the province of Quebec. LensCrafters plans to open an additional 10 units in Canada by the end of the fiscal year. LensCrafters' Canadian experience is indicative of the chain's potential in overseas markets, because the Canadian stores have matured similarly to stores in the United States.

''We are very confident that LensCrafters will build a strong operation in the United Kingdom, and eventually in other countries in the European Community, as it has done in the United States and Canada,'' said Bannus B. Hudson, president and chief executive officer. ''We also see an opportunity to develop the market by increasing per capita spending on eyewear and shortening the purchasing cycle, because consumers in the UK currently don't view eyewear as a fashion accessory to the extent that American consumers do.''

LensCrafters is in the process of assembling its UK management team, which ultimately will be composed of UK nationals. The UK division will report to William Zeeb, vice president, international, who has directed LensCrafters' entry and subsequent expansion in Canada. Zeeb joined LensCrafters in 1984 after eight years of experience in marketing at Procter & Gamble. He became LensCrafters' vice president of marketing in 1986, and was selected to manage international operations in 1987.

As in the United States and Canada, the UK superstores will be wholly owned by LensCrafters. Eye examinations in the UK superstores will be provided by local optometrists employed by LensCrafters. The London office of Young & Rubicam will handle advertising for the UK division.

LensCrafters, with 370 stores in the United States, is the nation's largest operator of optical superstores. LensCrafters superstores offer complete optical services and provide customers custom-crafted eyeglasses in about one hour.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - AT&T customers will receive special long-distance discounts this Friday to kick off the Labor Day weekend in the final event of the company's ''Talk About a Summer Time'' promotion.

AT&T said Wednesday its customers can make direct-dialed out-of-state calls for just 11 cents per minute between 5 p.m. and 11 p.m. Friday, Aug. 31.

During that time, a 10-minute direct-dialed call, to any other state in the country regardless of distance, will cost only $1.10. The special prices will be an average 24 percent savings off AT&T's already reduced evening prices.

AT&T's ''Talk About a Summer Time'' promotion began when the company kicked off the Memorial Day weekend with special low prices the evening of May 25. AT&T customers also received special prices July 3 and 5 and Aug. 4.

On Aug. 24, the company offered special prices as well as a sweepstakes. AT&T said it offered these events to thank its customers for their loyalty.

The company noted that Friday will kick off a holiday weekend that will give consumers several opportunities to save on long-distance. AT&T's night/weekend prices will be in effect from 11 p.m. on Friday until 5 p.m. on Sunday. The company's holiday prices will be in effect on Labor Day.

AT&T said customers of its Reach Out(R) America calling plans who get discounts on evening calls will receive those discounts off the 11-cents-per-minute price between 5 p.m. and 10 p.m. Friday.

AT&T noted that long-distance prices throughout the industry have dropped approximately 40 percent in the last six years. On average, the price difference among the major long-distance companies is about 5 percent, which may amount to pennies per call for an average long-distance customer.

The 11-cents-per-minute special on Friday evening does not apply to in-state or international calls.

RICHMOND, VA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - James River Corp. (NYSE: JR) reported improved operating performance for its first fiscal quarter which ended July 29, 1990.

Net sales were $1.4 billion, which was slightly below the prior year as a result of divestitures made in April 1990. Excluding charges related to a major restructuring program which was announced at the company's Annual Meeting of Shareholders on Aug. 16, results for the quarter were $59 million, or 65 cents per share compared to $57 million, or 64 cents per share last year.

Including these restructuring charges of $144 million after taxes, the first quarter loss was $85 million, or $1.11 per share.

For the quarter, the company's consumer products businesses performed well. The Towel and Tissue Business results increased significantly based on improved manufacturing performance, and those for the Dixie Products Business matched last year's strong first quarter performance.

In addition, the Food and Consumer Packaging Group reported increases over last year as Flexible Packaging experienced pricing improvements and Paperboard Packaging continued to enjoy steady demand.

The Specialty Papers Business also reported improved earnings as volume increased in many of its markets and pulp prices declined. The Communication Papers Business showed a decline in earnings primarily related to uncoated free sheet pricing which, although improving, continued to lag the prior year.

Volume, however, in all communications grades improved. The quarter was adversely affected by a decline in reported earnings related to the Company's investment in the Aracruz pulp mill in Brazil.

The objectives of the aforementioned restructuring program are to focus the Company's resources and management, to reduce cyclicality, to improve financial flexibility, and as a result, to enhance shareholder value through a higher return on equity. Toward this end, the Company plans to divest or phase out certain operations.

These include the Specialty Industrial Papers Business, the eastern Business Papers and western coated printing papers operations, as well as two towel and tissue mills. In addition, the Company will reduce its ownership of the Marathon, Ontario pulp mill from 80 percent to 50 percent.

SANTA CLARA, CA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Calera Recognition Systems Wednesday announced that IBM Corp. will market selected Calera optical character recognition (OCR) products through the IBM Cooperative Hardware Marketing Program.

Beginning immediately, IBM's U.S. marketing force will sell Calera products to customers requiring document recognition solutions. The Calera products will be marketed as ''Advanced Function Scanning'' in conjunction with the IBM ''Advanced Function Printing'' program.

Through the ''Advanced Function Scanning'' program, IBM will target Calera OCR products at a wide array of applications including desktop publishing, spreadsheet, word processing, full text database and facsimile. Specific uses range from republishing technical manuals to consolidating forecasts and budgets into a spreadsheet to storing resumes for later searches in a full text database.

IBM also plans to market the scanning and OCR solution to users of fax machines that need to instantly republish financial information or to law offices that need to quickly edit contracts. Calera systems will link to CALS compliant initiatives previously announced by IBM and targeted at Federal Agency publishing applications.

''We're pleased that IBM has chosen Calera as a means to provide its customers with high-quality document recognition solutions,'' said Steve Hayden, president and chief executive officer of Calera Recognition Systems. ''This agreement supports our belief that OCR has become a key component of today's computing environment and will continue to be integrated into a wide range of commercial and professional application environments.''

Products covered in the agreement include the CDP 6000 and CDP 9000, Calera's compound document processors, which provide high-volume scanning and recognition capabilities for production applications; TopScan Professional, sophisticated OCR software designed to work under Microsoft Windows with either the CDP product line or leading desktop scanners'; and TrueScan, an easy-to-use OCR board and software combination for IBM Personal Computer/AT and IBM PS/2 users preferring a non-Windows environment.

Founded in 1982 as The Palantir Corp., Calera Recognition Systems is the leading manufacturer of document recognition systems and scanners for use in the office environment. From the beginning the company has focused its attention on developing the highest performance document recognition technology for uses ranging from desktop to large systems applications.

DALLAS (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Skylink America Inc. (NASDAQ:SKAI) Wednesday announced its results of operations for the first quarter ended July 31.

The company reported the following results of operations:

	Three Months Ended July 31,
	1990	1989
Revenues	$ 3,223,911	$ 1,433,174
Net loss	131,320	520,743
Loss per share	4 cents	15 cents

Financial results for the first quarter of the prior fiscal year included only one month of revenues and expenses from the acquisition of two free-to-guest programming businesses which have been included in the company's results of operations since July 1, 1989.

The first quarter of the current fiscal year included depreciation and amortization expense of approximately $371,000 and a tax benefit of approximately $64,000.

Interest expense, which amounted to approximately $148,000 in the first quarter of the current fiscal year as compared to approximately $10,000 in the same period in the prior year, increased as a result of additional indebtedness incurred in connection with the acquisition of two free-to-guest businesses.

Edward R. McMurphy, president of Skylink America, stated, ''We are pleased with the direction the company is heading and the improved financial results over prior quarters. A substantial portion of the improvement stems from consolidating the company's free-to-guest operations previously located in Cherry Hill, N.J., to the company's corporate headquarters in Dallas, Texas, thereby reducing duplicate facilities and personnel.''

Skylink is engaged in the business of providing free-to-guest and pay-per-view programming services and equipment, as well as developing, operating and selling cable systems.

PEORIA, IL (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - AT&T Wednesday announced that Caterpillar Inc. has awarded it a five-year, $25 million contract to provide a worldwide custom communications network.

Under the agreement, AT&T's voice and data network services will link more than 100 domestic and international Caterpillar locations, including manufacturing plants, a network of Caterpillar dealerships, marketing offices and distribution centers.

The contract covers virtually all of Caterpillar's interstate and international long-distance services, including new satellite communication services to Hong Kong, Singapore, Japan and Australia. ''Caterpillar is now well positioned to take full advantage of the cost efficiencies and service flexibility AT&T offers through its custom network services,'' said Kathy Mock, telecommunications network manager for Caterpillar.

Mock estimated that Caterpillar will save more than $15 million in communications expenses over the life of the contract. In addition, she noted that the company will have the flexibility to add new locations and technologies to the network at any time.

AT&T will provide Caterpillar with state-of-the-art network management services to monitor the performance of the network and handle network maintenance.

PROVIDENCE, RI (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - AT&T Wednesday announced that Textron Inc., has chosen the company to provide a variety of custom network services to its locations around the country.

AT&T and Textron said the contract will cover a period of three years. AT&T will provide inbound and outbound voice and data communications services to more than 500 Textron locations in 40 states.

Bob Grant, Textron's director of corporate telecommunications, said the contract will save Textron about $2.5 million in annual communications costs.

''Beyond the annual savings, this contract with AT&T will help to stabilize our communications costs over the next three years,'' Grant said. ''That, in addition to the quality and service associated with AT&T will greatly benefit our corporate planning process.''

''We are very pleased that Textron has chosen AT&T to provide its voice and data communications network,'' said Glenn Swift, AT&T national account sales vice president in Lexington, Mass. STAMFORD, CT (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - The board of directors of Northeast Bancorp Inc., Wednesday adopted a shareholder protection rights plan and declared a dividend of one right on each outstanding share of its common stock and non-voting convertible common stock.

The dividend will be paid on Sept. 11, 1990 to stockholders of record on Sept. 10, 1990.

The rights plan was not adopted in response to any specific effort to acquire control of Northeast Bancorp. Rather, it was adopted to deter abusive takeover tatics that can be used to deprive stockholders of the full value of their investment.

Until any person or group acquires a number of shares of common stock or non-voting common stock equal, in the aggregate, to the number of shares of common stock constituting 10 percent or more of the outstanding common stock (an ''Acquiring Person'') or commences a tender offer which, if consummated, would result in such person or group becoming an Acquiring Person, the rights will be evidenced by the common stock certificates, will automatically trade with the common stock and will not be exercisable.

Thereafter, separate rights certificates will be distributed and each right will entitle its holder to purchase one-half share of common stock or non-voting common stock for an exercise price based upon $80.00 per full share.

If any person or group becomes an Acquiring Person, each Right, to the extent permitted by applicable law, (other than Rights beneficially owned by the Acquiring Person or transferee thereof, which rights become void), will entitle its holder to purchase, for the exercise price, a number of shares of common stock or non-voting stock having a market value of twice the exercise price. Also, if Northeast Bancorp is involved in a merger or sells more than 50 percent of its assets earning power or is involved with an Acquiring Person in certain ''self-dealing'' transactions, each Right will entitle its holder to purchase, for the exercise price, a number of shares of common stock of the acquiring company having a market value of twice the exercise price.

Prior to the time any Acquiring Person beneficially owns 50 percent or more of Northeast Bancorp's common stock, Northeast Bancorp's

STAVANGER, NORWAY (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - BP Exploration and Statoil, the national oil company of Norway, Wednesday announced that they are developing plans for significant collaboration in international exploration, gas supply and technical research.

The companies said they had signed an agreement to examine the scope for commercial cooperation in:

--the use of existing and new North Sea infrastructure to transport UK and Norwegian gas to markets in the UK and Europe, and joint marketing of gas in the UK.

--a joint technical research programme to support the international exploration and development drive

--joint international oil and gas exploration and development, focusing on opportunities in West Africa, offshore China and Vietnam, and the USSR..

The companies said it would take three or four months to decide how best to establish joint ventures in each activity. Projects arising from these initiatives would be run jointly, with staff seconded from both companies.

Robert Horton, BP chairman and chief executive officer, welcomed the announcement as ''a strengthening of the development of wider European cooperation by two of Europe's major energy suppliers.''

Commenting on the business scope, BP Exploration Chief Executive Officer John Browne said, ''This agreement reflects a strong desire for cooperation between ourselves and Statoil in a number of important areas. Each segment stands in its own right, but we intend to pursue them simultaneously.

Harald Norvik, Statoil president and chief executive officer, expressed that ''for Statoil these agreements establish an important strategic platform to further development of our international activities.''

The joint research programme would involve spending up to $20 million a year, shared equally between BP and Statoil. Activities would be jointly staffed and based predominantly in Norway.

CAMBRIDGE, MA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Lotus Development Corp. Wednesday announced it is expanding its existing sales, support and marketing efforts for Lotus Notes with the addition of the Lotus Notes Alliance Partner Program.

Currently comprising more than 20 business partners, the program provides products and services that add significant value to Lotus Notes, a PC LAN-based group communication software product.

Lotus and the partners will work together as a team to coordinate sales, marketing, development, service and support activities. Some of the partners are focused primarily on implementing and deploying Lotus Notes custom business applications. Others are integrating their products with Notes. Lotus plans to add approximately 20 partners to the program in the next year.

''These partners will be a key factor in the growth of Notes in the marketplace,'' said Larry Moore, vice president of Lotus' Communications Products Division. ''The services and products they provide increase the applicability of Notes to a broader set of business problems. Also, these partners have many loyal customers who we hope will soon become Notes users.''

Chosen primarily for their thorough knowledge of local- and wide-area networking, client/server computing, and the operating system, hardware, and software platforms that run Lotus Notes, the systems integrators currently participating in the program include: Lante Corp., MicroSolutions, Phoenix Systems, EDS Corp.'s Technical Products Division, Valinor, NetCom Solutions, Simpact Associates, Distributed Systems Solutions International Inc. and Diversified Business Systems.

The product developers, chosen because their products are complementary to Notes, currently include: Reuters Information Services (''Reuters on Lotus Notes'', news and information distribution system); SandPoint (Hoover, active information agent); The WhiteWater Group (Actor, object-oriented programming system); Desktop Data (NewsEDGE, newswire processing); IMRS (OnTrack, executive information system); American Business Computer (EDI Excel, electronic data interchange extensions to Notes); ATEX Commercial Publishing Systems (work group publishing systems); Soft Switch (Soft Switch Central, enterprise messaging system); and Touch Communications (WorldTalk 400, electronic messaging gateway engine).

''Notes is an ideal platform for building large-scale, enterprise-wide business applications,'' said Mark Tebbe, president of Lante Corp. and an Alliance Partner. ''This program increases the number of companies providing quality business solutions for the Notes platform, and will broadly expand the capabilities of Notes with the addition of third-party products.''

''We knew right away that Lotus Notes would have significant benefits for all of MCI,'' said Notes customer Peter Olson, vice president of system planning at MCI Telecommunications. The question was how to quickly take advantage of the capabilities of the product, engineering its logical and physical deployment. MicroSolutions, a Notes Allliance Partner, has helped us do just that. In fact we have brought new applications on-line in days and weeks instead of months and years, while rapidly expanding the number of MCI employees able to access those applications.''

Voted this year's ''Best New Business Software Product'' by the Software Publisher's Association, Lotus Notes is an application development platform for group communications. It allows people to create and access shared information using personal computers and local- and wide-area networks. Some of the most popular types of Notes applications include electronic mail, information distribution, sales management, customer service and product development.

Currently being sold via a direct sales force throughout North America and Western Europe, Notes is available at a minimum of 200 licenses for $62,500, including five days of support services.

Lotus Development Corp. is the leading provider of applications software for personal computers and information services delivered on CD-ROM, and is a worldwide supplier of applications software for workstations, minicomputers and mainframes.

All prices and terms are for the U.S.A. only.

FRAMINGHAM, MA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Dennison Manufacturing Co. (NYSE:DSN) announced Wednesday that it has reached an agreement in principle on a proposed settlement in a purported class action suit, William Steiner v. Dennison Manufacturing, now pending in Massachusetts Superior Court.

Under the proposed settlement, Avery Dennison, the surviving parent corporation in Dennison's proposed merger with Avery International Corp. (NYSE:AVY), would pay a quarterly dividend of 20 cents per share for four consecutive quarters commencing with the first regular dividend declared after the merger closes, provided that such payment is not in violation of applicable law. Avery's current quarterly dividend is 16 cents per share.

The settlement is conditioned upon, among other things, an agreement between the parties as to a stipulation of settlement, the approval of the settlement by the court, and consummation of the merger between Dennison and Avery.

It is expected that the stipulation of settlement will expressly provide that all defendants have denied, and continue to deny, that they have committed any violations of law and that they are entering into the stipulation solely because the proposed settlement would eliminate the burden and expense of further litigation.

As previously announced, upon consummation of the merger of Avery and Dennison, Dennison shareholders will receive 1.12 shares of Avery Dennison common stock in exchange for each share of Dennison common stock. Consummation of the merger is conditioned upon requisite stockholder approval by both Avery and Dennison stockholders, as well as the satisfaction of certain other conditions, all as more fully described in the Joint Proxy Statement-Prospectus dated July 30, 1990.

Dennison is a diversified ''Fortune 500'' manufacturer serving worldwide markets for stationery and office supplies for use in business, school and home; printing systems and fastener products for identification and control; and package decoration systems and materials.

PHILADELPHIA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Legg Mason Inc. (NYSE:LM) and First Fidelity Bancorporation (NYSE:FFB) have reached an agreement whereby Legg Mason will acquire the Philadelphia-based mortgage banking company, Latimer & Buck, a wholly-owned subsidiary of First Fidelity Bancorporation.

The terms of the transaction were not disclosed.

Established in 1954, Latimer & Buck is the largest commercial mortgage organization in the Philadelphia and Baltimore areas, and is the exclusive regional correspondent for many of the premier life insurance company and pension fund investors.

Latimer & Buck's commercial loan servicing portfolio exceeds $3.1 billion and it manages, primarily for state pension funds, approximately $1.1 billion in commercial real estate and mortgage investment portfolios.

In addition to its Philadelphia and Baltimore locations, it has offices in Washington, Princeton, N.J., and Lancaster, Pa., and is a joint owner of a Florida-based commercial mortgage banking corporation.

Latimer & Buck will operate as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Legg Mason Inc.

In making the announcement, Raymond A. Mason, chairman and chief executive officer of Legg Mason Inc. said: ''This acquisition substantially increases our overall real estate capability. Latimer & Buck adds important fee-based revenues through its commercial mortgage servicing business, and provides a meaningful addition as well as a new direction for our investment advisory business.''

Mason said that M. Walter D'Alessio will continue as president and chief executive officer of Latimer & Buck, and it is expected that all current employees will remain with the company.

Closing of the transaction, which is subject to certain conditions, is anticipated to occur by the end of September.

Legg Mason Inc., headquartered in Baltimore, is a holding company which, through its subsidiaries, provides securities brokerage, investment advisory and investment banking services.

First Fidelity Bancorporation, with $29.8 billion in assets and 500 offices in New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania, is among the nation's 25 largest banking companies.

CLEVELAND (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - A product developed by a Cleveland company has received an award as one of the 100 most significant new technologies developed internationally during the past year.

Keithley Instruments received the award from Research & Development magazine for developing a new type of electronic measurement instrument called a Source-Measure Unit. The unit is significant because it uses unique electronic circuitry to allow engineers to source and measure current and voltage simultaneously.

The company has won an ''R & D-100'' award 11 times during the competition's 23-year history. The only other organization in Cleveland to have won the competition more than 11 times is NASA's Lewis Research Center.

The award will be presented to the company in ceremonies to be held next month in Chicago's Museum of Science & Industry. Thomas G. Brick, Keithley president and CEO, will accept the award on behalf of the company.

In addition, Keithley's technology will be displayed in the museum during October as part of an exhibit of R & D-100 winners.

Winners of the competition this year included a wide variety of technologies and spanned several continents, ranging from Atomic Energy of Canada to Eastman Kodak to Toshiba Corp. Winners were selected by a panel of technical experts assembled by the publication after reviewing company-submitted nomination forms.

Keithley Instruments Inc. is a leader in the design, manufacture and marketing of electronic test and measurement instrumentation and data acquisition and analysis hardware and software. Its products and systems are found throughout the world in universities, industrial research laboratories, engineering development departments, quality control areas and on production lines. Keithley's common shares are listed on the American Stock Exchange under the symbol KEI.

ATLANTA (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Deak International, the nation's leading foreign exchange operation, has been acquired by The Thomas Cook Group, which currently operates a network of more than 1,600 offices in 120 countries.

''We are excited about our association with The Thomas Cook Group,'' said Sue Holloway, vice president and Southeast area manager for Deak International. ''Becoming part of this international firm will further increase our clients' accessibility to our services worldwide.''

The Thomas Cook Group has acquired the entire North American retail network, including 72 branches in the United States and 38 in Canada. It has also acquired 20 Deak International branches in the United Kingdom and a single branch in New Zealand.

''This acquisition makes Thomas Cook the largest retail foreign exchange network in the world,'' said Peter Middleton, chief executive officer of The Thomas Cook Group. ''The Deak network, together with Thomas Cook's extensive travel presence in the United States and Canada, gives the group a very high retail profile in North America.''

Deak International's retail operations earned revenue of US $35 million and held assets of US $45 million at the end of the fiscal year on April 30. The operations had previously been owned by Jarden Morgan Ltd., a New Zealand-based financial services firm.

In addition to its retail and corporate foreign exchange services, Deak International is a major retailer of precious metals and traveler's checks. The company's North American retail headquarters is in Toronto.

NASHVILLE, TN (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Human Resources Inc. is volunteering a special service to Middle Tennessee businesses that have been impacted by the Persian Gulf crisis.

''Many area businesses employ military personnel who have been called to active duty in the Middle East, and this has put those companies in a difficult position,'' said Irwin B. Much, Human Resouces Inc. president. ''These employers are required to hold jobs for employees who have been called to service, but vacancies in the workforce can pose a significant handicap to a company.''

Human Resources Inc. would like to offer its assistance to these Middle Tennessee companies to help them through this difficult period, said Much.

''Human Resources Inc. will donate its services when filling any temporary vacancies caused by military personnel who have been called to active duty '' said Much. ''HRI will try to provide a comparably skilled 'temporary' replacement employee, and will bill the employer only for the wages paid to the temporary employee. HRI will make no profit and will charge no fees for this service.''

According to Much, this is a savings of approximately one-third for client companies.

''This is a time for the nation to pull together and work as a team,'' continued Much. ''This is our way of supporting ou local businesses and doing our part to keep Middle Tennessee running as smoothly as possible during this unsettling time.''

Human Resources Inc. is one of Middle Tennessee's largest employment services, and provides temporary, full-time and leased employees. The company is headquartered in Nashville and Murfreesboro and has additional offices in Franklin, Columbia, LaVergne, Tullahoma, McMinnville and Lewisburg.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Caterair International Corp. completed refinancing of its $244 million bridge loan, Daniel J. Altobello, chairman and CEO, announced Wednesday.

''We are pleased with how well the investors received the issue of our senior notes and subordinated debt,'' Altobello said. ''The terms, conditions and rates were quite favorable,'' he added.

''Much credit for the successful placement should be given,'' Altobello said, ''to Merrill Lynch Capital Markets.'' The Carlyle Group, a Washington D.C. merchant bank also acted as financial advisors to Caterair International. Hogan & Hartson, a Washington D.C. law firm, acted as outside legal counsel to the company.

Altobello also reported that projected sales for 1990 would be well in excess of 1989's record high of $880 million.

Caterair International was formed in December 1989 as the result of a management buyout of Marriott's airline catering division, In-Flite Services. It is the world's leading provider of airline meals, serving 400,000 daily to approximately 150 airlines through a total of 108 flight kitchens at 45 U.S. and 44 foreign airports. TUCSON, AZ (AUG. 29) BUSINESS WIRE - Sierra Tucson Companies Inc., (NASDAQ:STSN), Wednesday announced a change in expected financial performance for its German operations for 1990 which will result in less than expected earnings per share for the corporation.

The company cited higher initial operating costs and lower overall census as reasons for this change.

The inability to meet break-even expectations in Germany by the end of 1990 will result in an estimated 17 cents per share decrease in corporate earnings for 1990. Relative to Wall Street analysts' estimates (some as high as 26 cents per share for third quarter 1990 and 90 cents per share for fiscal year 1990), the company expects third quarter earnings per share of 14 cents and 1990 year-end earnings per share of 73 cents.

This estimate represents an 18 percent increase over 1989 earnings of 62 cents per share.

William T. O'Donnell Jr., president of Sierra Tucson, said, ''As Sierra Tucson moves into 1991, the opening of additional beds in late October of 1990 and a broadended psychiatric license for 125 of 253 facility beds, will continue to posture the company for increased growth.''

SEC - AMENDMENT NUMBER: 3

GROUP LED BY N. PELTZ OF WEST PALM BEACH, FL OWNS 50,939,181 SHARES (87.80%) OF AVERY INC (TICKER: AVRY) OF NEW YORK, NY.

ANNOUNCEMENT:

On July 23, 1990, N. Peltz proposed to Avery Inc. that they purchase the remaining shares of Avery Inc. for $.35 per share. In order to comply with the Investment Co. Act of 1940, Avery Inc., by Oct. 30, 1990, would either have to complete an acquisition of an operating business or sell its entire portfolio of securities and reinvest them in government securities. An acquisition was deemed unlikely due to limited resources and a sale of the portfolio would take a substantial loss. The board has appointed a special committee made up of all members except N. Peltz to examine the transaction and has appointed Stifel, Nicolaus & Co. Inc. as an independent financial advisor. On Aug. 6, 1990, Jules Levine, Harry Lewis, Joseph E. Kovacs and Coniglio & Towers Inc. brought a class action suit against Avery Inc. alleging that the proposed transaction is unfair to stockholders other than N. Peltz.

PURPOSE:

Acquisition of remaining shares of Avery Inc.

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA (AUG. 29) - Australian motorists will pay three to five Australian cents (2.5 to 4.1 U.S. cents) a litre more for their petrol from Wednesday by agreement of the national price watchdog, the Prices Surveillance Authority (PSA).

The PSA's decision to allow the maximum wholesale price to rise to 61.6 cents (51 U.S. cents) a litre was announced Wednesday at the end of the government's 21-day price freeze.

It takes the retail price to about 74 cents (61 U.S. cents) a litre, a jump of more than 11 cents (nine U.S. cents) since the Gulf crisis began, with another increase due in a fortnight.

The latest rise was was much less than that sought by the oil companies.

PSA chairman Allan Fels said a further rise of around two cents (1.7 U.S. cents) would probably be announced within two weeks, but would depend on movements on world oil market.

Mr. Fels said the PSA had rejected calls by oil companies for increases of between 10.6 cents (8.8 U.S. cents) and 12.3 cents (10.2 U.S. cents) per litre, based on movements in overseas petrol prices.

The world crude oil price has risen from 18 U.S. dollars to 29 dollars in the past month because of the Gulf crisis.

Mr. Fels said the PSA usually set Australian prices according to world petrol prices, but world prices had risen by significantly more than crude oil prices since the crisis began.

"The PSA does not consider that Australian motorists should have to pay higher prices on account of the rise in profit margins at overseas refineries," he said.

MANILA (AUG. 29) - The Philippines will push through with a program to simplify and lower tariffs by the end of the month unless congress acts to postpone the plan, a senior economic official said here Wednesday.

Ponciano Intal, deputy director general of the National Economic Development Authority (NEDA), said the program would help boost employment and increase efficiency in local industry.

The reform will simplify tariffs from the existing multi-level structure, ranging from zero to 50 percent, to a less complicated structure, ranging from three to 30 percent.

A group of 12 Philippine corporations and manufacturing associations asked the supreme court Wednesday to stop President Corazon Aquino from enforcing the new tariff rates, saying the country would be flooded with imported goods, prejudicing local industries, court officials said.

The group, led by the Chemical Industries of the Philippines, claimed the executive order was unconstitutional and was an "undue delegation of legislative power" from congress to the president.

The country's trade deficit rose to 1.873 billion dollars in the first semester of 1990, 62.7 percent higher than in the same period last year, but government officials say tariff reform will bring long-term benefits.

Mr. Intal said manufacturing industries, which have long enjoyed government protection, were not absorbing enough workers and were too capital intensive and inefficient.

He said the proposed tariff reform would increase efficiency in labour intensive industries such as agriculture, livestock, fishing, meat processing, transport, construction, power generation, iron and steel, oil and paper.

The Philippines source of cheap labour means the country enjoys a "comparative advantage" in such industries, he said.

Mr. Intal said the industries that would suffer from the tariff reforms were the more capital intensive such as fertilizers, cement, condensed and evaporated milk, tin plates and coated metals.

He said the government would initially lose about seven to 10 billion pesos (400 million dollars) in annual revenues due to the tariff reforms and the benefits would not be fully felt for one and a half years.

MANAMA (AUG. 29) - Britain is to strengthen its military presence in the Gulf, Defence Secretary Tom King announced here Wednesday.

Mr. King, who arrived in Bahrain late Tuesday to inspect British forces in the region, told reporters that a British destroyer, the H.M.S. Gloucester and three minesweepers would join the frigate Battleaxe, already deployed in Bahrain.

Rapier anti-aircraft missiles would also be deployed at the Al Mouharrak airport in Bahrain, where British Tornado fighter-bombers are stationed.

LUDWIGHSAFEN, WEST GERMANY (AUG. 29) - West German chemicals giant BASF said Wednesday its pre-tax profit slumped 20.7 per cent in the first half of this year, while turnover shrank 4.5 percent.

Pre-tax profit was down to 1.73 billion Deutsche marks (1.12 billion dollars) from 2.19 billion (1.42 billion dollars) in the first half of 1989, BASF said in a letter to shareholders.

Sales fell to 23.36 billion Deutsche marks (15.02 billion dollars) from 24.45 billion (15.8 billion dollars).

The results were worse than BASF's prediction of a four percent shrinking in group activity for the whole year, made at the annual general meeting in June.

Despite the disappointing results, the group said that outlets for its products remained good and that its range of consumer products was "robust."

But only the commodities and energy sectors and consumer products with a wide market showed an improvement in the first half, with sales up nine per cent and three percent.

All other divisions recorded lower sales, with refined products and plastics down 11 percent.

Sales were down 10 percent in both North America and Asia, with Europe the least badly hit, with a fall of only one percent.

BASF stressed that Europe, the group's traditional core market, remained "dynamic."

Overseas sales were down 7.8 percent to 7.2 billion Deutsche marks from 7.9 billion in the first half of 1989, largely due to the weakness of the dollar, the yen and the pound against the West German currency.

BASF had a pre-tax profit of 4.38 billion Deutsche marks (2.8 billion dollars) for the whole of 1989, on sales of 47.61 billion (30.9 billion dollars).

KAMPALA (AUG. 29) - Uganda is halving its oil imports due to an acute shortage of foreign exchange, Energy Minister Richard Kaijuka said here.

Mr. Kaijuka said the decision had been prompted by the high price of oil on the international market following steep increases sparked by the Gulf crisis.

The minister also warned Ugandans that strict measures would be announced soon to reduce oil consumption in the country.

Two weeks ago the government, which is spending six million U.S. dollars a month on petroleum, hiked the price by an average of 18 percent.

An official of Shell Uganda Limited, the country's main oil company, said that due to high prices of oil on the international market they could only afford to buy half as much as before.

OSLO (AUG. 29) - The Statfjord oilfield in the Norwegian North Sea sector contains much more oil than originally thought, with the additional supply worth some 50 billion kroner (eight billion dollars), the state oil company Statoil has said.

Statoil, which operates the Statfjord field, has raised total estimates from 480 million cubic meters to 530 million cubic meters.

The additional oil, which is to be extracted gradually over the next 20 years, is worth some 50 billion kroner at current prices.

Extraction of the extra oil would require quite substantial new investment, Statoil said, but would not give any figures.

The Statfjord field stretches out into the British sector of the North Sea but Norwegian companies own 84 per cent of the field.

Statoil owns 50 per cent of the Norwegian share, with the rest divided between a number of companies, including Saga Petroleum with a two per cent stake.

Since it was discovered in the 1970's the Statfjord field has been ranked as the biggest in the North Sea.

Experts say that it is not unusual that estimates change from time to time, but that the size of the increase in estimated exploitable oil is extraordinary.

The additional oil is more than the total amount considered exploitable from the new Veslefrikk field.

Statoil said Monday it planned to cooperate with British Petroleum Exploration in drilling for oil in the Soviet Union, Southeast Asia and Western Africa. The two companies will also try to rationalize the use of the North Sea network of gas pipelines.

LONDON (AUG. 29) - Aeon Group of Japan is to take equity stakes in the operations of Britain's Laura Ashley worth at least 76 million dollars, the troubled British clothes and furnishings company said Wednesday.

Under the agreement, conditional on approval from shareholders in the loss-making British company, Aeon will pay 30 million pounds (59 million dollars) for new shares amounting to a 15 percent stake in Laura Ashley Holdings PLC through Aeon group member company Jusco Co.

It will also have a right to buy a further five percent within 12 months of completion of the deal.

The deal values Laura Ashley shares at 85 pence each, compared with 49 pence at the close of trading Tuesday and 64 pence after the announcement on Wednesday.

Aeon, a retailing group which turned over 1,350 billion yen (over nine billion dollars) last year, will also buy 48 percent of Laura Ashley's U.S. subsidiary Revman Industries Inc., currently wholly owned by Laura Ashley, at a price which values Revman at 35 million dollars.

Revman management will also acquire five percent under the same terms, thus reducing the British company's stake to a minority, and enabling it to remove Revman's 27 million dollars of borrowings from its balance sheet.

In a further move, 10 percent of Laura Ashley Japan Co., a joint-venture owned 50-50 by Laura Ashley and Aeon Group, will be bought from Laura Ashley by Aeon at a price to be determined by independent valuation.

Laura Ashley will retain brand control at the Japanese based venture.

Laura Ashley has suffered the same problems as much of the depressed British retail sector in recent times, transforming a 20.3 million pound (39.6 million dollar) pre-tax 1988 profit into a 4.7 million pound (9.2 million dollar) 1989 loss.

Last week chief executive John James resigned after 16 years with the company. Shares stood below 50 pence after the news, compared with the 135 pence per share price after stock market flotation in 1985.

LONDON (AUG. 29) - British bookshop, newsagents and do-it-yourself store operator W.H. Smith said Wednesday its annual profit fell 1.7 percent in the year to May 31 to 88.1 million pounds (169.4 million dollars) from 89.7 million (172.5 million dollars).

Sales improved by 9.8 percent over the previous year's level however, to 2.13 billion pounds (four billion dollars) from 1.94 billion (3.73 billion).

Final dividend was set at 7.5 pence, giving a total for the year of 11.5 pence, up from 10.4, while earnings per share were up from 27.0 pence to 29.9.

The results were slightly better than market forecasts of profit of around 85 million pounds, and W.H. Smith shares were down four pence at 322 in mid-session trading in London in a falling market.

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA, (AUG. 29) - Goldmining firm Newmont Australia Ltd. on Wednesday advised shareholders to reject an 800 million dollar (663 million U.S.) takeover bid that could create one of the world's largest gold empires.

Robert Champion de Crespigny's Normandy Poseidon group said late Tuesday that Poseidon Gold would offer one of its shares for every two belonging to Newmont, which has gold interests in Western Australia.

"Shareholders should not sell," said Bruce Patterson, Newmont's company secretary.

Newmont earlier said in a statement that Poseidon Gold shares were thinly traded and that it was thus difficult to determine the true value of the bid.

Newmont shares fell four cents to 1.08 dollars by the close of trading Wednesday, while Poseidon Gold shares were steady at 2.60 dollars.

Michael Hamson, Normandy Poseidon's deputy chairman, said he was unfazed by Newmont's telling its shareholders to keep their scrip.

"I see that as a predictable response from good directors," he said.

A successful takeover would boost the Poseidon group's production to about "a million plus" ounces of gold annually, which would make the company one of the 10 biggest in the world, he said.

"I think it would certainly be as big as Western Mining Corp.," currently Australia's biggest gold producer, he said.

"It (Newmont) has three of the best gold mines in the country," Mr. Hamson said.

Normandy Poseidon has already bought a 19.99 per cent Newmont stake for 160 million dollars (133 million U.S.), or 1.25 dollars (1.04 U.S.) a share, from Newmont's U.S. parent, Newmont Mining Corp.

Newmont recorded an interim net profit of more than 16 million dollars (13 million U.S.) for the six months to June 30, an increase of 241 per cent on the previous corresponding period.

HONG KONG (AUG. 29) - Cathay Pacific Airways Ltd. said Wednesday its profits rose 4.1 percent in the six months to June from the same period last year, to 1.42 billion Hong Kong dollars (180 million U.S.).

But Hong Kong's traditional carrier warned that profits for the whole year could be below the 3.32 billion dollars (426 million U.S.) it made in 1989.

The Gulf crisis was to blame, a Cathay statement said, because an anticipated global economic slowdown would "reduce demand for passenger and cargo services," for which Cathay logged moderate revenue growths in the first half.

The locally listed aviation concern declared an interim dividend of 10.5 cents (1.3 cents U.S.) a share, unchanged from the interim payment last year.

The carrier currently operates on a fleet of 40 aircraft, made up of 22 Boeing 747's and 18 TriStars.

It has firm orders for nine Boeing 747's, options on a further 15, and 10 Airbuses on firm order with options on a further 14.

Cathay, which carries some seven million passengers a year, is half-owned by the Swire Group, a British conglomerate, and 12.5 per cent is held by a state-owned Beijing investment firm, China International Trust and Investment Corp.

LONDON (AUG. 29) - British confectionery and soft drinks group Cadbury Schweppes said Wednesday its taxable profit rose 11.5 percent in the first half of this year to 104.7 million pounds (201 million dollars) from 93.9 million (180 million dollars).

Sales were up 22 percent over the first half of 1989 to 1.41 billion pounds (2.7 billion dollars) from 1.15 billion (2.2 billion dollars), reflecting a series of acquisitions.

The financing of these purchases kept the increase in earnings per share down to 1.7 percent, to 9.81 pence from 9.65, and interim dividend rose from 2.8 pence to 3.0.

The result was in line with market forecasts of profit of around 105 million pounds, and Cadbury Schweppes shares were unchanged at 318 pence in mid-morning trading in London in a falling market.

Frankfurt (AUG. 29) - Shareholders approved here Wednesday a plan to rescue the financially stricken retail group co op in which more than half the company's outlets will be sold off.

The shareholders approved the plan outlined by co op chairman Franz Wolf explained the rescue plan whereby 924 supermarkets, shops and specialty stores representing 6.8 billion marks (4.38 billion dollars) turnover would be sold off.

The sales will generate 600 million marks' worth of revenue to help co op put its finances for this year back in order, Wolf said.

Afterwards, co op would be left with 765 outlets combining for sales turnover of some 4 billion marks.

''The new co op once again has a future and a perspective,'' Wolf told the extraordinary meeting in which 92 percent of the company's equity - including the 90 percent owned by Dg bank and BfG bank, both of Frankfurt - was represented.

The rescue plan is the latest chapter in the more than two-year financial and fraud scandal drama which has rocked what was once West Germany's largest retail chain.

Several former top co op executives have been arrested on a variety of charges, including fraud, in connection with mismanagement and tangled financial operations which by 1988 had plunged the company some 2.7 billion marks into the red.

JOHANNESBURG (AUG. 29) - A key vote towards ending residential apartheid in Johannesburg, South Africa's most populous city, has prompted the far right to call for a public meeting on the future of segregation.

Jacques Theron, the 50-year-old stockbroker who heads the far right opposition Conservative Party (CP) caucus on the council, told Agence France-Presse Wednesday he had petitioned the mayor for an open meeting.

The 51-seat council, controlled by the white liberal Democratic Party (DP) in a de facto alliance with the ruling National Party (NP), voted by 36 to seven late Tuesday to apply to have the whole city declared a free settlement area where anyone can live wherever they can afford.

The application will first go to the nine-member national Free Settlement Board, which will make recommendations to the Council of Ministers in the whites-only House of Assembly of the three-chamber parliament, and to President Frederik de Klerk, who has the final say.

The process could take months, and could conceivably be stalled until Mr. De Klerk carries out his promise of scrapping the Group Areas Act (GAA) in the next session of parliament, starting February.

The GAA, one of the three surviving pillars of apartheid, defines in law where people of various race groups may or may not live.

Mr. Theron said Tuesday's vote was "against the wishes of the voters and ratepayers."

CP meetings in Johannesburg's poorer southern suburbs had shown people were solidly against desegregation. "Just about everybody white living in those areas has signed petitions against this," he said.

Results last September 26 of a referendum on opening municipal swimming pools to all races had produced an overall "no" vote in Johannesburg, and the CP expected the same outcome if council agreed to long-standing CP demands for a new poll on residential segregation, Mr. Theron said.

He warned: "Communities will have to fend for themselves. The danger is that the poorer type of areas, where people are less mobile economically and cannot easily move, are the areas that will be affected.

WIESBADEN, West Germany (AUG. 29) - West German consumer prices rose 0.4 percent in August over the July level according to provisional figures released here Wednesday.

The increase was 2.9 percent over the level of consumer prices in August last year, higher than the 2.4 percent year on year increase in July.

The higher year on year figure was due to a rise in oil prices in the wake of Iraq's invasion of Kuwait on August 2, the federal statistics office said.

BEIJING (AUG. 29) - The U.S. electronics firm IBM has opened its first joint venture in China in an effort to boost its presence in the country, the China Daily said Wednesday.

After two years of negotiation, International Business Machines Corp. signed a five-year renewable joint venture agreement with the Tianjin Zhonghuan Computer Corp. based in the northeastern city of Tianjin, the English-language daily said.

The joint company, Tianjin Advanced Information Products Corporation Ltd., will use the IBM patent to produce, under IBM license, PS2 personal computers at the rate of 100 per day, the newspaper said.

The IBM office in Beijing refused to give any details of the size of the initial investment involved in the setup of the company.

The joint venture will start with a workforce of 20, rising to 50 as the business grows, the newspaper said.

The China Daily stressed that China, with its cheap labour, was already a major supplier of spare parts to IBM, and the U.S. company would be able to increase imports under the new agreement.

During the first quarter of this year, IBM bought 11 million dollars' worth of spare parts, compared to a total of 20 million dollars' worth for the whole of last year.

The Tianjin Zhonghuan Computer company is one of China's leading electronics firms, with 13 manafacturing plants around the country and six joint ventures with investors from Hong Kong, Japan and the United States.

BANGKOK (AUG. 29) - The Securities Exchange of Thailand (SET) index climbed 11.22 points, or 1.36 percent, Wednesday as turnover surged in brisk trading on the heels of a Finance Ministry move to raise investor confidence.

The index, increasingly unpredictable of late, closed at 834.97 points with winning stocks in the banking and finance sectors.

Turnover was so high that the release of official closing figures was delayed by almost two hours, and reached 4.041 billion baht (161.64 million U.S. dollars), up from Tuesday's turnover of 1.859 billion baht (74.359 million U.S. dollars).

An exchange spokesman attributed the high turnover to increased willingness among brokers to sell shares following emergency measures taken by the Finance Ministry at the weekend to pull the bourse out of an all-time slump in the wake of the Gulf crisis.

The ministry, which in practice supervises the theoretically independent bourse, had "asked for the cooperation" of 35 brokers to underwrite an emergency fund totalling five billion baht (200 million U.S. dollars), to be injected into the market, said an exchange official.

The official said the move was tantamount to putting pressure on the brokers to contribute at least 100 million baht (four million dollars) each, since it was understood that they would be "blacklisted" if they did not cooperate.

The exchange management also warned companies planning to sell shares on the bourse, including Toshiba Corp's subsidiary in Thailand, against doing so until it could recover from the slump, informed sources at the exchange said.

The fund, the second to be launched since similar emergency measures were taken in the aftermath of the 1987 world stock crash, pushed the index back from an all-time low of 695.81 points on Friday.

But an exchange spokesman said the market was unlikely to recover rapidly from its loss of 39.1 percent since Iraq invaded Kuwait on Aug. 2.

The spokesman attributed renewed confidence among investors partly to a surprise cabinet reshuffle that involved replacing Finance Minister Pramuan Sapavasu with a non-partisan economist, Virabongsa Ramangura.

The reshuffle also gave an exchange director, prominent businessman Amaret Sila-on, the Commerce Ministry portfolio.

TOKYO (AUG. 29) - Bank of Japan governor Yasushi Mieno on Wednesday strongly denied reports that the central bank had approached the Finance Ministry to discuss raising the bank's official discount rate.

"This is not the case," Mr. Mieno told a news conference.

The denial followed reports that the central bank planned to raise the discount rate, charged on loans to financial institutions, by up to one percentage point either later this week or early next month.

The bank wants to raise the rate, which currently stands at 5.25 percent following a one-point hike on March 20, to stem upward pressure on prices resulting from an acute labor shortage and higher oil prices, the reports said.

Mr. Mieno said prices were stable for the time being, but added that the bank was closely monitoring domestic and external developments in light of the current uncertainty in the Middle East.

The central bank is particularly concerned about Japan's rapid rate of money supply growth and the labour shortage, Mr. Mieno said, adding that the recent surge in crude oil prices "may also be a major inflationary factor."

Japan's money supply grew at an annual rate of 12.2 percent in July, a modest slowdown from April and May, when it hit a 14-year high of 13.2 percent.

Mr. Mieno described recent movements in foreign exchange rates as "volatile" due to dollar buying in times of international crisis and purchases of yen based on Japan's "continuing economic boom and strong fundamentals."

The Bank of Japan raised its discount rate three times last year after keeping it at an all-time low of 2.5 percent for more than two years.

The current rate of 5.25 percent is the highest in almost five years and a hike of one percentage point would take it to its highest level in almost nine years.

AMMAN (AUG. 29) - The Jordanian government, in a surprise move, has decided to lift subsidies of basic food commodities starting September 1 in line with recommendations by the International Monetary Fund, officials said Wednesday.

The officials told the German Press Agency that Amman, which resisted IMF pressure for a year, decided to lift subsidies in light of the serious economic difficulties the kingdom is facing.

One official explained that the government will also issue food stamps to distribute to low-income Jordanians and ease the impact of the lifting of subsidies.

Prices of basic foods such as bread, milk, rice and sugar are expected to rise an average of 50 percent as a result of the move.

The subsidies were projected to cost Amman about 100 million Jordanian dinars (150 million dollars), adding further to the country's budget deficit.

''The lifting of the subsidies is part of the government's agreement with the IMF earlier this year,'' the official explained. ''We were supposed to implement the agreement as of July 1, but there were difficulties and strong opposition to parliament.''

The move comes amid rising economic problems which have been made worse by the Gulf crisis which has produced a freeze in Arab financial aid to Jordan, a decline in remittances of Jordanian expatriates working in the Gulf, and the loss of Jordan's largest export market, Iraq, because of the embargo against Baghdad.

The official expressed hope that ''people will show understanding of the government's position and inability to continue subsidies, and its attempt to make sure that subsidies are provided only for those who really need them''.

An IMF-inspired increase in the prices of basic commodities and services in April 1989 sparked anti-government demonstrations which brought down Prime Minister Zaid Rifai.

BANJUL (AUG. 29) - The resignation of embattled Liberian president Samuel Doe forms the basis of proposals for an interim government put to Liberian politicians and religious leaders by West African mediators in a working paper on Wednesday.

One scenario envisaged by the 16-nation Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS) in its efforts to end Liberia's bloody eight-month civil war would have Mr. Doe stand down after he had sacked his government's ministers and obtained the resignation of the speakers of the national assembly and the senate.

Current vice-president Harry Moniba, acting as head of state, would then call on the person chosen by the conference to be interim president and would hand over power.

An alternative approach would see Mr. Doe depart from office after parties signed an agreement on the names for a transitional regime. Mr. Moniba would form a government comprising a single minister, who would be the new leader designated by the conference. After Mr. Moniba's own resignation, that person would bring in the ministerial team already chosen by the conference.

The ECOWAS mediation committee proposed that the conference also name a legislature comprising renowned politicians, a representative for each county, and representatives of the belligerents.

Subsequently general elections could be held in October next year and the new leadership be sworn in in January 1992.

The working paper recommended suspending three articles of the constitution which stipulate that presidential hopefuls must have been in the country at least 10 years and be worth at least 25,000 dollars, and that assembly election candidates must have been there at least a year.

ECOWAS has stationed a five-nation peacekeeping force in the port area of the Liberian capital Monrovia in the hope of imposing a cease-fire but has come under fire from the main rebel movement of former civil servant Charles Taylor.

Mr. Taylor and Mr. Doe have refused to take part in the conference being hosted by Gambia, the current ECOWAS chairman, but a delegation from the splinter rebel movement of Prince Johnson, who has welcomed the monitoring force, was on its way.

Ugandan state radio reported in a broadcast monitored in Kampala meanwhile that Ugandan President Yoweri Museveni, the chairman of the Organisation of African Unity (OAU), had received a message from Mr. Taylor.

The radio said the message was delivered Tuesday by Ernest Eastman, the chairman of the Baumannn company of Liberia who briefed Mr. Museveni on the conflict in Liberia.

The radio did not disclose the contents of the message but diplomatic sources said it may have contained a protest by Mr. Taylor to the OAU chairman about the presence of the five-nation West African force in Liberia.

PARIS (AUG. 29) - Yassir Arafat, Chairman of the Palestinian Liberation Organization, met here Wednesday with French Foreign Minister Roland Dumas to urge European support for the Plo peace plan for the Gulf, an Arafat aide said.

The aide, Bassam Abu Sherif, said the Plo was hoping for ''European action in support of an Arab solution to the crisis and utilization of all U.N. resolutions on the Palestinian issue''.

Arafat arrived in Paris from talks in Iraq and Yemen on the Gulf crisis. His peace plan envisions Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait and the pullout of Western forces from the Gulf region as well as holding of elections in Kuwait under auspices of the United Nations.

Unclear is whether the Arafat plan links a Gulf solution to withdrawal of Israelis from the occupied territories.

Paris insists on restoration of Kuwaiti sovereignty and re-installation of the exiled emir.

SINGAPORE (AUG. 29) - The Singapore government has welcomed the agreement by the five permanent members of the United Nations Security Council on a framework for a political settlement to the Cambodian problem, a foreign ministry spokesman said Wednesday.

''Prospects for a negotiated settlement have never been better,'' the spokesman told reporters.

Under the plan worked out Tuesday by the United States, Soviet Union,

China, France and Britain, the Cambodians are to form a supreme national council until elections are held.

The U.N. will verify a ceasefire, supervise disarmament, help organise polls and ensure that all Vietnamese forces leave the country.

It will also take charge of foreign affairs, defence, finance, information and public security until elections take place.

Meanwhile, Indonesian officials also spoke favourably of the agreement. Foreign Minister Ali Alatas said, however, that Indonesia was still waiting for confirmation from the four Cambodian warring parties that they will attend peace talks scheduled for next month in Jakarta.

The Cambodian resistance coalition comprises the Khmer Rouge, supporters of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, and a nationalist group led by Son Sann.

PRETORIA (AUG. 29) - The South African government said here Wednesday it would shortly open a trade office in Mauritius.

South Africa is the Indian Ocean island's second major trading partner after France, with commercial exchanges already running at 300 million dollars a year.

The move, seen as a prelude to establishing full diplomatic relations, comes a fortnight after Pretoria opened a trade office with its other Indian Ocean neighbour Madagascar during an official visit by President Frederik de Klerk.

BELGRADE (AUG. 29) - Many ethnic Albanians were injured when police used clubs and tear gas to disperse thousands of demonstrators gathered Wednesday in Pristina before the arrival of a delegation of U.S. senators in the troubled Serbian province of Kosovo, Tanjug news agency said.

Six ethnic Albanians were arrested including two former Albanian policemen dismissed when Serbian authorities replaced ethnic Albanian policemen by Serbian forces, Belgrade television reported.

The seven-member U.S. delegation, headed by Republican Senator Robert Dole, was due to arrive later Wednesday to get a first-hand look at the situation in Kosovo, wracked by violence over the mainly ethnic Albanian population's desire to rid the province of control by the Serbian republic.

Several thousand ethnic Albanians had gathered outside the Grand Hotel in central Pristina waiting for the U.S. senators to arrive, Tanjug said. When police ordered them to disperse, the crowd started throwing stones at them.

Police responded by firing tear gas and wading into the crowd with clubs.

Large numbers of police were deployed in Pristina's main street, where the hotel is located, Tanjug said.

A local journalist said by telephone that the authorities fear the U.S. legislators' visit will spark huge demonstrations by ethnic Albanians, who form 90 percent of the population of Kosovo.

Serbia reduced Kosovo's autonomy through constitutional changes in 1989, and on July 2 scrapped its government after ethnic Albanian members of the local parliament proclaimed the province independent.

Serbia has blacked out the local television, radio and Albanian-language newspapers, and transferred funds held by the National Bank of Kosovo to the Kosovo Interior Ministry and Serbian Railways.

Leaders of a local independent trade union federation not recognized by Serbia were jailed after the chairman called a general strike for next Monday.

Mr. Dole and his colleagues, who earlier visited Belgrade and Zagreb, capital of the northwestern republic of Croatia, plan to meet leaders of the opposition in Pristina as well as leaders of the Serbian community, who allege they are discriminated against and threatened by ethnic Albanians.

In Belgrade, the U.S. senatorial delegation was received by Serbian government leader Stanko Radmilovic.

ROME (AUG. 29) - The Italian Foreign Ministry has filed a formal protest on behalf of the European Community (E.C.) with the Libyan government for Tripoli's purported assistance in a coastal attack on Israel May 30 by Palestinian guerrillas, a spokesman for the Italian Foreign Ministry said Wednesday.

The protest was lodged Tuesday, the spokesman said.

Three Palestinians were killed and five others arrested by Israeli forces in the attempted boat landing on a beach south of Tel Aviv.

U.S. intelligence sources say logistical support almost certainly came from Libya.

ZURICH (AUG. 29) - Swiss-Swedish group Asea Brown Boveri (ABB), the world's leading electrical engineering concern, said Wednesday its pre-tax profit rose 28 percent in the first half of this year to 500 million dollars from 391 million.

Turnover was up 35 percent over the first half of 1989 at 12.78 billion dollars against 9.44 billion, and ABB said it was expecting results for the whole year to be in line with the interim figures.

Excluding acquisitions and disinvestment, as well as exchange rate fluctuations, growth was down to six percent.

Orders during the first half totalled 14.91 billion dollars, up 33 percent on the first half of last year. Excluding new acquisitions, orders were up eight percent.

The group said that the Gulf crisis "as it has developed to date" would have little direct effect on its performance.

LONDON (AUG. 29) - British conglomerate Pearson said Wednesday its taxable profit rose 15 percent in the first half of this year to 97.9 million pounds (188 million dollars) from 85.4 million (164 million dollars).

Pearson, which owns the Financial Times, 50 per cent of merchant bank Lazard Brothers and the waxworks museum Madame Tussaud's in London, said turnover was up 11 per cent over the first half of 1989 at 710.9 million pounds (1.36 billion dollars) against 641.4 million (1.23 billion dollars).

Interim dividend was set at 10.75 pence, up from nine, and earnings per share rose 16 percent from 21.4 pence to 24.8.

The results were slightly better than market predictions of profit of around 95 million pounds, but Pearson shares were down four pence at 690 in mid-session trading in a falling market.

A 25 percent rise in profit for Lazard's and a 53 percent jump in profit from services to th oil sector were largely responsible for the good rise in profit.

But the press division saw its profit fall 13 percent due to falling advertising revenue and the costs of launching an edition of the Financial Times in Tokyo, whose total cost is estimated at two million pounds (3.8 million dollars).

Pearson was cautious over prospects for the rest of the year, due to a slowdown in activity on the financial market likely to affect Lazard Brothers, and continuing bad conditions in the press sector.

Brokers UBS-Philips and Drew said they were standing by their earlier forecast of annual profit of 280 million pounds.

PARIS (AUG. 29) - The International Energy Agency (IEA) welcomed Wednesday's OPEC decision to boost output to compensate for supply lost due to the Gulf crisis, but refused to link the move to freeing oil stocks held by consumer countries.

"The OPEC decision should make a strong contribution in the weeks to come to filling the hole in the oil market left by the loss of Iraqi and Kuwaiti crude," said IEA director Helga Steeg in a statement published in Paris.

But there was no question of "linking this increase with a utilization by IEA members of their strategic stocks."

The IEA would not advise its member countries to call on their stocks except in the case of "a real supply shortage," a source close to the IEA said, and would not make such a move due to a simple rise in prices such as that last week which saw crude go above 30 dollars a barrel.

But Wednesday's decision by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries should come as some comfort to the 21 industrialized countries forming the IEA, who are due to meet in Paris on Friday to discuss supply problems as a result of the Gulf crisis.

At its last meeting on Aug. 9, the IEA decided not to take emergency measures to cope with problems caused by Iraq's invasion of Kuwait a week earlier and a subsequent U.N. embargo on Kuwaiti and Iraqi oil on the grounds that the Gulf crisis had not yet caused any real shortage on the market.

OPEC oil ministers meeting in Vienna agreed Wednesday on a temporary increase in OPEC production in line with need, but gave no specific figures.

The accord also called on consumer countries to "actively participate in the stabilization process" by drawing from their stocks, and on the IEA to activate its emergency oil sharing agreement.

The agreement was endorsed by ten of the 13 OPEC countries.

Iran did not accept it, a ministerial aide said, and Iraq and Libya did not attend the meeting.

RANGOON (AUG. 29) - A division of Burma's National League for Democracy (NLD), the country's largest political party, urged its leaders Wednesday to defy the ruling military junta and convene parliament by October at the latest.

In a letter to the party's leaders, the NLD's Mandalay division urged them to "implement their legal right as a winning party to convene parliament in October," should the junta fail to do so in September.

"We call upon the NLD leadership to be courageous and do what ought to be done within the framework of law," the letter said.

The junta, under its title of the State Law and Order Restoration Council (SLORC), has warned it will take action if any attempt is made to set up a government before a new constitution is drafted and approved, a process observers here say could take years.

At last month's NLD's conference the party, which swept the May general elections, called on SLORC to convene parliament by the end of September.

But the NLD leadership, determined to avoid a confrontation with the military, did not say what if any action it might take if the call was ignored.

Western diplomats here have reported growing tension within the NLD over its non-confrontational policy.

Mandalay, the ancient political capital, some 450 miles (725 kilometers) north of Rangoon, is a potiental political hot-bed where students and members of the Buddhist clergy continue to protest the lack of progress in the aftermath of the elections.

Last month, two students and two monks were reportedly shot dead in Mandalay when troops fired on demonstrators. The SLORC has denied that anyone died or that troops opened fire.

LONDON (AUG. 29) - Ladbroke Group, the British owners of Hilton International Hotels, confirmed Wednesday they will sell their two Hilton Hotels in central London.

The 377-room Regents Park Hilton and the 403-room Olympia Hilton in London's West End are together valued at almost 200 million pounds (106 million dollars).

The sale is part of a rationalization program by the hotel chain which is constructing a new Hilton south of Regents park, a Ladbroke spokesman said.

Ladbroke is also looking for a buyer for 63,000 square meters in the South Pacific island of Guam valued at 90 million pounds (174 million dollars).

Ladbroke Group Wednesday announced a 12 percent increase in pre-tax profits for the first six months of the year to 158.2 million pounds (306.9 million dollars) compared to 141.2 million pounds (273.9 million dollars) for the same period a year earlier.

BRISBANE, Australia (AUG. 29) - Hundreds of aborigines will meet on tropical Cape York Peninsula next week to plan a campaign against a proposed space base which some see as the "second invasion" of their country.

According to the aborigines, the base is being planned in Washington, Moscow and Tokyo with no consideration for aboriginal land rights.

The base is proposed jointly by the Australian Government and the Queensland State Government for Australia's most northerly tip.

Cape York Aboriginal Land Council spokesman Noel Pearson said Wednesday the plan was pitting multi-national companies armed with skilled lawyers against the traditional owners of the land.

"The Wuthathi and Kuku Yau communities are faced with the prospect of fighting American space entrepreneurs using Soviet rockets funded by Japanese investment," he said.

"The idea of a space base in the midst of people who have already endured a terrible history of exploitation and destruction of their societies would seem like some kind of ridiculous sick joke.

"But it is deadly serious for the people of the Cape," Mr. Pearson said.

The purpose of next week's inaugural Cape York Land Conference at the Lockhart River Community was to re-affirm aboriginal resistance to the "second invasion of their country" and to form a political organisation to assert land rights.

He said the Cape York Space Base project appeared to be going ahead despite clear commitments by the governing Labor Party to recognise land rights.

"The major decisions regarding the proposed space base are being made in the White House, the Kremlin and in Tokyo," Mr. Pearson said.

Queensland's Premier Wayne Goss has said his Government's support for the space base was conditional on a satisfactory environmental impact study and the settling of issues with the traditional owners.

Mr. Pearson said the federal and Queensland governments had put the land use study on the back burner.

AMMAN (AUG. 29) - Security forces Wednesday surrounded the Syrian towns of Al-Hasakah and Deir ez-Zor after violent pro-Iraqi protests erupted in the two communities near Syria's border with Iraq, reliable sources here reported.

Security forces have threatened to open fire unless the demonstrators dispersed, the sources said. The protests took place at around 5 p.m. (1400 GMT) with demonstrators chanting support for Iraqi President Saddam Hussein.

It was not immediately clear if the protests had ended.

Travellers from Syria said here earlier that security forces had clashed in recent days with pro-Iraqi demonstrators in the two northeastern communities as well as in the border village of Abu Kamal on the Euphrates River.

They quoted residents of the western Syrian city of Homs as saying dozens of people were killed.

The three communities in Jezirah province are traditionally close to Iraq, although Damascus is a regional rival of Baghdad, which it now opposes in the Gulf crisis.

There was no official confirmation of the clashes from Syria, which does not normally report on unauthorized demonstrations.

Travellers coming from Damascus said the Syrian capital was tense Monday, with dozens of soldiers deployed at main intersections.

A visit to Egypt by Syrian President Hafez al-Assad, originally due to take place last Sunday, was delayed until Tuesday without any official explanation. The visit lasted only a few hours.

In February 1982, bloody clashes between the Syrian Army and Moslem fundamentalists in the western city of Hama killed thousands of people. Estimates for the death toll vary between 3,000 and 20,000.

NEW YORK (AUG 29) - Katerina Maleeva knocked out younger sister Magdalena at the US Open here Wednesday in a first-round match even their mother could not bare to watch.

It was the first time the two younger sisters of the Maleeva dynasty (Manuela is the oldest) had met in a tournament and Katerina, seeded seventh, won the encounter 6-3, 6-1, but admitted afterward she "felt bad about it."

"You can never forget you are playing your brother or sister and it's difficult," she added. "You just have to keep trying."

"We'll try to forget about it as soon as possible," said Magdalena, who is ranked 90th in the world.

Their mother, Yulia Berbarian, broke with her usual tradition and did not attend the match, which drew a sizeable crowd on court 16.

"She was very sad when she saw the draw," said Katerina, who at 21 is six years older than Magdalena.

The outcome of the match was never really in doubt, even though Magdalena struck first by breaking serve in the opening game.

But the match produced several moments of sibling rivalry, both friendly and more serious.

In the third game of the second set, Magdalena served up an ace she thought was wide and sought confirmation from Katerina before continuing.

Two points later, Magdalena hit her serve to the same spot and had it called wide. The two sisters looked at each other and smiled.

But Katerina twice reminded her baby sister of her place in the family pecking order.

On two occasions in the second set, Katerina responded to winners -- one a return of serve and the other a second-serve ace -- with winners of her own.

When the match ended, the two approached the net and gave each other a 'high-five.'

"There are many things worse than losing to your sister," said Magdalena, who now will team with Manuela in doubles.

In other early action, fifth-seeded Argentina Gabriela Sabatini demolished Isabelle Demongeot of France 6-1, 6-1 on the stadium court to advance to the third round.

The first round, which was plagued by rain on Monday, was concluding Wednesday with fifth-seeded Andres Gomez of Ecuador and 15th-seeded Yugoslav Goran Ivanisevic seeing action.

Among the second-round matches, second-seeded Martina Navratilova was playing Britain's Clare Wood, and third-seeded Ivan Lendl was facing West German Michael Stich.

BRUSSELS (AUG. 29) - The European Economic Community is likely to limit the movement of Iraqi diplomats in its 12 member states, in retaliation for the threat to close EEC embassies in Kuwait, diplomatic sources said Wednesday.

They said they expected an official announcement to be made by the weekend.

The Community has been pondering reprisals since August 21, two days before Iraqi troops surrounded the embassies in Kuwait City to follow up their annexation of the emirate.

"A large number" of EEC members argued against following the United States in expelling Iraqi diplomats, fearing that this could "provoke" Baghdad into taking further action against Europeans, the sources said.

The agreement to limit the movement of Iraqi diplomats to EEC capitals is, for the time being, the only Community-wide measure envisaged against Iraq a source said.

It does not prevent EEC members from individually taking stronger measures, he said.

Several countries, including Britain, which have nationals in Kuwait, expressed concern about "the timing" of the announcement, a source said, noting that Iraq has promised to repatriate the wives and children of foreigners trapped in the Gulf crisis.

The action against the Iraqi diplomats added to a decision taken by the Community on August 4 -- two days in advance of a similar resolution by the United Nations -- to impose a blanket embargo on trade and arms sales with Iraq and to freeze Iraqi assets in the EEC.

The EEC has also launched an airlift to repatriate Egyptian workers stranded on the Jordanian border with Iraq. It has also pledged aid for Jordan, Turkey and Egypt, whose economies are facing a slump in revenue because of the Gulf crisis.

On the military front, a majority of EEC members have sent ships, men or aircraft to the Gulf or eastern Mediterranean to help police the U.N. sanctions against Iraq. Others have provided logistical support for the effort.

The EEC states have at least 4,300 citizens in Kuwait and at least 2,100 in Iraq, according to an unofficial count.

NICOSIA (AUG. 29) - The United States has sent an estimated 50,000 troops to the Gulf since Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait and is expected to boost the force to some 100,000 within weeks.

A breakdown of troops and equipment, by nation, in the region follows:

IRAQ: One million regular troops, including more than 160,000 in Kuwait, 5,500 tanks and 512 combat planes.

Iraq claims more than 1.2 million people have volunteered for a "people's army," which Baghdad said it was forming immediately after it invaded Kuwait.

The U.S. Defense Department said Tuesday that Iraq had sent more troops to Kuwait and "contiguous zones," where its forces now numbered 265,000 men.

WESTERN NATIONS:

AUSTRALIA: Two missile-launching frigates and a support ship with 600 men aboard are expected in the Gulf of Oman around Tuesday.

BELGIUM: Two minesweepers and a support ship are heading for the Gulf of Oman, near the Strait of Hormuz.

BRITAIN: A squadron of 12 Tornado F-3s and an air force unit with Rapier anti-aircraft missiles has gone to Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, while 12 Jaguar fighter bombers and four Nimrod naval reconnaissance planes are in Oman. A squadron of 12 Tornado GR-1 fighter bombers are in Bahrain.

The destroyer York, two frigates and a supply ship are cruising in the Gulf, while three minesweepers are in the Mediterranean.

FRANCE: A total of 4,135 servicemen, mainly from the navy, are deployed on 14 ships, including the aircraft carrier Clemenceau carrying 42 helicopters. Three ships are patrolling south of the Gulf of Aqaba and in the Gulf to enforce the U.N.-decreed embargo against Iraq.

The anti-submarine frigate Montcalm is at the mouth of the Strait of Tiran, while the frigate Dupleix and escort ship Commandant Bory are cruising near the Strait of Hormuz. Three other ships are in the port of Djibouti.

France plans to send fighter helicopters to Saudi Arabia. A squadron of 270 paratroopers, mostly reconnaissance troops with light vehicles and due to be equipped with ground-to-air missiles, has been sent to the United Arab Emirates.

ITALY: Two frigates and a support ship with 616 men aboard are expected in the Gulf on Sunday or Monday. For the past week, two corvettes have been on duty in an area of the Mediterranean previously patrolled by U.S. ships that left for the Gulf.

THE NETHERLANDS: Two frigates with 360 men aboard and anti-short range missile "Goalkeeper" defense systems, effective against Exocet missiles, are expected to reach the Gulf by Tuesday.

UNITED STATES: Although the Pentagon does not disclose exact figures, an estimated 50,000 troops are in Saudi Arabia, mainly Marines, for "Operation Desert Shield." The total number is expected to reach about 100,000 within a few weeks in an operation estimated to cost 2.5 billion dollars by the end of September.

Some 60 U.S. warships, including four aircraft carriers and support vessels, are or will be patrolling in the region.

An estimated 400 combat planes are on hand, including F-111 bombers, Harriers, F-15 and F-16 fighter bombers and Stealth fighters. B-52 bombers could be brought in from bases on the Indian Ocean island of Diego Garcia.

Transport planes, AWACS radar aircraft and helicopters are also ready for combat.

Ships docked Tuesday in Saudi Arabia bringing M1 Abrams tanks and Bradley infantry combat vehicles.

ASIAN STATES: Bangladesh sent a token force to Saudi Arabia to defend the kingdom while Pakistan has said it plans to send 5,000 troops to Saudi Arabia in the next few days.

ARAB STATES: There are 1,100 Syrian troops, 3,000 Egyptians, and 1,200 Moroccans in Saudi Arabia. Egypt plans to fly in more soldiers, boosting its total strength to 15,000 men.

GULF STATES:

BAHRAIN: 3,350 soldiers, 54 combat tanks, 12 combat planes, 12 armed helicopters and four missile-launching patrol boats.

OMAN: 25,000 soldiers, 39 combat tanks, 63 combat planes, 12 missile-launching patrol boats.

QATAR: 7,000 soldiers, 24 combat tanks, 13 combat planes, 20 armed helicopters and three missile-launching patrol boats.

SAUDI ARABIA: 65,700 soldiers, 500 tanks, 1,850 artillery pieces, 179 combat planes, 44 helicopters and 21 warships.

UNITED ARAB EMIRATES: 43,000 men, 131 tanks, 530 combat planes, 203 helicopters and 24 warships.

PESHAWAR, Pakistan (AUG. 29) - Police seized 300 kilograms (660 pounds) of hashish in a fruit market here Wednesday, official sources said.

A fruit dealer was arrested after police found the hashish in crates belonging to him, they said.

The street value of hashish here is said to be about 90 dollars per kilo.

Last week 1,000 kilos (2,200 pounds) of opium was seized in southwestern Baluchistan province by an army patrol on the Pakistan-Afghanistan border, after an exchange of fire with smugglers.

A day earlier, Pakistani customs authorities made a haul of 49 kilos (107.8 pounds) of heroin and arrested two smugglers in northwestern Bannu town.

HELSINKI (AUG. 29) - British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher called here Wednesday for "rigorous" enforcement of U.N. sanctions against Iraq and said that Britain has not rejected the military option in the Gulf crisis.

Speaking at a news conference, Mrs. Thatcher also said Iraq must withdraw its forces from Kuwait, the legal government must be restored and all hostages held by Iraq must be released. That is not negotiable, she added.

Referring to the visit of U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar to Amman to meet Iraqi Foreign Minister Tareq Aziz, the British prime minister said there is no need for a mediator in the Gulf crisis.

The question is how to implement the U.N. economic sanctions, she said.

Asked about the risk of an armed conflict in the Gulf, Mrs. Thatcher said that Britain has not rejected the military option.

She said the first objective is to defend the countries in the area and the second to rigorously implement the economic sanctions imposed by U.N. Security Council to force Iraq to leave Kuwait.

The conflict can be settled peacefully if all countries strictly implement the U.N. Security Council resolutions, she said.

Commenting on Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's announcement that foreign women and children could leave Iraq, Mrs. Thatcher said the Iraqi leader is just doing what he should have done in the first place.

As for a request by opposition Labour Party leader Neil Kinnock to recall parliament over the Gulf crisis, Mrs. Thatcher said she will consult with her colleagues and pay "full attention" to the request after her three-day visit here ends Thursday.

Mrs. Thatcher, who arrived here on Tuesday, held a 75-minute meeting with Finnish conservative Prime Minister Harri Holkeri on Wednesday and attended a luncheon in her honor hosted by President Mauno Koivisto.

Mrs. Thatcher said the Gulf crisis and European questions had dominated the discussions. Bilateral relations were also raised with Mrs. Thatcher emphasizing that there are no problems between Finland and Britain.

Commenting on European integration at a meeting with representatives of Finnish trade and industry Wednesday morning, Mrs. Thatcher said neutrality is no bar to full membership of the European Economic Community.

There is nothing to stop a neutral country from applying for membership, she said, noting that the EEC already has one neutral member, Ireland.

Mrs. Thatcher also took a helicopter trip on Wednesday to an oil refinery of the state-run oil company Neste near the town of Porvoo, west of here, and had a short cruise on board a missile patrol boat.

The official part of her visit ended Wednesday. On Thursday, Mrs. Thatcher will attend the opening of a conference here of European centre-right parties, the European Democratic Union.

WIESBADEN, West Germany (AUG. 29) - The heatwave that parched Western Europe in July has been good news for breweries, with thirsty West German beer drinkers guzzling sales to record-breaking levels.

More than a billion litres of beer was sold in July in West Germany, topping the previous record of 980 million litres set in May, according to the Federal Bureau of Statistics.

West Germans increased monthly beer consumption by 22.5 percent compared to July last year to reach 1.01 billion litres.

Bavarians had the biggest thirst, consuming 29.2 percent of the total, followed by Rhine-North Westphalia with 26.8 percent.

But it was in Berlin that beer drinking took the biggest leap, increasing by 50.5 percent, no doubt helped out by the tearing down of the Berlin Wall.

Bottles and cans accounted for three-quarters of sales and another 222 million litres of draft beer were sold.

The record sales in July brings West German beer sales to 5.83 billion litres since the beginning of the year, 8.2 percent more than the same period last year.

ABIDJAN (AUG. 29) - West African peace-keeping troops have called on the international community to send in emergency food supplies to feed thousands of Liberians suffering from the country's eight-month civil war, the Ghana News Agency reported Wednesday.

An agency correspondent quoted a communique released Tuesday in Monrovia by the Economic Community of West African States monitoring group (ECOMOG) stating that the group hoped governments and aid agencies would "come in with full force with their expertise and resources" to help feed and care for the Liberian people.

It directed international donors to contact ECOMOG at the Monrovia freeport or the ECOWAS secretariat in Lagos.

The release said the ECOMOG force was "steadily finding its feet" and was turning its attention to humanitarian concerns following "the tumultous welcome from the population .... and the degree of understanding and respect accorded" it.

The 2,500-strong ECOMOG force is made up of troops from Ghana, Sierra Leone, Guinea, Nigeria and Gambia. They landed at the Monrovia port at the weekend by sea from Freetown.

The troops met some resistance from National Patriotic Front of Liberia (NPFL) rebels Saturday, but the capital was reported calm Sunday.

"Nearly all the hospitals and health centres have closed down while those still open operate on skeleton basis only," the statement said.

The force was working to restore electricity and water which was cut off in June.

The agency said about 200 Ghanaians trapped in their embassy have gone without food for a month.

An embassy spokesperson said one Ghanaian who was sheltering in the embassy died last week of hunger while "many people are collapsing almost every day."

The NPFL, led by former government official Charles Taylor, controls most of the West African country except for Monrovia city center and the port area to the north.

Troops loyal to embattled president Samuel Doe and Independent National Patriotic Front of Liberia (INPFL) rebels led by Prince Johnson have agreed to a truce and have welcomed the peacekeeping force.

A delegation sent by Prince Johnson arrived in Banjul Wednesday to take part in a conference on the political future of Liberia.

Delegation leader Noah Bordola said his movement would like to see peace in Liberia to end the suffering of the people, but added that President Doe must be removed from the presidential palace by ECOMOG forces.

The INPFL is the only one of the three belligerents in Liberia taking part in the conference in the Gambian capital to establish an interim government in Liberia.

There was sporadic firing in Monrovia's capital Tuesday, Ghana News Agency reported, but there was no precise information on peace-keeping troops positions in the capital on Wednesday.

The Nigerian contingent of the peace-keeping force, the largest with 600 troops and 25 tanks and armoured vehicles, moved towards the small James Spriggs Payne airport on Monday, four kilometres (2.4 miles) west of the presidential palace.

Gaining control of the airport held by troops loyal to President Doe would facilitate the arrival of Nigerian reinforcements, observers said.

The most violent fighting took place Saturday when NPFL troops attacked the port area with rockets launchers before ECOWAS troops could deploy and gain control of the area.

JOHANNESBURG (AUG. 29) - Prospects for peace talks between the leaders of two black warring groups, Inkatha and the African National Congress (ANC), improved Wednesday, an Inkatha source said.

Low level talks between the two groups resumed Wednesday and were continuing late in the day, sources said.

Attending are representatives of the conservative Zulu-based Inkatha party, officials of the self-governing KwaZulu tribal homeland and executives of the alliance representing the black nationalist ANC, the million-strong Congress of South African Trade Unions (Cosatu) and the United Democratic Front (UDF).

The talks are aimed at spearheading negotiations between these groups for the resolution of the conflict that first flared in 1986 in Natal Province where some 4,000 people have died.

This conflict moved to 27 townships in Transvaal Province on August 13 leaving more than 500 dead in two weeks of the worst black-on-black violence yet witnessed in the country.

There are renewed hopes that Wednesday's meeting will clear the way for peace talks between Inkatha leader Mangosuthu Buthelezi and the ANC deputy president Nelson Mandela, Mr. Dhlomo, a former Inkatha secretary-general now an independent conciliator, told AFP.

AMMAN (AUG. 29) - Qatar has expelled 20 PLO officials since the Gulf crisis erupted, the Palestine Liberation Organisation's information chief said here Wednesday.

Yasser Abed Rabbo, speaking at a press conference, also reported what he called "restrictive measures against Palestinians in certain Gulf countries" since the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait on August 2.

Referring to the U.S. military deployment in the Gulf, Mr. Abed Rabbo said the expulsions could have been set as a condition for U.S. security guarantees for regional states.

The PLO has refused to condemn the invasion of Kuwait and has close ties with Baghdad.

BONN (AUG. 29) - The West German embassy in Kuwait was still functioning nearly normally Wednesday on emergency power and water, embassy sources reported.

Nor were Iraqi forces surrounding the compound, it was said.

Ambassador Claus Soenksen and other diplomats commuted to and from the compound daily in their own cars without being stopped. Several diplomats reported water and power shortages at their homes, however.

Embassy officials said fuel reserves were sufficient to keep the power plant supplying at least enough electricity to run the embassy radio, the only reliable link with the outside world.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) - President George Bush Wednesday telephoned Japanese Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu who briefed him on Tokyo's decision to extend financial and medical aid to countries hurt by the U.N.-mandated trade and arms embargo against Iraq.

White House spokesman Roman Popadiuk said Mr. Bush was pleased with Japan's measures, which include dispatching a medical team and various supplies to the region and granting 10 million dollars to refugees from Kuwait who are stranded in Jordan.

During talks with the president Tuesday, several lawmakers raised the issue of how to share the financial burden of the U.S.-led military deployment in the Gulf. Mr. Bush assured the members of Congress that Japan and West Germany, among others, would make a greater financial contribution.

The White House spokesman said the Bush administration was tring to determine what it would ask of its allies and when it would do so.

He reacted with indignation to suggestions that the Japanese financial aid effectively turned the U.S. forces into "mercenaries."

("Japan should fulfill its international responsibilities," Mr. Kaifu told a news conference called to outline the six-point package which the government has been formulating over the past four weeks.)

Other measures announced by Mr. Kaifu include the charter of civilian aircraft and ships to transport food, water and medical supplies to the region, he said, adding that the medical team would comprise about a 100 doctors and nurses.

Mr. Kaifu said that Turkey, Egypt and Jordan -- the countries most affected by the embargo against Iraq and Kuwait -- would receive "substantial" aid from Japan although the amount was not disclosed.

VIENNA (AUG. 29) - The oil market is likely to remain "static" for some time, with prices for "physical" oil likely to settle at around 24 dollars a barrel until extra OPEC crude starts moving, European-based Arab oil executives said here late Wednesday.

Commenting on the implications of OPEC's announcement of steps to boost production, they said this might take three to four weeks.

This meant that additional supplies from the major Gulf producers and Venezuela should begin to have an impact on the market in the second half of September, with shipments reaching destinations about 30 days or more later.

Kuwait's finance minister Sheikh Ali Khalifa al-Sabah, commenting on OPEC's decisions, told reporters that "we do not want the prices to go below 21 (dollars a barrel) and do not want them higher than 21."

Independent oil consultant Bahman Karbassioun meanwhile told AFP the direct effect of the OPEC agreement on the market would be "minimal."

"The prices are moved by the Gulf crisis," he said. "When the risk of war built up, prices went up by over 10 dollars" but they came down by over half that amount on a "slight indication that maybe military conflict is at least postponed."

"If tomorrow tensions increase, you will see a similar increase in prices again," Mr Karbassioun said, "If war actually breaks out, I would not be surprised if prices go above 40 dollars."

BEIJING (AUG. 29) - The number of 2,000-year-old terracotta figures unearthed in Xian, already China's primary archeological tourist site, has risen to 40,000, the China Daily said Wednesday.

The statues from the Han dynasty (207 B.C.- 221 A.D.) are far smaller than those of Emperor Qinshihuang's -- first emperor of the 220 B.C.- 207 B.C. Qin dynasty -- terracotta army, found earlier buried with its horses and chariots.

Around 60 centimeters (24 inches) tall, the newly discovered figures are of naked men and adolescents, thin and armless. Some have black hair, eyes, eyelashes and beards.

They were once dressed in silk robes, but the costumes have disintegrated over the centuries.

The recent discovery was hailed in mid-August as one of the most remarkable ever in China.

"They will open a new chapter in both the Chinese and world study of the history of art," said Wang Xuili, an official of the archeological team responsible for the excavation.

NEW YORK (AUG 29) - French Open winner Andres Gomez, distracted by the crowds on an outside court, became the second Grand Slam champion in two days to crash out of the US Open here Wednesday when he lost his opening match to Brazilian Luiz Mattar.

Gomez, seeded fifth, lost 2-6, 6-3, 3-6, 3-6, joining Wimbledon champion Stefan Edberg, who became the first top seed in 19 years to be eliminated in the first round when he fell in straight sets to Soviet Alexander Volkov on Tuesday.

Gomez' exit marks the first time in the Open era that the French Open and Wimbledon champions have both been beaten in the first round.

Gomez, a 30-year-old from Ecuador, complained of the crowd on court three.

"It's tough to play outside," he said. "The people are walking behind and it's a distraction. I don't like the people moving. It's hard to see the ball."

There was little to separate the two players but Mattar was able to capitalize on Gomez' state of mind to win most of the big points.

The 66th-ranked Brazilian converted six of his 11 break-point opportunities, while Gomez succeeded on only three of nine.

"My game fits his," Mattar said. "When he plays well, he can beat anybody. But when he's not in the match 100 per cent, he gives you a lot of points. I put a lot of pressure on him and tried to win the big points."

Mattar, who is known as a clay-court specialist even though he has won four tournaments at home on hardcourts, felt he had the momentum after winning the first set.

"In this hot and humid weather, I feel the guy who takes the first set has the advantage," he said. "I've beaten him before and I knew I had a chance to beat him, so I took it."

Gomez said he has not had enough time off to prepare for the Open since his victory at Roland Garros because of prior commitments.

"I tried not to play as much," he said. "But when you are number five, they (the organizers) say they want you here and then when you say no, they say you're on the poster so you have to come."

The donation was the second in less than ten days after Saudi Arabia last week granted 75 million dollars to Cairo.

NICOSIA (AUG. 29) - Iraqi Oil Minister Issam al-Jalabi condemned OPEC's agreement Wednesday to boost oil production, arguing that it was illegal because only a full ministerial conference could adopt such a decision.

Mr. Jalabi, quoted by the Iraqi News Agency received here, said the decision taken in Vienna could not replace the agreement reached at the last full conference on July 27.

OPEC's market monitoring committee, which adopted the latest move, was not entitled to take such decisions, he said, noting that the next full conference was scheduled for December.

Mr. Jalabi also condemned what he called pressure from Saudi Arabia and Venezuela on the conference, but praised the opposition from some members of the Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

OPEC decided to increase production to make up for the crude oil supplies lost because of the international embargo on Iraqi and Kuwaiti oil since the invasion of Kuwait.

Iraq and Libya did not attend the meeting, which began as "informal consultations" Sunday and transformed Wednesday into a formal session of the ministerial market monitoring committee. Iran did not endorse the accord.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) - Washington will agree to Baghdad's request for a list of U.S. women and children seeking to leave Iraq, although U.S. officials fear the move could lead to the arrest of the women's spouses, the State Department said Wednesday.

Baghdad has required exit visas from all U.S. citizens who want to leave Iraq, said State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler.

"We have been asked to provide the Iraqi authorities with the names of all those who might desire to leave. We are responding to that request," she said.

The State Department is aware that such a list might permit Iraqi authorities to round up more male U.S. citizens, she added.

After President George Bush deployed thousands of U.S. troops and dozens of warships to the Middle East in response to Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait, Iraqi authorities began rounded up some of the thousands of foreigners working or living in Iraq and Kuwait. U.S. officials have accused Baghdad of relocating some of those Western captives to Iraqi military facilities to prevent a possible attack by U.S. forces.

Miss Tutwiler called Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's decision to let some of the U.S. citizens depart "a significant step in the right direction" -- if implemented.

"We have seen statements like these before. We hope Saddam Hussein will have the human decency to live up to his word," she said.

Some 70 U.S. citizens already have been arrested by Iraqi authorities in Iraq and Iraqi-occupied Kuwait. One U.S. man died of a heart attack while in Iraqi custody. Thursday, Iraqi medical personnel were to perform an autopsy on the man, whose name has not been released to the public, with a Western doctor observing the procedure.

The United States has provided a list of 15 U.S. citizens in Iraqi custody who need special medical care and has demanded their immediate release. But U.S. officials have refused Baghdad's offer to permit medications to be sent to the U.S. captives.

"We would fear that such individuals with whom we are now in contact might be removed to an unknown place by the Iraqi authorities," Miss Tutwiler said.

MEXICO CITY (AUG 29) - The Gulf crisis has pushed oil prices in Mexico up an average of nine dollars a barrel to as high as 27 dollars per barrel, the state Petroleos Mexicanos (PEMEX) announced Wednesday.

The company said extra-light Olmeca oil was selling in the Western Hemisphere in August for 27.05 dollars per barrel, while light Istmo sold for 25.47 dollars a barrel and heavy Maya sold for 20.05 dollars a barrel.

In July, extra-light oil sold for 17.18 dollars a barrel, light for 15.78 dollars a barrel and heavy for 11.81 dollars a barrel, PEMEX said.

In Europe, Istmo oil sold in August for 24.99 dollars a barrel against 15.30 dollars in July, and Maya sold for 18.67 dollars a barrel against 10.26 in July.

Meanwhile in New York, the price of a barrel of crude oil plunged 1.96 dollars.

The price drop followed almost unanimous approval by members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, including Saudi Arabia, for a temporary increase in oil production.

The production hike was aimed at compensating for the loss of four million barrels a day lost from Iraq and Kuwait due to an international embargo in place since Iraq invaded Kuwait August 2.

A barrel of West Texas Intermediate oil for delivery in October closed 1.96 dollars lower Wednesday, down from 25.92 dollars at Tuesday's close.

Also Wednesday, Argentina's state Yacimientos Petroliferos Fiscales announced that its oil production was up 5.02 per cent the first seven months of this year over the same period last year.

SYDNEY (AUG 30) - Five residents of a apartment block were shot dead Thursday when a crazed gunman ran amok in the Australian city of Sydney.

Police said two women and three men were shot in the head at close range after the gunman, aged in his thirties, burst into the building in Surry Hills suburb.

After the massacre, the man placed his gun on the ground and went to a nearby shop where he bought a bottle of lemonade and a packet of cigarettes. He gave himself up to police who arrived at the scene.

Police said the gunman first shot dead a relative who lived in the apartment house before opening fire indiscriminately on the other four victims, all of them neighbors.

SINGAPORE (AUG. 29) - Fares of major airlines, including Singapore Airlines (SIA), are to rise by five to 10 percent from Saturday because of increased fuel costs due to the Gulf crisis, an SIA spokesman said Wednesday.

The spokesman said the fare hikes were decided at a meeting here Tuesday of the Intra-Orient Marketing Program (IMP), which sets guidelines on minimum airfares to and from Singapore for about 20 airlines.

The rises will not be binding on tickets bought earlier but used for travelling after September 1.

Besides SIA, IMP comprises Swissair, British Airways, Cathay Pacific and Thai Airways International. The SIA spokesman said non-IMP airlines would likely follow with their own fare increases.

Under the new rates, fares to Southeast Asian countries, as well as Taiwan, Japan, South Korea, Australia and the Indian subcontintent, will go up by seven percent.

Fares to Europe will cost five percent more while those to the Middle East will be increased by 10 percent.

The spokesman said the fare hikes were necessitated by the rise in fuel prices, which shot up by about 40 percent following Iraq's invasion of Kuwait on August 2.

SIA officials say that a rise of one U.S. cent per gallon of oil raises the airline's fuel bill by about 9.5 million Singapore dollars (5.4 million U.S.) annually.

JAKARTA (AUG. 29) - Indonesia has agreed to sell some of its oil to the Philippines but has turned down similar requests from India and Pakistan, oil officials here have said.

The three countries had approached Indonesia to buy oil to replace some of the Middle East supplies that had been disrupted by the Gulf crisis, the President Director of state oil firm Pertamina, Faisal Abda'oe, said Tuesday.

Indonesia would fulfill the Philippine requests for political reasons, he said, but meeting the other requests would be difficult as Pertamina had commitments to its traditional buyers.

Pertamina sources said Indonesia had agreed in principle to sell its oil to Manila and the two sides were now negotiating on prices. Indonesia and the Philippines are both members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations.

Mines and Energy Minister Ginanjar Kartasasmita said last week that Indonesia was raising its oil output towards its quota of 1.37 million barrels per day (BPD) set by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

The move was aimed at helping ease shortages of developing countries, including neighbouring Philippines which would get some 10,000 barrels per day, he said.

Philippine President Corazon Aquino said this week Jakarta had agreed to sell 300,000 barrels of crude oil, about half of Manila's original request.

Indonesia is currently producing around 1.30 million BPD, some 700,000 BPD of which are exported, mainly to Japan contracts.

MANILA (AUG. 29) - The Philippine House of Representatives passed on final reading late Tuesday a bill making participation in a coup attempt a crime, official spokesmen said Wednesday, as fears persisted here of a new military power grab.

The bill will now go to a conference committee so it can be reconciled with a version passed earlier by the Senate, which initiated the legislation after last December's bloody abortive putsch against President Corazon Aquino.

The house bill was passed by a vote of 112 to 21 late Tuesday, hours after a special presidential commission probing military unrest urged quicker action on the proposed law as one measure to forestall a new attempt.

There was no immediate official word on the difference between the two bills, but the Manila Chronicle said the house version called for a maximum penalty of life imprisonment for any member of the military or government who takes part in a coup attempt, while the senate opted for 20 years.

The reconciled version of the bills will be signed by Mrs. Aquino into law.

Both bills define participation in a coup as a crime in itself.

Under existing laws, captured coup plotters and participants are charged with rebellion or mutiny before civilian courts and military tribunals.

The passage of the house bill came as a two-week-old military alert against a new coup attempt continued following a wave of bombings by suspected followers of rebel leader Gregorio Honasan, a dismissed army colonel who led the December putsch.

At least 119 people were killed and more than 500 wounded in the uprising, the sixth and bloodiest since Mrs. Aquino was installed in power by a 1986 military-civilian revolt against strongman Ferdinand Marcos.

A presidential commission probing the coup attempts issued a report Tuesday calling for stronger punishment of coup plotters and the enactment of laws insulating the military from politics.

The commission also called for measures to speed up the trial of arrested plotters and a review of a Supreme Court ruling allowing civilian suspects to post bail.

OTTAWA (AUG. 29) - The Free Trade Agreement (FTA) between Ottawa and Washington has had no significant effect on direct Japanese investments in Canada, according to a report recently published by the Canada-Japan Chamber of Commerce.

The report, titled "Japanese Direct Investment in Canada" and written by Professor Alan Rugman of the University of Toronto, analyzed the nature of direct trade between Japan and Canada.

In particular, the report focused on Japanese trade strategy in the North American continent since January 1, 1989 when the FTA went into effect.

Despite the advantages that free trade offers Japanese investors in terms of access to the U.S. market, the FTA has not resulted in increased direct Japanese investment in Canada, the report said.

Japanese investors prefer to invest directly in the United States rather than Canada, it said.

Mr. Rugman added that it was unlikely that the free trade accord would attract more Japanese investment unless the United States adopted protectionist policies aimed at discouraging Japanese penetration of U.S. markets.

Direct Japanese investments in Canada, which in 1988 amounted to 3.6 billion dollars, are far less than those in the United States (76 billion dollars) or in the European Economic Community (23.1 billion dollars.)

With one tenth of the population and gross national product of the United States, Canada should attract Japanese investment worth at least a tenth of that in the United States, Mr. Rugman said. But instead, he said, it is less than 5 percent that in the United States.

The Japanese presence is concentrated in the mining and lumber industries, as well as in certain provinces such as Ontario, British Colombia and Alberta, the report said.

MADRID (AUG. 29) EFE - A Spanish Air Force transport plane left for Jordan Wednesday carrying food and medical supplies to help the tens of thousands of refugees who have fled there from Iraq, officials said.

The Hercules plane took off from the Getafe air base, near Madrid, carrying a ton of powdered milk, two of medicines and first aid material as well as 85 tents, 2,500 blankets, 326 foldaway beds and 74 cots.

The aid, worth 26 million pesetas (some dlrs 260,000) has been put together by the government's Institute for Cooperation with the Arab World.

According to the institute's director, Mariano Alonso-Buron, the supplies will be handed over to Jordanian authorities and probably distributed through the International Red Cross.

Alonso-Buron, who left for Jordan on the Hercules plane, told reporters that the aircraft would also be used during five days to help lift some of the refugees, the majority Egptian, out of Jordan.

But the institute's director said he doubted that any of the Spaniards living in Amman would also be evacuated as the community there +is small and the situation in that country is not worrying+.

Tens of thousands of people have flooded into Jordan from Iraq since Baghdad invaded Kuwait August 2.

Most of them are in camps close to the Jordan-Iraq border, where living and sanitary conditions are reported to be very poor.

The Jordanian government has asked for foreign aid to help deal with the deluge of refugees and has also called on the United Nations to draw up an economic aid programme to help it compensate for losses incurred through backing a U.N. embargo against Iraq, one of its main trading partners.

The court rejected prosecutors' claims that Febres Cordero had embezzled public funds when he ordered the Central Bank to give him the money.

The former president, of the conservative Social Christian Party, had said he used the money to pay for the services of Israeli counter-insurgency expert Ram Gazit.

Also cleared was Febres Cordero's son-in-law and personal secretary during his 1984-1988 term, Miguel Orellana, who had been involved in the cash transfer.

MOSCOW (AUG 29) EFE - Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev met Wednesday with Boris Yeltsin, his long-time adversary and the president of the Russian Federation, to discuss a program of drastic reforms aimed at reviving the faltering Soviet economy.

"Both Yeltsin and Gorbachev indicated during a break in the talks they were very satisfied with their progress," said newly- appointed Kremlin spokesman Vitaly Ignatenko.

Nearly all 50 items on the agenda of the all-day meeting were related to the efforts by an ad hoc task force of specialists to draw up a plan for easing the shortages and disruptions caused by the government's attempts to introduce a regulated market economy.

The team is comparing proposals for cautious, go-slow reforms put forward by Soviet Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzkhov, and more far-reaching and potentially disruptive measures advocated by Yeltsin.

Interviewed with Yeltsin on Soviet television after their talks, Gorbachev said that the job of reconciling the two programs would be finished within a week and the single reform package would be imediately submitted for ratification by the 15 Soviet Republics.

Yeltsin has threatened to put his so-called "500 Days" reform program into effect in the Russian Federation, the Soviet Union's most populous and industrially-powerful republic, even if the rest of the country fails to follow suit.

Observers said the creation of the study group seemed to indicate that Gorbachev has effectively come round to Yeltsin's point of view that the economy is in such bad shape that extensive, free-market reforms cannot be put off any longer.

"Our leaders are determined to stabilize the situation and use their powers to defend the new economic policy, the construction of a new federation and to defend perestroika itself," Ignatenko said.

Both leaders during the television interview reaffirmed their willingness to work together to help the Soviet Union weather the economic crisis, and downplayed a recent tiff over the sale of Siberian diamonds to South Africa.

BOGOTA (AUG 29) EFE - Colombia's most radical leftist guerrilla group, the pro-Cuban National Liberation Army (ELN), announced Wednesday it was ready to begin peace talks with the government.

In a press release, the ELN said it was willing to start a dialogue with the government of President Cesar Gaviria aimed at ending its 23-year-old insurgency.

Led by former Spanish priest Manuel Perez, the ELN is best known for a four-year bombing campaign directed at Colombia's main oil pipeline.

It has targeted the pipeline some 120 times, causing more than dlrs 321 million in damages, in an effort to prevent what it claims is the theft of Colombian resources by multinational corporations.

ELN rebels have also kidnapped dozens of people, including a Colombian senator and two Americans in February.

The statement Wednesday went on to say the ELN would assume leadership of the Simon Bolivar Guerrilla Coordinator (CNGSB), which groups Colombia's rebel organizations, in talks with the government.

Of the six guerrilla groups that founded the CNGSB in 1987, all but the ELN had agreed at least in principle to peace negotiations with the government of former president Virgilio Barco.

Peace talks with Barco's government led to the conversion of the M-19 guerrilla group into a political party earlier this year.

The Maoist "People's Liberation Army," pro-Indian Quintin Lame and the Trotskyist "Workers' Revolutionary Party" have also begun the peace process.

During the final months of the Barco administration and the first days of Gaviria's presidency, FARC said it wanted to open direct talks with the government but has rejected the precondition of a cease-fire.

The communist Colombian Revolutionary Armed Forces (FARC) had headed the CNGSB until the death of the group's spokesman, Jacobo Arenas, on August 10.

Analysts said the ELN decision to seek a dialogue was probably aimed at participating in a National Assembly that will reform Colombia's constitution next year.

Gaviria last week called elections for December 9 to choose 70 delegates to the constitutional convention.

He said members of armed guerrilla groups would not be allowed to seek the positions, but said disbanded rebel units or groups that were involved in demobilization talks could put up candidates.

DAR ES SALAAM (AUG. 29) XINHUA - POPE JOHN 11 WILL START HIS FIVE-DAY TOUR OF TANZANIA ON SATURDAY AT THE INVITATION OF PRESIDENT ALI HASSAN MWINYI AND THE TANZANIA EPISCOPAL CONFERENCE.

THE WORLD SPIRITUAL LEADER OF CATHOLICS IS EXPECTED TO VISIT THE TANZANIAN CAPITAL CITY OF DAR ES SALAAM AND FOUR OTHER REGIONS IN THE EAST AFRICAN COUNTRY.

THIS WILL BE THE FIRST TIME FOR A POPE TO VISIT TANZANIA. PREPA- RATIONS HAVE BEEN GOING ON FOR SEVERAL MONTHS. THE ROADS IN THE CITY ARE BEING CLEANED AND THE CLERGYMEN ARE BUSY FINALISING THEIR JOBS.

PRESIDENT MWINYI, WHO IS A MUSLIM HIMSELF, TOOK PART IN THE PREPARATIONS AND HAS DONATED SOME MONEY FOR THE VISIT. HE SAID RECENTLY THAT TANZANIA'S POLITICAL STABILITY IN THE PAST YEARS DEPENDED ON UNITY BETWEEN THE COUNTRY'S TWO MAJOR RELIGIONS: MOSLEM AND CATHOLIC, WHICH HAS BEEN HIGHLY PRAISED BY THE OUTSIDERS.

THE POPE'S AFRICAN TOUR WILL ALSO INCLUDE BURUNDI, RWANDA AND COTE

DIVOIRE. THIS IS HIS SEVENTH VISIT TO AFRICA SINCE HE WAS ELECTED TO THE PAPACY IN OCTOBER, 1978.

WINDHOEK (AUG. 29) XINHUA - THE NAMIBIAN FOREIGN MINISTRY ANNOUNCED HERE TODAY THAT ZIMBABWE IS THE FIRST COUNTRY THAT HAS RESPONDED POSITIVELY TO THE NAMIBIAN VISA EXEMPTION REQUIREMENT.

THE MINISTRY SAID IN A PRESS RELEASE THAT ON JUNE 14 THE NAMIBIAN GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCED THAT THE CITIZENS OF MORE THAN 20 COUNTRIES WOULD BE EXEMPTED FROM VISA REQUIREMENTS FOR ENTRY TO NAMIBIA FOR TOURIST AND BUSINESS TRAVEL.

AMONG THE LISTED COUNTRIES SIX ARE FROM AFRICA. THEY ARE ANGOLA, BOTSWANA MOZAMBIQUE, TANZANIA, ZAMBIA AND ZIMBABWE. OTHERS INCLUDE AUSTRIA, BELGIUM, BRITAIN, FEDERAL GERMANY, FRANCE, HOLLAND, IRELAND, ITALY, LUXEMBOURG, SWITZERLAND, THE SOVIET UNION, CANADA AND JAPAN.

THE NAMIBIAN GOVERNMENT REQUESTED THESE COUNTRIES TO FACILITATE SIMILAR VISA EXEMPTIONS FOR NAMIBIAN TOURIST AND BUSINESS TRA- VELLERS TO THEIR RESPECTIVE COUNTRIES.

MANAGUA (AUG. 29) XINHUA - THE HEAD OF HONDURAN ARMED FORCES, BRIG. GEN. ARNULFO CANTARERO LOPEZ, DESCRIBED HIS MEETING WITH NICARAGUAN PRESIDENT VIOLETA BARRIOS DE CHAMORRO TUESDAY AS "HISTORICAL."

IN A BRIEF STATEMENT TO THE PRESS, CANTARERO SAID HE WAS SATISFIED WITH HIS VISIT WHICH "MARKED THE BEGINNING OF A NEW ERA BETWEEN THE TWO SISTER REPUBLICS."

"THE TALKS HAVE BEEN FRUITFUL AND WE ARE GOING TO REACH AN UNDERSTANDING AS SOON AS POSSIBLE IN ORDER TO SETTLE SOME FRICTION WE HAVE HAD IN THE RECENT PAST," HE SAID.

DURING HIS ONE-DAY VISIT, THE HONDURAN MILITARY HEAD ALSO MET WITH GEN. HUMBERTO ORTEGA, COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF THE SANDINISTA ARMY, TO DISCUSS "DIFFERENT TOPICS OF COMMON INTEREST."

HUMBERTO ORTEGA ALSO EXPRESSED SATISFACTION AT THE OUTCOME OF THE MEETING WITH HIS HONDURAN COUNTERPART. HE ANNOUNCED THAT NICARAGUA AND HONDURAS ARE GOING TO ESTABLISH DIFFERENT MECHANISMS THAT WILL ALLOW THE TWO COUNTRIES TO GRADUATELY STRENGTHEN THEIR TIES.

KUALA LUMPUR (AUG. 29) KYODO - THE TIMBER-RICH MALAYSIAN STATE OF SABAH IN BORNEO WILL NOT BAN THE EXPORT OF LOGS, THE BULK OF WHICH GOES TO JAPAN UNLESS THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT IS WILLING TO COMPENSATE IT FOR THE SUBSTANTIAL LOSS IN STATE REVENUE, SABAH CHIEF MINISTER JOSEPH PAIRIN KITINGAN SAID, ACCORDING TO LOCAL NEWSPAPERS WEDNESDAY.

KUALA LUMPUR IMPOSED A BAN BEGINNING THIS YEAR ON EXPORTS OF TROPICAL HARDWOOD LOGS FROM PENINSULAR MALAYSIA IN THE FACE OF RISING CRITICISM FROM INTERNATIONAL ENVIRONMENTALISTS THAT MALAYSIA IS HARMING THE GLOBAL ENVIRONMENT BY INDISCRIMINATE LOGGING OF ITS VAST TROPICAL FORESTS.

BUT THE STATES OF SABAH AND SARAWAK, AMONG THE WORLD'S LARGEST TROPICAL TIMBER PRODUCERS AND ACCOUNTING FOR 90 PERCENT OF MALAYSIA'S LOG EXPORTS, MAINLY TO JAPAN, COULD NOT BE INCLUDED IN THE BAN BECAUSE FORESTRY IS UNDER STATE AND NOT FEDERAL JURISDICTION.

''THE LOSS IN STATE REVENUE FROM AN OUTRIGHT BAN ON LOG EXPORTS WILL BE UNTENABLE UNLESS COMPENSATED IN SOME FORM BY THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT,'' PAIRIN SAID IN KOTA KINABALU, THE CAPITAL OF SABAH.

ACCORDING TO PAIRIN, THE FORESTRY SECTOR ACCOUNTED FOR OVER 50 PERCENT OF THE STATE REVENUES BETWEEN 1980 AND 1988 AND LOG ROYALTIES FORMED 95 PERCENT OF THIS INCOME.

''IN ABSOLUTE TERMS, LOG EXPORT ROYALTIES PEAKED IN 1980 AND AGAIN IN 1988 AT SLIGHTLY OVER ONE BILLION RINGGIT AND AVERAGED 726 MILLION RINGGIT PER YEAR BETWEEN 1971 AND 1987,'' HE SAID, THE NEWSPAPERS REPORTED.

PRIMARY INDUSTRIES MINISTER LIM KENG YAIK HAS ALREADY INDICATED THAT THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT IS WILLING TO DISCUSS SOME SORT OF COMPENSATION, BUT TIMBER INDUSTRY SOURCES SAID THAT THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT IS BALKING AT THE AMOUNT.

''THE FORM OF COMPENSATION HAS NOT BEEN DETERMINED BUT WE ARE LOOKING FORWARD TO A MUTUALLY AGREEABLE FORMULA,'' PAIRIN WAS QUOTED AS SAYING.

PAIRIN, HOWEVER, SAID THE STATE GOVERNMENT WAS IN FAVOR OF A PHASED REDUCTION OF LOG EXPORTS AND THIS POLICY WAS MANIFESTED IN RECENT CHANGES IN ROYALTIES ON LOG EXPORTS.

LOG ROYALTY RATES HAVE BEEN REVISED UPWARD IN STAGES FROM JANUARY 1 THIS YEAR.

''TO COMPLEMENT THIS MOVE TO REDUCE THE VOLUME OF LOG EXPORTS, THE STATE GOVERNMENT HAS ALSO FORMULATED OTHER MEASURES TO CREATE MORE OPPORTUNITIES

AND ORDERLY DEVELOPMENT OF DOWNSTREAM WOOD INDUSTRIES,'' HE SAID.

LAST YEAR, SABAH EXPORTED 1.67 BILLION RINGGIT WORTH OF LOGS, 38.9 PERCENT OF THE 4.3 BILLION RINGGIT LOG EXPORTS FROM MALAYSIA.

TOKYO (AUG. 29) KYODO - NIPPON TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE CORP. (NTT) SAID THURSDAY IT HAS DEVELOPED WHAT IT CLAIMED TO BE THE FIRST ELECTRON MICROSCOPE THAT CAN OBSERVE AND ENLARGE IN REAL-TIME THE UNEVEN LAYERS OF ATOMS IN CRYSTALLINE STRUCTURES THAT MAKE UP MULTI-MATERIAL-BASED SEMICONDUCTORS.

NTT OFFICIALS SAID THE NEW ELECTRON MICROSCOPE WILL OPEN THE DOORS FOR SCIENTISTS TO BETTER UNDERSTAND THE BASIC ELEMENTS OF SEMICONDUCTORS COMPOSED OF DIFFERENT MATERIALS.

IT WILL ALSO ENABLE THEM TO DEVELOP NEW TECHNIQUES TO BE USED FOR FABRICATING NEXT-GENERATION CHIPS THAT WILL BE REQUIRED IN THE 21ST CENTURY, THEY ADDED.

THE NEW ELECTRON MICROSCOPE HAS A MAXIMUM HIGH DEFINITION RESOLUTION OF 30 NANOMETERS. A NANOMETER IS EQUAL TO ONE-BILLIONTH OF A METER.

NTT OFFICIALS SAID THE HIGH RESOLUTION ABILITY OF THE ELECTRON MICROSCOPE ENABLES PICTURES TO BE TAKEN EVERY SECOND.

NTT PRESENTED ITS NEW DISCOVERY AT AN INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE HELD IN SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY.

TOKYO (AUG. 29) KYODO - BANK OF JAPAN (BOJ) GOVERNOR YASUSHI MIENO ON WEDNESDAY DENIED PRESS REPORTS OF AN IMMINENT OFFICIAL DISCOUNT RATE HIKE, SAYING THERE WERE NO TALKS WITH THE FINANCE MINISTRY ON THE ISSUE.

THE CENTRAL BANK IS KEEPING CLOSE WATCH ON DOMESTIC AND EXTERNAL DEVELOPMENTS IN LIGHT OF THE CURRENT UNCERTAINTY OVER THE TIGHT MIDDLE EAST SITUATION AND THE SURGE IN CRUDE OIL PRICES, MIENO TOLD HIS FIRST PRESS CONFERENCE IN ONE-AND-A-HALF MONTHS.

THE SITUATION IN THE UNITED STATES AND OTHER COUNTRIES IS ALWAYS KEPT IN MIND IN CONSIDERING JAPAN'S FINANCIAL POLICY, MIENO STRESSED. HE REITERATED THAT THERE IS NO BASIC CHANGE IN JAPAN'S FINANCIAL POLICY.

THE CENTRAL BANK CHIEF SAID PRICES IN JAPAN REMAIN STABLE. BUT HE ALSO POINTED TO THE TIGHT LABOR MARKET AND THE HIGH RATE OF GROWTH IN THE MONEY SUPPLY, CITING THEM AS POTENTIAL TRIGGERS FOR PRICE INCREASES.

CRUDE OIL PRICE HIKES, SPARKED BY THE MIDDLE EAST CRISIS, ARE ALSO A MAJOR INFLATIONARY FACTOR, HE SAID.

REGARDING THE CURRENT MOVES ON FOREIGN EXCHANGE MARKETS, MIENO SAID THE RATES CONTINUE TO BE VOLATILE DUE BOTH TO BUYING OF THE U.S. DOLLAR AT A TIME OF INTERNATIONAL CRISIS AND YEN-BUYING PRESSURE BASED ON JAPAN'S CONTINUING ECONOMIC BOOM AND STRONG FUNDAMENTALS.

TOKYO (AUG. 29) KYODO - IMPORT CONTRACTS BY 18 MAJOR JAPANESE TRADING FIRMS JUMPED 45.2 PERCENT TO 1,493.4 BILLION YEN IN JULY FROM THE SAME MONTH LAST YEAR, WHILE EXPORT CONTRACTS ROSE 10.6 PERCENT TO 1,061.0 BILLION YEN, ACCORDING TO A REPORT ISSUED WEDNESDAY BY A TRADE INDUSTRY COUNCIL.

THE JULY JUMP IN IMPORTS IS ATTRIBUTABLE MAINLY TO A 47 PERCENT CLIMB IN CONTRACTS ON METALS, WHILE CONTRACTS FOR MACHINERY, WHICH ROSE 11.4 PERCENT, RESULTED IN THE INCREASE IN EXPORTS, THE JAPAN FOREIGN TRADE COUNCIL SAID.

IMPORTS OF IRON ORE ROSE 2.6 TIMES WHILE THOSE OF COAL SOARED 5.7 TIMES. FUEL IMPORTS WERE 33.3 PERCENT HIGHER, WHILE MACHINERY IMPORTS ROSE 55.6 PERCENT.

EXPORTS OF SHIPS ROSE NEARLY 5.4 TIMES, WHILE THOSE OF MACHINERY ROSE 11.4 PERCENT. AUTOMOBILES SHOWED A 15.3 PERCENT GAIN.

THE REPORT SAID THAT PACING JULY'S INCREASE IN CONTRACTED EXPORTS WAS MACHINERY SUCH AS VESSELS AND MOTOR VEHICLES.

MACHINERY EXPORTS TO SOUTHEAST ASIA IN PARTICULAR HAVE BEEN LEADING OVERALL EXPORTS SINCE FEBRUARY, THE COUNCIL SAID.

EXPORTS OF TELEVISION SET COMPONENTS TO CHINA RECOVERED AHEAD OF THE ASIAN GAMES.

COLOMBO (AUG. 29) KYODO - SRI LANKAN PRESIDENT RANASINGHE PREMADASA ANNOUNCED TUESDAY THAT THE COUNTRY'S STATE OF EMERGENCY WILL BE LIFTED AT THE END OF 1990.

THE PRESIDENT, ADDRESSING OFFICIALS AND PEOPLE'S REPRESENTATIVES IN THE TOWN OF MONERAGALA IN SOUTHERN SRI LANKA, SAID HE WAS CONFIDENT PEACE AND NORMALCY WOULD RETURN TO THE NORTHEAST PROVINCES OF THE ISLAND WHERE TAMIL REBELS HAVE BEEN BATTLING GOVERNMENT FORCES SINCE JUNE 11.

THE REBELS, FROM THE LIBERATION TIGERS OF TAMIL EELAM (LTTE), HAVE REFUSED TO LAY DOWN ARMS AND NEGOTIATE WITH THE GOVERNMENT TO RESOLVE THE TAMIL'S DEMAND FOR SUBSTANTIAL AUTONOMY FOR THE NORTHEAST REGION WHICH THEY CLAIM AS THEIR TRADITIONAL HOMELAND. TAMILS MAKE UP 16 PERCENT OF THE COUNTRY'S POPULATION.

THE STATE OF EMERGENCY WAS LIFTED WHEN PRESIDENT PREMADASA TOOK OFFICE IN JANUARY 1989, BUT WAS REINTRODUCED TO CURB A MILITANT MAJORITY SINHALA INSURGENCY IN THE SOUTH BY THE JANATHA VIMUKTI PERAMUNA (JVP) OR THE PEOPLE'S LIBERATION FRONT.

LATE LAST YEAR THE JVP LEADERSHIP AND ALMOST ALL ITS SECOND RANKERS WERE ELIMINATED BY THE SECURITY FORCES.

HOWEVER, THE STATE OF EMERGENCY WAS EXTENDED EVERY MONTH IN VIEW OF THE UNSETTLED SECURITY SITUATION IN THE COUNTRY.

THE GOVERNMENT LAUNCHED A MAJOR OFFENSIVE ON THE NORTHERN JAFFNA PENINSULA A TAMIL TIGERS STRONGHOLD, ON AUGUST 22 AND STATE MINISTER FOR DEFENCE RANJAN WIJERATNE SAYS HE IS CONFIDENT HE WILL ''BE ABLE TO WIPE OUT THE LTTE.''

FALLS CHURCH, VA (AUG 29) MCS - A SAMPLING OF TODAY'S COMMENTARY COMPILED BY MARKET CONSENSUS SURVEYS, INC. IN TWO SECTIONS (1) STOCKS (2) MONEY & ECONOMY.

IN THE NEWS:

The COMMERCE DEPARTMENT reports that the index of leading indicators for July were unchanged versus a 0.1 rise in June. Economists were expecting a decline of 0.2%.

World stock markets are generally lower. ... The Nikkei loses 816 points on speculation that the discount rate will be hiked ... London stocks unchanged at midday after opening weaker. ... Overseas trading in U.S. stocks is weak, prices are flat to down slightly. ... North Sea crude is down $.67 to $25.95 a barrel as OPEC ministers meeting in Vienna announced this morning that they have agreed to increase oil production although Iran voiced reservations. ... U.S. bond prices move higher overseas. ... The UAW names GENERAL MOTORS as its target company for negotiating a pattern-setting national labor contract to replace a three-year accord that expires Sept. 14. A union priority in the talks is job security. ... MICHAEL STEINHARDT, a New York money manager, and his investment group say they have increased their stake in USAIR to 9.46%. ... CONTINENTAL AIRLINES says it will build its $190 million aircraft maintenance center and a world headquarters complex in Houston.

WHAT'S AHEAD:

The COMMERCE DEPARTMENT releases single family home sales for July at 10 a.m. EDT. ... NEXT INC. plans to introduce a series of products next month in its latest attempt to become a major player in the computer market. ... MGM GRAND plans to sell its DESERT INN HOTEL AND CASINO. The property has attracted investors in the Far East and is expected to fetch at least $200 million.

FROM THE BULLS:

"I like the way the market performed [Tuesday] at that 2600 area," says EUGENE PERONI JR. of JANNEY MONTGOMERY SCOTT. "I think that might be a secondary pivot area now." He says swings should be contained in the 2500 to 2760 range. "We would have to get above 2770 to finish this correction and to begin a new upleg to rechallenge the highs." He says the market went down further than he had expected, but that may be good because it has increased the bearishness in the market keeping investors off guard and protecting the market from being broadsided by any bad news. "I am encouraged here that we could have made an important bottom and could have presented a new buying opportunity for an important upleg over the next six months or so. But for now I think we have to do some more backing and filling basing activity before that begins." (FNN "Marketwrap", 8/28)

FROM THE BEARS:

"If the relief rally should continue, it would be a further opportunity to move away from the market," says STEVEN EINHORN, portfolio strategist at GOLDMAN SACHS. "Now is a time to raise cash into any rallies rather than invest into them." He urges his investors to resist the temptation to fish for bargains. Even without Iraq, he says, the market lacks appeal for several reasons. He expects 1991 earnings will be flat, with a slight upturn in profits coming no sooner than the 1991 third quarter. (WSJ, 8/29)

"The stock market is showing all the signs that it's nearing the end of a bounce from an oversold condition," says market analyst CHRISTINE CALLIES of COWEN & CO. in Boston. "Breadth has been good, but volume has been unimpressive. That tells us the rally is probably unsustainable. Our feeling is the oversold bounce will probably end between Dow 2620 and 2655." Callies expects the Dow to decline and retest the upper-2400 area, and this process could take eight weeks or more. ("Investor's Daily", 8/29)

STOCK MARKET:

"We're in a settling period," says KIDDER, PEABODY's DENNIS JARRETT. "After all the excitement the last three weeks, we've reached a point of equilibrium. Buyers and sellers are standing there saying there is no reason to do anything." ("USA Today", 8/29)

"After two big up days, the market responded pretty well," says PAUL HENNESSEY, head of equities trading at the BOSTON CO. "The low volume indicates a lot of people are either away or cautious, awaiting more certainty on the Mideast situation or economic numbers." KEN KNUTEL, equities strategist at KEMPER FINANCIAL SERVICES, was also encouraged by the stability of Tuesday's market despite the Bush administration's saying there isn't any basis for negotiation with Iraq. (WSJ, 8/29)

"I guess there's hope out there that we're coming closer to some sort of a breakthrough on the Mideast situation," says RON DORAN, director of institutional trading at C.L. KING & ASSOCIATES, explaining the spate of last-minute buying that nudged the blue chips slightly higher at the end of Tuesday's trading. "If this thing gets defused, there will be an upturn, and they don't want to miss it." He adds, "We're back to a neutral zone where [the market] could break either way, depending on the news in the Middle East." (Reuters, 8/28 and "The Washington Post", 8/29)

"I suspect that before this is over we will see the market down below the 2500 again," says ROBERT STOVALL, president of STOVALL/TWENTY- FIRST ADVISERS. He had expected more selling on Tuesday and expects to see increased selling Wednesday and Thursday leading in to a "Friday faint" as we have seen on previous Fridays. (CNBC "Business View", 8/28)

The market is "marking time" according to MONTE GORDON, director of research at DREYFUS CORP. "Right now, [investors] are a little bit more favorably inclined in terms of their fears" about the Middle East situation. He says the market direction will change with each little development in the Middle East. Mr. Gordon says that this market can't really be predicted using normal technical or fundamental measures. "What you are looking at here is a market that is tip toeing through the tulips very gingerly and very carefully and constantly looking over its shoulder at what may 2 happen" in the Middle East. "If you do see tensions ease in the Persian Gulf then you will see the market slowly begin to work its way back up." (CNBC "Market Wrap-Up", 8/28)

"Right now the market has got a lull, and it has really capitalized on that with no real news coming out of the Middle East," says JEFF LANDLE, portfolio manager at STOVALL/TWENTY-FIRST ADVISERS. WILLIAM BAKER, portfolio manager at OPPENHEIMER FUND MANAGEMENT, says, "I think basically where we are is we found an intermediate low, and we are going to bounce around here trying to figure out what's going on." His portfolio is one third stocks and two thirds cash and short-term bonds. "Basically what I am doing is still girding for more of a recession and a softer economy than we have had." (CNBC "Business View", 8/28)

Since July 16, OTC prices are down 19% compared to a 12.5% decline in the Dow. "There's been sort of a sell everything mentality," says MITCHELL MEISLER at LEHMAN BROTHERS. Liquidity is also a problem. BETH COTNER, a portfolio manager for KEMPER who specializes in small stocks, says she often has to take a point below quote just to get out: "Liquidity in the over-the-counter-market has always been a problem ... where you have panic selling, its even worse." (CNN "Business Day", 8/29)

STOCK TIPS:

EUGENE PERONI JR. of JANNEY MONTGOMERY SCOTT recommends two high technology stocks "because I feel that is going to be one of the better performing sectors now." VISHAY INTERTECH was hard hit, but is showing good relative strength for a turnaround company in a speciality area. It closed yesterday at 15 3/4 and Peroni sees good potential for a move to 19 short term. "They are at the top of their field." Peroni also likes MOTOROLA which had a very nice bottoming configuration recently and good turnaround potential to move back into the mid to high 70s over the short term, and longer term the stock could make new highs. "It is an important stock to look to for leadership over the next six months." The stock closed Tuesday at 72 1/8. (FNN "Marketwrap", 8/28)

The OHIO CO. recommends buying stock in WALGREEN CO., a leading drugstore chain that has 1,500 stores in 29 states. The companies per share earnings should grow 15% in fiscal 1991 due to the opening of 120 drugstores this year and an improved computer system for its stores and distribution centers which will boost its already "exceptional" store productivity. ("USA Today", 8/29)

Post-Iraq insider stock transactions are previewed by CNN's DAN DORFMAN. Top brass has been buying stock at ALEXANDER & BALDWIN, MELLON BANK,

COMPUTER FACTORY, AMCAST INDUSTRIAL, CABOT and PNC FINANCIAL. Other insider purchases have been strong at HILTON, DAYTON HUDSON, PRIMARK and rumored takeover target BOISE CASCADE. (CNN "Moneyline", 7/28)

When the market goes back down there are a number of manufacturing stocks that hit new lows last Thursday that one should look at, says ROBERT STOVALL, president of STOVALL/TWENTY-FIRST ADVISERS. "I suggest people try to save the new low list of last Thursday which had several hundred stocks on it. Some of them are pretty good." These good stocks include CORNING, TIME-WARNER and EMERSON ELECTRIC. (CNBC "Business View", 8/28)

"We recommended to cut back on the [paper] stocks in June 1988, and warned people in July 1989 that paper company earnings in 1990 would be down 30% to 40%," says GEORGE ADLER, an analyst at SMITH BARNEY, HARRIS UPHAM. "The paper industry has for all intents and purposes been in a recession since mid-1989." Adler adds that "it looks like late 1991" before earnings of the companies can turnaround. Adler has an avoid rating on GEORGIA-PACIFIC, but does like a few value- added specialty papers like WESTVACO on which he has a buy rating. ("USA Today", 8/29)

FALLS CHURCH, VA (AUG 29) MCS - A SAMPLING OF TODAY'S COMMENTARY COMPILED BY MARKET CONSENSUS SURVEYS, INC. IN TWO SECTIONS (1) STOCKS (2) MONEY & ECONOMY.

MONEY & CREDIT:

"Nothing has happened [in the Persian Gulf] so far, so the [currency] market is beginning to think it is less of a concern," says LINDA McLAUGHLIN, a currency trader at CHEMICAL NEW YORK CAPITAL MARKETS GROUP. "The market is quite comfortable not to worry." ("Investor's Daily", 8/29)

"Comments from the Swiss National Bank last week that the franc has appreciated too fast and too far continue to weigh on the Swiss franc," says BILL JANSEN, a trader with DISCOUNT CORP. (NYT, 8/29)

"For the most part, people [in the credit markets] will be waiting for the release of the August employment report on Sept. 7," says MITCHELL HELD, chief financial economist at SMITH BARNEY, HARRIS UPHAM & COMPANY. "And if the employment report is poor or indicative of soft economic growth and the situation in the Middle East is pretty much unchanged, I would expect the Federal Reserve will move to ease monetary policy." (NYT, 8/29)

"It was a slow, quiet, boring day" in the credit markets, says STEVEN RICCHUITO, chief economist at BARCLAYS de ZOETE WEDD SECURITIES INC. With few investors bidding for bonds, dealers were forced to mark prices lower.

SAMUEL KAHAN, chief economist at FUJI SECURITIES INC., agrees saying, "It was a ho-hum auction." Yields came in about as expected and the number of bids received were about average. (WSJ, 8/29)

July U.S. leading indicators and new homes sales data are due out today, but both are expected to be ignored by the credit markets. "Nothing has been able to tear the market away from its obsession with the Middle East, and I don't expect that to change until late next week," when August U.S. employment data are released, says DOUG SCHINDEWOLF, associate economist at SMITH BARNEY, HARRIS UPHAM & COMPANY. (Reuters, 8/29)

"Uncertainty associated with future oil supplies is still the dominant factor" in the bond market, says JOSEPH LIRO, vice president and money market economist at S.G. WARBURG SECURITIES INC. "We had a very good price bounce on Monday, but with oil prices rebounding the market couldn't do any better" than it did yesterday. (NYT, 8/29)

"If OPEC met and boosted production, it would be non-inflationary, and that could set a trend for the market," says ALLAN LESLIE, economist at DISCOUNT CORP. of New York, commenting on the chilly reception expected for today's five-year note auction. But he cautions that predictions on Mideast developments are no better than if written in sand. "This is not the type of market anyone wants to be a hero in." (Reuters, 8/28)

THE ECONOMY:

"I think there is still room for rescuing" the economy from a recession, says DR. NEAL SOSS, chief economist at FIRST BOSTON. "I think we could skirt the edge of recession, but there is still an element of nip and tuck in all of this." He believes that the consumer confidence index was so low because of the initial shock of the Kuwait invasion, but it will improve. "The real issue here is that the economy hasn't had a whole lot of forward momentum for a year now anyway and that might be what, in one sense, rescues you from an outright recession. Some of those excesses in inventories and the like aren't present." (FNN "Marketwrap", 8/28)

"We expect a recession for the U.S. economy during the fourth quarter of 1990 and the first quarter of 1991," says GEORGE ADLER, an analyst at SMITH BARNEY, HARRIS UPHAM. ("USA Today", 8/29)

The gap between United States imports and exports shrank 14% in the second quarter to its lowest level in six and a half years, according to a COMMERCE DEPARTMENT report released yesterday. "Oil prices are going to take some of the glow off this report because it represents the situation pre-oil shock," says JEAN SUNDRLA, an economist with the Washington forecasting firm EVANS ECONOMICS INC. "Definitely, the trade balance has been moving in the right direction, but these numbers are about to be hit hard by higher oil prices." (NYT, 8/29)

Food prices are likely to rise up to 7% this year because of a citrus freeze in Florida and disruptions in milk and red meat production, the AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT said yesterday. This is much higher than the previous 3% to 5% projection made by the department eight months ago, says food price analyst RALPH PARLETT. He adds, "The effects of higher oil prices will not be felt so much this year on food prices in the U.S., but possibly next year, depending on what happens in the Mideast in coming months. It will take time for any increase in food transportation and production costs due to fuel price rises to trickle in to the manufacturers and consumers." ("Investor's Daily", 8/29)

IN WASHINGTON:

The invasion of Kuwait and a weak economy have led to talk of a protracted debate over the clean-air bill. "All these things conspire and make it more difficult to pass clean-air legislation," says ANDY ROBART, director of legislative affairs for the environment at the EDISON ELECTRIC INSTITUTE. "My own personal belief is there will be clean-air legislation. The practical effect will be that people will take a harder look at the cost side of the equation." ("Investor's Daily", 8/28)

SALT LAKE CITY (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Recomp Inc. president and chief executive officer, John T. Dunlop today announced that Bio-Technology Inc. a Recomp subsidiary, has commenced construction of a 100 ton per day waste processing facility to be located adjacent to Wausau Paper Mills in central Wisconsin. Financing of the facility is being provided by Zion's First National Bank in Salt Lake City.

The facility is expected to be operational by November, 1990, and will treat and process 100 tons of paper pulp sludge per day into pellets prior to being transported to the paper mill's landfill. By processing the pulp sludge into pellets, the paper mill landfill requirements are expected to be reduced by 65 percent. The processed pellets also represent a potential source of fuel. Revenues from the facility are expected to total $760,000 per year once the facility becomes operational.

Recomp, which is 83 percent owned by Salt Lake City based Bonneville Pacific Corp. (NASDAQ: BPCO), is involved in waste composting and processing and is the nation's leader in composting technology. Recomp operates a composting facility in St. Cloud, Minn., with additional facilities under development in Bellingham, Wash., where it also operates a 100 ton per day municipal solid waste incinerator. Recomp also operates SuperCycle, a curbside recycling company in St. Paul, Minn.

ANCHORAGE, ALASKA (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Martech USA Inc. (NASDAQ: MUSA) today announced that it has been awarded marine services contracts valued at more than $3.5 million. Martech will be performing oil platform inspections in the Gulf of Mexico and inspection of a sub-surface structure off the coast of Santa Barbara, Calif.

Chevron and Texaco have contracted for Martech's services in response to government regulations that require operators to inspect oil platforms on a regular basis. Martech will be inspecting 150 platforms in the Gulf of Mexico this year.

In addition to the platform inspections in the Gulf, Martech will also be undertaking a rare decomissioning of an underwater fuel storage tank. This project for Chevron will require digging up the tank from its underwater resting place.

Martech has also been contracted by Exxon to inspect a single leg sub-surface structure off the coast of Santa Barbara, Calif. An inspection of this detail has never been done on the West Coast before. The project is a very technical, detailed and arduous inspection that is expected to last 2 months.

Martech USA provides a comprehensive range of environmental remediation services as well as specialized marine and construction services.

ATLANTA (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - C&S/Sovran Corp., in anticipation of closing the largest bank merger in U.S. history, today announced a nine-member management team and a unified organizational structure to manage a fully integrated single operating company.

C&S/Sovran Corp. is the result of the combination of The Citizens and Southern Corp. (NYSE: CTZ) of Atlanta and Sovran Financial Corp. (NYSE: SOV) of Norfolk, Va. That transaction is scheduled for completion on Saturday, Sept. 1.

The new company will be the nation's 13th largest bank holding company, measured by total assets of $50.3 billion at June 30, with more than 1,000 banking offices serving more than 5 million customers in seven Southern and Mid-Atlantic states, plus Washington, D.C.

"We set out to build a managment team and an organizational structure that emphasizes effective risk management, customer focus and operating efficiency, which together will maximize shareholder value," said Bennett A. Brown, chairman and chief executive officer of C&S/Sovran Corp. "Eleven months of transition work convinced us that we could best achieve these objectives by creating a single, fully integrated operating company."

Brown added: "We are planning to merge the C&S and Sovran holding companies into a single operating company with dual headquarters in Atlanta and Norfolk." The C&S and Sovran community banks will continue to operate under the C&S and Sovran names.

Dennis C. Bottorff, president and chief operating officer and designated successor to Brown as CEO, said the merger and the resulting organizational structure represent C&S/Sovran's response to a fast-changing, competitive environment.

Along with Brown and Bottorff, the Office of the Chairman includes Albert B. Gornto, chairman of the Executive Committee; and Hugh M. Chapman, vice chairman.

C&S/Sovran Corp.'s banking offices are in Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia, plus Washington, D.C. The C&S/Sovran factoring company is the third largest in the nation and its mortgage servicing, credit card and leasing operations rank in the top 15.

PITTSBURGH (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Workers will begin installing recycling equipment on Thursday, Aug. 30, at Chambers Development Company Inc.'s (AMEX: CDVB) new residential and commercial recyclables processing facility in Pittsburgh's Strip District, Pennsylvania's largest recycling facility, the company said today.

Presently, the new recyclables processing center in the Strip District is undergoing reconstruction and will begin processing the city's recyclables on Sept. 24. The recycling facility, located at 32nd and Smallman streets, is adjacent to Chambers' American Recycling division, the area's only commercial recycler of corrugated cardboard and office paper.

Company officials said work is on schedule for the Pittsburgh facility. Presently, crews are pouring concrete for the conveyor pits, installing truck scales, erecting a new facade on the building and will begin installing recycling equipment on Thursday.

The 11,000-square-foot building, and its adjacent 21,900-square-foot lot, will be used as the processing facility. A two-story building which abuts the main building will be used for office space.

At the new facility, Chambers is installing a system to receive, sort and process the incoming recyclables. An infeed conveyor will deliver materials to a sorting conveyor, where the various recyclables will be removed from the bags, separated and deposited into holding bunkers.

The segregated materials will then be prepared for shipment to markets. In addition to conveyors, the facility will initially house a baler, a magnetic separator, an aluminum flattener and blower, and scales. An eddy current separator, which automatically separates aluminum from the recyclables stream, will be added at a later date.

The facility will have the capacity to process approximately 50 tons of recyclables per shift. Thirty new jobs will be created for each shift of operation. Chambers officials expect the city to produce 75 tons per day of recyclables.

Chambers Development Company, Inc., headquartered in Pittsburgh, is a leading environmental firm offering services in recycling, collection, hauling, disposal and landfill development. The company also provides security services through its wholly owned subsidiary, Security Bureau Inc.

CARNO, Wales (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - The boards of Laura Ashley Holdings plc (Laura Ashley) and Jusco Co., Ltd. (Jusco), of Japan, which trades under the Aeon Group name (Aeon Group), today announced that they have signed conditional heads of agreement (the agreement), under which:

-- The Aeon Group will subscribe for approximately 35.2 million new ordinary shares in Laura Ashley in cash at a price of 85p per share for a total consideration of approximately 29.9 million pounds sterling (or approximately $58.1 million), which will result in their holding 15 percent of the enlarged share capital. The subscription price compares with the closing middle market price of 49p per Laura Ashley ordinary share on Aug. 28, 1990. The parties have also agreed to provisions for standstill, non-compete, change of control and dilution protection.

-- The Aeon Group will subscribe for approximately 48 percent of the equity of Laura Ashley's wholly owned U.S. subsidiary, Revman Industries Inc. (Revman), at a price which values Revman at approximately $35 million (18 million pounds). Revman management will acquire up to 5 percent of the equity on the same terms. Revman will thus become an associated company of Laura Ashley and its borrowings, which currently amount to approximately $27 million (14 million pounds), will no longer be shown on the consolidated balance sheet of Laura Ashley.

-- Laura Ashley and the Aeon Group have agreed to extend the scope of their 50/50 joint venture, Laura Ashley Japan Co., Ltd. (LA Japan), which will have the exclusive sub-licensing rights for Laura Ashley's branded products in Japan and Asia, including retail, wholesale and manufacturing of products sold in the territory. As part of the arrangements, the Aeon Group will purchase 10 percent of LA Japan from Laura Ashley at a price to be determined by independent valuation. In addition to its 40 percent shareholding, Laura Ashley will retain brand control and will receive an increased royalty.

The agreement is subject to the completion of definitive agreements and the approval of Laura Ashley's shareholders.

The Aeon Group, which is Laura Ashley's partner in Japan, controls a network of over 450 retail outlets together with a number of specialty stores, restaurants, storeless retailing and service businesses throughout Japan all of which are tied to each other through a unique federated management system. In the year to Feb. 20, 1990, the Aeon Group's sales were Yen 1.35 trillion (4.8 billion pounds, or $9.3 billion) with pre-tax profits of Yen 39.4 billion (141.2 million pounds, or $274.6 million).

IRVINE, CA (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - DAVIN Computer Corp. announced today that it had completed a "best efforts" underwriting to raise $2,100,000 of gross proceeds for the company. The underwriting which went effective Aug. 13, 1990, was closed on Aug. 24, 1990 and was managed by Mitchum, Jones and Templeton Inc. of Los Angeles.

David H. Methvin, president of DAVIN stated, "Despite the crisis in the Middle East and the drop in the Dow Jones averages, the issue went very quickly. Now we can get about the business of producing and selling our new line of 64-bit computer products and building a computer company."

DAVIN Computer was founded in June, 1985, by Methvin (a co- founder and for 18 years the chief executive officer of Computer Automation Inc.) and has been in the development stage until now. It has received two patents and has others pending on its new computer architecture technology, portions of which it may license to certain other computer manufacturers for use in their computers.

DAVIN's stock is currently listed in the "pink sheets" and the company has made application for a NASD listing. Because of the uncertainty of the listing requirements and the difficulty of obtaining clarification from NASD, the company indicated it did not know if its securities would be listed on NASDAQ even though it believes it qualifies for initial listing.

PASADENA, CALIF. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Jacobs Engineering Group Inc. (NYSE: JEC) announced today the award of a five-year, $21 million contract to provide unconventional propellant and hazardous waste operations services to the U.S. Air Force's Western Space and Missile Center (WSMC) at Vandenberg Air Force Base near Lompoc, Calif.

The announcement was made by Noel G. Watson, Jacobs' president and chief operating officer, who said the contract by the U.S. Department of the Air Force represents a significant award in the federal facility operations and maintenance field for the Pasadena- based engineering and construction company.

The project involves the managing and handling of unconventional propellants and cryogenic commodities -- rocket fuels and liquid oxygen and nitrogen -- used to support space vehicle launch operations at Vandenberg. The project also includes the handling of solid wastes and waste water generated from launch activities at the Air Force base.

In addition, Jacobs will provide engineering and construction management, support, maintenance of protective equipment, emergency response assistance, and environmental compliance and permitting support services. Jacobs will be assisted by EMC Inc. of Lompoc, an environmental and waste management consulting firm, as its sole subcontractor.

"Jacobs has been a recognized leader in the operations and maintenance of process plants for over 38 years," Watson said. "While we have not, until now, had a contract to provide these types of services within a federal facility, this award was based on our depth of expertise in process plant operations and maintenance, the handling and disposal of hazardous material, and the outstanding capabilities of our team.

"We are very pleased with this award and are looking forward to a long and productive role with the U.S. Air Force at Vandenberg," Watson added.

Jacobs Engineering Group Inc. provides single-source environmental and hazardous waste management, consulting, engineering, design, architectural construction, construction management, contract maintenance, and operations services to government and industry worldwide.

ROCKVILLE, MD. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - The GEnie service, one of the leading online information services, has announced the introduction, effective Oct. 1, 1990, of a flat subscription rate of just $4.95 (U.S.) per month including unlimited, non-prime time access to more than 100 products and services.

This new monthly rate will make it possible for GEnie service subscribers -- and members of their families -- to access a wide variety of popular products and services on the GEnie service without the concern of running up costly fees each month as a result of hourly access rates.

In making the announcement, Bill Louden, general manager of the GEnie service, said: "Our market research told us that the number one thing our subscribers wanted in an online information service was a flat monthly rate for accessing a wide variety of products and services.

"As a result, we will be launching, effective Oct. 1, 1990, our GEnie Star Services with a subscription rate of only $4.95 per month," said Louden. "Our new pricing structure on GEnie is similar to the concept of Cable TV where viewers pay a monthly rate for unlimited access to basic services, and an additional cost for value added services," he explained.

"With this new flat monthly rate for non-prime time access to over 100 of the GEnie service features, the online costs of many GEnie service subscribers could be reduced," added Louden.

The rate for U.S. access to those GEnie service products/services not covered under the flat monthly rate has been set at just $6 per hour during non-prime time for all three access speeds (300, 1200 and 2400 baud). This is a $4 per hour reduction in the current 2400 baud non-prime time rate. The prime time rate remains at $18 per hour for all three access speeds.

For further information in the United States and Canada on the products/services offered under the GEnie Star Services menu, please call 1-800-638-9636. GE Information Services, a division of General Electric Company, U.S.A (NYSE: GE), is headquartered in Rockville, Md.

WEST CHESTER, PA (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - QVC Network Inc. (NASDAQ: QVCN) today reported consolidated net revenues of $158.8 million for its second quarter ended July 31, 1990, an increase of 189 percent compared with $54.9 million last year. QVC's sales for this fiscal year include expanded operations as a result of its acquisition last fall of CVN Companies Inc.

Gross profit for the second quarter rose 185 percent to $59.6 million from $20.9 million a year earlier. The company had a net loss for the quarter of $4.5 million, or $.26 per share, compared to net income of $.8 million, or $.05 per share, in the same period last year.

For this year's first half, consolidated net revenues totaled $320.1 million compared to $107.4 million the year before. The net loss was $10.3 million, or $.60 per share, compared to net income of $2 million, or $.13 per share, in last year's first six months.

QVC Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Joseph M. Segel said, "The net losses in the first half were primarily due to the effects of the final steps in replacing CVN programming with QVC programming at the end of March, which resulted in a disruption in viewing habits and a corresponding dip in revenue per home. Sales improved in the latter part of the second quarter, and this has largely continued at the start of the third period.

"Although our businesss is going in the right direction," Segel added, "the increasing softness in the economy and consumer demand will make it difficult for QVC to achieve its full-year goal of $900 million. We are still aiming for that figure, but a lot depends on how well we do in the fourth quarter, which is hard to predict at this time.

"To maximize year-end revenues, a number of steps are being taken including the launching of a major promotional campaign in September to reach several million cable subscribers who previously received CVN and now receive QVC.

"In regard to profitability, however, it now appears that our earlier profit goals for the year will be virtually impossible to attain. To be in a better position to achieve our sales goals, we have lowered our original gross margin target from 39 percent to its present level of around 37 percent. That does, in turn, affect earnings. Operating costs, however, are generally in line with objectives, so this year's profit shortfall is mostly related to sales and gross margin.

"With a longer view toward 1991 and beyond, the continued steady growth in new customers from both QVC systems and former-CVN systems, combined with the recent resumption of growth in revenue per home, leads us to be generally optimistic," Segel stated.

The QVC televised shopping program is broadcast live 24 hours a day, seven days a week. QVC now reaches more than 34 million cable subscribers and three million satellite dish owners nationwide.

ZURICH (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - The ABB Asea Brown Boveri Group today announced the following results for the first six months of 1990:

Orders received by the ABB Group for the first six months of 1990, ended June 30, totaled $14.9 billion, an increase of 33 percent compared with the corresponding period in 1989 (first six months 1989: $11.2 billion). Excluding acquisitions, divestitures, and exchange rate fluctuations, orders received increased by approximately 8 percent.

Strong order increases were registered in several countries in Europe, specifically in Belgium, Denmark, Germany, Great Britain and Italy. Outside Europe, the highest increases were recorded in parts of Asia and, mainly as a result of acquisitions, in North America and Australasia.

Growing investments in energy and transportation infrastructure projects, responsive to environmental concerns, contributed substantially to the higher order intake. Conversely, demand for standard products and for capital goods weakened in some countries, notably in North America. The conflict in the Middle East as it has developed so far is expected to have limited direct impact on ABB.

Revenues were up 35 percent to $12.8 billion compared with $9.4 billion for the first six months of 1989. This represents an increase of 6 percent excluding acquisitions, divestitures, and exchange rate fluctuations.

The order backlog at the end of the reporting period was approximately $24.7 billion, compared with $17.0 billion at the end of the first half of 1989, and $18.1 billion at the end of 1989.

ABB Group earnings after financial items and before nonrecurring items and taxes increased by 24 percent to $489 million (first half 1989: $396 million). Operating earnings after depreciation were up 52 percent to $797 million (first half 1989: $526 million).

Considerable earnings improvements came from power transmission, power distribution, environmental control and financial services business segments. The superchargers business area again achieved increased earnings, as did some installation material companies in Germany. The combustion engineering operations, including acquisition costs, made a negative contribution to earnings after financial items. Restructuring programs are well under way and the integration of the various combustion engineering units into ABB is proceeding according to schedule.

On a country basis, substantial earnings contributions came from Finland, Germany, Sweden, and Switzerland. France, Italy and some companies in Latin America and North America showed good earnings increases.

Income before taxes totaled $500 million, an increase of 28 percent compared to the previous year (first half 1989: $391 million).

The ABB Group provides products and services for the power, process, automation, environmental control, transit and other markets worldwide. It is the world's leading electrical engineering company with total annual sales of about $25 billion.

SEATTLE (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Immunex Corp. (NASDAQ: IMNX) today reported in a presentation to the meeting of the International Society for Experimental Hematology (ISEH) the genetic engineering of a fusion molecule composed of the two therapeutic cytokines, granulocyte macrophage colony stimulating factor (GM-CSF) and Interleukin-3 (IL-3).

In vitro studies have shown the fusion molecule to be ten times more active than combinations of GM-CSF and IL-3 in its ability to promote bone marrow cell growth. The Immunex fusion molecule, called PIXY-321, if proven safe and effective, could be the first of a second generation of CSFs.

Previous animal studies have show that sequential administration of GM-CSF and IL-3 can lead to synergy in raising both white blood cell and platelet counts. The new molecule could produce greater synergy than has been seen in studies combining GM-CSF and IL-3, which are currently being tested to alleviate blood-cell damaging side effects cancer patients suffer as a result of radiation or chemotherapy. Clinical studies of PIXY-321 are planned for 1991.

GM-CSF promotes the growth and function of infection-fighting white blood cells. IL-3 stimulates the early blood-cell development, including the production of platelets, the blood elements responsible for clotting.

"Animals that received PIXY-321 responded with rapid increases in both platelets and white blood cells," said Steven Gillis, Ph.D., Immunex executive vice president and director of research. "Those results make us optimistic about the potential utility of PIXY-321 to the practicing oncologist, because it could combine the benefits of different colony-stimulating factors in a single drug."

Said James O. Armitage, M.D., professor and vice chairman, Department of Internal Medicine at the University of Nebraska: "Results of preliminary studies using GM-CSF in combination with IL-3 have been very promising. If the fusion molecule enhances those effects, this could be a discovery that offers significant advantages over CSF therapies, as we currently understand them."

Cytokines such as GM-CSF and IL-3 are immune system proteins responsible for programming the growth and function of blood cells. Cytokines perform their tasks by binding to structures called receptors on the surface of cells.

Data from in vitro studies have shown that PIXY-321 binds to receptors with higher affinity, or tightness, than IL-3 or GM-CSF. The increased biological activity observed in in vitro studies of PIXY-321 may be due to the molecule's ability to bind to three types of CSF receptors: the GM-CSF receptor, the IL-3 receptor and the "dual receptor." The dual receptor discovered by Immunex is a unique CSF receptor that is capable of binding either GM-CSF or IL-3.

ST. PETERSBURG, FL (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Milton Roy Company (NYSE: MRC) today announced that it has completed the acquisition of SLM Instruments, Inc. of Urbana, Ill.

SLM manufactures and markets a broad line of spectrofluorometer instruments used in the biotechnology and life science industries. The company also produces spectrophotometers and biological cell disruption devices.

Under the terms of the acquisition agreement, SLM was acquired for a cash price of $9.3 million. The company generated revenues of $7.4 million for its 1990 fiscal year and has grown at an average annual compounded rate of 22 percent over the last ten years. Milton Roy will fund the acquisition through available cash and borrowings under its bank credit lines.

Commenting on the acquisition, Milton Roy president, Richard E. Schmidt, stated: "Over the last two years we have followed the progress of SLM and held informal discussions with their management. We were impressed by the strong record of sales and profit growth which SLM had established.

"They are a recognized market leader in the field of fluorescence spectroscopy. Their products closely complement Milton Roy's existing spectrophotometer lines and provide us with an excellent entry into the life sciences market."

Milton Roy is a multinational manufacturing company which produces process control equipment and analytical instruments. Major product lines include metering and centrifugal pumps, spectrophotometers, mass spectrometers and environmental and automotive emissions testing equipment.

These products are used in a wide variety of industrial, research and educational applications where they control and monitor the flow of liquids and analyze the components of a complex mixture of fluids or gases.

TROY, MI (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - James L. Lanzon has been elected vice president-Engineering for New Venture Gear, Inc. (NVG) in a move designed to strengthen and restructure the company's engineering organization.

Lanzon, who was chosen by NVG's board of directors, joins the company from General Motors' Hydra-matic Division where he was chief engineer-New Products.

In announcing Lanzon's selection, NVG President and CEO David R. Zimmer called engineering "critical to the company's ability to provide its customers the products they require. Jim Lanzon is one of the best driveline engineers in the business. His selection as vice president-Engineering helps us better satisfy our customers' needs now and in the future."

Lanzon said building an engineering organization for New Venture Gear is an exciting and demanding job. "We're putting together a talented, creative group dedicated to developing the best driveline products in the industry," he said. "Our goal as an engineering organization is to be a model for other companies to follow."

As NVG's vice president-Engineering, Lanzon is responsible for all the company's engineering functions which include the design and development of manual transmissions, transfer cases, transaxles and related drivetrain products. He had been with General Motors since 1968.

New Venture Gear, Inc. was formed Feb. 1, 1990, as a joint venture between Acustar, Chrysler's parts subsidiary, and General Motors' Hydra-matic Division. The company is the world's largest manufacturer of four-wheel-drive transfer cases and supplies a variety of driveline products to customers throughout the world.

WALTHAM, MASS. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Thermo Process Systems Inc. (AMEX: TPI) today reported that its Holcroft Inc. subsidiary has been granted an order from Ford Motor Company (NYSE: F) for heat treating equipment valued at more than $1 million.

The equipment, a pusher carbo-nitriding system that will be used to treat automatic transmission gears for automobiles at Ford's factory in Livonia, Mich., is identical to a Holcroft system ordered in November 1989. The system is fully equipped with programmable logic controls for the complete monitoring of temperature and atmosphere in the furnace zones.

"This order is part of Ford's upgrade of equipment in several of its transmission plants," says Thomas P. Plunkett, president of Thermo Process Systems. "Our advanced system will replace older thermal-processing lines operating in the plants."

Thermo Process Systems designs, manufactures, and sells advanced custom-engineered thermal-processing systems for the incineration of hazardous wastes and the automated heat treating of metal parts. The company also provides services for the on-site remediation of hazardous wastes and petroleum-laden soils, in addition to a comprehensive range of metallurgical processes. LOUISVILLE, KY. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Brown-Forman Corporation (AMEX: BF.A BF.B) today reported that net income for the quarter ended July 31, 1990, before a nonrecurring item during the same period last year, increased to $36.2 million or $1.29 per share from $29.9 million or $1.06 per share last year. Net sales for the period rose 14 percent to a record $327.2 million.

Last year's first quarter included an $11.5 million or $.41 per share gain which resulted from a reduction in the company's deferred tax liability due to its early adoption of FASB Statement No. 96 during fiscal 1990. Early adoption was encouraged by the Financial Accounting Standards Board. Including this nonrecurring item, reported net income in last year's first quarter was $41.4 million or $1.47 per share.

The company had a sales increase in its wine and spirits segment of 14 percent. Strong domestic performance of Jack Daniel's, Southern Comfort and Canadian Mist in response to price increases, was the major factor contributing to segment growth. W. L. Lyons Brown, Jr., Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, said "the increase in U.S. sales is the natural result of purchases in anticipation of price increases and should not be interpreted as a significant change in historical trends."

Brown-Forman's consumer durables segment, Lenox and Hartmann, reported a sales increase of 13 percent for the quarter. Excluding companies acquired and sold in fiscal 1990, sales rose 10 percent.

Brown-Forman Corporation is a diversified producer and marketer of fine quality consumer products, including Jack Daniel's Tennessee Whiskey, Canadian Mist, Southern Comfort, Korbel California Champagnes, Lenox China and Crystal, Kirk Stieff Silver and Pewter, and Hartmann Luggage.

NEW YORK (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Pioneer Concrete of America, Inc. ("Pioneer") and Beazer West, Inc.("Beazer") today announced that they have reached an agreement to form a joint venture partnership through subsidiaries whereby Pioneer will acquire a 50 percent interest in Beazer's Midlothian, Texas cement manufacturing facility. The terms of the transaction value the facility and working capital at approximately US$90 million on a debt free basis or book value. Accordingly, Beazer will receive approximately US$45 million at closing. further, the resulting joint venture will endeavor to obtain additional bank financing, thereby providing a certain surplus of cash to Beazer and Pioneer.

The closing of the transaction will take place immediately upon the expiration of any applicable Hart-Scott-Rodino waiting periods. The Midlothian facility, which had revenues of approximately U.S. $26 million for the year ended June 30, 1990, has a capacity to produce approximately 900,000 tons of cement per year and has been in operation since 1966. The new joint venture will operate under the name "North Texas Cement Company."

Beazer and Pioneer are committed to the future of Texas and are encouraged that the Texas economy is recovering and believe that it will rebound strongly in the years ahead.

The joint venture will continue to serve its existing broad customer base in North Texas, which includes the concrete operations of Pioneer and Beazer.

Beazer West is a subsidiary of Beazer PLC (NYSE: BZR), which is a major international building materials, construction and house building group operating principally in the United Kingdom and the United States.

Pioneer is a wholly owned subsidiary of Pioneer International Ltd. (Sydney Stock Exchange: PIL), a major international building materials and oil and gas group with headquarters in Sydney, Australia. Pioneer is reportedly the second largest producer of concrete in the world, with operations in Australia, the United Kingdom, Spain, West Germany, Israel, Hong Kong, Singapore, and the United States, with U.S. headquarters in Houston.

PITTSBURGH (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Carnegie Mellon University has received a $400,000 grant from Chambers Development Company Inc. (AMEX: CDVB), to study and improve existing methods of solid waste disposal, especially methods of environmental quality control for landfill operations.

The grant will fund three research projects focusing on the environmental control, efficiency and productivity of modern landfill operations. These projects include a study of airspace optimization, or packing the maximum amount of waste material into a landfill site; a study of the chemistry of metals in landfill leachate (the liquid created by rainwater seeping through landfill contents) to determine the most economical removal techniques, and a study of leachate distillation, a method of disposing of the liquid.

"Sanitary landfills, along with recycling, composting and resource recovery, are an important part of the total, integrated solid waste management program necessary to help our nation solve its waste disposal problems," said John G. Rangos Sr., president and chief executive officer of Chambers. "We believe important solutions can be created by active cooperation between industry and academia."

Solid waste issues are being addressed by nearly a dozen Carnegie Mellon faculty, graduate and undergraduate students under the direction of Francis C. McMichael, the Blenko professor of environmental engineering and director of Carnegie Mellon's Center for Solid Waste Management Research.

"Modern landfills are complex and expensive technical facilities that require an extensive knowledge of engineering, geology and chemistry," said McMichael. "Today, environmentally safe landfills cost between $250-500,000 per acre to develop."

At this time, he continued, more than three-quarters of the nation's municipal solid waste is landfilled. Old operations without liners, leachate control and environmental monitoring are no longer permitted. In 1986, he said, there were 6,000 municipal landfills; 1,200 of them are scheduled to close in the next five years.

"We believe that our efforts with Chambers will help to attract additional research interest to the important but neglected solid waste disposal field and help to support the education of a new generation of high-tech solid waste management professionals," McMichael said.

Chambers Development Company, headquartered in Pittsburgh, is a national environmental firm offering services in refuse collection, hauling, disposal, recycling and landfill development. The company also provides security services through its wholly owned subsidiary, Security Bureau, Inc.

STATE COLLEGE, PA. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - United Federal Bancorp, Inc. (NASDAQ-NMS: UFBK) and Meridian Bank today jointly announced that United Federal has signed a definitive agreement with Meridian to purchase four of its central Pennsylvania branches for an undisclosed price.

According to Charles C. Pearson Jr., president and chief executive officer of United Federal, and Ezekiel S. Ketchum, president of Meridian Bank, the agreement calls for the purchase of the Mifflintown branch in Juniata County; the Newport branch in Perry County; the Shippensburg branch in Cumberland County; and the Chambersburg branch in Franklin County. The four locations include approximately $80 million in deposits and $2 million in loans plus the fixed assets of each branch.

According to the terms of the agreement, employees of the four branches will be offered employment by United Federal.

In commenting on the purchase, Pearson said, "United Federal Bancorp has $94 million in capital and a 19 percent capital-to-asset ratio -- one of the highest in the nation for a bank our size. One of our stated goals has been to conservatively expand United Federal's geographic franchise. This purchase is an important step in our planned strategy to establish high quality community banking in areas with good market potential. It has the additional advantage of giving us a significant deposit base with which to expand our loan services."

Ketchum stated, "Our decision to sell these branches came about because they are located too far outside our core service area, and therefore, don't geographically fit our existing franchise."

The purchase, which requires the appropriate state, federal and regulatory approvals, is scheduled for completion before the end of December 1990.

United Federal Bancorp is the holding company for United Federal Savings Bank, a federally chartered savings bank with over $495 million assets. The bank conducts its operations from its home office in State College, Pa., and 11 full-service offices located in Centre, Clearfield and Huntingdon counties.

Meridian Bank is a wholly owned subsidiary of the nearly $12 billion asset Meridian Bancorp Inc. (NASDAQ: MRDN), headquartered in Reading, Pa.

GLEN ROCK, N.J. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Citizens First Bancorp, Inc. (Citizens) (AMEX: CFB) has announced that its representatives met yesterday with representatives of Coopers & Lybrand, Citizens' outside auditors, to review the circumstances surrounding loans by Citizens' subsidiary, Citizens First National Bank of New Jersey to a Coopers & Lybrand practice partner which are now in default. During the term of the loans the Coopers & Lybrand partner was not directly responsible for the audit of Citizens' financial statements, but rather he acted in a secondary review capacity.

At that time, his loans were not in default. Citizens was advised by Coopers & Lybrand that the accounting firm remains confident that its audits were properly conducted and that Citizens' financial statements are fairly presented in accordance with generally-accepted accounting principles. Nevertheless, Coopers & Lybrand will promptly undertake a special in-depth review of the work performed and the partner's involvement and will advise Citizens of the results of such review.

ATLANTA (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - "For the sixth time this summer and the third time this month, demand for electricity across the Southeast has broken all previous records," Southern Company President Edward L. Addison said this morning.

Peak demand for electricity averaged approximately 28,702,000 kilowatts between 4 p.m. and 5 p.m. EDT on Tuesday, Aug. 28 -- surpassing the previous record set on Monday, Aug. 20, by more than 391,000 kilowatts.

The Southern Company (NYSE: SO) is the parent firm of five electric utilities: Alabama Power, Georgia Power, Gulf Power, Mississippi Power and Savannah Electric. Together, these companies supply energy to some 11 million people across the Southeast.

Addison noted that before this summer, the highest demand for electricity ever recorded in the Southern electric system's operating area was 27,411,000 kilowatts on Aug. 23, 1989. The new record is 4.7 percent above that mark. He added that, barring unforeseen difficulties, operators across the system expect no problems today in meeting the region's power needs.

JACKSON, MS (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Plasma Processing Corporation (PPC), a wholly owned subsidiary of First Mississippi Corporation (NYSE: FRM), has signed an agreement with Alcan International Limited of Montreal, Canada, concerning use of thermal plasma technology for aluminum dross processing.

The agreement gives PPC exclusive worldwide (except Europe and within Alcan) rights to use or license the technology for a new process to recover aluminum from aluminum dross. The new technology used a plasma torch as a heat source to generate the high temperature essential to recover aluminum and other reusable materials from dross. It eliminates the need to use salt fluxes which create a waste residue.

Alcan will use the technology, developed in cooperation with another First Mississippi subsidiary, Plasma Energy Corporation, in a previously announced industrial-scale dross treatment plant set to start up in Quebec later this year. PPC plans to build similar plants in the United States.

First Mississippi Corporation, headquartered in Jackson, Miss., is a resource and technology company with established operations in chemicals, fertilizer, energy and gold and emerging operations in technology.

MALVERN, PA (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Acme Markets Inc. announced today that any of its employees who are called to active duty to serve in support of U.S. forces in the Mideast crisis, Operation Desert Shield, in Saudi Arabia or the Persian Gulf will remain on active status with the company or its subsidiaries for up to six months to protect the employees' wages and benefits not covered by their military service.

Robert A. Neslund, president, said Acme Markets will make up the difference in wages and benefits (with concurrence of labor organizations) for all of those employees called to active duty during the present crisis and encouraged all others in the business community to join with Acme in assuring employees who are called to serve that their employers are supporting them during this difficult period.

Neslund said, "We do not believe that any of our employees who are called to active duty or their families should suffer any economic or monetary hardship while serving our nation. In the event that the present crisis should extend beyond six months and the president's authority to keep forces in the Mideast is renewed by Congress, we will review the situation at that time.

"There is, however, an immediate need to provide our employees and their loved ones with assurances that they and their families will have our support now and be protected into the future." Acme Markets will pay the difference between military pay and benefits based upon the employee's wage experience for the prior six months of service with the company.

CAMDEN, NJ (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - One of the most well-known corporate symbols of all time - the Campbell Kids - will sing a rap song in a new television commercial that begins airing next week to announce the introduction of Campbell's Teddy Bear Soup. The rap singing will mark the first time the Kids' voices have been heard since 1958.

The spot, which continues last year's "What Kind of Campbell Kid Are You?" theme, also will feature the rap singing of an animated Teddy Bear that appears on the label of the new soup, as well as dancing soup cans.

The rap singing by the Campbell Kids is the first step in a plan by Campbell to develop personalities for the Kids and leverage the fun and wholesomeness with which they have always been associated, said Pat Holmes marketing manager-Campbell's Kids Soups.

"Our research tells us that both children and parents have a very high awareness of the Campbell Kids even though they haven't been heavily featured in recent years," said Holmes. "Children have told us that eating soup is fun. This new commercial reinforces the fun associated with the Campbell Kids and eating soup."

The Campbell Kids were created in 1904 by Philadelphia artist Grace Drayton and soon became a corporate symbol of Campbell Soup Co. (NYSE: CPB). They have been used in a variety of Campbell advertising and promotional programs ranging from collectors dolls to an annual Campbell Kid calendar produced by the company. Today they appear on the label of Campbell's line of Kids Soups.

The 30-second spot will run mainly on Saturday morning and late-afternoon programming. It was developed by Backer Spielvogel Bates, New York.

ONEIDA, N.Y. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Oneida Ltd. (NYSE: OCQ) today announced financial results for the second quarter of 1990, posting net income of $1,606,000 equal to 16 cents a share on sales of $99,590,000 for the three months ended July 28, 1990. This compares to net income of $2,642,000 equal to 27 cents a share on sales of $95,373,000 for the same period a year ago.

For the first six months of its fiscal year, Oneida reported net income of $3,621,000 equal to 37 cents a share on sales of $205,391,000. This compares to net income of $8,428,000 equal to 87 cents a share on sales of $201,521,000 for the first six months a year ago.

Last year's six months figures included a non-operational after-tax gain of $1,433,000 equal to 14 cents a share attributable to the sale of the company's manufacturing facilities in Bangor, Northern Ireland. All per share figures have been adjusted to reflect the company's previously announced ten percent stock dividend, which was effective Nov. 17, 1989.

Oneida Ltd. Chairman William D. Matthews said the Oneida Silversmiths Division reported increased sales and earnings for the second quarter and first six months. However, decreased demand in the automotive and consumer electronics markets continued to depress sales and earnings at Oneida's industrial wire subsidiary.

Matthews noted that although second quarter consolidated earnings were down 11 cents a share from a year ago, the decline was less than the company experienced in the first quarter. He said he expected this trend to continue, and that third quarter results should compare more favorably with 1989 levels, principally due to the strong performance of the Oneida Silversmiths Division.

Matthews also announced that the Oneida Ltd. board of directors has authorized the corporation to repurchase up to 400,000 additional shares of the company's outstanding common stock from time to time at prevailing market prices. This brings to 575,000 the total number of shares currently authorized for repurchase.

NORTHVALE, NJ (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - ADM Tronics Unlimited, Inc. (NASDAQ: ADMT) has announced today that it has been notified by Sonogen (Canada) Corporation that Sonogen has received approval to market Sonotron Devices to physicians in Canada.

As previously announced, Sonogen (Canada) entered into a long-term lease and license agreement with a subsidiary of ADM Tronics. Sonotron Devices are manufactured by ADM Tronics for its subsidiary.

The approval allows Sonogen (Canada) to distribute the five Sonotron Devices which it has received from ADM Tronics' subsidiary for placement in physicians offices. Sonogen (Canada) further advised that so long as additional Sonotron Devices shipped to Canada are manufactured identically, each will receive individual approval for marketing.

ADM Tronics has been notified by Sonogen (Canada) that it anticipates the need for a minimum of 100 Sonotron Devices within the next three to six months. Pursuant to the lease and license agreement, ADM Tronics' subisidary will be entitled to receive base revenues of $720,000 annually with respect to each 100 Sonotron Devices leased to Sonogen (Canada).

In addition, ADM Tronics' subsidiary will be entitled to receive additional revenues based upon the amount of usage of the Sonotron Devices. Canada is the first country to approve the Sonotron Device for use. Approval is being sought in several other foreign countries.

The Sonotron Device is a patented medical electronic device used for the treatment of inflammatory conditions such as arthritis. ADM Tronics' subsidiary is in the process of gathering data in support of an application which it plans to submit to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to allow marketing of the Sonotron Device in the United States.

ADM Tronics is a diversified, research oriented company involved in two diverse product areas - non-toxic, water-based chemicals and medical electronics. Water-based chemicals are environmentally safe replacements for hazardous chemicals used in food packaging, printing, graphic arts and many other industries. ADM Tronics' water based products cause no hazards to the environment, workers or consumers.

BALTIMORE (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - The Baltimore Gas and Electric Co. (NYSE: BGE) officials reported this morning that the energy supply outlook has improved and the company is not anticipating any energy restrictions today, unless an unforeseen event, such as the loss of a generating station or a transmission line, should occur.

The reasons for the improved outlook included a return to service of BG&E's H.A. Wagner No. 4 generating unit and more favorable weather, according to William R. Prince, BG&E's manager of Electric System Operation.

Company officials thanked customers for their energy conservation efforts the past two days and hoped that many will continue to practice energy conservation on an everyday basis.

"Energy conservation not only makes sense, but it will help hold down your utility costs as well," said Prince.

NEW YORK (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Donald J. Trump and Jessica Morris, general manager, Northeast and Midwest U.S.A. of Air Canada, today signed an agreement for Air Canada to become a tenant in The Trump Shuttle terminal at New York's LaGuardia Airport, effective Oct. 13, 1990. The new arrangement will allow shuttle passengers next-gate connections between Washington National Airport and both Toronto and Montreal.

"Our new allegiance with Air Canada gives their passengers all the advantages Trump Shuttle customers now enjoy -- a superbly located, clean and efficient terminal with close-in parking and gate area services, which are all important to business travelers," said Donald J. Trump, chairman and CEO of The Trump Shuttle. "Additionally, business travelers and tourists flying to and from Washington, D.C. will have the easiest connections available, combining our hourly shuttle flights with Air Canada's up to 14 daily flights to Montreal and Toronto."

The two carriers are developing joint marketing plans for the Washington-Canada market, which is currently underserved.

According to Air Canada's Morris, the facility-sharing agreement will greatly benefit their customers. "We are extremely pleased to have concluded this agreement with The Trump Shuttle. Their terminal is expressly suited to the needs of the business traveler. In addition to the combination of amenities and concession services offered, we expect that both departing and arriving Air Canada passengers will significantly reduce the amount of time spent in the terminal due to the efficient design and layout of the facility," Morris said. "This is important to today's business travelers."

Air Canada's current staff of 50 will continue to process passengers on the airline's 130 weekly flights, with Trump Shuttle employees providing ramp-side ground handling services.

The Trump Shuttle terminal will offer Air Canada's LaGuardia passengers many enhanced features, including two additional check-in positions; one for the exclusive use of business class travelers (Executive Class) and an "Express" check-in position for ticketed passengers traveling without checked luggage. In addition to the six Air Canada customer service positions in the main terminal area, three additional check-in positions will be available in the departure area.

HAMBURG, WEST GERMANY (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Reuters News Service ranks number one among international media groups, according to a survey conducted jointly by Capital, the leading German business magazine and the renowned accountancy firm Arthur Andersen. The survey, Capitalysis will be published in the September issue of Capital.

The next ranks in succession are held by: Paramount, Maxwell, MCA, Capital Cities/ABC, Elsevier, Dun and Bradstreet, Pearson, Daily Mail and News Corp, Thomson, Gannett, Reed, Havas, Mondadori, VNU, Springer, Bertelsmann Hachette and Time Warner.

Capitalysis evaluated in depth profitability, growth rates and financial soundness on the strength of the last four annual statements and balance sheets of the companies reviewed.

Reuters, the survey found, has rapidly expanded to become the leading international supplier of financial data. The globalization of capital markets has given Reuters average annual revenue growth rates of 24 per cent resulting in a yield on operating capital invested of 30 per cent.

Such profitability is topped only by the Paramount Group of the U.S. whose specific strengths are in motion pictures and book publishing and whose financial basis also leaves nothing to be desired. Reuters, however, are superior as far as their growth potential is concerned.

The British Maxwell Group ranks number three with strong growth rates and potential compensating for slightly below average profitability and financing. MCA's strength is its financial situation, that of Capital Cities/ABC growth.

FRESNO, CA (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Bank of Fresno, a subsidiary of ValliCorp Holdings Inc. (NASDAQ: VALY) and Madera Valley Bank, both of California, today announced that a definitive agreement was signed on Aug. 28, 1990, providing for the acquisition of Madera Valley Bank by Bank of Fresno at a cash price of $14.25 per share. Madera Valley Bank has approximately 423,500 shares outstanding, including shares subject to existing stock options.

Pending regulatory and Madera Valley shareholder approval, a first quarter closing date is projected. In the event the closing does not occur on or before Feb. 1, 1991, interest will be added to the $14.25 cash price at the rate of six percent per annum from Feb. 1, 1991, until closing. The signing of the definitive agreement followed the signing of the non-binding letter of intent and the commencement of acquisition discussions on Aug. 3, 1990.

John Brocks, president and chief executive officer of ValliCorp and Bank of Fresno, stated that "The acquisition of Madera Valley Bank is in concert with ValliCorp's objective to be the dominant local financial institution in California's Central Valley, which stretches from north of Bakersfield to south of Stockton. Madera County's economy is expanding at an unprecedented rate as a result of the fine economic development efforts of the city and county."

Hal Giomi, president and chief executive officer of Madera Valley Bank, stated that "The board of directors is very pleased with its bank's overall growth and profits the past three years. Madera Valley Bank has provided high quality services to its customers and shared in Madera's dynamic economic growth. We believe that our affiliation with ValliCorp and Bank of Fresno will result in expanded benefits and services which community banking provides."

On June 30, 1990, ValliCorp reported total assets of $356,296,000, stockholders' equity of $29,591,000 and 1990 year to date income of $1,267,000. ValliCorp operates two banking subsidiaries: Bank of Fresno, with six branches in Fresno and one each in Clovis, Sanger and Kingsburg; and Merced Bank of Commerce, N.A. which operates one branch in Merced, Calif. ValliCorp's common stock is publicly traded on the NASDAQ National Market Systems under the ticker symbol, VALY.

On June 30, 1990, Madera Valley Bank reported total assets of $39,998,954, total shareholders' equity of $3,591,960 and 1990 year to date income of $242,752. Madera Valley Bank began operations in 1980, operates one branch in Madera and is Madera's only independent community bank. For the second fiscal quarter ended July 31, 1990, Cedar Group reported pre-tax profits of $188,328 and net income of $132,574, or $.04 per share. Sales for the second quarter totaled $4,022,853. For the six months, the company reported pre-tax profits of $479,239, and net income $305,285, or $.09 per share.

Although figures for the corresponding fiscal quarter and six-month period ended July 31, 1989, during which time the predecessor company was privately held, are not available, the company said revenues for the entire fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1990 totaled $12.2 million. The May-June quarter is historically the slowest period of the year for the fastener distribution industry.

According to Stephen S. Simyak, Cedar Group President, "Sales continue to improve even during a time of sluggishness in the overall economy." Simyak said he expects sales for the full year from current operations to approximate $18 million, which would be an increase of approximately 50 percent from the previous year.

AMSTERDAM, THE NETHERLANDS (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Net income of Wolters Kluwer went up by 34 percent in the first six months of 1990 (first half 1989: up 25 percent), it was announced today. Part of this rise comes from the contribution of companies acquired in the second half of 1989.

Compared to the same period in 1989, sales increased by eight percent; taking into account both divestments and acquisitions, organic sales growth was five percent, measured in local currencies eight percent.

In the Netherlands there was substantial volume growth in information and scientific publishing. Sales went up in all other countries, too, predominantly in Belgium, France and Spain: in the latter two countries specifically through acquisitions.

Operating income rose by 38 percent from Dfl. 71 million to Dfl. 98 million. In the Netherlands the increase was realized by information, scientific, educational and trade book publishing, while professional training activities stabilized.

Operating income increased substantially in Belgium and in the United Kingdom, and in France and Spain by acquisition effects. Also, activities in the United States and in Germany came up to the company's expectations.

The financing result went up considerably due to increased cash and deposits combined with high interest rates. Under extraordinary items, among other things, the recent divestment of a number of printing companies has been included.

As announced in the 1989 annual report, the revised valuation of publishing rights has now been included under intangible assets with retrospective effect. Publishing rights will not be gradually amortized. The figures for 1989 were revised accordingly.

In the balance sheet of June 30, the recent acquisition of U.S. health care publisher J.B. Lippincott has been included on the basis of preliminary figures. The company said it expects that the Lippincott earnings in the second half of 1990 will balance out against the financing charges of the acquisition.

For the full year 1990 it is expected that net income will be approximately Dfl. 170 million (1989: Dfl. 140 million): a rise of more than 20 percent.

STERLING HEIGHTS, MICH. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - For the price, it's a lot of car. For the times, it offers very good fuel economy. For the record, it is the one millionth air bag-equipped car built by Chrysler Corporation (NYSE: C), which underscores Chrysler's world leadership in air bag car production.

The benchmark vehicle was the center of attention in a special rolloff ceremony today at Chrysler's Sterling Heights Assembly Plant.

No. 1 million is a new 1991 Plymouth Sundance "America" model, a glistening white four-door liftback. The compact-size Sundance "America" and its counterpart Dodge Shadow "America" are expected to be the lowest-priced air bag-equipped cars available in the U.S. market this fall the two-door at $7,599(a), the four-door $7,799.

The newly built America model was driven off the line by Mrs. Ronald (Jan) Gardner of St. Clair, Mich., and John B. Damoose, vice president of Marketing, Chrysler Corporation. Gardner is a survivor of an accident and credits the air bag in her Chrysler car with saving her life.

Damoose quoted Chrysler Chairman Lee A. Iacocca in referring to Chrysler's early 1988 decision to equip its cars with air bags:

"I had my doubts about air bags," Iacocca said, "but today's new technology made me a believer. You won't hear any more beefs about air bags from me. The engineers told me that the time is right, and the technology is right. So, on May 15 (1988), we began installing driver's side air bags, at no extra cost, on Chrysler LeBaron coupe and convertible Chrysler Fifth Avenue, Dodge Daytona, Dodge Diplomat and Plymouth Gran Fury. By 1990, we'll have air bag safety systems standard on every passenger car Chrysler Corporation builds in the U.S."

Damoose said, "We're there. In the two years since we began installing them, Chrysler has become the world leader in air bag- equipped cars, surpassing all of our competitors, domestics and imports. 'Advantage: Chrysler.'

"Our long-range goal is to have air bags not only in all our cars, but to introduce air bags in most of our trucks in the mid-'90s."

Damoose said positive customer response to air bags has increased dramatically. He gave examples of customers crediting air bags with saving their lives.

Gardner is one of several customers who commented about their air bag experiences in nationwide television testimonial commercials with Iacocca.

In the commercial, Gardner said, "on Dec. 1, 1989, I found myself in a head-on collision ... I walked away, thanks to a Chrysler air bag. It saved my life ..."

Also participating in the rolloff ceremony were: UAW Local 1700 President Melvin Caldwell, who represented the production employees; Plant Manager Dur Roller and W.R. (Randy) Edwards, manager-Safety Systems for Chrysler Corporation.

Damoose said the focus of the rolloff on the new "America" models was particularly significant because it provides standard equipment air bag protection for the lower-price car buyers.

Damoose said the base price of the America model is almost $1,200 less than the base Shadow/Sundance 1990 models, but still would include such standard equipment as an electronic fuel injected 2.2-liter engine, five-speed manual transaxle, power steering, power brakes and air bag among its many other features.

Estimated EPA fuel economy for the base model is 25 mpg city and 31 on the highway. The drive train also is backed by Chrysler's seven-year/70,000-mile limited warranty.

MIDDLEBURY, CONN. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - General DataComm Industries, Inc. (NYSE: GDC) today announced that it has executed a two- year extension of its existing master supply agreement with MCI Telecommunications (MCI) in which GDC anticipates that MCI will purchase a number of GDC products and services before December 1991. Based on current purchasing levels, GDC estimates the value of the extension to be in the multimillion dollar range. Of that amount, several million dollars of equipment has already been ordered, with more anticipated for shipment to MCI by December 1990.

The contract calls for MCI to order a variety of equipment from the full range of GDC's product families. These products include digital data sets, T-1 multiplexers, multispeed analog modems, time-division multiplexers, network management devices, and other ancillary networking products such as cabinets, shelves, bays, etc. The equipment will be used by MCI to enhance the data transmission capabilities of its own internal voice and data network.

"This is a major step forward in expanding our domestic business in the telephone industry," said Charles P. Johnson, chairman and chief executives officer of General DataComm. "We are very pleased that GDC products and functionality have been recognized by MCI as a critical component in MCI's own strategy to offer its customers the best in data transmission capability."

MCI Communications (NASDAQ: MCI) is the second largest telecommunications carrier in the United States. Founded in 1968 it was instrumental in bringing about competition in the U.S. long-distance telephone environment prior to and after the dismantling of AT&T. At the end of 1989, MCI had revenues of $6.47 billion.

General DataComm (NYSE: GDC) is a leading provider of systems, solutions, equipment and services for information networks worldwide. Based in Middlebury, Conn., GDC services a broad base of corporate customers and telephone operating companies throughout the Americas, Europe, Australia, the Far East and the Pacific Rim. In its fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1989, the company reported revenues of $201.2 million.

NEWARK, NJ (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Public Service Electric and Gas Co. (PSE&G) and NJ Transit today signed a contract that will put five clean-burning natural gas-powered buses on the streets of New Jersey in a project that could lead to long-term energy and environmental benefits for the state's residents.

The contract, which is designed to test the feasibility and performance of the natural gas-powered buses in an urban setting, calls for PSE&G to construct a compressed natural gas refueling station at NJ Transit's Orange bus garage.

NJ Transit will use a grant from the federal Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA) to purchase five wheelchair-equipped, dedicated natural gas-fueled buses. The buses will begin rolling early next year and NJ Transit will operate them as part of its regular fleet.

"PSE&G is pleased and excited to join NJ Transit in this project," said Rudolph D. Stys, senior vice president of PSE&G's gas business unit. The environmental benefits of using natural gas as a vehicle fuel are becoming increasingly more evident - and more important - as New Jersey and the nation work to improve air quality. This is especially true in urban areas.

"Recent events in the Middle East," Stys continued, "also are a stern reminder that America's energy security requires that we reduce our dependence on foreign oil. Natural gas is a domestic fuel and is in ample supply. With these factors in mind, the time is right for this project."

"NJ Transit operates the second-largest public bus fleet in the nation and these five compressed natural gas powered buses will give us firsthand operating experience with this promising new technology," said Albert Hasbrouck, NJ Transit's assistant executive director-corporate affairs.

"Mass transit is a key solution to reducing air pollution. Taking the bus instead of driving your car cuts vehicle emissions anywhere from 15 to 90 percent. This program will provide additional reductions in vehicle emissions from our buses, thereby expanding the gap between buses and automobiles even further."

Under terms of the contract, PSE&G will bear the costs of constructing the compressed natural gas refueling station at NJ Transit's bus garage in Orange. PSE&G also will provide all necessary gas and electric service lines. NJ Transit will purchase natural gas from PSE&G under the existing large volume rate.

HARTFORD, CONN. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Northeast Federal Corp. (NYSE: NSB) today omitted the quarterly cash dividend on both issues of the company's preferred stock.

This includes the company's $2.25 cumulative convertible preferred stock, Series A which is held by individual stockholders, and the adjustable rate cumulative preferred stock which is held by the FSLIC Resolution Fund of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC). Northeast Federal is the holding company for Northeast Savings, F.A., which initially suspended the dividend on these issues on Feb. 16, 1990, for the quarter ended March 31, 1990.

Commenting on the decision, George P. Rutland, Northeast chairman and chief executive officer, stated, "While we are now in regulatory compliance with the current capital standards, we are also just now turning the corner toward profitability. Therefore, the board of directors and I believe that it is in our best interest to prove ourselves for some period of time before we reconsider the declaration of dividends."

He continued, "Because the dividend on the preferred stock is cumulative, it will be paid in full as soon as we feel it is appropriate to reinstate it."

WAUKEGAN, ILL. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Outboard Marine Corp. (OMC) (NYSE: OM) today announced that it will transfer manufacturing operations for its Donzi boat line from Donzi Marine Corp.'s Tallevast, Fla., plant to an existing OMC boat plant in Swansboro, N.C., this fall.

Donzi's marketing, sales, engineering and technical support groups will remain in Tallevast, OMC said.

The Swansboro boat plant, which will produce OMC's Hydra-Sports line of offshore fishing boats, also will produce Donzi boats on separate production lines.

"We are not seeing any easing of the industry-wide reduction in demand for marine products," said Dennis E. McArdle, vice president of OMC and president of the OMC Boat Group. "In this market environment, and at Donzi's current production volume, we can best support Donzi's profit objectives by moving its manufacturing operations into another boat plant and eliminating the cost of maintaining its present plant."

Donzi President Gordon Houser said that the transfer of boat building operations will not compromise Donzi's reputation for quality.

"The Donzi name has been synonymous with excellence in design, construction and performance," Houser said. "We owe much of that reputation to the dedication of our employees here in Manatee County. We greatly appreciate their contributions," Houser said.

"But, by maintaining our engineering and technical staffs here, and by setting up dedicated production lines for the lamination and assembly of Donzi boats at our new location, we will ensure that our products continue to reflect our commitment to quality," he said.

"Donzi has built a reputation among boaters as the premier luxury performance boat," Houser said. "More recently, we've staked a solid claim in the luxury fishing boat market. We aim to maintain those positions in the marketplace. This transfer of production is important to achieving that goal."

PALMDALE, CALIF. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Lockheed Aeronautical Systems Company provided the first public view of its prototype of the YF-22 Advanced Tactical Fighter (ATF) in a press conference here today.

Lockheed, teamed with General Dynamics-Fort Worth Division and Boeing Military Airplanes Division, has designed, manufactured and will flight test two prototypes of the fighter under one of two $818 million contracts from the U.S. Air Force.

The first news media showing of the sleek aircraft took place inside a huge production hangar here. After remarks by several Air Force general officers and Lockheed team executives, the curtains were raised, revealing the aircraft to the news media for the first time.

The ATF contract was awarded to the Lockheed team in October 1986, beginning a 54-month demonstration-validation phase, which includes construction of two flyable prototype aircraft, designated the YF-22.

General Electric and Pratt & Whitney are competing for the opportunity to build engines for the ATF. As part of that competition, one of the Lockheed team's prototypes will be powered by a set of engines from Pratt & Whitney; the other prototype will fly with engines from General Electric.

Under a unique teaming agreement, Lockheed is serving as prime contractor with Boeing and General Dynamics as team members. This teaming arrangement, unprecedented in such a large aircraft program, was developed to take advantage of the expertise, production capability and broad-experience base of the three companies.

During the demonstration-validation phase, the companies will share work and program costs equally and will submit their proposal for ATF full-scale development and production in December 1990. The Air Force is expected to announce selection next spring of one of two competing system designs for the ATF program. Ultimately, 750 ATFs are expected to be procured by the Air Force. In addition, the Navy is also expected to buy up to 546 Navy variants of the ATF as a replacement for its F-14D fighters.

The majority of work during this demonstration-validation phase has been accomplished at LASC's facility in Burbank, Calif.; General Dynamics in Fort Worth, Texas; and at Boeing in Seattle. ATF production will be headquartered in Marietta, Ga., if the Lockheed team is chosen the winner.

STOUGHTON, MASS. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Zina Garrison, the top-ranked American-born women's tennis player in the world, will be wearing the Reebok colors at the U.S. Open. Rob Apatoff, vice president of promotions announced here today that Garrison has signed a contract with Reebok International Ltd. (NYSE: RBK) to endorse and promote Reebok tennis shoes and apparel.

Garrsion, who was a finalist at Wimbledon in July, will participate in Reebok product development and testing. She will also be active in the Reebok Urban Youth Tennis Academy, a program sponsored by Reebok that provides tennis instruction and educational counseling to inner-city youth.

"Zina's outstanding talent, her courage and determination on the court and her sense of social responsibility make her an ideal spokesperson for Reebok," says Apatoff. "She's a graduate of the Urban Youth Tennis Academy of Houston and will continue to be an active supporter of the program."

Born in Houston, Garrison was introduced to tennis in 1973 by John Wilkerson, a local coach who was running an after-school tennis program at a community center in McGregor Park. She was 11. Her natural talent was apparent from the start, and by 1981, she was the world's top-ranked junior player having captured both the Junior U.S. Open and Junior Wimbledon. She joined the pro tour in 1982 at the French Open and was quickly ranked among the top ten women's players in the world.

She has been a constant threat in Grand Slam events since 1983 when she was a semi-finalist at the Australian Open. She was a semi-finalist at Wimbledon in 1985, and twice at the U.S. Open in 1988 and 1989. She was the mixed-doubles champion at the Australian Open in 1989 and at Wimbledon in 1990, where she lost the singles title to Martina Navratilova. In her eight years on the pro circuit she has won 10 major tournaments, and has been a finalist or semi- finalist in 11 more.

DALLAS (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Interphase Corporation (NASDAQ-NMS: INPH) announced today that it has re-evaluated its investment in OMNI Solutions, Inc., a majority-owned subsidiary of Interphase which has manufactured high-performance file server products for the Sun Microsystems and NFS markets. The company attributed the significant delays in OMNI's product development and high start-up costs as the reasons for its actions. Effective Sept. 1, 1990, OMNI will cease active operations as an independent company. However, Interphase plans to provide customer support for OMNI's products in the marketplace.

The company expects to write off its investment in OMNI in its fiscal quarter ended July 31, 1990, which will result in an estimated one-time charge (including losses from OMNI's operations during the quarter) to net income of $2,800,000 or approximately $.85 per common share.

Interphase President Michael E. Cope stated, "We made an equity investment in OMNI during 1989. Recent results of OMNI's operations indicated we should write-off our investment at this time. Interphase's core business remained profitable during the third quarter. Since we will no longer be incurring losses associated with OMNI operations, we expect to report a profit for the fourth quarter ending October 31."

DARTMOUTH, NOVA SCOTIA (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Dominion Biologicals Limited, a subsidiary of Murex Clinical Technologies Corporation (V.MCI), today announced that it has begun shipping Murex Corporation's new SUDSI (Single Use Diagnostic System) AIDS HIV-1 Antibody test to locations outside of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) jurisdiction including Thailand, Hong Kong, Singapore, and Turkey. Murex Corporation is Dominion's U.S.-based sister company.

Dominion also announced that over the next several weeks it will begin shipping to other countries including Argentina, Malaysia and Spain. Dominion will continue to introduce the SUDS AIDS test through December of 1990 to other appropriate international markets.

MurexI and SUDSI are registered trademarks of Murex Corporation, Norcross, Ga.

The SUDS AIDS test -- developed by Murex Corporation -- detects the presence of antibodies generated by the body in response to infection by the Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV-1), the causative agent of AIDS. Employing Murex's patented SUDS format, the new HIV-1 Antibody test provides speed and ease of use combined with excellent specificity, reproducibility and sensitivity. The Murex SUDS AIDS test is an easily performed, visually read colormetic assay which does not require extensive training or specialized instrumentation to interpret the test result. The test is completed in ten minutes and the appearance of a distinct blue dot in the color reaction viewing zone at the bottom of the SUDS test cartridge indicates a positive test.

Murex has successfully completed pre-clinical and clinical trials for the SUDS AIDS test and filed a product application in January with the FDA. Murex also filed an establishment license application with the FDA in order to manufacture the SUDS AIDS test at its Atlanta facility. In the interim, Dominion Biologicals, located in Dartmouth, Nova Scotia, is manufacturing and distributing the SUDS AIDS test to selected markets outside Canada and the United States through its network of international distributors.

Murex Clinical Technologies is the parent Company of Murex Corporation headquartered in Norcross, Georgia and Dominion Biologicals Limited of Dartmouth, Nova Scotia. Murex Corporation is an immunodiagnostics systems company focused on the development, manufacture and marketing of novel, rapid in vitro testing systems and products to diagnose and monitor human diseases, including AIDS. MINNEAPOLIS (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - TCF Financial Corporation (TCF) (NYSE: TCB) today announced that the Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) has completed its on-site examination of TCF's loan portfolio.

According to TCF Chairman and Chief Executive Officer William A. Cooper, "Although the final exam results will not be issued by the OTS until this fall, we've been advised that the OTS concurs with the previously announced results of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) examination," said Cooper.

The three-month OTS examination of TCF's loans, real estate owned, compliance procedures, and holding company immediately followed a three-month first-time examination by the FDIC. Following the FDIC exam, TCF recorded a $25 million second quarter provision for loan and real estate losses, largely as a result of that examination. At June 30, TCF's reserves totaled $34 million.

In other news, TCF announced that the merger of its Texas thrift subsidiary, TCF Banc Savings Association, with TCF Bank Savings fsb (TCF Bank) was completed on Aug. 17. The simultaneous merger and closing of the Texas thrift resulted from TCF's decision to concentrate resources in the Midwest.

The Murex SUDS AIDS test is an easily performed, visually read colormetic assay which does not require extensive training or specialized instrumentation to interpret the test result. The test is completed in ten minutes and the appearance of a distinct blue dot in the color reaction viewing zone at the bottom of the SUDS test cartridge indicates a positive test.

Murex has successfully completed pre-clinical and clinical trials for the SUDS AIDS test and filed a product application in January with the FDA. Murex also filed an establishment license application with the FDA in order to manufacture the SUDS AIDS test at its Atlanta facility. In the interim, Dominion Biologicals, located in Dartmouth, Nova Scotia, is manufacturing and distributing the SUDS AIDS test to selected markets outside Canada and the United States through its network of international distributors.

Used in a wide-range of applications, Murex's SUDS test cartridge is a patented, disposable, hand-held unit in which a patient's sample and reagents are mixed. To date, SUDS tests for Group A Strep, Rubella and Toxoplasmosis gondi have received FDA approval and are being commercially marketed.

NEW BRITAIN, CT (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Today, the Stanley Works' (NYSE: SWK) board of directors authorized a 12 percent increase in the third-quarter dividend.

The payment of $.30 per share, up from the second-quarter dividend of $.27 per share, reflects Stanley's confidence in future prospects and its commitment to keep stockholders ahead of inflation for the long term. The announcement was made by Richard H. Ayers, chairman and chief executive officer.

Ayers added: "The board also authorized the purchase of up to three million shares of stock. The board feels that Stanley's stock is undervalued. At the present price range, the stock offers an attractive investment opportunity for the company's strong cash flow."

The present level of shares outstanding is 42.2 million. The board action gives the company authorization to buy back 7.8 percent of the shares from time to time on the open market or otherwise.

The third-quarter dividend payment continues Stanley's record of consecutive quarterly dividend payments to stockholders since the second quarter of 1895. The dividend payment will be made on Sept. 29, 1990, to stockholders of record at the close of business on Sept. 10. The dividend increase projected for 1990 will be the 23rd consecutive year that Stanley has increased dividend payments.

The Stanley Works is a worldwide supplier of tools, hardware, and other products for home improvement and consumer use, as well as industrial and professional use.

DALLAS (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - E-Systems, Inc. (NYSE: ESY) announced today an agreement to acquire the HRB Systems, Inc. subsidiary of the Hadson Corporation (NYSE: HAD) based in Oklahoma City.

HRB Systems, Inc. with about 1,300 employees was founded in 1947. The company is headquartered in State College, Pa., with offices in the Washington, D.C. area. Sales in 1989 were approximately $113 million.

"This acquisition will further complement and expand our position in the advanced intelligence and reconnaissance systems marketplace, an area which we believe has and will become increasingly important in today's environment," said E.G. Keiffer, chairman and chief executive officer of E-Systems.

"The addition of HRB will give us access to new customers, emerging programs, and provide synergistic opportunities which we expect will result in a positive future contribution to our earnings. This acquisition is entirely consistent with our strategy of key niche acquisitions in our core business as was the case with Engineering Research Associates, located in Vienna, Va., which was acquired last August."

"The deserved reputation of HRB in our industry, as well as in the customer community, is exceptional. We recognize that the people of HRB are the reason for this," Keiffer said.

HRB provides key elements for ground based signal collection, processing, analysis and fusion systems. They also participate in the development of command, control, communications and intelligence systems for strategic warning and tactical applications.

HRB will be a wholly owned subsidiary of E-Systems. M.D. Keebaugh, president of HRB, will become vice president and general manager of the new subsidiary reporting to the office of the president of E-Systems.

E-Systems, is a major worldwide developer and producer of electronic systems and products in the areas of intelligence, reconnaissance and surveillance systems, command and control, electronic warfare, specialized aircraft maintenance and modification, guidance, navigation and control, communications and data systems.

DARIEN, CT (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Transact International Inc. (NASDAQ: TACT) today announced a profit for the first quarter of fiscal 1991, compared with a loss for the first three months of fiscal 1990.

For the three months ended July 31, 1990, sales from continuing operations rose 63 percent to $2,843,529 from $1,748,186 for the same period of the prior fiscal year. Net income for the first quarter of the current fiscal year was $154,552 or three cents per share, compared to a loss of $236,054 or four cents per share a year earlier. The loss in last year's first quarter was after a profit of $1,108 from discontinued operations.

Commenting on the results, Frank B. Carder, president of Transact, said: "This is the fourth consecutive quarter in which we've shown a profit. Over the past twelve months we've had net income of approximately $664,000 or 11 cents per share. This, combined with an increase of over $1.2 million in our order backlog, are strong indicators that the company will have a successful fiscal 1991."

Carder noted that the company's backlog of orders rose to approximately $8.9 million as of July 31, 1990, from approximately $7.7 million a year earlier. New bookings during the first quarter were approximately $6.4 million, including a $3.9 million contract for a new air cargo handling facility at Hickam Air Force Base in Hawaii.

Transact International is a specialized design, engineering and manufacturing organization, producing air cargo handling systems and equipment for airlines, air freight companies, airport authorities and the U.S. Air Force.

The company's executive offices are in Darien, Conn., which is also headquarters for Transpark, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary which designs and markets computerized robotic car parking systems. Transact's manufacturing facilities are in Memphis, Tenn.

BIRMINGHAM, ENGLAND (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Following an agreement with trade unions, the Rover Group will introduce Britain's first around-the-clock auto production schedule.

The added shifts will aid in meeting production demands for the new Rover 200 hatchbacks and Rover 400 sedans and in the manufacture of the new K-series engine and associated gearbox.

The new production schedule has created an extra 1,200 jobs at its Longbridge factory.

Following the highly successful launch of these products, production will be progressively increased to more than 5,000 vehicles a week from the current level of about 3,000.

Rover will implement a variety of unique work schedules allowing more time off and eliminating unpopular Friday night/Saturday shifts without affecting pay averages.

The Longbridge production schedule is only the second around-the- clock working arrangement in the European motor industry.

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Glaxo Inc. and Research Triangle Institute (RTI) signed an agreement today that gives the pharmaceutical company worldwide development and marketing rights to a class of compounds derived from nature that may prove useful in fighting cancer.

Under the agreement, Glaxo received an exclusive worldwide license to camptothecin analogues invented at Research Triangle Institute, an independent applied research organization based near the company's headquarters in Research Triangle Park, N.C. In return, Glaxo will provide a grant to RTI to support research into the compounds and agreed to pay royalties to the Institute. The terms of the grant and the royalty arrangement were not disclosed. The analogues' parent compound, camptothecin, is isolated from Camptotheca acuminata, a variety of tree that grows in China.

The synthetically produced analogues have key differences in their chemical structures, resulting in a new compound that may prove useful against cancer.

Glaxo officials said camptothecin analogues have shown promise in inhibiting an enzyme required for cell replication. They added that in early tests the compounds appear to work through a different mechanism than anti-cancer drugs currently available.

"We're obviously pleased with the opportunity to explore compounds that may show activity in an area where new therapies are so desperately needed " said Charles A. Sanders, M.D., Glaxo Inc.'s chief executive officer. "One of our key strategies is to provide new treatments for unmet patient needs, and this agreement holds promise in helping us fulfill that goal."

Dr. Monroe E. Wall, RTI's chief scientist for chemistry and life sciences, said the partnership is good not only for both organizations, but also for cancer sufferers who may benefit in the future. "Taking a compound into the clinic and possibly to market involves resources far beyond what the Institute could provide alone," he said. "We're delighted with Glaxo's involvement."

About 1 million new cases of cancer are diagnosed each year in the United States. It is the country's second leading cause of death, after cardiovascular disease.

Sanders added that Glaxo's acquisition of rights to camptothecin analogues was further evidence of the company's commitment to cancer research.

Glaxo researches, develops, manufactures and markets prescription medicines, including those for the treatment of gastrointestinal disorders respiratory ailments, cardiovascular diseases, infectious diseases and diseases of the skin. Glaxo Inc. is a subsidiary of London-based Glaxo Holdings p.l.c. (NYSE: GLX).

LAKEWOOD, COLO. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Plains Petroleum Co. (NYSE: PLP) today announced that it had reached agreement with the purchaser of approximately 85 percent of its natural gas production for wellhead prices to be charged under base contracts for 1991. The annually renegotiated price for 1991 will vary from a high of $1.95 per million Btu (MMBtu) for sales made in the high demand season in the winter and late fall to $1.65 MMBtu in the low demand season. Assuming normal weather, the expected average price for 1991 for the base contracts is $1.80 MMBtu or approximately 2 percent less than the current year price of $1.84 MMBtu.

After satisfaction of purchases required under the base contracts, Plains will supply up to an additional 1.7 billion cubic feet (Bcf) of gas at a special market incentive wellhead price of $1.40 MMBtu exclusively during the low demand season. This special incentive gas is covered under a separate one year "best efforts" agreement and will be produced principally from the Company's Kansas Hugoton reserves.

With the new "best efforts" contract included, Plains estimates that 1991 gas volumes sold and revenues received from its principal purchaser would increase by approximately 17 1/2 percent and 12 1/2 percent respectively, over its current 1990 forecasted volumes of 18 Bcf and revenues of approximately $33 million.

Plains, a Colorado based company, produces, develops and explores for oil and gas in the Midcontinent, Permian Basin, Gulf Coast and Rocky Mountain Regions of the United States. The company also maintains offices in Lakin, Kan. and Midland, Texas.

NORWALK, CONN. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - The Perkin-Elmer Corporation (NYSE: PKN) today reported increased orders, sales, earnings and earnings per share in its fourth quarter ending July 31, 1990. Orders grew by 13 percent to $236.3 million versus $209.3 million in the prior year; sales were $227.2 million compared with $211.6 million; income was $13.6 million or 38 cents per share, compared with $13.2 million or 30 cents per share, with fewer average shares outstanding at fiscal year end 1990.

Similar comparisons for the fiscal year were: orders $845.3 million in 1990, an increase of 9 percent over $773.3 million in 1989; sales $837.7 million compared with $784.2 million; income $44.2 million, or $1.10 per share, versus $46.9 million, or $1.08 per share, a year ago.

During fiscal year 1990, the company completed a restructuring program, announced in April 1989, which included the sale of discontinued business units and the repurchase of 10.1 million shares of its common stock in a "Dutch Auction" self-tender.

"I am pleased that in the fourth quarter we began to see the fruits of our restructuring efforts," said Horace G. McDonell, chairman and chief executive officer. "In addition to the benefits of the share repurchase, there have been operational improvements as our refocused management priorities start to show results. Cash flow is much stronger, expense growth is being contained, and, most important, our new instrument products are accelerating order growth in a pretty tough market environment.

"We are concerned about conditions in the Middle East and their impact on the world economy and on our business. On the other hand, we enter our new fiscal year with an experienced management team focused on our core business, and without the distractions of a major restructuring. Our aim is to continue building momentum."

Backlog at year-end was $158.4 million versus $126.5 million a year ago.

YOUNGSTOWN, OH (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Commercial Intertech Corp. (NASDAQ: CTEK) announced sales of $115,083,000, and net income of $11,705,000, or $0.90 a share, for the company's quarter ending July 31, 1990. A year ago the company reported third quarter sales of $107,719,000 and net income of $5,754,000, or $0.47 a share.

For the first nine months of the fiscal year sales were $325,629,000, net income $21,559,000 and earnings per share $1.59. For the same period a year ago, sales were $318,958,000 and net income was $14,645,000, or $1.22 per share.

Included in net income is a gain from the settlement of a patent infringement suit filed against the Pall Corporation of Glen Cove, N.Y. The net gain after legal expenses amounted to $6.5 million, or $0.54 a share, in the quarter and $5.9 million, or $0.50 a share, for the nine months to date.

The company also announced that it will reinstitute its stock repurchase program. Commercial's board of directors today authorized the purchase of up to 500,000 shares in the open market or through privately negotiated transactions.

The company previously had completed the repurchase of 2,500,000 shares. Paul Powers, chairman, president and chief executive officer, said, "We continue to remain confident of the long-term prospects for our business. The current depressed market price of Commercial's shares represents an undervaluation and provides an attractive opportunity for the company to re-acquire shares economically."

Sales in the third quarter were up 6.8 percent over last year mainly on the strength of much higher Astron building sales as well as higher sales of hydraulic components.

Net income from operations (excluding the Pall recovery) declined by 21 percent, however, due to lower margins on hydraulic sales, losses in certain divisions of the Fluid Purification Group and non-recurring charges relating to product launching costs, plant closures and obsolete asset write-offs.

For the year-to-date, sales were up 2.1 percent. Sales by Astron and the hydraulics group, which benefited by the addition of a U.K. valve business acquired in late 1989, provided most of the gain. Net income from operations declined 6.3 percent from a year ago.

The sale of the Underground Support Division in 1989 gave rise to lost sales and lost net income in 1990, and income in the Fluid Purification Group also suffered from lower volume in the U.S.

Powers noted, "Because of the uncertainties of the Middle East crisis, the company is continuing to adjust its operating costs and asset expenditures consistent with sales and order rates. During the past year, close control of operations produced a modest sales increase while worldwide employment was reduced by 3 percent. Presently, our order backlog remains up, with an order rate 3.8 percent higher than the same period last year."

Commercial Intertech Corp. is a leading multinational producer of hydraulic components, fluid purification products, and metal products.

BUTTE, MN (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Montana Power Co. (MPC) (NYSE: MTP) today has been granted a $30.5 million annual increase in electric revenues on an interim basis by the Montana Public Service Commission (PSC) effective Aug. 29, MPC announced. MPC requested a total of $60.7 million in added electric utility revenues in its June 27th filing.

The interim electric rate increase is partially offset by a scheduled $8.3 million reduction which becomes effective Aug. 29 as part of 1985 Rate Moderation Plan phasing in Colstrip Unit 3 costs. The net effect is a 6.9 percent increase in rates.

The PSC is expected to act shortly on MPC's request for a $5.6 million interim increase for its natural gas utility. The company requested a total $9.6 million annual increase in its natural gas revenues.

A final PSC order on the combined filing is expected in mid-1991.

MINNEAPOLIS (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - ADC Telecommunications, Inc. (NASDAQ: ADCT) announced the following third quarter and nine month results today (dollars in thousands except earnings per share):

	Quarters Ended		Percent
	7/31/90	7/31/89	Increase
Orders	$66,115	$52,100	26.9
Net Sales	$65,814	$50,047	31.5

Orders	$189,344	$141,827	33.5
Net Sales	$188,052	$137,339	36.9
Earnings Per Share	$1.24	$.85	45.9

The quarterly and nine month increases in orders and net sales reflect volume increases in all product groups. See following table of net sales by product group.

The 1990 year-to-date orders, net sales and earnings per share amounts include results for nine months of Kentrox Industries, Inc. (Kentrox), purchased by ADC in July 1989, and one month of results for both TELINQ Systems Incorporated (TELINQ), purchased in June 1990, and American Lightwave Systems, Inc. (ALS), purchased in July 1990.

Due to the timing of these acquisitions, the 1989 orders, net sales and earnings per share amounts do not reflect significant contributions from the acquired companies.

In addition to the stronger sales volume discussed above, the 1990 earnings per share increases reflect higher gross profit percentages resulting from more favorable sales product mix and factory efficiencies. These increases were partially offset by higher operating expenses and a higher effective income tax rate.

"We are exceedingly pleased with the 12 month results of Kentrox, and excited about the prospects of the TELINQ and ALS acquisitions, particularly since we have enjoyed product and market relationships with these companies prior to the acquisitions," said Charles M. Denny, Jr., chairman and CEO. "We are also very happy with the results of our ongoing businesses, as measured in revenues and profits, and continue to fortify them with newer technologies," added Denny.

ADC Telecommunications, Inc. designs, manufactures and markets a wide variety of circuit management devices, transmission products and network management systems used by telephone companies, broadcast networks and large private telecommunications networks.

Net sales for the quarters and nine months ended July 31, 1990 and 1989 classified by product group, detailed statements of income for the quarters and nine months ended July 31, 1990 and 1989 and balance sheets as of July 31, 1990 and October 31, 1989 follow.

FARMINGTON HILLS, MI (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Medar, Inc. (NASDAQ: MDXR) reported that General Dynamics Space Systems has ordered a network for resistance welding the atlas Centaur Satellite Launch System.

The order, in excess of $800,000, is for the engineering and equipment necessary to integrate enhanced Medar welding controls with an IBM DAE (Distributed Automation Edition) network. Following phases are expected to add more welding controls to the base network.

General Dynamics manufactures the Atlas Centaur Satellite Launch System which requires 100 percent accuracy and quality of welds. The DAE network is expected to provide significant savings by automatically recording and tracking information required in MIL-SPEC welding procedures.

The enhanced weld controls are expected to reduce dependence on time-consuming manual inspection by monitoring all relevant process variables and providing on-line weld verification.

Medar designs and manufactures computer-controlled automated equipment including vision gauging and inspection systems, resistance welding controls and computer communications systems. Medar's customers include major companies in the defense, aerospace, automobile, appliance, entertainment and consumer goods packaging industries.

DALLAS (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Texas Instruments (NYSE: TXN) is conducting its annual Tech Trends editorial conference Sept. 4-6 at the Arrowwood Resort Conference Center in Rye Brook, New York. "Converging Technologies" is the theme of the conference. Presenters will discuss how the merging of technologies and concurrent engineering is changing the marketplaces of the 1990s.

The conference is designed to update the editorial community on the technology underlying TI's Semiconductor and Information Technology businesses, and gives attendees an opportunity to talk with top managers and technologists from TI.

This year's conference includes sessions on concurrent engineering, system design, testability, mixed-signal technology, application-specific technology, submicron CMOS capability, digital signal processing, systems technologies (such as cache, RISC, video and parallel processing), printer technology, computer systems technology, computer-aided software engineering, and industrial automation.

All sessions include time for Q&A from attendees, and private interviews can be arranged.

The conference begins with a 7 p.m. dinner on Sept. 4. Guest speaker is William H. Davidow, currently of the high-technology venture capital firm Mohr, Davidow Ventures, and formerly senior vice president of marketing and sales for Intel Corp. Davidow is co-author of "Total Customer Service: The Ultimate Weapon," and author of "Marketing High Technology: An Insider's View".

The Semiconductor sessions begin at 8:30 a.m. Sept. 5 and conclude that evening with dinner speaker Pat Weber, TI executive vice president and president of TI's Semiconductor Group.

The Information Technology sessions begin at 8 a.m. Sept. 6 and conclude at 12:30 p.m. Following these sessions there will be demonstrations of TI's software productivity tool, the Information Engineering Facility (TM) IEF (TM).

Registration and reservations may be made through Allen Street Travel at 1-800-227-1794.

PHILADELPHIA (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Legg Mason Inc., (NYSE: LM) and First Fidelity Bancorporation (NYSE: FFB) have reached an agreement whereby Legg Mason will acquire the Philadelphia-based mortgage banking company, Latimer & Buck, a wholly owned subsidiary of First Fidelity Bancorporation.

The terms of the transaction were not disclosed.

Established in 1954, Latimer & Buck is the largest commercial mortgage organization in the Philadelphia and Baltimore areas, and is the exclusive regional correspondent for many of the premier life insurance company and pension fund investors. Latimer & Buck's commercial loan servicing portfolio exceeds $3.1 billion and it manages, primarily for state pension funds, approximately $1.1 billion in commercial real estate and mortgage investment portfolios.

In addition to its Philadelphia and Baltimore locations, it has offices in Washington, Princeton, N.J., and Lancaster, Pa., and is a joint owner of a Florida-based commercial mortgage banking corporation.

Latimer & Buck will operate as a wholly owned subsidiary of Legg Mason Inc.

In making the announcement, Raymond A. Mason, chairman and chief executive officer of Legg Mason Inc., said: "This acquisition substantially increases our overall real estate capability. Latimer & Buck adds important fee-based revenues through its commercial mortgage servicing business, and provides a meaningful addition as well as a new direction for our investment advisory business."

Mason said that M. Walter D'Alessio will continue as president and chief executive officer of Latimer & Buck, and it is expected that all current employees will remain with the company.

Anthony P. Terracciano, chairman and chief executive officer of First Fidelity Bancorporation, said: "It appears to us that Legg Mason and Latimer & Buck are well-suited partners and we hope they will enjoy great mutual success. Latimer & Buck continues to be a profitable company that simply does not fit our long-term strategic plans."

Closing of the transaction, which is subject to certain conditions, is anticipated to occur by the end of September.

Legg Mason Inc., headquartered in Baltimore, is a holding company which, through its subsidiaries, provides securities brokerage, investment advisory and investment banking services.

First Fidelity Bancorporation, with $29.8 billion in assets and 500 offices in New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania, is among the nation's 25 largest banking companies.

MONTREAL (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - United Westburne Inc. announced today that its U.S. subsidiary has entered into an agreement to acquire W.H. Hobbs Supply Co. of Eau Claire, Wis., a wholesaler of plumbing, heating and industrial supplies with three outlets in Wisconsin and annual sales of approximately $20 million U.S.

This newest acquisition will report to the Graybow-Daniels division of Westburne based in Minneapolis.

"This move strengthens our presence in the important midwestern U.S. marketplace," said Michel Vennat, Westburne vice chairman in announcing the acquisition.

"These three locations are strategically located in Wisconsin and complement recent acquisitions in nearby Minnesota and North Dakota."

In September 1989, Westburne Supply Inc. acquired Graybow-Daniels Company, a leading wholesale (top 50) distributor of plumbing and heating, ventilation and air conditioning products based in Minneapolis. That was followed up in April of this year by the purchase of Minn-Well Supply Co. Established in 1983, Minn-Well is one of the leading pump and well distributors in the U.S. Midwest, operating distribution centers in Minneapolis and Fargo, N.D.

Minn-Well Supply Co. also reports to the Graybow-Daniels division. Consistent with Westburne's acquisition policy, current management will remain in place with W.H. Hobbs.

Westburne's vice chairman also announced that the acquisition of the Ontario distribution division of Canada Valve was finalized recently.

This latest acquisition will allow Westburne to establish a presence in the waterworks business in the Ontario market, as well as to strengthen its product lines for this region.

Headquartered in Montreal, United Westburne Inc. is North America's largest integrated wholesaler of electrical, plumbing and heating, refrigeration and air conditioning, electronics and telecommunications supplies.

RICHARDSON, TX (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Asko Inc., U.S. importer of the Swedish-made Asko Asea dishwasher, has asked a New York federal court to bar Miele Appliances Inc. from what Asko officials have termed "false and misleading advertising," as well as assess actual and punitive damages for such advertising.

Asko filed its action as a counterclaim in response to Miele's complaint now pending in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York. The original complaint filed by Miele last June seeks to enjoin Asko from making what were alleged false and misleading comparisons between Asko Asea and Miele dishwashers.

"Test results made in accordance with strict Swedish government standards completely support our claim that Asko Asea dishwashers clean better and run more quietly than Miele," said Leon Bausch, president, Asko Inc., wholly-owned subsidiary of the manufacturer, Asko Cylinda AB of Vara, Sweden.

"Miele has been repeatedly invited to challenge our test results - which we have made public - but so far they have failed to respond with facts or details of their own," Bausch added.

Asko also claims Miele's conduct "constitutes deceptive acts or practices ... and false advertising" under specific sections of New York State's general business law.

The company has also requested the federal court dismiss Miele's complaint against Asko. "We are confident Asko will prevail completely in this matter," Bausch said.

Asko Asia products are sold throughout North America. Asko Inc. is headquartered in the Dallas-area suburb of Richardson. Its address: 903 Bowser, Suite 170, Richardson, TX 75081, telephone: (214) 644-8595.

SAN DIEGO (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - GTI Corp. (AMEX: GTI) announced today that it completed the previously announced acquisition of approximately 91 percent of the capital stock of Valor Electronics Inc., for $18,457,272, consisting of $16,625,272 in cash and a promissory note for the remainder.

At a special meeting of stockholders held on Aug. 28, 1990, GTI's stockholders approved the sale and issuance of 2,500,000 shares of GTI's common stock to Telemetrix plc for $7,500,000 in cash, which was used to fund a portion of the purchase price of Valor Electronics. The remaining cash portion of the purchase price was financed by a $4,500,000 seven-year bank term loan and cash on hand at GTI.

San Diego-based Valor Electronics develops, manufactures and distributes a variety of electronic component parts and subsystems. It operates manufacturing facilities in the People's Republic of China and Hong Kong.

GTI manufactures and distributes a variety of electronic component parts, processing equipment and circuit boards for sale to manufacturers in the United States and abroad.

Telemetrix plc is a United Kingdom corporation which is listed on the London Stock Exchange and engaged in the manufacture, sale and distribution of advanced electronic products and components. As a result of the issuance of the 2,500,000 shares of GTI's common stock to it, Telemetrix's voting interest in GTI has increased from 52.8 percent to 65.4 percent.

FAIRFIELD, N.J. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - By an overwhelming majority, the Lee County Board of County Commissioners today approved and executed a 23-year agreement with a unit of Ogden Martin Systems, Inc. (OMS), to design, build and operate a waste-to-energy facility that will anchor comprehensive waste management programs for both Lee County and neighboring Hendry County, Fla. OMS is a wholly owned subsidiary of Ogden Projects, Inc. (NYSE: OPI), a publicly traded company on the New York Stock Exchange.

"Our proven track record in the state of Florida where we have three waste-to-energy facilities in operation or under construction will be an invaluable asset to facilitate the Lee County project," said David L. Sokol, president and chief executive officer of Ogden Projects. "Local residents can visit our neighboring facilities in Hillsborough County, Pasco County and Lake County to see how a master plan for integrated waste management will work in Lee County," he added.

The $147 million construction cost of the 1,800 tons-per-day facility will be financed by revenue bonds which the county, as the facility owner, intends to issue by the end of the year. The bond issue will also finance other program elements such as a modern, environmentally compliant landfill to be located in Hendry County and recycling programs to achieve Florida's mandated goal of 30 percent recycling by 1994.

The facility, to be located off of Buckingham Road east of the city of Fort Myers, will utilize the proprietary Martin waste-to-energy technology. Once operational, the facility will convert up to 657,000 tons of residential and commercial solid waste per year into over 47 megawatts of electric power to be sold to the Florida Power and Light Corporation. The county will receive 90 percent of electric sale revenues as a credit against facility financing and operating costs.

According to Sokol, the facility is sized to process waste volumes based on the assumption that the state's recycling goals have been met. "Growth in the county's waste stream over the next 5-7 years will require recycling rates that meet the state's mandated goal if residents are to avoid raw waste landfill disposal," said Sokol.

The waste-to-energy facility will feature state-of-the-art pollution control equipment, including dry flue gas scrubbers for acid gas control, fabric filter baghouses, systems to reduce emissions of nitrogen oxides and continuous emission monitoring systems.

Given the local area's pressing need for water conservation, the facility will utilize treated effluent from the city of Fort Myers' waste water treatment plant for process and landscape irrigation needs. The facility will also utilize state-of-the-art wastewater pre-treatment systems to maximize the utilization of processed water and minimize amounts returned to the city's sewer system.

A construction schedule guaranteed by OMS not to exceed 27 months will commence once all applicable federal, state and local environmental construction permits are received by the county and OMS.

OMS was awarded the project as a result of the county's proposal evaluation process which included the evaluation of proposals submitted by OMS, Foster Wheeler Power Systems, Inc., Westinghouse Electric Corporation (Resource Energy Systems Division) and American Energy Corporation.

OMS is the nation's leading builder and operator of solid waste-to- energy facilities serving municipalities and counties nationwide. OMS currently has 15 facilities in operation, five in construction and another seven awarded.

DERRY, NH (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Hadco Corporation (NASDAQ: HDCO) announced today that it has successfully started recovering methylene chloride vapors from the two remaining processes which utilize methylene chloride at its Derry, N.H. facility. This startup represents the completion of a $1.7 million conversion project to eliminate and minimize methylene chloride usage and emissions.

The vapor recovery system is a state-of-the-art unit which represents Best Available Control Technology (BACT) that is required by the State of New Hampshire's Air Resources Division regulations, enacted in April 1990.

The recovery system installation received extensive review by both the air and water regulatory divisions of the State, prior to issuance of permits. Process conversion progress prior to the recovery startup had reduced methylene chloride emissions by 60 percent over 1987 levels, and with the recovery unit startup, methylene chloride emissions are less than one percent of 1987 levels.

Hadco is pleased to announce the accomplishment of this major milestone in its continuing effort to operate its Derry and all other Hadco facilities in an environmentally responsible manner.

Hadco is the largest independent manufacturer of dense double-sided and multilayer printed circuits, serving customers in the computer, telecommunications, industrial automation and instrumentation industries. The company also manufactures backplanes for electronic interconnect systems. It operates six facilities in the United States.

PHILADELPHIA (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Strawbridge & Clothier (NASDAQ: STRWA) today announced that in the second quarter of the fiscal year 1990, ended Aug. 4, sales were $215,679,000 compared to $202,171,000 in 1989, an increase of 6.7 percent.

Despite the increase in sales, the company incurred a loss for the quarter of $1,380,000 compared to earnings of $1,735,000 last year. Loss per share was $.15 compared to earnings per share of $.19 in last year's second quarter.

For the first half of the fiscal year sales were $424,928,000 compared to $392,701,000 last year, an increase of 8.2 percent. Earnings for the first half were $1,710,000 this year compared to $3,294,000 last year, a decrease of 48.1 percent. Earnings per share for the first half were $.18 compared to $.36 last year, a decrease of 50 percent.

Two factors combined to produce the disappointing second quarter results. Sales increases moderated in comparison to strong first quarter results reflecting a softening in the general economy. Secondly, margins were reduced due to competitive promotional pressures as well as increased markdowns taken to clear out seasonal merchandise.

In view of the worrisome developments in the Middle East and looking ahead to the all important second half of the year, which historically has accounted for the vast majority of the company's annual net earnings, the company said it has been reviewing carefully all areas of the business in order to maximize results in terms of sales and earnings in a difficult and unpredictable economic environment.

The company's 24th Clover store, Kirkwood Plaza, southwest of Wilmington, Del., continues to produce strong sales results since opening in April of this year.

Construction of Clover's 25th store, at Ralph's Corner Shopping Center, located in Hatfield Township, Montgomery County, Pa., has begun and is on schedule for a planned opening in the spring of 1991.

The total remodeling of the company's Cottman Avenue Clover store was finalized in early August. In addition, the two-year renovation and expansion of the Cherry Hill department store was recently completed. Both stores are showing strong sales increases.

PHILADELPHIA (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Strawbridge & Clothier (NASDAQ: STRWA) today announced that in the second quarter of the fiscal year 1990, ended Aug. 4, sales were $215,679,000 compared to $202,171,000 in 1989, an increase of 6.7 percent.

Despite the increase in sales, the company incurred a loss for the quarter of $1,380,000 compared to earnings of $1,735,000 last year. Loss per share was $.15 compared to earnings per share of $.19 in last year's second quarter.

For the first half of the fiscal year sales were $424,928,000 compared to $392,701,000 last year, an increase of 8.2 percent. Earnings for the first half were $1,710,000 this year compared to $3,294,000 last year, a decrease of 48.1 percent. Earnings per share for the first half were $.18 compared to $.36 last year, a decrease of 50 percent.

Two factors combined to produce the disappointing second quarter results. Sales increases moderated in comparison to strong first quarter results reflecting a softening in the general economy. Secondly, margins were reduced due to competitive promotional pressures as well as increased markdowns taken to clear out seasonal merchandise.

In view of the worrisome developments in the Middle East and looking ahead to the all important second half of the year, which historically has accounted for the vast majority of the company's annual net earnings, the company said it has been reviewing carefully all areas of the business in order to maximize results in terms of sales and earnings in a difficult and unpredictable economic environment.

The company's 24th Clover store, Kirkwood Plaza, southwest of Wilmington, Del., continues to produce strong sales results since opening in April of this year.

Construction of Clover's 25th store, at Ralph's Corner Shopping Center, located in Hatfield Township, Montgomery County, Pa., has begun and is on schedule for a planned opening in the spring of 1991.

The total remodeling of the company's Cottman Avenue Clover store was finalized in early August. In addition, the two-year renovation and expansion of the Cherry Hill department store was recently completed. Both stores are showing strong sales increases.

LOS ANGELES (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Judy Arthur has been appointed as vice president, National Publicity, for Orion Pictures Distribution Corp., it was announced today by Christine La Monte, senior vice president, Publicity and Promotion.

Arthur, who will be based in the Orion headquarters in New York, will report directly to La Monte as of Sept. 10, and be responsible for overseeing all national publicity activities beginning with Orion's fall releases "State of Grace," "The Hot Spot" and "Dances with Wolves." Arthur, an independent publicist and special events director, has worked with Orion on numerous films including unit publicity on Jonathan Demme's "Married to the Mob," and his upcoming "The Silence of the Lambs," as well as "She-Devil." She has just completed production publicity on "Scenes from a Mall," co-starring Woody Allen.

Commenting on the announcement La Monte said, "Judy represents an important link in the new Marketing team that is now taking form at Orion. She brings with her an expertise in the field of publicity, as well as great energy, enthusiasm and professionalism."

A graduate of Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, Arthur began her career in the entertainment industry as U.S. press liaison on location in Thailand for "The Killing Fields"; she also assisted with special screenings and the premiere of "Ghandi." Her other film credits include unit publicity on "In Country," "Marie," and "Old Gringo." Prior to entering the film industry, she organized and operated international seminars as president of Conceptual Travel Inc.

GOLDEN, COLO. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Amax Gold Inc. (NYSE: AU: TORONTO:

AXG) announced today that it had signed a letter agreement with Amax Inc. ("Amax") (NYSE: AMX) under which the company will sell to Amax its entire interest in Canamax Resources Inc. ("Canamax"). The purchase price will be $6.4 million cash, which will be paid at closing. The $6.4 million represents the carrying value of the Canamax investment on the company's books. If Amax sells the Canamax shares to a third party within two years, Amax will pay the company additional consideration equal to the difference between the proceeds realized and the $6.4 million initially paid, up to a maximum additional payment of $5.1 million, making the maximum total proceeds $11.5 million (which approximates the average closing price for the Canamax shares on The Toronto Stock Exchange for the 20 trading days immediately prior to the date of the letter agreement multiplied by the number of Canamax shares currently owned by the company). Amax has also agreed to assume or indemnify the company for its obligations with respect to Canamax. The transaction is subject to a number of conditions, including approvals of the boards of directors of the company, Amax Gold (Canada) Ltd. and Amax.

Amax Gold produces and explores for gold in the United States and New Zealand, is listed on the New York and Toronto stock exchanges and is 87 percent owned by Amax Inc.

ASHTABULA, OH (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - RMI Titanium Co. (NYSE: RTI) held groundbreaking ceremonies here today for its new titanium tetrachloride ("TiCl4") facility, estimated to cost between $35 and $37 million, the company announced.

According to L. Frederick Gieg Jr., RMI's president and chief executive officer, "This new plant is a vital part of our business strategy for the next decade. It allows us to better control our raw material costs and strengthen our competitive position in the United States and internationally."

The new plant, rated at a minimum capacity of 100 million pounds, will produce the primary raw material for titanium sponge. RMI has an agreement with Minproc Engineers Inc., a subsidiary of Minproc Holdings Ltd. of Australia, to design and construct the plant. It is expected that construction will be completed by the end of 1991, and the plant will employ about 60 people. "This facility will not only meet our current requirements, but will allow for expansion as demand for titanium grows," Gieg added.

RMI Titanium Co., headquartered in Niles, Ohio, is a leading manufacturer of titanium sponge, mill products and powder. The company's products are used principally in military and commercial aircraft and engines, chemical processing equipment, mesh for bridge and deck repair, pulp and paper production facilities, and medical implants.

RMI became a public corporation on April 20, 1990, with common stock trading on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol "RTI." Currently, there are 15,091,600 shares of RMI's common stock outstanding.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CALIF. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Consilium Inc. (NASDAQ: CSIM), a leading supplier of integrated factory floor management software, today reported record revenue of $8.4 million for its fiscal 1990 third quarter, ended July 31, 1990, up 39 percent from revenue of $6.0 million in the like quarter a year ago. Net income was $1.5 million ($.21 per share), up 38 percent from $1.1 million ($.16 per share) for the like quarter last year.

International sales increased to 39 percent of revenues and sales into the specialty chemicals market rose to 27 percent of revenues in the third quarter. These are both targeted growth areas for Consilium.

For the nine month period, revenues were $23.4 million, up 41 percent from revenues of $16.6 million in the like period a year ago. Net income was $4.0 million ($.58 per share), up 72 percent from $2.3 million ($.41 per share) for the like period last year.

"Our financial performance this quarter again reflects the balanced growth we have worked hard to achieve at Consilium through both geographic and industry diversification," said Thomas Tomasetti, Consilium's president and chief executive officer. "We now draw fully on both international and domestic sales and from sales across all of our target industries -- aerospace and defense, commercial aviation, electronics systems, semiconductors and specialty chemicals -- to meet our revenue goals. As a result, the company is on solid ground both financially and in the marketplace and we are in an excellent position to execute an aggressive program of growth.

"We are beginning now to implement planned, strategic programs designed to drive Consilium's annual revenue to the $100 million mark by fiscal year 1994," said Tomasetti. "Our diverse customer base gives us the market strength we need to continue this endeavor."

Consilium Inc. is a leading supplier of integrated factory floor management software and services. PHILADELPHIA (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Prime Bancorp Inc. (NASDAQ-NMS: PSAB) released a report of its fourth quarter and year-end earnings for the periods ending June 30, 1990, on Aug. 27, 1990.

In order to reflect the fact that the institution converted from mutual form to stock form of ownership in November 1988, the Aug. 27, 1990, release is restated as follows.

Earnings for the fourth quarter 1990 were $924,000 compared to $767,000 for 1989 representing a 20.5 percent increase. 1990 annual earnings were $3,360,000, in comparison to $3,429,000 for the 12-month period ending June 30, 1989.

The bank converted to stock form of ownership in November 1988; therefore, the 1989 annual earnings do not include the income on the investment of the conversion proceeds during the first quarter.

Final earnings after taxes, for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1990, were negatively impacted by the Pennsylvania Thrift Tax on net income. The 1990 results indicate a 4 percent net interest margin and the return on average assets of 1.02 percent with a return on average equity of 9.28 percent which placed Prime near the top of thrifts nationally.

In the face of some weakness in the local economy, Prime's credit quality remains good. Non-performing loans were .996 percent of total loans on June 30, 1990.

At June 30, 1990, assets totaled $334,748,000 and deposits $272,915,000. Shareholders' equity increased to $37,294,000 for a book value of $27.73 per share.

Prime Bancorp Inc.'s common stock is listed on the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol "PSAB." Its price as of the close of business on Aug. 24, 1990, was $11.13.

Prime Bancorp Inc. is headquartered in Philadelphia. Prime Savings Bank, fsb, is a federally chartered savings bank which conducts operations in Philadelphia, Bucks, and Montgomery counties through nine full-service offices. The bank's deposits are federally insured by the Savings Association Insurance Fund, a fund administered by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

RESTON, VA (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Rolls-Royce celebrated two production milestones this week when the 2,000th RB211 and 500th Tay were handed over to their respective customers.

Menno van der Veen, president of Fokker, received the Tay 650 from Director Rolls-Royce Civil Engines, Frank Turner. The engine powers the Fokker 100 twinjet.

Turner then handed over the RB211-535E4 to American Airlines executive Bob Rumbaugh. The -535E4 is the engine choice for their fleet of Boeing 757s.

In addition, a special presentation was made to Allen E. Pauslon, chief executive officer of Gulfstream Aerospace, in recognition of the part his company has played in the Tay story. The Gulfstream IV executive jet is powered by Tay engines.

Commenting on the successes of the two engine programs, Frank Turner said: "The Tay and the -535 provide their customers with common benefits -- proven reliability and quietness. Rolls-Royce can be justifiably proud of the track records.

"Many of Rolls-Royce's 300 airline customers and 700 executive operators have RB211 and Tay engines in their fleets today. In addition, these engines are also providing a basis for future development."

Highlights RB211

-- Orders and options for the entire RB211 program stand at nearly 3,000 engines.

-- The RB211-524G/H, with thrusts up to 63,000 pounds, are used on the Boeing 747-400 and Boeing 767-300.

-- The 43,000 pounds thrust -535E4 powers the Boeing 757 and is the world's most reliable large turbofan, being chosen by three quarters of all the aircraft's users.

-- First RB211 entered service on the Lockheed TriStar in 1972.
-- Rolls-Royce Trent is the newest and largest member of the RB211 family with growth beyond 90,000 pounds thrust.

-- Tay launched on Gulfstream IV in 1983.
-- 15,000 pounds thrust Tay 650 makes Fokker 100 quietest airliner in class.

-- Tay 650 launched on re-engining programs with British Aerospace BAC 1-11s and Boeing 727-100s plus Associated Aerospace 1-11s.

-- Tay orders and options stand at nearly 1,500 engines.

FLINT, MICH. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Flint-based Action Auto (NASDAQ: AAST) announced that it will auction excess properties Sept. 27 in a strategic move to reduce its debt.

The property involved is vacant land and improved sites owned by the company throughout Michigan. The sale will be conducted by the national auction firm of Michael Fox Auctioneers, Inc.

"This strategic move is in keeping with the consolidation of our company," said C. James Sabo, Action Auto chairman and chief executive officer. "We hope to raise in excess of $8 million from the sale of these properties and the funds will be used to reduce our debt."

James Wilson, Action Auto director of real estate, said more than 50 properties are involved. "Most of the property is vacant land suitable for commercial development, but some 12 closed stores and improved properties are also included," said Wilson. "We believe the properties are very attractive and are easily adaptable for other uses."

Action Auto, headquartered in Flint, operates 45 stores which sell auto parts, gasoline, and auto repair service. Action Auto filed a voluntary petition for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code on June 15, 1990, in order to continue its restructuring and consolidation program.

SUNNYVALE, CA (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Weitek Corp. (NASDAQ: WWTK) today announced that its board of directors authorized the company to begin a stock repurchase program whereby up to 1,000,000 shares of its common stock may be purchased in the open market from time to time.

Arthur J. Collmeyer, chairman, stated that the decision was made in view of the low price at which the corporation's stock has recently traded, and that the company may use the stock in connection with employee incentive stock plans. "We feel that share repurchases are an excellent method of providing stock for these programs, and would be beneficial to shareholders, due to the stock's recent trading price."

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - CACI International Inc. (NASDAQ: CACIA), with headquarters in the Washington area, today announced the election of Paul J. Coleman Jr., Ph.D., professor of space physics and director of the Institute of Geophysics and Planetary Physics at the University of California at Los Angeles, as a member of the board of directors of CACI International, effective Aug. 23. Coleman replaces Robert C. McIntosh who retired from the board of directors on Aug. 22.

Coleman is a consultant to industry and government on research and development and to the financial community on investments and management in high-technology enterprises.

CACI's chairman of the board, Dr. J.P. London, stated, "We are delighted with the addition of Paul as a member of the board of directors. He brings to our board a breadth of professional experience in market sectors of continuing national priority, and areas directly related to the application of CACI's information sciences, technology and systems capabilities."

Coleman is a member and former chairman of the oversight committee for the San Diego Supercomputer Center and a trustee of the Universities Space Research Association.

He has served as a director of the National Institute of Space Commercialization and as a member of the Scientific Advisory Committee for the Los Alamos National Laboratory and the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory, the steering committee of the National Center for Supercomputer Applications, the steering committee for the California Space Institute, and the board of advisors to the Space Foundation.

Coleman is a co-founder and director of University Technology Transfer, Inc. and a director of Lasertechnics, Inc., Applied Electron Corp. and Fairchild Space and Defense Corp.

He is also a member of the boards of technical advisors of both the External Tanks Corporation of the University Corporation for Atmospheric Research (UCAR) and Micro Satellite Launch Systems, Inc., and chairman of the science advisory board of Orbital Sciences Corporation.

He obtained bachelor of science engineering degrees in mathematics and physics from the University of Michigan in 1954. In 1958, he obtained a master of science in physics from Michigan. In 1963, he entered graduate school at UCLA where, in 1966, he obtained a Ph.D. in space physics.

He served two years as a commissioned officer in the Air Force, with duty in Europe, Turkey and South Korea from 1954 to 1956. In 1961, he went to the headquarters of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington as manager of NASA's interplanetary sciences program. In 1966, he joined the faculty at UCLA and established a laboratory for research in space physics.

In 1970, NASA awarded Coleman its Exceptional Scientific Achievement Medal for his contributions to the exploration of the solar system. In 1972, he was awarded a second of these medals for his contributions to the exploration of the moon.

In 1985, Coleman was appointed by President Reagan to the National Commission on Space. Coleman was born in Evanston, Ill. He currently resides in Pacific Palisades, Calif.

MOLINE, ILL. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - The Deere & Company (NYSE: DE) board of directors today elected Eugene L. Schotanus to the position of executive vice president, financial services. Schotanus has served since 1981 as the company's senior vice president, financial services. Schotanus, age 53, will continue to serve as Deere & Company's chief financial officer.

Hans W. Becherer, Deere & Company's chairman and chief executive officer, said, "The election of Schotanus to executive vice president is in recognition of both the leadership he has provided and the important growth opportunities and income contributions that our financial services operations represent to Deere & Company."

Schotanus joined Deere & Company in 1959 and served in a variety of positions in both the North American and overseas operations. He was elected treasurer in 1974 and vice president in 1978. In 1981, Schotanus was elected senior vice president, financial services. He joined he company's board of directors in 1981.

Deere & Company's financial services operations include credit and insurance subsidiaries. John Deere Credit -- one of the nation's 25 largest finance companies -- finances the sale of the company's capital equipment as well as recreational vehicles and boats sold by other subsidiaries. The John Deere Insurance Group provides commercial insurance coverages and life insurance products for vehicle and equipment dealership businesses, and also offers personal insurance including homeowner, auto and life. For Deere & Company's latest fiscal year, ended Oct. 31, 1989, the financial services subsidiaries reported net income of $124 million on revenues of $978.4 million.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Home Shopping Network, Inc. (NYSE: HSN), the nation's leading electronic retailer, today announced that at 12:37 p.m. today, net sales passed the milestone of $1,000,000,000 (one billion) in the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1990. For fiscal year 1989, Home Shopping Network, Inc. reported sales of $774.3 million.

Roy M. Speer, chairman and CEO, stated, "This is a historic milestone for Home Shopping Network and the electronic retail industry. Despite the soft economy and a slowdown in retailing in some industries, HSN has achieved record sales and earnings for the first nine months of fiscal year 1990."

Sales were a record $763.7 million for the nine months ended May 31, 1990, up 30 percent from the comparable period last year, while earnings before extraordinary items also increased to a record $31.1 million or 33 cents per share from $4.2 million or four cents per share last year.

"We are delighted that HSN has attained this milestone after only five years of national operation," Speer noted. "HSN is one of the few companies to obtain this level in such a short time. Home Shopping Network has not been impacted by the recent oil shock or the soft economy, and from every indication we expect this trend of record sales and earnings to continue,"

GOTHENBURG, SWEDEN (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - AB Volvo (NASDAQ: VOLVY) today issued the following interim report for the second quarter and six months ended June 30, 1990:

Volvo Group income after financial income (expense) during the first six months of 1990 was SEK 2,048 million (4,247 in 1989), a decrease of 52 percent compared to the same period last year. Income after financial income (expense) for the second quarter of 1990 was SEK 996 million (2,250), 56 percent lower than the second quarter 1989.

Operating income for the period was SEK 1,374 million, 60 percent lower than in the first half of 1989. Operating income for the second quarter of 1990 was SEK 749 million, 62 percent below income in the second quarter a year earlier. Profits were lower in all operating sectors except Food.

The continuing unfavorable trend of the market and sharper price competition in a number of Volvo's most important markets for cars and trucks resulted in lower sales volumes, depressed margins and reduced utilization of capacity. Income was also charged with continuously rising development costs for new products.

Volvo Group sales during the first six months of 1990 amounted to SEK 44,592 million (46,549), four percent lower than the same period 1989. Sales for the second quarter 1990 were SEK 22.917 million (23.482), two percent lower than the same period last year. Sales in markets outside Sweden accounted for SEK 35,539 million (37,470), equal to 80 percent of total sales, unchanged from the first-half 1989 percentage.

The following is a comment on Volvo's six months interim report by Christer Zetterberg:

The trend of income during 1990 has not been satisfactory. The negative trend of sales and income noted after the first quarter has continued. Our three largest markets - the United States, Great Britain and Sweden - are still weak, with resulting price competition and depressed margins.

The cost trend in Sweden continues to be a major problem and our increase in productivity is not compensating for inflation. Forceful measures have been applied to reduce our costs and improve our competitiveness.

During 1990 and 1991 we plan to decrease the number of employees by about 5,000, mainly within the Cars operating sector. The work force in Volvo Cars and Volvo Trucks has been reduced by slightly more than 1,000 persons already in 1990. We are also working actively to reduce absenteeism due to illness, as well as employee turnover, and we are now beginning to see that these efforts are yielding results.

We are adapting production to current market conditions and we are reviewing our capital expenditure program. We are also investing aggressively to develop products and markets in order to strengthen and broaden our international competitiveness. This year, we are investing a total of approximately seven billion kronor, which is charged directly against current operating income, to develop new products.

We recently introduced the Volvo 960 and 940, the first in a series of new models. The Volvo 960 is equipped with a completely new engine and gearbox among other features.

At the same time, we are increasing the efficiency of our product development programs. The Volvo 960, for example, was developed over a much shorter-than-normal period.

Within a few years, the alliance with Renault will further rationalize our product development in the Trucks and Buses operating sectors as well as in Cars. In a period of sharpened competition, it is clear that the reasons for an alliance with Renault have only become stronger.

Volvo's associated companies have developed well. I should like to note that the market value of our holding in Saga Petroleum, the Norwegian company, is now approximately four billion Swedish kronor, compared with an acquisition cost of slightly more than five hundred million.

The new Procordia has gotten off to a strong start and inspires confidence for the future. The market value of Volvo's holding in the company is approximately 18 billion kronor.

The total market for cars in Western Europe was largely the same as during the first half of 1989 and demand was firm in most countries except Great Britain and Sweden, two of Volvo's most important markets, where sales declined 11 and 17 percent, respectively.

Group car sales in Western Europe as a whole were lower, but increases were recorded in Italy and Spain, among other countries. Volvo's share of the market in Sweden continued to be slightly more than 20 percent, while sales were lower than during the first six months last year.

The total market in North America declined slightly more than four percent and Volvo's sales were approximately seven percent lower. Sales in Japan and Southeast Asian markets rose about 70 percent, compared with the corresponding period a year ago.

During the first six months of the current year 198,000 (206,000) Volvo cars were delivered to customers. Of this number, 130,000 (139,000) were in the 200/700 series and 68,000 (67,000) in the 300/400 series.

Demand for heavy trucks in North America continued to decline, compared with the preceding quarter, and price competition sharpened. Volvo's share of the market was slightly higher. Demand in Western Europe was somewhat lower than during the first half a year ago, while prices continued to decline in many of Volvo's important markets. The Group's share of the market was lower than in the first six months of 1989.

Demands for trucks in other parts of the world continued to be relatively strong. The Brazilian market has recovered and Volvo's share was higher than in the corresponding period last year. The market in large parts of Asia was also strong and Volvo improved its position there.

Volvo delivered a total of 27,100 medium heavy and heavy trucks during the first six months of 1990, compared with 30,500 in the year-earlier period. The order backlog at June 30 was largely unchanged, compared with bookings on the same date in 1989.

The number of Volvo and Leyland buses and bus chassis delivered during the first six months of the year was smaller than during the corresponding period in 1989. The softening in order bookings noted at the end of the first quarter continued and the backlog at June 30 was lower than a year earlier. However, Volvo buses maintained its share of the market in Western Europe.

Early July, the bus business of the Austrian company Steyr-Daimler-Puch AG was transferred to a newly formed company, Steyr Bus GmbH, in which Volvo buses owns 75 percent of the share capital and voting rights.

A cooperation agreement with Sabanci, the leading industrial group in Turkey, was also concluded during the period. The agreement covers the assembly of bus chassis and production for buses under license.

Order bookings for both marine and industrial engines were higher than during the first half of 1989. In Western Europe, where demand for marine engines continued to be firm, Volvo Penta's sales of marine engines were higher than in the corresponding period last year. In contrast, sales in the weaker North American market were lower. Sales of industrial engines were largely unchanged from first-half 1989 levels.

In the Aerospace operating sector, maintenance work on RMS engines for the Swedish Air Force's Viggen aircraft increased. Order bookings for commercial aircraft engines continued to be very substantial and deliveries were higher.

Negotiations are under way with General Electric with respect to cooperation on a new engine program for large passenger aircraft.

Invoicing of commercial aircraft engines was affected adversely by delays in deliveries by aircraft manufacturers.

Sales in the food operating sector - excluding Hilleshog, which was sold during the third quarter of 1989 - were slightly lower than during the first half of 1989, due to liquidation of the Abba company's international trading in fish.

The Volvo-Renault alliance;

Final agreements with Renault are expected to be concluded during the autumn.

The Procordia Transaction

At the end of the second quarter AB Volvo converted its holdings of shares in Provendor AB and Pharmacia AB for a shareholding in Procordia AB representing 42 percent of Procordia's share capital and 39 percent of the voting rights.

Since the transaction between AB Volvo and the Swedish government has been completed, the Provendor group has been transferred to the Procordia group. Conversion of shares will be effected so that Volvo and the Swedish Government will each have the same percentage of voting rights, 42.5.

Provendor is included in Volvo's consolidated income statement for the first six months of 1990 but not in the consolidated balance sheet as per June 30, 1990. The shareholding in Procordia is shown in Volvo's balance sheet at June 30, 1990 in an amount equal to the book value of Provendor and Pharmacia; as a result, the conversion of shares does not affect Volvo's consolidated income. Volvo's share of Procordia's income will be included in the group income statement effective in the third quarter.

VIENNA, VA. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - John Morton III has been named president, chief executive officer and a director of Perpetual Financial Corporation (NASDAQ-NMS: PFCP) and Perpetual Savings Bank, F.S.B. effective Aug. 30.

Thomas J. Owen made the announcement following a board of directors meeting at which Morton, 46, was appointed. Owen remains chairman of the board.

The appointment of Morton coincides with the implementation of Perpetual's new business plan, announced in June, designed to restructure the company into a stronger, more streamlined bank with primary emphasis on consumer and mortgage banking. This strategic shift calls for Perpetual to concentrate its efforts in the Washington metropolitan area.

"Perpetual's 109-year history in Washington, blended with John Morton's in-depth knowledge of the banking field and the Washington market, should provide a winning formula for increasing total retail deposits and the number of customers relying on Perpetual as their primary bank," said Owen. "His experience on both the deposit and lending side of the banking business re-enforces our new emphasis on consumer banking."

Under the new business plan, Perpetual will continue to focus on mortgage lending through its subsidiary, Perpetual Mortgage Company, the largest residential loan originator in the Washington Metropolitan area for the last three years.

"John Morton is a highly-respected executive whose many years of experience in the financial industry will bring a vision and the energy needed in today's competitive, complex banking world," noted Owen. "With John's leadership, we look forward to capitalizing on our competent staff and extensive branch network."

Morton most recently served as executive vice president at Maryland National Bank (MNB) in Baltimore, where he was credited with growing MNB's market share through the development of new deposit product strategies emphasizing cross-sales and sales incentives. During his 17-year history with MNB, he was senior vice president and manager of the Washington Suburban Banking Division, where he led an expanded MNB retail and commercial presence in the Washington metro area. As regional vice president for Montgomery County, he led a branch expansion effort that more than doubled the network in three years. Morton served on MNB's management, senior loan, and loan policy committees.

Perpetual Financial Corporation, with assets of $5.4 billion, is the holding company for Perpetual Savings Bank, F.S.B., the largest thrift institution in Virginia, Maryland and Washington.

NEW YORK (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - The France Growth Fund, Inc. (NYSE: FRF) a diversified, closed-end management investment company whose objective is long-term capital appreciation through investment primarily in French equity securities, today announced the results for its initial period of investment operations.

For the six-week period May 18, 1990 to June 30, 1990, the France Growth Fund outperformed the SBF General index -- the leading French securities market index -- by 0.6 percent in U.S. dollar terms and by 2.2 percent in French franc terms. Over the same period, the net asset value of the fund decreased slightly from U.S. $11.16 on May 18, 1990 to U.S. $11.08 on June 29, the last trading day in the period. During the period, the fund received a total of $127.41 million in net proceeds from the initial public offering of 11.5 million shares of its common stock.

For the May 18 to June 30, 1990 period, the fund realized a net loss of U.S. $1.49 million, or U.S. 13 cents per share, on net investment income of U.S. $1.53 million, also equivalent to U.S. 13 cents per share. The results were primarily attributable to a net realized loss of U.S. $1.7 million on foreign currency transactions, partially offset by net unrealized appreciation of U.S. $266,000 in the fund's investments.

NEW ORLEANS (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - The Securities and Exchange Commission has approved Entergy Corp.'s (NYSE: ETR) request to form a new subsidiary -- Entergy Power Inc. -- which will sell electricity in the wholesale market beyond the existing Entergy service area, announced Jerry D. Jackson, Entergy executive vice president of finance and external affairs.

Following the SEC approval Tuesday, the new company purchased Arkansas Power & Light Co.'s interests in two generating units, Ritchie 2 and Independence 2.

Entergy Power will be the company's entry into the independent power production business, a move designed to allow Entergy Corp. to compete for power requirements of other utilities in the developing power generation marketplace.

Jack King, who retains his position as executive vice president of operations for Entergy Services Inc., is the president of Entergy Power.

SEC permission was the final step required in the approval process, Jackson said. Earlier, required approvals were provided by the Arkansas Public Service Commission, the Public Service Commission of Missouri, and the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

MIAMI (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - General Development Corporation (NYSE: GDV) today unveiled to U.S. Bankruptcy Court Judge A. Jay Cristol a comprehensive Homesite Purchaser Assurance Program designed to assure delivery of a developed homesite lot to all of its homesite purchasers and to provide a stable financial base for future company operations.

The company said the homesite plan includes the creation of a land trust to help assure delivery of deeds to those who pay off their contracts, financial incentives for homesite buyers to continue making payments, and a lot transfer program, under which customers with contracts for homesites which are currently undeveloped would be transferred to a comparable developed homesite. The company said the Homesite Purchaser Assurance Program is a vital component of the company's Chapter 11 reorganization plan.

The program was developed following extensive research and sampling of customer concerns. It balances customer preferences against the financial feasibility of the incentive program. The incentives are aimed at retaining a sufficient amount in the contracts receivable portfolio to allow GDC to emerge from bankruptcy as a viable company. In addition to meeting its homesite lot delivery obligations, the plan will minimize the future development liabilities of the company in its communities.

In devising the plan, the company thoroughly evaluated its entire inventory of lots and every homesite purchaser's contract. The team responsible for developing the program was headed by Gordon Pfersich, GDC senior vice president of land operations, and Lisa Anness, head of the company's planning group. U.S. Communications, a Minneapolis based consulting firm, talked to hundreds of GDC homesite customers to determine their major concerns and the types of incentive programs which would persuade them to participate in the program.

The research revealed that the top priority of GDC homesite buyers is assurance that they will receive a deed to a developed homesite. Their second most important priority was financial incentives.

Approximately 21 percent of GDC customers made their July homesite payment. If customers received assurances of obtaining a deed to a developed homesite and financial incentives, the survey indicated that approximately 63 percent of GDC's customers indicated they would continue making payments.

General Development President Thomas J. Hutchison said the Homesite Customer Assurance Program "is a major positive step in the reorganization efforts of General Development. It addresses many of the concerns of our valued customers and provides the opportunity for the company to create a stable financial base for future operations."

DALLAS (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - OKC Limited Partnership (NASDAQ: OKC) announced today that the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit affirmed the order issued by the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Texas that certain dissident unitholders, led by J.R. Simplot of Idaho, had no right to vote their units in a 1987 proxy contest. The appellate court's unanimous decision shows that Simplot and his allies had no basis whatsoever for seeking to oust OKC's General Partners by counting votes which they simply did not have as a matter of law.

Cloyce K. Box, one of OKC's two general partners, said that, "We are gratified that the Court agreed with our arguments. The decision is a complete victory for those of us who have spent years working to enhance value for OKC unitholders." According to Box, today's opinion "should end J.R. Simplot's baseless effort to grab control of OKC Limited Partnership."

KANSAS CITY, MO. (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Drue Jennings, president and chief executive officer of Kansas City Power & Light Company (NYSE: KLT), today sent the following letter to Wilson K. Cadman, chairman of the board and president of Kansas Gas and Electric Company (NYSE: KGE):

I noted in KG&E's 14D-9 amendment filed yesterday with the Securities and Exchange Commission that KG&E may undertake negotiations which could result in an extraordinary transaction, including a merger or business combination.

As I mentioned in my July 23 letter to you, and as we have made clear several times through our financial advisor, KCPL strongly desires a negotiated transaction with KG&E and stands ready to meet with you and other representatives of KG&E immediately to discuss all aspects of our offer.

We are concerned that KG&E's statement indicates that you may enter into discussions with third parties without also engaging in discussions with us.

We believe our $27 offer price for each share of KG&E common stock is full and fair and represents an exceptional opportunity for your shareholders. In addition, we believe the synergies which will result from a combination of our two companies will have significant benefits for the customers and communities which KG&E and KCPL serve, and cannot be duplicated by any other party. However, the terms of our offer and our estimates of the synergies that can result from the merger were based upon our review of publicly available information and without any input from KG&E. We wish to meet with you and your advisors to explain our proposal and to discuss with you the synergies that can result from a combination.

If, as a result of these discussions, additional synergies or other values we have not taken into account can be demonstrated, we would be willing to consider adjustments to our offer.

Let's meet before you take any steps, such as agreeing to substantial commitment and other fees or agreeing to merge with, or sell significant assets to, a third party, which could impede your board's ability to deliver maximum value to your shareholders. We believe that the KG&E Board cannot, consistent with its fiduciary duties, take these or similar actions without giving us a full opportunity to meet with you to discuss our offer.

KCPL sincerely wishes to effect a negotiated combination with KG&E. In the final analysis, a meeting between us can only serve to advance the interests of shareholders, employees and customers.

The company has extended its tender offer to 7 p.m., New York City time, Sept. 14, 1990.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Enforcement actions have been initiated against Ponce Federal Bank (NASDAQ-NMS: PFBS), Ponce, Puerto Rico, its board of directors and former chairman for the purpose of increasing the bank's safety and soundness.

The Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) said it has issued a temporary cease and desist order against Ramiro L. Colon, former chairman, president and chief executive officer and now a stockholder, and his brother, Wendell W. Colon, former thrift counsel and now also a stockholder.

In addition, OTS has issued a temporary order against Ramiro Colon suspending him from any position he may hold at the bank and prohibiting him from any participation in the bank's affairs.

The OTS orders do not affect the bank's day-to-day operations and the safety of depositors' accounts, which continue to be insured up to $100,000. Ponce Federal Bank is one of the largest savings and loan institutions in Puerto Rico, with assets of $1.3 billion.

The Colons are required to stop causing the bank to violate OTS regulations against loans to affiliated parties and insider transactions, and to post $50,000 bond to make funds available for restitution to the bank. They are also required to make detailed accountings by Sept. 7 of dealings surrounding the sale of 101 horses by Caribbean Bloodstock Agency to Haras Surena, Inc., and the bank's forgiveness of loans made for the benefit of Forest G. Niccum and Enrique Ubarri and companies with which they may have been associated.

The bank is directed to comply with OTS regulations dealing with loans to affiliated parties and insider transactions; limit any advance indemnification to Colon for the costs of defending against OTS actions; stop any direct employment-related payments to Ramiro Colon; and deny the Colons access to any of the institution's records or files. The bank was also directed to change its locks and deny keys to the Colons, and to make an accounting of any payments made for legal expenses incurred by the bank the board and the Colons.

In addition, the order calls for the members of the board and Ramiro Colon to pay $615,000 in restitution to the bank. Restitution is sought from the individuals for causing the bank to pay that amount to Colon after they were informed by OTS that it intended to take administrative action to remove him from his posts as chairman, president and chief executive officer.

SAN FRANCISCO (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Chevron International Oil Co., a wholly owned subsidiary of Chevron Corp. (NYSE: CHV), today announced a major reorganization of its cargo trading activities aimed at improving its market focus and its ability to react to the increasingly competitive challenges in the worldwide marketplace. The major change is to restructure Chevron International's oil trading businesses into strategic profit centers that will place decision-making and accountability into individual, stand-alone business units which can respond more quickly to market conditions.

Implementing the new organization will involve relocation of Chevron International's crude oil trading headquarters from San Francisco to Houston, with major offices in London and Singapore. Chevron International's products trading activities will be segregated into four regional units recognizing the regional nature of the products business. Europe/Middle East products offices will be based in London; West Africa products activities will be managed from London, with offices in Abidjan, Cote d'Ivoire and Lagos, Nigeria; Americas products will be based in Stamford, Conn.; and Pacific Rim products will be based in Singapore.

Management changes related to the reorganization, effective Sept. 1, include the appointment of Peter McCrea to the new position of senior vice president of supply and trading. McCrea, 50, was previously a vice president of Chevron Chemical Co., responsible for its agricultural chemical and fertilizer businesses.

Reporting to McCrea will be Gerry F. Vetromile, who is appointed vice president, crude trading, located in Houston; Robert H. Brotherton, appointed vice president, Americas and Pacific Rim products, San Francisco; and Chuck D. Hartquist, appointed vice president, trading services, San Francisco. R.MarkElliott will continue as vice president, Europe/Middle East/Africa products, based in London.

Other management appointments include Fred W. Almus, assistant general manager, crude trading, located in London; Russ J. Riddell, regional manager, products - Europe/Middle East, London; and Moustafa R. Habib, regional manager, products - West Africa, located in London. In addition Andy M. Scott is appointed regional manager, products - Americas, located in Stamford, Conn.; and Sarah E. Ferris is appointed regional manager, products - Pacific Rim, located in Singapore.

Chevron International conducts international cargo trading, markets aviation fuels outside the United States, markets marine fuels, lubricants and aviation fluids worldwide, and markets liquified natural gas produced in Australia.

HOUSTON (AUG. 29) PR NEWSWIRE - Permian Partners L.P. (NYSE: PPA)

(Permian) today reported results for the quarter ended June 30, 1990 and full payment of quarterly cash distribution to preference unitholders.

Net loss for the quarter totaled $14,736,000 or 41 cents per preference unit on revenues of $514,389,000. This compares to a net loss of $3,166,000 or 1 cent per preference unit on revenues of $654,784,000 in the quarter ended June 30, 1989. The large difference in the net loss for the two periods is a result of the effect of crude oil price changes. During the second quarter of 1989, prices were stable, while during the second quarter of 1990, prices fell $3.25 per barrel. As Permian maintained an average inventory of approximately 2.2 million barrels for the second quarter of 1990, the losses resulting from crude oil price decreases were significant.

For the six months ended June 30, 1990, Permian reported a net loss of $22,898,000 on revenues of $1,169,515,000 compared to a net loss of $2,666,000 on revenues of $1,268,570,000 for the first half of 1989. Net income (loss) per preference unit was (59 cents) and 11 cents for the six months ended June 30, 1990 and 1989, respectively.

As previously announced on June 15, 1990, Permian's quarterly cash distribution of $.2875 per unit ($1.15 annually) will be paid on Aug. 31, 1990 to cumulative convertible preference unitholders of record July 2, 1990.

Permian, headquartered in Houston, is a limited partnership created to continue the business formerly conducted by The Permian Corp. There are currently 18,500,000 preference units outstanding. The Permian Corp., a wholly-owned subsidiary of National Intergroup Inc., acts as general partner.

Permian's preference units are traded on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol PPApr.

Permian's principal business is purchasing crude oil in the Mid-Continent region of the United States, transporting it and selling it to refiners and other customers. Permian is one of the largest independent crude oil gathering operations in the United States.

(AUG. 29) UPI - U-S officials say 10 people were killed and five more injured Tuesday in the crash of a giant Air Force C-5 transport plane in West Germany. At least two more people are reported missing. An Air Force spokesman confirms that the plane. took off from Ramstein Air Force base near Frankfurt and crashed about a quarter-of-a-mile from the end of the runway. The plane ferrying medical supplies was taking part in operations linked to the deployment of U-S forces in the Middle East.

The death toll continues to climb in the communities southwest of Chicago hard-hit by tornadoes Tuesday afternoon. Officials in Will County, Illinois, say at least 20 people were killed and more than 200 injured when the twisters tore through residential areas of Joliet, Plainfield, Crest Hill, Wheatland Township and Lockport Township. The National Guard has been called in to aid in relief efforts and to prevent looting.

That same storm was among the weather systems that later moved through Indiana with funnel clouds, torrential downpours and golf ball-size hail. Winds clocked at more than 50 miles an hour knocked down a house under construction near South Bend... killing one person.

Scientists told the American Chemical Society's annual meeting in Washington Tuesday that American soldiers have little to fear from Iraq's chemical weapons armory. They say such warfare is inefficient, and would probably be used NOT to kill, but to slow down troops by forcing them to put on what one scientist called ''those awful suits.'' U-S soldiers sent to Saudi Arabia have received gas masks and protective rubber suits to guard against the potentially deadly agents.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AUG. 29) UPI - Countdown clocks started ticking Wednesday for the repaired and presumably leak-free shuttle Columbia's predawn blastoff Saturday on a long-delayed astronomy flight, NASA's first shuttle mission in four months.

''We've been waiting for this for a long time,'' a NASA spokesman said, looking back on the space agency's long, launchless summer. ''Everybody's ready to go.''

Columbia's carefully scripted countdown began on time at 1 a.m. EDT Wednesday and if all goes well, the veteran spaceplane and its seven-man crew will take off at 1:17 a.m. Saturday, streaking through the nighttime sky in a fiery climb to orbit visible for hundreds of miles, weather permitting.

Commander Vance Brand, 59, co-pilot Guy Gardner, 42, John ''Mike'' Lounge, 44, Robert Parker, 53, Jeffrey Hoffman, 45, and civilian astronomers Ronald Parise, 39, and Samuel Durrance, 46, were scheduled to fly to Florida from Houston Wednesday night for final preparations.

The astronauts, working around the clock in two shifts, plan to spend at least nine days in orbit training a battery of high-tech telescopes on planets, stars and galaxies to study high-energy light that cannot penetrate Earth's atmosphere.

Unlike the Hubble Space Telescope, which was launched from Discovery April 25, the four telescopes aboard Columbia will remain in the spaceplane's cargo bay throughout the mission, operated by the ship's crew much like a ground-based observatory.

The relatively modest $150 million payload promises revolutionary results, giving astronomers their first detailed glimpse of what the universe looks like in the high-energy ultraviolet and X-ray regions of the spectrum.

Space agency managers debated delaying Columbia's launch a day or so in order to first move the shuttle Discovery to nearby launch pad 39B for work to ready the ship for a higher-priority Oct. 5 flight to carry the European-built Ulysses solar probe into space.

But late Tuesday, engineers reported Discovery would not be ready for the move until Saturday night at the earliest, and shuttle program officials decided to press ahead with plans to launch Columbia on time.

''The schedule shows Columbia's going to be ready for its launch on the first (of September),'' said a NASA spokesman. ''So the decision was to go for launch.''

NASA engineers wanted to get Discovery on its launch pad before Columbia's liftoff if at all possible to avoid losing time in the event Columbia runs into problems getting off pad 39A.

But with work inside the Vehicle Assembly Building to bolt Discovery to a pair of boosters and an external tank lagging behind schedule, Columbia's crew was cleared for an on-time blastoff Saturday.

Columbia originally was scheduled for launch May 30, but the flight was delayed because of a hydrogen fuel leak in the ship's 17-inch-wide ''disconnect'' fitting, which allows the external tank to be jettisoned in space.

Another fuel leak grounded the shuttle Atlantis in July, prompting NASA managers to haul Columbia, equipped with a new disconnect fitting, back out to the launch pad for another try this week.

Engineers initially believed Atlantis and Columbia were victims of separate problems, and that may still be the case.

But engineers said Monday the hydrogen leak that grounded Atlantis apparently involved trouble with the ship's disconnect fitting, not a fuel line flange as originally believed.

Whether the fitting was damaged by tiny glass beads like those blamed for marring seals in Columbia's disconnect remains to be seen and additional tests are scheduled at the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville,

Ala., to resolve the matter once and for all.

(AUG. 29) UPI - Air Force officials are investigating Tuesday's crash of a C-5 transport plane carrying medical and maintenance supplies from Ramstein Air Force Base to Rhein-Main Air Force Base near Frankfort. 10 people were killed and five more injured when the plane went down shortly after take-off, about a quarter of a mile from the end of the runway. At least two people are reported missing. The aircraft was based at Travis Air Force Base, California, but the flight crew was from Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas.

A strong line of thunderstorms moving through northeastern Illinois Tuesday afternoon spawned tornadoes that cut a path of destruction through several communities southwest of Chicago. Officials say at least 20 people are known to have been killed, with more than 200 injured. Homes and a high school were leveled... cars and trucks overturned... and electricity and phone service knocked out.

A State Department spokesman says they are hoping for the best, but have NOT been able to confirm an offer made by Iraq's President Saddam Hussein on Iraqi Television. In the broadcast, Saddam offers to release all foreign woman and children in Iraqi custody- beginning Wednesday. It is NOT clear if Saddam's offer includes foreign nationals in occupied Kuwait... which Iraq designated Tuesday as another Iraqi province.

The renamed Exxon Valdez- now known as the Exxon Mediterranean- returns to sea Wednesday for the first time since the nation's worst oil spill. Officials at the National Steel and Shipbuilding Company in San Diego, California, say the tanker... which underwent a massive repair job... will be put through its paces off the California coast. If all goes well, the ship will leave North American waters for good and head for its new service route in the Mediterranean by late September.

(AUG. 29) UPI - The Red Sox feel right at home with their recent road record as they move away from division rivals.

Mike Greenwell's two-run triple off Doug Jones highlighted a three-run Boston ninth that lifted the Red Sox to a 6-5 win over the Cleveland Indians.

The win, coupled with Toronto's 6-2 loss to Milwaukee Tuesday, increased the Red Sox lead to a season-high six games in the AL East.

The Indians had leads of 1-0, 3-1, and 4-3, but the Red Sox battled back each time to win on the road for the fifth straight game. Boston has wins of 2-0, 1-0, 1-0, and 12-4 in this streak in addition to Tuesday's win.

''It's the kind of game you need to come back to win,'' said Greenwell, who had grounded into an inning-ending bases-loaded double play in the seventh.

''You better win the close games. That's what we've done on this trip. That way, they can't catch you.''

The Indians had taken a 4-3 lead in the eighth, but Jones, pitching for the first time in six days, walked Carlos Quintana and Wade Boggs to start the ninth.

Jones got Ellis Burks to pop out, but Greenwell drilled a 3-1 fastball to the gap in right center to score two runs, and Dwight Evans singled in Greenwell. Jones, 4-3, walked two batters in a row for the first time this year.

''I was trying to make him swing and hit the ball,'' Jones said of the pitch to Greenwell.

The Indians rallied in the ninth for a run. But after walking Candy Maldonado, Jerry Gray struck out Chris James and used a forkball to get Jacoby to ground into a force play to end the game and earn his seventh save. Wes Gardner, 3-6, got two outs in the eighth for the win.

''When they play like they're playing, they have confidence,'' James said. ''The type of team that they have, they don't give up. That's why they're in first place. They make every out count.''

Elsewhere in the American League: Milwaukee downed Toronto, 6-5; New York routed Baltimore, 11-3; Minnesota buried Chicago, 12-6; Seattle beat Detroit, 4-3; Oakland defeated Kansas City, 3-2; and California shut-out Texas 2-0.

In the National League, it was: Montreal 5, San Francisco 2; New York 4, San Diego 0; Los Angeles 5, Philadelphia 1; Atlanta 9, Pittsburgh 0; Cincinnati 2, St. Louis 1; Chicago 5, Houston 2.

Brewers 6, Blue Jays 2

At Toronto, Dave Parker homered twice and Jaime Navarro scattered eight hits to hand the Blue Jays their fifth straight loss. Navarro, 5-5, went the distance for the second straight game and struck out six. Dave Stieb, 16-5, gave up seven hits and four runs in seven innings.

Yankees 11, Orioles 3

At Baltimore, Jesse Barfield went 4-for-4 and drove in four runs and Randy Velarde slugged a three-run home run, powering New York. Mike Witt, 3-6, pitched eight strong innings to help New York to its ninth win in its last 12 games. Jose Mesa, 0-1, lost in his first major-league appearance since Oct. 4, 1987.

Twins 12, White Sox 6

At Minneapolis, Kent Hrbek smashed a tie-breaking homer and collected four RBI and Greg Gagne drove home three runs to hand Chicago their fourth-striahgt loss. Reliever Tim Drummond, 2-4, pitched 2 2-3 innings of scoreless relief and Gary Wayne pitched the final three innings to record his first save.Adam Peterson, 2-5, took the loss.

Mariners 4, Tigers 3

At Seattle, Edgar Martinez' two-run homer with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning lifted the Mariners. Keith Comstock, 6-3, pitched the final 1 1-3 innings for the Mariners to pick up the victory. Detroit reliever Paul Gibson fell to 3-4.

Athletics 3, Royals 2

At Oakland, Calif., Terry Steinbach's bases-loaded single with two out in the ninth inning scored two runs to lift the Athletics. That gave the win to Mike Moore, 11-12, who pitched a six-hitter for his third complete game of the season. Reliever Jeff Montgomery fell to 5-3.

Angels 2, Rangers 0

At Anaheim, Calif., Kirk McCaskill fired a four-hitter to post his 10th career shutout, leading the Angels. McCaskill, 10-9, struck out three and walked none as the Angels won their fourth straight game. Nolan Ryan, 12-7 making his 700th career start, struck out 11 batters in the losing effort.

(AUG. 29) UPI - Ryne Sandberg doesn't make much of his accomplishments. In fact, the Cubs second baseman is surprised more players can't boast of the same achievements.

After becoming the first second baseman in major league history to hit 30 home runs in consecutive seasons Tuesday night, Sandberg named another great who he believes should have preceded him.

''After last year, I didn't expect to hit 30 home runs again,'' Sandberg said. ''It's a nice accomplishment. You look at a man like Joe Morgan (second baseman on the '70's Big Red Machine in Cincinnati), who was an

MVP. I'm surprised he didn't do it.

Sandberg belted his historic solo homer, an 0-2 pitch from starter Bill Gullickson in the fourth inning, over the left field fence to lead Chicago to a 5-2 victory over the Houston Astros and tie Pittsburgh's Bobby Bonilla for most home runs in the NL.

Sandberg not only started his own list but joined another chronicling the select group of second baseman to hit 30 homers in one season. Rogers Hornsby (1922, 1925, 1929), Joe Gordon (1940, 1948) Davey Johnson (1973) and Bobby Grich (1979) are the others.

Greg Maddux, 12-11, scattered eight hits in posting his seventh complete game of the year. He walked three and struck out seven in recording his eighth win in his last ten decisions.

''My control is better now,'' Maddux said. ''I'm trying to make the most of this season. Anything can happen. I still have a lot of starts left.''

Gullickson, 8-12, allowed five hits and four runs in 5 1-3 innings.

After Gullickson allowed Dave Clark his sixth homer of the season to give the Cubs a 4-0 lead in the sixth, Gullickson hit Luis Salazar with the next pitch and was ejected by home plate umpire Jerry Layne.

''I don't know how he (Layne) can see inside my head and tell I'm throwing at someone,'' Gullickson said. ''You pitch inside and you're going to hit some people. I've never seen anyone ejected for hitting a batter with no warning at all.''

In other National League action, Montreal downed San Francisco 5-2, New York blanked San Diego 4-0, Los Angeles pounded Philadelphia 5-1, Atlanta routed Pittsburgh 9-0, and Cincinnati edged St. Louis 2-1.

In the American League it was: Boston 6, Cleveland 5; Milwaukee 6, Toronto 2; New York 11, Baltimore 3; Minnesota 12, Chicago 6; Seattle 4, Detroit 3; Oakland 3, Kansas City 2; and California 2, Texas 0.

-- AROUND THE NL --

Expos 5, Giants 2

At Montreal, Rookie Mark Gardner won his first game since July 12th and Spike Owen drove in two runs with a single and a double leading Montreal.Gardner, 7-7, who was 0-3 with four no-decisions in his last seven starts, struck out a career-high 11 batters. The right-hander worked six innings while allowing one run, three hits and two walks. San Francisco starter Scott Garrelts, 10-10, took the loss.

Mets 4, Padres 0

At New York, David Cone pitched a five-hitter, his third complete game in a row, and Tim Teufel belted a two-run homer pacing New York. Cone, 10-7, limited the Padres to one extra-base hits - a sixth-inning double by Roberto Alomar. He struck out five and walked one. San Diego starter Calvin Schiraldi, 4-6, gave up four runs and five hits over four innings, walking two and striking out one.

Dodgers 5, Phillies 1

At Philadelphia, Hubie Brooks homered and drove home three runs to give the Los Angeles Dodgers their third straight win. Jim Niedlinger, 3-1, gave up six hits and one run in seven innings to win his third straight decision. Jose DeJesus dropped to 4-5. Brooks' 17th home run of the season was the Dodgers' first hit off DeJesus, who retired the first 11 batters he faced.

Braves 9, Pirates 0

At Atlanta, Greg Olson homered and drove in four runs and Charlie Leibrandt combined with two relievers on a six-hit shutout sending Atlanta. The Pittsburgh loss, coupled with New York's 4-0 win over San Diego, dropped the Pirates lead in the NL East to two games. Leibrandt, 6-8, allowed five hits and struck out two over seven innings for the victory.

Reds 2, Cardinals 1

At Cincinnati, Jose Rijo combined with two relievers on an eight-hitter and drove home a run guiding Cincinnati. Rijo, 10-6, scattered six hits over five innings, striking out three and walking four as the Reds won their fourth straight game. St. Louis starter Joe Magrane, 8-15, gave up five hits over eight innings, striking out three and walking two.

MANILA, Philippines (AUG. 29) UPI - A presidential panel Wednesday cleared three U.S. agents in the killing of a Philippine army colonel and his two aides in an attempted drug arrest by police, officials said.

In a 118-page report released to President Corazon Aquino, the panel dismissed military claims the July 10 slayings were a ''cold-blooded rubout'' and that the $400,000 worth of heroin found in the colonel was planted.

The killing of Col. Rolando de Guzman, deputy chief of the Northern Luzon Command, high intelligence chief, Maj. Franco Calanog, and a constabulary agent has sparked restiveness in the deeply divided military and prompted Aquino to call the inquiry.

Francisco Villa, chief legal counsel of the three-member panel, said there was ''ample evidence'' to support the claim by the National Bureau of Investigation that de Guzman and Calanog were drug dealers.

''It was a drug buy-bust operation but the killings were not justified,'' said Villa.

Villa said after an 11-day hearing in which 44 witnesses were called the panel headed by Aquino's legal adviser Magdangal Elma recommended the indictment of four policemen in the slayings.

He said there was no evidence implicating three agents of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration - Phil Needham, Jake Fernandez and Andrew Fenrich - in the killings.

Needham, the Bangkok-based DEA agent, posed as a buyer of the 22 pounds of heroin.

Fenrich, head of the U.S. embassy's DEA office in Manila, and Fernandez monitored meetings arranged by a female broker that led to the sting operation at a parking lot in the capital's financial district where de Guzman was killed.

The three Americans left the country after the operation, which U.S. embassy spokesmen said was carried out with the approval of the Philippine government.

The NBI earlier said the killing of de Guzman and Calanog was prompted by a shootout. Villa said there was no shootout but the killings were done ''individually ... there was no conspiracy.''

The military filed murder charges against 10 policemen assigned with the NBI, three NBI officials and the three Americans while the panel was conducting its inquiry.

The NBI is headed by retired Manila police chief Brig. Gen. Alfredo Lim, who helped Aquino crush six coup attempts in her four years as president.

Villa said the slayings had angered military officials who felt the NBI was ''smearing'' the 159,000-member armed forces.

Deadly thunderstorms that spawned tornadoes in Illinois raked the Midwest Wednesday, producing golf ball-sized hail, heavy rains, high winds and at least one funnel cloud while the South baked under an August heat wave.

Thunderstorms struck Illinois, Iowa, Missouri and Kentucky threatening to flood small streams and brightening the sky with flashes of lightning.

Storms, including one with a high potential for tornado formation, hit eastern Iowa, where thunderstorm warnings were posted for several cities and large hail was reported.

In Illinois, where a series of tornadoes destroyed buildings, killed at least 23 people and injured more than 300 people Tuesday, severe thunderstorms continued into the morning but eased around sunrise.

Rescuers searched for victims of the twisters in Plainfield, about 35 miles southwest of Chicago, as Gov. James R. Thompson prepared to visit the area Wednesday to survey the damage.

A tornado warning was issued in Illinois for De Witt and Macon counties near Decatur and spotters southwest of Clinton reported seeing a funnel cloud about 2:30 a.m., the National Weather Service said.

To the east, a thunderstorm dumped golf ball-sized hail on the town of Collom in Livingston County while a severe storm hit Ford County.

Record temperatures were recorded throughout the South as a late-summer heat wave held the region in its grip. Nashville, Tenn., recorded 103 degrees Tuesday, breaking an 54-year-old record and Pinson, Ala., recorded the same high to break the record of 98 degrees set in 1954.

Muscle Shoals, Ala., also had 103 with three Mississippi cities, Tupelo, Columbus and Greenwood, recording 102. Huntsville, Ala., had a record 101, as did Columbus, Ga.

High clouds from the remains of dissipating Hurricane Kenna drifted across much of northern and north-central California while scattered afternoon clouds associated with the recent showers continued over the northwest corner of the state. The high clouds from Kenna will continue sporadically over the next couple of days until the hurricane runs out of moisture.

In the Northwest, only thin upper-level clouds could be found over Washington Tuesday, allowing sunshine and warming temperatures including an 83 in Seattle and an 88 in Hanford in eastern Washington.

High pressure blocked most of the moisture from a disturbance off the Oregon coast. But a vigorous frontal system entering the Gulf of Alaska was expected to move south, bringing clouds and possibly showers by late Wednesday.

To the east, a severe thunderstorm and special marine warning went up for coastal counties in New Jersey and New York as a line of storms with high winds and lightning stretched along the Atlantic coast.

Boaters were warned to look for safe harbor as the storms hit the region.

TOKYO (AUG. 29) UPI - Clarion Co., a Japanese manufacturer of car audio equipment, said Wednesday its wholly owned U.S. subsidiary has signed an agreement to purchase McIntosh Laboratories Inc. for an undisclosed price.

''The contract was signed between the two firms Monday, but the value of the deal will not be disclosed under an agreement between us,'' said a Clarion spokesman.

Clarion said its U.S. subsidiary, Clarion Shoji Co. U.S.A., will take over the management of McIntosh, which has 246 employees.

Clarion indicated it would use the McIntosh brand name to market its products in the United States. McIntosh products have long been popular with audiophiles.

McIntosh had sales of $16.834 million in 1989 and $14.899 million in 1988, Clarion said.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AUG. 29) UPI - Rep. Wes Watkins, who gave up his seat in Congress to run for governor, pushed to the front of a five-man field Wednesday in late Democratic primary election returns.

Watkins will meet Oklahoma City businessman David Walters in a Sept. 18 runoff.

Watkins trailed both Walters and Oklahoma House Speaker Steve Lewis in unofficial tallies much of Tuesday night, but forged past Lewis early Wednesday and eventually took over the top spot.

In the Republican race, businessman Vince Orza, making his first bid for political office, headed into a runoff against former U.S. Attorney Bill Price.

In other races, Sen. David Boren easily won the Democratic nomination without a runoff and Rep. Mike Synar appeared to have the Democratic victory wrapped up the 2nd District. Kurt Glassco was the apparent Democratic winner to oppose Republican Rep. James M. Inhofe, who had no opponent in the primary.

State Rep. Bill Brewster defeated Lt. Gov. Robert S. Kerr III and two other Democrats to win nomination without a runoff for the 3rd District House seat being vacated by Watkins. Patrick Miller won the Republican nomination.

Watkins said Wednesday he considers the economy to be the chief issue for the runoff campaign.

''We've got to build new jobs and an economic future for Oklahoma,'' Watkins said.

Walters said the most important task for the next governor is ''re-establishing some trust'' for state government.

Orza said he thinks the people are ready for a fresh face in politics and added, ''We will find out if I am the right fresh face.''

Boren in a victory statement Tuesday night, said, ''I finally got to come home after the Iraqi situation cooled off just a little. We were able to make 35 counties and I think that's the way it ought to be. It gave me a great chance to talk to the people or listen to their advice. And after all, I think my job is taking Oklahoma thinking to Washington. So I thorougly enjoyed it and of course we are having a great night tonight.''

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - The government's Index of Leading Economic Indicators was unchanged in July after rising by a revised 0.1 percent in June and gaining a revised 0.6 percent in May, the Commerce Department said Wednesday.

The comprehensive index, compiled by the department's Bureau of Economic Analysis, tracks 11 segments of the economy in an effort to predict future business activity in the United States.

''A month ago, the bureau reported estimates that showed the index was unchanged in June and increased 0.7 percent in May,'' the government said. ''Average workweek was the major contributor to the June and May revisions.''

The Commerce Department said that of the 11 components, three were up, seven were down and a single category - manufacturers nUw orders, consumer goods and materials industies, adjusted for inflation - was unchanged.

July's positive contributors included contracts and orders for plant and equipment, change in sensitive materials prices and the index of consumer expectations, the department said.

Among the negative contributors last month:

-Vendor performance, which tracks delivery time.

-Money supply, adjusted for inflation.

-Change in manufacturers' unfilled orders, adjusted for inflation.

-Average workweek.

-Building permits.

-Average weekly initial claims for state unemployment insurance.

-Stock prices.

The index, which stood at 146.1 in July, has been up by 0.6 percent for the last six months and up by 1.4 percent for the last 12 months, a government spokesman said.

The composite index of coincident indicators, a monthly approximation of aggregate economic activity, fell by 0.2 percent in July after increasing by 0.2 percent and 0.5 percent in June and May.

The composite index of lagging indicators, meanwhile, increased 0.6 percent last month after declining by 0.4 percent and 0.2 percent in June and May, the Commerce Department said.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - The government's Index of Leading Economic Indicators was unchanged in July after rising a revised 0.1 percent in June and gaining a revised 0.6 percent in May, the Commerce Department said Wednesday.

The comprehensive index, compiled by the department's Bureau of Economic Analysis, tracks 11 segments of the economy in an effort to predict future business activity in the United States.

''A month ago, the bureau reported estimates that showed the index was unchanged in June and increased 0.7 percent in May,'' the government said. ''Average workweek was the major contributor to the June and May revisions.''

The Commerce Department said that of the 11 components, three were up, seven were down and a single category - manufacturers new orders, consumer goods and materials industries, adjusted for inflation - was unchanged.

July's positive contributors included contracts and orders for plant and equipment, change in sensitive materials prices and the index of consumer expectations, the department said.

Among the negative contributors last month:

-Vendor performance, which tracks delivery time;

-Money supply, adjusted for inflation;

-Change in manufacturers' unfilled orders, adjusted for inflation;

-Average workweek;

-Building permits;

-Average weekly initial claims for state unemployment insurance;

-Stock prices.

The index, which stood at 146.1 in July, has been up 0.6 percent for the last six months and up 1.4 percent for the last 12 months, a government spokesman said.

The composite index of coincident indicators, a monthly approximation of aggregate economic activity, fell 0.2 percent in July after increasing by 0.2 percent and 0.5 percent in June and May.

The composite index of lagging indicators, meanwhile, increased 0.6 percent last month after declining 0.4 percent and 0.2 percent in June and May, the Commerce Department said.

(AUG. 29) UPI - In a move to stabilize world markets, OPEC ministers meeting in Vienna today agreed to temporarily raise production levels. The accord will probably cause a further drop in world oil prices, which had jumped by more than one-third since the Gulf crisis began with the August 2nd Iraqi invasion of Kuwait. Final approval of the agreement came today following Iran's initial refusal to accept the proposal.

President Bush will deliver a radio address to U-S troops stationed in the Persian Gulf this morning. Bush yesterday warned Iraqi President Saddam Hussein that Baghdad would pay a ''stiff price'' if it did NOT withdraw from Kuwait. Speaking to congressional, military and foreign affairs leaders in Washington, Bush also reaffirmed his committment to resolve the Persian Gulf crisis peacefully.

Devastating tornadoes ripped through northeastern Illinois yesterday, killing 23 people and injuring more than 300 others. In Plainfield, the local high school principal said a ''miraculous'' move by coaches saved 150 student athletes who were in the building at the time the tornadoes hit. The coaches moved the students to an underground gym moments before tornado destroyed the room where they were practicing.

U-S Air Force officials say at least 12 American soldiers died today when a C-5 transport plane crashed shortly after take off in West Germany. The plane went down a-quarter mile from the runway at Ramstein military base. The transport was en route to another base in Frankfurt before it was due to deliver supplies to American troops stationed in the Persian Gulf.

BEIJING (AUG. 29) UPI - China confirmed Wednesday that it has closed its Kuwait Embassy, but denied the weekend evacuation was a capitulation to the demands of conquering Iraqi President Saddam Hussein.

Chinese sources linked the unannounced evacuation to Beijing's worries over the status of several thousand Chinese workers in Iraq, who have been barred from joining an airlift of fellow citizens stranded in Kuwait back to China.

''The Chinese Embassy personnel in Kuwait have been evacuated and returned home,'' the Foreign Ministry said. ''Because of the present situation, Chinese Embassy personnel in Kuwait could no longer live and work there.''

The ministry stressed that China maintained its policy of opposition to Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of its tiny oil-rich neighbor and had not acted in response to Saddam's demand that all missions be closed in recognition of Iraq's conquest of Kuwait.

''This does not mean that there has been any changes in the position of the Chinese government,'' the statement said.

China publicly denounced the invasion and said it was suspending its lucrative sales of weapons to Baghdad, winning praise from Western nations in the forefront of the U.N.-led economic embargo of Iraq.

Beijing maintains its ties to the exiled Kuwaiti government and last week issued a statement asserting its right to operate its Kuwait Embassy, aligning itself with the United States, Britain and other Western nations vowing to keep their Kuwait missions open.

China nevertheless closed its embassy during the weekend, quietly moving its diplomatic and support staff and apparently two Chinese journalists overland to Baghdad, according to Iraqi diplomats and Chinese sources in Beijing.

The closing was the first crack in China's policy of alignment with Western efforts to isolate Baghdad, and sources linked the change in part to problems evacuating Chinese from Iraq.

China completed its evacuation of 4,737 Chinese nationals who had been working or studying in Kuwait, saying a final flight carrying 187 people arrived in Beijing Wednesday, the official Xinhua news agency reported.

But sources said several thousand of the 5,000 Chinese who were working in Iraq at the time of the invasion have been prevented from traveling to Jordan or the United Arab Emirates to join the airlift to China.

Some of the stranded Chinese workers are believed to be working in Iraq under military contracts, providing training and technical expertise to Iraqi soldiers who use the Chinese weaponry.

Several Chinese sources have said Beijing is carefully trying to avoid angering Saddam, apparently fearing antagonism could threaten those workers still stuck in Iraq and undermine China's cherished image as a leader in the Third World.

Although it was done more quietly, the Chinese pullout closely echoed that of the Soviet Union, which evacuated its embassy workers last week but claimed its empty mission technically was still open.

Moscow and Beijing both say they support the embargo of Iraq and voted in favor of a U.N. Security Council resolution authorizing military enforcement of the embargo.

But the Kremlin has said it would not help enforce the embargo, and Beijing has not mobilized any enforcement effort, instead repeating its opposition to ''military involvement by the big powers.''

(AUG. 29) UPI - Police in Gainesville, Florida, say they believe one or two killers are responsible for the slayings of five young people during the past several days. The latest victims, a young man and woman, were found yesterday in an apartment near the University of Florida campus. All five victims lived within two miles of the university, prompting frightened students to leave campus or hold protective slumber parties.

The countdown began this morning toward NASA's first shuttle launch in four months. The shuttle Columbia is scheduled to blast off from Cape Canaveral early Saturday morning on a long-awaited astronomy mission. The seven-man crew will spend at least nine days in orbit studying powerful ultra-violet rays from stars and galaxies that canNOT penetrate Earth's atmosphere.

Philippine officials say a presidential panel has cleared three U-S drug agents in the killing of a Philippine army colonel and his two aides. The panel's chief legal counsel said ''it was a drug buy-bust operation, but the killings were NOT justified.'' He added there was NO indication the three U-S Drug Enforcement Administration agents were involved in the slayings.

Researchers at the University of Rhode Island says they discovered a new mammal species- a tiny pouch-less marsupial native to a remote Brazilian rain forest. The researchers found the species earlier this month and named it the ''pygmy mouse-opposum.'' The animal has a gray body, white belly and black circles around its large black eyes. It stands less than three inches tall, has an eight-inch tail and ears half the size of its body.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - Sales of new single-family homes dropped 2.3 percent in July after jumping a revised 4.7 percent in June and inching up a revised 0.6 percent in May, the government reported Wednesday.

Analysts expected a better showing than July's figure of 548,000 new home sales, which was calculated at an annual rate and adjusted for critical seasonal factors.

The data, compiled by the Commerce Department and the Housing and Urban Development Department, also showed there was a 7.8-month supply of new homes on the market at the end of July.

The estimated annual rate of 349,000 homes remaining on the market last month represented the lowest level since July 1986, a government spokesman said, indicating that overbuilt markets may be bottoming out.

At the end of June, there was a 7.7-month supply of unsold dwellings, down sharply from an 8.2-month supply at the end of May, the report said.

The nationwide median price of a new single-family home, meanwhile, stood at $121,000 in July, down from $127,000 in June and lower than $125,000 in May, the government said.

In July 1989, the median price of a new home was $116,000.

''Through July of this year, there were 352,000 new houses sold compared with 402,000 for the same period last year,'' the report said. ''This is a decrease of 12 percent.''

By region, July sales of new single-family homes:

-Plunged 10.1 percent in the Northeast after advancing 25.4 percent in June;

-Gained 2.1 percent in the Midwest after rising 1 percent in June;

-Held steady in the South after leaping 10.2 percent in June;

-Dropped 4.9 percent in the West after losing 9.6 percent in June.

''New home prices are at a major disadvantage in the current housing market,'' according to a market letter by Mitsubishi Bank in New York. ''With generally softer markets for selling houses and a high hurdle for first-time buyers to get the downpayment, housing affordability is the watchword.''

''New home prices are about 30 percent higher than existing home prices, which puts the new segment of the market at a cost disadvantage,'' the bank letter said.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - President Bush Wednesday told American troops in the Middle East and around the world that the U.S. military ''is a once reluctant fist now clenched resolutely'' against Iraq's aggression in the Persian Gulf.

In a broadcast over the Armed Forces Radio, the president said, ''Today in the tradition of two centuries behind you, you stand on the front line against aggression and international lawlessless.''

''We've never sought conflict, nor do we hope to chart a course for other nations, but at the hands of injustice, in the face of aggression, ours is a once reluctant fist now clenched resolutely,'' he said.

The president spoke to the troops from the Oval Office a day after he had rallied overwhelming support from Republican and Democratic congressional leaders for his policy of repelling Iraq's Aug. 2 takeover of Kuwait.

''To preserve the peace, America will always stand for what is right,'' Bush said. ''To preserve her commitments, America will always stand by her friends.

''Together with allies old and new we've seen a nearly unanimous condemnation of Iraq's injustices in the Persian Gulf region and we've been a part of a remarkable international commitment to peace and the rule of law.'' he added.

The president, who broke off his Kennebunkport, Maine, vacation for a few days to deal with the Persian Gulf crisis at the White House, said in his broadcast to the thousands of soldiers, sailors and Marines sent overseas:

''You're now in one of the toughest military missions in modern history, enduring the long, hot days of the gulf region's cruelest month.''

However, he added, ''As tough as it is, thanks to you, nobody is feeling the heat more than the government in Baghdad.''

''To the sailors who have kissed their wives or husbands goodbye for now, to the soldiers and Marines protecting peace in the desert heat, to the fliers in the air, to the reservists committed and ready, to the men behind the guns: Stand strong,'' he said. ''Our troops around the world are providing the kind of strength and security that makes this mission possible. And with the support of friends and family and the admiration of this great nation, you're proving you'll do what it takes at any hour, anywhere, to contain aggression and keep freedom's light alive.''

''We have an important advantage in the Persian Gulf because in the air, at sea and on land, soldiers of peace will always be more than a match for a tyrant bent on aggression,'' Bush declared. ''With your strength, we have the will. Together with our allies, we will find the way to peace. May God bless you and bring you home safely and soon.''

Bush told congressional leaders and 150 members of key military and foreign affairs committees Tuesday that ''the basic elements of our strategy are now in place'' that ''our intention and indeed the intention of almost every country in the world is to persuade Iraq to withdraw'' from Kuwait.

The president said Iraq must be convinced that ''it cannot benefit from this illegal occupation, that it will pay a stiff price for trying to hold on and even a stiffer price for widening the conflict.''

''We seek,'' Bush added, ''to achieve these goals without further violence.''

Vice President Dan Quayle and Secretary of State James Baker, as well as an array of other of top ranking officials, broke off their vacations to be on hand for the Middle East policy review.

The meeting was prompted by congressional complaints that there had not been enough communication with the White House during the Middle East crisis.

The president addressed Capitol Hill grievances and foreign critics, sending a message to those who believe that any protracted conclusion in the Middle East will disolve world opinion against Iraq.

''Let no one at home doubt my commitment to work with the Congress and let no one abroad doubt our national unity or our staying power,'' Bush told the lawmakers.

''Meeting the crisis in the Persian Gulf is not something that I or this administration can do by ourselves,'' Bush declared. ''We can only succeed if all of us - executive and legislative, Republican and Democrat - work together.''

Judging from the reaction to the hourlong meeting, Bush succeeded in winning strong backing from the Republican and Democratic leaders.

''I think what was evident today,'' said House Speaker Tom Foley, D-Wash., ''is there is very strong support for the president's actions, actions of the administration in meeting this crisis in the gulf.''

''The president was personally commended by Democrats and Republicans, senators and House members across the board, for his own particular efforts in bringing together an international effort to isolate Saddam Hussein,'' Foley told reporters.

Added Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell, D-Maine: ''Insofar as Saddam Hussein and the government of Iraq are concerned, they should be aware that the American Congress stands squarely behind President Bush in the policy which calls upon Iraq to unconditionally and immediately withdraw from Kuwait.''

Despite their approval of U.S. reaction to the gulf crisis, congressional leaders said Bush did not have a ''blank check'' for spending.

''The answer is, of course, 'no,''' Mitchell said. ''Approval of past action is not approval of all future action without knowing what that action will be.''

Rep. William Gray, D-Pa., predicted Bush would have continued popular backing ''provided we do not get into a protracted struggle where the goals are not clear and where there is a loss of life and (there) does not seem to be an opportunity for victory.''

TOKYO (AUG. 29) UPI - Japan will contribute medical personnel and civilian aircraft to the multinational force confronting Iraq, Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu announced Wednesday night.

Tokyo also will offer financial aid for affected countries in the region and refugees fleeing Iraq and Kuwait, he said.

Japan's contributions, while minimal compared with those of U.S. allies such as Britain, represent the nation's first overseas commitment of personnel into an armed confict.

Meanwhile, the last two Japanese diplomats in Kuwait left their embassy Wednesday and flew to Baghdad, the Foreign Ministry said. Living conditions had become unbearable since Iraq cut off their electricity and water on Friday, the ministry said. The embassy remains officially open, despite having no staff, a ministry official said.

Kaifu, condemning Iraq for violating international law and U.N. Middle East resolutions, called on the nation to support ''utmost efforts to restore peace and stability in the region.''

''Japan cannot be isolated from international society,'' Kaifu said at a televised news conference.

His remark apparently was aimed at Japanese who feel their country is being badgered by the United States into a commitment against its own interests. The decision followed weeks of wrangling within the government and represented a fragile compromise, analysts said.

In response to a question about U.S. demands for help, Kaifu said the measures he was announcing were formulated with independent judgment, based on Japanese law and ability to contribute.

Kaifu admitted details of the plan still had to be worked out and said laws might have to be changed to facilitate further steps.

No sums for the financial aid were offered, except a figure of about $10 million for refugee aid. Additional aid will be offered to Egypt, Turkey and Jordan, government sources said.

The government will charter at least two 747 cargo flights a week and one or two freighters to ferry non-military supplies and personnel into and around the Persian Gulf, the sources said.

Up to 100 Japanese doctors and medical aides will be sent to the Middle East to treat refugees and, if need be, soldiers, the government said.

The flights will not start for at least a week, and the shipping could take considerably longer, local reports said.

Japan Airlines and All Nippon Airways have each agreed to lease one flight a week to the gulf, but they laid down stringent conditions.

Among these were that the government give ''maximum consideration to Japanese nationals held in Iraq, including 23 JAL staff and their families '' said Japan Airlines spokesman Geoffrey Tudor.

The government had earlier said the hostage issue would be treated separately from the question of contributions.

The airlines also made it clear they would carry no munitions or soldiers, and they asked the government to guarantee their safety.

The Foreign Ministry termed it an unprecedented effort. But some Western observers privat3/4ly expressed frustration that it had taken Japan so long to come up with so littl.

''It will certainly be seen as a half-way measure - too little, too late '' said Professor Gregory Clark of Sophia University in Tokyo. Japan would have done better to stake out an independent position, he said.

The United States had been asking ''for a substantial and visible contribution consistent with Japan's stature and economic power, as well as Japan's interests in the region,'' said a U.S. Embassy spokesman, on condition of anonymity.

Legal restrictions and political opposition ruled out a more active role for Japan, analysts said.

Japan's Constitution, drafted by the United States following World War II, bars the nation from using force to settle international disputes. A 1987 law apparently limits the dispatch of relief workers to natural disasters only.

Beyond legalities, Kaifu's efforts to reach the consensus required by Japanese politics ran into opposition among politicians and bureaucrats, according to analysts.

Some Japanese opinion leaders called publicly for defiance of the U.S. request for help.

''Japan rhculd make its own peace initiative in the region, without following the U.S. line,'' Shinichi Koyama, director of the Middle East Economic Research Institute in Tokyo, said Wednesday.

GENEVA (AUG. 29) UPI - Representatives of the world's major airlines Wednesday opened a three-day meeting to discuss fare increases in light of the Persian Gulf crisis and consequent rise in fuel costs.

The conference is expected to result in approval of at least a 5 percent fare hike worldwide by Oct. 1.

Gunter Eser, director-general of the International Air Transport Association which called the meeting, told a news conference before the session he ''would not be surprised'' if a 5 percent hike in worldwide fares was the result.

He said, however, that participating airlines might settle for a lower figure. Such a rise could take effect as of Oct. 1 once governments have approved it, he said.

Eser said he could not predict exactly where a fare hike would be fixed, although he noted U.S. domestic carriers have already increased their fares by 5.3 percent.

U.S. airlines are deregulated and require no government approval to increase or cut fares.

Fifty-eight of IATA's 200 member airlines, are represented at the meeting scheduled to last through Friday. IATA spokesman John Brindley said the carriers represent ''pretty much the top level'' of the world's airlines

Eser said the meeting had been called at the request of the airlines.

''They are concerned that fuel, which is already in the neighborhood of 15-20 percent of their overall costs, is rising sharply as a result of the gulf crisis,'' he said. ''Spot prices for fuel in the Rotterdam (Holland) market are already 50-60 percent higher than last year.''

Another major factor worrying the airlines as a result of the Mideast crisis is insurance, where rates have also increased dramatically since Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

A single trip by an jumbo jet, for example, is now costing a premium of around $25,000, he said.

A rise in cargo rates will also be discussed at the meeting, Eser said, but he declined to predict what this might be.

BEIJING (AUG. 29) UPI - China hopes to curb illegal trafficking in videotapes by licensing satellite reception of foreign television broadcasts - even though virtually all the programs are pirated.

There are more than 16,000 satellite dishes in China capable of receiving international television transmissions, the semi-official China News Service reported Wednesday.

Some units with such dishes have been abusing their television- viewing privileges by taping and illegally selling foreign broadcasts, one unidentified state broadcasting ministry official was quoted as saying.

Most foreign news broadcasts and entertainment programs featuring sex or violence do not meet the puritanical standards of the communist government's propaganda organs.

In order to curb such ''negative influences,'' any unit with satellite television reception is required by the end of the year to apply for a license to view foreign programs, the official said.

''Those who do not obtain a license, privately install (satellite reception) and illegally record and distribute foreign broadcasts will be stopped and punished by the public security and state safety departments '' the report said.

The broadcast ministry did not specify how the new regulations were to be enforced but said permission to receive foreign television programming would be granted ''according to the applicant's actual needs.''

Ironically, the plan aims to license reception of broadcasts that no one in China is authorized to receive.

Most of the satellite transmissions are not electronically scrambled and can be tuned in easily with widely available equipment without paying the broadcasters - a practice known as pirating.

Embassies, hotels and residence compounds for foreigners are among the facilities in China that openly pirate programs from the U.S. broadcasters Cable News Network, Capital Cities-ABC and CBS, and other Western networks.

China has no formal agreements with CNN, ABC or CBS to pay for such unscrambnled satellite feeds.

Yet despite the regulatory gap, the Beijing Diplomatic Services Bureau for resident foreigners offers access to the American networks from its own satellite dish for a monthly fee.

Even Chinese government and Communist Party units are known to receive the unscrambled satellite signals, according to a Western source who requested anonymity.

MOSCOW (AUG. 29) UPI - Mikhail Gorbachev and Boris Yeltsin, the two most powerful men in the Soviet Union, held a five-hour summit meeting Wednesday to try to bury their differences and chart a common course for the future.

Newly appointed presidential spokesman Vitaly Ignatenko, briefing reporters Wednesday afternoon during the meeting, had few details of the talks but said they were held in a ''constructive, friendly atmosphere.''

He said there were 50 items on the agenda, including the relationship between the central government and the country's 15 republics and plans to move from central planning to a market economy.

Gorbachev, president of the Soviet Union, and Yeltsin, effective president of the dominant Russian republic as chairman of its Parliament, have feuded frequently since Yeltsin was kicked out of his Communist Party posts for criticizing the pace of reforms in 1987.

Yeltsin rode popular support to a comeback that culminated in his parliamentary election to Russia's top post in May. Under its new leader, the huge republic has declared its sovereignty within the Soviet Union and demanded control over its own affairs.

Just last week the dispute between Russia and the central government came to a head when Gorbachev issued a decree annulling an effort by Russia to control the gold, oil, diamonds and other valuable natural resourses on its territory.

Yeltsin called the Gorbachev decree ''another mistake'' and said the Russian Parliament would soon implement legislation to void the decree.

Yeltsin also was critical of efforts earlier this year by the central government to move to a ''regulated market economy,'' and he proposed his own more radical 500-day plan for the transition to a market.

On Aug. 1, Gorbachev acknowledged the need to work with Yeltsin and set up a joint commission on economic matters.

''Today our leadership is expressing only one wish - to stabilize the situation, to protect the new economic policy,'' Ignatenko said. ''The coming few months will be decisive in many ways.''

Ignatenko said a special joint meeting of Gorbachev's two top advisory bodies - the Presidential Council and Council of the Federation - would be held Thursday to discuss ''economic policy, the state of the union, stabilizing the internal situation and a delicate transition to a market economy, without any major disruptions, which would be acceptable to society.''

The debate on the future of the Soviet economy heated up Wednesday when Abel Aganbegyan, a top economist appointed by Gorbachev to head an independent commission,, released a report that was highly critical of the government plan for a ''regulated market'' presented by Premier Nikolai Ryzhkov earlier this year.

Aganbegyan told reporters the government plan was ''half-measures and too slow'' and said he supported some of the more radical moves suggested by Yeltsin, including rapid privatization of property.

''This term 'regulated market' - what is it?'' Aganbegyan said. ''Is it a market or is it regulated? We want a transfer to a modern market.''

LONDON (AUG. 29) UPI - Six men serving life sentences for a 1974 IRA bombing attack on a Birmingham pub that killed 21 people will have their cases reviewed because of discrepancies in police records, Home Secretary

David Waddington ruled Wednesday.

The evidence reportedly shows that a record of a police interview with defendant Richard McIlkenny, supposedly transcribed at the time of the interview, may have been put together later, the Home Office said.

The decision to send the case back to the Court of Appeals means the convictions may be overturned if the court feels new evidence warrants it.

In October, the convictions were overturned for four people, each of whom had served 14 years in prison for the bombing of a pair of pubs in Guildford, England, on behalf of the Irish Republican Army. Investigators said police officers withheld crucial evidence at the trial and ''concocted'' some of the defendants' statements.

The so-called ''Birmingham Six'' - McIlkenny, Hugh Callaghan, Patrick Hill Gerard Hunter, William Power and John Walker - were convicted in August 1975 of bombing two pubs in Birmingham, an industrial city in the English Midlands, in November 1974. The attack, claimed by the IRA, killed 21 people and injured 162.

They are serving mandatory life sentences but consistently maintained that they were innocent.

On appeal in 1987, the court decided that new information casting doubt on scientific evidence presented by prosecutors, along with allegations by the defendants of police intimidation while they were in custody, was not enough to overturn the convictions.

!Girry Adams, president of Sinn Fein, the left-wing political party that represents the outlawed Irish Republican Army, called for the immediate release of the six men pending the court's decision.

BONN (AUG. 29) UPI - Higher gas prices upped West Germany's inflation rate 0.5 percentage points to about 2.9 percent in August, the official statistics office said in a statement issued Wednesday.

Inflation levels in June and July were 2.4 percent. The average inflation rate for the first seven months of the year was 2 percent, the office said.

The statistics office attributed the increase to higher gas prices caused by the continuing crisis in the Persian Gulf that followed the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait Aug. 2.

The office said the 2.9 percent inflation figure was based on a survey of four of the 11 West German states.

The Hamburg-based Institute for Economic Research said in a statement also issued Wednesday that the inflation rate for 1990 was expected to reach 3 percent. The institute forecast a 4 percent to 4.5 percent inflation rate for 1991.

CHICAGO (AUG. 29) UPI - Widespread selling and continued favorable weather pressured the grain market early today.

Grain and soybean futures were mostly lower on the Chicago Board of Trade as midmorning prices were below the opening levels.

Much of the selling was attributed to liquidation or profit-taking, but losses were limited by the lack of country movement and higher basis levels.

Weather conditions remain beneficial for corn and soybean development, which tended to keep a lid on prices. However, hot, dry weather in the Delta continued to stress the soybean crop.

Locals dominated the trading in wheat and prices were mostly lower.

There was limited news from exporters. Taiwan was in the market for a small quantity of wheat and Pakistan for 26,000 tons of soybean oil.

The midmorning prices:

Corn Sep 2.54 1/4 up 1/2; Dec 2.42 1/2 off 3/4; Mar 2.50 1/4 off 1 1/2.

Soybeans Sep 6.17 3/4 off 2; Nov 6.32 1/4 off 2 1/4; Jan 6.45 3/4 off 2 1/2; MAr 6.59 1/4 off 1 1/4.

Wheat Sep 2.79 1/4 off 1/2; Dec 2.94 1/4 off 1; Mar 3.05 off 1 1/4.

PLAINFIELD, IL (AUG. 29) UPI - National Guardsmen Wednesday searched for victims in a cornfield adjacent to an apartment complex torn apart by a swarm of tornadoes that hit without warning from weather officials, killing at least two dozen people.

Nearly 350 injured by the storms that destroyed the apartment complex in Crest Hill, leveled Plainfield High School and turned scores of homes into rubble.

Gov. James R. Thompson sent National Guard troops to the area to put down scattered looting and, following a morning tour, declared Will County a state disaster area. The governor also asked President Bush to issue a federal disaster declaration.

The twisters struck without warning about 40 miles southwest of Chicago's Loop.

''I was on the fourth floor of the courthouse (in Joliet) talking with the chief judge when I heard the Joliet sirens go off,'' Will County Sheriff John Johnsen said Wednesday.

No sirens warned residents of Plainfield or Crest Hill, officials said. The National Weather Service confirmed it failed to issue any tornado watches or warnings in advance of the destruction, blaming the problem on outdated equipment.

National Guardsmen arrived at the Cedar Woods Apartment complex at 6:30 a.m. to begin going through a cornfield for people who may have been tossed into the field by the severe winds.

Officials said there was no word on how many people were missing.

Will County Coroner Duane Kreiger and Deputy Coroner William Ferguson said 24 people were killed by the storm.

Weather officials said the storm was the worst in northern Illinois since a 1967 twister killed 55, most in the south Chicago suburb of Oak Lawn.

The storm killed first at Plainfield, leveling Plainfield High School and surrounding homes and heavily damaging a Roman Catholic church complex.

It then skipped southwest to the northern outskirts of Joliet, where it chewed through the Cedar Woods apartment complex in Crest Hill.

Ferguson said three bodies were pulled from the wreckage of St. Mary Immaculate Church, including school Principal Sister Mary Keenan. Three more died at the high school, where football and volleyball players were evacuated only minutes before the gym where they were practicing was destroyed.

Ferguson said eight of the victims were in an apartment complex in Crest Hill when the twister hit, chopping the three-story buildings to one floor or less.

''There were people blown off the top of the building,'' said firefighter Joseph Casagrande, who said he helped remove the bodies from the nearby cornfield.

Other witnesses said the storm peeled away the buildings' walls, leaving the residents at the mercy of the swirling winds. Among the bodies found in the cornfield was that of a baby girl, Will County Executive Charles Adelman said.

Prince Mayne, a reporter for radio station WCCQ, located within sight of the Cedar Woods complex, said he heard victims screaming after the storm passed.

''Across the street, four out of eight town homes are totally destroyed. People are wandering around with their belongings, wondering what to do,'' Mayne said.

The other fatalities were scattered along the path of the storm.

The injured clogged Silver Cross and St. Joseph's hospitals in Joliet and spilled over to hospitals as far away as Loyola Medical Center in Maywood, west of Chicago.

At midmorning Wednesday, eight area hospitals reported treating 349 injured, including three who died at Joliet's St. Joseph's Medical Center. Eighty-one were admitted, 19 of them in critical or ''very serious'' condition.

Plainfield High School was virtually destroyed by the storm.

''There is no school left,'' said Plainfield High School administrator Steve Schammerhor. ''All the houses in front of the school are pretty much gone. Twenty or 30 houses are gone.''

District school buses were stacked by the storm into a twisted yellow pile behind the rubble of the school. School was to have started Wednesday. Instead, officials canceled classes for the rest of the week and said they will try to assess what to do with the rest of the year.

Principal James Waldorf said the disaster could have been far worse if coaches, fearing the weather, had not moved volleyball and football players from a large gymnasium to a smaller one just as the storm hit. The larger gym was destroyed while the smaller one largely escaped damage, he said.

Electric power and telephone service was cut to thousands of customers. Commonwealth Edison said more than 55,000 customers were without power after the storm hit in the Joliet-Plainfield and Aurora areas. By midmorning Wednesday, 9,000 still were without power, ComEd spokesman Mike Kelly said.

A spokesman for Northern Illinois Gas said service was turned off to about 200 buildings because of leaks.

WILLOW GROVE, PA (AUG. 29) UPI - Two Marines have been discharged and two others told to find other work because of their roles in the crash of an A-4 jet fighter on a suburban street, a Marine Corps official said Wednesday.

An investigation revealed that improperly secured fuel lines caused the jet to run out of fuel during the routine training mission, Lt. Col. Donald Breuy said.

The pilot ejected safely in the Jan. 13 crash near the Willow Grove Naval Air Station outside of Philadelphia. No one on the ground was injured, although several homes and cars were damaged.

Former Staff Sgt. Darel Scott Jones was discharged Monday, along with his superior officer, for failing to update the maintenance manual used by mechanics who inspected the plane, Breuy said. The officer was not publicly identified.

''I'm the scapegoat,'' Jones told The Philadelphia Inquirer. ''They needed somebody to blame and they decided on me.''

Jones needed less than two years to qualify for his 20-year pension.

The latest manual for the jet had been ordered and the manual used by the crew had been clearly marked ''training only,'' Jones said.

Breuy said Jones's failure to update the manual was the latest in a series of mistakes.

''If the crew had the latest manual, then the job would have been done right,'' Breuy said.

The two other Marines, a gunnery sergeant and an aircraft maintenance officer, were given ''adverse fitness reports'' and told to leave the service, Breuy said, refusing to identify them. It was not clear what their roles in the crash were.

(AUG. 29) UPI - OPEC scrapped its oil production quotas today to make up for the shortfall caused by the embargo against Iraq and Kuwait. For the time being, members of the cartel can produce as much oil as they wish. A Nigerian oil spokesman says production should rise three- to three and one-half Million barrels a day... nearly as much as the expected shortage. After the announcement oil prices fell sharply in London. The 13 OPEC nations produce about 40 percent of the crude oil in world trade.

The government reports the Index of Leading Economic Indicators did NOT change last month. The index tracks 11 economic factors to predict future business activity. The Commerce Department says three components were up, seven down and one UNchanged. In June, the index rose one-tenth of one percent and in May it rose six-tenths of one percent.

Government agencies are cutting back. They were told earlier this month to plan for reducing their budgets by 32 percent. That can NOT be done except with layoffs. Three-Million government employees have received notices they may be laid off up to 22 days as early as October 1st. The National Labor Relations Board already has delayed all hearings on unfair labor practices.

National Guard troops and police are in Plainfield, Illinois, to prevent looting following killer tornadoes. Two arrests were made during the night. 24 people were killed in the Plainfield area by the twisters. An official says the storm cut a path ''300 to 700 feet wide and seven miles long.'' Plainfield High School was destroyed. A yellow pile of rubble marks the spot where the school buses were parked.

MIDWAY, UT (AUG. 29) UPI - A ferocious 3,000-acre wildfire that killed two firefighters and destroyed 18 homes was declared contained Wednesday as investigators searched for the person or persons who caused it.

An abandoned campfire sparked the blaze, which gutted one year- round residence and 17 summer homes on state and private land in the Devil's Hole area between Midway and Wasatch Mountain State Park, about 30 miles southeast of Salt Lake City, said fire spokeswoman Loyal Clark.

The fire was expected to be fully controlled Wednesday evening, Clark said.

The person or persons responsible for the campfire that ignited the 120-acre Decker Canyon Fire on Friday and led to the major blaze can be held responsible for the cost of fire suppression, Clark said.

Investigators said no suspects had been identified.

''When I left the fire last night at midnight it (suppression cost) was $430,000,'' Clark said. The least expensive of the gutted homes was valued at $250,000, officials said.

Meanwhile, about 60 residents evacuated from some 300 homes in the area were allowed to return to their homes Wednesday morning. Most of the homes evacuated were summer residences unoccupied at the time of the blaze.

''They can go in and stay or go in and remove their belongings,'' Clark said. ''A lot of their homes are still filled with smoke.''

Crews extinguished the Decker Canyon Fire on Saturday. However, sometime during that blaze an ember or piece of debris was apparently blown by the wind and smoldered until 1 p.m. Sunday, when the major blaze began in thick oak brush and exploded, fanned by 50-mph winds.

The bodies of Wasatch County Sheriff's Deputy Blake Wright, 39, and Public Works employee Ralph Broadhead, 64, both of Heber, were found about 1 a.m. Monday in Sids Canyon.

The two were operating a bulldozer, creating fire lines in the southern end of the blaze, when they became trapped and were overcome by smoke and flames.

(AUG. 29) UPI - President Bush today gave a pep talk to American troops in the Middle East and around the world. In a broadcast over the Armed Forces Radio, Bush said the U-S military- quoting now- ''stands on the front line against aggression and international lawlessness.'' He described America as- in his words- ''a once reluctant fist now clenched resolutely'' against Iraq's aggression in the Persian Gulf. And he says the U-S will ''always stand for what is right'' to preserve the peace.

Bush's speech from the Oval office came as the military reported that 13 American soldiers died this morning in the crash of a U-S military transport plane assigned to carry supplies to U-S forces stationed in the Persian Gulf. A military spokesman says the C-5 transport aircraft crashed shortly after takeoff from the U-S military base of Ramstein in western West Germany. The cause of the crash is NOT immediately known.

The government reports today that its Index of Leading Economic Indicators remained unchanged last month after rising by a revised one- tenth of one percent in June and gaining a revised six-tenths of one percent in May. The Commerce Department says the average work week was the major contributor to the June and May revisions. The comprehensive index tracks 11 segments of the economy in an effort to predict future business activity in the United States.

The death toll from tornadoes that whipped northeastern Illinois yesterday rose to 24 as the governor planned to visit the devastated area today. Quick-thinking high school coaches may have prevented a worse tragedy by moving 150 athletes to an underground gymnasium before twisters leveled Plainfield High School. NO students were hurt, but authorities report more than 300 people injured in the region.

(AUG. 29) UPI - A noon prayer service is scheduled at the University of Florida, where students are mourning the grisly slayings of five people who lived within two miles of the Gainesville campus. The most recent victims were a young man and woman found yesterday in their apartment near campus. A 60-member police task force is investigating, but Gainesville police chief Wayland Clifton Junior says NO suspects have been identified. Terrorized students bought security devices. Store owners sold out of dead-bolt locks, battery-powered stun guns and Mace.

Top executives from the major airlines around the world are attending a three-day conference on raising fares in light of the Persian Gulf crisis and rising fuel costs. It's likely the Geneva, Switzerland, conference will approve at least a five percent increase in air fares world-wide by October 1st. The meeting was called by the International Air Transport Association, representing 200 of the world's major air carriers.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - Government employees are looking to Congress to overhaul the 20-year-old federal pay system that has allowed their pay checks to shrink by more than 20 percent compared with those received by workers in the private sector.

Through their unions and individually, federal workers are pressing the lawmakers to approve the legislation next month despite budget constraints and the need to deal with other pressing issues before adjournment in early October.

''We have the opportunity to close the pay gap within this decade, a gap that has haunted us for years,'' Robert Tobias, president of the National Treasury Employees Union, recently told his members.

Tobias and other union leaders are seeking ''a pay system that will reward federal employees for what they do - for what they are really worth.''

The push for passage of a pay reform bill comes as the White House once again has vetoed a big catch-up pay raise recommended by a special advisory group.

The advisers recommended to President Bush that pay be increased 22.32 percent for the lowest grade federal worker and 39.55 percent for the highest level.

But under provisions of the Federal Pay comparability Act of 1970, the president is not bound by the recommendations. Instead, Bush decided to give federal workers a 3.5 percent increase begining Jan. 1.

In cutting back on the recommended pay level, Bush followed the examples of Presidents Reagan and Carter, who also said economic conditions prohibited the hefty pay increases recommended by the advisory group during their terms in office.

The chief executives did not dispute that many federal workers have fallen behind their private sector counterparts, only that the government or the economy could not afford the increases.

''Pay raises of this magnitude are clearly unacceptable,'' Bush said in notifying Congress of his decision. ''They would be detrimental to our efforts to set government spending at levels that promote non-inflationary growth.''

Congress, which has 30 days to act, may override the president and vote for a larger pay increase, but it probably would not be much larger. The House Appropriations Committee has approved a 4.1 percent increase.

And there still is the danger that Congress and the administration will come up with a deficit-reduction package that freezes pay at current levels.

For long-term improvement in their pay situation, government workers are hoping for an overhaul of the current pay system.

Bills approved by committees of both the House and the Senate would raise federal pay automatically each year in line with pay increases of non-federal workers. The pay levels would be derived from the annual employment cost indexes of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The House bill, which is favored by the unions, would authorize annual raises that could close the gap between federal and private sector pay over the next decade.

The administration opposes both bills because they would limit the president's authority to decide on pay raises for the federal work force. Both bills would allow him to make small reductions in the annual increases, but the administation wants to retain full presidential discretion to set federal pay levels.

The two sides are negotiating on the issue and may be able to come up with a compromise that can be enacted this year.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - The U.S. Postal Service announced Wednesday it had suspended all U.S. mail service to Kuwait and Iraq because of difficulties reaching the two countries, but added mail destined for U.S. military personnel in other areas of the Middle East is unaffected.

''Effective immediately, international mail service to Kuwait and Iraq has been suspended because of transportation difficulties in reaching the two countries,'' the Postal Service said in a statement.

''This suspension will remain in effect until it becomes operationally possible to once again transport mail to Kuwait and Iraq.''

The Postal Service also said all international mail destined to Kuwait and Iraq ''will be returned to sender endorsed 'Service Temporarily Suspended.' Customers can file applications for a refund on mail returned because of this suspension service.''

The agency said, ''Mail service to military personnel deployed to Saudi Arabia and to other areas of the Middle East continues as normal.''

A Postal Service spokesman said the average mail load to Kuwait from the United States is not more than 600 pounds a day and not more than 1,000 pounds a day to Iraq.

CHICAGO (AUG. 29) UPI - The National Weather Service Wednesday confirmed it did not issue a tornado warning - or even a tornado watch - before twisters ripped through the Joliet, Ill., area, killing dozens of people.

As a result, residents had no official advance warning of the killer storm.

The NWS blamed the failure, which has occurred in other areas, on aging technology used to track severe weather in the United States and the system itself.

A tornado watch normally is issued by the NWS Kansas City Severe Storms Forecast Center whenever conditions are favorable for development of tornadoes.

Fred Ostby, director of the center, said the storms center issued a watch for severe weather in northeastern Illinois but issued no word of possible tornadoes.

The storm slashed through Crest Hill, Plainfield and Joliet, leaving about two dozen dead and more than 300 injured. The storm was the worst in northern Illinois since 1967 when a twister killed 55, most in the south Chicago suburb of Oak Lawn.

''The system works pretty well much of the time but there are times we cannot capture every tornado that occurs in the country,'' Ostby said. ''I can count off a whole lot of success stories but as far as the folks in Illinois are concerned, that's meaningless.''

A forecaster at the National Weather Service in Rosemont, Ill., adjacent to O'Hare International Airport, said the Kansas City storm center issued a severe thunderstorm watch but no tornado watch.

''Sometimes severe thunderstorm watches imply tornadoes could develop but this one didn't mention tornadoes at all,'' the forecaster said.

The Rosemont NWS office issued its first tornado warning at 3:51 p.m. Tuesday for Crest Hill. That was six minutes after the twister touched down in Crest Hill, destroying an apartment complex with heavy loss of life.

Even before the Crest Hill destruction, the storm devastated Plainfield High School, a Catholic church and whole tracts of houses near Plainfield, northeast of Crest Hill. No NWS warning mentioned the Plainfield touchdown.

''With watches, they say conditions are ripe for tornado development,'' the Rosemont forecaster said. ''But with a warning, our hands are tied until we hear that one has actually been seen. Usually they are spotted out in a cornfield. Usually they're spotted by sheriff's officers and are called in to us. This one dropped right down, right out of the sky, into a populated area. The first to see it were the first to be affected.

''Even though you may have a hunch, you can't put out a tornado warning. If we had put one out based on a hunch, we would have been called heroes. But if nothing happened, we'd be called in on the ''thing h

Ostby said the storm center has a ''pretty good batting average'' in discriminating between systems that just produce thunderstorms and those that produce tornadoes.

Ostby emphasized a severe thunderstorm watch had been issued.

''There are few and far between killer tornadoes that have not been preceded by watches,'' Ostby said. ''Once in a while a severe thunderstorm watch rather than a tornado watch will be issued. But I cannot recall a major tornado in recent years not preceded by at least a severe thunderstorm watch.

''I've been here 18 years and I cannot recall a tornado that killed a large number of people that was not preceded by a watch of some sort.''

Ostby said forecasters are prohibited from issuing tornado warnings based on hunches because it would destroy the weather service's credibility.

''There are 100,000 thunderstorms across the United States a year,'' Ostby said. ''So many have potential to produce tornadoes. If you put out a tornado warning every time, you would have a total loss of credibility.

''The 'cry wolf syndrome' is of great concern to us. If you put out a tornado warning on a hunch, the chance of receiving credibility or anyone taking any action would be totally nil. It would become worthless.''

Ostby said the weather service is in the process of upgrading its radar system. He said the current system is based on technology that was developed in the 1950s.

''It's not exactly state of the art - far from it,'' he said.

The new Doppler system, he said, may have enabled forecasters to predict the Tuesday twisters.

''The next generation of radar has shown that there's a good likelihood that in many situations the tornado can be anticipated in advance,'' Ostby said. ''The circulation that spawns the tornado can be seen on this radar. It measures wind speed and circulation.''

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - Using a roof-top device, scientists Wednesday reported they have concentrated sunlight to an intensity stronger than that found on surface of the sun itself.

University of Chicago researchers said they have created a solar collector that funnels sunlight to an amazing intensity: 15 percent higher than levels found on the sun and 84,000 times greater than normal sunlight intensity on Earth.

Roland Winston and his colleagues said on cold, clear days last winter their small collector, positioned atop the roof of the university's physics building, generated 72 watts of power per.0016 square inch. That is 40 percent better than the previous world record set by Winston's team in 1988.

Unconcentrated sunlight reaching earth totals less than one- thousandth of a watt per .0016 square inch, while the surface of the sun generates about 63 watts per .0016 squ'ri inch.

In past work with such devices, the heat generated exceeded 5,400 degrees Fahrenheit. However, Winston noted the yardstick used to gauge the power of solar collectors is similar to that of a lamp - brightness, not heat.

Bimieshwar Gupta, a solar energy expert with the Department of Energy, called Winston's work ''an achievement of considerable significance to the solar program.''

''Our goal was to surpass the intensity of the surface of the sun. We've done that,'' said Winston, chairman of the physics deparment. With that ''benchmark'' reached, the group is now moving on to practical applications of highly concentrated sunlight.

Potential uses include solar-pumped lasers that could be use for communication in space. But such lasers probably would not be powerful enough to be used for defense purposes like Star Wars, Winston said. The intense light might also be harnessed to produce ultraviolet radiation to destroy hazardous wastes and to process new types of materials, he added.

The Chicago solar collector represents a vast improvement over previous ways of concentrating sunlight, like the typical childhood experiment of using a magnifying glass to focus light and set fire to paper.

Traditional sunlight concentrators use imaging lenses like those found in cameras and telescopes. The new device teamed a conventional, 16-inch-diameter telescope lens with a non-imaging concentrator - a finely ground cone of pure sapphire so small ''you could almost put it on a ring'' - to funnel light more efficiently, Winston said.

''A solar furnace or laser does not care about receiving a picture-picture image of the sun. All it cares about is receiving the maximum power per area,'' the researchers wrote in a letter published in the journal Nature.

Winston said the device is still experimental so the cost effectiveness of any practical applications is unknown. The synthetic sapphire in the device ''was not all that expensive,'' and hollow pieces of metal could also be substituted, he said.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - US Sprint said Wednesday it has signed cooperative agreements to sell videoconferencing services to U.S. government agencies.

As a result of cooperative agreements signed with Compression Labs. Inc., San Jose, Calif., and Videoconferencing Systems Inc., Norcross, Ga., US Sprint said it would provide videoteleconferencing services for agencies of the federal government.

The company also said it is in the final stages of negotiating similar agreements with Midwest Communications Corp. of Edgewood, Ky., a provider of video and broadcast industry systems, and Systems Integration Group, a Hyattsville, Md., minority-owned business providing telecommunications services.

US Sprint is a unit of United Telecommunications Inc., an international telecommunications company based in Kansas City, Mo.

(AUG. 29) UPI - After an industry report of an unexpected rise in U.S. crude supplies, oil prices dropped nearly $2 a barrel in wild early trading Wednesday as the situation in the Middle East remained relatively quiet.

The market appeared poised for a further move downward as crude prices broke through a key support level - the $26.05-a-barrel low of Monday, when crude fell $4 a barrel and gasoline dropped 17 cents a gallon.

Eleven members of the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries agreed to a temporary rise in output to help make up for crude oil lost from the U.N. embargo of Kuwaiti and Iraqi exports imposed in the wake of Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

But markets appeared to have already largely discounted the widely expected increase of the OPEC cartel.

Analysts said the drop in prices was mainly the result of the American Petroleum Institute's report late Tuesday that U.S. crude inventories rose 900,000 barrels last week to stay 40 million barrels above this time last year.

''Most people were looking for a drawdown in crude,'' said Tom Bentz, director of trading at New York's United Energy Inc.

''The rise in crude stocks and no news from the Middle East'' were the reasons behind Wednesday's downward move, Bentz said.

The benchmark West Texas Intermediate crude for October delivery had fallen $1.88 by midday to $26 a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Unleaded gasoline for September delivery was down 2.57 cents to 86 cents a gallon, while home heating oil dropped 5.02 cents to 74.50 cents a gallon.

The WTI broke through Monday's $26.05-a-barrel low around 11:30 a.m. EDT on the Merc - a favorable technical signal to sellers that could take crude down to $25 a barrel or lower before the end of Wednesday's trading, Bentz said.

''Until something exciting happens, the market is going to seek a stable trading range,'' said Peter Beutel, vice president of Merrill Lynch Futures in New York.

''Most people feel the crisis is behind us and last night's APIs were not positive,'' he said.

On the U.S. Gulf Coast spot market, where WTI barrels are bought and sold to the highest bidder, WTI fell $1.80 by midday to $26.10 a barrel.

On the European spot market, the United Arab Emirates' Dubai light - the key OPEC crude from the Middle East shipped mainly to the Far East - was down $1.56 to $22.80 a barrel.

Britain's widely traded North Sea Brent crude had declined $1.62 to $26.58 a barrel.

Although largely discounted, the actual agreement by members of the OPEC cartel, which pumps more than a third of the world's crude, to raise output added to the downward momentum somewhat, Bentz said.

In their Vienna meeting, OPEC oil ministers approved a temporary rise in oil production, a move they said would ensure plentiful supplies into the winter months and stabilize prices at levels not seen since the start of the Persian Gulf crisis.

Despite objections from Iran and a boycott of the meeting by Libya and Iraq, the accord allows each member of the 13-nation cartel to increase output at their discretion ''until such time as the crisis is deemed to be over.''

The agreement would allow members with excess capacity, such as Saudi Arabia, Venezuela and the UAE, to make up 3 li'lion barrels or more of the 4 million barrels lost daily through the U.N. embargo.

The situation in the Middle East was quiet Wednesday.

Iraq said it would ''take time'' to act on its promise Tuesday to release Western women and children, as Western countries made plans to evacuate some of their nationals by air.

In Washington, Iraqi Ambassador Mohammed al-Mashat was called to the State Department to clarify the Iraqi announcement.

Speaking to reporters after meeting with U.S. officials, al-Mashat said the announcement about releasing women and children ''was just made yesterday and it will take time to make arrangements.''

GREENSBURG, PA (AUG. 29) UPI - A Conrail freight train headed from Pittsburgh to Baltimore derailed Wednesday, blocking both tracks on a major rail corridor and delaying Amtrak passenger service, officials said.

Conrail officials said 18 cars of the freight train jumped the tracks about 4 miles outside Greensburg for unknown reasons shortly after 6 a.m. Five of the cars were empty and the other 13 were carrying mixed freight, officials said.

The train had three locomotives and was pulling 103 cars. Conrail police were trying to determine what caused the accident, and officials said cleanup was expected to last until evening, said Conrail spokeswoman Pat Linskey.

The wreckage blocked both tracks of the Pittsburgh line East - which is used by Amtrak passenger trains - and Conrail was forced to set up a detour along a freight line. The detour itself was expected to delay each train by at least 1 1/2 hours, said Amtrak spokesman Clifford Black in Washington, D.C.

The accident disrupted morning runs of Amtrak's Broadway Limited, a daily train between Chicago and New York, as well as the daily Pennsylvanian, which carries about 100 passengers from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia and New York.

The Broadway Limited was delayed 41 minutes until Conrail provided a pilot qualified to make the freight detour, which is rarely used by passenger trains, Black said.

LONDON (AUG. 29) UPI - Stock prices moved lower on the London International stock exchange Wednesday in lackluster trading as investors awaited fresh news about the Middle East.

The Financial Times Stock Exchange 100-share index, which gained 39.7 points Tuesday, lost 4 points to end the day at 2,125.7. The narrower Financial Times 30 index shed 1.5 point to close at 1,658.9.

The sharp decline of the key Nikkei indicator in Tokyo set the stage for the bearish sentiment in London, but rumors of a possible cut in interest rates gave the market a new boost, with the FT-SE rebounding from its low of the day at 2,110.1.

A better-than-expected morning performance on Wall Street helped trim losses, traders said.

Dealers described the volume of 297.3 million shares as ''pathetic.'' They said institutional investors were squaring their positions in the absence of major developments in the Middle East or on the corporate front.

Bright spots were few and far between. Retailer Laura Ashley jumped 35 cents to $1.30 on news that Aeon, a Japanese department store chain, was coming to the troubled company's rescue and acquiring a 15 percent stake for about $59 million.

Other corporations weathering the downturn included Cadbury's, the food and bevdrmge group, which gained 8 cents to $6.28 on better-than- expected financial results.

Speyhawk, the building consortium, plunged $1.44 to $1.93, on reports that merger talks with Sweden's Nordjsternan group had collapsed.

Gilt-edged securities languished amid the thin trading.

In Frankfurt, stock prices surged on news that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has agreed to temporarily boost the cartel's crude oil output.

The market drifted lower from the opening but bucked the trend as reports from the cartel's Vienna headquarters reached the trading floor.

The key weighted German Stock Index, or Dax, rebounded from the day's low of 1,601.30 to close at 1,637.66, a gain of 19.77 points over Tuesday's close.

Traders said the prospect of lower oil prices boosted investors' confidence although concerns remained over the Middle East situation.

CAIRO, EGYPT (AUG. 29) UPI - Iraqi President Saddam Hussein may resort to terrorist attacks on U.S. targets in light of his access to groups and leaders linked to past acts of international terrorism, moderate Palestinian officials and Arab diplomats say.

Arab diplomats from the Persian Gulf point out that it was terrorism, not military confrontation, that forced U.S. troops out the Middle East the last time they were there in force, and cited the example of the 1983 truck bombing of barracks in Lebanon which left 241 U.S. Marines dead.

But a mainstream PLO official opposed to the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait who asked that his name not be used told United Press International he believed it was unlikely the Iraqi leader would unleash terrorist acts unless forced into a corner.

''I don't think (he) will use this option unless he is in a corner,'' the official said. ''His decision to release women and children in Iraq is perhaps a sign that he wants to exhaust all options before resorting to terrorism. But his ability to use terrorists is '' terrorists is

The Wall Street Journal last week quoted one foreign intelligence estimate as saying ''there may be as many as 1,400 active international terrorists now in Iraq.''

The Palestine Liberation Organization official said Saddam has in the past ''used the Abu Nidal Organization to attack Israeli targets,'' and cited a 1982 attack on the Israeli ambassador in London.

Recent Arab reports said hundreds of PLO fighters in Lebanon were defecting ''in droves'' to Abu Nidal.

The Abu Nidal group, once described by the State Department as ''the most dangerous terrorist organization in existence,'' was set up in Baghdad in 1973 and has maintained facilities there even after it moved in 1983 to Syria and later to Libya, the official said.

Abu Nidal himself, a former PLO official known as Sabri al Banna, is believed to be in Baghdad.

One Arab diplomat based in Cairo said Abu Nidal's desire to show gratitude to Iraq for offering a new haven from which to operate may make the terrorist group ''amenable to placing its operational units at Saddam's disposal.''

In the past, the Abu Nidal organization showed itself capable of undertaking such terrorist activities as hijackings, indiscriminate gun and grenade attacks, bombings, assassinations and kidnappings through a highly effective network of clandestine cells extending around the world.

The PLO official also said another terrorist leader, Abul Abbas, recently distributed an order to his forces in their Lebanese stronghold of Sidon calling on them to attack U.S. targets.

According to the official, the order read in part: ''Open fire on the American enemy everywhere. Quake the earth under the feet of the invaders and collaborators ... the daily fighting order to each and every one of you, wherever you are, is:

''One - hit American interests and all the intelligence centers linked to them. Two - strike at the interests of the treacherous agents in the Arab nation and all brokers allied with American imperialism. Three - attack the American and NATO military presence in the Arabian peninsula.''

The Abul Abbas order appeared directed not only toward the United States, but also at countries such as Egypt, Morocco, Syria, Bangladesh and Pakistan, which have either already sent troops to defend Saudi Arabia.

The PLO official said 4,300 fighters of the Baghdad-based Palestine Liberation Front led by Abul Abbas had already volunteered to help ''defend Iraq.''

Egyptian Interior Ministry sources said other major figures associated with terrorism also have long records of association with Iraq and might be available to lend their expertise to a terror campaign.

Abu Ibrahim, a master bombmaker and designer of the hidden suitcase bomb for destroying airliners, was reported in Arab newspapers as retired and living in Baghdad. His expertise might be available to support other groups tasked with the actual placing of explosive devices.

Abu Salim, whose Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine- Special Command claimed responsibility for the 1985 bombing of a Spanish restaurant frequented by U.S. servicemen, is also reported to be based in Baghdad.

PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat moved key parts of the PLO leadership to the Iraqi capital of Baghdad from Tunis, Tunisia, prior to the Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait, and has supported Iraq in its conflict with the West and Arab states such as Egypt. But Arafat himself has renounced violence and recognized the right of Israel to exist as a prerequisite for talks with the United States.

An unlikely tool for Iraq in the event of it sponsoring terrorist attacks may be Lebanon's pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem grpoup, Hezbollah.

In seizing Kuwait, Saddam secured the fate of 15 Shiite terrorists held there, including the brother-in-law of one of Hezbollah's toughest operatives, Imad Mugniyah. This places Saddam in a powerful position to influence Hezbollah, which is believed to be behind the kidnapping of American and other Western hostages in Lebanon, the Egyptian sources said.

According to Arab press reports, Hussein Moussawi, one of the more moderate Hezbollah leaders in Lebanon, has already called on Moslems to ''launch suicide attacks on the Western forces.''

Hezbollah carried out suicide bomb attacks on U.S. and French military and diplomatic targets in Lebanon in 1983, and since the September 1989 execution of 16 Kuwaiti Shiites in Saudi Arabia for alleged involvement in bombings in Mecca, a number of attacks have also been mounted on Saudi diplomatic targets.

Hezbollah is reported to have mounted operations in Europe in recent years and arms caches belonging to the group have been found in West Africa, Spain and Cyprus.

PHOENIX (AUG. 29) UPI - Phoenix real-estate executive Thomas Arnold Jr. has been named temporary trustee of Charles H Keating Jr.'s bankrupt American Continental Corp., parent company of the failed Lincoln Savings and Loan Association.

U.S. District Court Judge Richard Bilby Tuesday named Arnold to head the company until a Sept. 7 hearing after which Bilby is expected to decide whether Arnold will continue as chairman or be replaced with a Bankruptcy Court trustee.

Keating and five of his associates resigned from the top management of American Continental last Friday, one day after a federal judge in Washington rejected Keating's attempt to regain control of Lincoln.

American Continental filed for bankruptcy protection in April 1989 amid Keating's battle with federal regulators over Lincoln Savings. Regulators seized Lincoln Savings the following day and subsequently said it would be the costliest of the nation's thrift buyouts, costing taxpayers as much as $2.5 billion.

American Continental was the holding company for Keating's financial empire which specialized in real estate development.

Bilby placed Arnold in control of about $16 million in remaining assets of American Continental, but said he could not hire anyone or fire any of the company's remaining 17 employees.

A committee of unsecured creditors favored Arnold, a former president of Del Webb Corp. and current president of Castillo & Arnold real-estate company, to lead American Continental through liquidation.

Unsecured creditors - primarily about 23,000 holders of American Continental bonds rendered worthless by the bankruptcy filing - have submitted a liquidation plan which they claim would pay up to 21 cents on the dollar.

Keating's attorneys initially opposed the plan, but one of them, James Feder, said Tuesday that, ''We believe that something probably can be worked out.''

PITTSBURGH (AUG. 29) UPI - Pittsburgh National Bank has agreed to hire 13 minority group members who were denied clerical employment and pay $100,000 in back pay, the government said Wednesday.

The U.S. Labor Department in Philadelphia says the settlement is the result of a compliance review that began in September 1989.

Joseph DuBray, regional director of the Office of Federal Contract Compliance in Philadelphia, says PNB was found to have denied employment opportunities to qualified minority clerical applicants at a significantly higher rate than qualified non-minorities.

Pittsburgh National refused to admit any violation of the law.

''As part of the agreement, PNB has provided jobs to the 13 minorities along with seniority retroactive to the dates when they should have been hired,'' DuBray said.

PNB also will be revising its applicant selection procedures to enable the bank to track the components of the selection process.

GAINESVILLE, FL (AUG. 29) UPI - The serial killer hunted in the slayings of five students sought out petite young brunette women, knew his victims and forced his way into their apartments, police said Wednesday.

''We've got a rather shrewd individual on our hands,'' Police Chief Wayland Clifton Jr. said. ''He's proved that several times. We have lots of physical evidence. We are developing suspects at this time.

''It does appear that he had some prior knowledge of the suspects and their dwellings.''

Fear has permeated the University of Florida community since authorities discovered the bodies of four young women and one young man in a three-day period in apartments within 2 miles of the campus. Four were UF students and the fifth was a student at Santa Fe Community College and police believe all five were slain by the same one or two people.

Clifton did not discuss the killer's possible motive or say if the victims had been robbed or sexually assaulted.

''We're still trying to find if there's any common denominator or commonalities between the five victims,'' Clifton said. ''Dark hair seems to be one of the commonalities. Obviously he likes young people.''

The four women victims were all petite white women with brown hair. The male victim was the boyfriend of one of the women. All lived in first-floor apartments except one, who lived in a basement apartment.

Police said the third victim, Christa Hoyt, 18, a student at Santa Fe Community College and clerk for the Alachua County Sheriff's Department, had been stabbed to death. They would not confirm reports that Hoyt had been decapitated but acknowledged that some of the first three victims' bodies had been mutilated.

The last two victims, University of Florida students Tracey Paules, 23, of Palm Springs North and Manuel Taboada, 23, of Carol City, were apparently bludgeoned to death but their bodies were not mutilated, said sheriff's Lt. Spencer Mann.

Autopsy results were pending for the first two victims, University of Florida freshmen roommates Christina P. Powell, 17, of Jacksonville and Sonya Larson, 18, of Deerfield Beach.

A task force of more than 100 officers, including the crime lab specialist who helped catch serial murderer Ted Bundy, were working on the case.

The FBI and the Florida Department of Law Enforcement were expected to release a psychological profile of the killer late Wednesday or Thursday.

Clifton said the killer had forced his way into the victims' apartments, entering through a sliding glass door in one case. There was no indication that the killer used any form of disguise to gain entry.

The slayings set off panic and heightened security in the university community. Frightened students fled and those who stayed armed themselves.

Store owners reported selling out of deadbolt locks, Mace and battery-powered stun guns. Gun stores said people were buying rifles and shotguns to avoid the 48-hour waiting period required for pistols.

Clifton cautioned students agaisnt buying guns.

''Vigilantism is never good,'' the chief said. ''Usually what you get is an innocent person being hurt, a meter reader.''

Some students huddled together in hotel rooms, too scared to return to their apartments.

''We're leaving this morning,'' said pre-med student Jill Gershung, a 21-year-old senior from West Palm Beach.

''Some are saying they're waiting until Thursday or Friday or until they find another body. I don't know why they're waiting though. Five is plenty for me,'' Many parents went to Gainesville to take their children home for a few days or to stay with them.

''If they don't discover the person by the weekend, I'm taking her home,'' Joe Colucci of Davie said of his daughter.

John Dewing of Boston was on a plane for Gainesville two hours after his ex-wife in Palm Beach got a call from their 19-year-old daughter, Ali.

''According to my mother, I'm not coming back up here until this guy is found, whether it's two months or two weeks. I don't want to be here if there's a crazy guy running around killing people,'' said Ali Dewing, a University of Florida student. ''Everybody's pretty much going home.''

Classes continued on schedule Wednesday, with sporadic attendance.

University President John Lombardi extended until Sept. 7 the deadline for students to withdraw from classes without penalty. Though students were leaving in droves, few had formally withdrawn from the university.

''What the president has recommended is that the students take a long weekend and a lot are doing that,'' said Registrar Steve Pritz.

About 300 people gathered at a noon prayer service for the victims.

''I don't know what's gone wrong,'' said the service leader, Susan Wieder, a university student from St. Cloud. ''I pray for myself, I pray for others, I pray for an end to the situation ... I pray for people liveing in fear. Thats an awful way to live.''

Student John Hoffman, 21, of Clearwater, lives at the complex where Tuesday's victims were found. He walked his roommate and girlfriend to their car Wednesday morning, carrying a golf club for protection.

He said he and roommate John Belcher were leaving Gainesville Wednesday.

''We're not just waiting around to see who's next,'' Hoffman said.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - The struggle for America's cultural soul heated up Wednesday as a conservative legal group said it was suing the National Endowment for the Arts and a liberal civil liberties organization reported a sharp jump in efforts to censor the books school children read.

At a news conference, the Rutherford Institute, a Christian- oriented civil liberties organization, said it was filing suit in U.S. Court for the District of Columbia challenging the NEA's ''open and notorious hostility to religion.''

Just a few blocks away, People for the American Way said censorship problems in the schools have gone ''from bad to worse,'' reporting 244 attacks on books and instructional material.

Calling the increase - from last year's 172 reported incidents - ''no suprise,'' People for the American Way president Arthur Kropp said, ''The censorship movement in America is flourishing.

''From novels to television programs to fine art to music to movies to textbooks, we are witnessing an explosion of censorship, an explosion sparked by the match of the Far Right and Religious Right intolerance.''

While the lawsuit and the report were unrelated incidents, both go the heart of the struggle between political, religious and social factions seeking to impress their view of the nature of American culture on the people.

The Rutherford Institute lawsuit seeks a declaration from the federal courts that funding by the arts endowment of a catalog and exhibition by New York artist David Wojnarowicz titled ''Tongues of Flame'' is unconsitutional because it violates the First Amendment's Establisimint Clause requiring government neutrality toward religion.

The suit accused the NEA and its chairperson, John Frohnmayer, of taking a position of ''open and notorious hostility toward religion.''

According to the Rutherford suit, the catalog depicts Jesus as a drug user and calls New York Cardinal John O'Connor a ''fat cannibal.''

''People are free to privately create whatever art they may desire for their own purposes,'' said Rutherford president John Whitehead. ''But the government should not become the patron of hate art against some of its citizens.

''Religious people must no longer be the personal targets of cannon fire from National Endowment projects,'' he said.

The People for the American Way report said efforts to censor children's school reading included attacks on such classics as Shakespeare's ''Romeo and Juliet,'' the stories of Edgar Allen Poe, Mark Twain's ''The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn'' and John Steinbeck's ''Of Mice and Men.'' Also coming under attack are critically acclaimed contemporary books like E.L. Doctorow's ''Ragtime,'' Alice Walker's ''The Color Purple'' and Maya Angelou's, ''I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings.''

Much of the criticism centers on ''the three ''S's'' - sex, Satanism and swearing - with much of the current emphasis on alleged Satanism. In Springfield, Ore., for example, efforts were made to stop the high school's production of Noel Coward's ''Blithe Spirit,'' which involves contact with the spirit world. One objector explained that ''it's getting into the New Age religion, the (actress) Shirley MacLaine kind of stuff.''

Kropp said much of the organized efforts at censorship were coming from Religious Right groups such as the Traditional Values Coalition, in Anaheim, Calif. He said the censorship efforts primarily were directed at the popular kindergarten to sixth grade ''Impressions'' reading curriculum published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston.

The series contains stories, essays and poems by the likes of Martin Luther King Jr., C.S. Lewis and Laura Ingalls Wilder. Objectors claim the series has overtones of witchcraft and fantasy and has persistent themes of ''rebellion against parents and authority figures.''

''Impressions'' has come under attack in at least 18 school districts in California alone. People for the American Way said 11 districts have decided to keep the series, five are dropping it and two are still deciding how to handle objections.

(AUG. 29) UPI - Work crews are sifting through rubble and debris after tornadoes yesterday leveled parts of northeastern Illinois, leaving 24 people dead. At least 328 people were injured. NO students were hurt by a tornado that turned Plainfield High School into a pile of rubble. Classes had been scheduled to start today.

U-S military officials are investigating the cause of the fatal crash of a U-S military transport plane assigned to carry supplies to U- S troops in the Persian Gulf. The C-5 transport aircraft went down early today shortly after takeoff from the U-S military base in Ramstein, West Germany. 13 U-S soldiers died, including 10 Texas reservists who volunteered for duty.

Japan is making its first overseas commitment of personnel into an armed conflict. Prime Minister Kaifu says his government will contribute medical personnel and civilian aircraft to the multi- national force confronting Iraq. Kaifu told a news conference in Tokyo- quoting now- ''Japan canNOT be isolated from international society.''

In Beijing, China confirms that it has closed its embassy in Kuwait. The Foreign Ministry denies that the weekend evacuation was in response to Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's demand that all missions be closed in recognition of Iraq's invasion of Kuwait. The ministry says China remains opposed to the invasion.

(AUG. 29) UPI - The countdown clocks are ticking toward NASA's first shuttle mission in four months. Once in orbit, the astronauts will use sophisticated telescopes to study high-energy light that canNOT penetrate Earth's atmosphere.

The head of Operation Push criticized Nike executives for leaving for Europe while the civil rights group launched a boycott to press the shoemaker to hire more black workers. Nike chief Philip Knight and two senior executives are at a sporting goods show in West Germany and are NOT expected to return until mid-September.

Philippines leader Aquino made a 180-degree turn, saying today that she will consider Senate proposals for peace talks with both leftist and rightist guerrillas. Aquino has ignored calls for talks with Philippine rebel groups, but Manila officials say a truce would allow the island nation to close ranks and address the economic impact of the Persian Gulf crisis.

Representatives of the world's major airlines are meeting in Geneva, Switzerland, today to discuss raising fares because of higher fuel costs triggered by the Persian Gulf crisis. The head of the International Air Transport Association says the three-day conference could hike world-wide fares at least five percent by October 1st.

WARWICK, R.I. (AUG. 29) UPI - A Russian economic group formed when Boris Yeltsin came to power has begun its first swing through the United States, hoping to find advanced technology for banks, government agencies and universities back home.

The five-member delegation of the Russian Federation Innovation Council arrived in New York Monday night with plans to negotiate with executives of Apple Computer, International Business Machines Corp., Digital Equipment Corp., Hewlett-Packard, and other high-tech companies.

On Tuesday, they met representatives of the Boston-based computer company Innovation International Inc., one of the first American firms to assemble personal computers in the Soviet Union.

''Good wishes and slogans will not allow us to integrate our economy with the world if we're not set up for computer-based technology in all of the activities of our country,'' said Nikolai Malyshev, deputy prime minister of Russia and chairman of the State Committee on Science and Higher Education.

The delegation left for the West Coast Tuesday after a boat ride on Narragansett Bay with Innovation International chief executive Frank G. Wright.

They will return to Russia on Sept. 4, said Ellen Witt, a representative of the public relations firm that is helping to organize the visit.

Delegation members said they are interested particularly in computer networks, electronic mail services, advanced telephone services, video technology, and facsimile machines.

Malyshev said the Russian Parliament is in the process of drafting a master plan for computerizing hospitals, schools, banks, government agencies and a stock market.

The stock market should be running in a few years, as more financial institutions become automated and foreign banks come to Russia, he said.

While Russia is trying to accelerate toward a market economy and wants more American investment, the U.S. government has placed high import and export fees on goods to and from the Soviet Union, Malyshev said. The fees have forced Russia to buy more of its new technology from Western Europe, Japan, and South Korea, he said.

''I don't want Americans to miss out on the Russian market,'' Malyshev said. ''Right now, it really is endless.''

PHILADELPHIA (AUG. 29) UPI - A Quaker group is being flooded with phone calls from soldiers who never expected to go to war but are now afraid they will be asked to fight in the Middle East, an official for the pacifist religious group said Wednesday.

''Nobody who calls here is gung-ho,'' said Harold Jordan, youth and militarism coordinator for the American Friends Service Committee, which opposes war and counsels draftees. ''Most people are fairly desperate.''

Jordan said his office, which normally gets two or three inquiries a day, has received nearly 500 telephone calls in the past two weeks from soldiers, reservists and their families concerned about the Persian Gulf crisis.

''Many of these persons were dissatisfied with certain aspects of the miltary before the current action but this has crystallized it for them,'' Jordan said.

He said most of those contacting the group operated by the American Society of Friends, better known as Quakers, want to know how to keep from going to Saudi Arabia or how to get out of the military.

At least one Marine has applied for conscientious objector status.

''We've been contacted by a number of people who want to apply to be conscientious objectors, which means that they will never have to fight because of moral or religious grounds,'' Jordan said.

Because of the religion's opposition to war, the Quakers are protected by the U.S. Constitution from serving in the armed forces.

''Today's mail has a letter from a guy whose son joined the National Guard and is in basic training and the son has developed serious concerns about being in (the Guard) and wants to know what to do about getting out,'' Jordan said.

Jordan said his office received many calls during and after the American invasion of Panama but there are differences between Panama and Operation Desert Shield, as the deployment of American troops in Saudi Arabia is called.

''It's a longer military operation, more people are being called up and the reserves are being mobilized, so it's going to affect a larger number of people,'' he said.

''It is also something that involves a lot of countries and a country (Iraq) that has a substantial army, so the possibility of it becoming a serious war is higher. That idea has not been lost on young people,'' Jordan said.

He said many younger soldiers are ''shocked and freaked out'' at the prospect of war because the idea is not emphasized in the military's recruiting campaigns.

''What everybody is saying is if they go into the military they don't go in thinking about war,'' Jordan said. ''They know they will have to shoot at dummies or targets during basic training, but they're not thinking about shooting people.

Many soldiers and sailors now in the Persian Gulf were born after 1968, Jordan said, and have few if any memories of Vietnam.

''The military for the most part, with the Marine Corps being a partial exception, does not play up the war aspect (in recruiting),'' Jordan said. ''They play up the training, the money for education.''

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - What do you get when you cross a northern spotted owl with a barred owl?

Scientists in the Pacific Northwest call it a ''sparred owl.'' But they aren't sure whether the cross-breed is merely a quirk of nature or a potential genetic threat to the spotted owl, officially recognized in June as in danger of extinction.

Two live specimens of the hybrid were confirmed by wildlife biologists this summer in the dense woods of Washington state and Oregon.

At first glance, the hybrid resembles both the spotted owl, a threatened species that primarily inhabits older forests of the Northwest, and the barred owl, a cousin common to much of North America.

On closer inspection, however, the sparred owl exhibits physical markings, calls and other characteristics that combine the traits of the two parent species.

''The tail feathers are like a barred owl and the breast feathers are like a spotted owl. The characteristics are intermediate,'' said Eric Forsman, a research biologist for the U.S. Forest Service in Corvallis, Ore.

Both hybrids were males found roosting with female barred owls. The first, originally thought to be a spotted owl, was identified as a cross-breed last month near Mount Baker in the northern Cascades range of Washington.

The second was found the first week of August about 600 miles away near Medford, Ore. This cross-breed and its barred owl mate have produced offspring, making the new generation ''three-quarters barred and one-quarter spotted owl,'' Forsman said in a telephone interview.

The hybrid discovery could alter the equation for the spotted owl, a species already deemed threatened by the loss of its habitat to logging, said David Clinger, a spokesman for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Portland.

Cross-breeding on a wide scale might eventually diminish the spotted owl's tenuous gene pool, complicating efforts to protect the bird, Clinger said.

However, Forsman said he saw little evidence of an imminent hybridization threat to the spotted owl.

''We've only seen two records of this thing happening,'' he said. ''At this point, it appears to be pretty rare.''

For the moment, the greater potential threat to the spotted owl is competition with the barred owl for its dwindling habitat, Forsman said.

The barred owl historically has been found all across the eastern United States and southern Canada, expanding its range in the last 30 years through British Columbia and into Washington, Oregon and northern California, Forsman said.

Less particular about its habitat than its spotted cousin, the barred owl is now invading old-growth forests in the Northwest ''occupied historically only by spotted owls,'' he said.

In any case, researchers tramping through the forests of the Northwest taking inventory of spotted owls and their nesting sites must now take care to avoid confusing spotted and sparred owls, he said.

The spotted owl gets its name from distinctive white spots on the top of its head, while the head of the cross-breed is marked by white crescents or rectangles, Forsman said.

The sparred owl even sounds like a mixture of the parent species - a composite of the four-note territorial call of the spotted owl and an eight-note vocalization of the barred owl, Forsman said.

''This is going to make the research we're doing a little more complicated

'' he said.

SAN FRANCISCO (AUG. 29) UPI - A federal appeals court Wednesday upheld the death sentence of killer Robert Alton Harris, who had been facing California's first execution in 23 years before winning a Supreme Court stay in April.

A panel of the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, by a 2-1 vote, rejected defense arguments that Harris should be given a new evidentiary hearing to consider the competence of his trial psychiatrists.

The decision is not the final word on the condemned man's fate, however. Harris may appeal the ruling to the full 27 judges of the 9th Circuit and, failing there, to the Supreme Court.

Harris, 37, was convicted of the 1978 murders of two San Diego teenagers so he could use their car to rob a bank.

He was scheduled to die in the California gas chamber at San Quentin prison April 3. But 12 hours before the sentence was to be carried out, the Supreme Court upheld an indefinite stay to give the 9th Circuit time to review new legal arguments.

The stay was granted March 30 by 9th Circuit Judge John Noonan, who was the sole dissenting vote in Wednesday's ruling. He said he would have granted the defendant's request for a new hearing.

But Judge Melvin Brunetti wrote, ''The state provided Harris with access to two psychiatrists of his choosing at state expense. Harris's claim that he is entitled to an evidentiary hearing to challenge the competency of the prosecution and defense psychiatrists would require the court to adopt a new rule of constitutional law.''

''Harris has not presented any 'new evidence' of his mental condition at the time of the offense or at trial,'' Brunetti wrote. He was joined in the opinion by Judge Arthur Alarcon.

Deputy Attorney General Dane Gillette said immediately after hearing of the ruling, ''It is a relief that the court decided in the way we had hoped.''

Gillette said it is unlikely that Harris would be executed this year because of the time it will take for appeals to be resolved, assuming further appeals are rejected.

''The biggest question is how long it will take for the 9th Circuit to decide the rehearing request,'' Gillette said. Last time it took 14 months to decide Harris's rehearing request (at the 9th Circuit). I expect it would take the U.S. Supreme Court 120 days to decide whether '' Supreme Court 12

Harris's execution would be California's first since police killer Aaron Mitchell was put to death April 12, 1967. California has sentenced more than 300 murderers to die since it reinstated capital punishment in 1977.

Harris arrived on death row March 14, 1979, after his conviction for the abduction and murders of John Mayeski and Michael Baker, both 16.

The boys were taken at gunpoint from the parking lot of a fast food restaurant. He forced them to drive to a remote area in San Diego where he shot them to death.

According to an account by Harris's brother Danny, who followed in another car, Harris retrieved the boys' leftover hamburgers and ate them before using the car to rob a bank.

Ironically, it was Baker's own father, San Diego police detective Steve Baker who captured Harris not yet knowing his son was one of the victims.

The murders of Baker and Mayeski came a year after Harris was paroled from a 1975 killing of one of his neighbors.

Charles Sevilla, Harris's attorney, argued that Harris was born two months prematurely when his father kicked his mother in a jealous rage and that as a child he was constantly beaten, dropped on his head and terrorized.

Sevilla maintained that Harris suffered from fetal alcohol syndrome, post-traumatic stress from the childhood abuse and possibly organic brain damage.

(AUG. 29) UPI - 13 American soldiers died today when their military transport plane crashed shortly after taking off from the U-S military base in Ramstein, West Germany. The other four soldiers aboard the plane were injured. The C-5 transport aircraft was en route to the Persian Gulf to deliver food, medical supplies and maintenance equipment to U-S troops. Officials say 10 of the dead soldiers were Texas reservists who volunteered for duty.

OPEC oil ministers agreed to increase output temporarily to make up for a shortage on global markets created by the Persian Gulf crisis. Cartel sources say the pact was approved over the objections of Iran and despite the absence of Libya and Iraq. The deal reached in Vienna permits OPEC members to raise oil production ''until such time as the crisis is deemed over.'' It is a triumph for Venezuela and Saudi Arabia, which sought OPEC's blessing to raise their oil output.

A senior official at the Olympic Council for Asian Games says 10 Arab nations are threatining to pull out of next month's sporting event in Beijing unless Iraq is barred. The organization says Arab nations agreed at a recent meeting to urge the International Olympic Committee and the Asian Games to suspend Iraq and bar its participation in world sporting events. The threatened boycott follows Iraq's August 2nd invasion of oil-rich Kuwait.

UNITED NATIONS (AUG. 29) UPI - Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar left Wednesday for Jordan for a meeting with Iraq's foreign minister in an effort to find a peaceful solution to the Persian Gulf crisis.

Perez de Cuellar will meet Tariq Aziz in Amman Thursday in the first diplomatic move by the United Nations since Iraqi troops invaded Kuwait Aug. 2.

''I want a maximum of latitude in my discussions with them, but it will remain within the framework of Security Council resolutions,'' the U.N. leader told reporters before leaving for J.F. Kennedy International Airport.

He will spend Wednesday night in Paris and then fly on to Amman for the meeting. It was not known how long he will remain in Amman, and Perez de Cuellar said it will depend on his talks with Aziz.

President Bush called him Tuesday, encouraring and wishing him success, Perez de Cuellar said without elaborating.

Since the Aug. 2 invasion, the 15-nation Security Council has adopted a total of five resolutions against Iraq, first demanding an immediate withdrawal. As Iraq refused, it imposed stringent trade and military sanctions to force that country to abide by the demand.

The council declared the annexation of Kuwait by Iraq ''null and void,'' demanded the freedom for detained foreigners and authorized military enforcement of the embargo.

Perez de Cuellar said he will discuss the implementation of all five resolutions with Aziz.

(AUG. 29) UPI - Residents of northeastern Illinois had NO warning yesterday that conditions were right for the formation of tornadoes that swept the area, leaving 24 people dead. Nearly 350 people were injured. The National Weather Service says it did NOT issue a tornado warning, meaning a twister has been spotted... or a tornado watch, which means twisters could form... until it was too late. The twisters ravaged parts of an area 40 miles southwest of downtown Chicago.

Analysts say today's government report on the Index of Leading Economic Indicators shows ''more of the same pattern of an economy essentially going sideways and showing NO growth of any significance.'' The Commerce Department says the index, which gauges future business activity in the United States, was unchanged in July after rising a revised one-tenth of one percent increase in June. The index had gained a revised six-tenths of one percent in May.

Frightened students left the University of Florida in droves today, as the F-B-I wraps up a psychological profile of the killer responsible for the slayings of five students in recent days. The bodies of four young women and one man were found dead in private apartments near the Gainesville campus. Police have NO suspects yet, but the F-B-I is expected to release a personality profile of the killer today.

Marine Corps officials have dismissed four Marines following an investigation into the crash of an A-4 attack jet on a suburban Pennsylvania street. The crash occurred on January 13th during a routine training mission near the Willow Grove Naval Air Station outside Philadelphia. The pilot ejected safely and NO one on the ground was injured, although several homes and cars were damaged. An investigation revealed that improperly secured fuel lines caused the jet to run out of fuel.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - America will continue to rely ''for some time'' on fossil fuels, particularly coal, before alternate energy technologies are available, the National Research Council told Congress Wednesday.

The 127-page report also said the nation should stress improved energy efficiency, and the development of technologies that reduce or eliminate carbon dioxide and other ''greenhouse gases'' blamed for the threat of global warming.

The report said ''even though the United States currently contributes about one-fourth of the world's output of greenhouse gas emissions, unilateral U.S. actions to reduce such emissions may have little effect globally'' and could ''weaken our competitive position in world markets.''

Carbon dioxide and other gases act like the glass windows of a greenhouse in Earth's atmosphere, trapping heat and preventing it from escaping back into space. Some scientists think increased emissions of such gases from cars, coal-fueled industrial plants and other man-made sources will aggravate the greenhouse effect and cause global temperatures to rise.

''The time frame required for development of alternative energy technologies means that fossil fuels, primarily coal, will continue to be major energy sources for some time,'' the report said.

Frank Press, chairman of the panel that prepared the report, said: ''Achieving timely and cost-effective transitions to low or non-carbon based fuels and energy resources will be very difficult.''

The National Research Council sent the report to Energy Secretary James Watkins. He forwarded it to Congress, which had requested the study.

Watkins said in a statement: ''The report finds that two broad technological pathways are open to the nation to significantly reduce greenhouse gas emissions from today's levels by the year 2050.

''The first is increasing energy productivity through improvements in the efficiency of energy use and conversion technologies, and the second is developing and shifting to low or non-greenhouse gas emitting energy technologies.''

Watkins said the Energy Department has been working on research to improve energy efficiency and reduce greenhouse gas emissions.

U.S. energy research programs should involve ''clean'' coal technologies to achieve high efficiencies in converting coal to electricity, the report said.

The panel also called for the country to spend more money to:

-Develop better insulation for walls, windows and roofs.

-Improve batteries used to power new-generation automobiles.

-Develop better ''separation technologies'' for recycling.

-Expand research into ''biofuels'' generated from plants.

Given the massive federal budget deficit, the committee urged the Energy Department to take $300 million from its budget and spend it on ''programs that would both help reduce greenhouse emissions and are economically attractive independent of current global change concerns.''

The money should be taken from current programs involving magnetic fusion and fossil energy, the committee said. The $300 million figure is 20 percent of the current annual civilian budget for energy research and development.

Wednesday's report was the third of four global climate reports ordered by Congress. The final study will be published later this year.

RAMSTEIN, WEST GERMANY (AUG. 29) UPI - A U.S. military transport plane helping supply American troops in the Persian Gulf crashed early Wednesday killing 13 U.S. servicemen, including nine reservists from Texas.

The other four servicemen aboard the plane were injured.

The C-5 transporter crashed about 12:30 a.m. and caught fire in a wooded area shortly after takeoff from the U.S. military base of Ramstein in western West Germany, said spokesman Doug Moore. The cause was not immediately known and military officials were investigating.

The plane was headed to another base in Frankfurt before flying to the Persian Gulf to deliver food, medical supplies and maintenance equipment to U.S. troops leading the multinational force deployed after Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait, the spokesman said.

Thirteen of the 17 aboard were killed, the spokesman said. The four injured servicemen were taken to the Landstuhl Army Medical Hospital near Ramstein, a hospital spokesman said.

''It's been a shock to everybody here,'' said Staff Sgt. Timothy Warren, a spokesman for the all-reserve 433rd Military Airlift Wing, based at Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio.

The nine Texans were assigned to the 433rd, and, rather than wait for a call-up, had volunteered their services in support of Operation Desert Shield.

The aircraft was attached to the 60th Military Airlift Wing, Travis Air Force Base, Calif., but the flight crew was from the 433rd. Ten on board the plane were from the 433rd.

Names of the victims from the 433rd were being withheld until relatives could be notified.

Rescuers said it took about an hour to put out the flames and then dense fog hampered efforts to find victims. The Air Force said it took almost 12 hours to find the body of the 13th victim in the crash of the C-5 Galaxy, the largest non-Soviet military transport plane in the world.

The Pentagon had not disclosed how many of the victims were from the 433rd but a spokeswoman at Ramstein said 10 of those aboard were from Kelly. ''One can safely assume that the seven others are assigned in Europe,'' she said.

Another spokesman for the 433rd, Maj. Meade Warthen, said, ''We have a team of officers who are notifying (family members). We're all stunned and in mourning.''

The 433rd was not among the reserve units called up by the Pentagon but more than 200 of its members had been working on a voluntary basis in support of Operation Desert Shield since Aug. 8.

The reservists have been transporting troops and cargo to Saudi Arabia, as well as repairing incoming C-5As involved in the massing of U.S. troops in the Middle East.

Ground crews assigned to the wing have been working 24-hour shifts since Aug. 5, repairing and maintaining incoming planes for quick departures.

The aging 15-plane C-5A fleet assigned to the 433rd has had few mechanical problems. ''It's a large operation and things have gone very well,'' reserve Col. Mahlon Stief said about the Galaxy, which is capable of carrying 85 tons of cargo.

The U.S. European Command announced Wednesday that units, aircraft and helicopters based in West Germany were being sent to Saudi Arabia ''to support the U.S. Central Command in Operation Desert Shield.''

The C-5 that crashed came down about 5 miles from the largest U.S chemical weapons depot in West Germany, even as 400 tons of chemical weapons are being removed from the depot to be destroyed on a Pacific island.

A parliamentarian from the opposition West German Social Democratic Party called on the government in Bonn to ban all flights from Ramstein while chemical weapons are being transported in the vicinity.

He said ''one dare not think what would have happened'' if the plane had crashed a few seconds later, said Rose Goette.

The last accident involving the U.S. Air Force in West Germany occurred June 6 when an F-16 jet fighter collided with a glider, killing the glider pilot.

On Aug. 28, 1988, 70 people were killed and 450 injured at the Ramstein base when an Italian plane plowed into a crowd during an air show.

FORT BRAGG, NC (AUG. 29) UPI - Military prosecutors Wednesday rested their case against a Fort Bragg soldier charged with killing a Panamanian man during a firefight at an Army checkpoint during the invasion of Panama last December.

Prosecutors concluded their case after the jury of eight noncommissioned and commissioned officers heard soldiers testify that they felt threatened by the Panamanian even though he was wounded.

Master Sgt. Roberto Enrique Bryan, a member of the 82nd Airborne Division, is charged with unpremeditated murder in the shooting of the Panamanian during the U.S. action that led to the overthrow of strongman Manuel Noriega.

PFC David Erwin told jurors he felt threatened when a hand grenade exploded at the checkpoint where the shooting took place, wounding 10 U.S. soldiers. He said he responded with force as instructed.

''I got up when the grenade went off,'' Erwin said. ''I was about 10 feet from the grenade. I got up and started firing.''

Erwin, who was in the back of a truck during the blast, said he administered first aid to a soldier wounded by the grenade, and then heard someone shout that one of the Panamanians was moving.

Mark Waple, Bryan's civilian lawyer, asked Erwin if he felt threatened during the incident.

''Yes,'' Erwin said, ''and our prior instructions were if we felt threatened, use force.''

During cross-examination Tuesday, Lt. Brandon Thomas, an eyewitness whose complaint led to the charges against Bryan, said the Panamanian had no head or arm wounds before Bryan shot him.

But Staff Sgt. James Anthony Miller, a medic, said the man shot by Bryan had several wounds, including severe wounds around the armpit.

He said he considered the Panamanian a threat during the incident, which he described as ''utter chaos,'' and Bryan reacted instantly by firing his weapon.

Specialist Allen Spillman told the military court that he saw the man move before Bryan fired.

''He was reaching one hand toward his shirt pocket,'' Spillman said. ''I yelled 'one is still moving.' Bryan looked over to see which one moved. He determined the right one and fired.''

He also testifed there had been friction between Thomas and Bryan and described their relationship as unfriendly.

If convicted, Bryan could face life imprisonment. The unpremeditated murder charge against Bryan is the first of its kind since the Vietnam War.

The shooting took place Dec. 23 after five Panamanians drove to a checkpoint manned by U.S. troops. The soldiers say the Panamanians were ordered out but refused to cooperate before throwing a grenade.

Ten U.S. soldiers were injured and four of the Panamanians were killed in the ensuing firefight.

A criminal investigator, Special Agent Ron Kiufer, said he questioned Bryan about the shooting three days after the Dec. 23 shooting.

''He (Bryan) said the Panamanian was reaching for a M-16A rifle,'' Kiufer said. ''There was no mention of a grenade. However, all other testimony indicated they thought the Panamanian was reaching underneath his body for a grenade.''

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - Yields rose on 5-year notes Wednesday to an average of 8.57 percent, the highest since 8.72 percent on May 25, 1989, the Treasury Department said.

The government said it auctioned $8.56 billion of the 8 1/2 percent interest rate notes at an average of $99.644 with 100 equaling the face value and one point representing $10 on each $1,000 investment.

At the last auction May 24, the average yield was 8.54 percent.

WAKEFIELD, Mass. (AUG. 29) UPI - Flags were lowered to half-staff Wednesday as family members and friends buried a 19-year-old sailor killed last week in an electrical accident aboard a Navy cruiser in the Persian Gulf.

Daniel M. Jones, an engineering mate third class aboard the USS Antietam, was laid to rest with full military honors. He was killed Aug. 21 aboard the Aegis Class cruiser based in Port Long Beach, Calif.

At First Baptist Church, across Commons Street from a memorial for residents of the Boston suburb who died serving their country, the Rev. William Keach said there were no easy answers to the sailor's death.

The pastor told 400 relatives and friends to ''remember that God has lost a son. The nation has lost a son, too.''

A military honor guard lined the church steps and carried the coffin of Jones, who joined the Navy 14 months ago. His mother, Arlene, was supported by her husband, Leith Jones., and another son, Leith Jr.

At Forest Glade Cemetery, Jones's parents were too shaken to accept the American flag that covered the casket. His father wailed, ''For God and country'' but did not touch the flag, which a naval officer held out to them. It was accepted by Jones's sister, Alicia.

One friend, who played frequently with Jones when they were in high school called the young sailor ''brave and full of energy. He would test himself at play.''

Jones was the second U.S. serviceman killed in the Mideast since Operation Desert Shield began.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - Despite its flaw, the Hubble Space Telescope has discovered an unusually dense galaxy that could contain a mysterious black hole and an unexpected ring around an exploded star, NASA announced Wednesday.

The new discoveries demonstrate the $1.5 billion telescope can perform valuable science until its embarrassing blurry vision can be corrected, said NASA project scientist Edward Weiler.

''We've always talked about (the telescope) giving us discoveries and the unexpected. In terms of that, I think the dream is still alive,'' Weiler said at a news conference televised from the Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md..

The telescope's wide-field planetary camera captured an image Aug. 17 of what was considered a ''rather boring'' galaxy located about 40 million light years away from Earth.

Astronomers were surprised to find the galaxy, known as NGC 7457, had a core that is the second most dense ever seen, said Tod Lauer of the National Optical Astronomy Observatory.

The core of the galaxy apparently contains at least 30,000 closely packed suns, which is 400 times denser than astronomers could tell from images taken by telescopes on Earth, Lauer said.

''This is vastly denser than we would have expected this galaxy to be,'' Lauer said. ''This is very interesting to me because it's a lot more concentrated than we would have expected these galaxies to be.''

Although the galaxy's core could contain a long-sought black hole, the scientists said it was premature to make that conclusion.

Black holes are formations astronomers theorize exist that contain a huge amount of mass compacted into an extremely small area, making its pull of gravity so strong that nothing, not even light, can escape.

''This image ... is certainly not inconsistent with a black hole. However it's not inconsistent with other explanations,'' Weiler said. But he added ''It's either a black hole or a place you would not want to live.''

On Aug. 23, the telescope's faint object camera took an image of supernova 1987a, a star that exploded about 160,000 light years from Earth in February 1987.

The image showed that the star was unexpectedly surrounded by a ring of hot material, said Duccio Macchetto of the European Space Agency, which built the camera.

''We knew that there should be some material around this star. But what we did not expect to see was a ring as we see here,'' he said. ''We have found something that we didn't know was there.''

Nino Panagia of the European Space Agency said that in ''trying to make sense out of this beautiful image'' scientists believe the ring formed during the last 1 million years before the star exploded and was later compressed.

''In this one single image we have the complete evolution of that star in the last million years. That makes it very, very important,'' he said.

Officials plan to release more scientific data collected by the telescope on Sept. 19 at the Space Telescope Science Institute in Baltimore.

''Today's two images were appetizers and hopefully that will be the main course,'' Weiler said.

The telescope was expected to answer profound questions about the universe by peering deep into the univere with advanced optic system from a perch high above Earth's obscuring atmosphere.

But about a month after the long-awaited observatory was ferried into space in April, officials discovered one of its supposedly perfect mirrors was curved incorrectly, preventing sunlight from focusing sharply.

The defect, combined with other problems, triggered a storm of criticism against NASA, even though officials said it could still conduct valuable research and could be fixed when a camera is replaced in 1993.

LA PALMA, CA (AUG. 29) UPI - The high-technology industry was shaken Wednesday by word that a Southern California inventor had received a patent for the microprocessor, the chip that made the personal computer revolution possible.

After a 20-year battle with the U.S. Patent Office, Gilbert Hyatt, an independent inventor from Orange County, Calif., received a patent for a single-chip computer July 17.

In a release Wednesday, Hyatt claimed to have invented the microprocessor, a computer on a chip, in 1968, five years before engineers at Texas Instruments Inc. and Intel Corp. received the earliest microprocessor patents.

Hyatt said he hoped to earn royalties from the patent to support his research. If his patent stands up under challenge, Hyatt could be entitled to vast royalty payments from the $5 billion-a-year microprocessor industry, analysts and patent attorneys said.

But attorneys cautioned that the scope of Hyatt's patent has yet to be determined.

Although it appeared to be very broad, Stuart Lubitz, a Los Angeles patent attorney who specializes in semiconductor and computer patents, said he doubted Hyatt would ever receive large royalties from it. Others said the patent would likely be challenged in court if Hyatt tried to seek large compensation.

''Depending on what companies find in the patent, we could be talking about a figure bigger than the record California lottery jackpot, or we could be talking about nothing,'' Willis Higgins, a Palo Alto, Calif., patent attorney, said.

A spokeswoman for Intel, a leading microprocessor manufacturer, had no comment on Hyatt's patent.

Hyatt, 52, filed a patent application for the microprocessor in 1970. After two denials and two apppeals, the U.S. Patent Office issued Gilbert a patent for a ''single-chip integrated circuit computer architecture'' last month.

Silicon Valley patent attorneys said Hyatt's patent appeared on its face to be very broad and could cover virtually all types of microprocessors. If so, Gilbert would be entitled to royalties for all microprocessors manufactured for 17 years after the patent was issued.

The microprocessor's invention paved the way for invention of the pocket calculator, the personal computer and a host of other products. Microprocessors are found today in everything from automobiles to videotape cassette recorders.

Hyatt, who works as an aerospace consultant, said he would invest any money he received from the new patent in research to improve America's technology base.

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AUG. 29) UPI - Military information officers rushed to make tapes and transcripts of President Bush's radio pep talk to American forces Wednesday because most troops deployed in Saudi Arabia did not hear the address.

''It is an unfortunate thing that Armed Forces Radio and Television Services have not yet caught up with us, but we will get it out there,'' said Capt. Michael Sherman, head of the U.S. military's media operations in the Saudi kingdom.

Sherman said most of the troops currently in the Gulf region missed Bush's speech but that copies would be made and distributed soon.

''We are making duplicates and we are making sure that the kids in the field get a chance to listen to it, when and where it comes,'' Sherman said.

Some officers managed to catch the live broadcast at the U.S. Consulate and through a transmission received by a visiting Cable News Network television crew.

''It gave me goosebumps,'' said Maj. Mark Hughes. ''It was simple, to the point and heartwarming. It is a lot more morale-boosting to hear the president's voice so there is a major push to get the tapes out into the field.''

In his his broadcast, the president said, ''Today in the tradition of two centuries behind you, you stand on the front line against aggression and international lawlessless.''

''We've never sought conflict, nor do we hope to chart a course for other nations, but at the hands of injustice, in the face of aggression, ours is a once reluctant fist now clenched resolutely,'' Bush said.

One marine said he appreciated Bush's message, but expected more.

''It didn't say anything interesting, like we are going to war, or anything like that,'' said the private, who asked not to be identified.

(AUG. 29) UPI - The Baghdad government says it will take time to act on a promise by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein to release Western women and children. Iraq's interior minister says it has NOT received instructions yet to issue exit visas. In Washington, the State Department called in Iraq's ambassador to get clarification on the announcement on women and children leaving Iraq. He told reporters- quoting now- ''it will take time to make arrangements.''

President Bush told American forces that the military now has a fist clenched resolutely against Iraq. But officials say only a ''small percentage'' of troops in the field heard the live Armed Forces Radio broadcast today. A U-S Central Command spokesman reports that sites in Bahrain, Saudi Arabia and aboard U-S Naval vessels were linked to the speech. But he says that as far as troops are concerned, ''very few could have heard the president live.'' The White House says recordings will be made available later to U-S servicemen.

Lawmakers in Soviet Armenia declared a state of emergency throughout the southern republic after a parliament deputy was killed on his way to meet leaders of a vigilante army. Officials closed roads leading to the capital at Yerevan as armed units of rival groups clashed in the city. The Armenia legislature imposed a night-time curfew and warned that the K-G-B and militiamen will begin to disarm vigilantes if they fail to surrender their weapons.

In Moscow, the most powerful men in the Soviet Union held lengthy face-to-face talks today to try to bury their differences and chart a common course for the future. President Gorbachev and Boris Yeltsin met in a five-hour summit. A newly appointed Soviet presidential spokesman told reporters that the talks were held in a ''constructive, friendly atmosphere.''

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - After about 24 hours of confusion and uncertainty, Iraqi authorities Wednesday gave instructions on how foreign women and children detained in Iraq and Kuwait should go about leaving.

The State Department, which received the instructions through its Baghdad embassy, cautioned that there was still no certainty that the Iraqis will follow through on their earlier announcement that women and children

''guests'' would be allowed to leave as a gesture of humanity by President Saddam Hussein.

The Iraqi ambassador to Washington, Mohamed al-Mashat, offered the prospect of a wider solution to the hostage crisis by suggesting that men ''guests'' would also be permitted to leave if the United States gave an assurance that it would not attack Iraq.

State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said the Iraqi Foreign Ministry said that the women and children would be allowed to leave as soon as transportation arrangements could be worked out.

She said each woman and child would require an exit visa. As part of their instructions, the Iraqis asked for a list of the names of the American women and children who would be applying for exit visas.

Speaking to reporters, Mashat said Iraq is willing to negotiate an end to the crisis and added that ''everything is on the table,'' but he cautioned there must be no preconditions, including a demand for the withdrawal of Iraqi forces from Kuwait.

Tutwiler, while not directly giving such an assurance of non- aggression, reminded reporters of President Bush's statement that U.S. forces are in the Middle East to deter an attack and to defend Saudi Arabia.

The State Department estimates that about one-third of the approximately 3,000 Americans in Kuwait and Iraq are women, 25 of whom are pregnant, and children under 18, including 60 infants.

The Iraqi Foreign Ministry said that the new guidelines would be in effect as of Wednesday, but they did not say how long it would take to issue the exit visas.

The Iraqis, in retaliation for Monday's U.S. order to cut back the size of its Washington embassy to 19 diplomats, ordered the U.S. Embassy in Baghdad to be cut to the same number of personnel.

But it was not clear from the wording of the Iraqi order when that cut must be made and whether the extra diplomats present would be allowed to leave the Iraq or would be detained with the other 600 Americans in the country.

The State Department said there are approximately 70 Americans known to be detained by Iraqi authorities. The others are free to move around the city.

The Iraqi authorities agreed to have a Western physician present Friday at the autopsy of an American businessman who apparently died of a heart attack Tuesday while in Iraqi custody in Basra.

At the request of the man's family, his name was not released.

Tutwiler said Iraq's response to a request for 15 medical har?Po3/4 to leave was an offer of medical examinations and medicine, if available.

Tutwiler denied categorically the report that there was any ''back-channel'' negotiation going on between the United States and Iraq, but she responded indirectly to the idea, put forward publicly by al-Mashat Wednesday, that the men hostages be permitted to leave in exchange for a non-aggression pledge by the United States.

''We reject any notion that there should be any conditions attached to the immediate safe departure of all foreign nationals, including Americans who wish to depart from Iraq and Kuwait,'' Tutwiler said.

''However, as a separate matter, I would reiterate what the president has said since the beginning of this crisis, and that is that U.S. forces are being sent to the region to deter further Iraqi aggression and to defend themselves if attacked.''

RALEIGH, NC (AUG. 29) UPI - Nations stressed by the Persian Gulf oil crisis should turn to existing technology to convert agricultural wastes, city garbage and wood into new energy sources, a North Carolina scientist said Wednesday.

Irving Goldstein, a paper and wood science professor at N.C. State University, said that in the face of uncertain oil supplies in the Middle East and depleting fossil fuels, developed nations should turn to biomass - wood, agricultural residues and solid waste - as an energy source.

Technology to convert the biomass materials would help nations in their battle against pollution and boost their energy resources, said Goldstein, who presented a paper on the subject to the American Chemical Society in Washington.

In the United States, which relies on foreign countries for 60 percent of its oil, about two billion tons of biomass are available each year for conversion to fuel or to chemicals for making other products, said Goldstein.

Biomass could meet ''a modest proportion of our fuel needs,'' he said, and be ''much more than enough to meet our needs for chemicals and materials '' including clothing, plastics, glues, rubber and carpeting.

Biomass also is a reliable source because it is constantly being generated Goldstein said.

''We don't have enough biomass to subsist on entirely,'' he said. ''But we could certainly help ourselves out a lot, ameliorate some of our pollution problems and create new jobs in this country in the process.''

The United States has been slow to employ biomass for energy and other products mainly as a matter of convenience, Goldstein said. Solid waste collection, transportation and process can be appear more bothersome and costly than the use of natural gas and petroleum, he said.

But changes in governmental policy as a result of an oil crisis and enviornmental problems, such as acid rain, smog and a lack of landfill space, may encourage biomass production, Goldstein said.

ANCHORAGE, ALASKA (AUG. 29) UPI - Alaska voters selected a liberal Democrat and a moderate Republican while rejecting conservative candidates for governor in primary election results tallied Wednesday.

A measure to legalize casino gambling lost by a large margin.

In the Democratic race, former Anchorage Mayor Tony Knowles, 47, campaigned on ''quality of life'' issues to defeat two-term Lt. Gov. Stephen McAlpine, 41, who championed economic development of the country's biggest oil-producing state.

Knowles characterized his win as a victory for lifestyle issues and environmental values over single-issue pro-development forces.

McAlpine had support from organized labor and a significant segment of the oil industry. In the final days of the campaign, McAlpine sought to drum up more support from conservatives and economic boomers by trying to lure Republican voters to his camp since Alaska's open primary lets voters ignore party designation in choosing candidates for office.

In the November general election, Knowles will face moderate Republican state Sen. Arliss Sturgulewski, 62, seeking to become Alaska's first woman governor. Sturgulewski beat businessman James Campbell, 57, and state Sen. Rick Halford, 45, both staunch conservatives.

Democrats selected an Eskimo, 49-year-old Willie Hensley, to run for lieutenant governor with Knowles. Republicans chose state Sen. Jack Coghill, 65, a sourdough politician from territorial days, to run with Sturgulewski.

Nearly two-thirds of the voters rejected an initiative that would have made all types of gambling legal throughout Alaska. There were 82,253 votes against gambling and 45,035 in favor. Gambling proponents said it would give the state an economic boost, but opponents said it would drastically alter the character of the Last Frontier and bring crime and corruption.

McAlpine supported the gambling measure and Knowles fought it. McAlpine said that cost him votes, but Knowles said he won because of grass-roots support in the Alaska bush and because he embraced an Alaska lifestyle theme while McAlpine stressed economic development in the oil state.

''People have a whole set of values,'' Knowles said. ''We all have environmental values. There is no one that is just pro-business. We all need to earn and have a job and want an opportunity to get ahead. But Alaskans are multi-dimensional people and they have many values. And that's why I went after quality of life as a theme.''

Knowles won with 32,157 votes, 25 percent, to McAlpine's 24,934 votes, 19.4 percent.

Sturgulewski had 24,317 votes, 18.9 percent, to 16.6 percent for Campbell and 16 percent for Halford.

Alaska Gov. Steve Cowper, who stayed out of the campaign, decided against running for a second term. He defeated Sturgulewski in her first bid for governor in 1986.

In two congressional races, incumbent Republicans trounced long- shot challengers. Sen. Ted Stevens, in what he considered his first serious primary challenge since 1972, defeated school teacher Bob Bird, who picked up 26 percent of the vote running on an anti-abortion platform. Stevens faces token Democratic opposition in November.

Rep. Don Young will face Democrat John Devens, former mayor of Valdez, in the race for Alaska's only House seat.

Almost half of Alaska's 283,827 voters went to the polls Tuesday. Remote precincts in the Alaska bush still had not reported results by Wednesday afternoon, but the totals represented 98 percent of the vote.

PASADENA, CA (AUG. 29) UPI - NASA hopes to solve the mysterious glitches that have plagued the Magellan space probe and begin mapping the shrouded, hellish surface of Venus by the end of September, an official said Wednesday.

''What we have done is to put together a schedule which leads to us beginning late in the month of September,'' said NASA spokesman Stephen Wall.

''We will now take that schedule, go through some reviews to make sure with our experts that that's the proper course of action to take and will go from there to getting back to mapping,'' he said.

The space probe went into orbit around Venus Aug. 10 and officials hoped begin a 243-day, $550 million project Sept. 1 to map Venus using Megallan's advanced radar system to pierce the clouds obscuring the surface.

Scientists hope to learn more about what created the harsh Venusian environment to understand more about Venus and perhaps Earth's environment.

But ground controllers 150 million miles away at NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory lost contact with the probe Aug. 16 during testing.

Data indicates something unknown interfered with a critical internal signal on the craft called the ''heartbeat,'' the probe became confused - perhaps by a cosmic ray - and mistakenly pointed its antenna away from Earth.

Contact was restored the next day when the craft automatically began a safety procedure that involved scanning space for Earth.

But contact was again lost Aug. 21 for another 17 tense hours, during which engineers later learned the probe burned an unusual amount of fuel and apparrently to shifted back and forth nine times for an unknown reason.

Officials are studying data from the probe's memory to try to identify the cause of the problems and are taking steps to ensure the probe's safety and make sure they can regain contact if the problem recurs.

In the meantime, scientists are excited about the small amount of data they collected before contact was lost, which revealed a planet wracked by volcanos, valleys, giant fault systems and craters.

''We've really gotten a wealth of information out of that bit of data that we've gotten so far,'' said project scientist Stephen Saunders.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - The Federal Trade Commission Wednesday warned investors about the risks of rare-coin funds and partnerships, a market it said raises troublesome and unanswered questions about coin grading and liquidity.

''Major brokers, relying on rosy reports from Salomon Brothers and the claims of rare-coin grading services about objectivity, liquidity and the safety of rare-coin investments, are making a major push into rare coins '' said Barry J. Cutler, director of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection.

''Limited partnerships in the $50 million range are available,'' he noted at the annual meeting of the American Numismatic Association in Seattle, last week.

While Cutler recognized that honest and knowledgeable dealers could make rare-coin funds and partnerships profitable, he cautioned that there is ''a certain inherent subjectivity between graders, and between different grading services, whose grades for the same coin often result in very different price quotations.''

He also said that the FTC is concerned about the liquidity of large limited partnerships in rare coins that pose ''troublesome'' unanswered questions.

''It is hard enough for an individual investor to obtain a good price on a single coin that must be liquidated through a dealer,'' Cutler explained. ''We have little idea what will happen when brokers try to liquidate a $50 million portfolio in a short amount of time.''

''So long as grading and pricing remain somewhat subjective and open to manipulation, and auctions are open to dealer and auction house practices that would mislead the average investor, the rare-coin market will remain one of great upside potential and even greater downside risk,'' Cutler said.

(AUG. 29) UPI - Here is a roundup of top events Tuesday in the Persian Gulf crisis stemming from the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion of the oil-rich emirate of Kuwait.

UNDATED - Iraq said Wednesday it will "take time" to honor its promise to release Western women and children, as President Saddam Hussein indicated Tuesday he would do. Western countries were making plans to evacuate some of their nationals by air.

Iraqi Ambassador Mohammed al-Mashat was called to the State Department to clarify the announcement and he also said Western men would be released if the United States promises not to attack Iraq.

He also said Iraq is ready to negotiate "but without preconditions." He said the demand by Western nations that Iraq leave Kuwait would be a precondition.

UNITED NATIONS - Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar left Wednesday for Jordan to meeting Iraq's foreign minister, hoping to find a peaceful solution to the Persian Gulf crisis. Perez de Cuellar will meet Tariq Aziz in Amman Thursday in the first diplomatic move by the United Nations since Iraqi troops invaded Kuwait Aug. 2.

WASHINGTON - President Bush has offered to sell Saudi Arabia advanced warplanes, tanks and anti-aircraft missiles to beef up its defenses against the increased threat from Iraq. White House spokesman Roman Popadiuk said Bush has informed Congress of the possible sale of 24 F-15 fighters, 150 M-60 tanks, 200 Stinger anti-aircraft missiles and several thousand tank-killing depleted uranium shells.

WASHINGTON - President Bush told American troops in the Middle East and elsewhere that the U.S. military "is a once reluctant fist now clenched resolutely" against Iraqi aggression in the Persian Gulf. In a broadcast over the Armed Forces Radio, the president said, "Today ... you stand on the front line against aggression and international lawlessless."

PHILADELPHIA - A Quaker group is being flooded with telephone calls from soldiers who never expected to go to war when they joined up but are now afraid they will be asked to fight. An official of the pacifist religious group said "Nobody who calls here is gung-ho. Most people are fairly desperate."

TOKYO - Japan will contribute medical personnel and civilian aircraft to the multinational force confronting Iraq, Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu announced Wednesday night. Tokyo also will offer financial aid for affected countries in the region and refugees fleeing Iraq and Kuwait, he said.

CAIRO, EGYPT - Iraqi President Saddam Hussein may resort to terrorist attacks on U.S. targets because he has access to international terrorists, many of which live in Baghdad and owe him favors, it was speculated Wednesday.

Arab diplomats point out that it was terrorism, not military confrontation, that forced U.S. troops out of the Middle East the last time they were there in force, citing the 1983 truck bombing in Lebanon that left 241 Marines dead.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - Crew members from a U.S. destroyer boarded two commercial ships in the Red Sea Tuesday to enforce sanctions against Iraq, turning one back and allowing the other to go on its way, the Pentagon said Wednesday.

At the same time, the Defense Department denied news reports from the Persian Gulf region that U.S. warships have boarded either Iraqi or Kuwaiti-flagged vessels.

In a statement, the Pentagon said the guided-missile destroyer USS Sampson operating in the Red Sea as part of the Saratoga carrier battle group, intercepted two vessels on Tuesday and sent boarding parties aboard both.

''The first, the Kotawirami, a Sri Lankan freighter bound for Iraq carrying cargo other than medical supplies and, therefore, in violation of U.N. sanctions was boarded and then diverted,'' the statement said.

''The second, the Connie, a Liberian motor vessel carrying lube oil and vegetable oil, was boarded and allowed to proceed to its non-Iraqi destination,'' the Pentagon said.

U.S. Navy officials aboard the USS guided-missile cruiser Ticonderoga said each American warship in the area has formed a boarding party, consisting of between seven and 13 sailors who have had some previous assault training.

These parties carry M-16 rifles, shotguns, a grenade launcher and sidearms for defensive purposes.

At President Bush's direction Aug. 16, U.S. warships in the Persian Gulf, the Gulf of Oman and the Red Sea began intercepting vessels suspected of carrying oil or goods to or from Iraq.

The naval operation is attempting to enforce U.N. sanctions against Iraqi goods that were imposed following Baghdad's invasion of Kuwait.

Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams said Tuesday the United States has intercepted, mostly by radio contact, about 170 commercial ships in the Persian Gulf and the Red Sea. But, he said, fewer than 10 ships have been boarded by U.S. forces.

''Because of the intercept operations and because of the U.N. sanctions, shipping from Iraq has virtually come to a halt,'' Williams said. ''There is very little shipping activiting originating from Iraq - just about none.

''In terms of embargoed materials treating trans-shipment points,'' such as the Jordanian port of Aqaba, ''I believe that has virtually stopped as well,'' Williams said, calling the sanctions ''extremely successful.''

A senior Navy official, speaking to reporters Wednesday on grounds he not be identified, said the embargo was working well because most nations were obeying the U.N. sanctions against Iraqi goods.

''I suspect in time, if the blockade gets tighter and tighter, that people will try to run it, as they have historically,'' the Navy official said.

''In that case,'' he said, ''the way an interdiction normally works is you try to use the minimum force necessary, starting out with hailing, saying, 'Stop. I'm going to come aboard and look.'

''If they won't do that, then you fire a warning shot or something like that. And if you want to enforce it, then you have to use the bare minimum of force possible to not let the ship do what it wants to do. We have not reached that point in this interdiction yet,'' the senior Navy official said.

U.S. warships fired warning shots near two Iraqi oil tankers in the Persian Gulf area on Aug. 18 - before the United Nations agreed to the use of force to impose the sanctions - but those tankers ignored the warnings and kept moving. No further U.S. action was taken.

MOSCOW (AUG. 29) UPI - Debate on the Soviet transition to a market economy heated up Wednesday with a top economist appointed by Mikhail Gorbachev criticizing the government for being too slow and proposing ''half-measures.''

''This involves the fate of our society, the fate of perestroika,'' Abel Aganbegyan, head of a commission on the economy appointed by Gorbachev, told reporters.

He released the commission's report calling for a radical shift away from central planning and state ownership of property.

But Gorbachev continued to sound a more cautious tone, telling the official television news show ''Vremya'' during a meeting with Boris Yeltsin Wednesday, ''If we now simply throw society to the market, that would mean not taking people into account and would exacerbate our problems.''

Aganbegyan's 24-member commission, appointed by Gorbachev and Premier Nikolai Ryzhkov to examine different proposals for moving to a market economy, is just one of three bodies drawing up economic plans in the Soviet Union.

The economist said his results were available for use by either of the other two commissions - a government group under Ryzhkov and a joint panel set up Aug. 1 by Gorbachev and Yeltsin - but he added he had no idea what the final proposal to the national Parliament would be.

''I'm not a deputy in the Supreme Soviet Parliament. I have no post, so I don't know what will be proposed, this will depend on the presidium and on the president,'' Aganbegyan said. ''Our commission was set up to provide materials for decision making.''

Gorbachev said despite the fact that there has been some confusion over three separate commissions working on economic proposals at the same time, there would be a single plan presented to the national Parliament this fall.

Although Aganbegyan said it was not his commission's task to evaluate the work of the panels set up by Ryzhkov and Gorbachev and Yeltsin, he had strong criticism for parts of the government proposal and praise for parts of Yeltsin's 500-day program.

''We envisage most radical measures to proceed to a market economy,'' Aganbegyan said. ''Meanwhile the government program provides half-measures and does not provide for a rapid transition to a market pricing system.

''Without that (market pricing) as we all understand no market economy could exist, because the whole system of a market economy is based on the relevant pricing system.''

In May, Ryzhkov presented a plan that called for increases in state-set prices as one of the first steps in transition to a ''regulated market economy.'' That proposal was rejected by Parliament.

''This term 'regulated market' - what is it?'' Aganbegyan said. ''Is it a market or is it regulated? We want a transfer to a modern market.''

The Aganbegyan commission report advocates ''widespread privatization'' of property, saying in that area it ''actively supports'' Yeltsin's proposal for a radical shift away from state ownership.

Aganbegyan said when presenting his proposals to Ryzhkov's Council of Ministers, the ideas on privatization were opposed by an unnamed deputy premier who argued state and collective farms should retain control of much of the farmland in the country.

''We oppose any monopoly,'' Aganbegyan said. ''But we met opposition on our suggestion to eliminate the monopoly on land by collectives and state farms.''

He also warned against the danger that government ministries, once stripped of their central command economy functions, would simply work under different names and continue to impose ''administrative slavery.''

''There is a dangerous mimicry trend,'' he said. ''A ministry may change its name but may have the same centralized functions. We oppose this.''

Aganbegyan is the former head of the economics department of the Soviet Academy of Sciences and has been a key adviser to Gorbachev on economic reform, although he holds no official position.

Leonid Abalkin, another top Soviet economist and one of several deputy premiers under Ryzhkov, defended the government in a speech published Tuesday in the official labor newspaper Trud.

He said with the removal of the Communist Party's guaranteed control of the Soviet Union and the crumbling of other structures, the government is the only body that can carry out economic reform.

''The government is still capable of keeping processes somewhat under control and of preventing powerful anti-socialist tendencies from bursting forth,'' Abalkin said. ''But everything is done to case aspersions on and overthrow this last bastion of stability.''

DALLAS (AUG. 29) UPI - A grand jury will be asked to indict suspended Police Chief Mack Vines for lying under oath during an investigation of a police shooting, District Attorney John Vance said Wednesday.

Vance referred seven counts of aggravated perjury, a third-degree felony, to the grand jury, which will probably decide within two weeks whether to indict Vines. He has been on administrative leave since Aug. 3.

''This office intends to seek indictments and prosecute any person who has committed crimes involving acts of official public corruption, regardless of who it may be,'' said Vance.

City Manager Jan Hart suspended Vines and asked Vance to investigate charges that the chief tried to influence testimony before a panel investigating the June 27, 1989, fatal shooting of an unarmed Mexican national.

The perjury charge carries a maximum sentence upon conviction of up to 10 years in prison and up to a $10,000 fine. Vines had no immediate comment but a few weeks ago told reporters he had no plan to resign.

Assistant Chief Gregg Holliday, who had also been suspended, told investigators Vines tried to influence his testimony concerning the ''haste'' of the investigation into the shooting by officer Patrick LeMaire, sources told the Dallas Times Herald.

LeMaire was later dismissed but was ordered rehired by a Civil Service board.

Judy Stubbs, the panel's chairwoman, said Vines denied talking to Holliday when questioned under oath but later told Hart that Holliday had ''misinterpreted'' his remarks.

Hart returned Holliday to duty Wednesday because she said the district attorney determined he was truthful with the panel.

The panel's report on the investigation itself found only that some documents had been altered, probably due to ''careless mistakes.'' The department promised to clean up those problems.

Vance said his staff agreed with the panel's conclusions that there was ''no wrongful and thus criminal intent'' on the part of any police department employee to alter investigation documents.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - Refco Inc., a Chicago commodity trading company, agreed to pay a fine of $220,000 as part of a settlement Wednesday of a seven-count complaint filed by the Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

The complaint alleged that a principal member of the company, floor broker Ray Friedman, operating under an agreement with a customer for a one-year period violated speculative position limits for pork belly futures at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

In addition, Refco was accused of violating record-keeping requirements, failure to supervise its operations, and violation of cease and desist orders entered by the CFTC in 1983 and 1988. The orders involved record-keeping and supervision charges.

The CFTC announced the filing of the complaint and the settlement at same time.

In addition to paying the civil penalty, Refco agreed to undertake a review of its procedures for supervising its employees and monitor its in-house and customer accounts to determine if they are being commonly controlled or traded pursuant to an agreement or understanding.

A written report on the review is due within 120 days.

The CFTC complaint alleged that Friedman, beginning in June 1988, traded pursuant to ''an express or implied agreement or understanding'' with a Refco customer. Friedman, of Palm Beach, Fla., was the account executive who handled the customer account.

''The proceeding is continuing as to Freidman to determine if the allegations in the complaint are true and, if so, what, if any, sanctions should be imposed,'' the CFTC said.

In the settlement, Refco did not admit or deny the allegations in the settlement but consented to a finding that it had violated the laws and CFTC rules cited in the complaint.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - President Bush approved Wednesday an emergency $2.23 billion arms sale to Saudi Arabia that includes 24 F-15 Eagle fighters, 150 M-60 tanks and 200 shoulder-launched anti-aircraft Stinger missiles.

Deputy White House press secretary Roman Popadiuk said the weapons will be drawn from existing U.S. inventories to help the Saudis immediately defend against possible Iraqi aggression.

''The 24 F-15s will be sold under presidential waiver of the 30-day congressional review period required by the Arms Export Control Act,'' the Pentagon said, meaning the sale will go through without congressional approval.

The president, who can waive the congressional review process in an emergency, also waived the 30-day congruo$w89rO for the sale of the M-60 tanks, the Pentagon said.

''We are focusing on the most critical Saudi needs - anti-tank and air defense equipment,'' the Pentagon said. ''The Saudis already have M- 60 tanks and F-15 aircraft, so they will be able to absorb this equipment quickly.''

The Saudis currently have 58 F-15s in their inventory and 550 tanks (250 of which are M-60s), while Iraq has an estimated 500 combat aircraft and 5,500 tanks.

Bush earlier waived the congressional ''Metzenbaum Amendment'' that limited the Saudis to 60 F-15s, thus freeing 12 of the jets they had already purchased but that are still in production in the United States.

The Pentagon said the new arms package includes 24 F-15s, C and D models, and Sidewinder and Sparrow air-to-air missiles for $2 billion; 150 M-60A3 tanks for $206 million; 15,000 105mm depleted-uranium anti- tank rounds for M-60 tanks for $13 million; and 50 launch tubes for Stinger missiles with 50 loads and 150 reloads (200 missiles) for $12 million.

''Current legislation would ordinarily prohibit the sale of depleted uranium ammunition and Stinger missiles to Saudi Arabia,'' the Pentagon said. ''The president therefore used his special authority under Section 614 of the Foreign Assistance Act to waive the restrictions.''

The administration also is considering subsequent sales - reported by The Washington Post to include 24 more F-15s - ''to help provide the Saudis with the force structure to help them defend themselves,'' Popadiuk told reporters.

Disclosure of the prospective arms deal followed a round of public and private consultations in Saudi Arabia and Washington, including a meeting late Tuesday between Bush and Prince Bandar bin Sultan, the Saudi ambassador to the United States.

After returning last week from a Middle East trip that included high-level talks in Saudi Arabia, Defense Secretary Dick Cheney said the United States was preparing a ''two-stage process'' of first meeting the Saudis' ''emergency needs'' and then strengthening their defense posture over the long term.

Since the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, the administration has considered augmenting its own show of force in the Persian Gulf area by building up the defenses of Arab countries friendly to the United States.

That has elicited a skeptical response from some members of Congress, who have warned that a broader arms race might only heighten the potential for confrontation either in the current crisis or in the future.

Given the immediacy of the problems in the gulf region, the latest proposed arms sale to Saudi Arabia may attract less opposition from Israel and its political allies than previous transfers of U.S. weaponry to Arab nations.

One element that may help minimize any security concerns by Israel is that the aircraft destined for sale to the Saudis are the older F-15C and F-15D air-to-air varieties, rather than the more sophisticated F-15E with ground-attack capability.

KOLOLI, Gambia (AUG. 29) UPI - A delegation representing Liberian rebel leader Prince Johnson arrived in Gambia Wednesday to attend talks aimed at ending the 8-month civil war and called for the establishment of a security force independent of the peace-keeping troops already in the country.

The proposed force would be made up of 6,500 men from all sectors of Liberian society. It would work with Economic Community of West African States troops in Liberia to smooth the transition to a civilian government according to Prince Johnson delegation spokesman Madison Meahyen.

The proposal calls for the Economic Community of West African States troops from Nigeria, Sierra Leone, Guinea, Gambia and Ghana to leave Liberia before elections are held, possibly one year after the establishment of the interim government.

''We do not wish to have an occupation force and the Liberian people might see ECOMOG this way,'' Meahyen said referring to the 3,000 man force from the five West African countries that is trying to impose a cease-fire in Liberia.

''We see this force as a harbinger to reinstating police, immigration and customs control. It will be the beginning of a new army,'' Meahyen added.

The proposed force would answer to an interim president the negotiatiors hope to name at the talks. It would be made up of a nucleus of Johnson guerrillas but would welcome all Liberians who wished to join.

Some reports indicated, however, that the plan also called for Prince Johnson to be named head of the new army.

Abass Bundu, Economic Community of West African States secretary general, said the proposal was not necesarily a challenge to the group's troops in Liberia.

''If the Liberian people come up with a solution to their problems today, I'm confident ECOWAS leaders will be more than happy to withdraw the force because its purpose is to assist the people of Liberia to establish the necessary conditions to return their country to normalcy,'' he said.

Although delegates to the negotiations delayed public reaction to the initiative, political observers present at the talks said it was unlikely the proposal to create a new peace force would be accepted by either President Samuel Doe or guerrilla leader Charles Taylor.

Hundreds of persons have been killed in recent months in fighting between rival tribal groups, with many members of the Gio and Mano tribes fleeing the country because Doe's troops have targeted them for reprisal massacres according to foreign observers in Liberia.

Prince Johnson, the leader of a breakaway rebel faction, said last week he was joining Doe's camp in order to prevent Taylor's National Patriotic Front guerrillas from coming to power.

PARIS (AUG. 29) UPI - French farmers, upset about low crop prices and food imports, Wednesday released sheep in the European Parliament building and clashed with police in demonstrations across the country, police reported. At least five people, four of them policemen, were seriously injured, authorities said.

The farmers blocked the main national highway in the Burgundy region southeast of Paris and set up more than 50 other roadblocks on smaller roads. Railroad lines, including the high-speed TGV train, were cut with stacks of hay, delaying trains for 30 minutes.

In Rouen on the River Seine east of Paris, riot police fired tear gas and charged 400 farmers who had gathered in front of the local administrative building.

In the city of Angers, 179 miles southwest of Paris, police with water cannons attacked more than 1,000 farmers after they ignored orders to disperse. Three policeman were seriously injured in clashes with ranchers in Evreux in the Normandy region northwest of Paris, according to police.

In Alencon, a policeman was hit and seriously injured by a paving stone during a confrontation with 600 protesters, and a farmer was hospitalized after being hit by a tear gas canister.

Other farmers were able to introduce a small number of sheep into the lobby of the European Parliament building in Strasbourg in eastern France despite a heavy police presence around the complex.

The farmers were protesting the low price of meat on the French market and the influx of agricultural imports from other European countries, including Bulgaria and East Germany.

The demonstrators also demanded that the government institute price supports to help them face losses caused by an unusually long dry spell that has forced many farmers to slaughter cattle for lack of water, resulting in an excess of meat and lower prices.

Raymond Lacombe, president of the French Farmer's Association, said Wednesday's protest was only the start of a long battle that would continue throughout the Fall. He threatened to block all roads in France in the future if a solution to the crisis is not forthcoming.

"The government has found financial solutions to resolve other crises, especially in the industrial area," he said alluding to widespread calls from the agricultural community for the government to support higher meat prices.

Lacombe suggested that East Germany's excess meat production be shipped to countries outside the European Economic Community. His suggestion appears to have been heard because Agriculture Minister Henri Nallet said the government had been assured by the EC and West Germany that surplus East German meat would be sent to the Soviet Union and Third World countries. Nallet said recent beef imports from East Germany had totalled less than 5,000 tons a month.

The Agriculture Minister also said he favored aiding the farmers by advancing compensation payments for losses suffered because of the drought but added that no decisions had been made. "The government does not want to minimize this crisis," he said.

French farmers have turned to increasingly violent and ugly protests in recent weeks in the hope of making an impact on the government and on French public opinion. In one of the worst cases, a truck carrying sheep was set on fire last week, burning the animals to death.

NEW CUMBERLAND ARMY DEPOT, Pa. (AUG. 29) UPI - In the darkened interior of cavernous warehouses with floor-to-ceiling shelves, men and women with forklifts are filling orders around the clock to keep supplies flowing in Operation Desert Shield.

Along the ''Golden Mile,'' as the longest warehouse at the huge depot is called, pallets were being prepared Wednesday for shipment to Saudi Arabia. The mile-long string of buildings has 1.7 million square feet, all but the loading and packing areas jammed with equiment.

Although much of the work was also regular resupply shipments for forces in Europe, the Caribbean and South and Central America, the effort to rush everything from tank parts to chemical weapons suits to the desert was in the minds of many.

Karen Strauss, a 12-year depot veteran, was checking orders to be certain they had been pulled right and prepared them for boxes that would go on the plastic-wrapped pallets.

''We're trying to support the troops in Saudi Arabia. We realize it might come down to lives,'' she said, adding that morale ''depends on who you talk to'' because of recently announced budget-related layoffs throughout the Army Materiel Command.

Some 365 jobs at New Cumberland are vanishing Oct. 12, but nevertheless many of those with layoff notices volunteered for overtime shifts because of the Saudi operation.

Army officials said they were taking another look at the layoffs but could offer no assurances that Desert Shield could preserve any jobs. Commanders said they could continue their supply mission at the reduced level, even if the tempo picks up.

Fifty miles to the southwest, at Letterkenny Army Depot, crews with forklifts steadly hauled pallets of .50 caliber machine gun rounds from an earthen-covered ''igloo'' storage building, rapidly filling a commercial tractor-trailer with the ammunition and smoke grenades, all destined for Army forces in the Saudi desert.

Ammunition manager Frank Van Hatten said so far he has issued 1 percent of his massive supply to troops headed to Saudi Arabia. He collected all the matches and lighters from visiting journalists before admitting them to a 12,000-acre compound dotted with 902 of the igloos holding everything from small arms ammunition to 2,000-pound bombs and a variety of missiles.

Army officials were reticent to discuss specific volumes of materiels shipped from the two depots.

Also at Letterkenny, trucks, artillery pieces, self-propelled howitzers and Patriot air defense missile launchers were being taken out of storage and readied for shipment, many painted with a paint that will slough off chemical agents when decontamination units wash down the equipment.

Lt. Col. David Gordon, supply director at the large maintenance and staging facility, said his shop has run out of a light sand-hued paint and is running low on the slightly darker tan paint that commanders are ordering for their equipment. Many commanders, he said, are asking that equipment be held up an extra day if it means desert colors can be painted on the gear.

At New Cumberland, just across tahe Susquehanna River from Harrisburg, Col. John Joseph said the pace has picked up for the 3,500 civilians and 476 military personnel who work at a facility with nearly 3.6 million square feet of covered warehouse space and a $3.6 billion inventory.

The depot, which supplies or handles shipping for about 50 percent of the Army's materiel needs, is now going seven days a week, with two shifts of 10 hours each at work in many areas and around-the-clock operations in others.

Nearby is a new 1.7 million-square-foot building with a highly automated stock-picking system due to open next year, which will significantly improve the depot's efficiency.

NEW YORK (AUG. 29) UPI - The dollar moved mostly higher in thin trading Wednesday as currency-market participants took less defensive market stances amid declining oil prices and hopes of a Persian Gulf diplomatic solution.

But the Japanese yen was the main beneficiary of expectations that a peaceful settlement of the U.S.-Iraq confrontation over occupied Kuwait would coax oil prices lower, easing pressure on industrial nations.

The market in particular awaited intervention in the Gulf by Javier Perez de Cuellar, the U.N. secretary general. He was to hold talks Thursday in Amman, Jordan, with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tareq Aziz.

Participants also reacted to reports that Iraqi President Saddam Hussein was making proposals involving hostage releases. ''The market is optimistic,'' said Bank of Tokyo senior customer dealer John Lyman.

Late in the New York session, the dollar was quoted at 1.5585 German marks again moving higher from 1.5540 marks Tuesday, and at 143.50 Japanese yen down from 143.70 the previous day.

Dealers said the dollar gained in early trading as players bought the unit to cover their short positions - commitments made previously to sell dollars on expectations that the U.S. unit would keep falling.

Yet Lyman said a Gulf resolution could be bearish for the dollar. ''People in fact will be able to sell it more aggressively,'' he said, ''because they won't have to worry about short-covering rallies as news hits.''

But Stephen Burnett, mark dealer for the Bank fur Gemeinwirtschaft, said that although the easing of the crisis has focused players all the more intently on interest rates - a U.S. weak point - the dollar could rally.

He said the dollar was probably undervalued and had been, on the basis of relative purchasing power, ''completely blown out of the '' purch

Other New York dollar rates: 1.2895 Swiss francs, up from 1.2860; 5.2230 French francs, up from 5.2160; and 1,154.75 Italian lire, up from 1,149.

The British pound rose to $1.9455 from $1.9425.

In Europe, the dollar continued to rally against the key currencies in quiet trading, also boosted by hopes of Gulf crisis diplomatic gains.

But with few significant Gulf developments, most traders intended to wait for signs of progress before taking positions. ''Trading is very lackluster,'' said Tim Fox, a treasury economist with Midland Bank PLC.

In Frankfurt, the dollar rose to 1.5565 marks from 1.5515 Tuesday. The U.S. unit also moved up in Zurich, to 1.2850 Swiss francs vs. 1.2815.

In London, the pound ended unchanged at $1.9480.

The dollar also rose in Paris, Brussels and Milan, to, respectively: 5.2050 French francs vs. 5.1895, 31.89 Belgian francs vs. 31.81 and 1,148.10 lire against 1,144.95.

In Tokyo, the dollar rebounded well against the yen, ending at 144.35 yen, up from 143.20 the day before.

Gold closed lower in Zurich, at $385.50 an ounce compared with $387, but was slightly higher in London, at $385.37 an ounce vs. 382.37.

NEW YORK (AUG. 29) UPI - Average yields for money-market mutual funds were lower in the latest reporting week, while rates at competing savings and loan institutions were mixed, financial information services that track these yields and rates said Wednesday.

The Donoghue Organization, of Holliston, Mass., said that average seven-day simple yields were at 7.48 percent, down from 7.51 the previous week, while 30-day simple yields eased to 7.50 percent from 7.52.

The average maturity of fund portfolios was unchanged at 45 days.

The Bank Rate Monitor, of North Palm Beach, Fla., gave average rates as follows: money market deposit accounts, 5.89 percent, down from 5.91; Super-Now accounts, unchanged at 4.98 percent; six-month certificates of deposit, 7.53 percent, up from 7.51 percent; 1-year CDs, 7.62 percent, up from 7.61 percent; 2 1/2-year CDs, 7.69 percent, up from 7.68 percent; and 5-year CDs, 7.80 percent, up from 7.79.

The average rate for a one-year, adjustable-rate mortgage was 8.30 percent up from 8.27.

The average rate on a 15-year, fixed-rate mortgage rose in the latest week to 9.81 percent from 9.69, and the average rate for a 30- year, fixed-rate mortgage reached 10.12 percent from 10 percent.

The average rate for a four-year automobile loan was unchanged at 12.27 percent.

WILMINGTON, Del. (AUG. 29) UPI - The Du Pont Co. said Wednesday it plans to give its employees called to serve in reserve units in the Persian Gulf region full pay and benefits in addition to their military salaries.

Several dozen Du Pont employees were activated in the initial callup last week, and at least 700 of Du Pont's 110,000 employees in the United States are active in the military reserves, company officials said.

Company spokesman David Moffitt said it has been a longtime company policy to continue paying employees who are called up for military service.

''They will receive full company pay for two months. This will be on top of their military pay,'' Moffitt said.

If the callup lasts longer than two months, Du Pont said it would re-evaluate its policy. The jobs of people called up are protected by federal law, but many reservists say they will be unable to survive on military pay alone.

Two other Wilmington chemical firms have made similar announcements about their employees serving in the reserves.

Officials at Hercules say the company will make up the difference between an employee's salary and military base pay for three months. The firm also plans to continue medical benefits until they are supplemented by military benefits.

Only about 160 Hercules employees are in the reserves out of 23,000 people nationwide.

''We're doing this to demonstrate our support and commitment to our country's efforts,'' said Hercules spokesman William Hawkesworth.

A spokeswoman with ICI Americas said long-term employees will be able to collect salaries for up to two months during the leave. ICI estimates that fewer than 200 of its employees are active military reservists.

NEW YORK (AUG. 29) UPI - Stocks extended their winning streak to four sessions Wednesday, as a plunge in oil prices and revived hopes for a peaceful end to the Mideast crisis boosted the market. Trading was very light.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which rose 3.22 Tuesday, gained 17.58 to 2632.43.

Among broader market gauges, the New York Stock Exchange composite index rose 1.51 to 177.77 and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained 2.85 to 324.19. The price of an average share rose 27 cents.

Advances outpaced declines, 974-509, among the 1,976 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Big Board volume totaled 134,240,000 shares, up slightly from 127,650,000 traded Tuesday.

Stocks opened little changed but turned higher by midday as oil prices plunged. The tumble was sparked by news that ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries had endorsed a temporary rise in oil production to make up for a shortfall on global oil markets resulting from the crisis in the Persian Gulf.

October crude-oil futures closed down $1.96 to $25.92 a barrel but had been as low as $25.32. Most oil stocks closed higher despite the news.

The stock market rallied further in the afternoon amid signs that Iraq may be softening its stance in the crisis.

Analysts cited reports that Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein is expected to declare federated self-rule for Kuwait in an effort to resolve the crisis as well as a report in New York Newsday that Iraq told the White House it would pull out of Kuwait and let foreigners leave if certain demands were met.

The demands were said to be the lifting of U.N. sanctions, guaranteed access to the Gulf and control of an oil field that dips into Kuwait.

But some analysts, such as Jeff Kaminsky, head of institutional sales trading at Mabon, Nugent & Co., downplayed the effect of the Mideast news on the advance.

''The market has absorbed hundreds of headlines and it's starting to have less effect,'' he said. ''Earlier that news would have had the market widely swinging,but there's been so much news that much has been seen but ignored. So much of it turns out to be rhetoric, anyway.''

Kaminsky said this was why volume has been so light over the past two days: ''People really don't know what to make of what's going on over there, and rather than putting money on the line they'll move to the sidelines. To make a million dollar decision on a headline when you don't know what it means, well, that's why people are stepping away.''

On the trading floor, Texas Utilities was the most active issue, down 1/8 to 33 7/8.

First Interstate Bancorp followed, up 1/4 to 28 7/8. Philip Morris was third, up 1/2 to 45 1/2.

Federal National Mortgage Association was also active, down 3/8 to 30 1/4.

And General Motors was up 3/8 to 40 5/8 in heavy trading, extending Tuesday's rally which was sparked by the United Auto Workers' selection of GM as its strike target in upcoming contract talks. By being the target, all labor issues are open to negotiation.

Among the other blue chips, AT&T rose 3/8 to 32 1/2, IBM gained 1/4 to 103 7/8, Boeing jumped 7/8 to 48 3/4 and Coca-Cola gained 7/8 to 42 5/8.

In the oil sector, Texaco rose 1/2 to 63 1/4 and Chevron added 1 1/8 to 76 3/4, but Exxon was down 1/4 to 49 7/8. All are Dow components. Elsewhere, Mobil rose 5/8 to 63 7/8, Amoco dipped 3/8 to 55 3/8 and Royal Dutch Petroleum rose 3/8 to 81 1/8.

Elsewhere, Anthem Electronics plunged 3 3/8 to 21 1/2. Smith Barney is said to have cut its rating on the stock to ''hold'' from ''buy.''

Volume of NYSE-listed issues, including trades in stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 165,666,930 shares, compared with 157,698,910 shares traded in the previous session.

Prices closed higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

The Amex Market Value index rose 2.45 to close at 324.43. Advances led declines 361-222 among the 802 issues traded. The price of an average share rose 8 cents. Composite volume totaled 13,160,100 shares, compared with 12,331,100 shares traded Tuesday.

B.A.T Industries led the Amex issues, off 1/4 to 10 3/16.

The National Association of Securities Dealers composite index lost 1.08 to 381.78.

MOSCOW (AUG. 29) UPI - The Armenian Parliament declared a state of emergency in the southern republic Wednesday and tanks patrolled the capital after a deputy was gunned down in Yerevan.

At least four other people died as rival vigilante units fought an hour-long pitched battle in the city of 1.2 million, reports said.

Authorities sealed off all roads into and out of Yerevan following the violence in which armed factions of separate Armenian nationalist groups turned their weapons on each other for the first time.

Lt. Gen. Mikhail Kolesnikov told the official government newspaper Izvestia that the fighting erupted when a shooting incident at a gas station ''escalated into mass clashes between formations of the Armenian National Movement and the Armenian National Army.''

Levon Ter-Petrosyan, the Yerevan legislature's chairman and effective president of Armenia, told lawmakers that deputy Viktor Aivazyan had been slain as he went to meet with members of the Armenian National Army, one of several large illegal forces in the republic.

Ter-Petrosyan said another deputy, identified only as R. Iskhanyan, was in critical condition in a Yerevan hospital after he was intentionally struck by a car.

Soviet television showed fellow lawmakers crying as Ter-Petrosyan delivered the news and a white flower lying on the desk at the slain Aivazyan's empty chair in the parliament.

The evening ''Vremya'' TV news program also showed columns of tanks moving through Yerevan in the wake of the violence.

After addressing the Armenian legislature, Ter-Petrosyan appealed for calm in a television speech, the official Tass news agency said.

Several large illegal armies have formed in Armenia in the past 2 1/2 years since the outbreak of hostilities with the neighboring republic of Azerbaijan in a dispute over its Nagorno-Karabakh region.

But the violence in Yerevan was the first reported fighting between Armenian armed units and may signal the opening of a dark chapter of factional warfare in the Transcaucasian region that Soviet military officials have called their country's Lebanon.

Ter-Petrosyan was a leader of the Armenian National Movement before his Aug. 4 parliamentary election as president and retains close ties to the group, one of several nationalist organizations that has sprouted military wings in recent months.

Ter-Petrosyan blamed the clashes on the rival Armenian National Army.

The Yerevan legislature imposed a state of emergency throughout Armenia, set a nighttime curfew in Yerevan and gave the Armenian National Army until 10 p.m. Wednesday to surrender thdi7/8 weapons, the reports said.

''An ultimatum was put forward: If members of this (vigilante) group fail to turn in their arms by 10 p.m., forces of the republic's Interior Ministry and KGB as well as volunteer guards under the command of the Armenian Supreme Soviet will start operations to disarm them,'' the independent Interfax news service said.

The parliament offered an amnesty to Armenian National Army fighters who volunarily surrender their weapons.

Armenia is the main target of a decree by Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev ordering the disbandment of vigilante armies in the country.

Ter-Petrosyan told Kremlin at a Kremlin meeting earlier this month that he would take responsibility for overseeing the disarmament of illegal units in Armenia.

DETROIT (AUG. 29) UPI - Ford Motor Co. President Philip E. Benton Jr. said Wednesday that only half the full-line auto manufacturers now in business will survive the pressures of global competition during the next 10 to 15 years.

Benton, speaking to the Automotive Industry Action Group in Detroit, also said that through mergers, acquisitions and other financial arrangements, the distinctions of the world's major economic regions will fade.

''Despite the current military situation in the Middle East, we are moving toward a tri-polar world which will be defined by the economic strengths and the interrrelationships of North America, Europe and Asia,'' he said.

Benton cited several mergers or acquisitions that have transpired recently including Ford's purchase of Jaguar last year and General Motors Corp.'s partnership with Saab.

He declined to specify which other carmakers might not survive into the 21st century as independent companies, but cited three key requirements that if met could allow about half a dozen automakers to remain independent and intact within the next decade.

''The first requirement is that an automaker will need the capability to participate in all three major economic areas of the world,'' he said, noting that ''dependence on one market or limited markets will simply be too risky.''

Aggressiveness in developing and applying new technology is the second requirement, he said, while increased efficiencies in both time and cost will also be necessary.

''Globalization means simply that, where possible, we will design and engineer a product once, but offer specifically tailored variations in multiple markets,'' Benton said, reiterating a strategy Ford has been promoting for several years or more.

''We must take advantage of the converging tastes, preferences and expectations of consumers round the world,'' he said - adding he was confident Ford would be among the survivors.

(AUG. 30) UPI - The average price of gasoline nationwide has continued to climb in recent days despite a drop in crude oil prices, and is now at its highest level since Thanksgiving 1981, the American Automobile Association said Wednesday.

One industry executive said consumers can expect further hikes, since pump prices have yet to catch up to the earlier jump in the price of crude.

The AAA said the average price of regular gasoline sold at self- service pumps nationwide rose 3.3 cents since Friday to $1.307. That increase comes on the heels of a 3.7 cent jump last week.

''We would have to go back into 1981 before we found a price higher than this, and that would have been at Thanskgiving 1981, when the price was at $1.349,'' said Geoff Sundstrom, an AAA spokesman in Orlando, Fla.

''Unfortunately, prices seem to be increasing steadily,'' he said. ''There was a period two weeks ago when prices seemed to be softening, but there hasn't been any downward movement since then. It's still anyone's guess as to where prices are going to stabilize.''

The AAA said the steepest price rise in recent days - 6.4 cents a gallon - was found in the Southwest.

Prices were up an average of 3.7 cents in the Midwest, 3.6 cents in the Southeast, 2.4 cents in New England, 2 cents in the West, and 0.1 cent in the Great Lakes region, the AAA said. Prices in the Mid-Atlantic region were unchanged.

The higher prices, which come just before the Labor Day weekend, also may reflect some anticipation of holiday demand, Sundstrom said.

''Retailers are anticipating higher demand, as they typically do at this time of year,'' he said.

The AAA said retail gasoline prices have risen 23.2 cents a gallon since Aug. 1, the day before Iraq invaded Kuwait and sent the price of crude oil soaring.

Those prices eased in trading Wednesday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

The benchmark West Texas Intermediate crude for October delivery fell $1.96 to $25.92 a barrel. The price rose 97 cents Tuesday, after dropping $4 a barrel Monday.

Unleaded gasoline for September delivery was down 3.81 cents to 84.72 cents a gallon. The Merc price rose 0.97 cent Tuesday, after dropping a record 17 cents Monday.

But an industry executive said that drop would do little to prevent further hikes at the pump.

''To date, the full increase of the crude has not been passed through to the pump,'' said John Sauer, general manager of planning and analysis at Conoco Inc. in Houston.

''Certainly, if things were to level off at today's crude prices and gasoline wholesale prices, there would be some additional increase that would be passed along at the pump,'' he said.

OPEC producers meeting in Vienna Wednesday gave Saudi Arabia, Venezuela and other members the green light to boost oil production temporarily, in a move designed to avoid an anticipated winter oil crunch and stabilize prices.

But Sauer said he doubted the additional OPEC production would be sufficient to erase an anticipated shortfall. ''I think it is unreasonable to expect that we are going to see lower prices,'' he said.

Ed Rothschild, energy policy director for Citizen Action in Washington, criticized the industry for what he described as a double standard.

Rothschild said that while consumers feel the pinch of rising prices almost immediately, the oil industry is slow to pass along lower prices.

''This goes to show you that the rule that is in force is 'the refiner always wins' rule,'' he said. ''Once again, we see that the market is not working in a competitive fashion.''

Rothschild said consumers can defend their interests by shopping around, and by keeping their tanks less than full.

''We encourage consumers to act in their own self interest, to keep the pressure on,'' he said.

CHATEAUGUAY, Quebec (AUG. 29) UPI - Mohawks and Canadian troops laid down their arms Wednesday night and jointly dismantled barricades as a last-minute agreement apparently ended a seven-week-long standoff that had threatened to end in bloodshed at two Indian reserves south of Montreal.

The Mohawks and federal and Quebec provincial governments were meeting Wednesday to agree on outstanding issues and try reaching a peaceful resolution to one of the most bitter disputes in Canadian history.

''We have reached a very historical period and we can look forward to a very peaceful, calm settling of this situation from here on in,'' said Joe Norton, chief of the Kahnawake reserve.

Norton said the arrangment ''does away with any type of invasion'' on both the the Kahnawake and Kanesatake reserves, where the army has been poised for several days.

Bystanders applauded as Mohawks and soldiers began dismantling two major blockades at the Kahnawake reserve. One of the barricades had cut access to a major bridge route to Montreal, forcing long reroutes of traffic.

Details of the agreement between Mohawks and the governments that led to the dismantling were not immediately known.

John Mohawk, a well-respected leader of the Seneca Nation in western New York, emerged after five hours of meetings to tell reporters that the number of outstanding issues had been reduced to two. This included an Indian demand for immunity from prosecution and a government order that members of the militant Warriors Society surrender their weapons, he said.

Mohawk is a delegate to the talks and represents the Six Nations of the Iroquois Confederacy.

The immunity issue was a particular sticking point because of the shooting death of a Quebec police officer July 11 during an assault on one of the Mohawk barricades.

Mohawk indicated the natives could be flexible on the immunity issue and would agree to compensate the government for damage done to highways and railway lines if they were not formally charged.

''The solutions need to be a bit more creative than what are being applied here,'' Mohawk said.

A total of more than 3,000 heavily armed soldiers, equipped with tanks and armored personnel carriers, had awaiting orders for some time to dismantle Mohawk barricades at the two reserves.

The situation at the reserves had been quiet and tense as Canadian troops moved in reinforcements as they await orders to march on the barricades.

Canadian Armed Forces spokesman Major Serge Quenneville said the army had deployed an additional 675 men, and 186 wheeled and tracked vehicles to the Kahnawake reserve just south of Montreal, adding to a complement of about 1,400 soldiers already there.

Helen Fisher, a spokeswoman for federal Indian Affairs Minister Tom Siddon said Siddon met Tuesday night with Indian leaders from across the nation, some of whom have threatened reprisals if the army moves against the Quebec Mohawks.

In Ottawa Tuesday, Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney had appealed to the Indians to put down their arms, warning that a confrontation with the military would bring ''dishonor to your people.''

Several hundred traditional Mohawks, most with no links to the militant Mohawk Warrior Society, had already fled the besieged reserves.

Mulroney ordered an investigation into an incident Tuesday that saw hundreds of whites stone a convoy of Indians leaving the Kahnawake reserve. There were unconfirmed reports that several young and elderly Mohawks were hurt in the attack.

The dispute involving Mohawks in the two communities began several months ago over a proposed expansion of the Oka golf course on land the Kanesatake Mohawks claim is an ancient burial ground. The dispute turned violent July 11 when police stormed the barricades erected by the Mohawks and one officer was killed.

Days later, sympathetic Indians at the Kahnawake Reserve near Chateauguay blocked a highway and a key bridge linking that town to Montreal.

A video presentation prepared by the army showed about 200 Mohawks at each reserve had fortified themselves in paramilitary fashion with anti-tank ditches, concrete trenches and bunkers.

Besides shotguns and rifles, the Warriors were armed with FN-FAL semi-automatics, AK-47 Soviet-designed assault rifles, Uzi submachine guns M-16 rifles, American-produced Mini-14 and Mini-30 Ruger rifles, RPK-74 light machine guns, and Barret sniping rifles. They have also purchased Mossberg 500 12-gauge shotguns, Rossi 44 Magnum handguns, Italian-made Luigi Frenchi shotguns, Israeli-produced Galil assault rifles and M72 rocket launchers.

HARTFORD, Conn. (AUG. 29) UPI - The state has filed suit accusing American Cyanamid Co. with illegally discharging thousands of gallons of industrial waste from its Wallingford plant, officials said Wednesday.

The chemical company was cited for eight discharges of wastes into the Quinnipiac River watershed this year without a permit from the state Department of Environmental Protection, officials said.

The discharges included a July 10 release of about 3,000 gallons of water containing latex and a July 17 release of about 3,000 gallons containing formalin-urea products, the attorney general's office said.

The suit also charged the company with failing to properly operate and maintain its waste water treatment system and failing to comply with certain provisions of its DEP permit from May 1987 to April 1990.

The state is seeking a court order prohibiting additional illegal discharges and requiring the company to take steps to correct sources of pollution at the Wallingford plant.

The suit also seeks fines of up to $10,000 per day for violations before Sept. 30, 1989, and up to $25,000 per day for each violation after Oct. 1, 1989, officials said.

American Cyanamid, which is based in Wayne, N.J., manufactures chemicals and drugs.

The state two years ago reached a settlement of another suit accusing Cyanamid of hazardous waste violations and operating an illegal landfill.

Under the settlement, Cyanamid agreed to pay a $90,000 penalty and was obligated to close the landfill, Attorney General Clarine Nardi Riddle said in a statement.

''I'd like to know when this is going to end,'' Riddle said. ''I would like to think that this company realizes that compliance with all our environmental laws is required and we will take appropriate legal action whenever it is necessary to insure that compliance.''

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - The nation's pharmaceutical companies, engaged in a legislative battle over tax credits for expensive drugs that treat rare illnesses, have selected key lawmakers for political donations, government figures show.

In the House, 16 of the 25 top recipients of political action committee money from drug companies are members of committees that could affect the upcoming decision over legislation to encourage the development of sophisticated drugs. In the Senate, 12 of the 25 top recipients are on key panels. Many of the other lawmakers are from districts with major pharmaceutical concerns.

Rep. Edward Madigan, R-Ill., ranking Republican of the Energy and Commerce subcommittee on health and the environment, was the leading House recipient, collecting $45,000, from January 1989 through July.

In the Senate, Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J., whose state is littered with major pharmaceuticals, was the leading PAC recipient. He received $67,600 from the companies since 1983, Federal Election Commission records showed.

Other leading Senate recipients include, Sens. Pete Wilson, R- Calif., who collected $67,300; Dave Durenberger, R-Minn., who got $66,100; Dan Coats, R-Ind., who received $59,500; and John Danforth, R- Mo., with $55,600.

In the House, Madigan was followed by Reps. Bob Michel, R-Ill., the Republican leader, who received $35,000; John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the Energy and Commerce Committee, who collected $34,300; Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., who netted $29,700; and Dean Gallo, R-N.J., with $26,500.

The disclosure of PAC money, reported by the drug companies, comes as Congress is poised to determine whether to expand the 1983 orphan drug law to allow for increased competition, or merely reauthorize funding for the act.

The law has spurred the production of 45 rare but critical drugs for a small population, and nearly 140 drugs that are in the final stages of testing.

But the controversy over whether to invite more competition among companies centers on three drugs that are being marketed under exlcusive seven-year monopolies by companies that are parlaying generous subsidies into millions of dollars in profit.

The products include human growth hormone, or hGH, used to treat abnormally low growth rates; EPO, prescribed for the treatment of anemia in kidney dialysis patients; and aerosol pentamidine, approved for the treatment and prevention of pneumonia that is the common complication of AIDS.

The drugs have produced more than $550 million in sales for four companies.

Eli Lilly & Co., of Indiana, which shares marketing rights to hGH with Genentech Inc. of San Francisco, was the second top contributor of pharmaceutical PAC money to lawmakers, doling out $126,000 since last year. In the other extreme, Genentech made contributions totaling only $4,000 to lawmakers, FEC records show.

Meanwhile, Abbott Laboratories of Illinois was the top donor, giving $134,400 to congressional and Senate candidates since last year.

Other leading contributors included Ciba-Geigy Corp., which awarded $78,900 to candidates; Schering-Plough Corp., which donated $70,400; and Pfizer Inc., contributing $68,000 to candidates.

Though the law does not usually yield millions of dollars in profits, most drug companies that could someday appreciate a windfall from the law protested angrily when Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., proposed changes that would have allowed for ''shared exclusivity'' of drugs, even those that have already been granted a monopoly.

The companies' position was supported by the Bush administration. Vice President Quayle, the former senator from Indiana, reportedly also took interest in the issue because any changes could have adversely affected Eli Lilly.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - The government raised Wednesday its estimate of farm cash receipts this year by $1 billion and said crop sales in the Midwest and insouth-central states were likely to run 10 percent above last year's levels.

Nonetheless, the Agriculture Department stuck with its forecast of net farm income in the range of $47 billion to $52 billion this year, which would be about the same as last year. Higher expenses were expected to offset the boost in cash receipts.

''Cash receipts are expected to be 6 percent to 8 percent above last year's,'' the department said in a quarterly ''outlook'' report for agricultural income.

Crop and livestock sales each were projected to grow by $4 billion to $7 billion from 1989 levels with cash receipts totaling between $168 billion and $172 billion. Receipts totaled $164 billion last year and initially were forecast to reach at least $167 billion this year.

''The Midwest and South-Central regions, which typically provide the most feed grain and cotton sales, are likely to gain more than 10 percent in cash receipts for crops while other regions' receipts will probably grow 1 percent to 4 percent,'' the department said.

Farm production expenses were projected to climb about 2 percent this year for a total of $144 billion to $148 billion.

Fuel prices were projected to rise 5 percent from last year's $6 billion. The department said if crude oil prices rose by $10 a barrel for the rest of the year, fuel costs this year would be 10 percent higher than 1989.

However, prices have not shown that large an increase, despite an initial surge after Iraq invaded Kuwait.

Meanwhile, a Library of Congress report said oil price increases could pinch farm income. Analysts have calculated that a $5 a barrel increase could mean an additional $900 million in farm production costs, if the increase lasts for an entire year.

That size of an increase ''would represent only a 0.6 percent increase in total costs but nearly a 2 percent reduction in estimated 1990 net farm income,'' the report said.

SAN ANTONIO (AUG. 29) UPI - Members of a military reserve unit in Texas were so eager to support Operation Desert Shield that, rather than wait for a call-up, they volunteered, leaving behind families and better-paying civilian jobs to make the exhausting trips to Saudi Arabia transporting cargo and troops.

Those still in San Antonio Wednesday were stunned to learn nine of their peers died in the fiery crash of a giant C-5A cargo plane shortly after takeoff in West Germany en route to the Middle East with food and medical supplies.

''This is a terrible, stunning tragedy for all of us,'' said Maj. Meade Warthen of the 433rd Military Airlift Wing based at Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio.

''It's hard for most of us to accept this,'' Warthen said. ''Many of the people have been with the unit for many years. It's a deep, personal loss.''

A total of 13 people were killed when the C-5A cargo plane crashed early Wednesday while carrying supplies to the Middle East. A 10th member of the San Antonio reserve unit was among the four people injured.

The nine fatalities from Kelly were the first reservists killed in support of Operation Desert Shield - the mobilization of U.S. forces in the Middle East in response to Iraq's invasion of oil-rich Kuwait on Aug. 2.

San Antonio Mayor Lila Cockrell said it was an especially bitter blow that all but one of the nine victims hailed from the city ringed by five military bases.

''It's so ironic that San Antonio should be the place where these tragedies hit the hardest because we have been so supportive as a city of the national defense effort,'' Cockrell said. ''Tragically, we are the first to be hit with these losses.''

The nine dead from the 433rd included aircraft commander reserve Maj. John M. Gordon of Spring, Texas, and the two pilots, reserve Maj. Richard W. Chase and reserve Maj. Richard M. Price, both of San Antonio.

The other six victims from the 433rd, all from San Antonio, were identified as flight engineers Senior Master Sgt. Carpio Villarreal Jr. and Master Sgt. Rosendo Herrera; crew chiefs Tech. Sgt. Lonty A. Knutson and Daniel Garza, and loadmasters Tech. Sgt. Daniel G. Perez and Staff Sgt. Edward E. Sheffield.

Among the four injured, all of whom were being treated at an Army hospital in West Germany, was loadmaster Staff Sgt. Lorenzo Galvan Jr. of San Antonio and from the 433rd.

Staff Sgt. Timothy Warren, a spokesman for the 433rd, said the deaths were ''a shock to everybody here'' because ''everybody's very close in the wing.''

This particular Air Force reserve wing is a rarity in that most of its members live in the same area. The 433rd, nicknamed the ''Alamo Wing,'' consistently has enjoyed the highest retention rates among reserve units.

''I have flown with them. I have flown with Gordon,'' reserve Lt. Mike Franco of the 433rd said about the aircraft commander who died. ''He was a very nice man. He knew his job well.''

The C-5A that crashed was headed to another base in Frankfurt, West Germany, before it was to fly to the Middle East with supplies for U.S. troops. The 433rd members aboard had departed San Antonio Aug. 17 for West Germany.

The 433rd had been volunteering its services since Aug. 5, implementing 24-hour work shifts to get its fleet of 15 C-5As, the largest airplanes outside the Soviet Union, ready to transport cargo and active-duty troops to the Middle East.

Since Aug. 8, when the 433rd flew its first mission to Saudi Arabia, more than 200 members of the unit had actively participated in the trips from Kelly to supply pick-up points around the United States to the Middle East and back.

''In fact, we've had more volunteers than we can use right now,'' wing commander Col. Michael Quarnaccio said earlier this week.

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AUG. 29) UPI - Syntex Corp. reported Wednesday fourth-quarter earnings of $75.1 million, or 67 cents a share, up 49 percent from the $50.4 million, or 46 cents a share, the pharmaceutical company earned in the fourth quarter of fiscal 1989.

Sales climbed to $397.3 million from $321.1 million in the year- earlier quarter.

Four new products introduced in the United States since January 1989 contributed $40 million in sales in the latest quarter, the company said.

For the year ended July 31, net income rose 13 percent $341.5 million, or $3.05 a share, from $303.2 million, or $2.67 a share.

Sales reached $1.52 billion from $1.35 billion.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 29) UPI - The travel industry continues to be one of the fastest-growing sector of the nation's economy, as domestic and foreign visitors spent $350 billion on travel during 1989, 7 percent more than in 1988, the U.S. Travel Data Center said this week.

''The travel industry has doubled in sales receipts since 1980,'' said Suzanne D. Cook, executive director of the center, the non-profit research affiliate of the Travel Industry Association of America.

''It is the third largest U.S. retail industry and the second largest in terms of employment.''

According to the center's ''1989-90 Economic Review of Travel in America '' over the past decade travel industry employment grew 43 percent, more than twice the growth rate for all U.S. industries.

The report claimed that travel spending in the U.S. directly generated 5.8 million jobs in 1989, paying nearly $74 billion in wages. It also produced $43 billion in federal, state and local tax revenue.

Travel industry employment, which generates more jobs than any other industry except health services, grew 2.5 percent in 1989.

The report noted, nevertheless, that employment and real output in the industry have grown more slowly during the current economic expansion than during the 1970s.

The slowdown is attributed, in part, to the slow-growing economy and to consumers having found entertainment alternatives to leisure travel away from home.

In 1989, the number of foreign visitors to the United States reached a record high of 38 million, up 12 percent from the previous year. Their expenditures totaled $34 billion and generated 570,000 jobs, the report said.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AUG. 29) UPI - Insurance conglomerate American International Group Inc. and aircraft leasing giant International Lease Finance Corp. said Wednesday that they may drop the stock price threshold requirement of their previously announced $1.3 billion merger deal.

The companies said they may agree to merge even if the closing price of American International stock is below $66.45 a share on Thursday, as had been specified in the merger agreement.

The companies said the final determination of whether the deal goes through would be made after the market closes Thursday. New York-based American International has scheduled a shareholders meeting Friday to consider the deal.

The deal calls for American International to pay $32.50 cash for every International Lease Finance share. A shareholder can choose to receive 50 cents plus 0.375 shares of American International stock instead.

International Lease Finance, the world's second-largest aircraft leasing company after GPA Group PLC of Ireland, has a fleet of 98 jets worth more than $3 billion.

International Lease Finance said last week that it expects revenues for the third quarter ending Friday to reach $113 million.

EAST TROY, Wis. (AUG. 29) UPI - The pilot of a helicopter that slammed

Vaughan, a two-time Grammy Award winner, the pilot and three others died in Monday morning's cay and Buddy Guy.

Four pilots flew members of Clapton's entourage and Stevie Ray Vaughan out of the music complex. Walworth County Sheriff's Department Lt. David Starks said the pilots were concerned about the weather, but felt they would have no problem flying.

''The pilots said once they lifted above the clouds they'd be OK,'' Starks said. ''That's a pilot's decision to make.''

''Because of the fog, all four pilots confirmed among themselves that weather conditions were not going to cancel the flight,'' he said. ''That was a decision based on the four of them mutually coming to a decision that there was no problem flying.''

Starks, who said it appeared fog was just forming as the helicopters took off, said debris from the crash had been removed from the ski hill and taken to Janesville for analysis.

An air safety investigator with the National Transportation Safety Board has said weather played a role in the crash and it appeared the helicopter did not fall onto the side of the 388-foot hill.

The pilot, Jeffrey W. Brown of East Chicago, Ind., worked for Omni Flight Helicopters Inc. and had transported performers at other Alpine Valley concerts.

''We fly lots of talent up to Alpine Valley, and Jeff had been involved in some of those,'' said Phil Huth, who piloted another of the four helicopters that was at Alpine Valley Monday morning.

Omni Flight Helicopters released a statement Wednesday that said, ''There are no known factors of contribution to the accident. It would be inappropriate to speculate further pending release of findings by tZY4xo--5/81/8Z/OW action was taken.

The helicopter, a 1978 Bell 206-B, had no history of accidents, nor did Omni Flight Helicopters, officials said.

Besides Vaughan and Brown, those killed in the crash were Bobby Brooks, 34 Clapton's booking agent, Nigel Browne, Clapton's bodyguard, and Colin Smythe, one of Clapton's tour managers.

Clapton's tour continued Tuesday night with a show in Bonner Springs, Kan. but the guitarist did not mention the accident, officials said. ''He would just say what song he was going to play and he would play it,'' said Danyea Phillips, a spokeswoman for Sandstone Amphitheatre.

A private funeral service will be held for Vaughan Friday in Dallas, followed by a public graveside committal.

Vaughan, 35, won a Grammy for best traditional blues recording in 1984 for ''Texas Flood,'' and won this year in the contemporary blues category for his record ''In Step.'' He shared a Grammy in 1985 for his participation in the album, ''Blues Explosion.''

The Vaughan brothers' long-awaited collaboration album ''Family Style'' is due out Sept. 25, and Stevie Ray Vaughan was to start a European tour next week.

(AUG. 29) UPI - Iraq today began a process that it suggests could lead to the release of foreign women and children held in Iraq and Kuwait. The Iraqis asked nations- including the United States- to supply the names of women and children in its custody who want exit visas. In Washington, the State Department says it will provide a list as soon as possible.

A last-minute agreement apparently has ended a seven-week-long stand-off between the Mohawk tribe and the Canadian government. Indian warriors and Canadian soldiers put down their weapons and began dismantling barricades erected in a bitter land dispute near Montreal that threatened to turn bloody. The Indians had set up the barricades to keep the government from expanding a golf course onto land the Mohawks claim is an ancestral burial ground.

A state of emergency is in effect in the Soviet republic of Armenia and tanks are patrolling Yerevan. Today's declaration by the Armenian Parliament follows pitched battles between rival nationalist groups in the capital city that left at least five people dead... including a deputy of the parliament. It was the first time armed factions of separate Armenian nationalist groups had turned their weapons on each other.

Religious cult leader Jeffrey Don Lundgren could be sentenced to death following his conviction today in the ritualistic slayings of a family of five last year. A jury in Painesville, Ohio, needed just two- and-a-half hours to find the 40-year-old Lundgren guilty. The sentencing phase of the trial is tentatively scheduled for September 10th.

In another development in the case, Lundgren's wife, Alice, was sentenced this morning to 150 years to life for her role in the slayings of Dennis and Cheryl Avery and their three young daughters.

(AUG. 29) UPI - A NASA official says the space agency hopes to get the Magellan probe back on track mapping the planet Venus by the end of September. Ground controllers are still trying to figure out what caused the probe to lose contact with Earth three times... once burning up a dangerous amount of fuel. But officials in Pasadena, California, have put together a schedule to get back to the planned mission.

Despite its flaws, NASA says the Hubble Space Telescope has discovered an especially dense galaxy that could contain a mysterious black hole... as well as an UNexpected ring around an exploded star. Project scientist Edward Weiler in Greenbelt, Maryland, says the new discoveries show the telescope can still make valuable contributions to science while its blurry vision is being fixed.

OAKLAND, CA (AUG. 29) UPI - The Oakland Athletics bolstered their designated hitter slot Wednesday by acquiring Harold Baines from the Texas Rangers for two players to be named later, the team announced.

''Harold fits our club perfectly,'' manager Tony LaRussa said. ''He is a veteran lefthanded hitter who has always been a clutch run producer.''

A team spokesman said the A's hadn't had a solid DH all season, the spot being filled mostly with players who were being rested such as Jose Canseco or Rickey Henderson.

''We rest players a lot,'' the spokesman said.

The club also was looking for power from the left side of the plate, he said.

Baines, 31, was hitting .290 for the Rangers with 13 homers and 44 RBI in 103 games, starting 95 of them as the DH and two in the outfield.

LaRussa and Baines are no strangers.

''Every year that I managed in the White Sox organization, from 1978 at double-A Knoxville to Chicago in 1986, I had Harold on my club and I saw him establish himself as one of the top late inning clutch hitters in the league,'' he said.

Baines left Chicago for Texas 13 months ago, to the day, and was the all-time White Sox home run hitter with 186 until he was eclipsed by Carleton Fisk. A four-time All Star, Baines was named the league's best designated hitter in 1987 and 1988 in a media poll.

CHICAGO (AUG. 30) UPI - The Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday announced creation of a business plan designed to guide the organization into the 21st century.

Exchange officials said it should also be of interest to the general public because the futures industry helps consumers minimize risk and get a better price for their product.

There were three overall recommendations of the task force headed by Dr. Robert Hamada, deputy dean of the University of Chicago Graduate School of Business and a public director of the CBOT:

-The CBOT must be more aggressive and proactive to succeed in the increasingly competitive and technologically oriented environment.

-The goal of the CBOT should be to maximize the long-term value of member opportunity.

-The exchange should establish an active, ongoing strategic planning committee that is given the highest priority and visibility.

CBOT Chairman William O'Connor also proposed a Financial Compliance Committee with only one charge - to make sure member firms are in total compliance with the exchange's capital rules.

''We thought the scope of the Business Conduct Committee probably was too broad and there should be a committee that had total control of the financial compliance of our member firms,'' O'Connor said. ''The powers of the new committee will be broadened to allow members to ask the holding company of a specific firm for material pertaining to their financial requirements.''

The proposal requires approval of the Board of Directors, the exchange membership and the Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

O'Connor also said the Business Conduct Committee is investigating the situation involving the Stotler Group but had brought nothing to the Executive Committee.

Regarding claims by some former brokers that they were owed commissions by Stotler, he said there are no rules or regulations in the futures or securities industries dealing with commissions.

However, the exchange has a procedure whereby the claims can be taken to arbitration, and O'Connor said there have been a number of arbitration claims filed regarding Stotler commissions.

Exchange President and CEO Thomas Donovan said because the futures markets are a risk management tool they affect everyone.

''They definitely affect everyone whether it is the United States government issuing debt and primary dealers buying it and hedging it in our market which results in us paying less taxes, or in the agricultural end of our business where the consumer gets a better price because people are able to minimize their risk,'' he said. ''We realize we have to face the future early enough so we don't get caught short like the steel or automobile industry that now has had to play catch-up with foreign competitors.''

Included in the 12 specific recommendations of the task force was one that said paperless trading is essential to the future of pit trading. The task force said the exchange must aggressively pursue technologies that will reduce costs to members and their customers, including electronic order entry systems, hand-held units or broker work stations.

In that regard, the committee also said the CBOT should continue to develop Aurora, an after-hours trading system, as a step toward a full global network system. The development should continue at least until there is a working prototype on a local area network.

Such a system should closely replicate the open outcry auction environment.

''We feel that auction systems provide an incentive to market- makers which will ultimately provide more liquidity to the market,'' the task force said.

MANILA, PHILIPPINES (AUG. 29) UPI - Heavy rains spawned by Typhoon Abe triggered floods and landslides that killed 85 people in the earthquake-ravaged northern Philippines over the past four days, the Red Cross said Thursday.

Some 1,500 people were rendered homeless when the mudslips and swollen rivers washed away 250 homes in villages along Dalton Pass, gateway to the lush Cagayan Valley 110 miles north of Manila, the Red Cross said.

The agency said hundreds of commuters bound for the rice-producing valley were marooned in the recently opened road, which was severely damaged during the July 16 earthquake.

The crush of tons of mud and boulders was triggered by a week of heavy rains spawned by the typhoon in the Pacific Ocean swirling toward southern Japan.

Red Cross spokesman Eduardo Angco said the 85 fatalities were either buried in landslides or drowned when they were swept away by floods. The dead included 12 high school students caught in a dormitory that was crushed by a landslide on Monday, Angco said.

More than 1,600 people were killed in the July temblor, which measured 7.7 on the Richter scale, and devastated wide areas of central and northern Luzon.

(AUG. 29) UPI - Iraqi President Saddam Hussein says there will be NO withdrawal from Kuwait. And in an interview, he denied any behind-the-scenes negotiations with the West... as has been reported. Yet, Saddam insisted he did NOT want war and appealed to President Bush to avoid conflict.

Earlier today, Iraq asked the United States and other countries to supply the names of women and children under its custody seeking exit visas. The State Department says the United States will provide a list of the Americans as soon as possible.

Iraq's ambassador to Washington offered the prospect of a wider solution to the hostage crisis by suggesting that men ''guests'' would also be permitted to leave- if the United States promised it would NOT attack Iraq. The State Department rejected the offer.

NO word yet on the details of an agreement that apparently has ended a tense stand-off between Mohawks and Canadian troops near Montreal. The dispute was sparked by a proposed expansion of a golf course on land the Mohawks claim is an ancient burial ground. It turned violent July 11th when a gunbattle left a police officer dead.

Police in Melrose, Florida... about 20 miles east of Gainesville... say a man and a woman were found dead late today- victims of a double homicide. But they say the murders do NOT appear to be related to those in Gainesville.

In Gainesville, deadbolt locks, Mace and stun guns are selling like hotcakes as police continue to search for the killer of five college students. Authorities theorize that the killer knew his victims and likes dark-haired young women.

(AUG. 29) UPI - Iraq has asked the United States for the names of American women and children who will seek exit visas from Iraq and Kuwait. South African conservatives today denounced a proposal by Johannesburg to open its all-white suburbs to blacks. MEMPHIS, TENN. (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Seven Oaks International Inc. (NASDAQ/NMS:QPON) Thursday reported a loss of $985,000, or 15 cents per share, for the first quarter of its 1991 fiscal year.

The loss compares with income in the year-earlier quarter of $90,000, or 1 cent per share, from continuing operations. Revenues for the three months ended July 31, 1990, totaled $4,392,000 compared with $6,103,000 a year ago.

The company said that the results reported from continuing operations exclude the losses related to the operation and sale of the company's redemption agency subsidiary in fiscal 1990.

Frank J. Donato, chief executive officer, said, ''We have now identified and are working to put in place the combination of revenue enhancements and cost reductions which will move Seven Oaks back soundly into the black.

''The decline in revenue from a year ago is a direct result of the steps taken to eliminate unprofitable accounts and to implement changes in our payment terms and fees for processing coupons. The 293 million coupons processed in the first quarter was down sharply from the same period last year.

''However, it was only slightly below the volume of 306 million coupons in the fourth quarter of last year which historically is a seasonally strong period for clearinghouse activity.

''Results in the first quarter were affected by one-time costs from consulting services focused on accelerating our internal efforts to raise processing efficiency. We are making gains in improving productivity and are supporting that momentum through stringent actions to reduce costs.

''Overhead expenses should drop substantially over the remainder of fiscal 1991 because of the conclusion of the outside consulting work and the realization of the full benefit of personnel cutbacks which have been made.''

Seven Oaks International operates as a clearinghouse between retailers and product manufacturers in processing cents-off coupons. The company's common shares are traded over-the-counter under the National Market System symbol QPON.

REDMOND, WA (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Microsoft Corp. Thursday announced the formation of a consulting services group aimed at helping large corporate customers better use Microsoft products to build complex information systems.

The group, Information Technology Integration Services (ITIS), is headed by Robert L. McDowell, formerly a partner and national director of strategic business systems consulting at Ernst and Young. ''Consulting services are a natural extension of the breadth of our personal computing and connectivity offerings,'' said Bill Gates, Microsoft chairman and CEO.

The new group's initial offerings will include executive education, planning, design, custom development, and systems and applications support.

Executive education. Programs for business managers will draw on leading experts from the business and academic communities. Microsoft will provide clients with an understanding of the business impact of client-server technology. Programs for information managers will offer insight and information to help organizations successfully implement the transition of their information management systems to these new technologies.

Planning. ITIS will help companies develop business and technology plans that take advantage of current and future personal computing technologies. Planning will focus on prioritizing application development that leverages the strengths of a client-server architecture and helps provide, in a measurable way, a competitive advantage to the organization.

Design. ITIS will offer a full range of application design services. This assistance could range from the initial development of the application design to periodic design reviews and quality-assurance reviews. Design consulting will focus on individual projects or on a broad range of projects developing in parallel.

Custom development. ITIS will initially provide a limited number of resources to serve as custom developers. Normally, ITIS will provide its other consulting services to support client or client-provided applications developers, but when required ITIS will provide programming resources for such things as the development of device drivers, modules associated with a larger application, and limited product modification.

Microsoft Corp. (NASDAQ:MSFT) develops, markets and supports a wide range of software for business and professional use, including operating systems network products, languages and application programs, as well as books, CD ROM products and hardware for the microcomputer marketplace.

FORT SMITH, AK (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Beverly Enterprises Inc. (NYSE:BEV), the nation's leading provider of long-term care for the elderly, Thursday announced the implementation of a landmark national program in cooperation with the American Red Cross to train and certify 40,000 nurse assistants during the next 27 months.

Two years of planning and development went into the $1.9 million program that represents the first comprehensive effort by a private, long-term care organization. This will integrate the health care industry's need for certified frontline caregivers and the health and safety training resources of the American Red Cross, according to Beverly Chief Executive Officer and Chairman of the Board David Banks.

Under an agreement entered into this past June, the American Red Cross will train 350 of Beverly's registered nurses to become instructors of the American Red Cross Nurse Assistant Training Program in the states in which Beverly operates nursing facilities.

All facets of the new program will be monitored by the American Red Cross, which has been associated with Beverly since 1988 in development of uniform instruction standards and teaching materials. The continuing Beverly-Red Cross partnership ''reflects Beverly's desire to see the new federal legislation implemented with the highest level of professionalism and with the utmost sensitivity and compassion for our residents,'' Banks said.

According to Margaret Casey, Red Cross Nurse Assistant Training Program Operations Manager and member of the program's original development team, this program incorporates into its training philosophy the values of sensitivity and compassion. ''The program is also designed to motivate the participant and to leave him or her with a fuller appreciation of the nurse assistant's important role in caring for elderly and disabled adults.''

Between now and the year 2010, the 65-plus population of the United States is projected to include more than 39 million men and women, and the number of Americans over 85 will double to 6.8 million.

Beverly Enterprises is a long-term health care company operating nursing facilities, institutional pharmacies, retirement living centers and home health centers. Its mission is to be the provider of choice in the communities where it operates, by delivering high quality health care services that meet the unique needs of each of those communities.

SAN FRANCISCO (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Laurel Burch, chairman and sole owner of The Laurel Burch Cos., announced Thursday the appointment of David Folkman as president and chief executive officer of Laurel Burch Inc., the wholesale manufacturing entity; Laurel Burch Galleries Inc., the wholesale manufacturing entity; Laurel Burch Galleries Inc., the retail division; and Laurel Burch International Inc.

Jack Holton, acting CEO, moves to co-chairman and Vicki Hoffman has been promoted to executive director of operations for The Laurel Burch Cos. The ten year old San Francisco based company retails and wholesales jewelry, paper goods, porcelain pieces, wood carvings, and apparel related items. Burch, who is an internationally recognized artist, is the sole designer for all design collections.

David Folkman is a highly regarded veteran retailer. His positions in merchandising and store operations include president and chief executive officer of Emporium Capwell, a 22-department store chain based in California from 1982-1987 and senior vice president of merchandising at Macy's California from 1974-1982.

He was most recently general partner of U.S. Venture Partners where he concentrated his efforts on the retail portion of the Menlo Park venture firm's investment portfolio. Folkman began his retail career at Foley's in Houston in the 1960s and was associated with Famous-Barr in St. Louis in the early 1970s before joining Macy's California.

Folkman met Laurel Burch during his tenure as president of the Emporium. They worked together at that time to develop the first Laurel Burch in-store shop. That concept has evolved into highly profitable department store galleries. Marshall Field opened a 550 square foot gallerie in Chicago in April of this year and projects sales of $2000. per square foot.

Over 50 requests from department store chains for in-store shops have been received by Burch and Holton. They are currently planning 25 shops to open nationwide in the Fall of 1990.

Jack Holton's focus as co-chairman will be developing new ventures, including the retail and international divisions for The Laurel Burch Cos. He is currently overseeing the opening of four 350 square foot Laurel Burch Galleries within Kintetsu Department Stores in Osaka, Japan. The galleries are scheduled to open this September and plans are underway for 13 additional galleries in Kintetsu stores in 1991.

Vicki Hoffman, the new executive director of operations, has been with Laurel Burch for nine years. Hoffman will oversee the operations of all divisions of The Laurel Burch Cos. Burch's management team also includes Tony Farrell, who is the executive creative director. A search is currently underway for an executive director of the wholesale division.

RICHARDSON, TX (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Rockwell International Corp.'s Collins Defense Communications (CDC) has been awarded a $2.6 million contract to produce AN/ARQ-50(V) HF high-performance communications systems for U.S. Navy P-3 follow-on aircraft.

Under terms of the contract, issued by the U.S. Naval Air Systems Command in Washington, D.C., CDC will produce two aircraft shipsets and one shipset of hardware for a Systems Integration Lab.

Each shipset consists of two AN/ARC-207 high-performance HF radio systems, one CMS-80 Control Display Unit and associated ancillary equipment.

The AN/ARQ-50(V) cmmunications system features a control bus architecture that has been implemented on Anti-Submarine Warfare (ASW) platforms.

It allows the two AN/ARC-207 and one AN/ARC-182 on board the P-3 aircraft to be operated from a single control display unit. It also provides automated performance monitoring that eliminates the need for constant attendance by an operator. The system has undergone extensive Navy flight testing and has been approved for Service use.

The AN/ARQ-50(V) high-performance shipsets will be produced at CDC facilities in Richardson, Texas, and Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

SAN DIEGO (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - As part of its Pure Water 2000 program, Coors Brewing Co. and its San Diego distributors will be donating 10 cents per case for all Coors products sold between Sept. 2 and Sept. 8 to the restoration of the Whelan Lake Bird Sanctuary adjacent to Camp Pendleton in Oceanside.

Coors two San Diego distributors -- Dan McKinney Co. and Crest Beverage Co. -- are participating in this program. All sales within San Diego County will benefit a local Pure Water 2000 program to restore Whelan Lake.

The non-profit Whelan Lake Bird Sanctuary was formed when Ellen Whelan died in 1985 and bequeathed the 130-acre property, including a 39-acre lake, to the group. Her will provided that the lake, formerly the winter home of thousands of Canada Geese, be preserved as a haven for birds and wildlife. However since her death, the lake has become polluted and the surrounding birdlife has diminished substantially.

Graduate students from the University of San Diego and San Diego State University, among others, will help return the lake to its former beauty. The estimated three-year program will involve draining and dredging the lake, removing the sediment on the bottom and refilling the lake with reclaimed water. The ultimate goal is to return Whelan Lake to a functioning aquatic system that can be used as a laboratory for conservation education.

Coors program is the effort to first to raise money for the Whelan Lake project. It is part of the brewer's Pure Water 2000 program which is a national, cooperative effort to educate and motivate Americans on water quality and quantity issues. To launch the program, Coors has provided a $1 million grant to The Institute for Resource Management, a non-profit, environmental problem-solving organization founded by Robert Redford, to develop a clean water action strategy that will address current and future water problems.

''As part of our Pure Water 2000 program, we are looking for ways that we can make a positive difference in the quality of our water, '' said Jennifer Rechholtz, Coors Area Manager in San Diego. ''Whelan Lake is a perfect situation where we can help take an area that is terribly polluted and transform it into a beautiful and productive environment.''

Work is scheduled to begin on the Whelan Lake restoration project in the Fall of 1990. For more information, call Dr. Joseph Jehl at 619/226-3870.

BURLINGAME, CA (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - San Mateo Financial Corp., whose principal subsidiary is Great Pacific Bank, s.s.b. (Great Pacific Bank) announced that earnings for the second quarter ended June 30 were $211,670 compared with a loss of $(183,270) for the second quarter of the previous year.

The net earnings per share for the quarter ended June 30 was 12 cents, calculated on the 1,773,619 shares of common stock then outstanding. The net loss per share for the quarter ended June 30, 1989 was (17 cents), calculated on 1,095,619 shares of common stock which were outstanding as of that date.

The pre-tax earnings for the quarter ended June 30, were $378,670, compared with a pre-tax loss of $(268,171) for the second quarter of 1989.

Some of the factors that were responsible for the increased earnings for the quarter ended June 30 included an increase in the interest rate spread between cost of funds and yield on investments as of June 30 to 2.677 percent, up from 1.438 percent as of June 30, 1989, an increase of 86 percent.

In addition to its increased net interest rate spread, Great Pacific Bank recognized income derived from its expanding loan servicing portfolio.

The primary factor causing the net loss for the second quarter of the previous year was a narrow net interest rate spread created in part by an increasing interest rate environment in which Great Pacific Bank's loan portfolio did not reprice as quickly as its deposit base.

The earnings for the six months ended June 30 were $507,110, compared with a loss of $(193,419) for the like period ended June 30, 1898. The net earnings per share for the six months ended June 30 was 29 cents, calculated on the 1,773,619 shares of common stock then outstanding.

SANTA BARBARA, CA (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - At the annual meeting of stockholders held Thursday in Minneapolis, Minn., Christopher J. Conway, chairman and chief executive officer of Mentor Corp. (NASDAQ:MNTR) said that ''the company's 1990/1991 calendar of new product introductions is the strongest in recent years.''

Among the most significant, Conway noted was Urethrin, the company's trademarked application of Polytef, which was recently recommended by an Food and Drug Administration (FDA) advisory panel for treatment of urinary incontinence. ''Urethrin does not require surgery but rather is injected around the urethral sphincter to provide support and improve control.

''The treatment of incontinence by Urethrin injections is a major medical advance that could benefit millions of individuals.'' Conway said that Urethrin will be an important part of a family of Mentor urology products designed to treat or cure incontinence.

''In our cosmetic and reconstructive group Mentor has recently received FDA approval to market Fibrel, a new product for the treatment of cutaneous wrinkles. Such wrinkles can be significantly reduced by injections of Fibrel, a physiologically compatible implant material derived from dematured collagen. We believe that a significant and growing market exists for this newly introduced product,'' said Conway.

''With our recent purchase of Mentor O&O, a producer of ophthalmic surgical and diagnostic products, an expansion of our manufacturing capability in a new Dallas facility, and a full schedule of 1990/91 new product introductions, we expect the current fiscal year to be another record year in sales and earnings,'' he said.

Elected to the Mentor board of directors for the current fiscal year were:

Christopher J. Conway, chairman; Anthony R. Gette; Eugene G. Glover; Walter W. Faster; Michael Nakonechny; Byron G. Shaffer and Dr. Richard W. Young.

Mentor Corp. produces surgically implantable devices, surgical and diagnostic instruments, and disposable medical products, primarily for the specialties of urology, plastic and reconstructive surgery, and ophthalmology.

CHICAGO (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - United Airlines has filed its exhibits with the U.S. Department of Transportation for Washington-Manchester, England, service as part of the United States-United Kingdom Regional Airport Service Proceeding.

United is seeking a daily, non-stop route between Manchester International Airport in northern England and Washington, D.C.'s Dulles International Airport, with continuing through-plane service to Los Angeles.

United Airlines Chairman and President Stephen M. Wolf's written testimony led the carrier's series of exhibits, which also included written testimony by United Airlines Senior Vice President-Services Planning Jim Goodwin and Vice President-Atlantic David Coltman.

He pointed out that United's proposed service would:

-- introduce into the overall U.S.-U.K. market a carrier with an unequaled record as an international competitor;

-- compete directly with other U.S. and foreign carriers for U.S.-U.K. traffic that currently uses the congested London and Glasgow airports;

-- provide travelers and shippers with a new U.S. gateway to Manchester;

-- connect Washington, United's expanding East Coast hub, with a major U.K. airport that has the potential for similar hub development;

-- link northern England with convenient through-plane or single-plane services to its major U.S. travel destinations -- California and Florida;

-- offer a competitive service in the U.K.-Australia and U.K.-New Zealand markets.

Wolf noted that the Manchester route ''fits into United's overall plan for mounting a broad-scale pattern of trans-Atlantic service.'' This year alone, United has added new service to both Frankfurt and Paris. On May 15, United inaugurated daily service to Frankfurt from Chicago and Washington D.C. On Aug. 1, United launched new service between Chicago and Paris.

Under the new U.S.-U.K. bilateral agreement, U.S. carriers can add service for two new routes to airports in the U.K. other than London.

DENVER (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Mountain Medical Equipment Inc. (AMEX:MTN) announced at its annual shareholders' meeting yesterday that it has developed a new oxygen delivery system and expects to unveil a prototype at the upcoming trade show in Atlanta this November.

The new product is expected to be introduced into the marketplace within 24 months as an addition to the company's existing concentrator line.

The new system, according to President and Chief Executive Officer Milton G. Adair, ''is designed to have distinct advantages over the existing concentrator technology. The system will deliver oxygen at 99.9 percent purity at any flow setting. The maximum purity that a concentrator can deliver today is 95.5 percent.

''The unit will be the same size as our currently available concentrators and is completely silent, making it ideal for use in nursing homes, hospitals or in the home.

''We anticipate clear advantages for our dealers; mechanical repairs and costly service trips will be virtually eliminated; oxygen analyzers will not be required as the system will always deliver 99.9 percent oxygen purity; and even the need for filter cleaning and changing may be eliminated,'' Adair added.

''With few or no moving parts, we expect little or no field breakdowns. There is virtually nothing mechanical to break down and cause a service repair call,'' he said.

''We have listened to our customers over the years and we believe that this new product incorporates their wishes. As the world's largest manufacturer of oxygen concentrators, we thought it was incumbent upon us to bring the next generation of oxygen delivery systems to the market. Although we are some time away from commercial production, we have developed several prototypes and we currently believe this new product is commercially feasible.''

Mountain Medical is a leading supplier of oxygen concentrators and other respiratory therapy equipment for the home healthcare market. Through its wholly owned subsidiary, Aegis Medical Inc., the company markets the Avatar R Personal Bowel Care System, an innovative method of bowel care management for home or institutional use.

SALT LAKE CITY (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Grand Valley Gas Co. (OTC:GVGC) has completed a record-setting fiscal year ended May 31.

Net income more than doubled to $2,068,630, or 33 cents per share, vs. $1,009,124, or 16 cents per share, for the same period a year ago. Total shares outstanding at May 31, 1990, were 5,162,751 and fully diluted shares were 6,200,751. Revenue rose to $97,359,045 for the year ended May 31, 1990, vs. $95,969,942 for year ended May 31, 1989.

During fiscal 1990, the shareholder's equity more than doubled to $4,048,743. As the result of management's commitment to build the company asset base, investments in gathering facilities and oil and gas properties now total $615,231. These assets contributed over $350,000 to company revenue during fiscal 1990.

Grand Valley's gas sales volumes increased 23 percent during 1990 to 89 billion cubic feet. The company purchased its gas supplies from over 90 major and independent producers and marketed its gfas supplies to 13 utility customers and over 125 industrial end-users. During this past year, over 60 percent of the company's sales were made under contracts with terms ranging from 1 to 15 years, representing a significant contribution to stability and growth.

As more of Grand Valley's traditional gas marketing business converts to long term contracts, management is increasing its efforts to expand the company's asset base. Activities are underway to investigate invesment opportunities within the energy industry. Management believes that its industry knowledge and expertise can enhance the profitability of these potential investments.

Grand Valley Gas Co. is a natural gas production, gathering and marketing company servicing the western United States and Canada. Grand Valley is one of the largest independent marketers of natural gas in the western region, providing competitive and reliable gas supplies to select utility and industrial markets.

The company also owns oil and gas production interests and installs and operates natural gas gathering and compression facilities serving the needs of gas producers and markets.

OVERLAND PARK, KN (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - US Sprint Thursday announced a free service designed to provide the public with late-breaking information on the Middle East conflict.

Up-to-the-minute news bulletins - ''Crisis Update: The Persian Gulf'' - will be faxed to all callers across the country who dial 1-800-676-2255.

To receive this free public service, callers dial the toll-free number and follow the voice-prompt to enter their 10-digit facsimile number. US Sprint then will speed the latest ''Crisis Update'' news bulletin to the callers' designated fax machines.

The bulletin is updated hourly from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., EDT, Monday through Friday. FAXIS, a New York-based fax information services company, compiles ''Crisis Update: The Persian Gulf,'' using the resources of many of the world's leading news wire services.

US Sprint is providing this service through its business unit, Sprint Gateways, which developed SprintFAXsm, US Sprint's facsimile products and services provider.

''We believe this is the first widespread use of the fax for dissemination of urgent news bulletins,'' said Sprint Gateways Vice President Adrian Toader. ''This one-page news bulletin reports the very latest political, military and economic developments concerning this crisis.''

Through its relationship with FAXIS, US Sprint has acquired the exclusive rights to many of the world's major news wires for fax purposes.

''The 'Crisis Update: The Persian Gulf' news bulletin service is being introduced at the same time SprintFAX is rolling out an exciting new product line that links worldwide newsgathering resources with SprintFAX '' Toader said.

The new product line includes Broadcast Distribution, which sends information to thousands of locations within minutes on SprintFAX, and Document on Demand, a service enabling callers to automatically request information via facsimile by calling a toll-free 800 or a pay-per-call 900 number.

US Sprint provides an array of facsimile products and services through Sprint Gateways. US Sprint is a unit of United Telecommunications Inc., a diversified international telecommunications company based in Westwood, Kan.

SAN DIEGO (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - TCS Enterprises Inc. reports a loss of $256,000, or nine cents per share, through its third-quarter vs. earnings of $748,000, or 23 cents per common share, through the like reporting period last year.

Tom C. Stickel, chairman and chief executive officer, had the following comments relative to the third-quarter report. "Third-quarter expenses related to our expanding publishing company has had an immediate impact on our bottom line.

"Obviously, financial services, the majority of our business, is currently under stress in the general economy and we therefore are committed to expand services such as publications. This commitment does not come cheap.

"Additionally, Great American Bank troubles have been difficult for us through our collective joint venture project known as MCCA. We, like all San Diego companies and individuals, are saddened to see Great American Bank have difficulties. However, unlike the casual observer, we are economically impacted by their predicament.

"Finally, we are hopeful the thrift-related crisis and its impact on our company will sooon start to level out, at least to the point of allowing us to return to the profit level we have achieved in the past five years. However, we do not underestimate the tough times we are in and that lay ahead. SANTA ANA, CA (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - EECO Inc. announced Thursday it has filed a plan of reorganization with the U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Santa Ana.

EECO had previously filed a petition for protection under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code on May 2, 1990.

George DeHuff, president and chief executive officer of EECO, stated that the plan was filed within the 120-day exclusivity period required by the Bankruptcy Code. DeHuff explained that ''the plan addresses the claims of all classes of creditors via distributions of cash and common stock and provides for equity holders to retain an interest in the company on a diluted basis.

''The filing of the plan is a major step in the company's ongoing restructuring program. After the plan is approved by the court, the company will emerge from Chapter 11 and continue normal operations.'' DeHuff stated that he is unable to predict the date on which the plan may be approved, but said the company is hopeful that it will be by year end.

DeHuff stated that the restructured company will continue to manufacture electromechanical switches and electronic keypads in the United States and in addition, the company's EECO Ltd. subsidiary in Irvine, Scotland will manufacture electromechanical switches and keyboards for the European market.

TACOMA, Wash. (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Weyerhaeuser Co. response to statement by representative DeFazio at Eugene press conference (Aug. 30, 1990):

1. Although we haven't seen a bill yet, Mr. DeFazio's announcement of his intent to introduce legislation restricting private log exports comes as no surprise to us; his position on this subject is well known among private forest landowners. We and many other forest land owners will vigorously oppose any legislation of this type that attempts to limit the manner in which privately owned and managed timber can be sold.

2. Contrary to the recent statements made by Mr. DeFazio, Weyerhaeuser Company in 1989 exported only 6% of the logs exported from Oregon and 29% of the logs exported from the State of Washington, and accounted for only 20% of total West Coast softwood log exports. While a significant exporter of logs in the Northwest, it is more significant that Weyerhaeuser is the nation's largest exporter of manufactured forest products.

3. Mr. DeFazio's proposal implies that the expected reduction in federal timber sales in Oregon can be offset by restricting private log exports. This is simply not true because the total log export volume from Oregon has been approximately one billion board feet per year of which 90 percent is from private lands. The expected reduction in federal timber sales in Oregon resulting from the combined effect of new national forest management plans and spotted owl habitat protection requirements is 2 billion board feet.

4. About 75 percent of the region's log exports originate in Washington, and the majority of these are second-growth logs, which are either unsuited for or too distant from mills threatened by the expected reductions in federal timber sales.

5. Mr. DeFazio's proposed legislation carelessly disregards the importance of the established international trading relationships that the entire Northwest benefits from, including the fact that the forest products industry together with U.S. international trade officials have worked very hard in recent years to develop worldwide markets for the region's manufactured forest products. As a result, most of the region's forest products exports today are in manufactured form -- pulp and paper products, lumber, panels and others -- and Japan is the largest single customer for these manufactured products as well as for Northwest logs. In Weyerhaeuser's case, more than 70 percent of its exports are in manufactured product form. All of these are world-traded commodities, for which Japan and our other trading partners have alternative sources of supply.

6. This proposed legislation would be poor public policy and extremely short sighted in terms of its potential adverse effects on private forest management in the Northwest and on the region's long term timber supply and economy and on the many communities and people whose livelihood depends on international trade in forest products of all types.

Millions of dollars have been invested by both large industrial and small private landowners in improving the long-term productivity of Oregon and Washington's private forests.

Restricting the markets for private timber is a sure way of reducing both the means and the incentive to continue to make the substantial long-term investments that private forest management requires.

MIAMI SPRINGS, FL (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - International Recovery Corp. (NYSE:INT) and Jeppesen DataPlan jointly announced Thursday that IRC's World Fuel Services subsidiaries have been added to Jeppesen's expanding turn-key flight service program to provide aviation fueling services to corporate customers on a worldwide basis.

Jeppesen DataPlan, with facilities in the United States and England, provides flight planning, weather briefing and numerous other services for corporate, airline and governmental clients. Jeppesen DataPlan's parent organization, Jeppesen Sanderson, is the world's largest publisher of flight information and aeronautical charts for all segments of aviation.

Jeppesen's aeronautical charts and electronic navigation data are used by nearly all airlines around the world, as well as by the majority of corporate and general aviation pilots.

IRC holds a leading position in the marketing of aviation fuel to a worldwide niche market of non-major commercial operators of large aircraft. In addition, the Company has expanded its World Fuel Services Card program to allow corporate customers to receive discount priced aviation fuel throughout IRC's worldwide fueling network at 929 airports in more than 140 countries.

''Our further expansion in the corporate marketplace represents an opportunity which allows the Company to incrementally serve the fueling requirements of additional aviation customers,'' said IRC Chairman Ralph R. Weiser.

''We are also pleased to be a part of the Jeppesen DataPlan program, which is recognized the world over as a leader in technical flight information. Our association with Jeppesen will provide their customers with a program to obtain discount priced fuel as they fly throughout the world while enabling IRC to immediately serve a large segment of the corporate fueling market,'' Weiser said.

In addition to its aviation fueling business segment, IRC is strongly positioned to provide integrated environmental services to public and private sector companies, and state and federal agencies in the Southeast, Mid-Atlantic and Northeast regions of the United States, and is positioned to replicate this integrated program.

CUPERTINO, CA (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Recognizing the need for improved teacher training and new ways to teach students, Apple Computer Inc. is expanding its Christopher Columbus Consortium to 29 teams of colleges and schools from 20 U.S. states and four international locations.

The Consortium, launched last November as a pilot research and development program of six teams, took an unusual approach when it paired schools of education at universities with local school districts.

''In the 10 months since the project began, we have already begun to learn a great deal about how empowering teachers with technology can enhance and fundamentally change school curriculum and instructional practices,'' said Tom Burnett, Ph.D, an Apple education technology consultant and Consortium project manager.

Those who have participated in the Consortium pilot program so far already feel the positive effects of their initial work.

Apple selected participants for the program from proposals that met rigorous criteria for innovation and leadership, as well as a commitment to empowering students, teachers and faculty members. Each team will tackle specific aspects of curriculum development and teacher training.

Projects and goals of each Consortium team vary a great deal in their emphasis and focus. For example, some, such as the University of North Texas and the Hurst Euless Bedford Independent School District, are developing programs to train new teachers to make technology an integral part of their classrooms.

Others, such as Peabody College, Vanderbilt University and Nashville Metro Schools, are focusing more on how to develop courseware and software that meets the changing curriculum needs of their students.

Still others are exploring how to best evaluate the effects of technology on teaching and learning and communicate the results of their research to as broad an audience as possible. Examples of this type of focus include the University of Georgia and Clarke County Schools in Athens, Georgia.

Students will benefit from the alliances in many ways. For example, in one project designed to ensure that minority children are better prepared for careers in science and mathematics, students from California State University will tutor students from the George Washington Elementary School in Los Angeles in math and science through simulations and other innovative techniques in a new computer center using interactive multimedia curriculum.

LAUREL, MS (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Sanderson Farms Inc. (NASDAQ/NMS:SAFM) Thursday reported results for the third quarter and nine months ended July 31, 1990.

For the quarter, net sales were $47,729,000 compared with $50,855,000 in the third quarter of 1989. Net income was $3,313,000, or 36 cents per share, compared with $5,965,000, or 66 cents per share, in the same period last year.

For the first nine months of 1990, net sales totaled $131,368,000 compared with $138,261,000 in the first three quarters of 1989. Net income amounted to $6,840,000, or 75 cents per share, compared with $11,984,000, or $1.32 per share, in the comparable period a year ago.

Joe F. Sanderson Jr., president and chief executive officer of Sanderson Farms, commented, ''As we experienced in the first and second quarters, sales and profits declined in the third quarter compared with the same period a year ago, primarily due to lower selling prices for poultry products.

''As measured by a simple average of the Georgia dock price, market prices for poultry were approximately 13 percent lower than in the same quarter last year.

''The decrease in selling prices was partially offset by lower feed costs and gains in prepared food sales.''

Sanderson Farms Inc. is engaged in the production, processing, marketing and distribution of fresh and frozen chicken and other prepared food items. Its shares are traded in the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol SAFM.

LAGUNA HILLS, CALIF. (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Community Psychiatric Centers (NYSE/PSE/BSE/MSE:CMY) announced Thursday that it has reached an agreement in principle with Humana Inc. to purchase Humana Hospital-Brentwood, in Shreveport, La.

''We are pleased that we can anticipate welcoming Brentwood to Community Psychiatric Centers,'' said James W. Conte, president and chief executive officer of CPC.

''The match is an ideal one,'' he added, ''CPC's strength lies in operating acute psychiatric hospitals, and Brentwood is Humana's only psychiatric facility.''

The financial terms of the agreement were not disclosed.

Louisville-based Humana has owned and managed Brentwood Hospital since 1971. The hospital is a 174-bed psychiatric facility located at 1800 Irving Place in Shreveport, La. Humana and its family of companies currently operate more than 80 other hospitals in the United States and abroad and have more than one million insurance enrollees.

Community Psychiatric Centers owns and operates 42 acute psychiatric hospitals in the United States and Puerto Rico, and 6 in the United Kingdom. The addition of Brentwood to its network of Louisiana facilities is expected to contribute to earnings and complement operating and marketing objectives.

PORTLAND, OR (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Portland General Electric Co. (PGE) is preparing for the next step in its request for additional revenues from the Oregon Public Utility Commission (PUC).

The PUC staff Wednesday submitted testimony that called for a revenue increase to PGE of $917,000. PGE has requested an additional $81 million beginning in 1991. The $81 million request would mean about a $4.50 monthly billing increase for the average residential customer using 1,000 kilowatt-hours a month.

The utility is reviewing PUC staff testimony and may request further data from PUC staff and from rate-case intervenors by Sept. 10. PGE will have an opportunity for rebuttal and to hold settlement discussions with the staff before public hearings open Nov. 26. PGE expects the PUC will make its final decision on the rate request in early 1991.

''We expected and welcome intense scrutiny of our request,'' said CD Hobbs senior vice president and chief financial officer. ''We are confident that our request is justified, given the increasing costs of doing business and that we haven't had a price increase since 1984.''

LEXINGTON, NC (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Haynes Franklin Sherron Jr. has been elected a senior vice president and will join the senior management team at Lexington State Bank and its parent company, LSB Bancshares Inc. (NASDAQ:LXBK).

Sherron graduated from Lexington Senior High School in 1973 and from North Carolina State University in Raleigh, where he earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Economics.

Following his NCSU graduation in 1977, he began his professional career in North Carolina as an officer with Peoples Bank and Trust Co., with adminstrative duties at the home office in Rocky Mount and a new banking office in Wilson.

In 1981, Sherron joined the large mechanical contractor, J.J. Barnes Inc. in Fayetteville. He comes to LSB after serving as president of the Barnes firm, which has current annual sales of $10 million and 175 employees at their Fayetteville and Wilmington operations.

LSB President and Chief Executive Officer Robert F. Lowe said, ''Frank, of course, has many Lexington ties, having grown up here. In addition, he brings a breadth of knowledge and experience to our bank, as well as a distinguished record of community service.''

Sherron served as a director of the Fayetteville Area Chamber of Commerce and chairman of that chamber's Governmental and Legislative Affairs Committee. He also chaired the Existing Industry and Business Retention Committee for the Fayetteville Area Economic Development Corp.

He was a member of the board of the Fayetteville Technical Community College Foundation, a trustee of Fayetteville Academy and chairman of the board of directors of the Fayetteville Family Life Center.

Sherron's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Haynes Franklin Sherron of Lexington.

Frank and his wife, Julia, have two sons, Haynes F. Sherron III, and Neill Sherron.

LSB Bancshares Inc. is the holding company for Lexington-based Lexington State Bank, which operates a full-service commercial bank and trust business at its central office and 10 branch offices located throughout Davidson County. WEST WARWICK, RI (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Astro-Med Inc., West Warwick, (NASDAQ:ALOT) reports net income of $551,000 equal to 17 cents per common share, on record sales of $7,005,000 for the second quarter which ended July 28.

During the corresponding period of the prior year, the company had net income of $501,000 equal to 15 cents per common share, on sales of $6,274,000.

For the current six-month period, the company reports net income of $873,000, equal to 27 cents per common share, on sales of $13,100,000. During the corresponding period of the prior year, net income was $856,000 equal to 26 cents per common share, on sales of $11,368,000.

Results for the quarter show an increase of 12 percent in sales and an increase of about 13 percent in earnings per share over the corresponding period of the prior year.

Albert W. Ondis, chief executive officer, stated, ''We are especially pleased that we were able to increase net profits despite the costly patent infringement litigation, in which we are the plaintiff, with a Japanese competitor. Astro-Med management is confident that the company will prevail.

''Sales of all our products were strong. Special strength was shown in export sales, which nearly doubled over the prior year.

''The board of directors has authorized the buy-back of up to 150,000 shares of common stock whenever management feels the market price is unreasonably low. In the past the company has purchased stock under these conditions and may do so again.

''Incoming orders continue at an excellent rate. We expect to post gains in the third and fourth quarters, thereby making the current fiscal year the best in the history of Astro-Med.''

AUSTIN, TX (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Texas Vanguard Oil Co. announced that revenues and earnings for both the second quarter and six months ended June 30, 1990 set records for any comparable periods in the company's history.

For the second quarter, Texas Vanguard had net income of $178,002 or 15 cents per share, on revenues of $483,195, compared to year-earlier net income of $20,012, or 2 cents per share, on revenues of $215,747.

For the six months ended June 30, 1990, Texas Vanguard had net income of $229,248 or 19 cents per share, on revenues of $708,899, compared to net income of $21,464, or $.02 per share, on revenues of $371,715 in the year-earlier period.

For the six months ended June 30, 1990, total stockholders' equity increased 27 percent to $1,069,374 from $840,127 as of Dec. 31, 1989.

Robert N. Watson Jr., chairman, attributed the more-than-doubling of revenues, net earnings as well as cash flow to the aggressive acquisition of premier properties, including properties in the Austin Chalk of South Texas.

Watson also stated that because of the spectacular results of the first six months the company would increase its acquisition and development budgets for the rest of the year.

PALO ALTO, CA (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Hewlett-Packard Co. Thursday announced a change in strategy within its Engineering Applications Group (EAG) to focus software development on the mechanical- engineering and data-management markets and phase out development of HP's proprietary electronic-design-automation (EDA) software.

The Mechanical Design Division (MDD), which creates application programs for mechanical computer-aided-design (ME-CAD) and product- information management, will operate as an independent software division, effective immediately. It will have a dedicated sales force and, as customer demand dictates, will be free to make its products available on any hardware. The division's software is available today on Intel 386- and 486-based computers that use the MS-DOS operating system in addition to the HP workstation family.

The Electronic Design Division (EDD), following a new release of EDA software planned for the fall of 1990, will undergo a two-year transition away from developing its proprietary EDA software in favor of strengthening relationships with third-party companies.

This major enhancement is designed to improve customers' productivity by providing added capabilities and increased compliance with industry standards such as the X Window System and Electronic Design Interchange Format.

HP also said it will continue supporting the CAD Framework Initiative, a committee of workstation and EDA vendors and users whose charter is to define standards that will help EDA users integrate a variety of suppliers' products into their design systems. The EDD products will continue to be available during the transition period and will be supported by HP for five years thereafter. In addition, the changes in EAG have no effect on HP's microwave-design software and computer-aided-software-engineering (CASE) products.

During the phase-out, there will be gradual changes in employment levels at the 165-person EDD, which is based in Fort Collins and has operations in Colorado Springs, Colo. As the transition continues, employees will receive company assistance in finding jobs elsewhere in HP.

Hewlett-Packard Co. is an international manufacturer of measurement and computation products and systems recognized for excellence in quality and support. The company's products and services are used in industry, business, engineering, science, medicine and education in approximately 100 countries. HP has 92,000 employees and had revenue of $11.9 billion in its 1989 fiscal year.

BOISE, ID (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - TJ International (NASDAQ:TJCO) Thursday announced it is negotiating to purchase the Alpine Structures Division of Alpine Engineered Products Inc. of Pompano Beach, Fla.

The purchase is contingent upon TJ International's completion of a due diligence investigation, approval by the TJ International board of directors, and approval of the shareholders of Alpine Engineered Products Inc. Closing is planned to occur in mid-October. No purchase price is being disclosed.

Alpine Structures, located in Oxford, N.C., is a manufacturer of wood I-joists and a redistributor of laminated veneer lumber. It operates from a 64,000-square-foot manufacturing facility and has been in existence for eight years. Alpine Structures annual sales are approximately $15 million.

Alpine Structures will continue to be operated as an independent entity. It will be organized under the umbrella of TJ International's Trus Joist structural products division and its president, Tom Denig.

''The purchase of Alpine Structures allows us to combine forces with a key niche player in the engineered wood products field,'' stated Walt Minnick, TJ International chief executive officer and president. ''The company has a fine reputation and high quality engineering, manufacturing and marketing professionals. In Alpine, we believe we have aligned ourselves with the best of the regional I-joist manufacturers.''

Added Trus Joist's Denig: ''Alpine brings some additional products to our offering, as well as a history of strong engineering capability and a commitment to quality products. They have developed a loyal customer group based on service and consistent performance.''

BIRMINGHAM, AL (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - LifeSouth Inc. Thursday reported net income of $50,041 and revenues of $669,958 for the quarter ended June 30, 1990, and net income of $454,332 and revenues of $1,519,889 for the six months ended June 30, 1990.

Frank O'Neil, director of Corporate Communications, said that the net income figure for the first six months included an extraordinary item of $112,174 which was recognized mainly in the first quarter and is attributable to the recognition of the tax benefit of a net operating loss carryforward. In addition, O'Neil cited expected seasonal claims factors as a contributing factor in those results. He also pointed out that there is a growing consumer awareness of LifeSouth's innovative PROActive health plans.

CLIFTON, N.J. (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Keystone Camera Products Corp. (ASE:KYC) announced Thursday it has retained Howard, Lawson & Co., a Philadelphia-based investment banking and venture capital firm, as a financial consultant with respect to the availability of equity, debt, and/or equity-linked capital via the public or private financing markets.

The company said the engagement is part of its plan to raise additional capital necessary to fund its continued growth and strengthen its working capital.

In a related earlier announcement, Keystone completed a $2.2 million bridge financing. The funding enabled the company to increase its work force needed to accomodate the production demands of the current $7.7 million Christmas backlog, as well as to place its two new motorized compact 35mm cameras into production.

Initial shipments have already been made of its 2:1 motorized Tele-Wide camera.

As an additional measure to increase its equity base, Keystone recently concluded a favorable settlement with Mitsubishi International Corp. whereby MIC has become a major shareholder in Keystone.

''This latest agreement with Howard, Lawson & Co. reflects management's commitment to ensure the long term growth and success of America's sole camera manufacturer of conventional 110 and 35mm cameras,'' said Myron J. Berman, CEO at Keystone.

LISLE, IL (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Global electronic connector manufacturer Molex Inc. Thursday announced the acquisition of the remaining 50 percent of their 50/50 joint venture, Molex-Alin, in Taipei, Taiwan.

The purchase price is not disclosed.

Molex-Alin employs 200 people and manufactures a complete line of radio frequency (RF) coaxial connectors used in computers, local area networks (LANS), cellular phones, business machines, instrumentation, and CB radios.

According to Thomas Lee, Molex's director of new ventures, the full acquisition means Molex gains complete control of the manufacturing plant, which will result in improved quality and delivery.

Molex originally entered into the joint venture in February of this year with Lan Alin Industries Inc., whose chairman and former owner, James Wu, was retained to manage the new company.

However, Wu voluntarily stepped down and sold his remaining interest in the company to Molex. Jason Huang, former general manager of Molex Thailand, has taken over for Wu.

Lee indicated that the Taiwan company name would be changed, but a new name has not yet been chosen.

Molex is headquartered in Lisle, Ill., near Chicago, and operates 50 plants in 20 countries, with 6,800 employees. Sales for fiscal 1990 (year ended June 30, 1990) were $594.4 million.

CLEVELAND (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - The East Ohio Gas Co. today announced its participation in ''Education 2000: The Natural Gas Industry's Campaign for Educational Excellence.''

The national program, established through the American Gas Association (A.G.A.), is designed to underscore the company and the industry's commitment to education and to today's youth.

The A.G.A. initiative was announced at a news conference in Washington D.C. today. Admiral James Watkins, U.S. Secretary of Energy and Barbara Brand, Assistant Secretary with the U.S. Department of Education were present during today's announcement.

East Ohio Gas has long supported education as an integral part of its business. The philosophy of the company over the last 40 years has been that understanding how energy affects lifestyles, jobs, economy and environment is critical to developing more effective energy producers, consumers and citizens.

The American Gas Association, headquartered in Arlington, Va., is a national trade association composed of 250 natural gas distribution and transmission companies.

When East Ohio Gas' focus on eduational issues began to take shape in the home economics area in the early 1930's, it couldn't have been predicted that our commitment to education would range from a partnership with a local high school to introducing technological advances such as cofiring in student classrooms in 1990.

While much of the focus during the early years of the company's educational effort was on cooking and the use of natural gas in industrial and commercial applications, by the late 1970's it became obvious that more students could be reached if the focus was shifted to ''teaching teachers'' as a way to reach more students.

East Ohio Gas also has a broad range of materials and resources available for educators and consumers. In addition, company representatives are avilable to work directly with area schools, classes and community groups.

Recognition of student achievements became commonplace with establishment of The Energy Awards Program. This program would later become the Energetic Student Participation (E S P) program, promoting energy awareness and rewarding students for outstanding energy projects.

NASHVILLE, TN (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Shoney's Inc. (NYSE:SHN) announced Thursday that fully diluted earnings per share increased 44 percent during the third quarter of 1990 over 1989.

The third quarter marked the end of the second year since Shoney's Inc.'s 1988 recapitalization, giving the company its first full year following the recapitalization in which comparative operating results have been reported. Fully diluted earnings per share before extraordinary charges for the preceding four quarters have increased 48 percent.

Revenues for the third quarter increased 9 percent from $208,733,000 to $228,364,000. Comparable restaurant sales increased 3.5 percent for the third quarter, resulting in a real sales gain of 0.3 percent after adjusting for menu price increases. Net income increased 55 percent from $6,186,000 to $9,566,000.

For the 40 weeks ended Aug. 5, 1990, revenues increased 9 percent to $711,242,000. Income before extraordinary charges and net income increased 56 percent and 67 percent, respectively. Fully diluted earnings per share before extraordinary charges increased 47 percent from 38 cents to 56 cents per share.

Pretax income and net income for 1989 included a gain on the sale of the company's investment in Restaurant Management Services Inc. of $5,271,000 and $1,833,000 (5 cents per share), respectively.

During 1990, the company has made $55 million of principal payments against the original $585 million of bank borrowings used to finance the 1988 recapitalization. The balance of such borrowings at the end of the third quarter was $355 million, with a weighted average interest rate of 10.5 percent. Interest expense declined by $9,524,000 from $64,907,000 in 1989 to $55,383,000.

During the 40 weeks ended Aug. 5, 1990, the company had a net increase of 44 restaurants, which included 13 company-owned and 31 franchised units. The new company-owned restaurants consisted of five Shoney's, seven Captain D's and one Pargo's. At the end of the third quarter, the company had a total of 1,629 restaurants in operation, which included 705 company-owned and 924 franchised units. In addition, the company had a total of 56 Shoney's Inns in operation, which included two Shoney's Inns opened during 1990.

Shoney's Inc. is a major diversified food service operation and franchisor of restaurants and lodging concepts, including Shoney's, Captain D's, Lee's Famous Recipe Chicken, Fifth Quarter Restaurants, Pargo's and Shoney's Inns. Shoney's Inc. is a publicly held company traded on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol SHN.

KING OF PRUSSIA, PA. (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Envirosafe Inc. Thursday announced that the Ohio Hazardous Waste Facility Board had granted the application of its subsidiary, Envirosafe Services of Ohio Inc. to renew its operating permit with respect to its Cell G which opened early this year. Cell G has a remaining capacity of approximately 410,000 cubic yards.

The board also authorized the Ohio facility to construct a tank and container waste storage area, a waste pile, and to add a chemical/physical stabilization process. However, the board denied the Ohio facility's application to construct an additional disposal cell.

C. Edward Ashby Jr., president of Envirosafe, stated that he was disappointed that the board rejected the recommendations of its own adjudication panel and the recommendations of both the U.S. and Ohio Environmental Protection Agencies in denying the application to construct an additional disposal cell. ''At a time when industrial waste disposal capacity is in short supply, it is regrettable that the State of Ohio should deny expansion to a facility which has been in existence for more than 25 years and which the board itself has characterized as well managed '' Ashby said.

The decision was announced orally at a public meeting of the board and will not be final until a written decision and permit have been issued. ''It will be necessary to study carefully the written decision before we can decide upon a proper course of action,'' Ashby said, ''but the company does intend to request a reconsideration of the expansion issue by the board and may also decide to appeal the denial to the courts, but there is no assurance that any such action would result in an increase in our Ohio disposal capacity. In the meantime, the company is positioned by reason of the renewal of its permit to make maximum use of our existing Ohio cell capacity.''

Envirosafe Services is a leading provider of land disposal services for environmentally sensitive wastes. The company owns major disposal sites in Ohio and Idaho.

BOCA RATON, FL (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Boca Raton Capital Corp. (NASDAQ:BOCA) announced Thursday that its board of directors had authorized and implemented certain actions to cancel the company's previously announced one-for-five reverse stock split.

As a result, there will be no change in the number of authorized or issued and outstanding shares of the company's common stock, nor in the holdings of any individual shareholder.

Irwin J. Newman, vice president, said that cancellation of the one-for-five reverse stock split is, in part, in response to recent changes announced by the NASD with respect to pro-posed rules regarding requirements for continued listing on the NASDAQ system, as well as concern over the impact the reverse split would have on the liquidity of the company's common stock, under current market conditions.

RICHARDSON, TX (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - CONVEX Computer Corp. (NYSE:CNX) and the University of Nevada announced today the installation of a CONVEX C210 supercomputer to be used for advanced research by the chemistry and physics departments.

Although the CONVEX system will be used primarily by researchers in these two departments, the computer will be available to all members of the university community who have a demonstrated need for high-end computing. The two departments will use the system for a variety of computational research projects in the areas of theoretical chemistry, chemical physics, and atomic and molecular physics.

''After months of evaluating proposals from a number of computer vendors, we selected the CONVEX C210 as the system best suited to our needs,'' said John H. Frederick, assistant professor of the department of chemistry and director of the Chemical Physics Program.

''The CONVEX supercomputer offered superior performance in almost every benchmark we submitted and at an affordable price. We were particularly attracted by CONVEX's strong performance on our own software codes, by the system's ability to vectorize and parallelize computations, and by the performance codes utilizing CONVEX's proprietary mathematical library, VECLIB.''

He also pointed out that the university was impressed by the wide range of software development tools and special features available on the CONVEX systems.

''CONVEX's outstanding customer support and future product expansion also contributed to the decision to install a C210 supercomputer,'' continued Frederick. ''We were looking for a product that could serve us for many years and could be expanded and upgraded to help us keep pace with the rapidly changing computational marketplace.''

According to Frederick, the CONVEX system is being used in the physics department in the study of atomic physics which involves the evaluation of hundreds of thousands of multidimensional integrals and the diagonalization of large matrices, problems for which the C210 system is well suited.

These studies are providing theoretical explanations for experiments that probe the properties of atoms at high energies and could help clarify the process that an atom undergoes when it loses an electron.

In addition, the CONVEX supercomputer is being used in the chemistry department for a study involving the simulation of dynamics during a chemical vapor deposition process, which has potential applications in the construction of panels for solar cells.

CONVEX Computer Corp., a leading supplier of supercomputers worldwide, was founded in 1982 to design, manufacture, market and service high performance systems.

STAMFORD, Conn. (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - EnviroSource, Inc. Thursday announced that its Envirosafe Services Inc. subsidiary has received Ohio regulatory approval for its existing hazardous waste disposal cell (with a remaining capacity of 410,000 cubic yards), but that Ohio officials have refused to permit Envirosafe to construct additional disposal capacity.

Based on a decision of the Ohio Hazardous Waste Facility Board (''HWFB'') announced orally at the conclusion of a hearing late yesterday, Envirosafe will have final authority to accept hazardous wastes for disposal at its current Ohio cell.

However, its ability to continue Ohio disposal activities after existing cell capacity has been utilized will depend on whether it can reverse HWFB's decision denying Envirosafe authority to construct a proposed additional disposal cell.

Subject to a review of HWFB's final written decision, it is expected that Envirosafe will seek a HWFB rehearing, and if necessary will vigorously pursue any other available avenues to reopen the HWFB decision, but there is no assurance that any such action would result in an increase in Envirosafe's Ohio disposal capacity.

Louis A. Guzzetti, Jr., president and chief executive officer of EnviroSource, said, ''It is disappointing that an expansion proposal meeting all technical requirements for approval, and endorsed by the United States and Ohio Environmental Protection Agencies and HWFB's own reviewing panel, has been arbitrarily denied by HWFB.

''The HWFB decision confirms Envirosafe's ability to continue current levels of activity in Ohio for the next few years. Beyond that period, however, unless HWFB's decision is modified, Envirosafe will have to rely on other opportunities, including its proposed 'greenfield' disposal facilities in Pennsylvania and Texas.

''EnviroSource also has clearly identified medium and long term growth opportunities at its International Mill Service and Conversion Systems units, including the design, construction and operation of electric utility 'FGD' sludge stabilization facilities, which should get a big boost from pending 'Acid Rain' legislation.''

EnviroSource supplies industrial customers with long-term, specialized services, primarily the recycling, handling, stabilization or landfilling of environmentally sensitive wastes or by-products.

WINSTON-SALEM. N.C. (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Forsyth County Commissioners and R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. announced Thursday that they have reached an agreement for the county to purchase four blocks of RJR's downtown property for the county's new jail site for $800,000.

Approval of the agreement is expected at today's 2 p.m. continuation of the commissioner's Monday night meeting.

The property consists of tax blocks 50, 52, 53, and 499, which are bounded by Patterson Avenue, Church Street, and First and Third streets. Buildings on the property were previously used by Reynolds Tobacco for cigarette production.

''This agreement represents the successful completion of a critical milestone in the county's process to open the urgently needed new county jail. It represents also a remarkable melding of divergent interests and points of view in a community-wide concensus on the new jail's location,'' said John S. Holleman Jr., chairman of the Forsyth County Board of Commissioners.

''It also gives us great satisfaction to know that this property - which played such an instrumental role in our company's development and success - will continue to make a very positive contribution to the future of Forsyth County,'' said David B. Fishel, senior vice president, R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

The agreement calls for the transfer of the property by Oct.1. Buidings on the front two blocks between Chestnut and Church Streets will be vacated by Oct. 1. It is on those two blocks that the jail will be built.

RJR will continue to operate a training school and remove company property in the buildings on the blocks between Patterson and Chestnut Streets until June 30, 1991. The company will also provide steam without charge to the county to maintain the facility until it vacates the premises.

Reynolds Tobacco also indicated that it will ask the city for an easement to run utilities from its Bailey Utility Plant between Fourth and Fifth streets to its Quality Assurance Building on Chestnut Street, just south of First street.

The county has also agreed to offer the company first refusal for use of up to 150 parking spaces in any parking structure it builds in that area within the next 10 years.

ELMSFORD, NY (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - V Band Corp. (NASDAQ/NML:VBAN), returns to profitability reporting third quarter earnings of 3 cents per share resulting from sales of $5.3 million, as compared to a loss of 33 cents per share on $5.2 million of sales reported in the third quarter of 1989.

Improved sales and the positive effects of the various cost containment programs are the primary factors which contributed to the achievement of net income in the third quarter. Sales totalling $14.1 million for the nine month period ended July 31, 1990 were $4.8 million or 26 percent less than the $18.9 million reported for the first nine months of 1989. The sales decline for the nine month period is primarily attributable to a $3.3 million or 23 percent reduction in North American voice sales as compared to 1989.

Gross profit margins increased to 41 percent from 3 percent and to 40 percent from 30 percent, respectively, for the three and nine month periods ended July 31, 1990 as compared to the same periods in 1989. The lower gross margins reported in the third quarter of 1989 included special warranty and obsolescence reserves which totalled $1.4 million.

Increased gross profit margins for the nine month period ended July 1990 as compared to the same period in 1989 reflect the company's pursuit of more profitable product markets as well as reducing manufacturing overhead.

Operating expenses were $2.5 million for the third quarter of 1990 as compared to $5.1 million for the third quarter of 1989, a reduction of $2.6 million or 51 percent. For the nine month period ended July 31, 1990 operating expenses of $9.4 million declined $4.3 million or 32 percent from the $13.7 million reported for the same period in 1989.

The reduction in operating expenses for the nine month period was due in part to a $1.9 million or 40 percent decrease in research and development expenses to $2.8 million in 1990 from the $4.7 million reported in 1989. Additional operating expense savings have been realized on a company-wide basis with the implementation of cost containment programs.

Operating losses before federal income tax benefit for the three and nine months ended July 31, 1990, were $.3 million and $3.7 million, respectively, as compared to $4.9 million and $8.1 million for the same periods in 1989.

Net income for the three months ended July 31, 1990 was $.2 million or 3 cents per share as compared to a net loss of $2.3 million or 33 cents per share for the same period in 1989. Net loss for the nine months ended July 31, 1990 was $2.2 million or 34 cents per share as compared to a net loss of $3.4 million or 50 cents per share for the same period in 1989.

Net loss for the nine month period ended July 1990 includes a net legal settlement charge pf $1.8 million or 16 cents per share, which was recorded in the second quarter of 1990. The weighted average shares of common stock outstanding were 6,603,000 and 6,737,000, for the nine month periods ended July 31, 1990 and 1989, respectively.

The new generation digital trading and dealing communications system ''ViAX DN'' was introduced on June 12, 1990. This system will provide V Band users with enhanced functionality, distributed architecture and direct connection to digital networks, thereby reducing customer network expense.

In addition to the introduction of this new product, on July 16, 1990, V Band signed an agreement with AT&T whereby AT&T agrees to purchase a minimum of $12 million worth of V Band's equipment over a 30 month period.

V Band Corp. designs, markets, distributes and manufactures electronic key telephone and data distribution systems used by the world's financial industries in the trading and dealing of stocks, bonds, commodities and currencies; and, by airlines, utilities, railroads, emergency services and the military in communications control centers.

INDIANAPOLIS (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - The Somerset Group Inc. (OTC:SOMR) announced today that an agreement has been reached for the repurchase of 100,000 shares of the company's common stock at a per share price of $7.695.

After careful study by the board of directors and a review of the transaction by an independent investment securities firm, the board of directors approved the purchase of 100,000 shares of common stock from four shareholders, including Nora McKinney Hiatt, a director of the company. The shares will be held in the treasury and used to fund stock option programs, company contributions to employee savings programs, and future acquisitions.

The board of directors determined that the purchase of a large block of stock at $7.695 per share was in the best interests of all shareholders, considering the current value of the company, its potential for increased market value, and the company's need for such shares. The board also received an investment securities firm's opinion that the transaction was fair to Somerset and its other shareholders from a financial point of view.

The book value of the average share of Somerset stock at June 30, 1990, was $12.24, and the retirement of 100,000 shares to the treasury will increase that book value to approximately $12.96, an increase of 5.9 percent per share. Earnings per share will reflect a similar percentage increase. The use of the treasury shares in future transactions will also avoid the dilution of per share book value which would occur upon the issuance of new shares.

The Somerset Group Inc. is a diversified public holding company which through its divisions and subsidiaries engages in three primary lines of business - banking, construction products and services, and environmental testing.

Through its 21.8 percent investment in First Indiana Corp., whose principal subsidiary is First Indiana Bank, a Federal Savings Bank, the company operates retail banking and real estate mortgage lending centers in strategic metropolitan communities.

The company provides construction products and engineering services through its American Precast Concrete Division, one of the largest manufacturers, marketers, and installers of precast/prestressed concrete building components in the Midwest.

The company provides analytical testing services for toxic and hazardous compounds in the environment through its 80 percent owned subsidiary, TMS Analytical Services Inc. TMS is also a participant in the Contract Laboratory Program of the United States Environmental Protection Agency.

CLEARWATER, FL (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - PRIDE (Prison Rehabilitative Industries & Diversified Enterprises Inc.) announced Thursday its preliminary financial results for its year ended June 1990, reflecting a record year for the non-profit, self-funded prison industry program.

F. Philip Handy, chairman of the board, said that sales increased $14 million over last year for a total of $81 million; this level of sales provided a cash flow of $6.7 million, all of which was re-invested in the expansion and modernization of PRIDE's prison industries.

Eight new prison industries were added in 1990 which created 735 new jobs for inmates.

They include a garment industry at Lawtey Correctional Institution; a shoe industry at Madison Correctional Institution; a furniture refurbishing operation at Liberty Correctional Institution; a printing plant and garment industry at Calhoun Correctional Institution; a chair plant at Polk Correctional Institution; and key data entry facilities at Martin Correctional Institution and Broward Correctional Institution.

''During this past year inmates worked over 5.2 million hours while training in marketable skills such as computer-aided drafting, key data entry and optical technology,'' said Handy.

Handy also advised the board that since its inception, the PRIDE employment service has found jobs for over 1600 ex-offenders upon their release. The employment service is part of the post-release support phase of the corporation's new TIES (Training, Industry, Employability and Support) program that also provides PRIDE inmate workers with on-the-job training and employability workshops.

PRIDE President J. Floyd Glisson said that in the six years the quasi-public corporation has been in operation, 56 prison industries were reorganized or started up, and inmate work stations increased from 1,295 to the present 3,052.

PRIDE has returned in excess of $54 million in direct and indirect economic benefits to state government which includes boosting the value of state-owned assets from $30 million to over $63 million.

Established by the Florida legislature in 1981, PRIDE is the first prison industry program in the nation to be managed and operated solely by the private sector.

NEW YORK (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - B+H Maritime Carriers Ltd. (ASE:BHM) reported Thursday that the M/T LIVI was at anchor about five miles off Keelung, Taiwan, with severe botton damage incurred in a grounding during Typhoon Yancy on Aug. 19.

The vessel was free of cargo at the time and there is no danger of any significant pollution liability.

The vessel is presently riding out Typhoon Abe with winds expected to exceed 120 mph. The crew has been evacuated to shore for the duration of the storm.

The combination of storms and currents of up to four knots have made it impossible as yet to conduct a comprehensive survey of the vessel. It is clear that she is severely damaged. Extensive repairs will be required and it is possible that the vessel could be Constructive Total Loss. Two salvage tugs were standing by, but have had to leave their stations and seek shelter from Typhoon Abe.

The recovery and repair effort will resume after the weather settles down. The ship is insured for repairs, loss and Loss of Hire. Further details will be released when available.

NEW YORK (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Henry J. Leingang has been named vice president and chief information officer of Viacom International Inc., effective Sept. 4, 1990.

The announcement was made Thursday by Edward D. Horowitz, senior vice president, and George S. Smith Jr., senior vice president and chief financial officer of the company.

As vice president and chief information officer, Leingang will head Viacom's information systems function. This newly created position will be responsible for setting the company's information systems strategy and policies that will guide Viacom's businesses into the future.

Initially, Leingang's responsibilties will include managing the decentralization of Viacom's information systems and the conversion of the company's systems from mainframe to mid-range technology platform.

Horowitz said, ''Hank's extensive background in designing and managing complex information systems conversion projects will enable him to effectively lead Viacom's advancement from mainframe to mid-range technology. The dynamic change within the information systems field has opened up tremendous opportunites and our new program will enhance our ability to capitalize on the wealth of information affecting our businesses.''

Prior to joining Viacom, Leingang was vice president, Information Services of Trian Group (formerly Triangle Industries), a position he had held since 1984. As Senior Information Systems Executive in the Triangle family of companies, he was instrumental in strategic development of information systems at operating companies including American National Can in Chicago, Uniroyal Chemical in Middlebury, Conn. and Galerias Preciados in Madrid.

His responsibilities at Triangle included decentralization of MIS functions, unification of MIS functions of merged companies, as well as due diligence work associated with acquisitions.

Previously, Leingang spent two years with Interpace Corp., where he served as Corporate Director, MIS and Manager, MIS Planning and Control. From 1979 to 1982, he was part of the Touche Ross & Co. management consulting practice in New York City.

Viacom International Inc. is a diversified communications and entertainment company headquartered in New York City. Viacom Inc., the holding company parent of Viacom International Inc., is an approximately 84 percent owned subsidiary of National Amusements Inc., a closely-held corporation which owns and operates approximately 650 movie screens in 14 states and England.

AKRON, OH (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Continued sluggishness in the vehicle manufacturing market, combined with corporate efforts to balance inventory levels led Goodyear to announce today additional production cutbacks at three plants.

Some 270 employees at the Union City, Tenn., plant and approximately 530 at the Valleyfield, Quebec, plant will be laid off temporarily. Length of the layoffs will depend on the economy and market demand, Goodyear said.

Additionally, the Danville, Va., medium radial truck tire plant will reduce production for one week.

ROTTERDAM, THE NETHERLANDS (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - VOC (Van Ommeren Ceteco), the international transport, tank storage and trading group, announced net income of Dfl 32.7 million ($17.4 million (a)) for the first half of 1990 (first half 1989: Dfl 18.5 million).

The results include an extraordinary item of Dfl 6.5 million ($3.5 million) from a book profit on the sale of its Zeebrugge stevedoring company CTO. Income on ordinary activities rose by 35% to Dfl 28.4 million ($15.1 million). First-half earnings per share rose to Dfl 2.17 ($1.16) (first half 1989: Dfl 1.26). An unchanged interim dividend of Dfl 0.50 per share has been declared and will be payable as of September 14, 1990.

Exchange rate fluctuations had a negative effect on net income of approximately Dfl 5 million ($2.7 million). The adverse effect of exchange rates on revenues was roughly Dfl 85 million ($45 million) and on operating income about Dfl 15 million ($8 million). Exchange rate effects on revenue and operating income were felt most strongly in the trading division. On the other hand, currency translation differences reduced the interest charge.

Within the Transport division, dry cargo shipping activities were affected by an expected fall in freight rates and a weak US dollar. Profits in tank shipping slowed, particularly in the first quarter, due to limited cargo supply and a lengthy period of bad weather in Western Europe. However, the drop in profits from shipping was offset by the book profit on the sale of a product tanker, included under other operating income. Results from the heavy lift fleet improved.

Inland tank shipping profits were better due to increased demand for inland resupply early in the year. There was also an improvement in the profit from other transport activities (agencies, groupage, stevedoring, and forwarding and distribution). Tank Storage

Results from the Tank Storage division developed well mainly due to increased demand for mineral oil product storage in the second quarter. Storage of animal and vegetable products also made an increased contribution to profits. The chemicals sector saw sustained demand for special products storage capacity. Trading

Trading division income was adversely affected by lower profit margins on sales in the important Venezuelan consumer durables market. After the sharp fall in the second half of 1989 these margins have gradually been recovering. The chemicals and foods sector improved. Results in the capital goods and technical products sector lagged slightly behind those of the first half of 1989.

CONCORD, MA (AUG. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - GenRad Inc. today announced the availability of Test Palette, a new software option that allows users of GenRad's GR227X and GR228X Board Test Systems to utilize a user-friendly, PC-based windowing environment to enhance their testers' utility, while enjoying significant savings in programming time and costs.

John O'Bryan, Tactical Marketing Manager for the GR227X/8X product lines at GenRad said, ''By adding the Test Palette option, owners of GR227X and GR228X systems will now have the ability to utilize the power of the PC

windowing environment while maintaining quick access to the GenRad tester environment.'' Expands System Capabilities

GenRad's Test Palette software option adds several easy-to-use advanced features to GenRad's GR227X and GR228X board test systems. Features such as Data Display for gathering and highlighting test process information...Waveform Display to help identify failing IC tests during debug...Remote Tester Control to permit debug, programming and other assistance from remote locations...and Context Sensitive on-line help for quick access to programming questions.

Test Palette's Data Display provides color-graphic reports containing process information at the click of a mouse. The reports are displayed in either 3D color pie charts, 3D color bar charts, or multi-line charts permitting real-time reports on yield, failure mix, failure trends, test times, board volume, top ten failures, and top ten failing components.

Thomas J. Coughlin, GenRad's director of Tactical Marketing, noted that, now, with this low-cost option, GenRad users can quickly see if yield is improving, examine trends, and make other process assessments that will help them maintain peak efficiency in their manufacturing/test operations. He added, ''This becomes more critical in today's highly competitive electronics industry.'' Color Highlighting Helps Speed Digital Debug Test Palette's Waveform Display provides a new time-saving tool for the digital debug process. Its multi-color display capabilities enable the system operator to view a digital burst of information with failing data waveforms flagged in highlighted color so that problems stand out for easy identification and faster debugging.

GenRad Inc. is a leading worldwide supplier of integrated software systems and automatic test equipment, to manufacturers and users of electronic and mechanical equipment, for design verification, product testing and process quality management. NASHVILLE, TN (AUG. 31) BUSINESS WIRE - Northern Telecom Inc. (NYSE:NT) Thursday announced a distribution agreement with Digitel Corp. of Atlanta, for future sales and service of the Vantage Key System product line. Effective immediately, Digitel will assume responsibility for Northern Telecom's Meridian Key Systems division for product sales, distribution, technical support, and field service of the entire Vantage product portfolio, including sales and service to the current Vantage customer base.

''This is an agreement with one of our most successful regional distributors,'' said John Losier, vice president, Meridian Key Systems division. ''The agreement combines the reliability of our product line with Digitel's excellent reputation for service, ensuring that our customers will continue receiving the same high level of support they have always received from Northern Telecom.''

The Vantage product line, introduced in 1982, includes the Vantage 4, Vantage 8, Vantage 12 and the Vantage 48 small business key systems, with an installed base of 250,000 systems.

''Digitel is prepared to assume immediate distribution and technical support of Northern Telecom's Vantage product line,'' said Bryan Tate, president and CEO, Digitel Corp. ''We look forward to consolidating the sales and service process so that our customers can have a single point of contact for the Vantage line.''

Digitel, an authorized distributor of Northern Telecom products, has been selling Vantage telephone systems since 1983. The company has since built a large base of customers in major cities across the United States.

Northern Telecom is the leading global supplier of fully digital telecommunications switching systems, providing products and services to telephone operating companies, corporations, governments, universities and other institutions worldwide. WORCESTER, MA (AUG. 31) BUSINESS WIRE - The board of directors of Peoples Bancorp Inc. (NASDAQ:PEBW) the holding company for Peoples Savings Bank, Thursday voted to increase its regular quarterly dividend on the company's common stock from 30 cents to 31 cents per share.

The dividend is payable on Oct. 19, 1990, to shareholders of record at Oct. 2, 1990

''This increase in the dividend is based on our continuing confidence in the company's financial strength and operating performance,'' said Woodbury C. Titcomb, president and chief executive officer. ''At this new quarterly rate, the dividend will be an annualized $1.24 per share. Only a few of the banks in Peoples' peer group continue to offer any dividend at all, and our annualized rate is by far the highest of the group.''

Titcomb continued, ''Our first quarterly dividend of 10 cents per share was declared on November 24, 1986, and it has been increased in each of the 15 ensuing quarters. We are very pleased with this new annualized rate, and it is our board's intention to consider any future increases annually, hereafter.''

''To begin implementing this new policy, we will consider increasing our dividend in late 1991,'' said Titcomb. ''At that time, we expect to have substantially completed the process of consolidating the deposit and loan systems of two banks that we acquired from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) - the former First Service Bank for Savings of Leominster, acquired in April 1989, and the former Milford Savings Bank, acquired in July 1990.''

Separately, Peoples also announced a move toward final settlement with the FDIC of money owed Peoples in connection with its acquisition of the First Service Bank for Savings of Leominster.

Following 16 months of complex transactions, Peoples has received a payment of $27 million from the FDIC. Approximately $5.5 million represents accumulated interest, which has been a non-earning asset. Titcomb said that the $5.5 million would be employed in earning assets, thereby producing higher yields and improving Peoples' overall net interest margin. A small balance remains unsettled pending the resolution of litigation between the FDIC and a third party concerning the ability of the FDIC to assign certain assets to Peoples as contemplated by the agreement, and the resolution of unclaimed deposits.

Through its principal subsidiary, Peoples Savings Bank, the company provides a wide range of retail and commercial banking services to a broad customer base throughout 28 offices located in central and northwestern Massachusetts.

STAMFORD, CT (AUG. 30) COMTEX - Seahawk Deep Ocean Technology Inc., (TICKER: SDOT) a Tampa, Fla., salvage company that discovered the wreck of a Spanish galleon off the Florida Keys last year, has discovered a second wreck off Florida's east coast, this one believed to be a colonial-era ship from the 1600's.

Depending on the availability of financing, Seahawk expects to begin salvage operations on the newly discovered wreck in the early fall, although no definitive plans have been set, according to a Securities and Exchange Commission filing.

If the company is unable to begin recovery this fall, the operation will have to wait until next spring.

Divers for Seahawk have begun retrieving artifacts from the sunken Spanish galleon and have recovered seven gold finger bars, an emerald ring, two mariner's astrolabes-a navigational device used during the 1600's, silver coins, a Spanish olive jar, musket balls and ceramics.

Four of the gold bars are stamped with a mark that resembles marks bars found in 1985 aboard the Atocha, a galleon sunk in 1622 that was part of a convoy of about 28 ships.

Nine of those ships were believed to have been sunk when a hurricane hit the fleet on its way out of the Caribbean.

The Seahawk find is believed to have been part of that fleet.

The wreck was discovered about 1,500 feet deep in international waters south of the Florida Keys.

Seahawk Deep Ocean Technology Inc. presented a bell from the wreck in June 1989 to secure an admiralty claim for the U.S. District Court.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 30) COMTEX - The 8-K report filed at the SEC shows Dimension Group Inc. formerly employed Jeffrey M. Brinn, a certified public accountant, to audit Dimension Group Inc.'s financial statements for 1987 and 1988.

As a result of Dimension Group Inc.'s minimum amount of working capital and to reduce audit costs, Dimension Group Inc.'s board of directors voted to change accountants and have replaced Brinn with Jerome Goldberg, as of May 24, 1990.

Brinn was not employed in any other auditing capacity with Dimension Group Inc.

Audits performed by the former auditor contained no adverse opinion or disclaimer of opinion nor were they modified as to uncertainty, audit scope, or accounting principles.

The executive office of Dimension Group is located at 9942 NW Sixth Place, Plantation, Florida 33324 and its telephone number is (305) 452-0404.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 30) COMTEX - The 8-K report filed at the SEC shows Colonial Gas Co.'s (TICKER: CGES) request for a rate increase was approved Aug. 17 by the Massachusetts Dept. of Public Utilities (DPU).

This is Colonial Gas Co.'s first base rate increase since 1984.

The approval authorizes Colonial Gas Co. to increase its rates to produce additional revenues of $7.9 million annually.

This figure can be broken down to an overall $4.4 million increase for Colonial Gas Co.'s 65,000 Lowell-area customers, and an overall increase of $3.5 million for its 55,000 Cape Cod customers.

The agreement stipulates that the increase will not take effect until Nov. 1, 1990.

Colonial Gas Co. states that even with the increase, its rates are lower than they were five years ago, as a result of lower-cost natural gas supplies.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 30) COMTEX - The 8-K report filed at the SEC shows Double Helix Films Inc.(TICKER: DHFI) is a defendant in a commercial arbitration proceeding before the American Arbitration Association in Los Angeles, CA.

The hearing is scheduled for Sept. 24, 1990.

The claimant, a distribution agent, claims $480,000 in actual damages and $500,000 in punitive damages in connection with Double Helix Films Inc.'s alleged breach of an agency agreement.

Management of Double Helix Films Inc. will vigorously defend this action.

Double Helix Films Inc. believes this action will be unsuccessful in arbitration and that it will have no liability.

Double Helix Films Inc. has been apprised that in New York, the arbitrator has no authority to award punitive damages.

Double Helix Films Inc. also has made a change in its fiscal year end.

The agreement and plan of merger is dated Dec. 22, 1989, between Double Helix, Communications and Entertainment Corp. (ComEnt) and Odyssey Merger Corp.

ComEnt has a fiscal year ending June 30.

The board of directors of Double Helix Films Inc. authorized the organization to change its fiscal year end for financial statement reporting purposes to conform to that of ComEnt.

Double Helix Films Inc. will therefore not file a 10-Q report for its second quarter, and will instead file an annual or 10-K report as of June 30 that will contain all required financial statements.

BELGRADE (AUG. 30) - A visiting U.S. congressional delegation said Thursday it was "deeply disturbed" by the repression of ethnic Albanians by Serbian authorities in Kosovo Province, the Tanjug news agency reported.

In a statement issued a day after a visit to the Kosovo capital Pristina, the U.S. senators also denounced the "brutal" use of force by Serbian security forces against ethnic Albanian demonstrators, Tanjug said.

"The delegation was struck by the contrast between the rapid drive towards democracy and free enterprise economics in Croatia and Slovenia, on the one hand, and the perpetuation of old line communist repression in Serbia," said the statement released in the Croatian capital Zagreb.

"The delegation subsequently learned that while it was in Belgrade, Serbian military and police brutally dispersed a crowd of at least 10,000 Albanians who had peacefully assembled in Kosovo in the hope of welcoming the delegation.

"The delegation is deeply disturbed at this fresh evidence that Serbian authorities are engaged in a systematic pattern of violating the human rights of Albanians," it added.

The U.S. congressional delegation, headed by Republican Senator Robert Dole of Kansas, came here to examine first-hand the situation in Kosovo, where the majority ethnic Albianian population is demanding autonomy from Serbia.

On Wednesday, police used clubs, tear gas and water cannons to disperse thousands of the ethnic Albanians who had gathered outside the Grand Hotel in Pristina, many of them waving the American flag, to welcome the delegation.

When police ordered them to disperse, some members of the crowd started throwing stones at the security forces.

Belgrade television said Thursday that "numerous" demonstrators and 27 policemen were injured during the "separatist demonstration" and that 47 ethnic Albanians had been interrogated by police.

Serbia reduced Kosovo's autonomy through constitutional changes in 1989, and on July 2 scrapped the provincial government after ethnic Albanian members of the Kosovo parliament proclaimed the province independent.

Serbia has blacked out the local television, radio and Albanian-language newspapers, and transferred funds held by the National Bank of Kosovo to the Kosovo Interior Ministry and Serbian Railways.

DHAKA (AUG. 30) - Bangladesh has appealed to a dozen friendly nations for material help in repatriating tens of thousands of its stranded nationals in the Gulf, an official said Thursday.

Spokesman Mustafizur Rahman told reporters that Dhaka had also decided to pull out the family members and non-essential staff from Bangladesh's embassy in Iraqi-occupied Kuwait.

Despite Iraq's demand that foreign embassies in Kuwait shut down, the Bangladesh Embassy headed by Ambassador Shehabuddin Ahmed remained open with its five diplomats and 15 staff members.

Mr. Rahman said the appeal for help in the form of aircraft and ships to repatriate an estimated 80,000 Bangladeshis from Kuwait was conveyed to a group of Dhaka-based ambassadors invited to a meeting here Thursday.

The meeting was attended by ambassadors or high commissioners from the United States, Britain, Italy, Belgium, Australia, Sweden, Canada, Japan, West Germany, France, Holland, Denmark and the European Economic Community.

He said the initial response from the envoys was "positive." "We have asked for transports, but in case they don't have any to offer, they can help financially to charter planes and ships for repatriation," Mr. Rahman said.

Some 3,000 of an estimated 40,000 Bangladeshis from Kuwait now stranded in Saudi Arabia, Jordan or on the Turkish border have been flown back home in the past week by a chartered Biman Bangladesh airlines DC-10.

Mr. Rahman said he regretted that a previous request from Dhaka for the United Nations to help repatriate its nationals had had no response. "We are disappointed with the U.N. on this," he said.

Mr. Rahman said the Geneva-based International Organisation for Migration had offered to pay for the repatriation expenses of 4,000 Bangladeshis by ship from the Jordanian port of Aqaba.

Dhaka has already allocated 100 million taka (2.85 million dollars) to repatriate its citizens.

President Hossain Mohammad Ershad Thursday offered to mediate a peaceful solution to the dispute, the official BSS news agency reported.

But Mr. Ershad said he could only mediate a solution to the dispute between Iraq and Kuwait after Kuwait's legitimate government was restored and Iraq withdrew from the emirate.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 30) - U.S. warships in the Gulf region have challenged some 250 merchant vessels this week as part of an international effort to enforce a U.N. embargo against Iraq and Iraqi-occupied Kuwait, the Defense Department said Thursday.

The Pentagon also gave some details on deployments, saying the armed forces had moved to Saudi Arabia in three weeks as many troops and as much equipment as sent to the Korean Peninsula during the first three months of the 1950-1953 Korean War.

Spokesman Pete Williams said fewer than 10 of the merchant ships intercepted in the Gulf region and the Red Sea had been boarded and inspected by U.S. sailors.

Only one of those ships -- a Sri Lankan cargo vessel boarded Tuesday -- was forced to turn around after U.S. authorities discovered the ship was carrying "cargo other than medical supplies," Mr. Williams said.

The U.N. Security Council last Sunday approved Resolution 664 authorizing an international flotilla in the region to use force to back up the embargo, which excludes medical supplies.

The council voted the trade and arms embargo August 6, four days after Iraqi troops overran Kuwait and ousted the Kuwaiti royal family.

After the Iraqi invaders took up position near the Kuwaiti-Saudi border, President George Bush ordered the deployment of tens of thousands of U.S. troops and several dozen warships to the region to help protect Saudi Arabia from a potential Iraqi attack.

Mr. Williams noted that "ships from other nations are also taking part in the intercept operations."

He declined to offer details of which foreign ships were helping to enforce the embargo, but added, "I know that there is a sort of informal conversation among the commanders from various nations." Mr. Williams said the massive deployment of troops and their equipment had experienced some isolated problems, notably mechanical failures that delayed the departure of three transport vessels.

"We just haven't done anything this massive this quickly before," he said. "We may well learn lessons from this, and there may well be changes in our priorities and in the way we operate."

He said F-15 fighters and anti-tank combat helicopters had been sent to Saudi Arabia from European bases.

Mr. Williams said the Pentagon had called up five more army reserve units and was chartering about 20 merchant vessels for the deployment, 11 of them from such countries as Panama, Bahrain, Saudi Arabia, Norway, Italy and Britain.

He said three reserve air transport units trained in flying C-5 Galaxy cargo planes -- the largest transport plane in the U.S. armed forces -- and two reserve public relations units were being called up.

The Defense Department has so far called 8,870 military reserve personnel to active duty, he said.

Mr. Williams also said Iraqi troop levels in Kuwait and southern Iraq had not changed.

"Iraq has still about 150,000 troops in Kuwait and another roughly 115,000 outside the boundaries of Kuwait," he said.

"(The Iraqi posture) is essentially defensive but maintains the capability to become offensive on very short notice," he added.

The Iraqi forces still "constitute a significant threat to Saudi Arabia," he said.

GENEVA (AUG. 31) - The United Nations sub-commission on human rights harshly criticized Israel on Thursday for its actions in the occupied territories and called for an Israeli withdrawal.

In a resolution adopted by a large majority, the sub-commission of 26 independent experts condemned Israel for "its gross violations of the international conventions (and) rules of international law," and called on it to "withdraw from the Palestinian and other Arab territories occupied by force."

The sub-commission added that it was "deeply alarmed" at Israel's "persistence in perpetrating massacres against the Palestinian people."

The body also "condemns Israel for establishing Israeli settlements in the occupied Palestinian and other occupied Arab territories" and called for their dismantlement.

The sub-commission reaffirmed "the inalienable rights of the Palestinian people to return to their homeland" and to establish "their independent sovereign State on their national soil."

The experts called for an international conference on the occupied territories to be attended by concerned parties represented, including the Palestine Liberation Organisation.

PUCHHEIM, WEST GERMANY (AUG 31) - Residents of this town just outside Munich are in a flap over the mayor's decision to employ five farmyard ducks to chase snails at the local cemetery.

Critics say mayor Herbert Kraenzlein took too literally a memo asking local government officials to make new purchases as ''ecologically-compatible'' as possible.

''Irreverent'' cried Kraenzlein's opponents in the town council and demanded that the ducks disappear. Some deputies even wanted the mayor to be officially reprimanded.

''Ducks eat snail's eggs as well,'' said an embattled Kraenzlein in a bid to justify his adversion to sprinkling slug pellets among the gravestones.

''Not even the town clergy thinks the ducks will disturb peace at the cemetery,'' said the mayor who got the idea for a mollusc-free burial zone after a visit to a local garden centre.

Despite the controversy, Kraenzlein has so far only been fretting over how to protect the ducks from foraging martens. For that he needs to employ a keeper.

The birds have meanwhile been given until November to prove their snail-busting ability before a decision is made on whether to keep them in service.

JERUSALEM (AUG 31) - The ominous Gulf crisis and the threat it embodies for Israel has convinced many ultra-orthodox Jews that the Messiah is at hand.

"This year, there will be a confrontation in the Gulf that will shake the world. Then the Messiah will come and proclaim that salvation is at hand," said Rabbi Menahem Schneerson in a message to his followers.

Based in New York and a descendant of the venerated Lubavich rabbinical family, the rabbi is an extremely influential figure among the ultra-orthodox community, which accounts for roughly 20 per cent of the Israeli population.

Thousands of Israelis gathered recently in Tiberias, northern Israel, around the tomb of a holy man to "exorcize the designs of the new Nebuchadnezzar (Saddam Hussein)," the king of Babylon who burned Jerusalem destroyed Solomon's temple and deported Jews to Mesapotamia in the sixth century B.C.

In Mea Shearim, one of the oldest districts in the Jewish quarter of Jerusalem, a man in his 30s, dressed in the garb of the ultra-orthodox, leans against a wall and watches the passers-by.

"The end of the world is near," he whispers.

"After the war that is going to erupt, the nations will make peace amongst themselves to turn against Israel to make it disappear. It is then that the Messiah will come to bring us salvation."

Meir Khayat, who runs a religious bookshop in Mea Shearim, said it was "illogical for the Egyptians, the Syrians and the Saudis to fight their Arab brothers in Iraq.

"When they realize this absurdity, they'll unite to destroy us."

TOKYO (AUG. 30) - The Bank of Japan raised its official discount rate from 5.25 percent to six percent Thursday, the fifth increase in 15 months and the key lending rate's highest level in almost nine years.

"The decision was taken to ensure appropriate and flexible management of monetary policy in view of recent developments in economic activity, supply and demand conditions of the labour market, prices and money supply as well as a rise in market interest rates reflecting these developments," the bank said.

"It was based on the judgement that it would be necessary for the Bank of Japan to take a clearer stance to contain inflation," it added.

The bank said it hoped the move would "prevent a resurgence of inflationary pressures, contribute to financial market stability and continue providing for conditions to maintain sustainable growth led by domestic demand."

The discount rate, charged on central bank loans to financial institutions, was last adjusted on March 20 when it rose from 4.25 percent to 5.25 percent.

The bank made the announcement after an emergency meeting of its policy board which was held before the opening of Japanese financial markets.

Bank of Japan governor Yasushi Mieno later told a news conference that the move also aimed to suppress inflationary pressures arising from the recent surge in crude oil prices.

But he also said that Japanese financial markets, already jittery over the impact of higher interest rates and surging oil prices, had already taken the discount-rate hike into account.

"Markets will head for stability without any further unrest," he said.

Mr. Mieno said earlier that the central bank was particularly concerned about Japan's rapid rate of money supply growth and the labour shortage, adding that the recent surge in oil prices "may also be a major inflationary factor."

Finance Minister Ryutaro Hashimoto said the discount-rate hike was an "appropriate pre-emptive strike against a rekindling of inflation in the face of a labor shortage and continued expansion of the economy."

Supplies of fuel for the state-run sector would be cut by half immediately, said a statement. Private motorists will have their petrol allowances reduced from October 30.

Production of cement is also to be slowed down and nickel mining stopped altogether. A new oil refinery will not go on stream as originally planned, said the statement.

WELLINGTON (AUG 30) - Violent crime in New Zealand registered its biggest decrease in more than a decade during the 12 months to June 30, according to police statistics issued Thursday.

Figures for the period show violent crime down 8.5 percent -- the biggest drop since police began collating statistics in 1978 -- continuing a downward trend which began in 1989.

Despite the decrease, crime overall rose by 2.7 percent mainly because of an increase in theft and fraud offences.

NEW YORK (AUG. 30) - Iraqi diplomats expelled from the United States in retaliation for the closure of foreign embassies in occupied Kuwait have left the country on a flight to Amman, officials said.

The Royal Jordanian Airlines jet carrying the Iraqis left John F. Kennedy Airport at 11:54 p.m. (0345 GMT) Wednesday, according to a spokesman for the airline.

The airline spokesman, citing "security reasons," declined to say how many Iraqis left on the flight, but a Federal Bureau of Investigations (FBI) agent told an AFP photographer 91 Iraqis boarded the plane.

The U.S. government Monday ordered 36 staff members of the Iraqi Embassy in Washington, including seven accredited diplomats, to leave the country within 72 hours with their families.

Only 19 Iraqi diplomats have been authorized to remain in Washington, approximately the number of U.S. diplomats in Baghdad and Kuwait City, according to the State Department.

The Iraqi government responded by limiting the number of U.S. diplomats in Baghdad to 19, even though only 12 are currently in Iraq, State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said.

KUALA LUMPUR (AUG. 30) - Malaysia celebrates 33 years of independence Friday with a booming economy blunting racial tensions and affirming its status as one of the Third World's more progressive states.

"We have appropriately picked 'Berjaya' (success) as the theme for this year's festivities," said Information Minister Mohamad Rahmat. "It reflects the progress since 1957 and the fact that we have carved out a nation," he said.

Analysts say the statistics chalked up by this former British colony peopled by Asia's three major races, Malays, Chinese and Indians, are impressive by most standards.

Rapid industrialisation, aided by countries like Japan, Taiwan, the United States and Western European nations, has reduced dependence on commodities like natural rubber and palm oil and boosted growth to well over eight per cent in recent years.

Per capita income has risen above the 2,000 U.S. dollar mark and price increases have been held at four per cent.

Almost every third home has a car and every fourth home a telephone. Television antennae sprout from even the most dilapidated village houses.

In many parts of the country there are more jobs going than workers available.

Mr. Mohamad said that barring a dramatic reversal of economic fortunes, ethnic rivalries and suspicions which divided Malaysians and clouded the nation's early prospects should dissipate.

Government critics say the picture is not all rosy. "If we are making economic progress, I'll say that's happening despite our bungling," said Lim Kit Siang, the parliamentary opposition leader.

Mr. Lim accuses Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamad of moral bankruptcy, citing as example the premier's announcement that the recommendations of a council he set up to hammer out a multi-racial consensus on Malaysia's future economic policy would not be binding on the government.

Several opposition politicians and prominent Malaysians quit the 150-member council after the announcement last week.

Some analysts say Dr. Mahathir, approaching his 10th year in office, has exacerbated political divisions even among ethnic Malays who until a few years ago overwhelmingly backed his United Malays National Organisation (UMNO).

AMMAN (AUG. 30) - Jordan on Saturday will begin to ration meat, milk, flour and other necessities in response to hoarding following Iraq's invasion of Kuwait, Minister of Supply Ibrahim Ayoub said here Thursday.

He said ration cards would also be distributed for the purchase of rice and sugar, which along with the other products can still be found on the open market at prices subsidised by the government.

Jordanian authorities have tried unsuccessfully to check panic buying, notably here in the capital, and have stressed that the country has adequate supplies of food.

King Hussein on August 12 urged his people to economise on electricity and modify their eating habits.

Jordan - dependent on Iraq as an export market as well as for 95 percent of its oil - has warned that the embargo will impose severe hardship on the Jordanian economy.

SYDNEY (AUG. 30) - High interest rates, which have pushed Australia to the brink of recession, appear set to drop further following a scathing attack on bank lending policies by Treasurer Paul Keating.

Leading banks said a further round of commercial interest rate cuts were under consideration, with at least one, the National Australia Bank (NAB) indicating Thursday that home loan rates could also drop within a few weeks.

NAB managing director Nobby Clark, while conceding rates would fall, countered Mr. Keating's attack by accusing him of "grandstanding" and saying he had to accept responsibility for what monetary policy was doing to the economy.

High interests rates have been the major weapon used by the government against Australia's crippling current account deficit, although it has recently been easing monetary policy to prevent an economic downturn becoming a fullblown recession.

Mr. Keating, however, has made clear his anger about what he perceives to be the failure of banks to give ordinary borrowers the benefits of cuts in official interest rates.

In an unprecedented attack Wednesday, he announced a government inquiry into bank lending margins and warned the banks of "retribution" if they maintained current lending policies.

Mr. Keating, the acknowledged heir-apparent to Prime Minister Bob Hawke, also accused banks of forcing small and medium companies to bear the cost of huge losses incurred through over-generous corporate loans.

The Commonwealth Bank said decreases of up to 0.5 percentage points in interest rates for corporate customers were being considered.

The State Bank of New South Wales, while criticising Mr. Keating's impatience, said a further easing in rates was likely.

Other banks are considered likely to follow suit.

BEIJING (AUG. 30) - Chinese scientists have succeeded in growing hairy antlers on female deer after seven years of research.

Deer antlers, a valuable Oriental aphrodisiac, usually come from stags, but 60 does grew double antlers after male hormones were injected into "special acupoints" on their bodies, the New China News Agency (NCNA) said.

Scientists at the Chinese Academy of Agricultural Sciences' Institute of Native Products said that the doe antlers had "the same tissues and medical functions as the pilose antlers of stags," the agency said.

The same institute also found a hormone therapy to make male deer grow new antlers sooner after their old ones are cut, it added.

NCNA did not specify what species of deer were used in either experiment.

Some 300,000 deer - both stags and does - are being raised thoughout China it said.

WOLFSBURG (AUG. 30) - Volkswagen said here Thursday it achieved group earnings of 428 million marks (274 million dollars) in the first half of 1990, up 6.2 percent on the same period last year.

The earnings rise kept pace with group turnover, which also increased by 6.2 percent, to 35.2 billion marks, VW said.

The company said that with demand for automobiles remaining strong, the VW,

Audi and Spanish Seat divisions sold 1.545 million vehicles in the first six months, up 2.8 percent on the same period of 1989.

Of the total, 1.179 million vehicles were sold in West Germany and Western Europe, a gain of 1.7 percent, VW said.

VW sold 101,458 cars in North America, up 0.9 percent, while sales by the Autolatina division in Brazil and Argentina fell 19.4 percent to 108,624. Deliveries by VW's subsidiary in Mexico surged 85.9 percent to 69,672 cars.

STUTTGART (AUG. 30) - The automotive, aerospace, electronics and trading conglomerate Daimler-Benz reported here Tuesday a net profit of 840 million marks (538 million dollars) in the first half of 1990, barely higher than its earnings in the same period last year.

Daimler-Benz said its world group turnover reached 40.37 billion marks, up five percent on turnover in the first half of 1989, when the company produced a net profit of 830 million marks.

Now organized in four separate divisions, Daimler-Benz said the figures were based on the performance of three of the divisions, since the fourth unit just started up on July 1.

The Mercedes-Benz carmaking division posted turnover of 29.55 billion marks, up six percent on the first half of 1989. Car sales in the first six months reached 286,000, up three percent.

The electronics division under the Aeg subsidiary produced turnover of 5.82 billion marks, up four percent, nearly all the growth resulting from domestic business. New orders reached 7.13 billion marks, up six percent.

The Deutsche Aerospace (Dasa) division in which such firms as Dornier, Messerschmitt-Boelkow-Blohm and Mtu are grouped had a turnover of 4.87 billion marks, up five percent.

The fourth division, Daimler-Benz InterServices (debis), began operations on July 1. debis group includes financial services, insurance, trade, and marketing operations.

SEOUL (AUG. 30) - South and North Korea were a step closer Thursday to a historic meeting of their prime ministers here next week, with North Korean officials handing over a list of delegates to the encounter, officials said.

The Pyongyang officials handed over the list during a two-and-a-half hour meeting at the border truce village of Panmunjom, said the officials.

The South Korean side gave a written guarantee for the safety of the North Korean delegation and both sides agreed that the four-day meeting would take place beginning Tuesday as scheduled.

The two sides also reached agreement on the itinerary to be followed, the officials said.

It will be the first meeting of prime ministers from the two rival states.

The North Korean delegation will comprise 90 visitors - seven high-level delegates to the conference, 33 supporting staff and 50 journalists. They will stay here for three nights and four days and will be lodged at the plush Intercontinental Hotel in southern Seoul.

The delegation will be led by Yon Hyong-Muk, the prime minister of North Korea.

There will be two rounds of prime ministerial talks, the first scheduled for September 5 and second for the following day, the officials said.

TOKYO (AUG. 30) - Japanese Finance Minister Ryutaro Hashimoto left Thursday for Paris, the first stop of a four-nation European tour to review the Gulf crisis and its effect on the world economy with his counterparts.

Mr. Hashimoto left Tokyo after his announcement that Japan would provide one billion dollars in aid to support the Gulf multinational force and relieve the nations worst affected by the crisis.

His tour, ending September 6, will take him to France, Italy, West Germany and Britain and focus on talks with his European counterparts on the increase in world crude oil prices and resulting inflationary pressures, ministry officials said.

He will also push the idea of multitlateral aid to the three countries worst affected by the Gulf crisis, Egypt, Turkey and Jordan, with the participation of the large industrialized nations, the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank.

SEOUL (AUG. 30) - South Korean stock prices plunged more than three percent on Thursday, ending a three-day rally, as the market was disappointed with new government measures aimed at boosting the market.

The Composite Index fell 20.92 points to close at 626.85, reflecting investors' disappointment at the measures announced Thursday, according to dealers. One dealer said they did not contain anything substantial.

Losses overwhelmed gains 749 to 68, with 312 shares falling to their daily limit lows. Trading volume totaled about 16 million shares, compared with 22 million shares on Wednesday.

Stock prices had risen for the third consecutive session Wednesday on hopes of an easing of tension in the Middle East and expectations about the market-boosting measures.

"We were flooded with selling orders right after the announcement, as investors were reacting nervously to the measures," a dealer said. "They think the measures do not include anything significant."

The government's move included doubling a market stabilization fund to 2.2 trillion won (three billion dollars) by the end of next month and allowing some pension funds to invest directly in the Korean Stock Exchange to broaden the demand base.

"The measures are far from being sufficient. There is no cure remaining but for the government to give direct financial support, as special bank loans to institutional investors and security firms," the dealer said.

Institutional investors and security firms have run out of funds as they have been urged by the government to buy stocks to support stock prices in the past few months.

Many security firms have also faced the risk of bankruptcy due to the falling market, which has lost almost 40 percent in value since the peak in April, market sources said.

MOSCOW (AUG. 30) - Armenian militants organised as a private army surrendered Thursday in the republican capital Yerevan after spending the night under siege by Soviet soldiers and police, according to Soviet reports.

Some 200 leading members of the Armenian National Army ''surrendered voluntarily'' and began handing in their weapons, Tass news agency and the independent Interfax news service reported.

The militia general staff including commander Asmik Vassilyan were arrested, Tass said, quoting the Soviet Interior Ministry.

The capitulation followed an outbreak of fighting Wednesday in Yerevan in which at least one parliament deputy was killed.

Soviet Interior Ministry troops declared a state of emergency across the Caucasian republic, imposed a curfew in Yereven and sealed off the city district housing the militia headquarters.

Armenian parliament leader Levon Ter-Petrossyan, who helped mediate the surrender conditions, told the Supreme Soviet in Moscow that militia units in other parts of Armenia had also capitulated.

Fighters who gave up their weapons to authorities were being allowed to go free, Ter-Petrossyan reported.

The curfew and emergency would continue ''until peace and quiet reign in all of Armenia'', Ter-Petrossyan said.

Weapons found at the militia headquarters included some 700 kilograms of explosives, Interfax reported.

MOSCOW (AUG. 30) - Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev and other top officials met here Thursday to finalize plans for radical reform of the centralised Soviet economy in favour of market forces, Tass news agency said.

"We are on the threshold of major decisions," on the future of the economy and reform of the union treaty, Mr. Gorbachev's newly-appointed spokesman Vitaly Ignatenko had told journalists on Wednesday.

"The coming months will be decisive," he added.

The Presidential Council, which regroups over a dozen advisors appointed by Mr. Gorbachev, including Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzhkov, and the Council of the Federation, which includes all the leaders of the 15 Soviet republics, including Russian President Boris Yeltsin, were meeting to review proposals for economic reform which will be submitted to the Supreme Soviet, or parliament, early next month.

Last May, the parliament rejected the government's initial proposals for transition to a market economy, calling for more detailed plans and greater emphasis on social protection for those low-income categories most at risk from the expected increases in prices and unemployment.

Implementation of the reform is expected to begin next January.

Two commissions - one headed by Mr. Ryzhkov, the other chaired jointly by Mr. Gorbachev and Mr. Yeltsin - have been holding separate meetings over the summer to discuss the plans for reform.

Initially, the Gorbachev-Yeltsin commission was meant to discuss only inter-republican economic ties in the context of a reform of the treaty of the union which Mr. Gorbachev plans for this year.

But Mr. Yeltsin later made plain the commission was also discussing wide-ranging alternative plans for economic reform, and he warned Mr. Ryzhkov he would submit these to the Russian federation parliament if the federal government failed to take them into account at the national level.

Differences between the two commissions appear to hinge mostly on the pace of reforms and how to implement price deregulation.

Mr. Yeltsin has also made clear in his own "500-day" economic reform programme that he wants rapid and wide-scale denationalization.

BONN (AUG. 30) - The West German ruling and opposition parties were Thursday to make a new bid to settle the thorny issue of abortion rights in a unified Germany, the final obstacle to signature Friday of a unity treaty with East Germany.

A meeting of party leaders broke up late Wednesday night with conservatives still in conflict with the opposition Social Democratic Party over some parts of the document.

Earlier, Chancellor Helmut Kohl's Christian Democratic Union (CDU) and its sister party the Christian Social Union (CSU) appeared to have made an important concession, allowing West German women to travel to East German territory to benefit from East Germany's liberal abortion laws during an interim period following unification.

West Germany in that time would keep its own strict law making pregnancy termination illegal except for restricted medical and social reasons.

However, further negotiations which ran late into the night finally ended in disarray, Mr. Kohl refusing a proposal by Oskar Lafontaine's Social Democrats for a five-year transition period, a solution backed by the liberal Free Democrats, junior partners in the governing coalition.

The Christian Democrats had suggested a two-year ceiling.

Both sides agreed on the need for time to allow an overall review of abortion legislation soon after the two Germanys merge. A new law would then be formulated by the all-German parliament that will emerge after pan-German elections scheduled for December 2.

MOSCOW (AUG. 30) - The Soviet Union may run out of medicines by early next year because of production problems affecting its pharmaceutical industry, the Trud newspaper on Thursday quoted Health Minister Igor Denisov as saying.

The industry will only be able to meet about 30 percent of domestic demand for drugs in 1991, the minister said.

"But as early as next February, the country may run out of drugs altogether, since the pharmaceutical industry is crumbling even more rapidly than the rest of the economy," Mr. Denisov said.

The trade union newspaper said that of the nearly 4,500 essential medicines, 1,200 were not produced in the Soviet Union and that production of another 1,900 only satisfied 20 to 40 percent of demand.

Trud went on to warn that unless the situation was rectified, the cigarette riots of this summer would be followed by aspirin riots next year.

The problems in the industry are largely due to the fact that its manufacturing plants are antiquated, the most recent plant being 10 years old.

Many local authorities, concerned at possible environmental damage, oppose the building of new plants or demand the closure of old factories on their territory.

The communist party newspaper Pravda warned in November that without large imports of foreign drugs and medicine, the Soviet health service would be paralysed.

The Soviet pharmaceutical industry last year was meeting only 40 percent of local demand, with foreign imports accounting for only another 35 percent, the paper said.

SYDNEY (AUG. 30) - A consortium including two Japanese companies won control Thursday of Australian coal-miner Oakbridge Ltd. after a rival bidder withdrew its takeover bid.

The consortium said it had paid 155 million Australian dollars (129 million U.S.) for a 69 percent Oakbridge stake from Elders Resources NZFP Ltd., which had earlier made a 300 million dollar (249 million U.S.) takeover bid.

"I'm surprised it has taken so long for us to succeed," said Tony Lawrance, managing director of McIlwraith McEacharn, which is part of the consortium that includes Toyo Menka Kaisha Ltd. and Nippon Oil (Australia) Pty. Ltd.

KUALA LUMPUR (AUG. 30) - Poland is seeking Malaysian private-sector and government aid in the reconstruction of its economy, Malaysian Foreign Minister Abu Hassan Omar said Thursday.

Mr. Abu Hassan told reporters after talks with Andrej Stelmachowski, the president of the Polish Senate, that Warsaw wanted Malaysians to participate in its privatisation exercise and to enter into joint ventures with Poles in the manufacturing sector.

Mr. Abu Hassan said that the Polish government had asked Malaysia's telecommunications sector to help develop Poland's telecommunications system. A local company, Sapura Holdings Sdn. Bhd., was pursuing the matter, he said.

Mr. Stelmachowski also suggested that Malaysia and Poland sign a cultural and scientific agreement to further promote ties between the two countries the Malaysian minister said.

He also said Malaysia was interested in winning Poland's cooperation to fight drug abuse.

"The anti-drugs task force is discussing (a bilateral cooperation agreement) with the Polish ambassador here," he said.

ANKARA (AUG. 30) - Venezuela's ambassador to Kuwait has resigned his post accusing his government of indifference to the desperate plight of 32 Venezuelan citizens in Kuwait, it was learned here Thursday

The resignation of Jose de Jesus Osio, who arrived in Ankara with his family last Saturday, was announced by the Venezuelan embassy in Ankara.

Mr. de Jesus Osio said in an interview with the Turkish press that he was worried about Venezuelans in Kuwait City where the Venezuelan embassy had been closed in response to an Iraqi ultimatum that all foreign embassies in Kuwait be shut down by midnight last Friday.

Mr. de Jesus Osio's said he had to leave Kuwait on August 21, three days before the time limit set by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein. The ultimatum was rejected by several countries, and Western countries in particular, who continue to sit it out in their missions.

Mr. de Jesus Osio said 32 Venezuelan nationals, largely women married to Kuwaitis, were still in Kuwait.

"I had to leave them in Kuwait in spite of my own efforts and I resigned my post because of the indifference of the government," he said.

Jerusalem (AUG. 30) - Palestinians on the West Bank and in the Gaza Strip Thursday observed a general strike called by the Hammas Islamic fundamentalist movement and the Unified Leadership of the Intifada to protest against United States intervention in the Gulf.

No violent incidents were reported but shops and offices throughout the occupied territories were closed all day, while only a handful of Palestinians left for work inside Israel.

The United Leadership leaflet, which called the general strike, praised the mediation efforts of Palestine Liberation Organisation leader Yassir Arafat and was firm in its condemnation of the U.S. But the Hammas leaflet signalled for the first time a backing-away of support for the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

The leaflet said ''Kuwaitis must be allowed to determine their own future'', called on Palestinian's to concentrate on preparing civil defence measures and, unlike previous statements, made no condemnation of Saudi Arabia.

In Gaza meanwhile defence sources confirmed that some 60 residents of the Rafiah refugee camp had been arrested since the imposition of a general curfew on the area on Saturday.

Army officers said that the curfew had been imposed to prevent bloody clashes between supporters of the Hammas and Fatah movement which resulted in the death of a Fatah activist at the weekend.

COLOMBO (AUG. 30) - Helicopters evacuated 40 wounded soldiers from a northern camp besieged by Tamil rebels, the government said Thursday, as the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam continued to resist an army offensive in the Jaffna region.

Deputy Defence Minister Ranjan Wijeratne said soldiers were rebuilding a key causeway blown up by the rebels to strategic Jaffna fort, where 200 soldiers and police have been trapped by a Tamil cordon for nearly three months.

The minister, who toured the area Wednesday, said troops would be able to proceed to the fort within the next two days.

At the Mullaitivu army camp in the northeast coastal area, under siege since Sunday, helicopters evacuated wounded men after a first bid failed due to heavy rebel mortar fire that damaged one chopper, the minister said.

Wijeratne said the helicopters had dropped more troops, ammunition and food at the army camp. More than 150 Tamil rebels and five soldiers had been killed in the siege fighting, he said.

But Indian reports in New Delhi said two helicopters had been downed by rebel fire.

Contradictory accounts of the Jaffna fighting reached New Delhi, with some reports saying the blasted causeway remained out of commission, separating government reinforcements from the fort.

Military sources in Colombo said the Tamil rebels blew up more bridges and culverts around Jaffna fort Wednesday night, further delaying the operation to break the siege that began last Wednesday.

VIENNA (AUG. 30) - West Germany, supported by East Germany, formally agreed Thursday in Vienna at the conference on Conventional Forces in Europe (CFE) to reduce troop levels in a unified Germany to 370,000 over three to four years.

The 16 NATO countries also proposed to the seven Warsaw Pact members that the first phase (CFE-1) of the disarmament treaty make provision for later negotiations, notably on reducing troop levels for all armed forces in Europe.

Negotiations on a second CFE treaty are expected to begin immediately following the 35-member CSCE summit (all European countries except Albania and including the United Sates and Canada) set for Paris in November.

NATO also proposed that the two alliances agree not to increase their troop levels in the period leading up to ratification of the the first CFE treaty.

West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher, supported by East German Prime Minister Lothar de Maiziere, was in Vienna to formally make the commitment to the German troop reductions.

The commitment follows an accord reached between West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev at their mid-July meeting in the Caucasus mountains.

Apart from the the 370,000 troop level ceiling, that accord called for a ceiling of 345,000 troops for ground and air forces in a unified Germany.

The German commitment and the NATO proposition on the same day sends a signal that Germany will not be singled out, but at the same time accepts the limits placed on its armed forces, a Soviet condition for acceptance of a unified Germany belonging to the NATO alliance, Western sources said.

The leader of the Soviet delegation to the negotiations, Oleg Grinevsky, said the Soviet Union welcomed the commitment by West Germany and the NATO proposal on future troops reduction talks.

Mr. Grinevsky withdrew a Soviet proposal made in February which called for a reduction of troop levels in Central Europe for both alliances to 700,000 to 750,000 each.

He said that given German unification and the Soviet withdrawal from Central Europe, there would be a two to one imbalance in favour of the NATO alliance in Central Europe for armaments concerned by the treaty.

He unilaterally proposed limiting ceilings for the two alliances to 4,000 to 4,500 tanks, 6,000 armoured combat vehicles and 3,500 artillery pieces.

The other categories concerned in the Vienna negotiations are planes, combat helicopters and troop levels.

Meanwhile, the two German leaders emphasized that the commitment made Thursday was an "important contribution" to troop reductions in Europe. They said achieving an accord before the CSCE summit was a "necessity."

Mr. de Maiziere added that the future accord would not bear East Germany's signature, since it will have been united with West Germany.

Mr. Genscher said it was necessary to make an effort for a consensus without getting bogged down in areas where consensus was not possible, compromising the "historic chance for an unprecedented breakthrough in Europe in the domain of disarmament."

The two German leaders said they were in favour of "institutionalisation" of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe.

Mr. de Maiziere mentioned again his proposition that Berlin be made a "conflict prevention centre," the need for which was recognized by all countries,
he said.

Mr. Grinevsky said Thursday the Soviet Union supported the idea of such a centre in Berlin.

On the Gulf crisis, Mr. de Maiziere said it was the first time the superpowers did not find themselves in an adversarial role.

"It is a success of mutual confidence" which has increased over the last few years, he said.

The full CFE session was the first to which journalists were admitted since the CFE conference began in March 1989.

SEOUL (AUG. 30) - Hundreds of South Korean students accusing President Roh Tae-Woo's government of oppressing school newspapers clashed with riot police at two universities here Thursday.

At Kukmin University in northern Seoul, some 300 students fought with riot police at the entrance to the university, pelting them with Molotov cocktails and rocks for more than an hour.

The police sheltered behind a bumper-to-bumper traffic jam and fired teargas shells at the students across the street.

The riot police stormed the campus to quell the demonstration but they were forced back immediately by the students, shouting slogans such as "stop oppressing our newspapers" and "abolish the National Security Law."

A similar clash occured at the Korea University for Foreign Studies in notheastern Seoul. There were no immediate reports of any arrests or injuries resulting from the clashes.

NEW DELHI (AUG. 30) - The Indian government will sell nearly 20 ton of smuggled gold to jewelry exporters to ease pressure on foreign exchange in the wake of the Gulf crisis, a senior minister said Thursday.

Finance Minister Madhu Dandavate told parliament that 18.89 tons of gold seized from smugglers would be sold at international prices to save the foreign exchange which would have been spent on buying it abroad.

The minister did not say when the sales, to be carried out through the state-owned State Bank of India, would begin.

The announcement was welcomed by the Bombay Bullion Association, which called it "a good step and a good beginning", and appealed to the government to make similar sales on the domestic market.

Mr. Dandavate said India's foreign exchange reserves totalled three billion U.S. dollars on Wednesday of this week, compared to about 2.8 billion dollars a year ago. "I am not happy about (the situation)," he said.

Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait has caused fears of a serious petroleum shortage in India which used to buy some 40 per cent of its crude from Baghdad, and has now to seek new markets at increased rates.

NICOSIA (AUG. 30) - The Reverend Jesse Jackson met Wednesday in Baghdad with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tareq Aziz, who reiterated his country's historical claims to Kuwait, the Iraqi News Agency (INA) reported.

Aziz also referred to President Saddam Hussein's initiative of Aug. 12 linking all issues of occupation in the Middle East, including Israel's seizure of Arab territories.

INA said the talks focused on the "threat to security and stability in the entire region posed by the concentration of American troops."

The Rev. Jackson travelled Wednesday to Baghdad from the Jordanian capital on what he called a "journalistic" mission to interview President Hussein. The visit was expected to last several days, INA said.

The U.S. politician, a candidate for the Democratic Party's 1988 U.S. presidential nomination, has stressed the "need to adopt a peaceful option to solve the Gulf crisis," which was sparked the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait August 2.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 30) - The U.S. Government says it will investigate whether some Japanese computer screens are being dumped on U.S. markets at below market value, cutting into the domestic industry.

The International Trade Commission (ITC) found imports of some screens and subassemblies were unfair to the U.S. industry.

The finding means the Commerce Department will conduct an anti-dumping investigation with hearings. A preliminary decision is due Dec. 28, the ITC said.

The equipment is known as high-information content displays for color or black-and-white text, graphics or images of computer output. It is also in data-processing machines, word processors, television receivers and scientific instruments.

The commission took action Wednesday after a petition was filed by the trade group Advanced Display Manufacturers of America. The announcement did not say to what extent the Japanese products had penetrated the U.S. market.

JERUSALEM (AUG. 30) - Israeli police have seized an arms cache which Jewish extremists had intended to use to blow up the Dome of the Rock, one of Islam's holiest shrines, it was reported here Thursday.

News media reports said that investigators were led to the cache, which included anti-tank missiles and other weapons, by a radical Jewish activist who was caught in 1984 trying to smuggle 13 kilos of explosives and 15 hand grenades to the Dome of the Rock.

Police believe that the activist, 31-year-old Shimon Barda, stole the weapons from an army depot for a second attempt on the mosque when he escaped from jail in mid-1988.

PARIS (AUG. 30) - The French minister for European affairs told farmers on Thursday that their violent demonstrations and road blocks to protest falling meat prices were unacceptable and ran counter to Economic European Community principles.

"Such acts cannot be accepted," Edith Cresson said in a statement after Wednesday's national day of action, during which dozens of people were injured as some 200,000 angry French farmers clashed with security forces.

Mrs. Cresson said that the farmers' actions "call into question the principle of free circulation, which is the basis of the Common Market".

She argued that French exports could suffer if the French farmers kept up their protests.

In the latest incident, about 50 farmers forcibly unloaded two delivery trucks from West Germany late Wednesday and sprayed their beef consignments with diesel fuel in the central French town of Montlucon, police said.

Earlier in the day, the farmers had blocked roads, dumped manure outside administrative buildings and set free dozens of sheep to give a "last warning" to the government.

The protests marked the culmination of a month-long campaign by breeders who have poisoned or set fire to consignments of lamb and beef from Britain and East Germany, accused of depressing the French market by dumping lower-priced meat.

The breeders claim that measures envisaged by French Agriculture Minister Henri Nallet are insufficient.

"If decisions are not taken within the next few days to find compensation for farmers' losses, they are capable of paralysing the whole country," farmers' union leader Raymond Lacombe said.

ISLAMABAD (AUG. 30) - At least 10 people were killed and dozens injured when bombs exploded in a train compartment and a crowded market in Pakistan's Punjab province Thursday, officials said.

Seven people died as an explosion ripped through a train soon after it left nearby Rawalpindi for Lahore, capital of Punjab province, about 288 kilometres (172 miles) southeast of here.

According to railway officials the bomb was placed in the toilet of a second class compartment carrying 80 passengers. Two men, two women and three children died instantly and seven were seriously wounded, they said.

Almost simultaneously, an explosive device believed to be a time-bomb went off in a busy shopping centre in the industrial city of Faislabad, killing three people and injuring 25, officials said.

The condition of five of the injured was reported to be serious.

The explosion was the first reported in Faislabad and witnesses said it caused panic in the city. The bomb, placed under a juice vendor's cart in the Anarkali bazar, left a one-foot deep crater.

There were no immediate arrests. Police cordoned off the area, witnesses reported.

LONDON (AUG. 30) - British insurance company Guardian Royal Exchange (GRE) reported Thursday that it had a loss of 83.8 million pounds (about 162 million dollars) for the first half of the year, compared with a profit of 100.1 million pounds for the same period last year.

However, the interim dividend was increased by 10 percent to 4.4 pence, against the previous four. The loss per share was 6.8 pence, against a profit of 7.2 pence per share for the first six months last year.

The loss was much larger that the most pessimistic forecasts of analysts, who had expected a shortfall of 30 to 50 million pounds. The GRE shares were off one penny on the stock exchange at 195 in mid-session, in a rising market.

Losses due to storms last winter made a large contribution to the losses, while other factors were a rise in claims on the British auto market and sharper competition among insurers worldwide. Some local difficulties on the Italian and Irish markets also had an influence.

LONDON (AUG. 30) - Tin prices for three-months delivery fell below 6,000 dollars per ton here Thursday for the first time since the contract was re-listed on the London Metal Exchange (LME) 15 months ago.

The metal was quoted at 5,975 dollars per ton at mid-session, down from 6,065 on Wednesday, depressed by continuing gloom over world oversupply. Analysts said that the metal could now test the 5,800-dollars-per-ton support level.

The LME tin contract, re-introduced in June last year after a four-year suspension following the collapse of the International Tin Council in 1985, has fallen steadily from the 10,000-dollar level at which it was first re-quoted.

Steadily growing LME stocks reflecting severe market oversupply hit 12,000 tons four months ago and have remained close to that level ever since.

Prices enjoyed a brief rally earlier this month on hopes that Brazil, the world's largest producer, would join the Association of Tin Producing Countries' price support quota system, but fell back after the expected move failed to occur.

HELSINKI (AUG. 30) - British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher on Thursday criticized Europe's military response to the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

Addressing European conservative parties, she said, "The only countries in Europe which have done significantly more than the minimum are Britain and France.

"At the political level, Europe's response has been very satisfactory, in defence terms it was much slower and more patchy," she said.

Mrs. Thatcher, who spoke on the first day of a two-day conference, said external aspects are a crucial part of any new security arrangements in Europe.

"Security in Europe depends also on NATO outside areas. NATO must also be prepared to move ready forces out of its area," she said.

Addressing Western European security, she said, "We are going to need both the willpower and the military forces to defend our interests in the rest of the world, in partnership with the United States. A new European security order means continuing United States and Canadian presence, to station nuclear weapons."

Mrs. Thatcher spoke at the biennial conference of the European Democratic Union, which groups more than two dozen center-right parties from 18 European countries. She was due to return to London later Thursday.

Also attending the conference, French conservative leader and Mayor of Paris Jacques Chirac ruled out any return of France to the military command of NATO.

In the Gulf crisis, "the collaboration of France with its allies has worked well," Mr. Chirac, leader of the Rally for the Republic party (RPR) said.

BANGKOK (AUG 30) - An Iraqi official warned it would be a dangerous step for Thailand to allow the United States to use Thai bases as a staging area to send forces to the Gulf, the English-language Bangkok Post reported Thursday.

The paper said the warning was made by Khalaf Khatav, a member of the Iraqi ruling Arab Socialist Party (Baath), here on a four-day visit.

"We are hoping that Thailand would not take such a dangerous step to cause the Gulf situation to deteriorate and to consider the interests and relations between Thailand and Iraq," Mr. Khatav was quoted as saying.

"We believe Thailand has enough wisdom and long-sightedness to keep friendly relations with Iraq," he said.

His remarks came after reports that the United States was using the U-Tapao naval base near Bangkok as a staging area for troops on their way to the Gulf.

One report said the United States had stationed at least 10 C-5 Galaxy transport planes at the base.

Mr. Khatav said he did not believe the reports, but said: "If the reports are confirmed, it will force us to reciprocate."

The newpaper said Mr. Khatav did not elaborate.

Thai Prime Minister Chatichai Choonhavan has strongly denied that the United States has been given permission to use U-Tapao as a staging point.

He insisted that U.S. planes were only allowed to use the base as a refueling stop, adding that such an agreement had been in existance for years.

U.S. Embassy officials in Bangkok have also denied the reports.

"U.S. aircraft routinely transit Thai facilities. However, the U.S. government has not requested the use of U-Tapao as a staging area for U.S. forces," said embassy spokesman James Williams.

SOFIA (AUG. 30) - Bulgarian Prime Minister Andrei Lukanov was called on by parliament Thursday to form a new government, official sources said.

On the recommendation of President Zhelio Zhelev, parliament voted with a large majority in favour of Mr. Lukanov, 51, who handed in his government's resignation on August 7 after his Socialist Party's victory in free elections in June.

Mr. Lukanov's Socialists, the former communists, continued to govern in a caretaker capacity while seeking to make alliances to form a new "national responsibility" government.

Bulgaria's opposition parties have refused to participate in a coalition government with the former communists.

On Monday, rival demonstrations for and against the Socialist Party brought thousands of people onto Sofia's central square.

The Socialists called their supporters out to "protest against political extremism" after its headquarters were ransacked and set ablaze by hundreds of anti-communist demonstrators the previous night.

While several thousand Socialist sympathisers gathered on the square, hundreds of their opponents appeared on the other side shouting "Down with communism."

FRANKFURT (AUG. 30) - East Germany will issue, for the second time, Deutsche mark-denominated treasury bills guaranteed by West Germany, the West German Bundesbank (central bank) announced here on Thursday.

The Bundesbank is in charge of the operation, as it usually is of similar West German operations.

The issue will be on a tender basis, and the securities will be of the zero coupon type. The central bank is to announce the tender results in a few days.

East Germany floated its first such issue at the end of July for a total of 3.64 billion Deutsche marks (about 2.4 billion dollars).

NEW DELHI (AUG. 30) - India and China began three days of talks here Thursday on a simmering border dispute that triggered a war between them in 1962.

The leader of the Chinese delegation, Vice Foreign Minister Qi Huaiyuan, who arrived earlier Thursday, and India's Foreign Secretary Muchkund Dubey shook hands at the start of the talks at Hyderabad House.

No details were immediately available.

The discussions are the second meeting of the Sino-Indian Joint Working Group (JWG), which was set up following then premier Rajiv Gandhi's trip to China in December 1988.

The JWG is to have two sessions Thursday and Friday, and a concluding one on Saturday before Mr. Qi returns home.

The JWG held its inaugural meeting in Beijing last year.

The Sino-Indian border dispute involves nearly 130,000 square kilometers (52,000 square miles) of Himalayan terrain, over which the two giant neighbours fought a bitter-but-brief war 28 years ago.

Relations between the two countries have improved considerably in recent years from the virtual post-war freeze, but the border dispute persists despite eight rounds of talks between New Delhi and Beijing on the subject.

On Wednesday, Indian External Affairs Minister Inder Kumar Gujral declined to comment on the second JWG meeting, saying the nature of talks was "sensitive and delicate."

Also Wednesday, Mr. Gujral announced that Chinese Prime Minister Li Peng would visit India shortly, the first trip to New Delhi by a Chinese premier in three decades.

Mr. Li's trip, the dates of which are to be worked out, would be in exchange for Mr. Gandhi's December 1988 visit.

Indian officials said they would also discuss bilateal, regional and international issues of mutual interest, including the Gulf crisis and ties between New Delhi and Islamabad, a close ally of China.

DUBLIN (AUG. 30) - The Irish High Court has appointed an examiner to supervise the affairs of Goodman International, Europe's leading meat exporter which is in difficulty due to the forced halt to exports to Iraq.

The appointment of the examiner will protect Goodman International, the pillar of the empire of "meat king" Larry Goodman, from its creditors for a maximum of four months.

The High Court decision came on Wednesday minutes after a special session of the Irish parliament voted to create a bankruptcy protection code inspired by Chapter 11 of the U.S. bankruptcy law.

The government had proposed an urgent amendment to the country's bankruptcy laws to protect Goodman, which controls almost half of the Irish meat market and accounts for some five percent of gross national product.

Goodman International, which is 98 percent controlled by Mr. Goodman, has debts totalling 460 million Irish punt (790 million dollars) plus 200 million punt (345 million dollars) in bank guarantees.

But it is owed 180 million punt (310 million dollars) in unpaid credit in Iraq. Exports to Iraq have had to stop because of a U.N. embargo on trade with that country following its invasion of Kuwait on August 2.

Goodman's troubles stem from its high debt, the embargo on trade with Iraq and "mad cow disease" or bovine spongeiform encephalitis which has hit beef sales in Britain.

Goodman International said in a statement that it would cooperate fully with the court-appointed examiner, adding that the move was needed to protect Irish beef farmers.

PARIS (AUG. 30) - The Paris Bourse confirmed Wednesday's uptrend with an advance of 1.45 percent on Thursday, on the basis of the CAC 40 index.

The index was up by 1.08 percent at the opening, and by more than 2.5 per cent an hour later, but profit-taking then set in, particularly after a weak opening on Wall Street.

Experts also noted that the Bourse has gained almost 14 percent on the basis of the CAC 40 since its recent low, reached on August 22, and that rise looks too fast to some people in the light of continuing uncertainties about the Gulf conflict.

Lower oil prices have helped improve the mood on the Bourse, as they make recession less likely in the industrial economies.

Among major issues scoring good gains on Thursday were Bouygues, 4.5 per cent, Thomson-CSF, four, and LVMH, 3.8 percent. Intertechnique jumped by 7.3 percent and Cegid seven percent.

Concept was off by 8.3 percent, and Ecco 4.7 percent.

ABU DHABI (AUG. 30) - Yemen's minister of state for foreign affairs, Abdel Aziz Dali, here Thursday denied reports that Iraqi warplanes had been deployed in his country.

Mr. Dali, quoted by the United Arab Emirates news agency WAM, also denied reports of an airlift between Yemen and Iraq in violation of the U.N. Security Council trade embargo against Baghdad for its invasion of Kuwait.

Such newspaper reports were "aimed at harming Yemen's image and implicating it in the Gulf crisis," he said.

There was "no reason for the stationing of Iraqi warplanes in Yemen," the Yemeni official said, adding that his country did not have enough planes to organize an airlift to Baghdad.

British Defence Secretary Tom King has said the reported Iraqi deployment of Soviet-made MiG fighters in Yemen was a "potential threat" for the region, a United Arab Emirates newspaper reported earlier Thursday.

The Gulf News, in a dispatch from its correspondent in Muscat, said Mr. King made the remarks Wednesday during a visit to Oman.

JOHANNESBURG (AUG. 30) - The African National Congress announced Thursday that its controversial military chief of staff, Chris Hani, will lead a team to talks with the government on matters relating to the ANC's decision to suspend its armed struggle.

The inclusion of Mr. Hani is likely to be protested by the government, which last week stripped him of a three-month immunity from prosecution relating to previous crimes against the state.

Last month, President Frederik de Klerk criticised a statement by Mr. Hani that the ANC might have to seize power if talks towards constitutional negotiations broke down.

Security officials have warned that Mr. Hani, who has been in the Transkei tribal homeland since the indemnity expired on August 19, could be arrested if he returned to South African soil.

But ANC spokeswoman Gill Marcus said Thursday that the government had been informed of Mr. Hani's inclusion.

"We can't hold talks if the key players aren't there," she said. "Any reasonable person would be keen to move forward on the question of the suspension of the armed struggle."

She said the ANC had protested to the government over the withdrawal of immunity relating to Mr. Hani and from two of his colleagues, Mac Maharaj who is in detention, and Ronnie Kasrils, who is in hiding.

In an earlier statement, the ANC said its six-man delegation would meet a government team headed by Law and Order Minister Adriaan Vlok sometime next week, but did not give a date.

The meeting follows the historic Pretoria Minute, an accord between the government and the ANC issued on August 6 in which the ANC announced it was suspending its 29-year armed struggle against the white minority government.

Under the Pretoria Minute it was agreed that a joint ANC-government working group would be established to resolve all matters arising from the ANC's decision and that the group should draft a report by September 15.

Other members of the ANC team include the commander of the movement's armed wing, Umkhonto we Sizwe, Joe Modise; security chief Jacob Zuma; international affairs head Thabo Mbeki and National Executive Committee members Joe Nhlanhla and Pallo Jordan.

The statement said that Mr. Vlok will be accompanied by representatives of the departments of constitutional development, justice and foreign affairs and of the National Intelligence Services, South Africa's secret service.

DUBLIN (AUG. 30) - Irish teacher Brian Keenan, who was freed in Beirut last week after four and a half years of captivity at the hands of Islamic militants, Thursday described the nightmares he went through, saying, being held ''hostage is crucifying aloneness''.

''Tiny, tiny cells, constant blindfolds, prolonged days in the dark, sometimes weeks without light create kinds of insanity that drive men deep, deep into themselves,'' Keenan, 39, told reporters here about his ordeal.

''There's a silent screaming slide into the bowels of ultimate despair. Hostage is a man hanging by his fingernails over the edge of chaos and feeling his fingers slowly straightening,'' he said.

Keenan said for some time he shared his cell with U.S. journalist Terry Anderson and later with Briton John McCarthy. Their captors tried to persuade them to convert to Islam and allowed them to read only the Koran. ''We held up our chains and said 'No chance, pal','' the Belfast-born teacher said.

He said his kidpnappers were ''men of 30 years old perhaps - with a 12-year-old mentality. They have access to power on a personal level that they are not developed enough emotionally or psychologically to contain.''

He added: ''I feel no desire for vengeance. These things for myself I find self-maiming.'' Keenan appealed to the media to be careful in their reports on the release of hostages, saying, ''After the release of two U.S. hostages media reports strongly suggested that they had coded tapes given them by their kidnappers to take out.''

''The reports came within a hair's breadth of having some of the remaining hostages summarily executed,'' he added.

SINGAPORE (AUG. 30) - Exiled Kuwaiti Oil Minister Rasheed Salem Al-Ameeri Thursday warned Iraq that if it did not withdraw its troops from Kuwait and ignored negotiations, the ''only option will be war''.

''It is now left to the decision of the world community to resist Iraq's invasion of Kuwait and it should be a collective effort. However, if negotiations do not resolve this gross violation of international law, there is only one option and that is war,'' Al-Ameeri told reporters at the end of a three-day official visit during which he held talks with Singapore leaders on the Gulf crisis.

He said he expected some developments on the Gulf crisis in the next two weeks. He declined to say what these developments might be because, he said, ''we are dealing with a tyrant who disrespects the decisions of the United Nations.''

Al-Ameeri called Iraqi President Saddam Hussein a ''traitor of the Arab world.''

''If one Arab country, like Iraq, can invade another Arab nation, Kuwait, what respect does this man called Saddam Hussein has for the Arab world?'' Al-Ameeri asked.

''The whole world, including the U.N., has resolved to stand by Kuwait against Iraq. Yet, Saddam Hussein is belligerent and opposed to all norms of international law and order,'' he said.

INDIANAPOLIS, Indiana (AUG. 30) - General Colin Powell, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Thursday said Iraqi President Saddam Hussein would not prevail and urged him to accept U.N. demands that he roll back his August 2 invasion of Kuwait.

Addressing his words to the Iraqi leader, Gen. Powell said at a meeting of war veterans of the American Legion here, "Aggression such as yours will be stopped by the nations of the world united against tyranny."

Pointing to talks between Iraqi Foreign Minister Tareq Aziz and U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar scheduled for Friday in Amman, the general expressed hope that Baghdad would heed U.N. resolutions.

"He (Hussein) must return to his border, he must let the legitimate Government return to Kuwait, he must free the hostages (foreigners held against their will) and finally he must learn that in this new era he has to use the weath of the Iraqi people for peace and not squander it on warn.

"Do not misinterpret our interest in peace as weakness. Do not think for a moment that we are cowed or coerced by your actions or your threats. We are made of much tougher stuff than that," Gen. Powell.

The general also said that despite the revolutionary changes sweeping thew world, the "enduring need for a strong America will remain.

He warned against drastic or too deep cuts in the U.S. military budgets and said the nation's armed forces were being restructured to feature:

Reiterating that there was no substitute for American leadership based on strength, Gen. Powell said U.S. forces were being restructured to feature . modern, strategic nuclear forces, including the Strategic Defense Initiative (the space-based shield against attacks); Atlantic forces deployed in Europe and the Middle East with reinforcing forces on U.S. soil; Pacific forces forward deployed, with back-up forces in the United States; and fast-moving contingency forces.

AMMAN (AUG. 30) - Javier Perez de Cuellar, the United Nations Secretary-General, said on arrival here Thursday that he meant to find out if both sides were equally strongly interested in a political resolution of the Gulf conflict.

Exploratory talks between Perez de Cuellar, who says he will press the U.N. Security Council demand for a full withdrawal of Iraqi troops from Kuwait, and Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz were to start late Thursday evening.

A U.N. spokesman said the official dialogue between the two would begin on Friday. Heavy security was in force at the Jordanian capital's military airfield where Perez de Cueallar's plane landed on a flight from Paris.

Western diplomats here said they did not expect any tangible agreement between the U.N. and Iraq to emerge from the talks. But hundreds of foreign media people have arrived in town to cover the meeting.

Perez de Cuellar, 70, told the reporters: ''The situation is explosive. I hope that all parties involved will demonstrate political goodwill.'' He reiterated that he had no mandate to make concessions to the Iraqis, because he was bound by tough Security Council resolutions.

The U.N. secretary-general has cautiously given the Iraqis credit for announcing they would let western and Japanese women leave the country, but said Tuesday in New York that Iraq had to fulfill all the demands of the Security Council.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein flatly rejects the chief demand, an unconditional Iraqi troop withdrawal from Kuwait. Perez said the Iraqi announcement this week making Kuwait the country's 19th province was not exactly helpful.

MOSCOW (AUG. 30) - The deployment of U.S. forces in Saudi Arabia threatens the strategic balance in the region and the Soviet Union's southern flank, the commander of the Warsaw Pact forces, Soviet General Vladimir Lobov, warned here Thursday.

Should U.S. forces invade Iraq, they would form a single arc between NATO's eastern wing in Turkey and Saudi Arabia, Gen. Lobov, who had just attended a meeting of the Supreme Soviet's foreign relations committee, told Tass news agency.

"What is more, Iraq is only 200 kilometres from the borders of Georgia, Armenia and Azerbaijan, which gives the United States an opportunity to exert pressure on events in this region," the general said.

The three transcaucasian republics are currently in a state of turmoil brought on by increasing inter-ethnic strife.

The U.S. build-up in the Gulf region could also wreck the Vienna talks on conventional disarmament in Europe, Gen. Lobov suggested.

If the United States were to keep in Saudi Arabia the 250,000 troops it plans to send there, this would provide NATO forces in Europe with extra troops which are not counted at the Vienna talks, he said.

Soviet policy should take all this into account, he added.

Earlier Soviet deputy Foreign Minister Alexander Belonogov, briefing the foreign relations committee, said Moscow could not welcome the U.S. build-up in troops in the region, "neither in the short term as this makes the situation more volatile, nor in the long term as are were no guarantees the United States would leave Saudi Arabia after the crisis".

Mr. Belonogov had met earlier in the day with Iraqi Ambassador Ghafil Jassim Hussain, at the latter's request, to discuss the security of Soviet citizens working in Iraq and the evacuation of Soviet women and children from Baghdad, Tass said.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 30) - Jordan's Ambassador to the United States, Hussein Hammami, said Thursday the United States should not try to arbitrate the Gulf crisis while at the same time remaining a strategic Israeli ally.

"The United States cannot be an arbiter of the Arab differences and at the same time the strategic ally of their enemy, Israel," the Jordanian ambassador to the United States said in a news conference.

The ambassador said the presence of foreign troops in the region, particularly American forces, was "counter-productive" and contrary to interests in the region.

The presence of forces in the Gulf "has produced a sense of radicalization and desperation" and it "will not produce stability," Mr. Hammami said. The problems there, he said, should be resolved in an Arab context.

"Arab masses questioned the credibility of the United States as a defender of the rights of the Kuweitis to self-determination when it rejects that right for the Palestinians," Mr. Hammami said.

"When Israel invaded Lebanon in 1982, we did not see an international blockade then," he added.

The ambassador said that the instability in the region "would be used by Israel to solve its own problem at Jordan's expense. Indeed, the first casualty in the event of an outbreak of war might very well be Jordan."

He said that Jordan had asked the United Nations for two billion dollars over five years in compensation for Jordanian enforcement of the international embargo against Iraq and Kuwait.

The embargo will cost Jordan income from its exports to Iraq, and Iraqi payments on its debts to Jordan, Mr. Hammami said. He added the embargo would also increase energy costs, inflation, joblessness and worsen its trade deficit.

MOSCOW (AUG. 30) - Leaders of the para-military Armenian National Army Thursday went on television to announce the organisation had been disbanded and called on members to hand in weapons, Tass news agency reported.

The leaders, Razmik Vasilyan and Vardan Vardanyan, also said all members who wished to join new military structures under the control of the Armenian government would be allowed to do so.

Armenian President Levon Ter-Petrosian Wednesday imposed a state of emergency and a curfew in Armenia after the slaying of a member of parliament by militiamen in the capital Yerevan.

He ordered all militias to disband and hand in their weapons and ordered troops to seize militia headquarters at dawn Thursday.

A number of militia leaders were detained, including Mr. Vasilyan and Mr Vardanyan.

Trouble broke out Tuesday night when members of the ANA clashed with armed volunteers of the ruling Aremnian National Movement, leaving six people dead.

When a group of unarmed ANM officials went to investigate at the ANA headquarters on Wednesday morning, guards opened fire, killing the deputy, Viktor Avazian, and an ANM official.

TAIPEI (AUG. 30) - At least 16 people were killed and about 40 injured in an explosion in northern Taiwan as Typhoon Abe swept through the island Thursday, the Police Broadcasting Corp. said.

Police recovered 13 bodies after the explosion ripped through an electronics factory in Taoyuan, north of Taipei, at about 7:00 p.m. (1100 GMT) and damaged adjacent buildings, the radio station said.

The injured, some suffering from severe burns, were rushed to nearby hospitals, where three later died, it said.

The cause of the blast was under investigation.

Firefighting and rescue work was difficult as the medium-strength typhoon battered the island, the radio station and weathermen said.

In typhoon related incidents, one person went missing and three others were injured, the National Police Administration (NPA) said.

Three boats sank off Taiwan's shores, but no deaths were reported.

All schools and offices were closed, and domestic flights and trains were suspended after land and sea warnings were issued, it said.

About 71,000 homes were left without electricity and low-lying areas of the capital were flooded, the NPA said. Tamsui river was in danger of overflowing, and residents nearby were being evacuated, it said.

Ten days ago, Typhoon Yancy swept through Taiwan, leaving 11 people dead and about 3,000 hectares (7,400 acres) of farmland inundated. Damage caused to rice paddies, vegetable farms and fruit gardens was estimated at 100 million Taiwan dollars (3.88 million U.S.)

MOSCOW (AUG. 30) - The Soviet city of Ufa is living in fear of a toxic cloud formed by a fire that ravaged the largest chemical manufacturing complex in the region last week, the weekly Moscow News reported Thursday.

A blast in one part of the complex that produces synthetic alcohol started a fire that spread for five hours throughout the Khimprom chemical plant in Ufa, the capital of the Bashkir autonomous republic in southern Russia.

The Tass news agency said an "extremely dangerous toxic cloud" containing dioxin formed above the city after the accident.

The Khimprom chemical complex has in the past manufactured Agent Orange, the defoilant used notably by the U.S. military during the Vietnam War. Dioxin is used to produce Agent Orange.

The more than 100 people who were injured by the accident are still in hospital, the newspaper said. Most are firemen and workers in the plant who were burned or poisoned by toxic gas.

The day of the explosion, dangerous levels of phenol, a potentially lethal chemical that paralyses the central nervous system, were discovered in the nearby Ofimka River. The amount of phenol in the river was more than 37 times higher than the acceptable limit.

After the explosion "a stream of chemicals" poured into the local river that provides half of Ufa's million residents with drinking water, the Moscow News said.

The newspaper noted that during the 1960s more than 128 cases of serious illnesses caused by dioxin pollution were discovered at Khimprom.

"There is still chemical spillage and the ovens continue to operate and discharge their poisonous waste," the newspaper said.

All medical centres in the region have been put on a state of alert since the explosion. Some 4,000 patients in hospitals in Ufa had to be moved out of Ufa after the accident, Tass reported.

Residents of the city have demanded that the Khimprom complex be shut down, that studies into dioxin poison be conducted, and that the area be declared an ecological disaster zone.

"But nothing has been done," the Moscow News said, noting that the closing of the Khimprom "chemical monster" would probably call into question several chemical plants in the region.

Last spring, poisonous herbicide was drained into the local river through the drainage system of another unit at the Khimprom complex, but the population was not alerted for several days that the water contained phenol.

When consumed phenol can cause serious lesions in the kidneys and the liver as well as cancer, Aldjet Tourianov, the republic's health minister said.

FURTH, WEST GERMANY (AUG 30) - Elsbeth the wayward pygmy hippopotamus, who outwitted pursuers for a week after escaping from a travelling circus, was back in her trailer tank Thursday following a splashy roundup in a Bavarian river.

The 400-pound hippo snorted in dismay as a team of lifeguards, using nets to prevent yet another escape, cornered her in a bend of the Regnitz River and hauled her ashore with ropes.

Bodo Holscher, director of the Fliegenpilz Circus, said the two-year-old hippo was in good health and that the week-long romp in the Regnitz had helped her work off a bit of unnecessary flab.

She benefitted from unseasonably warm temperatures. Normally cool and rainy Germany has experienced its third-warmest August this century, with temperatures averaging about 20 degrees Celsius during Elsbeth's escapade.

Even so, Holscher said the frigid Bavarian river, with its fast currents, was not an ideal living environment for a tropical hippo.

She is now back in a mobile tank with hippo roommate Gloria.

DURBAN, South Africa (AUG. 30) - The South African government must "break the perception . . . that capitalism and apartheid, or the free-market system and apartheid, are synonymous," Minister of Finance Barend J. du Plessis said here Thursday.

Adressing the annual congress of the Natal province branch of the National Party (NP, in power since 1948), which started Thursday in this coastal city, Mr. du Plessis said that "the fundamental changes that have to be brought about in restructuring the economy cannot be escaped, whoever governs this country."

This "fundamental restructuring," he went on, must be aimed at achieving "a high rate of growth accompanied by a high creation of jobs.

"That's a vital factor to be pondered by those instigating unrest on the labor scene," Mr. du Plessis said.

The economy has grown by 1.3 percent a year on average over the past 10 years, against almost 3 percent a year for the labor force, resulting in a steady increase in unemployment.

A market-oriented economy is "the only way" to achieve high growth and high creation of jobs, Mr. du Plessis said.

"The perception that what they (the black people) suffered was occasioned not only by apartheid, but by the free-market system, is wrong."

The minister stressed that "the requirement for classical apartheid was a totally centralised economy."

Renewing government attacks against nationalisations - a policy advocated by Nelson Mandela's African National Congress (ANC) - Mr. du Plessis asked: "how can you possibly talk about freedom for the individual and at the same time about nationalisations?"

Addressing the congress Thursday morning, Foreign Affairs Minister Pik

Botha said that it was "a bit unfair" to say the ANC was "committed to nationalisations."

Mr. Mandela is "not married to that concept", Mr. Botha quoted the black nationalist leader as saying earlier this month in Pretoria.

Mr. du Plessis said the new South Africa would need "a firm monetary policy" and "a firm tax system".

DURBAN, South Africa (AUG. 30) - Members of the Natal Province branch of South Africa's ruling National Party began their annual congress here Thursday set to hold a historic debate on opening their ranks to all races.

The debate Friday on black membership, to be attended by President Frederik de Klerk, is to follow a resolution put forward by the Richmond branch of the Natal federation calling for the authorisation of double membership in the National Party and the Zulu Inkatha Party.

The resolution, to be put forward Friday after a speech by Mr. de Klerk, would in effect allow, if approved, blacks from the Inkatha Party to join the National Party (NP).

The resolution calls for "optional dual or optional associated membership between the NP and the newly-formed Inkatha Party."

The resolution is considered to be a reflection of a grass-roots party attitude in Natal province, which is the bastion of the Inkatha movement.

Inkatha, a conservative black party headed by chief Mangosuthu Buthelezi, is opposed to the socialist African National Congress (ANC) of Nelson Mandela. More than 4,000 people have been killed in clashes between the two groups since 1986.

The possible opening up of the NP to blacks, though restrictive, was not received warmly by many party members at the congress on Thursday. Many are concerned that an alliance in Natal Province with the controversial Inkatha movement could have negative repercussions at the national level.

Inkatha's rival ANC is the government's principal partner in the South African reform process, and an alliance with the Inkatha Party would therefore be ill-received by Mr. Mandela's supporters.

South African Foreign Minister Pik Botha said Thursday that "we have broken through the isolation" of blacks and whites in the political process.

"We are not smelling roses, I agree, but we are not the polecat of the world anymore," he said.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 30) - President George Bush announced Thursday he was sending Secretary of State James Baker and Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady to Europe, Asia and the Gulf with an ''action plan'' for an allied approach toward military action in in Saudi Arabia.

In a nationally broadcast news conference, Bush termed it ''essential'' that financial factors be coordinated and that all parties with interests in actions against Iraq also assume their ''fair share''.

The president mentioned Japan and West Germany, and said the United States was also willing to carry its ''fair burden''.

Bush said he would inform allied leaders personally of the plan before Baker and Brady arrive in their capitals.

NICOSIA (AUG. 30) - Libya on Thursday denied U.S. State Department charges that it had provided direct support for an aborted Palestinian raid on Israeli beaches in May.

The accusation was "unfounded," a Libyan Foreign Ministry spokesman said, quoted by the Libyan news agency JANA received here.

The spokesman said the charge was part of U.S. efforts to "distract the eyes of the entire world from what is happening in the Gulf and to try and silence Arab voices that condemn and reject the foreign intervention in the region."

The May 30 operation near Tel Aviv by the Palestine Liberation Front (PLF) led to the suspension of an 18-month-old dialogue between the United States and the Palestine Liberation Organisation.

"Libya provided direct support in all phases of preparation for the PLF attack against Israel, from assistance in planning the attack to providing personnel who accompanied the ship from which it was launched," according to the State Department.

Israeli forces intercepted several of the assault boats, captured 12 of the commandos and killed the other four.

PRETORIA (AUG. 30) - South Africa is not considering participating in a peace-keeping force in the Gulf, Foreign Affairs Minister Pik Botha said here Thursday.

"Such a possibility is not considered at all," Mr. Botha said after meeting Dr. W.F. van Eekelen, the secretary-general of the Western European Union, which is charged with securiy and defence matters in nine European countries.

Dr. Van Eekelen said earlier Thursday, at a joint press conference with Mr. Botha, he was trying to get cooperation in the field of security questions the South African news agency SAPA said.

He hoped most countries would present a united position on the Gulf crisis.

Mr. Botha said later that South Africa had not been asked by anyone to participate in a Gulf peace-keeping force and he would be surprised if the government considered such a request.

He rejected as completely untrue suggestions that South Africa was supplying weapons to Iraq.

Mr. Botha said he had issued a statement condemning Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait, and that South Africa would not recognise the government imposed on the emirate.

South Africa had sent messages to the United States saying it was praying for President George Bush, who was "going through painful and lonely moments," Mr. Botha said.

DURBAN, South Africa (AUG. 30) - Zulu and Xhosa leaders Thursday declared an unprecedented truce hours after political leaders met in a bid to end ethnic war in Transvaal and Natal, correspondents said.

At the meeting in this eastern port city, Zulu royal family members, tribal KwaZulu homeland cabinet ministers and traditional Xhosa leaders of the nominally-independent Ciskei and Transkei homelands called for an end to ethnic violence.

The meeting resolved to hold a mass rally in Transvaal province on September 16-17 at which Zulu King Zwelithini Goodwill and Transkei president, paramount chief T.N. Ndamase, will address the warring factions.

Talks between Zulu chief Mangosuthu Buthelezi's Inkatha Party, senior KwaZulu officials, senior black nationalist African National Congress (ANC) officials and their United Democratic Front (UDF) allies "made progress" in establishing peace in war-torn regions of Natal, delegates said Wednesday.

A four-year war between Inkatha and UDF supporters has claimed more than 4,000 lives in Natal, where it has its roots, and on August 13 spread to the Transvaal where, in two weeks of bloody fighting, more than 500 were left dead.

Political observers believe Thursday's meeting will help clear the way for a meeting between Mr. Buthelezi and ANC deputy president Nelson Mandela - one of the aims of Wednesday's meeting between political rivals representing the two leaders.

In a seperate development Pretoria has moved to gather fresh support for negotiations with an invitation to the radical Pan-Africanist Congress (PAC) to join other black leaders in talks on a new constitution, correspondents said.

PAC president Zeph Mothopeng told the South African news agency Sapa his organisation had not yet rejected the invitation, but would make its stance known once it had discussed it.

The PAC has thus far maintained a hardline position on negotiations with the government, adopting the stand that government needs to be changed "through the barrel of a gun".

The organisation has also said that until the "five pillars of apartheid" - the two Land Acts, the Group Areas Act, Bantu Education and Population Registration Acts - are scrapped there could be no basis for talks.

According to government sources there have, however, been behind-the-scenes talks between government officials and individuals in the PAC, who realised that unless the organisation joined talks soon they would be forever be left out of the process.

ABIDJAN (AUG 30) EFE - Liberian rebel leader Charles Taylor Thursday threatened to start executing hostages from those West African countries participating in a peace-keeping force sent to Monrovia to intervene in the eight-month civil war.

The rebel leader reportedly holds 2,000 hostages from Gambia, Ghana, Nigeria and Sierra Leone -- all countries that contributed to the 3,000-man force sent to Liberia by the Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS) last weekend.

Taylor said Thursday that he will start killing the hostages if one more of his National Patriotic Front (NPF) rebels is killed by an ECOWAS soldier.

The ECOWAS force, helped by rebels led by Taylor's rival Prince Johnson, have launched an offensive on NPF forces and consolidated positions in the center of Monrovia.

Taylor has called the ECOWAS troops an "occupation force," and accused the group of wanting to prevent his victory over President Samuel Doe.

The ECOWAS force reportedly intends to restore utility services in Monrovia, supervise a cease-fire and set up a provisional government charged with calling free elections within the next 12 months.

The formation of the provisional government was the purpose of a meeting called by an ECOWAS mediation group in Gambia Monday, which Taylor and President Doe refused to attend.

Prince Johnson initially also refused to attend, but arrived at the talks late Wednesday.

Meanwhile, ECOWAS called on the international community to send aid to the Liberian people, who are suffering severe shortages of food and medicines.

BUJUMBURA (AUG. 30) EFE - The military government of Burundi Thursday declared an amnesty for 40 people imprisoned for their part in 1988's bloody inter-tribal clashes in which thousands of the majority Hutu tribe were killed or fled the country.

According to Burundi national radio, the move was anounced by Maj. Pierre Buyoya, head of the East African country's military government and a member of the minority Tutsi tribe that has ruled in Burundi since it gained independence from Belgium in 1962.

The Hutus make up 85 percent of the country's population.

During the August 1988 clashes, at least 5,000 Hutus were killed and another 50,000 fled to neighboring Rwanda, where a Hutu minority rules over the majority Tutsi.

In a bid to unite Burundi behind him, Buyoya last year appointed a Hutu prime minister and lifted a ban on the Hutu from serving in the Army and the civil service.

Thursday's amnesty was also extended to 10 other men jailed for taking part in a March 1989 mutiny triggered by the government's attempt to bring the Police under the control of the Army.

BUENOS AIRES (AUG 30) EFE - The Argentine government will announce Friday its new economic austerity plan which is to include massive lay-offs of state workers and other measures aimed at slashing the budget deficit, officials said.

Economy Minister Erman Gonzalez said Wednesday that the new economic package would not be "spectacular", but would possibly be made public in a radio or television broadcast Friday.

The belt-tightening comes despite recent warnings by several provincial officials that popular unrest is reaching a boiling point amid the country's severe recession.

But President Carlos Menem and other officials have brushed off the warnings of uprisings and riots similar to those sparked more than a year ago due to shortages and soaring inflation.

The new measures are expected to call for some 200,000 job cuts in public administration and state companies by the end of the year through early retirement and voluntary redundancy.

Economy Ministry sources said the contracts of some 80,000 public workers will not be renewed once they expire by the end of the year.

Overtime in public companies will be eliminated, they added.

The government hopes to reduce the size of the public administration to what it was 25 years ago, officials have said.

In a bid to tighten restrictions on bank operations, the government will sanction financial institutions which owe money to the Central Bank.

With public debt standing at some dlrs 15 billion, the government will be seeking to refinance this sum, as well as to reduce subsidies to manufactured exports.

Inflation in the first seven months of the year rose 802 per cent and the government aims to bring the monthly average price rise down to below 10 percent.

VIENNA (AUG. 30) EFE - East and West Germany announced Thursday that they had agreed to limit the size of the armed forces of a united Germany to the half the present combined forces, thereby eliminating one of the last obstacles to unification.

West German Foreign Minister Hans Dietrich Genscher and East German Prime Minister Lothar de Maiziere told the 23-member states attending the Conventional Disarmanent in Europe (CFE) talks in Vienna that the united Germany's army would be reduced to 370,000 within three to four years.

This 370,000 ceiling was worked out in July during talks between West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev, but East Germany had resisted the plan until now.

Genscher underlined that this new German army would only take a defensive role, saying that "only peace will emanate from German soil".

"A united Germany will never use any of its weapons except for individual or collective self-defense," he said.

De Maiziere reminded the CFE delegates that according to the July agreement between Kohl and Gorbachev, this new army, if admitted to NATO, would have a special status within that organization.

The troops in what is currently East German territory would not belong to the military structure of NATO and would not be used in an offensive capacity, he said.

United Germany's army would not have nuclear capacity, he added.

Genscher urged the CFE delegates from NATO and Warsaw Pact countries to complete a CFE treaty before the November Conference of Security and Cooperation in Europe, which will redesign the security order of Europe.

German unification has been set for October 3.

TEGUCIGALPA, HONDURAS (AUG 30) EFE - Thousands of Nicaraguan refugees and hundreds of former Contra rebels in Honduras may face hardship if they fail to return home before the October deadline for their repatriation, officials handling the program warned Thursday.

Representatives of the International Support and Verification Commission (CIAV) set up to oversee the repatriation scheme, Gino Acosta and Guillermo Granaglia, said that after the October 31 deadline for the program, "Nicaraguans who remain (in Honduras) will have problems."

The CIAV representatives gave no further details on what would happen after the deadline but indicated that the financial assistance program for those returning home ran out October 31.

"We are not forcing anyone to leave, but (the Nicaraguans) must understand that once they no longer qualify for the aid program, they will have greater difficulties," the CIAV representatives said.

Some 13,084 Nicaraguans have already returned home but a further 26,000 still remain in Honduras.

Each of the some 800 Nicarguans who have been leaving Honduras weekly receives a sum of dlrs 50 and a two-month supply of food under the program.

The CIAV was set up under a May accord between Contra rebels, who fought a decade-long civil war with the former Sandinista government, and the incumbent government of Nicaraguan President Violeta Chamorro.

Under the agreement the Contras agreed to disband and abandon their bases in Honduras which were used to launch attacks against the Sandinistas during the war.

The CIAV officals said the commission's top priority was to repatriate some 600 former Contra rebels, currently housed in camps in Yamales and Las Vegas along the two country's common border.

The CIAV program only encompasses official refugees and the demobilized Contras and does not account for the unknown number of Nicaraguans in Honduras without proper documentation.

Chamorro took up office in May after her coalition party beat the Sandinistas in elections February.

(AUG. 30) UPI - Share prices rose Thursday on the Tokyo Stock Exchange, scoring a strong 3 percent gain on investors' positive reaction to the hike of the key Japanese interest rate.

The market's leading indicator, the 225-issue Nikkei average, shot up 775.17 points in active trading to 25,669.96. The Nikkei had fallen 815.97 points the day before.

The broader Tokyo Stock Price Index moved up 44.60 points to 1,956.02. TOPIX shed 36.09 points Wednesday.

An estimated 530 million shares were traded, up from 430.24 million Wednesday.

The gain followed the 0.75 percentage point rise in the nation's official discount rate, which now stands at 6.0 percent. Brokers said the much awaited decision triggered a feeling of relief among investors who had been guessing about the hike for weeks.

Elsewhere in Asia, share prices rose on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange in dull trading as dealers followed gains in New York and a firm market in Tokyo.

The Hang Seng Index rose 48.24 points to close at 3064.19. The gain followed a drop of 62.99 points Wednesday.

Volume was light at 920 million units, up from Wednesday's turnover of 824 million units.

Prices surged across the board in moderate trading on the Singapore Stock Exchange in tandem with rally in Tokyo and better performance in New York.

The Straits Times Industrial Index rose 45.07 to 1259.63.

The All Singapore Index. Turnover was not immediately available due to a computer problem at the exchange.

Prices closed sharply higher on the Sydney sharemarket, boosted by rallies on Wall Street and in Tokyo and a weaker Australian dollar, brokers said.

The All Ordinaries Index gained 17.5 points to 1504.3, reversing Wednesday's five-point loss.

The All Industrials Index rose 23.1 to 2264.7 and the All Resources Index was up 10 points to 912.1.

National turnover was an above average 245.1 million shares. Gains were across the board.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 30) UPI - U.S. factory orders advanced 1.6 percent - or $3.8 billion - to $240.3 billion in July on another wave of aircraft buying, the Commerce Department reported Thursday.

The July increase in orders follows a decline of 1.9 percent in June and a gain of 2.2 percent in May, according to the monthly report compiled by the department's Census Bureau.

''Most of the increase in orders in July was for durable goods, up $3.5 billion, or 2.8 percent to $128.2 billion,'' the report said. ''Within the major industries, transportation equipment had the largest gain, up $1.6 billion, or 4.9 percent to $34.9 billion.

''A large increase in aircraft and parts was partially offset by a decline in motor vehicles and parts,'' the report said. ''Most of the other major industries had smaller increases.''

Aircraft have led many of the gains in factory orders this year as the world's airlines scramble to rebuild their aging jet fleets.

Not counting transportation equipment, factory orders increased 1.1 percent in July, a government spokesman said. Not counting defense hardware, orders advanced 1.8 percent, the spokesman said.

The Commerce Department also reported that July orders for non- durable goods were up by $200 million, or a mere 0.2 percent, to $112.1 billion.

Manufacturers' inventories, meanwhile, jumped 0.7 percent - or $2.6 billion - to $373.3 billion last month - in the largest one month increase since a gain of 0.8 percent in January.

Bigger inventories usually signal a slowdown in sales, which would be consistent with the slow pace of consumer spending as the domestic economy flirts with a recession.

The inventory-to-shipments ratio, which tracks delivery time, increased to 1.57 in July from 1.55 in June.

Oxe factory goods slipped 0.8 percent - or $2 billion - in July to $237.5 billion. Unfilled orders increased 0.6 percent - or $2.9 billion - to $520.4 billion last month.

Overall factory orders ''have been relatively flat since December 1988, averaging $235.9 billion per month,'' the report said. ''Shipments have also been relatively flat since December 1988, averaging $233 billion per month.''

DAR ES SALAAM (AUG. 30) XINHUA - THE TANZANIAN GOVERNMENT WILL TAKE COORDINATIVE MEASURES TO STOP THE IMPORT OF COMPUTERS UNSUITABLE FOR THE COUNTRY, SAID PRESIDENT ALI HASSAN MWINYI.

SPEAKING AT A COMPUTER TRAINING WORKSHOP HERE YESTERDAY, PRESIDENT ALI HASSAN MWINYI SAID THAT HIS GOVERNMENT PLANS TO PROMOTE COMPUTARIZATION TO SPEED UP THE COUNTRY'S SOCIO-ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT, BUT THE COUNTRY SHOULD NOT IMPORT COMPUTERS WHICH DO NOT SUIT ITS OWN NEED.

HE NOTED THAT TO AVOID THE DANGER OF ACQUIRING USELESS COM- PUTER EQUIPMENTS, THERE IS A GREAT NEED TO DEVELOP THE CAPACITY FOR ADOPTING THE RELEVANT TECHNOLOGY.

THE PRESIDENT SAID TANZANIA'S FOREIGN CURRENCY IS VERY LI- MITED AND THE GOVERNMENT AND PRIVATE INSTITUTIONS MUST SEE TO IT THAT COMPUTER SYSTEMS ARE IMPORTED TO SUIT TANZANIA'S CURRENT TECHNOLOGY NEED.

HE SAID THAT MANY COMPUTERS HAVE BEEN BROUGHT INTO THE COUN- TRY AS COMPONENTS OF GRANTS TO SPECIFIC FOREIGN AIDED PROJECTS. HE SUGGESTED THAT CONSTRAINTS FACING THE COUNTRY ON ADOPTION OF COMPUTER TECHNOLOGY BE TACKLED THROUGH PURPOSEFUL COORDINA- TION AND PLANNED AND ORDERLY COMPUTERIZATION.

THE PRESIDENT STRESSED THE IMPORTANCE OF TRAINING COMPUTER USERS, SAYING THAT TANZANIANS' CAPABILITY TO HAVE A GOOD COMMAND OF COMPUTERS WOULD DECIDE THE COUNTRY'S FUTURE DEVE- LOPMENT.

TOKYO (AUG. 30) XINHUA - THE BANK OF JAPAN TODAY ANNOUNCED A 0.75-PERCENTAGE-POINT HIKE IN THE OFFICIAL DISCOUNT RATE WHICH RECEIVED MIXED REACTION IN GOVERNMENT AND BUSINESS CIRCLES.

THE CENTRAL BANK RAISED THE KEY LENDING RATE BY 0.75 PERCENTAGE POINT TO 6.00 PERCENT PER ANNUM, EFFECTIVE IMMEDIATELY, AS A PREEMPTIVE MEASURE AGAINST INFLATION.

IN LINE WITH THE HIKE IN THE BASE LENDING RATE, IN WHICH THE CENTRAL BANK LENDS MONEY TO COMMERCIAL BANKS, FIXED INTEREST RATES ARE EXPECTED TO INCREASE WITHIN SEPTEMBER, BANK SOURCES PREDICTED.

FINANCE MINISTER RYUTARO HASHIMOTO SAID IN A STATEMENT THAT THE BASE RATE RISE IS AN "APPROPRIATE PREEMPTIVE STRIKE AGAINST A REKINDLING OF INFLATION IN THE FACE OF A LABOR SHORTAGE AND CONTINUED EXPANSION OF THE ECONOMY."

HIDEYUKI AIZAWA, DIRECTOR GENERAL OF THE ECONOMIC PLANNING AGENCY, SAID THE RATE HIKE, THE FIFTH SINCE MAY LAST YEAR, WILL HELP STABILIZE THE FINANCIAL MARKETS, AND CONTRIBUTE TO THE SUSTAINED GROWTH OF THE JAPANESE ECONOMY.

THE BANKING INDUSTRY ALSO WELCOME THE MOVE. JAPANESE BUSINESS CIRCLES REACTED CALMLY TO THE HIKE AND REMAINED OPTIMISTIC ABOUT ITS IMPACT ON BUSINESS ACTIVITIES.

HOWEVER, MINISTER OF INTERNATIONAL TRADE AND INDUSTRY KABUN MUTO SAID INFLATIONARY PRESSURES ARE NOT EVIDENT YET. THE BANK OF JAPAN SHOULD HAVE ACTED WITH MORE PRUDENCE, HE ADDED.

MUTO ALSO SAID THAT HIS MINISTRY WILL PAY SPECIAL ATTENTION TO SMALL AND MEDIUM-SIZED COMPANIES.

MEANWHILE, SOME BUSINESS COMPANIES EXPRESSED CONCERN THAT HIGHER INTEREST RATES, WHICH MAKE IT DIFFICULT FOR COMPANIES TO RAISE FUNDS, MIGHT SLOW THEIR INVESTMENT IN INDUSTRIAL PLANTS AND EQUIPMENT.

WARSAW (AUG. 29) XINHUA - THE NUMBER OF UNEMPLOYED WORKERS IN POLAND WILL REACH 1.3 MILLION THIS YEAR, POLISH OFFICIAL SOURCES SAID.

THE POLISH STATISTICS BUREAU SAID THAT THE NUMBER OF UNEMPLOYED REACHED 570,000 IN THE FIRST HALF OF THIS YEAR AND 767,000 IN MID-AUGUST.

THE POLISH NEWSPAPER "RZECZYPOSPOLITA" TODAY QUOTED THE CENTRAL PLANNING BUREAU AS SAYING THAT UNEMPLOYEES WILL CONTINUE TO GROW IN NUMBER IN THE SECOND HALF OF THIS YEAR AS MORE AND MORE SMALL AND DELICATE FACTORIES ARE CLOSING DOWN.

THE BUREAU SAID THE NATIONAL INCOME IN 1990 WILL DROP BY 20 PERCENT COMPARED WITH LAST YEAR, FOOD BY 30 PERCENT, PERSONAL INCOME BY 25 PERCENT AND THE ANNUAL AVERAGE WAGE SCALES BY 28 PERCENT.

BASED ON THE ECONOMIC SITUATION IN THE FIRST SIX MONTHS, THE BUREAU ESTIMATED THAT THE DAILY AVERAGE OUTPUT VALUE IN THE NEXT SIX MONTHS WILL INCREASE BY 4 PERCENT.

BANGKOK (AUG. 30) XINHUA - THE THAI GOVERNMENT WILL LAUNCH AN ANTI-NARCOTIC DRIVE IN EASTERN PROVINCES ONCE THE ONGOING SUPPRESSION ON ORGANIZED CRIMES THERE IS OVER, ACCORDING TO THAI NEWS AGENCY REPORTS TODAY.

THE THAI GOVERNMENT WANTED CHON BURI, RAYONG, TRAT AND OTHER EASTERN PROVINCES TO BE FREE FROM NARCOTICS AS PART OF THE EFFORT TO PROMOTE TOURISM AND INVESTMENT THERE, THE REPORTS SAID.

IT WAS REPORTED THAT ABOUT 100 COMMANDOS AND LOCAL POLICE FORCES HAVE BEEN ASSIGNED LAST MONTH TO CRACK DOWN ON MAFIA-TYPE CRIMES IN CHON BURI.

APART FROM ORGANIZED CRIMES, THE NARCOTICS TRAFFICKING IN THE PROVINCES MIGHT AFFECT THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE SEABOARD AS WELL AS THE BOOMING TOURISM INDUSTRY, THE REPORTS ADDED.

COORDINATION WITH FOREIGN COUNTRIES WILL BE ESSENTIAL TO CONVINCE THE WORLD COMMUNITY THAT THAILAND IS TRYING ITS BEST TO HALT THE DRUG TRAFFICKING AND STEM ITS FLOW TO WESTERN COUNTRIES THROUGH THIS NATION.

LONDON (AUG. 30) XINHUA - MORE THAN A QUARTER OF BRITAIN'S TREES HAVE BEEN BADLY DAMAGED BY AIR POLLUTION AND INSECT ATTACKS, ACCORDING TO A UNITED NATIONS SURVEY PUBLISHED YESTERDAY.

A THIRD OF BRITAIN'S CONIFERS AND A FIFTH OF ITS BROADLEAVED TREES HAVE MODERATE OR SEVERE LEAF LOSS, THE SURVEY SAYS.

OVERALL, BRITAIN'S TREES ARE WORSE AFFECTED THAN IN ANY OTHER WESTERN EUROPEAN COUNTRIES THE SURVEY, CARRIED OUT BY THE UNITED NATIONS ECONOMIC COMMISSION FOR EUROPE, COVERED TWO-THIRDS OF THE ENTIRE FOREST AREA IN EUROPE.

THE SURVEY SAYS THAT SPRUCE, FIR AND OAK ARE THE SPECIES MOST HEAVILY AFFECTED BY DEFOLIATION, ESPECIALLY TREES MORE THAN 60 YEARS OLD.

EXPERTS ARE URGING FURTHER ACTION TO REDUCE AIR POLLUTION TO STOP THE THREAT TO EUROPE'S FORESTS AND THE ACIDIFICATION OF FOREST SOILS.

BEIJING (AUG. 30) XINHUA - IN THE PAST DECADE TV SETS HAVE BECOME MORE POPULAR WITH THE CHINESE, WHO OWN MORE THAN 140 MILLION SETS NATIONWIDE.

A RECENT SURVEY CONDUCTED BY THE STATE STATISTICAL BUREAU SHOWS THAT URBAN AREAS HAVE 51.47 COLOR SETS AND 55.71 BLACK-AND-WHITE ONES, PER 100 HOUSEHOLDS, WHILE IN RURAL AREAS THE NUMBER IS 37.54 SETS PER 100 HOUSEHOLDS.

TO SATISFY THE GROWING DEMAND FOR TV SETS, CHINA'S TELEVISION INDUSTRY BOOSTED ITS ANNUAL OUTPUT FROM 520,000 UNITS IN 1978 TO 24 MILLION IN 1988 MAKING THE COUNTRY THE WORLD'S THIRD LARGEST PRODUCER OF TELEVISIONS, AFTER JAPAN AND THE UNITED STATES.

SINCE THE 1980S, CHINA HAS IMPORTED 113 ASSEMBLY LINES FOR COLOR TV SETS. ADDED TO DOMESTIC ASSEMBLY LINES, THE COUNTRY HAS AN ANNUAL PRODUCTION CAPACITY OF 15 MILLION SETS.

IN 1989 CHINA EXPORTED 3.93 MILLION SETS TO THE UNITED STATES, EUROPE AND SOME SOUTHEAST ASIAN COUNTRIES, ACCORDING TO CHINESE CUSTOMS.

BESIDES CHINA CENTRAL TELEVISION (CCTV), THERE ARE NOW 421 OTHER TELEVISION STATIONS OWNED BY LOCAL GOVERNMENTS, WHICH PRODUCE THEIR OWN PROGRAMS AS WELL AS ACT AS RELAY STATIONS FOR CCTV. SHARING 56 FREQUENCY CHANNELS, INDEPENENT STATIONS AT CENTRAL, PROVINCIAL, MUNICIPAL AND COUNTY LEVELS FORM A COOPERATIVE NETWORK THAT SERVES 75 PERCENT OF CHINA'S 1.1 BILLION PEOPLE.

CHENGDU (AUG. 30) XINHUA - CHINESE SCIENTISTS HAVE SUCCEEDED IN MAKING COMPOUND FERTILIZER FROM GARBAGE, A HEADACHE FOR ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION RESEARCHERS IN MANY COUNTRIES.

UNDER THE NEW METHOD, DEVELOPED BY A GROUP OF RESEARCHERS AT THE CHENGDU INSTITUTE OF BIOLOGY OF THE CHINESE ACADEMY OF SCIENCES, GARBAGE GOES THROUGH 20 DAYS OF ANAEROBIC FERMENTATION TO KILL FLIES, MOSQUITOS AND BACTERIA.

MARSH GAS AND WASTE WATER, PRODUCED IN THE COURSE OF FERMENTATION, ARE THEN SEPARATED. THE MARSH GAS CAN BE USED FOR DRYING GARBAGE OR PIPED INTO HOMES FOR COOKING.

THE FERMENTED GARBAGE IS THEN CLASSIFIED, PULVERIZED AND MIXED WITH NITROGEN, PHOSPHORUS AND POSASSIUM TO MAKE COMPOUND FERTILIZER.

A RESEARCHER AT THE INSTITUTE CALLED THE METHOD THE MOST EFFECTIVE WAY TO DISPOSE OF GARBAGE IN CHINA AND PERHAPS THE WORLD.

EXPERIMENTAL PLOTS IN SICHUAN ON WHICH THE COMPOUND FERTILIZER WAS TESTED HAD HIGHER YIELDS THAN THOSE ON WHICH CHEMICAL FERTILIZERS AND HUMAN AND ANIMAL EXCRETA WERE APPLIED, THE RESEARCHER SAID.

CHINA CITIES HANDLED 53 MILLION TONS OF GARBAGE LAST YEAR. THE CONVENTIONAL GARBAGE DISPOSAL METHOD IS BURIAL WHICH REQUIRES LARGE TRACTS OF LAND AND CAUSES AIR POLLUTION.

THIMPHU, BHUTAN (AUG. 30) XINHUA - BHUTAN'S GROSS DOMESTIC PRODUCT (GDP) IS ESTIMATED TO HAVE GROWN BY 3.5-4.5 PERCENT IN 1989, ACCORDING TO THE LATEST ISSUE OF BHUTAN WEEKLY "KUENSEL" (CLEARNESS) HERE TODAY.

IN 1990-91, THE GDP GROWTH IS EXPECTED TO BE ABOUT 4.5 PERCENT, WITH AN INFLATION RATE OF 8.5 PERCENT, ABOUT THE SAME AS IN THE PREVIOUS YEAR, IT SAID.

"THE DECELERATION IN THE (ECONOMIC) GROWTH RATE (COMPARED WITH PREVIOUS YEARS) IS MAINLY A REFLECTION OF THE SLOWDOWN IN INVESTMENT AS NO MAJOR PROJECTS HAVE BEEN TAKEN UP SINCE THE COMPLETION OF THE CHUKHA HYDEL PROJECT IN 1988," SAID A PRESS RELEASE FROM THE ROYAL MONETARY AUTHORITY OF BHUTAN.

CHUKHA HYDEL PROJECT WAS COMPLETED WITH THE ASSISTANCE FROM INDIA AND NOW IT IS SUPPLYING ELECTRICITY TO INDIA AS WELL AS TO BHUTAN. IT EARNS BHUTAN A REVENUE OF 480 MILLION RUPEES (28.2 MILLION U.S. DOLLARS) ANNUALLY AS INDIA HAS CONTRACTED TO BUY 42.18 MW OF ELECTRICITY EVERY YEAR.

COLOMBO (AUGUST 30) XINHUA - OVER 100 TAMIL REBELS WERE KILLED AND SEVERAL REBEL BUNKERS WERE COMPLETELY DESTROYED BY THE SRI LANKAN SECURITY FORCES DURING OPERATIONS IN JAFFNA AND MULLAITIVU IN THE PAST 48 HOURS, SECURITY SOURCES HERE SAID TODAY.

THE SOURCES BELIEVED THAT A NUMBER OF THE LIBERATION TIGERS OF TAMIL EELAM (LTTE) REBELS IN THE BUNKERS WERE ALSO KILLED DURING THE OPERATIONS CARRIED OUT BY THE GOVERNMENT TROOPS WITH AIRCOVER PROVIDED BY THE AIRFORCE.

THE SOURCES SAID HEAVY DAMAGE TO A BRIDGE ON THE PANNAI CAUSEWAY THAT LINKS ALLAIPIDDY TO THE JAFFNA MAINLAND AND LAND MINES AND BOOBY TRAPS (PLANTED BY THE LTTE) ALONG THE CAUSEWAY HAD HAMPERED TROOP MOVEMENTS TO THE JAFFNA FORT IN NORTH SRI LANKA. HUNDREDS OF GOVERNMENT TROOPS ARE TRAPPED INSIDE THE BESIEGED FORT.

THE TROOPS WERE ADVANCING CAUTIOUSLY TOWARDS THE FORT TO AVOID UNNECESSARY CASUALTIES, A SENIOR AIRFORCE OFFICIAL HERE SAID.

MEANWHILE, IT WAS REPORTED THAT JAFFNA FORT, ELEPHANT PASS AND THE KKS ARMY CAMPS CAME UNDER MORTAR AND SMALL ARMS FIRE THROUGHOUT LAST NIGHT. ONE SOLDIER WAS WOUNDED BY THE LTTE REBELS.

FIERCE FIGHTING HAS BEEN GOING ON IN NORTH AND EAST SRI LANKA BETWEEN GOVERNMENT TROOPS AND THE LTTE, THE MOST POWERFUL TAMIL MILITANT GROUP IN THE COUNTRY, SINCE THE LATTER LAUNCHED SURPRISE ATTACKS ON ARMY CAMPS IN THE REGIONS ON JUNE 11.

WASHINGTON (AUG. 30) KYODO - THE U.S. INTERNATIONAL TRADE COMMISSION (ITC) ON WEDNESDAY RULED UNANIMOUSLY THAT AMERICAN THIN-PANEL DISPLAY MAKERS WERE BEING HURT BY JAPANESE COMPETITORS USING UNFAIR PRICING ON SALES IN THE UNITED STATES, A GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL SAID.

THIS MEANS THAT THE ITC AND THE U.S. COMMERCE DEPARTMENT WILL CONTINUE TO INVESTIGATE THE ACCUSATIONS MADE BY AMERICAN MANUFACTURERS. THE COMMERCE DEPARTMENT WILL LAY DOWN A FINAL RULING IN LATE DECEMBER, THE OFFICIAL SAID.

DUMPING IS SELLING PRODUCTS BELOW THEIR FAIR MARKET VALUE TO CAPTURE AN UNFAIR SHARE OF THE MARKET.

THE ADVANCED DISPLAY MANUFACTURERS OF AMERICA FILED A PETITION WITH THE U.S. COMMERCE DEPARTMENT IN JULY, NAMING 12 JAPANESE COMPANIES, INCLUDING HITACHI LTD., MATSUSHITA ELECTRIC INDUSTRIAL CO., AND SHARP CORP.

JAPANESE IMPORTS HAVE CAPTURED ABOUT 90 PERCENT OF THE FAST-GROWING MULTIMILLION DOLLAR U.S. MARKET FOR FLAT PANEL SCREEN DISPLAYS.

FLAT PANEL DISPLAY SCREENS ARE FAST REPLACING THE LARGE CONVENTIONAL CATHODE RAY TUBES THAT ARE USED FOR TELEVISION RECEIVERS, WORDPROCESSORS, COMPUTERS, AND OTHER EQUIPMENT.

IMPORT DUTIES COULD BE SLAPPED ON JAPANESE FLAT SCREEN DISPLAYS IF THE DEPARTMENT DECIDES THAT THE PRODUCTS HAVE BEEN PRICED UNFAIRLY IN THE U.S. MARKET.

BUT AMERICAN COMPUTER MANUFACTURERS ARE OPPOSED TO THE DUMPING CHARGES SINCE FEW LIQUID CRYSTAL-TYPE FLAT SCREENS ARE PRODUCED IN THE U.S. TODAY.

TOKYO (AUG. 30) KYODO - JAPAN'S OVERALL WHOLESALE PRICES ROSE 0.1 PERCENT IN THE SECOND 10 DAYS OF AUGUST FROM THE PREVIOUS 10-DAY PERIOD DUE TO FIRMER ALUMINUM AND COPPER PRICES BECAUSE OF THE PERSIAN GULF CRISIS, THE BANK OF JAPAN SAID THURSDAY.

THE WHOLESALE PRICE INDEX (WPI) STOOD AT 90.6 AGAINST THE BASE FIGURE OF 100 FOR 1985.

IMPORT PRICES ROSE A NOTABLE 1.4 PERCENT IN DOLLAR TERMS OVER THE PREVIOUS PERIOD. THIS WAS THE STEEPEST RISE SINCE DECEMBER 1987, WHEN THE CURRENT WPI CALCULATION FORMULA WAS INTRODUCED.

CENTRAL BANK OFFICIALS SAID CRUDE OIL WITH HIGHER PRICES REFLECTING THE GULF CRISIS WILL NOT ARRIVE IN JAPAN UNTIL AFTER THE MIDDLE OF SEPTEMBER.

THE RECENT HIKE IN CRUDE OIL PRICES THEREFORE WAS NOT INCLUDED IN THE LATEST FIGURE, BUT COMMODITY MARKETS, JITTERY OVER THE GULF SITUATION, HAVE STARTED TO BE AFFECTED.

THE UPWARD TREND IN WHOLESALE PRICES IS LIKELY TO CONTINUE FOR A WHILE, THEY SAID.

IMPORT PRICES WERE BOOSTED PARTLY BY CRUDE OIL BOUGHT IN JUNE, WHEN PRICES CLIMBED TEMPORARILY, BUT THE YEN'S HIGHER VALUE AGAINST THE U.S. DOLLAR

HELD THE INCREASE TO 1.3 PERCENT IN YEN TERMS, COMPARED TO 1.4 PERCENT IN DOLLAR TERMS, THE OFFICIALS SAID.

THE YEN'S VALUE AGAINST THE U.S. DOLLAR ROSE 0.5 PERCENT FROM THE PREVIOUS 10-DAY PERIOD.

EXPORT PRICES, ON THE OTHER HAND, FELL 0.1 PERCENT IN YEN TERMS. WHOLESALE PRICES OF DOMESTICALLY PRODUCED GOODS FOR THE HOME MARKET ROSE 0.1 PERCENT DUE TO RISING PRICES OF SUCH GOODS AS EGGS, HIT BY UNUSUALLY HOT WEATHER THIS SUMMER, ACCORDING TO THE OFFICIALS.

TOKYO (AUG. 30) KYODO - THE MINISTRY OF INTERNATIONAL TRADE AND INDUSTRY (MITI) WILL EARMARK SOME 800 MILLION YEN IN THE FISCAL 1991 BUDGET TO SUPPORT A JOINT PROJECT BETWEEN BOEING CO. OF THE UNITED STATES AND JAPANESE MAKERS TO DEVELOP A NEXT GENERATION PASSENGER JET PLANE, THE B-777, MITI OFFICIALS SAID THURSDAY.

THE MONEY IS TO BE USED TO SUBSIDIZE INTEREST PAYMENTS ON THE DEVELOPMENT COSTS THAT THE JAPANESE MAKERS WILL SHOULDER, THE OFFICIALS SAID.

MITI WILL SEEK 806 MILLION YEN FOR THE PURPOSE IN ITS BUDGET REQUESTS FOR FISCAL 1991.

BOEING PLANS TO GET THE 3.7 BILLION DOLLAR DEVELOPMENT PROJECT INTO FULL SWING THIS YEAR WITH AN EYE TO LAUNCHING THE NEW PLANE IN 1995.

THE NEW FUEL-EFFICIENT AIRCRAFT WILL CARRY 350 TO 375 PASSENGERS ON HEAVILY TRAVELED DOMESTIC ROUTES OR ON SO-CALLED ''LONG, THIN ROUTES.''

THREE JAPANESE MAKERS -- MITSUBISHI HEAVY INDUSTRIES CO., KAWASAKI HEAVY INDUSTRIES CO., AND FUJI HEAVY INDUSTRIES CO. -- ARE EXPECTED TO PARTICIPATE IN THE PROJECT IN RESPONSE TO BOEING'S INVITATION.

AGREEMENTS WITH BOEING ARE EXPECTED TO BE CONCLUDED BY THE END OF THE YEAR.

IN ORDER TO SECURE THE MONEY FOR THE B-777 PROJECT, MITI WILL SHARPLY CUT BACK ITS RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT SPENDING ON ANOTHER JOINT PROJECT INVOLVING BOEING AND THE THREE JAPANESE FIRMS, INVOLVING A 150-SEAT COST-EFFECTIVE PLANE, THE YXX.

THE FISCAL 1991 REQUEST FOR R AND D ON THE YXX, WHICH HAS BEEN UNDER DEVELOPMENT SINCE 1984, WILL BE 568 MILLION YEN, ABOUT ONE THIRD OF THE OUTLAY IN THE FISCAL 1990 BUDGET, ACCORDING TO THE OFFICIALS.

MITI HAS DECIDED TO GIVE PRIORITY TO THE B-777, WHICH EXPERTS EXPECT WILL BE MUCH MORE PROFITABLE THAN THE YXX.

MANILA (AUG. 30) KYODO - PRESIDENT CORAZON AQUINO ON THURSDAY SUSPENDED THE IMPLEMENTATION OF A NEW TARIFF SCHEME WHICH HAS COME UNDER FIRE FROM CONGRESSIONAL AND BUSINESS LEADERS.

ECONOMIC PLANNERS HAVE SAID THE NEW TARIFF STRUCTURE, ORIGINALLY SET TO TAKE EFFECT ON FRIDAY, WILL BENEFIT 14 KEY PHILIPPINE INDUSTRIES, MAKING THEM MORE COMPETITIVE IN THE WORLD MARKET.

AQUINO SAID SHE ISSUED THE POSTPONING DIRECTIVE FOLLOWING A JOINT RESOLUTION BY THE SENATE AND THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES SEEKING A SUSPENSION OF THE RELEVANT EXECUTIVE ORDER FOR SIX MONTHS.

''I HAVE ISSUED TODAY A DIRECTIVE...TO GIVE CONGRESS SUFFICIENT TIME TO ACT ON THE PENDING JOINT RESOLUTION. THIS WILL ALSO SERVE TO AVOID CONFUSION AMONG THE PUBLIC,'' SHE SAID IN A STATEMENT TO REPORTERS.

UNDER THE PLAN, 183 ITEMS USED IN AGRICULTURE, AQUACULTURE, TRANSPORT, FISH CANNING, CONSTRUCTION, IRON AND STEEL, AND SHIPPING, AMONG OTHERS, ARE TO BE ASSESSED LOWER DUTIES RANGING FROM 3 TO 10 PERCENT COMPARED WITH THE OLD 10-50 PERCENT RANGE, ACCORDING TO DEPUTY DIRECTOR GENERAL PONCIANO INTAL OF THE NATIONAL ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY (NEDA).

OTHER INDUSTRIES THAT WILL BENEFIT FROM THE SCHEME ARE LIVESTOCK AND POULTRY, MEAT PROCESSING, POWER GENERATION, PULP AND PAPER, PHARMACEUTICALS, LEATHER TANNING, PACKAGING, MINING, SOAP AND DETERGENTS, RUBBER TIRES AND OTHER RUBBER PRODUCTS, AND REFRIGERATORS AND AIR CONDITIONERS.

EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 413 AIMS TO GIVE EQUAL PROTECTION ACROSS ALL INDUSTRIES AND TO SPUR EXPORTS BY DEVELOPING INTERNATIONALLY-COMPETITIVE AND EFFICIENT INDUSTRIES, INTAL SAID.

HE SAID THE NEW TARIFF SCHEME WILL ALSO MAKE AVAILABLE TO CONSUMERS GOOD-QUALITY PRODUCTS AT REASONABLE PRICES AS WELL AS SIMPLIFY CUSTOMS ADMINISTRATION, THUS REDUCING SMUGGLING.

FINANCE OFFICIALS ESTIMATE A 9.9 BILLION PESOS (396 MILLION U.S. DOLLARS) LOSS IN REVENUES UNDER THE NEW SCHEME. OFFICIALS SAY THE LOST INCOME WOULD BE OFFSET BY ADDITIONAL REVENUES FROM THE SCRAPPING OF TAX EXEMPTIONS CURRENTLY EXTENDED TO VARIOUS PROTECTED INDUSTRIES.

LOCAL INDUSTRY LEADERS ARE OPPOSING THE NEW TARIFF SCHEME, SAYING THE FLOOD OF CHEAP IMPORTED ITEMS WILL KILL THEIR ENTERPRISES.

ON WEDNESDAY, SOME OF THEM FILED A PETITION WITH THE SUPREME COURT SEEKING POSTPONEMENT OF THE NEW TARIFF SCHEME.

SOCIOECONOMIC PLANNING SECRETARY CAYETANO PADERANGA EARLIER SAID PROTECTIONIST POLICIES SUCH AS THE OLD TARIFF SCHEME ''ONLY STIFLED INNOVATION AND CREATIVITY, MAKING INDUSTRIES LESS EFFICIENT AND LESS COMPETITIVE IN THE WORLD MARKET.''

MANILA (AUG. 30) KYODO - PHILIPPINE PRESIDENT CORAZON AQUINO HAS ''AGREED IN PRINCIPLE'' TO A CEASEFIRE WITH COMMUNIST REBELS IN THE CAPITAL AND IN EARTHQUAKE-STRICKEN AREAS OF THE COUNTRY, JUSTICE SECRETARY FRANKLIN DRILON SAID THURSDAY.

DRILON, WHO HEADS THE CABINET COMMITTEE ON NATIONAL SECURITY, SAID AQUINO TOLD HIM ''TO PUSH FOR PEACE'' WITH THE REBELS TO FACILITATE RECONSTRUCTION IN AREAS AFFECTED BY THE JULY 16 KILLER EARTHQUAKE.

BOTH COMMUNIST REBELS AND RENEGADE SOLDIERS DECLARED A TEMPORARY CEASEFIRE

SHORTLY AFTER THE EARTHQUAKE, WHICH KILLED MORE THAN 1,000 PEOPLE AND DEVASTATED PARTS OF THE PHILIPPINES, TO MAKE GOVERNMENT REHABILITATION EFFORTS EASIER.

SENATOR WIGBERTO TANADA HAS CALLED FOR PEACE TALKS WITH BOTH COMMUNIST AND MILITARY REBELS.

DRILON SAID A CABINET COMMITTEE, REPRESENTATIVES OF CAUSE-ORIENTED GROUPS AND THE CHURCH WILL MEET WITH TANADA ON SATURDAY TO DISCUSS THE POSSIBLE CEASEFIRE WITH COMMUNIST REBELS.

''WE HAVE TO START SOMEWHERE. WE DON'T SEE ANY THREAT FROM THE COMMUNISTS BUT WE THOUGHT THE ATMOSPHERE IS RIGHT TO COMMENCE DISCUSSIONS AS FAR AS INSURGENTS ARE CONCERNED,'' THE JUSTICE SECRETARY ADDED.

THE COMMUNIST-DOMINATED NEW PEOPLE'S ARMY HAD NO COMMENT THURSDAY BUT IS CONSIDERED LIKELY TO AGREE TO CEASEFIRE TALKS.

A POSSIBLE CEASEFIRE WITH REBEL SOLDIERS, WHO HAVE RECENTLY THREATENED TO MOUNT ANOTHER COUP ATTEMPT, WILL BE DISCUSSED IN LATER MEETINGS, DRILON SAID.

ARMED FORCES CHIEF OF STAFF GEN. RENATO DE VILLA, MEANWHILE, DID NOT OBJECT TO THE PEACE MOVES.

''WE HAVE BEEN INSTRUCTED BY PRESIDENT AQUINO TO TALK TO THE CEASEFIRE PROPONENTS IN THE SENATE AND WITH THE CABINET AND WE WILL DO THAT,'' HE TOLD REPORTERS THURSDAY.

IN THE NEWS:

Stocks rally in Tokyo and London. ... The Nikkei gains 775 points after the BANK OF JAPAN raised its discount rate to 6% from 5.25%. ... The FTSE is up 36 points in early afternoon trading. ... U.S. stocks overseas are flat on thin volume. ... The Dollar is stronger across the board. ... The long bond loses half point after yesterday's rally, yielding 8.97%. ... North Sea crude is up following yesterday's selloff. ... FUJITSU introduces two powerful supercomputers and an operating system that can run all the company's computers. ... KIDDER, PEABODY overtook MORGAN STANLEY as the Big Board's No. 1 program trader, and now accounts for a third of all stock-index arbitrage. ... LAURA ASHLEY HOLDINGS agreed to sell a 15% stake to Japanese chain store operator JUSCO for $58.1 million.

WHAT'S AHEAD:

The COMMERCE DEPARTMENT is scheduled to release factory orders for July at 10 a.m. EDT. Analysts are expecting a rise of 1.5%. ... Energy Secretary JAMES WATKINS and the AMERICAN GAS ASSOCIATION hold a new conference at 10 a.m. EDT on the education initiative. ... Office of Thrift Supervision Director TIMOTHY RYAN holds a new conference at 11 a.m. EDT on the U.S. savings and loan industry. ... Labor Secretary ELIZABETH DOLE announces an initiative to reduce worker illness at 11 a.m. EDT.

FROM THE BEARS:

DAVID BOSTIAN, chief economist and investment strategist for JESUP JOSEPHTHAL & CO., sees a significant sell-off in the market before it could be considered undervalued. Relative to the pace of economic activity the Dow would have to fall to 200 to be undervalued, he says. "We were headed toward a recession before" the Middle East situation, says Bostian. This "mini oil shock" may simply make it more severe. ("Investor's Daily", 8/30)

The "economy is in bad shape and unlikely to get better anytime soon," says BRIAN FABBRI, chief economist at MIDLAND MONTAGU. He says stocks could go as low as 2100 before a bull market takes shape. ("USA Today", 8/30)

"What we've had the past four days is a reflex rally from an oversold condition," says PHILIP ROTH, senior vice president with DEAN WITTER REYNOLDS INC. "Generally, these kinds of rallies are sharp and brief. I am skeptical if there is more to exploit on the upside. ... I feel the market could be vulnerable here." His recommendation is to buy on weakness and sell into any strength. ("Investor's Daily", 8/30)

STOCK MARKET:

"The market seems to be setting itself up for another Friday fainting spell," says ROBERT STOVALL, president of STOVALL/TWENTY-FIRST ADVISERS. "Many traders don't want to carry full commitments into a three-day weekend because of Middle East volatility." (NYT, 8/30)

The oil shock "exacerbates problems the market has had all along," says CHARLES CLOUGH, chief investment strategist at MERRILL LYNCH & CO. "Our problem is earnings. ... Without long rates going down much, we see a 15% risk in stocks." That would shoot the Dow down 390 points to 2210. ("Investor's Daily", 8/30)

"The risks still are basically to the downside," says MONTE GORDON, director of research at the DREYFUS CORP. He continues that the Mideast crisis will pass leaving higher oil prices, a changed political environment, and a weak economy. This will give the Fed room to ease and "then interest rates may start down." This is positive for the long-term investor who has the foresight to look ahead. He adds, "I am still wary of this market" so any stock picking needs to be done selectively. (FNN "Marketwrap", 8/29)

"It's uncanny," says PETER GRENNAN, senior vice-president of SHEARSON LEHMAN BROTHERS, "that all of a sudden oil can have such a tight relationship with the stock market when we all know that there are many other factors that have an influence." He notes that long-term Treasury bonds being up also helped in yesterday's stock market rise. "If you had to pick a disappointing factor, it was the low volume," he says. (NYT, 8/30)

"I think the market may have bottomed on Thursday the twenty-third," says AL FRANK, editor of "The Prudent Speculator." "I think that might be the low for the year." Mr. Frank does, however, see the possibility of a retest of that low. He was also very encouraged by Wednesday's market action despite the low volume. (FNN "Marketwrap", 8/29)

"There is no question that you will see a proliferation of arbitrage- like trades in a private market because of a lack of liquidity on exchanges imposed by program trading collars," says LOYD JOHNSON, vice president at ADVANCED INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT, a Pittsburgh investment firm. "Last Thursday, we had no buyers at all in the S&P futures and that was the result of the collars. Ordinarily, brokerage firms [conducting arbitrage] would be buying futures and selling stocks," says Johnson. "But now nobody in their right mind would take that kind of risk. Why fool around with this liquidity problem in the listed market when I can lock a trade up" in the over- the counter market? (WSJ, 8/30)

"The only thing that the market has on its side is history," says JOHN CONLON JR., head of the equities division at ROTHSCHILD INC. The "1990 Stock Traders Almanac" reports that the market has gone up 22 times in 28 years in the last three days before Labor Day. (NYT, 8/30)

STOCK TIPS:

MONTE GORDON, director of research at the DREYFUS CORP., recommends being very selective in choosing stocks in this uncertain environment. "I would go to the quality levels that were popular before the slide began and where I can still be confident three years from now that I am dealing with a company that has demonstrated its earning power. So I am still talking WAL-MART, TOYS R US, PROCTER & GAMBLE and J.C. PENNY ... Those kinds of companies - and MERCK - are the kinds of companies I'd still strongly consider going after." (FNN "Marketwrap", 8/29)

"Sallie Mae [STUDENT LOAN MARKETING ASSOCIATION] is one of the strongest financial institutions in the United States," says JOHN KEEFE, an analyst with BARCLAYS de ZOETE WEDD, who believes Sallie Mae's stock price will head back toward 50 by the end of the year. ERIC HEMEL, a FIRST BOSTON analyst, also likes Sallie Mae and says, "We see zero, and we mean zero, HEAF-related losses at Sallie Mae." (WSJ, 8/30)

Rising oil prices first led to cuts in earnings estimates for airline, trucking and chemical companies. Now analysts are reducing earnings estimates for automobile, machine tool and homebuilding companies, according to RICHARD PUCCI at LYNCH, JONES & RYAN. "They've cut estimates quite drastically. A few analysts have actually predicted that FORD, GM and CHRYSLER will all lose money in 1991," says Pucci. But ROBERT MORGENTHAU, fund manager with SHEARSON ASSET MANAGEMENT, says the market has already priced in poor earnings: "I don't think there's anybody out there who's going to be ... surprised by the fact that earnings are going to be lousy - everybody knows." Other companies vulnerable to an oil triggered recession: DOW, MONSANTO, HERCULES, ACME CLEVELAND, CINCINNATI MILACRON and KAUFMAN & BROAD HOMES. (CNN "Business Morning", 8/30)

AL FRANK, editor of "The Prudent Speculator," says that he has added to his buy list over the past week. He is now recommending eighty- one stocks for consideration compared to his last letter which only had 26 or so recommendations. He notes that he is 80% invested and will stay that way until he is sure the market has bottomed. Among his strongest recommendations is K-MART, "which is especially comfortable because it is yielding a 6% dividend. ... It is at a bargain level and it is a good buy." He would buy it up to 29 3/8. He also likes CITICORP "which is a solid institution" that he would buy up to 19 1/2. (FNN "Marketwrap", 8/29)

3COM lost nearly a third of its market value yesterday after the company warned of an unexpectedly bleak short-term outlook. SMITH BARNEY, HARRIS UPHAM & CO. analyst THERESE MURPHY advised investors to avoid 3Com shares until revenue growth picks up, probably not until late in the second fiscal quarter ending in November or early in the third quarter. Both she and SALOMON BROTHERS analyst MICHELE GUITE cut their earnings estimates for the company's 1991 first quarter and full year. (WSJ, 8/30)

Driven by the Mideast crisis, gold peaked at $414 before sharply pulling back. "There was a peace scare," says ROBERT RADSCH, portfolio manager at BULL & BEAR GOLD INVESTORS, who still thinks gold has done well. "At the beginning of the month, gold was at $373, it's now $385 - stocks are down about 10% over that period, so gold has held its own." Radsch says the growth in the supply of gold is dwindling and that physical demand takes up nearly all production. He looks for prices to head higher. "I think the standard [gold] stocks will continue to do well," says Radsch, mentioning AMERICAN BARRICK, Canadian miner CORONA CORPORATION and HOMESTAKE MINING. (CNN "Business Day", 8/30)

FALLS CHURCH, VA (AUG 30) MCS - A SAMPLING OF TODAY'S COMMENTARY COMPILED BY MARKET CONSENSUS SURVEYS, INC. IN TWO SECTIONS (1) STOCKS (2) MONEY & ECONOMY.

MONEY & CREDIT:

The dollar is enjoying a grace period, says MARK MORRIS, a dealer in New York for NATIONAL WESTMINSTER BANK. Even as it retains lingering support as a "haven" from Iraq's invasion of Kuwait, the greenback is gaining from the effect that new-found optimism for peace is having on oil prices. (WSJ, 8/30)

Yesterday's hike in the Japanese discount rate by the BANK OF JAPAN may bode ill for other world economies. While widely anticipated, the rate hike of seventy-five basis points does not include concerns about the inflationary effects of the recent spike in oil prices on the Japanese economy, analysts say. A further hike may be in the cards by October, possibly triggering competitive hikes globally. "If that happens, the U.S. Federal Reserve's leeway to adjust monetary policy and shore up the flagging economy could be severely restrained, which in turn could raise fears of a collapse in the dollar," observes KAZUAKI HARADA, senior managing director at SANWA INSTITUTE. (Reuters, 8/30)

"The temptation for the Fed to ease policy will certainly increase if oil prices stay stable," says RAYMOND STONE, a managing director at STONE & McCARTHY RESEARCH ASSOCIATES. "I would like to see them ease policy over the next few days, but the situation in the Middle East looks so tenuous that it makes it hard to predict if oil prices will stay down." (NYT, 8/30)

In London overnight, U.S. treasuries eased on thin trading, while oil edged up after yesterday's steep drop. "I don't think oil is such a strong factor [for treasuries] now," says one London trader. "Oil has come off six dollars from the highs and bonds have gone up over two points from the lows." (Reuters, 8/30)

"We think that in a recession, inflation and interest rates will come down. And once you get past this Middle East crisis [long-term bonds] should do well," says ART MICHELETTI, director of research at BAILARD, BIEHL & KAISER, a money management firm in San Mateo, Calif. Currently they are telling their clients to have 15% in U.S. stocks, 10% in international stocks, 50% in long-term bonds, 10% in commercial real estate and 15% in cash. ("USA Today", 8/30)

"The crude oil price broke and the bonds as a consequence went crazy," says BEAR STEARNS technical analyst JACK SOLOMON. (Reuters, 8/29) 1

"It could all change with one gunshot, but right now everything is going in the right direction for the [bond] market," says MITCHELL STAFMAN, head of the government trading desk at CHEMICAL BANK. (NYT, 8/30)

THE ECONOMY:

"I think we're right on the edge" of a recession, says STUART HOFFMAN, chief economist at PNC FINANCIAL CORP. in Pittsburgh. "I really don't see any growth at all in the fourth quarter." (WSJ, 8/30)

"We still think the economy has enough momentum to avoid a recession," says DARRYL DELANO, senior economist with CAHNERS ECONOMICS in Newton, Mass. (NYT, 8/30)

"In the coming month, we will know whether this sudden drop in [consumer] confidence will endure or even worsen," says RICHARD CURTIN, director of CONSUMER SURVEYS at the UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN. "If there is no rebound, then we must talk of recessionary cutbacks in consumer spending. The economy is certainly vulnerable." (NYT, 8/30)

"What happened [to consumer confidence] in August may be an initial panic reaction, and we may get a rebound in September," says JASON BRAM, a CONFERENCE BOARD economist. "If the indexes bounce back more than half way, then we can look back and say it was only an initial shock reaction." (NYT, 8.30)

The index of leading indicators was unchanged for July. LYNN RAESER, senior economist with FIRST INTERSTATE BANCORP in Los Angeles, says the index in July was at the same level as it was in January 1989. "It points to an economy that has been going sideways since then." (NYT, 8/30)

GORDON RICHARDS, an economist for the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF MANUFACTURERS, says, "While these [leading indicator index] figures indicate that the economy was already sluggish prior to the Middle East crisis, they do not point to the emergence of a recession. Since this time however, the sharp rise in world oil prices has made a downturn almost inevitable." (WSJ, 8/30)

The leading indicators report reflects a "lull before the storm," says WILLIAM MacREYNOLDS, director of forecasting for the U.S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE. "The indicators will drop next month, and they will drop rather dramatically." ("Investor's Daily", 8/30)

"The research data we are getting tell us that a large portion of the population will reduce its spending," says BERNARD BRENNAN, chairman and chief executive of MONTGOMERY WARD. "On top of the Mideast crisis itself, the call-up of reserves is creating a lot of emotion. It is adding to the concern many people feel." (NYT, 8/30)

GAINESVILLE, FL (AUG. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Phoenix Advanced Technology, Inc. (NASDAQ: PATI) announced today that Phoenix has signed an agreement with the University of Florida Research Foundation, Inc. giving Phoenix exclusive rights to market a new isotonic thirst quencher beverage called TQII.

This isotonic beverage was developed by Dr. Robert Cade, professor of medicine at the University of Florida and two other scientists at the university. Dr. Cade is the developer of the isotonic beverage Gatorade(R).

Dr. Cade has conducted preliminary tests that indicate this product is more effective than other isotonic drinks such as Gatorade in that it maintains blood volume during exercise better than Gatorade or water. Preliminary tests also indicate that TQII provides a steady supply of fuel that active muscles convert to energy.

The company is now determining whether to manufacture and market TQII or to license TQII to a major food company for national distribution.

Patents for TQII have been applied for in the United States and internationally.

According to the Wall Street Journal annual sales of sports beverages are projected at over $1.1 billion by 1995.

DEARBORN, MICH. (AUG. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - CMS Energy Corporation Chairman and Chief Executive Officer William T. McCormick Jr. has been nominated chairman of the American Gas Association (AGA) for 1990-91 by the AGA board of directors. AGA is an international trade association representing approximately 250 gas distribution and transmission companies in the U.S. and Canada.

Currently first vice chairman of the AGA board, McCormick is in succession to become AGA chairman this fall. McCormick, 45, became chairman of Consumers Power Company, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy, in 1985. Prior to that he had been chairman, president and chief executive officer of American Natural Resources Company (ANR), a diversified energy firm.

"I'm looking forward to helping expand the role of natural gas in our nation's energy future," McCormick noted. "Particularly during these times of uncertainty over energy supplies and environmental impact, the abundance of clean supplies of natural gas in North America is important," McCormick added.

McCormick was previously vice president for policy analysis and government relations at AGA and served in several senior positions in the U.S. government, including on the White House staff. He earned a doctoral degree in nuclear engineering from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a bachelor's degree in engineering physics from Cornell University.

CMS Energy Corporation (NYSE: CMS) is a $3 billion (sales) diversified energy company with businesses engaged in the distribution of electricity and natural gas, interstate storage and transmission of natural gas, oil and gas exploration and production, independent power generation and utility services. CMS Energy Corporation's principal subsidiary is Consumers Power Company, Michigan's largest utility and the nation's fourth-largest combination utility.

NEW YORK (AUG. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Takara Co., Ltd., Japan's second largest toy manufacturer, will open a research facility today at 568 Broadway, in Soho, New York City. It is Takara's first research facility outside of Japan.

The research facility's purpose is to develop ideas for new products that can be marketed worldwide. The official name of the facility will be Takara Design of New York.

"There is a certain limit of creative development in Japan," said Isao Kokubun, general manager of Takara. "We cannot expand our know-how by depending only on the Japanese youth or the Japanese trading companies; we must also observe the needs and markets of youngsters in the United States."

"With the opening of this facility, Takara hopes to get a better sense for products that will appeal to both the American and Japanese people," added Tohru Tomita, chief director at Takara Design of New York.

Takara produces a variety of internationally popular products under license, such as the Transformers toy line and the Game of Life. Takara manufactured the Jenny Doll and the Licca Doll in Japan. The company employs more than 1,100 people worldwide and had total sales of approximately $275 million last year.

Takara's latest products are based on "Humantronics"(TM), an animation technology, the name of which combines the words "human" and "electronic." The products respond to external stimuli, particularly sound, with movement.

Takara's Rock'N Flower(TM), the first product in the line, has sold 3 million units in the United States since its introduction in June 1989.

PITTSBURGH (AUG. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Chambers Development Co. Inc. (AMEX: CDVA, CDVB) a leading national environmental services firm, has reached a definitive agreement to acquire certain parts of Chrin Brothers Landfill and Chrin Hauling, Inc. in eastern Pennsylvania.

Located in the Lehigh Valley, near Allentown, Bethlehem and Easton, the acquisition includes a site which has a permit from the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources (DER) for operation of a sanitary landfill and a permit application for expansion at the same location.

The acquisition is conditional upon issuance by the Pennsylvania DER of the required permits.

Also, because the acquired area is technically within the boundaries of the industrial lane site on the national priorities list, there are significant additional safeguards related to environmental liability and indemnification.

Together, the collection, hauling, recycling operations and landfill are expected to generate more than 12 million in sales annually.

"This acquisition represents an important opportunity to Chambers," said Alexander Rangos, Chambers executive vice president. "Chrin is a well established, fully integrated waste collection, recycling and disposal operation in Pennsylvania's fifth largest metropolitan market. The operations are built on the same commitment to quality service, competitive pricing and attention to community concerns that have been such an important element to Chambers."

Rangos added that the proposed acquisition represents an important step in Chambers' strategy to offer services in major urban markets. The site is situated near Interstate 78 and is expected to serve the Lehigh Valley area.

"This new landfill fits well into our plans for multi-site regional disposal systems that will provide long-term environmentally sound solid disposal for Pennsylvania residents," Rangos said, adding that when fully permitted, the facility will have 3.5 million cubic yards of airspace for refuse.

Chambers Development Company, headquartered in Pittsburgh, offers services in collection, hauling, disposal, recycling and landfill development. The company also provides security services through its wholly owned subsidiary, Security Bureau Inc., among the 20 largest U.S. security firms.

ROCKY MOUNT, NC (AUG 30) PR NEWSWIRE - The Federal Reserve has approved the merger of Peoples Bancorporation (AMEX: PBK) and The Planters Corporation (NASDAQ-NMS: PNBT) into a new bank holding company, Centura Banks Inc. The Fed also approved the merger of Peoples Bank, Planters Bank and Peoples Bank of the Triad, subsidiaries of the parent companies.

The Fed's approval means the merger can occur as early as Sept. 28, subject to the terms of the approval, which includes completion of the previously-announced divestiture of 11 Peoples and Planters offices.

"We are extremely pleased to receive the Fed's approval," said Planters Chairman J. Richard Futrell Jr., who will hold the same position with Centura, and Peoples Chairman Robert R. Mauldin, who will be president.

"There are exciting opportunities ahead for Centura Banks. Without any doubt, this partnership is creating exceptional value for everyone involved with our banks - employees, customers, communities and shareholders."

Futrell and Mauldin said the divestiture should be completed in early October and the target date for the merger remains Nov. 2.

Peoples is the ninth largest bank holding company in North Carolina, with total assets on June 30, 1990, of $1.4 billion. Its subsidiaries include Peoples Bank and Trust, Peoples Bank of the Triad, Mid-South Bank and Trust, and Watauga Savings.

Planters is the tenth largest bank holding company in North Carolina, with total assets on June 30, 1990, of $1.2 billion. Planters National Bank and Trust is its sole subsidiary. Centura Banks Inc. will be the seventh-largest bank holding company in the state.

LAS VEGAS (AUG. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Circus Circus Enterprises Inc. (NYSE: CIR) today reported its results for the second quarter and six months ended July 31, 1990.

For the quarter, earnings per share were $.59 compared with $.76 in last year's same quarter. In the quarter, the company wrote off its preopening expenses associated with Excalibur, which opened on June 19.

These preopening expenses were approximately $11.2 million pretax (amounting, on a net-income basis, to $.27 per share). Excluding these one-time expenses, Circus' earnings per share in the second quarter would have been $.86.

Revenues were $176,350,000 compared with $139,729,000 in the year-ago second quarter. Net income was $16,318,000 against $21,797,000. (Excluding preopening expenses, net income would have been $23,695,000 in the quarter.) Average shares outstanding were $27.5 million against 28.6 million.

Excalibur produced essentially all the company's growth in revenues and operating income in the quarter. In its initial 43 days of operation (through July 31), Excalibur generated operating income of approximately $11 million and posted an operating profit margin above 25 percent. The occupancy rate at the property, which has 4,032 rooms, was approximately 99 percent.

At Circus Circus-Las Vegas, meanwhile, operating income was off more than 15 percent in the second quarter, as walk-in traffic was affected by the start-up phases of both Excalibur and a large competitor.

Moreover, the lack of a long July 4 holiday weekend this year, against a four-day holiday last year when the property achieved record results, made for difficult comparisons in the quarter.
